"The main theme of this ghost fetus scenario is hide and seek, huh? He mentioned that the children here like to play hide and seek. That proves that there is more than one child here. And the scenario itself is called ghost fetus, so obviously, all of the scares are related to children." Zuo Han looked at the door that was already closed. "I think we should avoid the mission that he gave us because the mission told us was to find a child."

"Yes, and when he was describing his own child, he thought for a long time, and he even halted a few times. I suspect that the child he described was not even his child at all," Mr. Wang analyzed. "The name Wu Nan was probably something he made up on the spot. Assuming the worst, the man inside the house is working together with the ghosts. He is trying to feed us to the ghosts."

Mr. Wang and Zuo Han shared the same opinion. The two of them were seriously analyzing the information they were given, without giving any concern to the other visitors. Listening to their discussion, Fu Bole only confirmed his suspicion even further. These three who claimed that they were from Jiujiang Medical University had to be the actors hired by the haunted house, and they had been trying to compensate for the horrible acting of the man inside the house.

"Well, just keep on acting. We will see how much longer you can keep this going." Fu Bole suddenly spoke to interrupt their analysis. Then he scoffed with derision. His sudden words startled Sun Xiaojun, who was standing beside him.

"We have just seen the true standard of this haunted house. What we need to do next is explore the houses one by one. There is nothing to be worried about." Wei Chaochao's expression was rather disappointed. Initially, he was quite curious about Chen Ge's haunted house, but now that he realized the place was not that different from the other haunted houses on the market, he could not help but feel a bit underwhelmed. "Let's just hurry up and get this over with. I still need to catch a plane this afternoon."

The Voiceless Small Town was very large. The designers pushed open three doors, and they still found nothing. So, they started to let their guard down.

“What is the meaning of this? They are all empty houses? There are no scary objects or any actors inside any of the buildings. It is like the scenario is not even completed.” Liang San also started to complain. He felt like it was a waste of time for him to purposely come to Jiujiang to visit this haunted house.

A few of the designers started to take it like a stroll through the park, but in contrast, Zuo Han and He San got more and more nervous. “You could hear voices inside every house, but after you open the door, there is no one inside. This is very strange.”

“The voices do not appear like they are broadcast from any speaker. It feels more like people are whispering into our ears.”

“Let’s ignore that for now. We need to stick close to them and have them scout the path for us.” Once Zuo Han said that, Wei Chaochao’s voice could be heard coming from the front of the group.

“Eh? I finally found something interesting!” Before Wei Chaochao was the entrance to an apartment building. On the wall next to him was a missing person’s report. The missing child’s name was Jiang Ming. The ladder was before them, and the ladder led downward, but due to the lack of the lighting, standing outside the apartment, they could not tell how many floors the stairs led down to.

“The interior is so big? I thought there was only one floor...” The bad feeling that had been troubling Shang Guan Qing Hong only got stronger, and he stuck close to Ma Feng.

“Let’s go in to take a look.” Liang San opened the apartment’s iron door. When he entered the place, he did not feel anything weird, but after some time, he suddenly noticed the problem. “This place is so quiet. You can’t hear anything. Even the background music has disappeared.”

“Indeed, it is like we have entered a different world compared to the outside street. How did he manage to do this?” Liang Er followed behind him. “It is quiet to the point that it feels unnatural. Now it feels like I am inside an actual haunted house.”

Chapter 1120 - I Did Not Mean to Do It on Purpose! 2 in 1

1120 I Did Not Mean to Do It on Purpose! 2 in 1

The Liang siblings entered the corridor directly, and the others followed closely behind them. Ma Feng, though, stopped outside the building for a while. He was studying the missing person notice. “The name Jiang Ming is very familiar. I believe Jiang Jiu’s son is called Jiang Ming. Is this one of the pranks pulled by the boss?”

The missing person’s article provided a picture of the child, but Ma Feng had no recollection of this child at all. Once all the people had ventured into the building, the child on the missing person notice suddenly winked. He appeared to be making signal at another ‘person’ who was far away. A small shadow appeared from the corner of the wall. A light scent lingered in the air. He followed the group into the apartment and kindly helped close the front door behind them.

“This place is too quiet, isn’t it?” At a location that was absolutely silent, people would sometimes be frightened by their own voice. Liang Er and Liang San were incredibly interested in how the haunted house boss had managed to do something like this. They were all professionals. They inspected the scenario inch by inch and noticed with surprise that not only were the corridors not fitted with speakers and microphones, they did not even have any surveillance cameras. Other than a few old-looking light bulbs that appeared like they could go out at any moment, there was no trace of any high-tech equipment in this sub-scenario at all.

...

“Didn’t the people on the internet say that the special effect at this haunted house are Hollywood level? Are you telling me that these few lightbulbs are everything they are talking about? This has to be a joke.” This time, not only Fu Bole, even Ma Feng also thought that Chen Ge’s haunted house was more hyped up than it actually was.

“You cannot find any high-tech equipment, but the place can pull off a Hollywood standard horror effects. That in itself is a very scary thing.” Zuo Han was telling the truth, but in the other people’s ears, he was merely making excuses for Chen Ge’s haunted house.

However, there was a small number among the haunted house designers who took his words seriously. Liang Er and Liang San stood inside the corridor and looked around with confusion. “The walls, and the banisters are everyday objects. The walls are not painted with acoustic insulating material, and there is no trace of any high-tech equipment. How did he manage to create this kind of strange and eerie atmosphere? There is not even an echo to our voices. It feels like once the sound leaves our lips, it is immediately swallowed up by something.”

“Stop trying to scare yourself. The concept behind this is probably something like magic. It might look magical, but you will realize it is just a normal trick once you find out the truth.” Fu Bole clapped his hands. “Okay, we will follow Brother Ma’s earlier suggestion. We will split into three groups and start to search for the broken parts of the rag doll. One group will be responsible for the search of an individual floor. We will do the same thing in the other buildings that we encounter in the future.”

After he said that, he wandered purposely to Ma Feng’s side. The meaning was clear; he wanted to be in the same group as Ma Feng.

“You have not even found the insider, and you are already that desperate to split into groups. Death is going to come for you, and you will not even know what happened.” Zuo Han shook his head at Mr. Wang. “The three of us will continue to stick together. Let’s just ignore the rest of them.”

Since the people from Jiujiang Medical University had refused to join the rest, the remaining twelve were split into three groups.

Ma Feng, Shang Guan Qing Hong, Fu Bole, and Wei Chaochao were one group; Xiao Sun, Liang Er, Liang San, and the middle-aged woman from the Castle of Lost Memories were the second group; and the third group consisted of Qin Guang, Sister Snake, and the couple from Xin Hai. The twelve of them would still be inside the same building, but they would split up to search the different floors. This meant that the distance between the three groups would not be so far. They could get another group's help if they needed it.

Fu Bole, who thought that Chen Ge's haunted house was just a product of pure sensationalism, led Ma Feng and the rest to the second floor. Sister Snake's group ventured further down to the underground third floor. Liang Er and Liang San continued to search the first floor. The Liang siblings were hulking leviathans. They were muscular and strong. It felt safe being assigned the same group as them.

Liang Er gave Zuo Han a side eye and warned, "You will go to the rooms on the left, and we will check the rooms on the right. That way, we will not interrupt each other. Do not cross that line and come to disrupt our work."

"That was my intention too." Zuo Han led He San and Mr. Wang down the long corridor. They started to search for clues closely from inside and out.

"Big brother, do you really think they are the haunted house's actors? I personally do not think so. The presence that they give off is very unique and unlike normal haunted house workers," Liang San whispered.

"We are here to clear this haunted house. Who cares what their real identities are? We only need to complete the assignment given to us by Director Ma." Liang Er stopped at the door of the first room at the corner of the stairs.

There was a wooden sign hanging next to the door. The sign read, 'If you need anything, please pull on the string connected to the light repeatedly.'

"It warns us against knocking on the door but wants us to pull on this string. Is it because they are afraid that the sound of knocking might attract the ghosts?" Liang Er grabbed the string. "The actor called Wu Jinpeng appeared to have said earlier that if you make any sound, you will attract the attention of ghosts. But along the way, we have been chatting quite loudly, and we have not seen any ghosts, have we?"

"This place is so quiet. Is it possible that the ghosts have already shown up? It is just that because they do not make any sound, temporarily, we haven't been able to find them." Liang San's brain was very active as well.

"Oh well, it does not matter. We will take a look inside this room first.

All of the haunted house's first sub scenarios should be the simplest. Nothing too scary will appear here, or else it will not give an accumulative sense of fear to the visitors in the latter parts of the scenario," Liang Er said as he pulled on the string. Once he yanked on the string, the lights inside the room switched on. He repeated it several times, and the lights flickered on and off, but nothing happened.

"Were we tricked?" Liang Er frowned heavily. He grabbed the doorknob and pushed heavily. The old door was pushed open easily, but before he could observe the environment inside the room closely, a change suddenly happened inside the corridor. A strange stench drifted around them. It smelled like the decay of dead bodies mixed together with the copper smell of fresh blood. They had a feeling that something or someone was slowly approaching them.

"Be careful. The ghost probably is coming. You'd better not wander off on your own. Just stay close to me." Liang Er was a kind and responsible person. Those words were meant for Xiao Sun.

"The first actor at this haunted house has disappointed me greatly. I wonder if what happens next will change my mind." Liang San entered the room. The first thing that he saw were the broken beer bottles that littered the floor. But all the sharp edges of the glass had been grounded smooth, probably out of concern for the visitors' safety. Among the broken pieces lay a woman. She was covered in wounds. Other than her face and both her arms, her body was covered with cloth patches. The patches appeared to grow directly out of her skin, and it looked quite scary.

"Is that an actor or a prop?" Liang San reached out to grab the woman's arm. The sensation that came from his fingertips was very different from that of human skin. He was about to sigh in relief when he suddenly saw the mirror that was hanging in the bathroom. The mirror was facing the door, and inside the mirror, there was a pair of strange eyes staring at him.

"Someone's there!" Liang San dropped the woman's arm and whipped his head around to look. Being warned by Liang San, the others also turned back to look. Everyone saw a man's face that had poked out from the door frame of the door that they just came through!

His features were twisted, and his mud-like body was plastered onto the door frame. His black eyes were filled with curses and venom. Xiao Sun was standing at the back of the group, so he was the one that was currently closest to the entrance. He was originally trying to think about the scare points that were hidden in this scenario when he suddenly heard Liang San's warning. He turned subconsciously around and almost bumped right into that scary face. His face paled even further. Xiao Sun staggered back several steps and almost knocked into Liang Er's stomach.

"When did this thing show up?" Xiao Sun's voice was shuddering. He was given quite a fright.

"I have no idea. I did not hear any movement at all. It's as if it appeared from thin air." Liang San scratched his double chin. "So, there is something about this haunted house after all!"

"Should we inform the others about this development?"

"We should wait until we have more concrete evidence first."

Liang Er and Liang San started to move to study the monster outside the room. They discovered the man that was shaped like a pile of mud was just a mannequin. There was no high-tech equipment installed in the mannequin either.

"Someone probably moved this thing here. I suspect that the culprits are the people from the so-called Jiujiang Medical University. They are on the same floor as us, and they are very close to us." Liang San looked down the corridor. Currently, Zuo Han's group was inside the room at the other end of the corridor. For all intent and purposes, it did not appear that they had left that room.

"They are highly suspicious, but if it was not them, this is worth considering. We are operators of a haunted house as well. These are things and techniques that we can pick up and learn." The Liang Brothers had a more neutral attitude. They did not view Chen Ge's haunted house with absolute hostility.

Just as the two were speaking, the middle-aged woman suddenly opened her lips. "Did you guys notice something?"

"What is it?" Liang Er and Liang San turned to look inside the room. They saw the middle-aged woman was pointing at the woman lying on the ground.

"Her hand was not held in that gesture earlier."

"What are you trying to say? The mannequin knows how to move on her own?"

"No, the logical explanation is that there should be a hidden room inside this room. When our attention was distracted by the monster outside the door, the workers came out from the hidden room and changed the woman's posture." The middle-aged woman spoke very slowly. "They probably wanted to create the impression that the danger is slowly approaching. The ghosts and monsters will move without a sound, and they might appear beside us at any scenario and at every spot. That should be the biggest selling point of this scenario."

"You have a point."

"That honestly is not a bad idea, but unfortunately, he has run into us. We are all top haunted house designers. With just a lift of his finger, we can already predict what he is about to do next." Liang San's gaze moved back into the room. "Why don't we continue the search inside the room? Perhaps we can find some kind of hidden pathway."

Liang San wanted to find out how Chen Ge managed to move the mannequin so silently and without notice. He wanted to steal the knowledge of these things and then apply it to his own haunted house.

"What was your name again? Don't just stand there and do nothing. Come and help us look. I know we are visiting a haunted house, but we do not need to follow the rules laid down by the boss." Liang San noticed Xiao Sun, who was still standing there. He thought that Xiao Sun was scared into inactivity.

"I think it's best we follow the boss' rules. What if some kind of accident happens?" Sun Xiaojun's real thoughts were—If you guys continue to stray from the script, there will be no chance for me to shine.

"Didn't Boss Chen claim that we are free to explore the scenario, that the visitors are free to do anything they wish? Today, I will teach him that bluffing has consequences. It is one thing to do that before normal visitors, but before us professional designers, a haunted house is nothing more than a delicately designed toy." The two brothers started to search inside the room. Xiao Sun also symbolically started his search. He had not followed Chen Ge for that long. He did not recognize most of the original workers, and he was not familiar with the secrets of most of the scenarios.

Every time he wanted to ask Chen Ge what he should do, Chen Ge would just tell him to be himself. Then, when he went to ask for pointers from Ol' Zhou, Ol' Zhou would wax some kind of nonsense about his natural talent and that there was nothing that he could be taught. Apparently, he was perfect the way he was. Both his boss and his teacher were of no help to him. Xiao Sun felt quite helpless. He sighed lightly to himself and moved around the room, pretending to find something to do.

When other people were making their search perimeter around the woman mannequin, he was aimlessly looking through the other items in the room. He even grumbled under his breath. "When the man came through the door, even I was frightened by it. This haunted house is really scary."

With that thought in mind, he turned back to look at the entrance. Xiao Sun realized with some confusion that the man's gaze appeared to be fixed at a certain spot.

"Is he looking at the mirror inside the bathroom?" Xiao Sun entered the bathroom and stood before the mirror. "A scary face like that is leaning against the door. It feels even scarier looking at from the reflection in the mirror."

He held the bottom of the mirror with his palms. Xiao Sun gradually applied force. When the mirror started to nudge, a droplet of blood slid down the surface of the mirror, and then a snail shell dropped out from behind the mirror.

"A snail? The man is afraid of snails? Never mind, I am not good at this kind of guessing game. This shell is covered in a spider web. It is probably a prop left behind from a long time ago." Xiao Sun tossed the snail shell to the side, but right then, another snail shell dropped out from behind the mirror.

"What is going on?" Xiao Sun grabbed the side of the mirror out of curiosity. He wanted to remove the mirror to take a look. As the mirror moved further from its original spot, more and more snail shells poured out from behind it.

"What are you doing?"

"Why are there so many snail shells?"

The other people heard the strange noises, so they too hurried into the bathroom. Before Xiao Sun could answer their question, they saw the wall next to the mirror suddenly give way to reveal a door that was painted with a bright red snail.

“The hidden pathway?” Xiao Sun and the Liang brothers said in unison. They had not spent that much time in the haunted house, and they had already found the hidden pathway inside the first room of the first sub scenario!

Liang Er and Liang San were overjoyed. They had finally found the hidden pathway inside the haunted house. Whether this would help clear the scenario or not, it would be intensely helpful to get to the bottom of Chen Ge’s secrets. Xiao Sun was stunned out of his mind. He had heard from Chen Ge that there were nine hidden pathways in the nine sub scenarios. All nine pathways could lead directly to the hidden scenario. The rag doll’s broken body parts were hidden inside the hidden scenarios, but at the whole haunted house, only Chen Ge knew where the hidden pathways were located. Not even Xiao Sun knew about their exact locations.

This is bad. I seem to have done something irrevocably horrible.

Xiao Sun was still holding the mirror. His mind was spinning rapidly. He was supposed to be there to add trouble to the visitors, but the first thing he did helped the visitors find the hidden pathway and saved them plenty of time.

“You are good, Xiao Sun. I am surprised you are that detail-orientated of a person. None of us professionals even noticed this hidden mechanism.” Liang San patted Xiao Sun’s shoulder in praise, and then he moved to push open the door with the snail painted on it. The surrounding temperature dropped again. Behind the door was a staircase that led deep underground. Standing at the top of the stairs, one was unable to see the end.

Being praised by the visitors, Xiao Sun also did not know what to say. Before he could figure out what to do next, he saw Liang Er and Liang San switch on their flashlights and enter the hidden path.

“Hey! Be careful! We were warned against moving on our own!” Xiao Sun wanted to hold them back, but the few overly confident haunted house designers did not give him the time of day. Including the middle-aged woman, all three of them filed into the stairs.

Cold, dark, quiet. The scary feeling could no longer be described in simple words. This was far beyond the realm of a simple game. The path was surprisingly long, but they still managed to reach the end of it eventually. A pure black iron door appeared before them. The door was reeking of disinfectant. If one looked closely, one could see black threads wiggling on it. Everything inside the hidden path was scary, but the words beside the iron door that said ‘please close the door after you enter’ ruined the scary atmosphere quite a bit.

“What do you reckon’s behind the door? The body parts of the rag doll? This haunted house’s surveillance room?”

“I guess it is the dressing room, and we will run into a bunch of actors putting on their make-up.”

“Well, we will find out by opening the door, won’t we?”

Liang San pushed open the heavy and unwieldy black iron door. Instantly, an endless sea of black fog rolled out and directly swallowed these few lucky visitors. When the black iron door closed again, there was only Sun Xiaojun left alone inside the hidden corridor. His Adam’s apple wiggled. Sun Xiaojun had taken a glimpse of the world behind the door. He dropped down to the stairs.

“This is bad. These three have not even experienced a one-star scenario before. They have entered the ghost fetus’ world of black fog without any preparation!”

This was similar to a patient, thinking that he had a sore throat, going to the hospital for a consultation but being wheeled directly into the crematorium.

“The red high heels is recovering the ghost fetus’ memory inside the world in the process of becoming a Demon God. She definitely will not expect the visitors to find her within five minutes of the game starting!” Just the thought of the accidents that might happen inside there made Xiao Sun’s scalp go numb. “I really did not mean to do this! This can’t do! I need to contact Boss Chen immediately! This is an issue of life and death!”

Chapter 1121 - Rise in Game Difficulty 2 in 1

1121 Rise in Game Difficulty 2 in 1

Looking at the black iron door that had slammed shut, Xiao Sun was ravaged by a complicated cocktail of feelings. He did not expect things to develop this way; all he did was just to try to move the mirror a little bit. "I really hope nothing bad will happen to the visitors that went inside." Xiao Sun was very worried that the red high heels might accidentally kill the visitors. "I have no idea whether Brother Chen is inside this haunted house or not, so who should I find when this kind of accident happens? That actor brother known as Wu Jinpeng feels like a nice guy. Perhaps he will be able to help me."

Xiao Sun was about to turn back and run back to the house where Wu Jinpeng was, but he hesitated for a moment. He turned to grab the handle of the iron door. "Should I try to keep the door open? If the visitors are lucky enough, they might have a one percent chance of coming back the way they came."

What he was doing, he was doing out of the kindness of his heart. All he wanted to do was save a route for the visitors retreat through. Sliding down the chain that was filled with blood vessels, Xiao Sun placed it next to the door. With the chain removed, the iron door would not be completely locked anymore. He started to pull the door open, but he stopped when the door was opened a small gap. Endless black fog slithered out from the gap and started to crawl into the tunnel and the world beyond it!

...

The black threads formed from curses seeped into the building. The people who had been harmed by the ghost fetus in its memory appeared in another form. They turned into strange shadows and wandered among the black fog. These kinds of monster had no physical form, and they would not cause any actual harm to human beings or ghosts, but they would be able to evoke the sin and fear buried in the depths of people's hearts.

The red high heels wanted to use the ghost fetus' past to reconstruct the curse; she wanted to gradually recreate the steps the ghost fetus followed to slowly become a Demon God. These shadow monsters were just a byproduct of this process. Once the iron door was open, the shadows from the ghost fetus' memory started to scurry madly out of the world of the black fog. They were a part of the black fog. Unless they wanted to show themselves, they were impossible to spot.

"Always leave a little kindness whatever you do. This is the best I can do given the circumstances." Xiao Sun turned to leave. The sign next to the black iron door that said 'please close the door after use' flew over his head. It was like he did not see the sign at all. He hurriedly ran out from the hidden path. Just as he returned to the room, he heard footsteps coming from the outside corridor. "The haunted house's actors would not make such sounds; it has to be the visitor who are coming!"

The faded black fog was floating out from the entrance of the hidden path. Xiao Sun looked around and thought, This is bad. If the other visitors follow the three and enter the hidden path, it will only be worse.

"It is not such a big deal if I am exposed, but to have everyone sent into the hidden scenario not five minutes into the game is a very big deal!" This was Xiao Sun's first time working inside the haunted house; he had no experience at all. Even though he was quite a clever person, being caught between a rock and a hard place like this, he found himself at a loss as to what to do. "I should close up the hidden door first to prevent more visitors from entering the hidden scenario. After I find Brother Chen, we can enter the hidden scenario to find the three visitors from this hidden pathway."

The footsteps slowly approached. All kind of sound was amplified in this scenario. Xiao Sun felt like the footfalls were falling right on his heart. He closed the door with the drawing of the red snail on it and grabbed the edge of the mirror with both of his hands. "When I pushed the mirror up earlier, I accidentally triggered the mechanism. So, the way to reverse the mechanism should be to push the mirror down."

He applied force on his arms as Xiao Sun grabbed the sides of the mirror and pressed it down, but both the mirror and the door showed no response to his action.

“What’s going on?” Footsteps were flying down the corridor. If Xiao Sun was not already a ghost, his shirt would probably have been drenched in cold sweat by now. Veins pulsed on his arms as he nudged the mirror harder. His eyes were wandering everywhere nervously. “This is bad, this is bad. How do I even close this thing?”

As Xiao Sun moved the mirror madly up and down, more blood droplets and traces of blood appeared on the surface on the mirror. A confused face seemed to appear inside the mirror, looking suspiciously at Xiao Sun. “Is the direction of the movement wrong? Is it not up and down?”

Holding the sides of the mirror tight, Xiao Sun attempted to twist the mirror, but as he gathered strength in his arms, the support frame that held the mirror in place snapped off instead!

“What the hell!” Looking at the mirror that he had forcibly yanked off the wall, Xiao Sun was stunned beyond words. Subconsciously, he turned to look at the hidden pathway that the black fog was still streaming out from. The wall gradually closed, and it appeared as if the door with the red snail had never appeared in the first place at all. The door outside the hidden path had been closed, but the black iron door inside the hidden path was still left open a tad. The black fog was free to leave through the gap. They crawled into the outside building and seeped through the walls to spread to the rest of the room. When one after another strange and despairing faces surfaced on the walls, it meant that the difficulty of the whole scenario was continuing to rise.

“What are you doing?” The people from Jiujiang Medical University who were exploring on the same floor ran over. They saw the room that was covered in black fog and Xiao Sun who was holding the mirror alone inside the bathroom.

“To be honest, I have no idea what I am doing either.” Xiao Sun was still holding the mirror. It felt wrong to put it down, but it also felt wrong to keep holding it.

“Where are the other people who are supposed to be in your group?”

“They refused to listen to me and left me behind on my own.”

The two other groups who were looking for the rag doll's body parts on the other floors of the building heard the commotion, and they all ran over to this room as well. In less than three minutes, the first floor of the building had changed fully. A scary mannequin that looked like a pile of rotten mud was lying on the door of the room, black fog kept drifting out from inside the room, and some in the groups even doubted that this was the place that they had visited earlier.

"Why are you guys gathered here? Where are Liang Er and Liang San, and what is going on with this monstrosity at the door?" Fu Bole glanced inside the room, and he failed to see the three haunted house designers.

"I have no idea either. The three of them told us to stay here and try to stay out of their way. And then they appeared to have found a hidden pathway and triggered some kind of trap. After that, they disappeared." Xiao Sun purposely kept the words ambiguous. He was not a person who was good at lying.

"How would actual people, not one but three of us just disappeared like that? Where was the last room they were in before they disappeared?" Just after they split up, three people had disappeared. This caused Ma Feng to frown deeply.

"They were on this floor. Of that, I am sure." Xiao Sun was very desperate at the moment. He was afraid that if he dragged this further, they might be going back to collect Liang Er and Liang San's bodies. From his perspective, the most important thing to do now was to find Chen Ge and then quickly inform the red high heels that there were already visitors that had wandered into the hidden scenario.

"The three people from your group have all disappeared, but only you remain. I can't help but feel that it is a little bit strange." Zuo Han was about to say something when Fu Bole suddenly walked to the few from Jiujiang Medical University. "What are you doing?"

Fu Bole stared directly at Zuo Han, and his expression was dark and threatening. "It was the three of you who were behind this, wasn't it?"

"Us?" He San used his finger to point at himself. "Have you lost your mind? The three of us were not even close to the four of them. We also just arrived here not too long ago."

"Who knows whether that is true or not? That claim can only be verified by yourself now. But all I know is that it is certain that the three of you were on the same floor as the four of them. You three are the people who were closest to them!" Fu Bole placed his hand on the mud mannequin next to him. "When we were here earlier, this mannequin was not even here. In other words, someone moved it here after we split up and separated. Just take a look at how heavy this thing is. A single person could not have silently moved such a big mannequin and placed it here without making any noise, so it had to have been a group effort!"

After hearing Fu Bole's analysis, both the people from Jiujiang Medical University and Xiao Sun were startled.

"If not for the fact that you have been slandering Boss Chen's haunted house since you entered this place, I would have suspected you are the actual actors hired by Boss Chen." He San was truly speechless. "Even if there is a possibility of an insider among us, the person with the biggest suspicion should be this Xiao Sun. The other people in his group other than himself have mysteriously disappeared—is that not suspicious to you? Simply because you think he cannot move this mannequin alone, you are deciding to just overlook him like that?"

He San's analytical power could be said to have been honed inside Chen Ge's haunted house. Before this, he believed in the kindness in people's hearts, but after many experiences in Chen Ge's haunted House, he had caught a glimpse of the 'many colors of human nature'. It was indeed the most complicated thing in the world.

Hearing He San point the suspicion toward him, Xiao Sun sighed in relief for some reason. He was glad that someone was finally suspecting him. If he continued to fail in his role, he had already decided to quietly slip away. Being stuck with so many living humans was putting too much stress on him.

"You are unable to find anything to counter my claim, so you start to direct the suspicion to someone else, huh? You wish to muddy the water, to distract our attention? Do you think we will fall for a simple trick like that?"

From the very beginning, Fu Bole had been suspecting Zuo Han's group. In the few years he had running a haunted house, he had not encountered visitors like Zuo Han and He San. They were just visiting a simple haunted house, yet they had come up with various analyses and guides. It was like they had fully transported themselves into a horror film.

With the fault of prejudice, Fu Bole always looked from his perspective to consider the problem. All the thoughts that he had were based on his own viewpoint.

“So, you are going to push the blame onto us no matter what? Do you have some kind of bad history with forensic doctors?” While the group was arguing, the black fog inside the room thickened even further. There were even human faces that could be seen flickering inside it. Standing inside the black fog, Mr. Wang felt strangely agitated. Memories that were buried deep inside his heart kept flashing in his mind. Among them were recollections of murderers committing their crimes and victims screaming for help. The people in those past crimes appeared to have come alive, and they were reaching out toward him. Those with greater harrowing experiences in real life would have a greater influence inside the black fog. Shaking his head, Mr. Wang reached out to grab the door frame for support.

“Sir, are you alright?” Zuo Han was the first to notice the strange way his lecturer was acting.

“I was fine when I first entered this place, but just now, I was feeling a bit wobbly. However, I am feeling much better now.”

“That is probably related to the black fog. I am feeling a bit disturbed by it as well.” Zuo Han purposely lowered his voice to a whisper.

“You feel it too?” Mr. Wang was shocked.

“Yes.” Zuo Han stood close to Mr. Wang. The former’s lips moved slightly, and his voice was so small that the others could not even hear him at all.

“What are you two grumbling about?” Wei Chaochao asked in a purposely loud voice. He had been keeping his eyes on Zuo Han and Mr. Wang. Due to Fu Bole’s multiple claims, he had also begun to believe that these people from the so-called Jiujiang Medical University were actually actors hired by the haunted house.

“We are not obligated to share with you what we are discussing. You can continue to see us as the actors hired by this haunted house. After all, that does not affect us in any way.” Zuo Han was quite an eccentric person; he was not that sociable. He was too lazy to argue with the group of haunted house designers anymore. He directly turned to He San and Mr. Wang and said, “The sudden appearance of the black fog should be some kind of signal. It’s probably trying to inform us of the danger of staying in one place for too long. As the time continues to move, the black fog might envelope the entire scenario. In other words, the chance of our survival will get lower and lower, and the difficulty of the scenario will get higher and higher.”

“Does that mean this black fog is kinda like the concept of a ‘poison zone’ in some video games? As the fog continued to spread, the movement range of the visitors will dwindle. Staying inside the black fog for too long will draw the attention of black things.” He San understood his friend instantly.

“Now I have two predictions. The first is that the three missing visitors have managed to find the hidden pathway. They used the pathway to head to another location and sped up the gaming progress, and the appearance of the black fog signals the beginning of the second stage of the game. If we wish to avoid the black fog, we will also need to find the hidden pathway and enter the other scenario just like they did.” Zuo Han used the few clues to start his analysis. “But the problem is that we have just entered the haunted house. Based on Boss Chen’s previous behavior, he only amps up the difficulty about halfway into the visiting time. Today’s challenge is rather out of the ordinary.”

“Then, what is your second prediction?”

“My second prediction is that some kind of accident has happened inside this scenario, and it has triggered this event that no one anticipated.” Zuo Han did not go and argue with the group of haunted house designers. But when he spoke, the group of haunted house designers slowly quieted down, and they started to listen to him speak quietly. Zuo Han had a natural talent for getting the room to listen to him. That was a sign that he would become a good forensic doctor in the future.

“Then, what should we do if it is the second situation?” He San asked the question that was in everyone’s mind.

“If my second prediction is correct, then we are in a horrible position. Do you still remember what I said when we first entered the haunted house?” Zuo Han’s expression was not looking so good.

“What did you say again?”

“That this haunted house might really be haunted.” Zuo Han did not wish to continue on this topic. “Sir, He San, we will search for the hidden pathway in these few rooms on the left. In terms of time, the three disappeared visitors most likely found the hidden paths inside these few rooms.”

Skipping the meaningless argument that would only waste time, with Zuo Han leading the group, everyone started to look for the hidden path on the first floor. “The black fog is still spreading. We have limited time! If we cannot find the hidden path within the next five minutes, we will leave this place immediately!”

Seeing how busy everyone was, Xiao Sun was still holding the mirror with both of his hands. His face was as bitter as a bitter gourd. He could not bring himself to say that he had already broken the mechanism that would have opened the secret pathway. Now the door outside could not be opened, and the door was not closed. The black fog kept leaking out, and that continued to increase the difficulty of the game. Five minutes later, the black fog had spread out to fill the entire sub-scenario. It had even floated out from the sub-scenario and drifted out into the street. Many half transparent faces started to appear on the walls of various buildings.

“The hidden pathway is probably a one-time use only! We’d better leave this scenario now. The black fog will continue to spread with the passage of time. We’re now racing against time to explore the rest of the scenario before things get worse!” Zuo Han rushed out of the building without any hesitation after saying that. He San and Mr. Wang followed closely behind him.

“We should also move to the other scenarios.” Shang Guan Qing Hong signaled for the rest to follow Zuo Han. “We will ignore the issue of whether he’s a haunted house actor or not for now. Even if he is, we should stick close to him to see what he will do next.”

“This Zuo Han is like an NPC inside this scenario. He keeps giving us hints and telling us the progress of the game to create the emotion of desperation and urgency. Following him might lead us to the same ending as Liang Er and Liang San.” Fu Bole still stood by his opinion, but he was not going to be abandoned by the rest of the group.

After everyone had left the building, the child inside the picture on the missing person’s article winked several times. At the same time, from the third floor underground, a child in a red shirt walked out from his hiding place. He rushed to the entrance and watched the retreating visitors. He grabbed the script that was hidden under his red shirt and slammed it angrily on the floor.

“I’ve practiced for three full days, and you decided to leave just like that?” The more he thought about it, the angrier he became. The child in the red shirt picked up the script again and chased after the group of visitors.

Chapter 1122 - ow Long Till the Free Massacre? 2 in 1

1122 How Long Till the Free Massacre? 2 in 1

Liang Er, Liang San, and the middle-aged woman from the Castle of Lost Memories continued their exploration in the world of the black fog. This place's visibility was extremely low; they could barely see things that were three meters away from them. "Where is all this black fog coming from?" "If it was white fog, then it could be explained from the usage of dry ice machines, but it is the first time I've encountered black fog." Liang Er scratched his head. "It has no smell and no taste. It appears to have no other function other than to disrupt our sense of sight."

"Theoretically speaking, the hidden pathway of the first sub scenario should lead to the secret room with the first clue. This room should not be that big. The haunted house's boss probably wants us to find the body parts of the rag doll inside this black fog." The middle-aged woman analyzed the situation based on her own experience of designing her haunted house.

"Then we'd better start looking. Be careful not to wander too far away from each other. There might be haunted house actors hiding inside the black fog." The three stayed together as they moved forward. They walked for a full two minutes before they saw any trace of a wall. Their expressions started to change. "This does not appear to be a hidden room at all..."

...

"This place is too big. Have we arrived at a new scenario? But how come we have not encountered a single actor? What is the philosophy behind his haunted house design? I find myself failing to understand his thought process more and more."

"How about we retrace our steps? I think we should regroup with the others.”

“Okay.” They all stopped moving. The three haunted house designers turned back to look, and they suddenly discovered something very scary. “Was this the direction that we came from?”

The ground under their feet had no discerning features. They were surrounded by black fog, and there was no object of reference—it was impossible to tell where they were in relation to everything else.

“Wait a minute, aren’t we supposed to have another member in our team? When did that kid disappear?” The longer one stayed inside the black fog, the greater the fear inside one’s heart would be amplified. The three haunted house designers’ hearts had started to shake like a leaf. At that moment, they heard a woman’s painful and despairing scream. Nudging their feet slowly toward the scream, they switched on the flashlight function on their phones.

The light was distorted by the black fog. They could see a woman who was covered in bandages not far away. Surrounded by a thick shroud of black fog, the woman appeared to be ingesting the black fog around her like some kind self-mutilating torture. As the fog rushed into her body, it tore open one wound after another on her body before it proceeded to leak out from her wounds again. The woman appeared to be searching for something inside the black fog. She used her own body as a vessel, and the filtering process was incredibly harsh and painful.

The black fog was being pulled toward her. As she continued to consume the black fog, black and red tattoos slowly started to surface on her body under the bandage. The tattoos were like a second layer of skin. They wrapped around her body. From afar, the woman radiated a kind of extremely grotesque beauty, but when one looked closer at the scenes that were depicted by the tattoos on her skin, everyone’s heart would be gripped by fear. The black threads severed the woman’s skin like knives. Blood mixed together with the black threads reconstructed a child’s regrettable and painful life—his encounter with many heartless characters and surviving inhuman pain and torture. Inside the deepest and darkest despair, a flower of sin was blooming!

The light from the flashlights hit the woman. The three haunted house designers saw the woman’s wounded body under the bandages, and their heads went numb.

Liang San stared at the woman's bizarre posture, and he turned to whisper softly to his older brother, "What is that thing? That does not look like an actor! Is that a mannequin?"

"At first glance, she seems like an absolute beauty, but upon closer inspection, you will realize how disgusting everything is..." Just as he uttered the term 'disgusting', Liang Er saw the woman's head slowly turn around. A pair of eyes dominated by curses and malice had landed on him. Liang Er lost control of his body immediately. Every piece of fatty flesh on his body was shaking.

The click and clack of high heel against the ground echoed through the space. Countless faces inside the world of the black fog started to wail. The strange smiling human heads that were formed from the curses rushed out from the rooftops. There was also a centipede-like creature strung together with human heads crawling rapidly on the wall. They rushed toward the three haunted house designers with evil intentions.

Moments earlier, they had been complaining about the lack of haunted house actors, but just a few seconds later, everything had changed. Liang Er and Liang San had no idea where these things had come from. Their faces blanched, and their natural instinct propelled them to retreat. More and more monsters appeared. They had not even dared to imagine these monsters in their worst nightmare; they had already broken through their understanding of fear.

"Run! Quick! Run!" The middle-aged woman was the first to react. She turned and started to race down the street. As she picked up her pace, the monsters rushed at her like a wave.

There were so many of them!

Liang San also started to turn back and run, but he had only taken a few steps when he heard a harrowing scream coming from behind him. He realized that his big brother was still standing where he was.

"I cannot move!" Liang Er had no idea what had happened to his body. Ever since he said the word 'disgusting', he realized that his heartbeat had started to go haywire. It was as if his body did not belong to him anymore.

Liang San hesitated for a moment. In the end, he stayed because blood was thicker than water. He turned around to grab Liang Er by his arm. "Bro! I will carry you!"

Before he finished, he saw the black threads hidden inside the fog crawl into Liang Er's body, and they had started to spread toward his own body!

Liang San was so shocked that he immediately let go of Liang Er. The folds of fat on his face were trembling from fear. The eyes that were hidden inside the fleshy face had not been so wide in his life. "What are these things?"

Flinging his brother's arm away, Liang San staggered backward and started to run. "Big brother! I will go and get people to come help you! Hang in there!"

Liang San could not care about what was happening behind him anymore. He chose a direction and started to run like his life depended on it. There was no object of reference in the black fog, so he had no idea where he was at all. He was surrounded by monsters, so he did not even stop for a second to take a break.

"Liang San, Liang San..." After who knew how long, a familiar voice suddenly came from inside the fog.

"Big brother?"

"Yes, it is me! Quick, come over here! The exit is this way!" The voice was leading Liang San in a certain direction. The shadow of a fetus flickered in the black fog. Liang San wanted to stay away from that shadow, but he realized that his own brother's voice was coming from the location where the shadow was. He then noticed the anomaly about this situation. He wanted to turn around and run the other way, but the moment he did so, the fetus started to madly chase after him!

"Liang San, where are you going? It's me, your older brother!"

"Stay away, do not come close to me!" Liang San's confidence when he first entered the haunted house had completely shattered. His mental stability was shattered the moment he abandoned Liang Er to leave on his own.

"I really am your big brother! Have you forgotten about me? When we were playing hide and seek when we were young, you were hiding under the bed. Someone was whispering in your ears, accompanying you. Do you still remember, one night, when you snuck out to go to the internet café, there was a big dog that kept barking at you? Since then, you've had a fear of dogs. Actually, that dog was not barking at you. It was because it had seen me!"

“I am your big brother, the eldest brother that you will never shake off, Liang Yi!

“I died in front of you, but I have never left! We will be brothers forever!”

The fetus’ shadow crawled swiftly on the ground, and it was only a matter of time it caught up to Liang San. It crawled up Liang San’s body and strangled the man’s neck. The face that was bloody and ghastly was hanging from Liang San’s head as it stared into the man’s eyes. “Look closely! Look! See how similar we look!”

“Ah! Argh!” Liang San shook his head wildly like he had lost his mind. The darkest fear in his heart was recreated through the curse. It did not take long for the man to crumple in a heap with white foam coming out of his mouth.

The sound of high heels echoed on the ground. The scary fetus morphed back into a curse and disappeared among the black fog.

The screaming was endless. The middle-aged woman stumbled her way through the world of the black fog. Most of the monsters had been distracted by Liang Er and Liang San. Furthermore, she was the first to run, so she had made quite a headway in her escape.

“How did the boss manage to come up with all these props? What is going on inside this haunted house?” The middle-aged woman had lost her composure. All she knew was that she needed to run. After running for ten minutes, a wall suddenly appeared before her. “Was that the path that we used to get here?”

She followed the wall and continued to search until finally she found the black iron door. “The door is not locked! I am so lucky!”

The middle-aged woman yanked back the iron door and raced up the staircase. She was getting closer and closer to the exit.

“I have to tell everyone about the things that happened here! This haunted house is too abnormal!” She raced all the way to the end of the hidden pathway. She rammed into the door painted with the red snail, but the door refused to budge. “What’s going on?”

Strange laughter and crying came from the other end of the hidden path. Endless shadows were dancing in the black fog. The middle-aged woman knocked repeatedly on the door and cried loudly for help, but naturally, no one came to her aid. “Help me! Please, someone, come and help me!”

Her final call for help was swallowed by the shadows. After the black fog consumed everything, it not only did not dissipate, it even thickened further.

...

Walking down the street of the Voiceless Small Town, Zuo Han suddenly stopped moving. “What’s wrong?”

“Do you hear someone crying for help?” Zuo Han turned back to look at the Soundless Home. “It appears to come out from the building that we just vacated.”

“Should we go back to take a look?” He San was still quite worried about the other people. He was really concerned that a serious accident might happen.

“For now, I cannot tell for sure who the haunted house actor is. In these circumstances, other than the two of you, there is no need to go and risk our own lives to go and rescue other people. It will be a waste of energy to go save them, and we might even get dragged into more trouble.” Zuo Han kept his eyes on the black fog that continued to roll out from the Soundless Home, and his brows were deeply creased. “The speed of the fog spreading is increasing. Looks like the game will be entering the third stage very soon.”

“The third stage?”

“Normally, after we have obtained the key item and prepared to leave, the actors inside the scenario will be given free rein to move around to come after any and all visitors in their sights, so the third stage is also known as the free massacre.” Zuo Han’s voice was peppered with obvious worry. “When I was challenging the Coffin Village, to transport the wedding dress out, I sacrificed all of my teammates. During this third stage, brain power is completely useless. All that matters is physical stamina and luck.”

“That will be incredibly detrimental to us. The three of us do not appear to have luck on our side,” He San grumbled softly.

“Then we’d better speed up our exploration. If we fail to find any parts of the rag doll, we will only end up in worse condition.”

The group, including the rest of the haunted house designers, hurried to leave. None of them had suggested to go back and rescue their teammates who were screaming for help. Everyone had come to a silent consensus not to bring that up. It was as if everyone was suffering from temporary amnesia.

After the black fog appeared, the whole scenario became even more peculiar. Occasionally, an eye would open on a wall, or a snickering shadow would flicker around the street corner. The scariest thing in the ghost fetus' memory was inching closer to the visitors. After turning the corner, there was a very long avenue that stretched out before the visitors. The buildings on both sides of this avenue were gray in color, and some of the buildings had cracks from age.

"Have we been to this place before? How come I feel like this street has appeared out of nowhere?" Zuo Han was the first to enter the avenue. Before he strode that far down the street, he noticed a person appearing from the avenue. "Be careful! There is someone ahead of us!"

Under the dim light, the figure was wearing a red raincoat, standing straight, and facing away from the visitors. She stood next to a tattered looking bus stop as if waiting for someone.

"It is not raining, so why is the person wearing a raincoat?" Zuo Han did not dare get too close. His brows were furrowed deeply; who knew what he was thinking?

"You are in cahoots with these people, so why do you have so many questions?" When Fu Bole saw Zuo Han acting like this, it irked him. Then again, the man already had a prejudice against these people who claimed to be from Jiujiang Medical University to begin with. "Fine, continue your act. I will stand here and see how much longer you can keep this up."

When they saw the woman in the red raincoat, the eyes of Xiao Sun, who was among the crowd, lit up. He had seen this Red Specter in the world behind the ghost fetus' door before. He knew that this was one of Chen Ge's employees.

I need to figure out a way to get close to her and inform her that the first hidden pathway has already been accidentally destroyed by me and have her contact Boss Chen for me.

With this in mind, Xiao Sun walked out from the group and moved toward the red raincoat.

The haunted house designers were trying to find an 'idiot' to go and test this strange figure. Seeing Xiao Sun volunteer, none of them even thought of stopping him. But when Zuo Han saw Xiao Sun walk over there, for some reason, he had a bad feeling rise in his heart. He raised his hand, but in the end, he still did not stop Xiao Sun. Carrying the hope of his whole team of his shoulders, Xiao Sun stepped onto the bus stop's platform. The other visitors stayed away from the platform, keeping a safe two to three meters away from Xiao Sun.

"Hello, I am Sun Xiaojun." Xiao Sun lowered his voice and used his back to block the sight of the other visitors. He put both of his arms before his chest and silently pointed at himself. "I have accidentally broken the hidden pathway..."

Seeing that someone had wandered over, the woman in the red raincoat slowly turned around to reveal her extremely scary face. Her lips were sewn shut by shadows, and when she spoke, her voice slipped through the gaps between the stitches. It was incredibly harrowing. "Have you seen my child?"

"Big sister, the hidden pathway is stuck. We need to get the boss and come over to check it." Xiao Sun did not dare raise his voice. He muttered with his lips closed. Interestingly, it appeared like he was mimicking the woman in the raincoat.

"Have you seen my child?" The red raincoat was playing herself. Her bright red pupils were rolling in her eye sockets, and her emotions had started to fray. When Xiao Sun saw how deep the red raincoat lady was entrenched in the script, he was very desperate. If this was allowed to continue, the whole avenue would probably be swallowed up by the black fog soon.

"Have you seen my child?" The red raincoat's voice was very scary. Blood vessels wiggled on her body. It appeared like her emotions might go out of control at any moment. Xiao Sun also did not dare pressure the red raincoat lady. After all, this was an actual Red Specter. He was about to give up communication with the red raincoat when he was struck by inspiration, and a thought appeared in his mind.

Since she is unable to understand what I am trying to express, why don't I just lead her to the hidden pathway to take a look? That is such an easy solution!

That was the brilliant idea that our Xiao Sun had. Therefore, without discussing anything with his teammates, he suddenly said, "I saw your child earlier! I know where he is! Really! I can guarantee that!"

His tone was very sure and determined. The other visitors had no idea what he was up to. Even the red raincoat lady's expression appeared to have frozen. That was not how it was supposed to go according to the script. How would a visitor know where a Red Specter's child was hidden?

"My son is wearing a tattered floral shirt, and he has a red scar on his forehead as well as a birthmark that's the shape of a maple leaf on his chest." What the red raincoat described was not part of the script. She appeared to be describing the features of her real lost son.

"That's right! It was him!" Xiao Sun slapped on his calf. "The child that I saw was the same as the one you just described! He was inside the house nearest to the entrance! You need to search the first room on the first floor very closely!"

When he finished, the blood vessels on the red raincoat were boiling. She had searched for multiple years, and today, finally, someone had told her that they had seen her child. She walked to the back of the platform and soon disappeared. Seeing the red raincoat walk away, Xiao Sun sighed in relief.

When she sees that the hidden pathway has been destroyed and the black fog is rushing out, she will understand the severity of the situation.

At that moment, it was Xiao Sun who did not understand the severity of the situation. He finally revealed a relaxed smile and returned to the group of visitors.

Chapter 1123 - White Orphanage

2 in 1

1123 White Orphanage 2 in 1

“The woman in the red raincoat appeared at the bus stop. We should make use of this time to look around the bus stop to see if there are any clues around here.” Fu Bole and the other haunted house designers started their search around the bus stop, and they soon discovered some problems. There were two human-shaped shadows painted behind the avenue’s bus stop. They were in the shape of a male and a female. The two shadows were etched into the backwall of the bus stop, as if it was a snapshot of someone’s memory. Underneath the bus stop, there was a puddle of water. If one looked closer, one could see the image of a male student in a school uniform and a female teacher holding a red umbrella. At the corner of the bus stop, there were words that appeared to be randomly carved out. They were uneven and titled. The person who had left behind these characters was probably emerged in some kind of juvenile yet simple happiness.

“Love started from the moment I met you.”

“The last bus of the day came, but I waited until you arrived.”

...

“Can I please walk you home?”

Reading these words, they appeared to have the ability to evoke the readers’ memory of youthful love. It was innocent, unwieldy, yet uniquely blissful.

“Why would such characters be carved in such an eerie place? Could it be that a horrible and cruel story is hidden behind the innocence of young love? All of this beauty is just buildup, and they will be brutally torn open at the last moment. The contrast will be used to create some kind of despairing effect, right?” Sister Snake’s haunted house appeared to have employed similar tactics before. She touched the black skull tattoo on her arm. Her mind seemed to have sunk into the memory of the past. This was a woman with a story.

“The style of this avenue is completely different from the other places that we have visited before, so theoretically speaking, there should be plenty of scare points. Yet, so far, we have not encountered anything remotely scary.” The bad feeling in Zuo Han’s heart was getting stronger and stronger. He felt like this was the calm before the storm. “We should stop inspecting the bus stop. We need to move on to the next location immediately!”

Zuo Han looked at the black fog that was following behind them and quickly decided to call the rest to hurry down the avenue.

“We need to leave this place immediately. This ghost fetus scenario has completely shattered my understanding of this haunted house. None of the experience I have collected can be used here. Why is that happening?” Everything had happened a bit too suddenly. It felt like there was a pair of invisible hands that were slowly pushing them to the brink of despair from the back of the scene.

“Less than fifteen minutes after the game started, the scenario has already entered the third stage. All the ghost actors within the four-star scenarios have started to go on a rampage. The chance of survival with just the three of us is close to zero.” Zuo Han understood that he had basically fallen into the worst possible scenario. “The few haunted house designers are completely unreliable. If they do not change their prejudice now and stop underestimating Boss Chen’s haunted house, they will probably ‘disappear’ in the next sub-scenario, and then what shall I do to solve this conundrum?”

He was using his mind so much that Zuo Han’s forehead was soon soaked with sweat. He was now under a great deal of pressure. On one hand, he had to face an unknown and scary enemy, and on the other hand, he had to carry a bunch of dead weights and possible haunted house actors hiding among them. Facing both internal and external pressure, he really tried hard but failed to come up with a reliable solution. “Everything’s happening too quickly! This four-star scenario does not give me any down time to think or even calm down from the previous scares at all!”

After the woman in the red raincoat left, the buildings on both sides of the avenue lost their sense of scariness, and the avenue seemingly turned back to a normal street. The visitors left the avenue easily and came to the entrance of an orphanage that had a white and black color scheme.

The rusted iron door was left half open. A spine-tingling lullaby drifted out from an unknown source. The orphanage looked like it had been abandoned for quite some time, but there were children's clothes hung on a clothesline to dry in the yard. There were also plenty of freshly dug holes in the ground. They appeared to be used to bury some things. Many signs of human activity could be seen around the orphanage's yard, but the visitors could not find the presence of any living individuals.

The wind chime that hung on the awning jingled lightly as Zuo Han pushed opened the front door of the orphanage. A rather sad tune drifted out from one of the rooms. At the end of a very long dining table sat a broken and ruined altar.

"This has to be a privately-owned orphanage; a government-ran orphanage would not allow such an obvious religious structure within the confines of the building." Mr. Wang stared at the altar, and flashes of images from his past flickered through his mind. "Some of the owners of private orphanages believe in religious karma. They set up shrines of their respective faith in their own rooms, but this is the first time I have encountered an orphanage that directly places such an altar right in the lobby of the orphanage."

Walking past the long wooden dining table, Mr. Wang's expression slowly turned darker and uglier. The altar had the name Fang Yu carved in all its corners. It looked quite frightening.

"These are carved out by one's bare nails character by character. The deep black stains on it are blood stains. They have completely seeped into the wooden boards. This is strange. It feels like someone has spent years scratching these words out on this altar." Mr. Wang was confused. "Did the boss need to go to such length just to create a prop inside the haunted house?"

"This might not have been made by Boss Chen himself. He has provided many clues to local law enforcement on murder cases. I suspect some of the props inside his haunted house are directly lifted from murder crime scenes," Zuo Han whispered softly to his lecturer. This topic was considered inside information, so he was not willing to share it with unnecessary people lest they made a big deal out of it.

"This haunted house boss has provided many clues to local law enforcement for murder cases?” Mr. Wang was so shocked that the question fell out of his mouth. “I have indeed heard word on the street lately that things have been quite uneasy, and Jiujiang’s local police station has recruited a new informant. That person is the boss of this haunted house?”

“Sir, due to that incident, you no longer have any contact with the people at the station, so you might not know this. The boss of this haunted house is very...” Zuo Han thought for a long time, but he did not know how to put his thoughts into words. “Both of his parents disappeared mysteriously. To investigate their disappearance, he has overturned old cases throughout Jiujiang that date back to two decades ago. I do not even know how to describe such a person. The best description that I can come up with is for normal people to keep a respectful distance away from him.”

“He managed to help overturn old cases that date back to twenty years ago?”

“Yes, but that is not even the scariest thing about him.” Zuo Han lowered his voice even more. “He has provided many important clues to Jiujiang law enforcement for many heavy crimes, and they have solved many cases through him, but the case of his parents’ disappearance has seen no progress at all. I suspect there is a big conspiracy behind this. The case behind his parents’ disappearance is not as simple as it appears.”

“And that is why you have been coming to visit his haunted house?” Mr. Wang valued Zuo Han greatly. He believed that Zuo Han was one of the best students he had ever had the pleasure of teaching. He knew Zuo Han was unlike the other students; he was definitely not the kind of student who would skip class for fun.

“I am afraid I am still too unqualified to help investigate the case of his parents’ disappearance.” Zuo Han looked at the altar before him. “I cannot see through this man at all. I cannot tell even a little bit what he is thinking. Honestly, sometimes, I do not even dare look him in the eye. I tried to put myself in his shoes to analyze his psychological status and personality, and the conclusion that I arrived at sent chills all over my body. He has superb rationality and calmness in all situations. He also possesses a superhuman adaptive ability and extremely high intelligence.”

“Is there any similar character comparison to him in our current database?”

“No, he is like a monster. After all, he is able to come up with so many exquisite and brilliantly designed set pieces alone and can help find clues for so many heavy crimes that stumped even the local forces. Compared to him, no one has the qualification to be called a genius.” Zuo Han’s hand softly caressed the surface of the altar, his fingers feeling the grooves of the characters that were carved on the wooden board. “The more that I learn about him, the more afraid I become, but the more afraid I become, the more curious I am. I want to get to the bottom of the truth. Actually, if possible, during the last holiday before my graduation, I plan to apply to work here with Boss Chen.”

“The student with the best overall score at a medical university coming to work at a haunted house?” Mr. Wang even wondered if he had misheard his student. “You are far more gifted than I am. What you are lacking is experience. If he really is as impressive as you say he is, even if you come to work here, I doubt you will find out anything useful to you.”

When the two spoke among themselves, a wooden door that led to one of the other rooms was pushed open, and an old man with a head of white hair shuffled out holding a thermos. He was caught by surprise when he saw so many people gathered in the lobby.

“Are you here to adopt the children?” The old man’s voice was shaking. He looked like he was in a very weakened state, as if he could faint at any given moment.

“The haunted house even hires someone so old to be its actor? This place sure is horrible.” Fu Bole walked to accost the old man. “We are not here to adopt any children. We are here to look for missing items. Have you seen this thing before?”

He took out the picture of the rag doll from his pocket and shook it before the old man.

“I have not. If you are not here to adopt the children, then hurry up and leave. This small town is not that safe. If you do not leave soon, I am afraid you might not be able to leave at all.” The old man coughed and was about to leave when Ma Feng, who had been among the crowd, suddenly stepped forward.

“Wait a minute! Have I seen you somewhere before?” After Ma Feng took over Jiang Jiu’s position, to gain a deeper understanding of Chen Ge, he had spent many sleepless nights looking over the video when Chen Ge came to challenge his own haunted house. This old man before him appeared to have shown up in the video before, but he could not pinpoint exactly who he was.

“I have been staying here to look after the children. I have never left this small town. How is it possible that you have seen me before, or have you been to this orphanage in the past?” The old man was the lingering spirit that Chen Ge had brought back from the futuristic theme park when he went to challenge the place. He had also brought back the old man’s grandson, the ghost in the windchime, and the red Specter in the traditional Chinese Opera costume.

“Perhaps I’ve mistaken you for someone else.”

“That is the worst mistake you could have made in this small town. The person that you are familiar with might not really be him; it could be disguised by something else. Even though they might have the same face and voice, they will be carrying a different heart.” The old man suddenly started to hack horribly like the statement that he gave had crossed some kind of line, and he was being punished for it. “Quickly leave this place. Do not linger any longer.”

“Hey!” Fu Bole wanted to reach out to grab the old man, but just as his arm was about to land on the old man’s shoulder, the old man used a surprisingly agile and strange maneuver to evade him. No one saw it clearly. The old man slithered through the open door that he had come out from, and Fu Bole was left standing there with his hand hanging in the air. The old man did not close the door behind him, but once he crossed the threshold, it seemed like he had disappeared into thin air.

A very bad feeling started to spread among the group of visitors. Fu Bole subconsciously walked toward the room that the old man had disappeared into. Standing in the lobby, one could hear the sound of children laughing coming from inside the room, but once they look through the door, there was no one in the room at all. Only some toys were there, littering the ground.

“There has to be something hidden inside this orphanage. Plus, think about it. The rag doll that Boss Chen wants us to find is so old and tattered. A child from a normal family would not have owned such a toy. It is probably the toy of an abandoned child.” Wei Chaochao tried to analyze the situation and shared his analysis. “The orphanage is a place where abandoned children are gathered, so there is a very high chance that the rag doll that we are looking for is hidden here.”

Everyone thought that Wei Chaochao's analysis was quite reasonable. Only Zuo Han kept his brows locked, but he did not anything.

"What? Do you have any problem with what I've said?" Wei Chaochao was a very clever person, but his cleverness was often limited to a certain area.

"Your analysis is too one-sided. If you look at the bigger picture, the probability of the rag doll being hidden here is very small because we still have many scenarios that we have yet to explore." Zuo Han gave his own thoughts.

"Stop talking in riddles. What are you trying to say?"

"I believe this orphanage is a set piece that Boss Chen has purposely built to distract us. This place is probably a trap. It would be better if we do not spend too much time here." Zuo Han knew that these people would most likely not listen to his advice, so after he spoke his piece, he walked away with He San and Mr. Wang and started to look for their own clues.

"Let's not be shaken by an outsider. We will continue to search with our analysis. I am sure we are on the right path." Fu Bole shared the same opinion as Wei Chaochao. Splitting off into the same groups as earlier, they started to search carefully for any traces of the rag doll within the orphanage. The black fog rolled down the street and slowly surrounded the orphanage.

Seeing this, Zuo Han prepared to leave to hurry to the next scenario, while the haunted house designers insisted on staying at the orphanage. With the split in opinion, both parties eventually separated, and each went their own way. Zuo Han led He San and Mr. Wang to leave while the others continued their search in the slowly thickening black fog.

"This place is an orphanage, but we have not seen a child until now." Wei Chaochao stood at the door that led to the side hall where the old man had disappeared earlier. "Could we have been tricked by the old man?"

"The old man entered the side hall last. Have you checked that place?" Fu Bole and Qin Guang were standing next to Wei Chaochao. The rest were searching the kitchen and the backyard.

"I have looked through the room. I cannot find the old man anymore. It feels like he disappeared once he entered the room..." At this point of retelling his experience, Wei Chaochao's eyes suddenly lit up. "The side hall is connected to the backyard. Our preconceived notion made us believe that he has gone to the backyard, but there is actually another possibility—there might be a hidden path inside the side hall!"

The three of them shuffled into the side hall again. The placement of the toys was different from how they remembered it.

"Someone has moved the things in here!" Wei Chaochao noticed the problem immediately. Before he could add anything else, he saw a small shadow running down the hallway where the backyard was connected to the side hall. "Who is that? Stop right there!"

Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole rushed after the shadow immediately. They abandoned Qin Guang, who was at the back of the group. They chased after the shadow and entered the storage room that was situated in the backyard.

Pushing open the wooden door, they were greeted by an old shrine table, and a strange picture was placed on the table. The old man in the picture was facing away from Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole. He appeared to be hugging something in his arms. "The back of the person in this picture looks so familiar."

Qin Guang, who was left alone in the side hall, was about to go after them when he suddenly heard the sound of a plastic ball bouncing. He turned his head to look. One of the toy balls in the side hall had rolled on its own into the lobby. And the strange thing was, there appeared to be something hiding in the dark corner. The ball rolled into the darkness, and then it was kicked out again like two invisible children were playing with it.

With the corner of his eyes twitching, Qin Guang left the side hall immediately and ran out to meet up with the rest of his group. After he departed, a boy in a red shirt crawled out from the corner of the room with his eyes burning. "I heard from the others that scaring people is something very simple and enjoyable. How come it is so difficult for me? Why?"

Just as the boy in the red shirt's emotions were going astray, the door of Room 1 of the first floor at the Soundless House was heavily slammed against the door. A woman in a red raincoat walked out from the building with the fury of being lied to. Blood vessels boiled on her coat. Inside the endless black fog, a blood red rain started to fall.

Chapter 1124 - Don't Blame Your Brother for Saving Himself First 2 in 1

1124 Don't Blame Your Brother for Saving Himself First 2 in 1

“Why didn’t you two wait for me?” Qin Guang rushed out from the side hall and caught up to Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao while catching his breath. “How can someone like you be so easily scared? Don’t you do an outsider supernatural livestream for a living?” Fu Bole probably would not sit idle whenever the chance came up for him to mock someone. “The so-called supernatural events that you ran into during your livestreams, were they all set up by yourself?”

“Some of them are predesigned by the studio, but some of them were not.”

“Like the time you were so traumatized that you were sent to the hospital?”

...

Fu Bole was very interested in the incident involving Qin Guang, but Qin Guang obviously did not want to remember anything about it. He directly ignored what Fu Bole said and changed the subject. “I just saw a plastic ball that moved on its own in the side hall. This place appears to be occupied by a few children that we cannot see with our naked eyes.”

“Now that shows how ignorant you are.” Fu Bole shook his head. “I know you are a popular livestream host who is highly valued by Director Ma. Initially, I thought you would be a valuable asset to the team, but after what we have been through, I realize perhaps I was mistaken. Just standing here, I can come up with at least six methods to make a ball move on its own. It is nothing that surprising. Sometimes, we will even use the same technology on mannequins' heads to make the heads roll on their own. It will look more impactful visually to the visitors."

"You mean just like that?" Qin Guang pointed behind Fu Bole.

"What?" Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao turned their heads back at the same time. They saw that the man in the picture on the shrine table, which was originally facing away from them, had changed his pose. The old man in the black and white picture had turned around!

"Isn't this the old man who was talking to us earlier?" Wei Chaochao was rather shocked.

"The man has half of his leg inside the coffin already, and the boss still has the heart to photoshop him into a black and white photo. Isn't he afraid that this thing might come true one day? The boss is really one f*cking heartless b*stard." Fu Bole also did not expect the person in the picture to suddenly turn around. All the curse words were to cover up the fear in his heart. He had no idea how the boss managed to do something like this. At that moment, he was truly spooked.

"The old man's black and white picture is placed on the shrine table. That means that he has been dead for quite some time already, so the information that he gave us might be misleading."

"When we first arrived here, I saw many holes that were dug up in the front yard. The holes are too big for trees or vegetation, and they are too small for adult graves. Do you think it is possible that they are to bury children?"

"That is possible. This orphanage is definitely not as simple as it appears. It has to be the most crucial location of the entire ghost fetus scenario... Orphanage, dead guardian, mass grave, this place might be where the ghost fetus is born!" Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole were so engaged in their discussion that they did not realize that Qin Guang had kept his gaze fixed on the space underneath the shrine table.

"Just now, a boy's head poked out from behind the shrine table, but the boy's body could not be seen under the table. It felt like the boy crawled right out from the black and white picture himself."

"Where is he?"

"He was standing right next to the shrine table, but he disappeared in the blink of an eye.”

The three stared closely at the shrine table. At that moment, the whole scenario started to change again. Blood started to seep down from the gap in the ceiling. Blood slid down the walls and edged along the frame of the black and white picture before dropping onto the table.

“What is going on? Is it because we have uncovered the truth that we have triggered some kind of trap inside the haunted house?” Fu Bole, Wei Chaochao, and Qin Guang looked around. When they recovered from the shock of the supernatural events that happened around them, something else that shocked them deeply happened. The old man in the black and white picture had disappeared. All that was left inside the picture was an empty chair and a cigarette holder that had fallen to the ground. It gave the feeling that the old man had left in a hurry like he was running for his life.

“Have you guys played the game ‘What’s the Time, Mr. Wolf?’ before? In essence, one person is supposed to stand at a fixed place, and whenever he turns around, the people behind him will get closer to him. From facing away from us to turning around and then running out of the picture itself, the boss of the haunted house is playing psychological tricks on us!” Wei Chaochao tried his best to analyze the situation as scientifically as he could, but before he could finish the rest of his sentence, a drop of blood landed on his forehead. “It is incredibly sticky, and it smells like copper. This fake blood is incredibly well made.”

Wei Chaochao used his hand to swipe at the blood on his face. He realized that this droplet of blood was actually made up of countless smaller blood droplets, and each of them was twitching in his grasp.

“You have got to be kidding me. They spray red paint directly from the ceiling of a haunted house. The boss of this place sure is brazen. Is he not afraid of ruining the visitors’ clothes?” Fu Bole had more to complain about, but he was quickly stopped by Wei Chaochao.

“Brother Fu, these blood droplets are very strange! When they fall on your clothes, they slide down directly, but if they fall on your skin, they will solidify almost instantly. It feels like there is a kind of force controlling them. Someone is using this rain of blood to find their prey.”

Bang!

A giant explosion came out from the street outside the orphanage. It sounded like a door was being violently kicked down. Before Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole could react, they saw a young boy wave urgently at them with desperation on his face. It was as if the boy was telling them to get away from this place as soon as possible. The little boy was still gesturing wildly when he was picked up by the old man. Then, the grandfather and grandson leaped over the orphanage wall and escaped into the night.

“The ghosts from the picture appeared again? Was the boy reaching out to us for help?” Fu Bole felt like he had stumbled across some kind of instrumental clue. He immediately called after Wei Chaochao. “Quick! Chase after them! The boy might be the ghost fetus! The old man is the ghost! We have to save the boy from the evil clutches of the old man!”

The three rushed to the entrance of the storage room, and before they stepped out, they saw Xiao Sun walking their way. If not for Xiao Sun’s swiftness of feet, they probably would have rammed directly into each other.

“Get out of the way! Do not stand in our path!” Fu Bole shouted loudly.

“What’s going on?” Xiao Sun’s heart squeezed with concern.

“We have found the boy! The most crucial character inside this ghost fetus scenario, we’ve found him!”

“What boy?”

“That boy is our hope of clearing this scenario! Do not let him get away!”

Before Xiao Sun could even comprehend what was happening, Fu Bole, Wei Chaochao, and Qin Guang had leaped out of the backdoor and run out from the White Orphanage.

“Even a newbie knows it is taboo to separate from the main team inside the haunted house. How come these people are so damn stubborn?”

Seeing the trio slowly disappear from his line of sight, Xiao Sun did not give chase after them. Instead, he turned his focus to Ma Feng. “Other people call him Director Ma in private. This man should be a big fish. I need to make use of this opportunity to try to find out what are they up to.”

Scratching his chin, Xiao Sun mimicked Chen Ge and started to narrow his eyes. "I have been living in the haunted house for several days now. This place has always been peaceful. It is like a welcoming home for ghosts and Specters, but from the moment this batch of visitors showed up, I feel like the whole atmosphere of the scenario has changed. The colleagues have gotten so agitated. Sigh, it feels like these people have not come with good intentions. There is a huge problem with this batch of visitors."

Raising his open palm, the blood rain dropped in the middle of his palm. Xiao Sun could sense the emotion that was inherent within the blood rain. "This rain contains the emotion of fury and the intention to kill. It chills me right to my bones. It is like a knife is placed on my neck, and I could be killed at any moment. This is too scary."

After he said that, Xiao Sun was about to move forward, but just as he wanted to do so, he realized that something was wrong. The blood rain dropped on his body, and it morphed into blood vessels and secured him in place.

Turning around with some shock, Xiao Sun was so frightened that his soul almost departed from his body. The lady in the red raincoat with her lips sewn had materialized behind him. Her thin and branch-like arms hung limply on Xiao Sun's shoulders. The murderous intent from the Red Specter was overwhelming.

"Big sister, when... when did you arrive?"

"Have you seen my child?" The cold voice escaped from the red raincoat's sewn lips. Xiao Sun collapsed to the ground. He really did not expect to still feel the same amount of fear and shock even after he had died and turned into a ghost.

"The... the information was given to me by another person. They even told me that they had found that boy earlier." The words practically tumbled out of Xiao Sun's lips. "Do you know who Fu Bole is? It was the man with the sunglasses in his pocket, and the man with the flowery shirt is called Wei Chaochao. They fed me the information! They've just escaped through the backdoor. They ran down the path on the left! Sis! Do you want me to show you to them?"

The blood vessels slowly let go of Xiao Sun. The red raincoat dissolved into part of the bloody rain and disappeared completely. Xiao Sun crumbled to the ground. His mind was still in a daze from the scary encounter. "What have I just said to her?"

Patting his own face, Xiao Sun remained sitting on the ground. By then, the black fog had completely enveloped the orphanage. A drizzle of blood rain was mixed in with the black fog.

“Hey! What are you doing there alone?” The couple from Xin Hai walked out from one of the rooms. The man kept staring at the door that led out from the backyard. He appeared to have seen something there.

“Do not ask me any questions. I just want to sit here and get some rest.” Xiao Sun had some innate annoyance toward that man from Xin Hai, but he had no idea why.

“Where is Fu Bole? Wasn’t he out here with Wei Chaochao earlier?” Ma Feng immediately saw the key problem. He did not care what had happened here; the most important issue was that a few of his teammates had mysteriously disappeared once again.

“They said that they had found a boy and that the boy is most likely the ghost fetus.”

“Where have they run off to?” Ma Feng kept his scrutinizing Xiao Sun. “Get up, you need to take us to go and find them.”

“Me?” Xiao Sun already planned to abandon the game and contact Chen Ge, but Ma Feng did not give him the chance at all. Ma Feng appeared to already have started suspecting Xiao Sun, but Ma Feng was only doing this from the perspective of a normal person. After all, if he suspected someone, he would have to keep them close so that they would not have the chance to do something behind his back.

As they say, keep your friends close but your enemies closer.

He was not technically wrong, but he had no idea how high a price he would pay for keeping Sun Xiaojun so close to him.

“Fine, I will lead you all to them, but you’d better be mentally prepared.” Xiao Sun climbed up from the ground and led the remaining survivors to leave the White Orphanage from the backdoor.

...

After Fu Bole, Qin Guang, and Wei Chaochao ran out from the White Orphanage. They rushed through the black fog and raced down the street, chasing after the figures in front of them. “Jesus Christ, how can this old man still run so fast?”

Both Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao felt from the bottom of their hearts that Chen Ge's haunted house was more hyped up than it actually was, so they looked down on Chen Ge's haunted house. Therefore, they were not afraid of leaving the main team and moving on their own. On the other hand, Qin Guang was like an innocent lamb led astray. After blindly following these two out from the orphanage, he did not dare go back alone, so the only thing he could do was follow these two until the end. The ghost fetus scenario was more spacious than any of them could imagine. The style of the buildings on the sides of the streets had started to change again. A light stench floated in the air. After turning the corner, a staff cafeteria appeared before the trio.

The old man and the boy stopped at the entrance as if hesitating whether they should enter the building or not.

"He's finally stopped." Fu Bole gasped hungrily for air as he slowly approached the old man. The old man was holding the boy by his hand. When they saw Fu Bole approach them, they did not react in any way. But just a few seconds later, both the eyes of the grandfather and the grandson were overwhelmed by fear. They stared at the street behind Fu Bole and immediately crawled into the cafeteria.

"Are you kidding me? What is this? Some kind of joke?" Fu Bole was incensed. He had been led by the nose by an old man through the scenario for such a long time. The old man even purposely paused for him to catch up.

"Brother Fu, this cafeteria appears to be a new scenario. We should wait for the others to arrive before we go into it." Once given the reminder by Wei Chaochao, Fu Bole did not rush into the cafeteria. After all, he was a top haunted house designer. He could see through the layout and set up of many scare points and traps with just a glance. After giving the place a quick look, Fu Bole did not notice anything too suspicious. Out of the confidence in his own professional ability, he did not stay to wait for the rest but decided to enter the cafeteria directly.

Once he entered the cafeteria, before Fu Bole could even say anything, he heard a loud bang, and the front door of the cafeteria was slammed shut behind him. His heart skipped a beat. Fu Bole was about to call Wei Chaochao's name to ask him what had happened when his ears were filled with harrowing screams from both Wei Chaochao and Qin Guang beyond the closed door. The screams tore at his heart. The sound was like pigs being slaughtered, and the screams sent chills down Fu Bole's spine. Blood vessels slipped through the gaps of the door into the room. They appeared to be looking for someone. Seeing this, Fu Bole retreated without hesitation. He stayed as far away from the cafeteria front door as he could.

"What has happened outside?" He did not think that Wei Chaochao would cooperate with Chen Ge to purposely scare him. To be able to make someone like Wei Chaochao shriek like it was the end of the world, it proved that there had to be something incredibly scary outside the door. "Could it be that the old man decided to escape from the orphanage because there has always been an actual 'ghost' following behind us?"

Having a ghost at a haunted house was something very normal, but the 'ghost' in question might be categorically different from what a normal 'ghost' meant at other haunted houses. The warning that Zuo Han had once given appeared in Fu Bole's mind. When he was in a crowd, he did not feel it that clearly, but now that he was stranded alone, his mind could not help but keep on straying to the conclusion that this haunted house was really haunted.

"There should be another exit in this building." Fu Bole walked past the dining tables and came to the back kitchen of the cafeteria. The stench was the most intense at this place. On the door of the back kitchen, there were three words written on top—House of Strange Odors.

Pushing open the wooden door a gap, Fu Bole leaned on the door and looked through it. There was a mountain of meat that was moving inside the kitchen. It was a person who was even larger than both Liang Er and Liang San combined. Wearing a chef's outfit that was too small for his size, radiating an awful stench, the man kept pouring what appeared to be food ingredients into a large pot. Turning, mixing, and stirring, the chef gave the meal cooking inside the pot a taste. It appeared like it was still missing something. He took out a cleaver. After giving it a good shine, he slowly turned around. The bloodless face fixated on Fu Bole, who was leaning on the door.

His mouth gaped. The chef's mouth that was covered in blood uttered, "The ingredients are finally all here."

With his every step, the whole cafeteria was shaking. It was like the building was moving along with this mountain of a man. Blood slid down the roof of the ceiling. The front door of the cafeteria was blasted open. Wei Chaochao, who had lost consciousness, lay limply on the ground. A woman in a red raincoat walked into the cafeteria. The chef was confused. He waved the giant cleaver in his hands as his fingers knocked lightly on the chopping block.

Blood vessels rolled. The furious red raincoat dragged the half-alive Wei Chaochao and stopped at the entrance of the back kitchen. Her bloodshot eyes stared right at Fu Bole. Being surrounded by two Red Specters, Fu Bole hugged the door frame, and his legs gave way underneath him. He knelt on the ground, and he almost peed himself from fear.

...

Humming a song, adjusting his watch, Chen Ge had finished his make-up and was waiting at the entrance of the ghost fetus scenario. To prevent an accidental encounter with the visitors, he purposely waited for quite some time and ensured that there were no more visitors left waiting at the entrance before he entered the scenario. As the thick chains were removed, Chen Ge held the comic and inched open a gap of the black iron door.

He was about to push the iron door open further when a sheaf of black fog drifted out.

“Hmm?” When the door was fully open, Chen Ge’s eyes slowly widened. Endless black fog enveloped the streets fully, and blood rain fell like there was no tomorrow. The Voiceless Small Town was like a scene from an apocalypse.

Clang!

The chain in his hands slipped to the ground. Chen Ge’s first reaction was to lock up the black iron door again.

“What is going on? Have the people from the cursed hospital infiltrated this scenario when I wasn’t looking?”

Chapter 1125 - You Deserve a Bigger Stage 2in1

Chapter 1125 You Deserve a Bigger Stage 2in1

About ten minutes prior, the ghost fetus scenario was still relatively 'peaceful'. Chen Ge only went to put on some make-up and hurried to the other scenarios to get some other employees, and when he returned, the world had completely changed. The moment the door was opened, Chen Ge even thought for a split second that he had returned to the world behind the door. His brain moved quickly, and many possibilities entered his mind. In the end, the figures of those two visitors from Xin Hai appeared in his mind's eye.

"There has to be some problem with that couple from Xin Hai. Could the change to this scenario be related to them?" Initially, Chen Ge suspected that they were unique visitors, but now he believed that things were not as simple as he imagined. "Before they cause more trouble, I have to go and locate them."

Summoning his employees, Chen Ge held the comic and rushed into the scenario. To prevent the black fog from continuing to spread, he even had Xiaoxiao guard the black iron door, telling her that no matter who came, she had to keep the door closed. The black fog had completely enveloped the Voiceless Small Town, and it was continuing to spread to other places. Pale human faces appeared on the walls of the buildings down the streets. When they saw Chen Ge, they kept making these horrible screams. It sounded both like a cry for help and a plea for mercy.

...

"The closest hidden path to the world of the black fog from the entrance is the Soundless Home. Don't tell me some of the visitors were so unlucky that they somehow stumbled their way into the hidden scenario through that sub scenario?" Chen Ge took out his own phone and called Tong Tong's number. He soon got Tong Tong's reply. When he saw Tong Tong's message, Chen Ge's expression became confused and befuddled.

"The place has not been infiltrated by outsiders? If that's the case, why did the scenario turn into a state like this?" Tong Tong appeared to be incredibly busy with something else. The messages that he sent to Chen Ge were succinct and simple. “Or have they successfully evaded Tong Tong’s surveillance?”

Chen Ge knew the chance of that was very slim, but after completing the black phone’s Trial Missions so many times, Chen Ge was trained to see things from the worst possible scenario. That was how he was always prepared.

Knocking on one of the doors, Chen Ge whispered outside of it. “Brother Peng, are you in there?”

The wooden door creaked open. Wu Jinpeng appeared at the door with his hand over his bruised forehead. “Boss? Why are you here? You have entered the scenario as well?”

“Why are you injured?” Chen Ge’s tone changed immediately. There had never been an accident where his own employees were injured in his own haunted house, albeit the injury in this case was just a bump to the forehead.

“It’s fine, it’s fine. I was too nervous when I opened the door, and I accidentally rammed into the door.”

“Was it because someone was purposely blocking the door?” Chen Ge was a very astute person, and he was very familiar with those haunted house designers’ dirty tricks.

“Boss, you can ignore this small injury. Just now, a series of horrible screams came from inside the scenario. I am not kidding you, it sounded like I was right at a slaughterhouse. You’d better go and take a look. I am very worried that something serious has happened.”

“Okay, but you’d better stay here and do not go anywhere else. I will be back in a minute.” The black fog on the street thickened by the second. Chen Ge ran without stopping to the Soundless Home. He first glanced at the missing person’s report by the entrance. The boy in the picture had gone missing. “Where has Tong Tong disappeared to?”

Entering the building, Chen Ge confirmed that this was the place where the black fog originated. He pushed open the door of the first room. The scene that greeted him was a room that was soaked in blood. It felt like a rain of blood had fallen right inside the room. After he found the mirror that was left on the ground, Chen Ge tried to communicate with the lingering spirit of the student from the School of the Afterlife that resided inside it. He had the student open the door of the red snail for him. Inside the hidden path, the black fog ebbed and flowed like a palpable wave. A middle-aged woman was lying supine on the steps. Due to extreme shock, she was totally unconscious.

“The black fog can invoke the deepest and darkest fear inside a living person’s heart. She stumbled her way into the world of black fog without even experiencing the one-star scenario. The fact that she could run so far is already a miracle in and of itself.” Chen Ge dragged the middle-aged woman out of the scenario and had the lingering spirit of the student hurry and go call the doctors from the underground morgue. “Tell them to stop scaring people for a moment. We need them to get over here to examine the situation. I believe we have an emergency on our hands. There might be several people that are unconscious.”

Bringing the other employees, Chen Ge came to the bottom step of the hidden pathway. He picked up the chain that blocked the door to stop it from closing completely. “Someone purposely used this as a stopgap to prevent the door from closing, he did not want the door to close. Why would he do something like that?”

Pushing open the black iron door, Chen Ge stepped into it. Chen Ge did not need to wander in that far to see that all the mannequin monsters inside the world of black fog had gone berserk. Endless curses and twisted memories clung to their bodies, turning these mannequins into different kinds of items of possession. It was as if they had all come alive with their own will.

“What is going on?” The ghost fetus’ scenario recorded the entire life of the ghost fetus. All his memory and curses were being handled by the red high heels. The fact that all the curses and memories had gotten out of control meant that the emotions of the red high heels were currently a little bit unstable. Chen Ge called the red high heels’ name softly. Perhaps she had heard Chen Ge’s voice. The black fog appeared to calm down slightly, and the monsters that were covered in curses stopped rampaging.

Chen Ge cut his way forward and soon saw the red high heels in person. The bandages on her body had fallen off quite a bit, and her skin that was tattooed with the curses was exposed. The woman possessed a breath-catching beauty about her, one that would be called a tragic beauty. At that moment, the red high heels was standing in the middle of the black fog. A small figure was blocking before her while behind the small figure were two unconscious fatties.

“Why is Tong Tong together with Liang Er and Liang San?” Chen Ge quickly hurried over. After some asking around, he realized that Liang Er and Liang San had accidentally stumbled into the hidden area not five minutes into the start of the game and encountered the red high heels, who was experiencing the ghost fetus’ former memories. Initially, the red high heels was too busy to even care about them, but the two brothers walked toward the red high heels themselves and even started to critique her appearance. If their comments were positive, like saying how beautiful and captivating she was, perhaps she would have let them go peacefully. But as fate would have it, Liang Er directly called the red high heels something disgusting.

The reason for the red high heels’ death was still a mystery, but she appeared to be a woman who was obsessed with beauty when she was alive. Even in her Bloody Heart Mission, there was a hint given by the black phone—‘Am I beautiful?’

One could say that Liang Er was extremely unlucky. Of the many words in the English language, he had chosen the one that would perfectly anger the red high heels. It was little wonder that he ended in the state that Chen Ge found him. The difference between a Top Red Specter and a normal person was still too large. The red high heels did not even need to do anything, and the curses in the black fog would automatically seek out the people who had angered her and evoked the deepest and darkest terrors residing within their hearts.

In other words, Liang Er and Liang San were knocked out by their innate fear. During the whole process, the red high heels had done only one thing and that was to turn her head to look at them. After knowing the whole process, even Chen Ge thought that Liang Er and Liang San truly were lucky in their own way. He gave Liang Er and Liang San a quick inspection. Thankfully, the red high heels did not intend to harm them; she just wanted to teach this pair of siblings a lesson.

After consoling the red high heels, Chen Ge had her continue to stay in the world of the black fog while he left the scenario through the hidden pathway with Tong Tong. Tong Tong was truly given a fright of his life earlier. The kid thought that the red high heels was going to murder the brothers, and that was why he had stood before them to stop her from doing so.

“To be able to open the hidden path inside the Soundless Home, there has to be a real impressive character among this batch of visitors. Tong Tong, did you manage to see who opened the hidden pathway?”

“Brother Xiao Jun.”

“Sun Xiaojun?”

“Yes, yes.”

Chen Ge was as confused as he could be. He had not told Xiaosun the location and the method to open the hidden pathways, but Sun Xiaojun had magically managed to open the secret pathway within five minutes of the start of the game and sent the visitors from his team into it. “Is this the power of the cursed seed?”

After hearing the description of what Tong Tong saw, Chen Ge could take a guess at Xiao Sun’s intention. He only had good will in his heart, but the result that he caused was probably something that Xiao Sun himself did not expect. A butterfly in the Amazon rainforest might flap its wing several times, and perhaps two weeks later, a tornado would ransack South America. Xiao Sun was the person with the powerful butterfly effect. The young man himself was a simple-minded person, but it was also this naivete that enabled him to do something incredibly scary with serious repercussion without even intending or knowing it.

“I appear to have underestimated the potential of the cursed seed. No wonder the black phone specifically warned me about him. After all, even the Demon God ghost fetus eventually gave up on Xiao Sun.” Walking out from the building, looking at the black fog that slowly enveloped the whole ghost fetus scenario, Chen Ge did not feel as nervous as before. If anything, a new plan was hatching in his mind. “The cursed seed and the cursed hospital, how come I feel like they are natural enemies of each other?”

Xiao Sun had indeed caused a certain degree of damage to the scenario, but Chen Ge would not blame Xiao Sun because this was his own fault. As the manager, he had to first reflect on his own mistakes. Everyone had a position that was suitable for them; it was the same for Xiao Sun. If Xiao Sun only knew how to destroy and create ill will to both his friends and enemies, then the ghost fetus would not have left him in the world behind the door where he was hiding in.

“It was my mistake for underestimating Xiao Sun’s potential. He deserves a much bigger stage for his talent to shine.”

Walking down the street, Chen Ge continued to move forward. When he arrived at the Haunted Avenue, Chen Ge’s heart skipped a bit. The Haunted Avenue was the only scenario left behind from Yu Jian’s world. Chen Ge also had no idea why this was the only locale that was left from such a large world. Only after some time had he realized that it probably had something to do with Zhang Ya. This avenue was the street that he and Zhang Ya had been walking on in Yu Jian's world. They walked on this street to go home, and they bade their last farewell on this street. This bus stop had recorded every lovely moment that they had shared.

"The visitors won't have gone to destroy the words and pictures carved on the platform, right?"

This sub scenario had a special meaning for Chen Ge. He led Tong Tong and the other employees to rush into the black fog. When they passed the bus stop, they only saw a platform that was covered in stained blood and a drizzle of bloody rain.

"The memory with Zhang Ya has not been destroyed, but a big problem appears to have occurred to the red raincoat."

Chen Ge did not dare stay for long lest something worse happened. Chen Ge hurried to the White Orphanage. He opened the hidden door directly and sighed in relief. Xiao Bu was hiding inside the hidden room at the White Orphanage making blood dolls. This Specter who was from Li Wan City that could unleash the power of a Top Red Specter was not angered in any way.

"Have you seen Sun Xiaojun?" Chen Ge whispered to ask.

Xiao Bu stood up from the red blanket that she had placed on the floor. She put down the doll she was making and shook her head confusedly.

"Then that's fine. Keep on doing what you're doing." Seeing Xiao Bu in this state, Chen Ge wanted to go over to ruffle her hair. Sometimes, Chen Ge would have these illusions about Xiao Bu like thinking she was his own daughter or thinking Xiao Bu was very cute, like Xiaoxiao.

As he was about to leave, Xiao Bu reached out to grab Chen Ge's sleeve. The girl showed Chen Ge the blood dolls that she was making. The faces of the two dolls kept on changing until they took on a similarity of the two visitors that came from Xin Hai. The male and female stood next to each other, and the man appeared to be talking to himself. "The evil spirits have gone out of control, and blood rain continues to fall. As I expected, no living person can reform the departed, not even their son."

The man's expression was chilling as he kept repeating this sentence. The man had probably said something else, but Xiao Bu had only recorded this sentence.

"Xiao Bu, where did you hear him say this?" Sitting back down on the red carpet, Xiao Bu changed into a more comfortable posture. She leaned down lazily in the corner, and her finger went up, pointing at the roof above them. The couple probably did not expect a Top Red Specter to be able to rein in her presence so perfectly and was playing with dolls down in the hidden room at the bottom of the White Orphanage.

"Understood." Chen Ge nodded and then led the other employees out. Sun Xiaojun had accidentally hit the target this time. There were indeed people with malicious intentions hidden among the visitors, but Xiao Sun had done things that these people would never have the guts to do.

...

The visitors were gathered at the entrance to the cafeteria. Blood rain fell on their bodies. Ma Feng, who had understood the severity of the situation, had Sun Xiaojun walk at the front of the group.

"Earlier, we heard horrible screams again. Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao are both top haunted house designers. What is it that they could have seen that would cause them to scream like that?" Shang Guan Qing Hong had been given a lesson by Chen Ge before, and he was also the first to persuade Ma Feng to leave when they realized that they were not going to enter School of the Afterlife but instead the ghost fetus scenario. Unfortunately for him, Ma Feng was quite a stubborn person.

"You will have to ask him. He was the last person to be together with Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole." Ma Feng and the other visitors turned to look at Xiao Sun.

"To be honest, I really did not intend to harm anyone, but somehow, things have led to this state," Xiao Sun said with a bitter smile. "I also have no idea why. Since I was young, whenever I tried my best to do something, every kind of accident will happen. When I was in primary school, my mom promised me that as long as I got a good result in my finals, she would take me to the biggest water park in Jiujiang, and I did the best that I could. But that year, an earthquake happened in Eastern Jiujiang, and the water park closed.

"During secondary school, to help me with my studies, mother bought me a computer. But when it was almost time for the results to be released, a big fire engulfed the school, and the brand of the computer that my mother bought me later went bankrupt.

“I somehow managed to survive all that until I finally got to university. I have a passion for music, but of all my idols, one of them retired from the industry because he was exposed to be a junkie, the second one was forced out of the industry due to humiliation because he was exposed to be a cheating b*stard, and the third one mysteriously disappeared. He still has not been found. I have understood many things. In the end, I quit university to pursue my dreams in music. I did not want to rely on anyone and kept my distance from everyone else, but in the end, I found myself moving into a... Sigh, never mind. I do not want to burden you with my sad story.”

After hearing Sun Xiaojun’s life story, some of the visitors were shocked, but there were also some who thought that he was just making up stories.

The couple from Xin Hai stood at the back of the group. The female’s expression was rather spaced out. She held onto the man’s arm tightly like she was joined at the arm to him. The man was radiating a chilling presence. He kept looking around him and kept stealthily moving the hand that he kept inside his pocket earlier out into the open.

Upon closer inspection, one could realize that there was a deep wound on his palm, and buried deep inside his wound was an eyeball. Lowering his head, the man whispered softly as if he was reporting back to someone.

“Rampage, bloodlust, anger that covered the sky, curses flying everywhere—a Red Specter cannot be controlled fully. Your worry is unfounded. From the opening of this haunted house, who knows how many human souls have been used as sacrifices? The doctor was worried that he’d found another path for himself, but actually, this place is no different from our hospital. It is just the appearance that has changed. The child still has not grown up according to his parents’ expectations. He has already become the version of himself that his younger self hated the most.”

Chapter 1126 - Patient 101 2 in 1

1126 Patient 101 2 in 1

The male visitor from Xin Hai kept his head lowered as he quietly moved his palm around the surroundings as if he was letting the eyeball hidden deep inside the wound of his palm observe the set pieces around him. The black fog with the curse drifted freely, and the blood rain filled with malice and hatred slid down the ceiling. Everywhere, one could see haunted faces that pleaded for mercy as they desperately tried to escape. This was a perfect scene lifted right out from the apocalypse.

“If it is as you guys predicted and all the specters are staying at the haunted house willingly, then why are all the lingering spirits in the black fog crying and shouting for release from this place? I suspect this haunted house is using the Red Specters to enslave the other lingering spirits and baleful Specters. He’s using part of the visitors’ souls as bargaining chips to trade with the Red Specters. After the Red Specters consumed the fear and feelings of the visitors and they were sated, the man used these Red Specters to stabilize the weaker ghosts through brute force. This kind of brusque and under-handed method is even worse than ours.”

The eyeball in the wound on the man’s palm turned several times. The eye appeared to have seen everything it wanted to, and it silently sank deep into the man’s flesh. Then the wound slowly recovered on its own, leaving behind only a bloody thin scar.

...

“Why would the doctor think that people have the capability of reforming Red Specters? How could these monsters that feed solely on negative emotions and were formed from hatred, pain, and despair be reformed? They hate everything that is good and valuable in this world, and their favorite pastime is destroying everything that is bright and positive.”

Lifting his head up, there was a trace of excitement that crossed the man's eyes. Looking at the ghost fetus' scenario that had sunk into chaos, his thin lips slowly curled into a malicious smile.

“This is what a haunted location should look like. The boy that once was has probably been drawn way too deep into the abyss of darkness. He is unable to separate himself from enjoying the sin on this side of humanity anymore.”

The man grabbed his girlfriend's hand. The latter was like a puppet without a soul. They stood at the back of the group, and the man used a kind of gaze that was filled with pity to look at the other visitors who were still trying their best.

“A ticket price of forty RMB is honestly not that expensive, but the real cost of visiting this haunted house is not the money but your own life. When they leave this place, perhaps something else will have possessed their bodies, and then they will die from some kind of ‘accident’. No one will even think of linking their misfortune to this visit to the haunted house, and no one will even help them report their deaths to the police. These are things that the hospital has done in the past. Hahaha. The dragon-slayer has eventually been corrupted to become a dragon. It is only inevitable.”

The male visitor from Xin Hai appeared to have obtained the information that he needed already, so he prepared to leave. This place made him feel incredibly uncomfortable, so the plan was for him to quietly sneak away before he was exposed. “The doctor should have continued my medication after I have risked so much to enter the tiger's den to provide for them such valuable information, right?”

At that moment, the male visitor was only thinking of himself. He had no intention of warning the other visitors of the supposed dangers inside Chen Ge's haunted house. The distance between this couple and the larger group of visitors gradually widened. When Ma Feng and the rest's attention was placed on Xiao Sun, the two of them turned and walked away directly.

The black fog thickened by the second. The man's eyes swept over the flickering human faces that appeared on the wall. He seemed to have been reminded of his former self, but there was no sign of pity in his eyes. If anything, they were filled with deep-seated disgust and condescension. Hurrying his foots, when the couple walked past the White Orphanage and came to the Haunted Avenue, they slowly noticed that something was not right. The screaming human faces in the black fog had disappeared, and the surroundings were eerily quiet. It felt like something scarier than the ghosts was hiding inside the black fog, and the presence of this threat prevented the cursed human faces from daring to cry out loud for mercy. They were too scared to do so.

“Have I been exposed?” The man yanked his girlfriend before him. He used his fingernail to scratch open the wound on his palm as if trying to communicate with that eyeball. But before he could summon and awaken that eyeball, a figure slowly appeared from the black fog. He was wearing a uniform that was tattered and covered in blood stains, and his face was covered in very light make-up. The make-up was expertly applied so that it enhanced the handsomeness of the man’s facial features, but as the man looked longer, he realized that it was a face of a dead man that was staring back at him. A very bad feeling arose in the man’s heart. He hid one of his hands behind his back and adjusted his expression so that he looked no different from the other normal visitors.

“Honey, be careful.” He acted like he was trying to protect his girlfriend, but in reality he was using the woman as a human shield. Away from view, strands of black threads were crawling on his arms to travel into the woman’s body like worms. The man in the fog finally walked to stand before them. When the face could be discerned clearly, the man’s nervousness only hiked up further. To cover up his anxiety, he volunteered to speak first. “It is so rare to see the boss entering the scenario himself. Your haunted house is so famous, but the number of employees is so low.”

“The number of employees here is not low, but I would not mind someone lending me ‘a hand’.” Chen Ge stood before the couple. The woman’s expression was no longer as spaced out as before. As if a puppet coming back to hug, she hugged the man’s arm with clear apprehension on her face.

“Looks like the two of you have worked out the argument. Inside the haunted house, you can experience fear that you will not have the chance to experience outside of this place. When facing the danger together, you will be able to tell for sure whether a person is truly reliable or not. Therefore, if you want to tell whether your partner really cares about you or not, bring them on a trip to the haunted house,” Chen Ge said with a smile, revealing his white, shiny teeth. He flipped through the comic in his hand as he casually walked past the couple.

The man's heart kept on racing until Chen Ge walked past him. His heart practically dropped down to his stomach, and his eyes became as wicked as before. He had no idea why he was so afraid of Chen Ge, but he did not dare to show it in person. He only dared to silently curse the man in his heart. He lifted his feet. Just as he was about to move away, his palm suddenly started to leak with blood!

The eyeball that was hidden inside the wound was spinning wildly out of control as if urging him to leave as soon as possible. The man still did not notice that anything was wrong. Chen Ge, who had just brushed past him, suddenly stopped moving. He turned around and stared at the male visitor with a smile.

“As I mentioned earlier, when facing danger together, you will be able to tell for sure whether a person is truly reliable or not. So, have you faced any real danger today?” The maddening tone, the horrifying smile—after Chen Ge finished that sentence, one baleful Specter and Red Specter after another walked out from the black fog.

Only then did the man realize that Chen Ge had kept all of the Specters inside the comic. When he walked past him earlier, he had been casually ‘dropping’ one Specter after another along the way, and the male visitor found himself surrounded by multiple baleful Specters and Red Specters. The man had focused all of his attention on Chen Ge, so he did not realize that he had fallen into a trap until this very last moment.

This man is too vicious and cunning!

The man lowered his head to look at his palm. Urgency and desperation were plain in his eyes, but to his consternation, just as he turned his focus to his palm, the eyeball in his palm imploded on its own. The blood slid down his wound. The man stood stunned for quite some time on the spot. Only moments later did he realize that he had already been abandoned. The hospital had already obtained all the information that they wanted. To prevent the man from exposing more secrets about the hospital, they actively shattered the eyeball and cut off all the possible clues that might lead back to them.

The decision was surprisingly cruel and resolute; everything was probably planned before the man was sent into Chen Ge's haunted house. Now that eyeball had shattered, the man had lost all his back up. His support had been cut off. Cold sweat kept pouring out from his forehead.

What do I do now?

Surrounded by multiple baleful Specters and Red Specters, he was not used to this kind of ‘special treatment’.

Since the eyeball had abandoned the man, all he could do was find a way to save himself. Fighting Chen Ge head on was a way to death because he knew Chen Ge was being protected by a Demon God, so the only chance of survival that he had was his identity as a normal visitor. Many witnesses had seen him walk into the haunted house, the image was captured by the cameras, and the other visitors of the same group all knew of his presence. If he suddenly disappeared without a trace, the other visitors would notice. All he could bet on now was that Chen Ge did not dare commit a murder directly inside his haunted house.

He had transformed part of his consciousness inside the curse and hidden it deep inside his brain. This way, even if Chen Ge had another Specter take over his body, he still had a chance of survival. These things were taught to him by the cursed hospital, but it was a Hail Mary solution; it was something that he would not use until he was sure there was no other solution.

“Boss Chen, what are you doing? Why did you suddenly call over so many employees to come after me and my girlfriend? Have we done something to anger you?” The man pulled out the phone from his pocket and switched on the video-recording function. He aimed the camera at the man and ghost around him. “I will have video evidence if you dare lay a finger on us!”

The man was entering the haunted house as a normal visitor. He had no idea how he was exposed, but the only thing he could do now was continue to act in his role as a normal visitor. He could only hope that Chen Ge merely suspected him but did not have any actual evidence that he was a spy sent over by the cursed hospital. If it was only a suspicion, no sane person would go so far as to kill someone to protect their business secret, right?

Seeing the man raise the camera to take a video of them, Chen Ge smiled even brighter. He really did not expect someone from the cursed hospital to resort to something as ridiculous as this.

“If I really touch you, do you plan to pretend to get injured?” Chen Ge had Tong Tong sneak into the man’s phone. After making sure that the man was not connected to the internet and livestreaming, Chen Ge's expression softened slightly.

"I hope that this is only a misunderstanding. Please move out of my way. We do not wish to continue this tour anymore." The man's hand that was holding the camera was shaking. He was trying desperately to keep his composure, but being surrounded by so many baleful Specters and Red Specters, he found that it was almost impossible to do so.

"You have purchased a ticket, but you've decided to stop the tour just like that, huh? Is it because you think my haunted house is not scary enough?" Chen Ge used Yin Yang Vision to scan the couple up and down. He wished to find more things related to the cursed hospital on them.

The man was temporarily stumped. He thought for a long time before he said, "It is because it is too scary that we do not want to continue the tour anymore."

"Even a ghost thinks that a haunted house is scary?"

"I have no idea what you are talking about at all! What nonsense is that!" The man's tone became desperate. He realized that the baleful Specters and Red Specters were slowly approaching, and they had systematically surrounded him and his girlfriend. "If you do not let us pass, I will... I will call the police!"

"Sure, go ahead. I will give you the chance to call the police now." Chen Ge wanted to apply as much pressure as he possibly could to see what the cursed hospital would do. But the man had only taken out the video camera to take evidence and now threatened to call the police on him—these actions had made Chen Ge quite speechless. A ghost that was cruel and heartless that had hurt who knew how many people was now playing the victim? That was truly a joke.

Cold sweat slid down the man's forehead, and his eyes were bloodshot. He gritted his teeth. In the end, his finger moved swiftly on the screen, and he called the emergency number.

"You really made the call?"

The dial tone only rang twice before it was picked up. Before the person on the other line could say anything, the man shouted, "Sir, hurry to New Century Park's haunted house in Western Jiujiang! I am being held against my will by the haunted house's boss! He is physically threatening his visitors inside his haunted house! This man is a veritable villain. He completely ignores the authority of the police, and he is proud about it! My name is Cha Wen! You must come and save me! Please remember that my name is Cha Wen!"

The man listed the crime scenes and the culprit within a few sentences. He even repeated his name multiple times, probably hoping that would put a stop to Chen Ge's dark intentions. This time, not just Chen Ge, but even the surrounding baleful Specters and Red Specters' expression had turned confused. They all stared at this man who called himself Cha Wen.

"I have already called the police! The police will be here in a minute! If you let me go now, we will call this even, but if you insist on continuing with this bullying, there will be hell to pay. I will have the police shut this place down! Don't you regret it then!" The man waved the phone in his hand like it was some kind of protective talisman. At the same time, he did not forget to guard the girlfriend behind him. After all, he was playing the role of a loving boyfriend; he had to make the acting convincing.

"Are you sure you have dialed the correct number?" Chen Ge's chilling voice drifted into the man's ears.

"How could I get just three digits wrong?" The man was about to argue back when he realized that something was wrong. There was no reply at all from the other side of the line. "Hello? Hello? Hello?"

Several seconds later, a child's young voice came from the phone. "I am sorry, the number that you are calling is currently unavailable. Please try again later. Sorry..."

Hearing the child's voice, an epiphany instantly struck the man. He quickly dropped the phone from his hand. The phone landed with a thud on the ground. The boy's voice was still coming out from it.

"Looks like you are nothing more than a chess piece who has already been sacrificed. You are not that valuable to the hospital." Chen Ge waved his hand and had the Red Specters around him move together to apprehend both Cha Wen and his girlfriend. He then sent Zhang Yi right into their bodies. With Zhang Yi's help, many things that would require much persuasion and energy to complete could be done with a much easier method.

Several minutes later, Zhang Yi crawled out from the man's head. He had brought some very important information for Chen Ge. This man and woman were truly a couple from Xin Hai. The man's name was Cha Wen, and the woman's name was Hua Meimei. They were common citizens. There was nothing wrong about them, but due to some unknown reason, Cha Wen was possessed by Patient 101 from the cursed hospital.

Patient 101 was being told to do these things by his attending doctor. Zhang Yi looked through the memory of Patient 101, and he realized that this patient had a very deep understanding of the cursed hospital. He had stayed at that hospital for almost twenty years. To protect himself from being sacrificed or eaten by others, one could say that the man had no bottom line. The patient knew many hidden secrets at the hospital, and he was smart enough to use that knowledge as protection for himself. Many other patients and doctors were related to him.

Patient 101 was a veritable treasure trove for Chen Ge, but unfortunately, someone had already tempered with Patient 101's memory. When the eyeball in his palm exploded, the memory of Patient 101 had started to disperse at a rapid pace. The man himself probably did not realize it. Before the cursed hospital sent Patient 101 over to Chen Ge's haunted house, they had already prepared to abandon him. That was why they had set up so many things.

Even though he only got pieces of the patient's memory, it was already quite valuable for Chen Ge. The hospital was far scarier than he expected. Patient 101 had stayed at the hospital for two decades already, so the hospital itself might have existed much longer than that. No one knew when the hospital was first built, and no one knew what it began as.

Too much time had passed since then. Patient 101 only remembered, at the time, the hospital director wanted to build a place without pain and despair. He treated the doctors and the patients as family, but one day, the hospital director changed.

He tore off the faces of his own children and gave them the name non-smilers.

He then proceeded to trap his other family members behind the door and made all those who had comments about his ideology into 'medicine'.

Chapter 1127 - The Birth of an Actor 2 in 1

Chapter 1127 The Birth of an Actor 2 in 1

Before the memory of Patient 101 was wiped away, Zhang Yi still managed to scour some things. For example, the workers at the cursed hospital could be delineated as day shift doctors and night shift doctors. The day shift doctors were people who were not normal while the night shift doctors were ghosts that treated the patients. The cursed hospital had a lot of day shift doctors but only ten night shift doctors. This number had not changed in a very long time until a few days ago.

The most experienced night shift doctor had disappeared in Jiujiang. According to rumors, that specific doctor had accompanied the hospital director when he came to Jiujiang twenty years ago. He was one of the hospital director's most trusted confidants. To investigate the reason behind that doctor's disappearance, the cursed hospital had stopped at nothing. They had infiltrated Jiujiang through many different methods. Most of the people from the cursed hospital who had been spotted in Jiujiang were there to search for the missing night shift doctor, but there was also a very small portion of patients who had unique powers who were given other missions, like this Patient 101.

His unique power was his ability to keep his presence hidden. Even a Red Specter would not be able to tell that he had taken possession of a normal person. Other than that, he could tell whether a person was lying or not based on that person's presence, and through the same presence, he could triangulate the target's location. In other words, he was a walking lie detector and GPS tracker. Due to his unique power, he was given this heavy task by his attending doctor. The doctor had him disguise as a visitor to come visit Chen Ge's haunted house and infiltrate the deepest part of the haunted house to see the real situation in Chen Ge's haunted house.

...

Actually, the cursed hospital was already as careful as they could be. This could be seen from the steps that they had taken just in case things went wrong. The moment the eyeball exploded, all of Patient 101's memories had started to silently disappear. If not for the fact that Chen Ge possessed Zhang Yi, this Half Red Specter who could read and delete people's memories, he probably would not have gotten any information related to the cursed hospital.

"Overall, it is not a complete loss. Even though Patient 101 has collected some information for the hospital, he has also exposed the information about the cursed hospital to me. It is an even trade." Chen Ge was about to have his employee yank Patient 101 out of Cha Wen's body when Zhang Yi revealed yet another important nugget of information to Chen Ge. The patient's garb and the items that he carried with him when he left the cursed hospital were hidden at Cha Wen's rented apartment in Jiujiang. He had a feeling those things would perhaps be helpful to Chen Ge.

At the moment, Chen Ge could not draw himself away from the haunted house. He was worried that the cursed hospital might send other people after him, so he had to stay guard at the haunted house. Otherwise, if the Red Specters really got into a battle with those people, things would only get worse. At the end of the day, he was running a business. He was not going to risk his visitors' lives. He could not leave the haunted house, but it did not mean that he could waste any time in going to get those items. That was because the cursed hospital might react right after Patient 101 was exposed, and they would send their own people to retrieve those items.

After some brief contemplation, Chen Ge had Zhang Yi give the address of the apartment to Bai Qiulin, and then Chen Ge had the latter go to the apartment immediately to grab the items left behind by Patient 101. Initially, Chen Ge wanted to send Men Nan on this mission, but he failed to find the boy in the scenario. Therefore, due to the time constraint, he had to leave the mission to Ol' Bai.

"With the items from Patient 101 and parts of the memories that Zhang Ya managed to coax out from Patient 101, perhaps I could try to remake a new Patient 101." Chen Ge's eyes were shining. The cursed hospital prioritized the deletion of the memories that were related to the cursed hospital first, while the everyday habits and little details of Patient 101's life were wiped out at the end. By then, Chen Ge had already had a full understanding of Patient 101's personality. "All the patients at the cursed hospital were only given a number and no name. In other words, this Patient 101 could be called Zhang San or even Lee Si. Hell, he can even be called Sun Xiaojun."

It would be very hard for Sun Xiaojun to take over the role of Patient 101 perfectly. First, he had to have superb acting skills and extremely powerful mental acuity. Furthermore, there would not be a script to follow, so he would need to have the ability to react to the changes around him as well. These were skills that Sun Xiaojun did not possess, but coincidentally enough, these were the skills that Chen Ge and the other haunted house actors specialized in. “Looks like I will need to give Sun Xiaojun some intense training and try my best to turn this coal into diamond as fast as I can.”

Chen Ge had great expectations of Sun Xiaojun. After all, Sun Xiaojun was someone who was given approval by both the black phone and the ghost fetus. Chen Ge himself had also experienced how uniquely talented Sun Xiaojun was. As long as he was placed at the right place, Sun Xiaojun could unleash an effect even larger than a Red Specter. The memory of the original Patient 101 was fading. Chen Ge did not plan to kill him. He temporarily removed him from Cha Wen’s body and then trapped him for now.

“The rest of you should take Cha Wen and his girlfriend to the red high heels. Tell her to remove the curses that are still inside their bodies.”

Seeing Cha Wen and his girlfriend as they were carried away, Chen Ge also sighed with lamentation.

“With just a small payment of forty RMB, you will be able to be granted the service of a Top Red Specter to have the curse taken out of your body. If that is not a steal, I do not know what is.”

After Cha Wen and his girlfriend left, Chen Ge immediately resumed his project of finding Sun Xiaojun. Ol’ Zhou, Duan Yue, and the other experienced employees followed closely behind him. The professional team had now officially taken over the game.

...

“Did you guys hear any voices?” Xiao Sun, who was surrounded in the group of visitors, suddenly turned back to look. There appeared to be a cry for help that came from the darkest part of the black fog.

“Stop trying to distract us.”

A moment after Ma Feng warned him, Shang Guan Qing Hong pulled lightly on his shirt. “CEO Ma, I do not think he was lying. I heard someone cry for help as well. It appeared to come from behind us.”

After Shang Guan Qing Hong said that, the group of visitors realized that something had happened. They turned back to look and realized that two more people had disappeared from their entourage.

“When did the couple disappear?” Now, Ma Feng was really panicking. Minus the three people from Jiujiang Medical University, their group of twelve only had four people left. When the others disappeared and how they disappeared, the survivors had no idea at all.

“We have been keeping our eyes on Sun Xiaojun so much that we forgot to check behind us. Is it possible that the haunted house employees used that opportunity to come after the two of them?” Shang Guan Qing Hong tried to analyze their situation. Ever since he entered this place, he had gotten a very bad feeling about this place. As his teammates started to be plucked off one after another, that bad feeling was slowly turning into reality.

“The method of disappearance of the couple is different from how Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao disappeared,” Sister Snake said with a darkened face. “The people that disappeared earlier, be it Liang Er and Liang San or Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao, they disappeared after they had left our line of sight, but that couple appears to have disappeared into thin air while they should have been steps away from us. It is incredibly difficult to make two living adults disappear without a trace at such a close distance to the other visitors, unless of course they chose to voluntarily leave on their own.”

“What do you mean by that?”

“I suspect the couple from Xin Hai are actually actors hired by the haunted house.” Sister Snake tried to rake her memory and said, “Do you still remember this detail that was mentioned in the files of information regarding this haunted house. There was a couple that died horribly inside this place, and their souls are still wondering around the various scenarios inside the haunted house and have been refusing to leave.”

“But according to my memory, the surname of the male victim is Zhou, and he is slightly older. When we entered the scenario, I purposely sneaked a look at the disclaimer forms of that couple from Xin Hai. Neither of them have the surname Zhou!”

“The disclaimer forms are meant for the visitors. It could be tempered with by the actors. As an actor at this place, they could fill in any information that they want. Who can tell if they have used a fake name or not?" Sister Snake managed to keep a cool head. This went to show how mentally stable this woman was.

"Then what about Sun Xiaojun? What should we do about him?"

"Now that there are only four of us left, of course it is best that we do not stray from each other." Sister Snake stared at Sun Xiaojun for a very long time. Her scrutiny caused Sun Xiaojun to wilt under it.

"What we need to do next is find the people from Jiujiang Medical University and try to meet up with them as soon as possible."

"But didn't Fu Bole say that they are quite possibly actors hired by the haunted house?"

"After they departed, people have continued to go missing in our group, so the people from the university probably have nothing to do with their disappearance. Furthermore, think back to the words that the forensic students and doctor have been trying to tell us from the very beginning. Their intention was to unite the group, but they were sorely misunderstood by Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao." Sister Snake finally got it now, but it was already too late. "if we still wish to clear this scenario, we can only make this bet. If the forensic students are actual visitors, then we still have a chance of clearing this scenario. But if they are also actors hired by the haunted house, there is nothing else we can do but the surrender to our fate."

When the nine people entered Chen Ge's haunted house earlier, their pride had practically been palpable, but twenty minutes later, the most prideful among them had already been taken care of.

"We have not stumbled across any scare points, but the visitors have disappeared one after another. Are we messing around in a haunted house, or is the haunted house messing with us?" Ma Feng's brows were tightly knitted together. Ever since the black fog rolled into the street, his brows had not relaxed even an inch.

"A four-star scenario is literally the most difficult scenario at this haunted house; being messed with by it is totally normal." Sister Snake appeared to have accepted their hapless situation. "Since we are already in this unfortunate state, there is no point complaining. It is meaningless. Earlier, when I was thinking back to what the forensic students said at the beginning of the game, I realized something very important."

"What did you discover? Is it related to the exit?" Shang Guan Qing Hong immediately sidled over to her.

“The student called He San compared this black fog to poisonous fog in games, and staying in the black fog for too long will cause bad things to happen. Now think about it. The first team to disappear, Liang Er and Liang San’s group, was the first to encounter the black fog. The couple that was originally behind us and the disappearance of Fu Bole and Wei Chaochao probably had to do with the fact that they stayed in the black fog for too long as well.” Sister Snake was coming up with her analysis with the little clues that they had. “The black fog represents literal misfortune. If we do not wish to end up in the same fate as them, we’d better stay away from the black fog.”

“Then, let’s not waste time and hurry on to the next scenario,” Shang Guan Qing Hong urged desperately.

“The black fog is continuing to spread. In the end, the whole scenario will be covered by the fog. There is no escape. Now, the only way that we know to proceed in this scenario is to search for the hidden pathways. Liang Er, Liang San, and the woman disappeared in the first building, so they must have found the hidden pathway, but the pathway could only be used one time. Therefore, we need to find a new pathway.” Sister Snake sighed. “The black fog is just the first challenge. Perhaps the real game will only begin after we enter the hidden pathway. The difficulty of this haunted house is indeed over the top. It is definitely not for normal visitors.”

“Stop grumbling. We should start departing to go look for the hidden pathways and the medical university students now.” Ma Feng glanced at Sun Xiaojun, who was standing to the side with a blank expression on his face. “You should come with us as well.”

“Oh... okay.” The remaining four visitors hurried to leave the cafeteria because this place was slowly being enveloped by the black fog as well. Thus, they decided to skip exploring the cafeteria and hurried down the street. One had to admit that due to various reasons, these few visitors had made the best decision. Not long after they departed, the cafeteria entrance slammed opened with Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole being tossed out and landing on the ground unconscious.

Behind them trailed a woman in a red raincoat, a boy in a red shirt, and a fatty wearing a red school uniform and a chef’s hat walking out from the cafeteria. The three ‘people’ were harboring a pot of fire in their hearts as they rushed toward the surviving visitors.

After about half a minute, Chen Ge and the other experienced employees arrived at the scene. They sent a few people to carry Wei Chaochao and Fu Bole to the underground morgue while the others chased after the three enraged Red Specters.

The black fog was spreading at an incredibly fast rate. To prevent themselves from being consumed by the black fog, the visitors had decided to skip a few scenarios that they encountered along the way and came to the end of the Voiceless Small Town. At the end of the dim street, to the left was a maternal and childcare center that was half buried underground while an apartment building that was painted fully back was on the right. These two sub-scenarios were respectively the scariest building in the world behind Wu Sheng's door and the scariest building behind Ying Tong's door. In comparison to these two buildings, the Soundless Home could only be considered a beginner's tutorial.

"Which one should we choose? Quick. We need to come up with a decision before the black fog rolls over." Ma Feng turned to look at Shang Guan Qing Hong and Sister Snake. The two could not come to a decision either.

"Normally hospitals are places with the most intense Yin energy. We'd better pick the apartment building on the right." The three of them soon reached a consensus, and they had Sun Xiaojun lead the way.

"Do you guys want to reconsider this? We still have something." Xiao Sun knew the place that they were heading toward was actually the sub-scenario called the Spire of Darkness. This sub scenario was very unique. Just like how the Soundless Home could absorb sound, the Spire of Darkness could absorb light. Once they entered it, they would slowly lose their power of sight, and they would experience despair in the deepest depths of darkness. Even Chen Ge had almost died in this scenario, much less these hapless visitors.

It was because he knew this sub scenario was more dangerous that the kind and careful Boss Chen had purposely filled the Spire of Darkness with an exorbitant number of lingering spirits and baleful Specters to protect the safety of the visitors. Most of the baleful Specters and lingering spirits that he had obtained during his ghost fetus mission were placed in the Spire of Darkness. That way, even after the visitors lost their sight and could not see anything, they would not trip and fall, accidentally injuring themselves. When they sank into darkness, every visitor would have several lingering spirits following closely behind them.

"This was your choice. It has nothing to do with me at all," Sun

Xiaojun grumbled under his breath and was the first to enter the Spire of Darkness sub-scenario. The dark corridor appeared to have no ending. A strange moldy substance came off from the corners of the walls, and occasionally, one could even hear the calls of cats. The voice-activated lights above them flickered on and off, and the entrance behind them blurred out of view.

“Did you guys notice that the light inside this building is slowly weakening?” Sister Snake looked at the light that came out from her own telephone screen, and she noticed something weird about it.

“Perhaps it is your mind playing tricks on you. Stop wasting time on that. We need to hurry to find the hidden pathways.” Ma Feng and Shang Guan Qing Hong opened all the doors that they passed. They put their entire focus into the search for the hidden pathways, such that they did not notice that the calls of the cat beside their ears were getting louder and louder as if warning them that ‘something’ extremely dangerous was approaching them.

The iron door that led to the staircase was locked without anyone noticing. The voice-controlled lights in the corridor flickered a few times before they suddenly went off completely.

Chapter 1128 - Little Game in the Dark 2 in 1

1128 Little Game in the Dark 2 in 1

The voice-activated lights went out, and the whole building was plunged into darkness. When Ma Feng walked out from the room with his own phone, he was given quite a fright. He stomped his feet and cried out, but the voice-activated lights above them in the corridor did not light up again. Raising his phone, he aimed the flashlight on his phone at the locations where the lights should be, and he noticed the light that came out from the screen of his phone was slowly turning dark. "What is going on here?"

A figure was approaching him in the dark. Ma Feng lowered his voice and turned back to ask, "Sister Snake?"

"No, it is me, Sun Xiaojun." The familiar voice rang out beside him, but the appearance of his teammate did not give Ma Feng any sense of safety or consolation. If anything, it only made him even more agitated.

...

"Did you notice that the light from your phone is gradually getting dimmer and dimmer as well?" Ma Feng reached out one hand to lean against the wall. The darkness amplified the anxiety that he was trying desperately to hide.

"So that has been happening to your phone as well! The screen is getting dimmer and dimmer too! Looks like there is something wrong with our sight. That spooked me for a second. I thought something has gone wrong with my phone and I would have to go and buy a new one." After hearing what Sun Xiaojun had to say, Ma Feng's brows creased even deeper. Among this group of visitors, none appeared normal.

Using his own memory, he held his phone and swiped the light around him to look for the figures of Shang Guan Qing Hong and Sister Snake. With every turn of the phone, the light from the screen dimmed a degree further.

“Brother Ma, Shang Guan Qing Hong, I think we’d better leave this scenario as fast as we can.” Sister Snake walked out from the room next to him. “I really did not dare imagine that someone would make a completely dark scenario inside a haunted house. This has already gone far over the limits for a normal haunted house visitation. It is more like a test for the visitors’ threshold of mental and psychological stress. We have all underestimated the haunted house boss’ insanity.”

Sister Snake warned them as she walked back along the way that they came in. She did not wish to stay in that sub-scenario for even a moment longer.

“But if we abandon our original plan of finding a hidden pathway in this sub-scenario, it means we will have to go to the maternal and childcare center next door. As mentioned earlier, the hospital is the place with the strongest Yin energy because it is the location where most people die. After all, the haunted house boss must have his reasons for placing these two scenarios at the end of the street. It probably means that the terror levels of these two sub scenarios are roughly equal to each other.” Shang Guan Qing Hong also exited from the room behind Ma Feng. He appeared to be looking for something earlier. “Furthermore, we have already spent some time inside this scenario. When we reach the other scenario, perhaps the black fog will have already arrived at these two places, and the level of difficulty will only increase further.”

“Horror that you can see and horror that you cannot see cannot be compared at all. You guys had better listen to me.” Sister Snake showed the side of her that made her the boss of the second most popular haunted house in the country. No matter what Shang Guan Qing Hong said, she had made up her mind that she was going to leave this place. Even though Shang Guan Qing Hong held a different opinion to Sister Snake, at a time like this, he was more willing to lean toward Sister Snake’s experience and instinct. After all, she was more experienced than he was.

The three led Sun Xiaojun and retraced their steps. The lights from the screens of their phones had slowly weakened to a point where it could only light up about one to two meters ahead of them. After taking a few steps, it was as if the battery of their three phones ran out at the same time, and the light died without warning. Darkness fell completely; there was not even a trace of light. The bodies of the three visitors appeared to be frozen, and they stood fixed where they were.

“Do not panic! The four of us should hold each other’s hands. The exit is not far away from here. I know that for sure. We need to leave this place as soon as possible!” At that crucial moment, Sister Snake became the lynchpin of the group. Actually, since she entered Chen Ge’s haunted house, she had not said much. That was because she had been closely observing Chen Ge’s haunted house, and the more she observed, the harder her heart palpitated. Be it the method of the tour or the placement of the scare points, Chen Ge’s haunted house was immensely unique from the other haunted houses on the market. In other words, he was walking a path that other people could not replicate even if they tried. Sister Snake also understood why Chen Ge’s haunted house had gotten so popular online, but the epiphany had arrived a little bit too late.

“Do not wander about and do not scare yourself! Everyone, reach out and hold onto each other! The human psyche will become weakened and more helpless when surrounded by darkness. The four of us must not be separated from each other!” Sister Snake was very assertive, and she gave her orders directly. “I hope everyone can understand that we are only visiting a haunted house; no danger will occur to us! That is guaranteed! So, what we need to do now is not scare ourselves!”

Even though Ma Feng was not used to getting orders from others, in those circumstances, he still obediently did what he was told. He reached out as Sister Snake had ordered and grabbed the wrist of the person next to him.

“We have to get used to the darkness. Because our sense of sight has been deprived, the other senses will be heightened in its place. The haunted house’s boss might use other methods that are not common on the market to scare us, like the use of voices or touch.” Sister Snake had already grabbed the hands of the people next to her. “Who is on my left?”

“It is me.” Shang Guan Qing Hong’s hand was slick with cold sweat. He was rather embarrassed by it, but Sister Snake was not someone who would mind something like that.

“So, who is on my right?”

“That would be me,” Sun Xiaojun answered softly. The four confirmed their locations like that. They stood in a single file. Sun Xiaojun was at the far right of the line, and Ma Feng was on the far left.

“We should stay closer together and walk out of this place in this formation. When we arrived at this place, I purposely looked around the place. The boss probably worried that the visitors might trip and accidentally injure themselves, so the corridors are relatively clean. At least that is something that we do not need to worry about. We only need to firm up our courage and walk forward toward the exit.” The few visitors listened to Sister Snake’s orders and started to head toward the exit, but they only walked for a few steps when something scary happened.

“Did you guys hear that shrill calling of what sounds like a cat? The sound appears to have been there since we entered this place, but now it appears to be getting closer and closer to us.” The moment Shang Guan Qing Hong said that, he suddenly felt something brush against his feet. The brush of silken hair caused goosebumps to appear all over his body. His body instantly froze to the ground. “Someone just touched my leg!”

The four of them were holding each other’s hands, so if one of them stopped, the rest of them had to stop as well.

“Are you sure it was a person? Perhaps you accidentally kicked something.”

“It felt like human hair! It was real! I swear to you!” Surrounded by darkness, Shang Guan Qing Hong did not know what had brushed against him at all. Based on the feeling that came from his leg, many scary images instantly started to fill up his mind.

“Do not stop moving! We need to keep on pushing forward! The exit is not far now!” Sister Snake yanked Shang Guan Qing Hong along by his arm. “It was just a brush of your leg, so why are you so scared? And stop the senseless screaming!”

Compared to Sister Snake, Shang Guan Qing Hong was like a newly married daughter-in-law who was being lectured by her new mother in law. Even though he felt so wronged, he was not going to pick this moment to argue with Sister Snake because, deep down, he knew that Sister Snake was right. The sound of the cat’s calling was getting louder and louder in their ears. Beneath the cats’ calls, there were other sounds mixed in, like the sound of the doors creaking open and the sound of someone's nails trailing past the metallic stair banisters.

"I feel like this cat's call is urging us to run. Perhaps we are currently surrounded by several cats at this moment." Sun Xiaojun had started his habit of running headfirst into an analysis at the wrong moment.

"This is the first time I have heard of a haunted house employ cats as actors." Sister Snake shook her head. She could not see anything in the dark. "The meowing of the cats was probably recorded before the scenario was released to the public. There are at least ten surround sound speakers installed in this scenario, and the reason for their placement is to play the seemingly approaching shrieks of the cats to apply pressure to the visitors, creating the illusion that something dangerous is slowly approaching the visitors. The thing that brushed up against Shang Guan Qing Hong earlier was probably fake cat fur. The intention behind the boss' design is to increase the sense of authenticity. After losing the sense of sight, the world will appear less real, and we visitors can be more easily misled, so at this moment, we need to be as calm as possible!"

Even though the four of them kept telling themselves to calm down, in reality, they had been making very slow progress. In comparison, one could realize how courageous and uneasy it was for Chen Ge when the man challenged the real door himself.

"How come we have not reached the exit yet? I remember the exit is not that far away from where we were!" Shang Guan Qing Hong's legs were shaking. At his age, he could not suffer too many 'surprises' anymore. Currently, his forehead was covered in cold sweat, and he was close to his breaking point.

"In the darkness, we will slowly lose our sense of distance, time, and direction. All we can do now is firm our resolve and make sure that it is not shaken as we continue our way forward. That is the only thing that we need to do." Sister Snake kept encouraging the others, but in reality, she was also repeating these same encouragements to herself. The refusal for the exit to appear slowly wore down the visitors' hope. Despair began to corrupt the visitors' hearts. The visitors became more and more fragile, and right at that moment, the extremely shrill wail of a cat rang out between the shoulders of Shang Guan Qing Hong and Sister Snake!

It was like the cat had used the last moment of its life to scream as loud as it could to warn the rest of them before it was dragged away and slaughtered in the worst way possible!

The sudden scream caused Shang Guan Qing Hong, who was already on the verge of a mental breakdown, to jump up from fear. He screamed along with the cat's wail, and then his body instinct kicked in, and he let go of his teammates' hands so that he could use his hands to cover his own ears.

"Do not let go of your partners' hands!" Sister Snake was given quite a scare as well, but she swiftly collected herself. Then she turned to yell at Shang Guan Qing Hong.

"It felt like the cat died on my shoulder." Shang Guan Qing Hong took a deep breath. He waved both of his arms around before he found the arms of the people next to him in the darkness.

"Stop with the unnecessary commentary! Quick, grab our hands and stay in the arrangement of the group. We need to keep moving forward!" Sister Snake's voice was laced by anger, but her fury was more of a way to hide the fear in her heart.

"But I've already grabbed onto your hand..." Once Shang Guan Qing Hong said that, everyone was startled, and then an indescribable horror started to envelope every single one of them.

"You... have already grabbed onto my hand?" Sister Snake raised her hand right before her eyes. Then she suddenly whipped her body around, but she could not see anything. "Be careful! There is a haunted house worker standing next to us!"

At that moment, the person who was caught in the most difficult position was Shang Guan Qing Hong. He was caught between a rock and a hard place. He did not know whether it was correct to let go of the hand or not, and the question that was on his mind, the million dollar question, was: whose hand he was holding?

With his Adam's apple trembling, Shang Guan Qing Hong asked softly, "What... what should I do now?"

The air around them seemed to freeze. None of the four visitors dared to speak. In the end, it was Sister Snake who was the first to recover. "We keep moving forward!"

Now, only by moving forward did they have a hope of leaving this place. Once they had lost their direction, it would really be all over.

“You mean you wish for me to hold onto this arm whose owner we do not know and continue to walk like this to the exit?” Shang Guan Qing Hong’s heart was about to jump out from his chest. He could feel the chills coming from the palm that he was holding. It was not the arm of a living human; it felt more like a frozen piece of meat sold at the supermarket that happened to have the shape of a human arm.

“That is the only thing we can do now. Just have some patience. You can do it.” Ma Feng also opened his mouth to console the man. He had his hand on the wall and slowly nudged his feet forward. “The darkness made us lose our sight, but even if we cannot see anything, the location of the exit will not change, so as long as we ensure that we do not get disrupted by external disturbances, we will eventually get out of this place.”

Once Ma Feng said that, the fingertips that he had been using to trace the wall felt a sudden chill. It felt like he had touched a piece of ice that was embedded into the wall.

“Hmm?” His bent his fingers and traced the part that was protruding out of the wall. “This arc and this sense of touch... it feels like a nose and a mouth!”

There was a frozen face on the wall!

His fingers bounced back like they were shocked by electricity. Ma Feng subconsciously darted away from the wall and sidestepped the unknown horror, but the corridor was only so wide. This meant that he immediately bumped into Shang Guan Qing Hong.

At that moment, Shang Guan Qing Hong was like a string pulled taut. He was holding onto a ghost’s hand inside a completely dark haunted house. His current fear level needed no description. He trained all his focus on that hand. The slightest movement would cause the man to crumble, much less being suddenly bumped into by Ma Feng. These two men whose combined age added up to more than eighty screamed at the top of their lungs. The sound of tumbling echoed in the darkness. It did not sound like four people were walking in a line; it sounded more like four blind people were surrounded by a group of people.

Among the pushing and jostling, Sister Snake was knocked to the ground. Her heart tightened with apprehension and fear. Sitting on the ground, her hands gripped her clothes tightly as she tried desperately to confirm their location and the direction that they were supposed to be heading in. She did not mind the argument; she did not even care about the fact that a ghost was among them. As long as they knew the correct direction to the exit, they would eventually leave this place. But after the series of knocking around, Sister Snake's only hope was vanquished. Sitting on the ground, she felt like the exit could be on her left, but a moment later, she felt like the exit was actually on her right.

"It really is all over now..."

Ma Feng and Shang Guan Qing Hong were also panicking. They were screaming Sister Snake's name loudly, and they reached out to search about them in the dark.

"Sister Snake, is that you?" Shang Guan Qing Hong had long released the hand he was holding. He did not dare move too brashly lest he bumped into the possible haunted house workers who might be standing next to him. Hearing Shang Guan Qing Hong's question, Sister Snake could not even bring herself to answer. All she wanted to do now was curl up in the corner and slowly melt into the darkness alone.

"There is no light around us at all. We cannot see anything. Theoretically speaking, the haunted house workers should not be able to see anything either. Is it possible that they have night-vision goggles on?" At the end of the day, Ma Feng had experienced many big events in his life. Even though he was caught by surprise, he tried his best to use his knowledge to try to find a solution. "If we can grab the googles from the haunted house actors, this scenario will be a breeze for us to solve!"

"Brother Ma, is it really moral to swipe other people's equipment during a haunted house tour?" Sun Xiaojun's flat voice drifted from not far ahead of them.

"Of course, when the boss of this haunted house came to our theme park, who knows how many things he stole from us?" Speaking of the past, Ma Feng gritted his teeth in anger, and that diminished quite a lot of the fear that surrounded his heart. "The four of us mustn't separate from each other. Come over here and hold my hand."

Ma Feng reached out toward Shang Guan Qing Hong and Sister Snake. Moments later, two chilly hands grabbed Ma Feng's wrists. Before he could react, there was another cat's scream. All the doors in the building were slammed open. Ma Feng felt a powerful force pulling on both of his arms, and before he could resist, he was forcibly dragged behind one of the open doors!

“Argh!”

“Brother Ma? Brother Ma!” Shang Guan Qing Hong immediately shouted in the direction that Ma Feng’s scream came from. He turned to search at the position where Ma Feng was standing earlier. His fingertip touched some soft skin and something that was sticky like blood. “Brother Ma?”

His hands reached out horizontally, and Shang Guan Qing Hong realized with a shock that a monster that was impossibly large was standing before him!

He did not dare speak anymore. His fingers were shaking. He silently moved one of his hands to under his nose, and he got a whiff of a strong blood smell.

“Who... is this?”

Chapter 1129 - Face-to-Face Encounter 2 in 1

Chapter 1129 Face-to-Face Encounter 2 in 1

His legs could not stop shaking. Shang Guan Qing Hong knew that the person covered in blood before him was definitely not Ma Feng. It was a monster, a monster whose body was much larger than a common person's!

As the smell of blood intensified, his body instinctually started to retreat. When the level of mental pressure that he could suffer reach its limit, he screamed at the top of his lungs for Sister Snake to run before he turned around and raced away as fast as he could. At the same time, someone pulled on Sister Snake's arm. Since Shang Guan Qing Hong had just screamed her name, she made the natural connection that it should be Shang Guan Qing Hong who had dragged her to escape together in the darkness.

In the darkness, she could not see anything, Sister Snake could only hear the continuous sound of heavy breathing and loud footsteps coming from Shang Guan Qing Hong. She did not have the time to think over the whole situation before she was dragged up from the ground and was half pulled and half shoved, stumbling through the corridor in an unknown direction into the darkness.

...

"Hey! Do not just run in any direction! We need to calm down and confirm our location first!" Sister Snake also wanted to remind Shang Guan Qing Hong that they still had other teammates that were left behind, but Shang Guan Qing Hong was already scared out of his wits. When a person lost the protection of light, their heart would become extremely fragile, and the sting of fear would be greatly amplified. Shang Guan Qing Hong half crawled and half rolled down the corridor. Curiously, whenever he was about to ram into the wall or trip on something, a pair of hands appeared to block before him to prevent him from getting injured.

Normally, one would easily come to the conclusion that there was someone trying to protect him in the dark, but the current Shang Guan Qing Hong did not have the capacity to think anymore. He stumbled into the darkness, and suddenly, a pair of hands materialized out of thin air to try to stop him. The man who did not know the truth only got even more frightened. All he did was change direction and continued to run even faster. Shang Guan Qing Hong did not dare to even stop for a moment. It was as if he had told himself, as long as he could run fast enough, the ghosts would not be able to catch up to him. After being blocked, or rather protected, more than ten times, Shang Guan Qing Hong finally felt his hands grab the banister of the staircase, and he stopped moving.

“There is a staircase in such a dark place?” Shang Guan Qing Hong did not dare imagine what would have happened if he accidentally tripped on the steps in the darkness. His heart was in total panic mode. His trembling fingertips holding the banister, Shang Guan Qing Hong did an action that no one would have imagined the man could have done. He sat down on the ground, reached out with both of his hands, used one hand to grab hold of the edges of the steps, and slid down the steps one by one. The boss of the largest haunted house in Xin Hai, Shang Guan Qing Hong, who had seen so many big and small incidents in his life, had resorted to this kind of method to move down the stairs. At that moment, even the hands that had been helping him, protecting him, had stopped appearing.

When Sister Snake heard the strange noise, which was Shang Guan Qing Hong using his butt to shuffle down the steps, she raised her voice to ask, “Shang Guan Qing Hong, what are you doing?”

“I am going down the stairs!”

In such a dark environment, going deeper into the building was definitely not a wise choice. Sister Snake was very against this idea, but she had no better one to counter it. Therefore, she grabbed the banister, half squatted down, and started to nudge downward. During the whole process, someone was kind enough to keep ahold of her arm. Her teammate had been protecting her to stop her from falling. Sister Snake was very slow moving down the stairs. She could not be blamed because she needed to be extra careful due to the sudden loss of her sense of sight, but throughout the whole process, the hand was firmly holding her.

“Thank you so much, Qing Hong! I had no idea you were such a caring person.” Sister Snake was slightly younger than Shang Guan Qing Hong. At the beginning, she had a very low opinion of this boss of the haunted house from Xin Hai, but who knew, at the most dangerous moment, Shang Guan Qing Hong would not abandon her and run away on his own but stay at her side to protect her and guide her by every single step? that honestly had touched her heart and changed her opinion of the man.

“What are you talking about? Why would you suddenly say something like that?” Moments later, Shang Guan Qing Hong’s voice came up from the lower floor. Shang Guan Qing Hong was moving faster than Sister Snake. Using his own unique method, he had already shuffled his way down to the next floor. Hearing the direction from where Shang Guan Qing Hong’s voice came from, Sister Snake’s face turned pale almost instantly. She knew then that the hand that had been holding her did not belong to Shang Guan Qing Hong.

The shaking arm grabbed hold of the hand that had been holding her. The hand was cold, and the chill travelled up Sister Snake’s arm and froze her heart. But her hand continued to move downward. She appeared to have touched some kind of fabric. She believed it was the edge of a skirt. The skirt was sticky with what felt like blood, and among the various sensations was something akin to animal fur. Before Sister Snake’s hand moved away from the dress, she felt something tingly next to her ear. It was as if someone’s hair had brushed past her ears. With a shiver, Sister Snake was about to reach out to touch her own ear when a cold breath blew past her earlobe.

“When I first lost my sight, my best girlfriend also accompanied me down the stairs like this. Once upon a time, I really thought she was my best friend in this world.” The bitter and eerie voice drilled into Sister Snake’s ears, causing her scalp to go numb and her whole body to freeze. “My best friend cooked for me and took care of me. We were the best of friends who shared everything in the world. There was no topic that was off the table. I even wanted to opt out of my relationship to give her a chance with Ah Ming. I thought she was the most caring and most beautiful girl in the world. I regretted accepting Ah Ming’s confession when we were at school. I liked Ah Ming, but I knew that she loved Ah Ming. She deserved him more than I did.”

The woman’s voice echoed in Sister Snake’s ears sentence by sentence. The voice got closer and closer to her until it felt like someone was leaning on her back and was talking to her with her lips directly placed next to her ear.

“Ah Ming eventually left me because I believed he had found another girlfriend. All I had left was my best friend. She was very nice to me. Even though she had moved on from Ah Ming and found a new boyfriend, she was still willing to come over every day to take care of me. I felt so sorry toward her, but she did not mind all the bad things that I had ever done to her. She even said that she was willing to be my eyes.

“Our relationship became better than before. I shared every feeling that I had with her, and we even recorded everything that we did inside the diary. We had taken all kinds of pictures. Every time, my best friend would help dress me up, putting me in the most beautiful dress and helping me with the latest make-up trend. She said that I was still the most beautiful girl in the school, just like when we were still studying together. I was so thankful to have met such a good friend... until that day.”

The woman’s voice was pierced through with spine-chilling coldness.

“That day, she came home very late. She appeared to have taken one too many shots. She used the spare key that I’d given her to open the lock to my room and said that she wanted to take me for a walk. I could smell the alcohol coming off from her, so I advised her to please take a rest. It was not wise to go wandering out in her current state. But she cut me off very rudely. She forced me out of the room, dragging me along with a powerful force. I resisted subconsciously, but who could’ve known that it would only anger her further? She reached out to grab my hair and pressed down against my body.

“She told me that she had lost her love that day and warned me not to go against her wishes. That scary tone was completely different from the best friend that I knew. It was like I was dealing with a completely different person. After leaving my house, she forced me to go up the stairs. I was very afraid, but she kept a firm hold on my arm, just like how I am holding you now.”

Sister Snake felt a powerful grip holding her arm, and her body was gradually being pulled forward.

“She refused to tell what she intended to do until we reached the rooftop. She suddenly yanked on hair and leaned into my ear and told me many different things that I will never forget.

“She said that she hated me. She’d hated since we went to school together, and even at that moment, standing on the rooftop, she still hated me. I did not know why she hated me that much until the moment she pushed me down the stairs, until I reopened my eyes and saw myself lying there bleeding out on the stairs, until I saw the diary that recorded our lives together. It was not filled with sweet words as I imagined; every page was filled to the brim with the repetition of ‘die, die, die, go to hell and die, you bitch!’ The dresses that she put me in was the ugliest I had ever seen, and the make-up that she applied to me was more suitable for a clown! Only then did I realize that we were actually not good friends. I was willing to befriend this girl who was ostracized and ugly because I believed she could compliment and highlight my natural beauty even though I had gone blind. On the other hand, she was willing to stay with me because she was planning to slowly transform me into a monster that would become uglier than her.”

Sister Snake’s face was slowly being lifted. At that moment, Sister Snake’s body was pulled taut like a string. She could sense that in the darkness, there was a face that was coming close to her own.

“By the way, I forgot to tell you the most important detail. That day, she said she had lost her love because it was Ah Ming’s wedding day, but the bride was neither me nor her! Hahaha!”

The shrill and sorrowful laughed boomed beside her ears. Sister Snake felt that there were many hands grabbing at her, attempting to pull her deeper into the abyss of despair. “Do not come any closer! Help me! Help me!”

Enveloped in the world of darkness, she could not see anything. The endless fear around her heightened the darkness in her heart that was even darker than the darkness around her. Sister Snake’s pleas for help rang out for several times before she slumped to the ground unconscious. Shang Guan Qing Hong, who was downstairs, had no idea what happened. When he heard Sister Snake call for help the first time, he did not move up the stairs to help her but slid faster down the steps.

His jeans were torn from friction, and his ass was burning, but he did not mind it at all. His heart was completely dominated by fear. He felt like there were arms and dead people everywhere around him. An unconscious yelp escaped from his lips. Shang Guan Qing Hong had never felt such despair before. He crawled aimlessly in the darkness. He could not see anything light, and he had no idea what was around him. There was no hope and no sense of direction. He could not even tell where the hell he was.

“Just how big is this place! Let me out! I do not want to play anymore! I give up on my tour! Help me! Let me go!”

Horror toppled Shang Guan Qing Hong over. He collapsed onto the ground and started to cry, but to intensify his despair, all he could hear was the echo of his own voice. No one showed. There was no flickering light signaling help. It was as if he had been thrown into the depths of the ocean, and he was slowly sinking. Shang Guan Qing Hong suddenly felt the air being cut into his throat, and there was a huge pressure on his chest. He sobbed and cried like a baby until his voice was hoarse. Eventually, an arm that was as thin as a wooden stick knocked him out.

“A normal person would not last longer than three minutes in this kind of despairing darkness. How did the boss end up rescuing Ying Tong from his world behind the door? Not only did he not crumble under the pressure of the ever present darkness, he even managed to successfully evade the pursuit of a merciless killer. In fact, I believe he even swung his hammer once at the killer...” Mr. Wood tried his best to keep Shang Guan Qing Hong, who had lost his mind, under control. After he triggered Shang Guan Qing Hong’s self-protect mechanism, which was fainting, Mr. Wood faded again into the darkness.

Sister Snake and Shang Guan Qing Hong’s horrible wails came one after another. Ma Feng leaned behind the door and did not dare even move an inch. Compared to the horror inside this haunted house, the haunted house at the futuristic theme park was indeed like child’s play. This kind of authenticity was something that was impossible to replicate even with the latest technology.

“Should I give up?” Gripping his fingers, Ma Feng hesitated. Ma Feng was an extremely prideful person. He was never going to willingly admit that someone was better than him.

“Brother Ma, we can go out now. The ghosts appear to have left already.” Sun Xiaojun’s voice appeared beside Ma Feng. When the batch of ghosts came earlier, it was actually Sun Xiaojun who had yanked Ma Feng into the closest room.

“Xiao Sun, how did you know that there would be ghosts coming?”

“I predicted that through the calling of the cats. I have been wondering why there has been a constant repetition of the cats’ calls, and the sound was getting closer and closer. It felt like something or someone was chasing after those cats.” Sun Xiaojun used his softest voice to give his own analysis.

“I get it now.” Ma Feng sighed in relief. “I really did not expect that all the top haunted house designers that I invited with me would be no better than a normal visitor like yourself. Xiao Sun, perhaps we all misunderstood you earlier.”

“How shall I put this... This haunted house is very scary. It is best that you do not target it in the future anymore.” Xiao Sun was a kind-hearted person. He believed that if he could persuade Ma Feng to surrender and drop his grudge against New Century Park’s haunted house ‘without the use of violence’ and make Ma Feng realize his own mistake, that would be a good thing for the haunted house because it would mean one less enemy to deal with.

“Listening from your tone, you appear to be very familiar with this Haunted house. Are you really an employee here?” Ma Feng kept his head lowered. His eyes were hiding the most venomous look, but his voice was warm and kind.

“I do not work here, but I like to visit this haunted house, so I am quite familiar with this place. If you promise not to purposely target this haunted house in the future, I can help you find the way out of this place. With regards to clearing this scenario, I can tell you, you can give that up now. That is basically impossible at this stage.” Xiao Sun was being very honest.

“This haunted house is too scary. Even if you gave me the courage of ten men, I would not return again. The boss of this place is a genius. To be able to expand his haunted house to this state, I, Ma Feng, can do nothing but surrender to his superiority.”

Even though that was what he said, his eyes belied what his real thought was. Ma Feng knew that with the night vision goggles, the haunted house actors might be able to see his expression in the dark, so he purposely kept his head lowered when he spoke.

“Okay, then I will try my best to bring you out. You have to stay close to me!” About ten seconds later, Xiao Sun opened the room door. “The ghosts have already left, quick! We’ll move by keeping our back to the wall. Once we run into any potential danger, we will hide inside the closest room.”

The two of them moved down the corridor by keeping close to the corridor. Just as they were about to reach the staircase, the calls of the cats returned, so Sun Xiaojun hurriedly grabbed the panicking Ma Feng and rushed into the room next to them.

Once the cats’ calls disappeared, the two walked out from the room and entered the staircase. This process was repeated several times until they successfully arrived at the second-floor basement. When the cats returned with their meowing, Sun Xiaojun and Ma Feng were already very experienced. The two of them found the nearest room and went hiding inside it.

“This scenario appears to be difficult, but once you get the theory behind it, it is very simple. When the cats call, it means that the ghosts are coming. At that time, we only need to go hiding inside the nearest room.” A derisive smile appeared on the corner of Ma Feng’s lips. “Now, we only need to wait for the cats to stop calling, and then we will be safe to leave this place.”

“That is correct.” Sun Xiaojun nodded. “And those ghosts appear to be barred from entering the interior of these rooms.”

Bang!

Once Sun Xiaojun said that, the door before them was being pushed open. In the darkness, the two were startled into inactivity, their bodies frozen. Ma Feng did not even dare to breathe. He slowly squatted down and nudged away from the front door down the wall. He did not tell Xiao Sun what he was doing. He then noticed that there appeared to be another door behind him. He entered it silently, leaving Xiao Sun as bait for the ghost that had just entered the room.

His palm felt the presence of a bed and dresser. Ma Feng crawled onto the ground and decided to hide under the bed. The sounds of the cats did not weaken but instead had gotten more urgent. The ghost appeared to have entered the room. Unable to see anything, Ma Feng did not dare call Sun Xiaojun’s name either; he stayed under the bed alone. The cats’ calls came closer and closer until it felt like they had followed him into the bedroom and were ringing out right before his face.

“How come I feel like Xiao Sun was wrong? The cats do not appear to warn us that the ghosts are coming close but are instead helping the ghosts by exposing our location!”

Several seconds later, the cats’ calls suddenly disappeared.

Ma Feng was still lying under the bed. He slowly nudged his body and crawled out from under the bed. Suddenly, something scratched his ear like he had brushed against something. He turned his head around and reached his fingers toward it. He found hair twined around his hand. He touched a cold human face. The person was tied under the bed, and Ma Feng was looking face to face at him.

Chapter 1130 - Let Me Faint, Please! 2 in 1

Chapter 1130 Let Me Faint, Please! 2 in 1

Ma Feng's trembling hands lightly held that cold face. The strands of hair fell on his eyes and lips. The authenticity of the sense of touch made his heart skip a beat. The blood trickled down the strands of hair and fell on his eyelashes. At that moment, he felt like he was not inside a haunted house but was in an actual horror story. To escape the murderer, he was forced to hide together with the murderer's victim. The coppery smell of blood permeated the air, and the sound of suppressed breathing could be heard echoing in the quietness around him. Ma Feng had no idea where the killer was. Perhaps the monster covered in fresh blood was just squatting beside him, waiting for him to come out from underneath the bed.

Nudging his body with difficulty, Ma Feng slowly moved his hands away from the presumed dead body. He was about to leave this place when suddenly someone yanked off the bed board!

This caused the ropes that held the body to loosen, and the dead body that was strapped under the bed fell directly on Ma Feng!

...

“Ah!”

The limbs of the dead body were twisted into strange angles, and the blood splashed all over Ma Feng's body. The first close and direct contact with a dead body snapped the rationality of Ma Feng's mind. Ma Feng's first instinct was to crawl out, so he pushed his hands against the floor and tried to get up. In the nervousness of the moment, he forgot that the bed board had been moved earlier. Once he lifted his head, his head rammed directly into the board of the bed. The loud bang caused the whole bed to tremble. Ma Feng's mind was a blur. Just as he was about to collapse again, he felt someone reach out to steady him.

“Brother Ma, are you alright?” Xiao Sun held the edge of the bed with one hand, and his other hand supported Ma Feng. He had been given a fright earlier as well. Holding his head, Ma Feng's lips were trembling. He was silent for a very long time. The fear that was brought on by the darkness was indescribable. He was unable to see anything, and that caused even everyday things to bring him immense terror.

Should I give up now? Ma Feng gritted his teeth and then yanked heavily on his hair. He then used his eyes to sweep the darkness around him. Perhaps that Chen fellow is currently hiding inside the surveillance room watching me. I am sure he is keeping his eyes on me. Seeing how flustered I am, oh, how hard he must be laughing. He is waiting for me to give up, waiting for me to beg him to bring me out of this place.

His fingers curled into a fist. Ma Feng was not satisfied with that thought.

“Brother Ma, you can do it! Even though the challenge of this haunted house is a bit difficult, trust me. We still have a chance of escaping from this place.” Sun Xiaojun felt rather sorry looking at the bruise on Ma Feng’s head. If he did not go and move the bed board earlier, the dead body would not have fallen on the man. “Brother Ma, please do not give up. Life is like a cup of tea. The first few sips might be bitter, but it won’t be bitter forever.”

“Are you trying to console me?” Ma Feng forced his face to squeeze out a smile. “Don’t you worry, I will not be defeated so easily.”

The two of them supported each other and found their way into the living room by walking along the wall. But before they could even get out from the house, the sound of the cats’ shrill calls came from the corridor.

“Why is it happening again? What is coming this time?” Ma Feng was sweating bullets. He leaned his back against the wall and swiftly found his way to another bedroom. This time, he pushed the bedroom door open silently and slipped right through it before closing the door behind him. “From the beginning, I should not have trusted anyone. I will be much safer inside the room alone.”

Ma Feng could not care less about the safety of Xiao Sun. He squatted behind the door and held his hand over his mouth, waiting silently for the cats’ cries to disappear. He waited for a whole minute. Cold sweat slid down Ma Feng’s forehead and down the tip of his nose before finally reaching his chin. Not only did the cats’ calls did not disappear, they started to appear inside the bedroom he was in, and the shrieks only got louder and more varied, as if more than one cat had snuck into the room with him.

“Why? How did they get in?” Ma Feng felt like he was being surrounded by cats, and the cats were being cruelly tortured. Their wails were spine-chilling and harrowing. He wanted to go to the corner of the room to hide, but when he moved his feet, he realized that the feeling underneath his shoes was soft and cushiony. This room appeared to be carpeted. A bad feeling arose in his heart. Ma Feng reached out to touch the ‘carpet’ underneath his feet. The cat’s fur was matted together with blood and formed squares of ghastly evidence of what had happened inside this room. The whole room appeared to be filled with the remains of the cats that had been murdered there.

Chills crawled up his spine to the top of his head. Ma Feng brushed his hands madly against his body. He desperately wanted to brush away the cat fur and blood that had stuck to his fingertips. His disgust and annoyance appeared to have instigated the angry spirit of these dead cats further. The resentment gathered inside the room. The cats’ furs that were placed under his feet suddenly started to move. Cats that should have been dead appeared to crawl out from the sea of fur. Their eyes blinked in the dark. The wounds that were left on their bodies by their torturer were leaking body. Ma Feng felt his body was slowly sinking as the cats jumped on him. He felt like he was about to be swallowed by the bodies of these dead cats.

“Save me! Save me! Help! Xiao Sun! Save me!” Endless darkness swallowed him. One dead cat after another leaped onto his body. They pressed heavily against him. He screamed loudly for help. Ma Feng had lost all composure. Every cell inside his body was pleading for mercy.

Bang!

The room door was pushed open, and a pair of hands dragged Ma Feng out from the pile of cats’ bodies.

“Brother Ma, why did you run into that room on your own?” Xiao Sun asked nervously. The Ma Feng before him was like a completely different person from the Ma Feng that first entered the haunted house. The prideful glow in his eyes had disappeared, and only fear and anxiety were left on his face.

“I...” Ma Feng spat out the cat’s fur inside his mouth. He collapsed to the ground. He waved his arm weakly in the direction where Xiao Sun’s voice came from. “I was just searching for a random room to hide in.”

“Then, you were indeed quite lucky.” Xiao Sun knew the secrets of this room. This house should be the house for Ying Chen and his brother, Ying Tong. The first room that Ma Feng hid in was Ying Chen’s bedroom, and the second room that he tried was the room where Ying Chen tortured those poor cats. Now, Xiao Sun did not dare let Ma Feng stay in this place anymore because the third room that was left unexplored should be Ying Tong’s bedroom. That room had some very scary dolls inside it.

“Brother Ma, how about we leave this place first? This house is not that safe.” Xiao Sun was trying to help Ma Feng out of the kindness of his heart. He was hoping that through his show of kindness, he would be able to ameliorate the relationship between the futuristic theme park and New Century Park.

“How about... actually never mind. We can just stay here.” The higher the pedestal one placed one on, the more devastated one would be when the pedestal was knocked down. This was the first time Ma Feng had felt so helpless and lost in his life.

“It will be more dangerous if we stay here!” Xiao Sun grabbed Ma Feng by his arm. “If we stay in one place, nothing will ever change. Only by continuously moving forward will we have a chance at survival.”

Inspired by the passion and honesty in Xiao Sun’s words, Ma Feng bit on his lips. He was reminded of his former self who would never throw in the towel. Some strength returned to his body, and Ma Feng slowly crawled up from the ground. “You are right. A good sword is formed after being sharpened thousands of times. It might be painful now, but once everything is over, looking back, all of this will be valuable lesson.”

“That’s the spirit.” Xiao Sun nodded heavily in agreement. “The cats’ calls have already stopped. Let’s use this opportunity and start moving.”

The two carefully moved out from the room and slowly moved while keeping close to the wall.

“That room was too dangerous. I hope we never come back to that place.” At the end of the day, Ma Feng was now the head of a theme park. Even though he was not looking the part with cat fur all over his clothes, he managed to quickly adjust his attitude and mind.

“I also do not wish to come back to this place again.” Xiao Sun and Ma Feng soon arrived at the mouth of the staircase. With one on the right and the other on the left, one holding the stair banister and the other touching the wall, they walked adjacent to each other down the stairs.

“You need to slow down. I cannot keep up with you.” Ma Feng walked very slowly because he was afraid of tripping. However, Xiao Sun ran very fast as if the darkness had no influence on him at all.

“The staircase is the most dangerous territory. There are no rooms nearby for us to hide in, so we need to pick up our speed lest we are surrounded by ghos...” Before Xiao Sun could even finish his sentence, the cats started meowing on the corridor from the upper floor as if this whole thing had been rehearsed before.

“Have you been jinxed in your previous life?” Ma Feng’s mind that had just stabilized itself started to crumble again. He grabbed the banister of the stairs. He did not dare move back up the stairs, but the idea of going further down the stairs scared him as well. He felt alone and helpless and grabbed the banister tightly like it was his last lifeline.

“We must not stay here! We need to leave as soon as possible!” Xiao Sun helped Ma Feng move down the stairs. He originally was not that desperate, but he soon noticed that it appeared to have started raining inside the building. Sticky blood slid down the roof of the building, and a cloud of despair floated up from the lower floor.

Sister Raincoat?

If he ran into other ghosts, he would at most be given a fright, but Xiao Sun had no idea what would happen if they ran into the red raincoat.

“We need to go! Now! Hurry!”

Even at that moment, Xiao Sun was a man of his word. He knew it was very unsafe to leave Ma Feng on the staircase alone, so he wanted to bring Ma Feng with him. But the problem was, earlier, he was dragging Ma Feng down the stairs with him, but now that he sensed the red raincoat was coming up the stairs, he changed his direction and wanted to drag Ma Feng up the stairs. Unable to see anything, Ma Feng had no idea what Xiao Sun was up to at all. He felt his body being turned around. His left leg tripped on his right leg, and he fell onto the stairs and rolled down the steps like a sack of potatoes.

“Brother Ma?” Xiao Sun reached out to shield Ma Feng’s head from knocking into the corner of the wall. Seeing that the red raincoat was coming, Xiao Sun had no choice but to go into hiding. “Wait for me here!”

“I...” With stars floating before his eyes, Ma Feng lay supine on the stairs. He raised his arm and wanted to surrender when an extremely eerie and cold presence overwhelmed his body. The chill soaked into his bones. Ma Feng found himself unable to speak. His face was green, and his arms were shaking greatly on their own. Bloody raindrops fell on his body. Ma Feng felt someone step over him. This one step made him feel like his body was about to splinter into pieces. Cowering inside the cold and dark staircase, surrounded by darkness and unknown ghosts, Ma Feng could feel hot tears stinging his face. He could not control his emotions. The feeling arose from the depth of his heart. “I cannot play this game any longer. It does not matter how embarrassing it will be anymore. I need to leave this place...”

After that extremely cold presence disappeared, Xiao Sun’s voice appeared again. “Brother Ma, are you alright?”

“I do not think I am alright. There is this thought in my mind. I think I want to...” Ma Feng wanted to give up, but he would not voice that intention out loud and ask Chen Ge to come help him. The man had always been proud and headstrong; he could not cross the threshold in his mind.

“Brother Ma, actually, you have done very well.” Xiao Sun was able to see the current state that Ma Feng was in. After being subjected to so many heavy mental blows, Ma Feng was still able to communicate normally with him. This was out of Xiao Sun’s expectations. “I once read in a book that you will be able to see how powerful a person really is at the lowest point in their life. Brother Ma, you are one of the staunchest and strongest people I have ever met.”

Once Xiao Sun gave him such praise, Ma Feng found it even more difficult to voice his intention to give up. He could only nod silently.

“Brother Ma, believe me, we can escape from this place. At the end of the day, the worst result is nothing more than failure. Some people are waiting for failure, and some look down on failure, but others still cannot escape from failure even though they have given it their all. In this kind of environment, how we see things is the light within every single one of us. If you allow the failure to knock you down, you have no one but yourself to blame, but you need to understand that only you yourself can prevent yourself from being overwhelmed by the failure. Brother Ma, believe in yourself. I know you can do it!"

On the staircase, there was no nearby room for them to hide in. This was the most dangerous place, so Xiao Sun wanted to bring Ma Feng away from this place as soon as possible. In this cold and dark world, Xiao Sun's words of inspiration were like a ray of light that shone into Ma Feng's heart.

Ma Feng, who was lying on the ground, was reminded of his younger self. The headstrong personality actually hid the sense of self-doubt in his heart. He needed to find a way to use his own weakness; only then he would be able to fly further and higher. His finger grabbed the iron banister, and Ma Feng slowly crawled up from the ground. "Defeat is the fee that you have to pay in order to achieve success. This is just a small hurdle in the road. There is nothing to worry about."

"Brother Ma, I know you can do it!" Xiao Sun gave Ma Feng a thumbs up even though he knew that Ma Feng would not be able to see it. "The staircase is not safe. We need to go down to the next floor."

They reached the next floor successfully. Ma Feng felt like his soul had reached the state of nirvana. When he stepped on firm ground around, he could feel his heart becoming stronger. "There is no difficulty that can knock me down, and there is no hurdle that I cannot overcome. They will only make me stronger."

With a bruise on his head, his mind abuzz, and his body almost shattering, Ma Feng held the wall and limped forward.

"These few lower floors should be quite safe..."

"Shush!" When Ma Feng heard Xiao Sun say that, he almost jumped out of his skin. "Whenever you say something like that, something bad happens. Refrain from giving your own opinions anymore. Sometimes, you need to learn to keep your thoughts to yourself."

"Alright, fine. Someone used to tell the exact same thing. Looks like it is really my fault."

"Someone used to tell you the exact same thing?"

"Yes, but now I am the only sole survivor of that incident. Everyone else in that building has died." Xiao Sun accidentally let slip the truth. When he realized that, he quickly covered it up with a few dry laughs. "That was just a joke. Don't take it too seriously."

Xiao Sun's words caused Ma Feng's heart to crawl with anxiety. He silently moved away from Xiao Sun. Just as the two separated from each other, the shrill cats' calls appeared in the corridor again.

"Not this again!" Whenever Ma Feng heard the meowing of cats, he could feel his legs turning into noodles. He pretended that he was strong, but actually, his inner defense had been shattered into pieces.

"Don't just stand there! Find a place to hide!" Xiao Sun urged the Ma Feng. The latter sought aimlessly in the darkness when his arm knocked into something that appeared like a closet. He did not consider why something like a closet would appear in a corridor. He directly opened the door and went hiding inside it before the cats' calls came closer.

Closing the door, Ma Feng hugged the brooms and mops that he found inside the closet and held his breath. The shrill cats' calls and heavy footsteps appeared at the same time; they were heading toward Ma Feng. They came closer and closer. Ma Feng gritted his teeth to stop himself screaming. His face was twisted due to extreme nervousness. Please don't come here. Please don't come here. Please don't come here...

Perhaps God had heard his prayers because the cats' call slowly moved away. Ma Feng's heart fell back down to his stomach, but just as he was about to let go of the breath he was holding, those strange and heavy footsteps did not disappear with the cats' calls. After they had walked away, they turned back before finally stopping before the closet. The sound of falling footsteps had disappeared. Ma Feng held his pose and did not dare move. After a whole minute, he slowly reached out, intending to push open the closet door, but before he touched the door, he heard a loud bang!

The closet door was yanked open, and the chilly winds surged into it, carrying with it the stinging smell of blood. Ma Feng's body lurched back instinctually, causing the back of his head to knock into the wooden board behind him. The mops and brooms clattered noisily to the ground. Ma Feng curled up his body. He felt like a mountain of flesh had stopped before him, and he would be crushed the next second. The pressure made him feel like he was being asphyxiated. The already dark and despairing world started to spin, and his consciousness reached its limit.

Is it finally over?

At that moment, Ma Feng felt the sweet nectar of salvation. He stopped resisting and peacefully closed his eyes.

“Brother Ma? Brother Ma?” Xiao Sun’s voice rang beside his ears like a drum. Ma Feng felt someone pinch the top of his lips. He was forced to suck in a reviving breath, and his eyes flew open again.

“You frightened me. I thought you really fainted.” Xiao Sun helped Ma Feng up. “Brother Ma, the corridor is not safe. We cannot stay here for too long.”

“Xiao Sun, Brother Sun, can you please put me down? Please... I am begging you!”

Chapter 1131 - Some Friends Are Only Meant to Live in Your Memory 2 in 1

Chapter 1131 Some Friends Are Only Meant to Live in Your Memory 2 in 1

“Brother Ma, if you have anything to say, we can go inside this room next door first. It is too dangerous for us to stay outside here at the corridor.” Xiao Sun grabbed Ma Feng by his arm and forcibly dragged him to the other end of the corridor.

“Stop, stop. Let me just think about this first, I believe we better...” Ma Feng was dragged weakly away by Xiao Sun. He had lost even the last bit of energy to resist anymore. With his head buzzing and the world spinning, his body aching and his eyes stinging, he was overwhelmed by the desire to curl up in the corner and cry.

“Brother Ma, there is no need for you to say anything. I can understand you perfectly well, but we have already reached the deepest part of the scenario. This is most likely the last sub-scenario of this haunted house. Do you really want to give up now? Won’t that make all of our previous effort and the sacrifice of our other teammates a waste?” Xiao Sun held Ma Feng by his collar. “God will not deliver us unto a situation that we cannot overcome. Perhaps we are just that one final step away from victory.”

...

Ma Feng’s lips were pursed together. He looked at the darkness surrounding him numbly. Everything and anything could be hidden inside the darkness—monsters, ghosts, unknown danger, and of course, the exit. Strength gradually returned to his body. A small flicker of fire returned to Ma Feng’s eyes.

“Those who don’t believe in miracles will never create a miracle. The boss of the haunted house probably also thought no one will be able to escape from this place, but think about this, isn’t the purpose of a haunted house for visitors to visit it? Is there a haunted house in this world that really cannot be cleared and escaped from?”

Xiao Sun’s words were filled energy, and they helped give Ma Feng a direction. Gritting his teeth, Ma Feng also thought it was such a waste for him to give up now. He rubbed his buzzing head and slowly opened his lips to say, “Xiao Sun, let go of my arm first. I can walk on my own.”

Using the wall as support, he slowly stood up. Ma Feng gradually sought his way down the corridor. “There will be a door at an interval of every three meters. We will stick along the wall. The moment we hear the cats, we will enter the nearest room. Once we enter the room, we will shut the door, and one person will block the door with his body while the other searches for the hidden pathway inside the room. We will cooperate closely and utilize the advantage that we have to its maximum potential.”

“Okay!” Seeing Ma Feng with hope again, Xiao Sun felt tears pricking his eyes. It was so inspirational. In that moment, he was reminded of his living self that would never give up no matter what the world had thrown at him. Xiao Sun, who had always believed he was just a normal character in this world living a normal life, would often read ‘inspiration’ and self-help books, using the lessons inside to give him the energy to push forward another day.

“You reap what you sow. Brother Ma, I am sure we will definitely find the way to the exit!”

Xiao Sun and Ma Feng found support in each other, the two continued their difficult journey down the corridor. All the games had their way of solving them; Ma Feng was blessed with a brilliant mind and a gifted talent. Other than the flaw in his personality, he was truly a very capable person. With the aid from Xiao Sun, even though he had not gotten used to the darkness, he had still figured out the rhythm to the movement of the ghosts. After being scared five more times, he and Xiao Sun finally arrived at the bottommost floor of the Spire of Darkness.

Along the way, Ma Feng’s body gained many new wounds. Other than the pain from his body, his soul was tortured even further by the most cruel and harrowing experience. Whenever Ma Feng was at the edge of losing his consciousness, Xiao Sun would immediately appear beside him to resuscitate him. He would revive to the sound of Xiao Sun calling his name, causing him to flutter between the line of nightmare and reality. With the large breath of stubbornness inside him, Ma Feng stuck it out until the end.

After entering the last room at the most bottom floor of the building, Ma Feng gave a very long sigh. Even Xiao Sun sighed along with him. “This is very difficult. I believe even a ghost would not be able to escape from this scenario.”

“This is the last room, so the hidden pathway has to be here. We need to inspect this room closely.” Ma Feng’s voice was wispy and airy. If there was light, one would see that his face was blanched, and his lips were purple. He looked just like the workers at the haunted house after Chen Ge had put make-up on them. The two entered the room; they had just found their way to the bedroom door when they suddenly heard a man’s voice coming from the entrance.

“You are going to be the ninth person that I will kill. Let me think, what should I take from you? Nose? Ears? Never mind, I think I will settle with your eyes. I know you have been searching for the hidden pathway. Actually, that exit is hidden inside my house, in the bedroom where all the cats’ bodies were. Do you feel despair coursing through your veins?

“I have already told you the location of the exit, but you will never return to find it. How I wish I could see your expression now.”

After the man said all that, the sound of something being slashed by a knife rang out inside the bedroom. Then, blood leaked out from the gap in the door. Ma Feng felt there was something sticky pooling around his feet.

“The murderer is giving us a hint. The exit is hidden inside the room with all the cats’ bodies!” Ma Feng’s face was indescribable. The exit was inside the room that he had once hidden in, but he had been led by Xiao Sun all the way to the bottommost floor of the building. He felt the breath catch inside his throat. Ma Feng was about to faint from fury. He stumbled a step back, and his shoes squished loudly as he stepped on the blood.

“Who is that?” The man’s voice echoed inside the bedroom, and it was swiftly followed by the wailing of the cats!

Knowing that they had been discovered, Ma Feng and Xiao Sun started to race toward the exit like crazy. “We have to go back to the room with all the cats’ bodies!”

Being chased by the ultimate crazed murderer, the scenario of Spire of Darkness had officially entered its most intense and horrifying moment. The cats’ calls reverberated against the walls as Ma Feng and Xiao Sun raced down the corridor like their lives depended on it. Ma Feng’s heart was palpitating; this was the most intense moment he had experienced in his life.

"I can't do it anything. My legs won't carry me further. This is where I die!"

"Brother Ma, believe in yourself!"

"I really cannot run anymore!"

"Do not stop! We can do this! I know we can!"

Xiao Sun's voice kept coming from in front of him. By now, Ma Feng had completely lost his sense of direction. Xiao Sun's endless encouragement was the path that he had been heeding along the darkness. Following Xiao Sun's voice, Ma Feng activated all the potential that he had inside his body. He tried his best to keep up with Xiao Sun's speed. The crazed murderer was just right behind him, following them like a shadow. Now, leaving this scenario through the hidden pathway was the only chance they had at survival. The sense of pressure that pressed down on him could not be described in words. There was only one thought left in Ma Feng's mind—run!

After moving up and down the stairs so many times, Ma Feng's muscle memory had remembered the height of each step. Even without looking, he was able to prevent himself from tripping when running up the stairs.

"Keep on going. Do not be afraid of the darkness! After all, eventually, the darkness will fade away, and sun will rise for another day!"

"Humans are creatures with endless possibilities. We must not give up on this gift that is provided to us! Trust and believe!"

"Many of life's failures are people who did not realize how close they were to success when they gave up!"

The human language was unique in the sense that it was capable of granting enormous energy. Ma Feng, whose body was shaking and whose mind was flaking somehow, found his way back to the top floor of the building with Xiao Sun's endless encouragement. He raced like the wind. All the other unimportant thoughts in his mind were left in his wake. His spirit appeared to have joined to both of his legs. There appeared to be no more Ma Feng in this world—all that remained was a pair of legs that kept on running in search of the exit.

Ramming the door open, Ma Feng and Xiao Sun rushed into the room stuffed with cat carcasses. The two of them turned the room upside down looking for the exit as if madness had taken over them. The calls of the cats became shriller from the corridor. The whole scenario appeared to be changing. The walls started to crack as the building started to shake. Mouths started to gape on the ground like they would swallow the visitors at any moment.

Various strange voices also began to appear. The voice that scared Ma Feng and Xiao Sun the most was one similar to Chen Ge's coming from outside. They did not hear clearly what the voice was saying because all their attention was focused on the search. They moved the carcasses of the cats away like this was the only thing that they knew to do in this world. In the endless darkness, there was suddenly a flicker of a very faded light. That pushed Ma Feng to move even faster.

"I can see it now! I think I see the exit!" Moving the guts and the intestines of the cats away, under the carpet that was sewn together by death, there was a hidden ray of light!

The ray of light shone into the room through the gap of the hidden door. The edge of Ma Feng's eyes were wet, and tears were churning in his eyes. "It's light. There's light!"

He reached out to grab the door handle of the hidden door and used every ounce of energy that was left inside him to pull it open. "Thank God I did not give up! Every sacrifice will lead to a reward! The pain and tragedy that I have experienced will become the reward that destiny gives me!"

Gritting his teeth, Ma Feng was already coming up with ideas to mock Chen Ge after he got out from his place. Ma Feng lifted the door open. The weak light chased away the darkness. He extended both of his hands like a flower that had bloomed proudly in the dark.

"There is no real despair in this world. No matter how many difficulties we have to endure, no matter how many hurdles we have to overcome, as long as there is a seed of hope in your heart, then eventually, there will come a day where you will be able to overcome everything and have flowers bloom in your life."

The inspirational quotes that Xiao Sun had learned from the self-help books echoed perfectly with the feeling inside Ma Feng's heart. He followed the light and ran down the corridor. He had never run as fast as he did in this moment!

Running down the stairs, an iron door that was painted black appeared before him. After going through so many ordeals, Ma Feng dragged his 'wounded' body and stopped before the black iron door.

"What is failure? It is nothing but a step to head toward success; what is success but having treaded all the roads that led to failure. When only the last road is left, that will be the road that leads to success!"

Removing the chain from the door, Ma Feng used the energy in both of his hands and pushed the iron door before him open!

"It's finished! Everything is finally over!" Tears that were filled with various emotions slid down the corner of his eyes. This was a man who had never shed a tear in his life, but at that moment, he could not help himself.

Bang!

The black iron door slammed against the wall, and Ma Feng also took a good look of the scenario behind the door. The rolling black fog rushed at his eyes until he found it difficult to keep them open. The tears of joy were blown dry almost immediately.

His legs buckled, and Ma Feng crumbled to the ground.

"Why?"

A simple question was more than enough to express the cocktail of emotions that Ma Feng was currently feeling. Hope collided with despair as all his anticipation morphed into a fog of darkness. Looking at the dark fog before him and the flickering ghost light that floated in the black fog, Ma Feng felt his sight slowly pull away. It was as if he was going through an out of body experience as he stared dumbly down a direction.

"Brother Ma..." Xiao Sun pressed lightly on Ma Feng's shoulder. When a Specter wanted to materialize their body into corporeality, it required a continuous exhaustion of negative emotion and accumulated resentment, so most Specters chose not to waste their resources on having physical interaction with living humans, but Xiao Sun felt like Brother Ma needed the support of physical touch at that moment. This experienced entrepreneur had encountered a large hurdle in his life. At that moment, he needed as much help and encouragement as he could get.

"The hidden path leads to the hidden scenario. We have discovered the source of the black fog. This also means that we are already very close to the exit!" Xiao Sun grabbed Ma Feng by his shoulders and shook the man repeatedly. “Brother Ma, you need to pull yourself together!”

“Don’t worry, I am fine.” The calculation and cunningness had already disappeared from Ma Feng’s eyes. All that remained was numbness.

“Brother Ma, are you sure you’re alright? I am worried about you.” Xiao Sun felt like Ma Feng was currently in a state of suspended shock. He was hoping that he could change the prejudice that the futuristic theme park held toward the New Century theme park through Ma Feng, but before the prejudice could be corrected, the leader of the futuristic theme park was already at the edge of insanity.

“Brother Ma, just remember how many adversities we have conquered to reach this place. It is such a waste for you to give up now. I was also hoping that it would be the exit behind the previous door, but perhaps the boss realized that, so he purposely designed this last scenario so that people would break down just as they flew through what they assumed to be the final exit.” Xiao Sun did not know exactly what he was saying. All he wanted was to help Ma Feng regain his confidence. “No matter what, we cannot stop moving now.”

Ma Feng appeared to have been given too many inspirational talks, and he had had enough Ted Talks for a while. He sat down on the ground with a dumb expression on his face. He wanted to faint, but he could not; he wanted to move, but he could not gather energy anymore; he wanted to leave this place, but he knew that was a wish unlikely to come true. So, what else could he do but sit there and wait for the end to come.

“Brother Ma! Do you really think there is a scenario that will be scarier than one that deprives you of your sight? We have just escaped from a completely dark scenario. That building was placed in the deepest area of the small town, so obviously, it was the scariest scenario. Therefore, we might be both figuratively and literally one step away from victory.” Xiao Sun turned to logic in his persuasion.

Ma Feng slowly lowered his head. His hands moved instinctually to his ears. He had already raised his hands, but suddenly, he realized how dumb that would seem.

The only one who is helping me is Xiao Sun. Perhaps he has taken me as his only reliance in this place. If I fall here, then he will not be able to survive any longer on his own. He has helped me so much; I cannot disappoint him now.

He felt a grip on his arm. Ma Feng turned his head subconsciously to look, and Xiao Sun's honest face entered his eyes.

What is wrong with me? Since when did I become so proud of myself that I started to resist a helping hand from another person?

Ma Feng hated the person that he had become. He gathered the last spirit that he had to grab Xiao Sun's hand and slowly stood up.

"The cross section of the two scenarios is the most dangerous. We might be attacked by ghosts from both scenarios at the same time, so we'd better hurry up and leave this place." Xiao Sun also did not know where the exit of this scenario was. In fact, perhaps the exit of this scenario had not even been designed yet. "Clearing this scenario is already impossible. We should find a place to hide and survive for the time limit of sixty minutes tour, and it will all be over."

"Six... sixty minutes?" Ma Feng's legs weakened, and he almost tripped again.

"We have already been in here for forty minutes already; twenty minutes is not that long." Xiao Sun looked around and made his decision based on his memory. "There are man-eating monsters hiding in the black fog. The only safe place in this world is the apartments. So, we only need to hide inside the apartment building and hold out for the remaining tour time."

"I will listen to you." Ma Feng's spirit was half missing, as if the half was scared away and had not returned. Just like that, he was dragged by Xiao Sun and raced in the black fog. Cursed faces appeared in the fog. Ma Feng's facial muscles were going crazy. Occasionally, he could not control himself and started laughing. Looking at the scary monsters around him, he slowly forgot where he was and who he was. At the moment, he only had Xiao Sun who was running beside him. His heart went out toward this young man. In this tragedy of a tour, Xiao Sun was the only person that he realized he could rely on.

Along the way, they had seen many scenes taken right out from hell. Finally, Xiao Sun carried Ma Feng through the black fog and came to the apartment. Pushing open the entrance of Jin Hwa Apartment Block A, Xiao Sun led Ma Feng into the corridor.

"I know one room that is definitely safe. I am one hundred percent certain that there will be no ghosts there. We can rest there until the end." Xiao Sun led Ma Feng into his own room. Once he pushed open the door, they heard strange noises coming from the corridor.

“The other neighbors are coming! Please do not make any noise.” Xiao Sun pushed Ma Feng into the room while he hid at the door and paid close attention to what was happening outside. The room they were in was very neat and clean, and it looked perfectly normal. Ma Feng finally sighed in relief. He dropped to the ground and noticed the posters of many singers pasted on the walls.

His eyes moved around until Ma Feng’s eyes landed on a picture frame. Inside it was a young man carrying a guitar. He felt that the young man in the picture looked very familiar, so he forced himself to crawl toward the table. When he picked up the frame, a death certificate slid down from behind the picture.

“Sun Xiaojun?”

An indescribable horror instantly swallowed Ma Feng; his whole body was shaking.

Chapter 1132 - Destiny, Jiujiang Medical University 2 in 1

1132 Destiny, Jiujiang Medical University 2 in 1

The person that he had been relying on was the actual culprit. Ma Feng's trembling hands had trouble even holding the death certificate firmly. The words kept shaking in his eyes. It was a piece of paper as light as a feather, but in his hands, it felt as heavy as a mountain. It directly crushed Ma Feng's heart. He had been trying so hard to escape from death, but in reality, death had been holding his arm and dragging him along. He had been trying to run away from ghost, but a ghost had been closely following beside him, unwilling to part with him.

This unexpected twist cut off the breath in Ma Feng's lungs. He turned slowly to look at Xiao Sun, who was leaning at the door, looking outside, and his mental support at that moment shattered into withering powder. The blood in his veins appeared to have frozen as Ma Feng's world collapsed. The world spun, and he collapsed heavily to the ground. Before he drifted out of consciousness he could still hear the consistent voice calling him.

"Brother Ma, Brother Ma, Brother Ma..." Xiao Sun tried his best to shake Ma Feng's body, but Ma Feng gave him no response at all. Perhaps Brother Ma had lost all hope in this world. "We are already safe now! Big brother! We have gone through so much to finally arrive at a safe room. Why would you choose this important moment to faint?" Xiao Sun had a bitter smile on his face. He could be certain that this room was one hundred percent safe, and no other haunted house ghosts would be hiding in this room because this was his own room before he died.

...

“So, what am I supposed to do now? This does not feel like a normal fainting. At least it is not one that I can resuscitate him from normally. Should I take him to the underground morgue to be checked by the group of doctors? But I am not familiar with them, and that old doctor always looks so stern.”

With a human life on the line, Xiao Sun did not dare hesitate too long. He picked up Ma Feng and prepared to walk out from his room. But before he took any steps, the phone in Ma Feng’s pocket suddenly rang. Xiao Sun reached into Ma Feng’s pocket and took out the phone. He glanced at the caller ID; the caller who was calling was Qin Guang.

“Hmm, this name is rather familiar. I believe he is that famous streamer. He entered the haunted house alongside Ma Feng.” Xiao Sun was about to answer the phone when he suddenly hesitated. “I could use Ma Feng’s phone to answer this call, but how am I supposed to explain that Ma Feng is currently unavailable to talk to him? I cannot explain why Ma Feng is currently unconscious. This will create an easy misunderstanding that it was me who knocked Ma Feng out. Even though I am actually a worker here, I am not going to take the blame for the deeds that I did not do.”

Xiao Sun not only did not knock Ma Feng out, he even resuscitated the unconscious Ma Feng multiple times. No matter what, he was not willing to shoulder this blame. After giving it some thought, Xiao Sun decided to end the call and then send a message to Qin Guang. “I am currently hiding inside a room. There are people wandering outside the door. I am not available to answer your call now.”

Moments later, Qin Guang replied with the following message. “I am now with the students from the medical university. Where are you guys now? This haunted house is very unsafe. We have a feeling that this place is really haunted.”

Seeing Qin Guang’s reply, Xiao Sun’s brow hiked up so high. “We have been exposed? Who has been so unprofessional? If the visitors find out the haunted house is really haunted, then who would dare come here again? This is such a trouble-filled day! I have to find a way to salvage this situation!”

He held onto the phone and stood contemplatively for a long time before he eventually sent another message to Qin Guang. “Me and my teammate have found a hidden pathway and entered the hidden scenario. What about you guys?”

“We are also inside the hidden scenario! The medical students found me and saved me. They found the hidden pathway inside a sub scenario that had the heart as the theme, and now, I am currently hiding with them inside an apartment building in the hidden scenario.”

Xiao Sun stared at the words on the phone screen. He really did not expect Qin Guang and the remaining visitors to have also entered the hidden scenario. “Can you tell me exactly where you are now? Are there any unique and conspicuous buildings near you guys?”

“The entrance of the building marks this place as Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2. The whole building is abandoned. Instead of rental rooms, it is filled with hospital rooms. It is extremely scary.”

“You guys, stay where you are. I will head over to meet up with the rest of you as soon as I can.”

After Xiao Sun finished sending that message, he immediately ran out from the room, but when he was halfway out the building, he ran back again.

“It is too unsafe to leave Ma Feng in the room like this. His condition is a bit different from everyone else’s. I’d better bring him along with me. When I run into the other employees, I can hand Ma Feng directly to them and have them take him to the doctors for me.” Xiao Sun’s idea was good. He carried Ma Feng out of his own room, but the strange thing was, even though the haunted house, especially the hidden scenario, had an exorbitant number of ghosts and monsters, Xiao Sun failed to encounter a single one of them. It was as if they were purposely trying to avoid him.

“This Ma Feng truly is one hell of a lot of trouble. No one is willing to come too close to him.”

...

Inside the hidden scenario’s Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2, He San, Zuo Han, and Mr. Wang were standing together. They surrounded Qin Guang, who held the phone in the middle.

“Look closely at the messages that Ma Feng sent. Does this sound like the tone of Ma Feng? Even a person like myself who has not known Ma Feng for that long can see the problem, and you’re still dumbly asking me why.” Zuo Han shook his head. “The person who’s holding the phone is no longer Ma Feng.”

“But this is definitely Ma Feng’s phone number!” Qin Guang still did not quite believe it.

“How could you be so stubborn even when the reality is placed right before you? Then, how about you explain why he insisted on sending messages with you when he could have easily answered the phone and talked to you?”

“Perhaps it is like he said, it is not that convenient for him to talk now?”

“Wrong. It is because that employee who is very good at mimicking voices is not with Ma Feng yet. When that actor arrives, he will use Ma Feng’s voice to misdirect you.” Zuo Han waved his hands. “Stop dreaming of the impossible. A large batch of haunted house employees already know our location. If you do not want to be scared until you faint, you’d better stick close to us and leave this place immediately.”

“But what if that really is Director Ma and he comes over here and can’t find the rest of us?” Qin Guang was slightly worried about Ma Feng’s ire.

“I will tell you this one last time. We are allowing you to come with us out of kindness. In fact, you were begging us to take you along, so stop giving us so many complaints and so much trouble.” Zuo Han shoved a rag doll’s head toward Qin Guang. “Take this and do not lose it.”

“Do I really have to take this with me?” Qin Guang held the rag doll’s head with both hands, and the unwillingness was plainly written on his place.

“Do you know how much trouble we went through to find the rag doll’s head? Naturally, we have to take it with us at all times.” He San did not have any affection toward Qin Guang’s group. If not for the fact that Zuo Han found Qin Guang somewhat useful, he would definitely not have taken Qin Guang with them.

“We not only have to bring it with us; we need to treat it with sufficient respect.” Zuo Han’s voice had always been direct and cold. When he was assessing a problem or a situation, he could accomplish the impossible where he would not factor in personal feelings. Even if those other visitors had once mocked and chided him, as long as he believed he could get some use out of them, he would forgo the past and take the person in with them. The core of his thinking was, as long as the person was useful to him and could improve his current situation, then they were someone worth keeping around. After clearing the Coffin Village scenario, Zuo Han had a deep-seated sense of fear toward any items that they were tasked with finding inside the haunted house. He also knew that around the end of the visitation, all the monsters inside the scenario would go on a rampage, and they would first target the person who held the quest items.

The reason he kept Qin Guang around, to put it more plainly, was because he wanted to make Qin Guang's 'death' more valuable. Walking to the entrance of Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2, Zuo Han signaled for Qin Guang to walk ahead.

"The rag doll head that you are holding is a kind of protective talisman. As long as you are holding it, you will not be attacked by the monsters in the black fog."

Whether it could protect the bearers from the attacks of the monsters in the black fog or not, Zuo Han did not know, but he had indeed done an experiment with it. The rag doll's head truly could disperse the black fog. Qin Guang walked at the front of the group with some skepticism. But strangely enough, he did notice the black fog moving away from him.

The black fog appears to be afraid of the rag doll's head. Why would a phenomenon like that be the case? This scenario is called ghost fetus. Could the rag doll be the ghost fetus itself? Zuo Han started to analyze the scenario using his past experience. The haunted house boss is a master of psychology. The way he knows how to utilize and evoke the fear in people's hearts is masterful. I cannot use a normal person's perspective to try to predict and assess Boss Chen's way of thinking.

Zuo Han touched the tip of his nose while he kept his gaze glued to the head of the rag doll.

The quest for this tour is to find all the body parts of the rag doll. If the rag doll really is the ghost fetus, if we do manage to find all the body parts of the rag doll, doesn't that mean the visitors will have voluntarily collected and summoned the scariest monster inside this scenario?

When he reached this conclusion, Zuo Han felt a chill run up the back of his spine. Boss Chen wants the visitors to personally release the demon in this scenario with their own hands!

He had known that it was impossible to clear the scenario from the very beginning. The thought of what he assumed Boss Chen intended to do chilled him to his core. The fear that this scenario brought him had far surpassed the fear that he had experienced in the other scenarios. And the worst thing was, he knew full well that this was not even the scariest part of the ghost fetus yet. They were in for a bigger and scarier surprise.

The difficulty of a four-star scenario is truly out of this world. This time, I will treat this as a scouting journey. I already know the location of one of the hidden pathways. That is a great discovery already. It will make the next visit so much easier.

Zuo Han and the other visitors walked out from Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2. With the rag doll's head as protection, they were not attacked by the strange things floating in the black fog and successfully reached the entrance of Block 1.

“Block 2 is filled with strange sickrooms as if the whole building is meant to house some mad individuals. Is it possible that this whole residential area is a private mental asylum?”

The background story of the ghost fetus was very obscure. Zuo Han could only conduct his analysis through the clues that he had found. Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2 actually had many clues hidden inside, but the thing that confused Zuo Han was that the clues they had found could not be linked into a complete and reasonable chain of events.

This was not entirely Zuo Han's fault. To not expose the secrets between the ghost fetus and the cursed hospital, Chen Ge had purposely taken away some of the important clues that were originally present inside the replicated scenario. What the visitors could see were the things that Chen Ge allowed them to see. But just through these scraps of clues, Zuo Han and Mr. Wang still managed to hypothesize certain things.

Assuming that Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2 is a mental asylum, it housed some very strange patients, but even stranger than that is the fact that the doctors there did not seem like they wanted to treat their patients at all. If anything, there was evidence that they had been trying to aggravate their conditions, pushing them deeper into the abyss of madness and despair. The hidden scenario is the core of this scenario. The appearance of this private mental asylum at this place proves that this locale is very important to the ghost fetus. Our main character of this scenario perhaps completed its final transformation here.

If the rag doll is the ghost fetus, then finding all of its missing parts will be akin to summoning it. In that case, the difficulty of the scenario will increase to an impossible level. That is definitely not the best way to solve this scenario!

Zuo Han's eyes subconsciously glanced toward the rag doll's head, and he noticed that the eyeball inside the head appeared to be looking back at him as well. His heart suddenly started to race. Zuo Han managed to discern a trace of melancholy and loneliness in the rag doll's eyes.

Finding all the parts of the rag doll and bringing it out of the scenario is certainly a suicidal mission. The real way to clear this mission is perhaps to reform the rag doll and help it achieve salvation.

Zuo Han's brain was spinning wildly, and many thoughts were colliding in his mind.

Mr. Wang valued Zuo Han greatly, so he moved over to ask softly, "What are you thinking about?"

Zuo Han silently whispered his own analysis to his lecturer. The latter listened to everything and kept silent for a long time. The only thing he did was slow down his pace, until they were further away from Qin Guang. Then, Mr. Wang whispered back, "Zuo Han, do you know what my biggest impression of this tour is?"

"What is it?"

"The sense of authenticity." Mr. Wang's expression turned very serious. "Everything feels so real. I have been a part of the investigations of many heavy crimes. The feeling that this place gives me is similar to when I was at actual crime scenes."

"You suspect there has been an actual murder committed here?" Zuo Han was very clever. Once Mr. Wang voiced his opinion, he was able to grasp his lecturer's thoughts almost immediately.

"Correct, and there must have been more than one murder." Mr. Wang took a deep breath. "The set decoration of this place and the words left behind by the innocent victims, they are all dripping with a bloody sense of authenticity. This is something that you would not have experienced unless you have been to the front line before."

"But if there have been so many murders committed here, Boss Chen's haunted house would have been closed a long time ago. From how I see it, he should have copied the murders that he had helped solve perfectly inside his haunted house, and with some amazing artistic skill, he has achieved this current environment that we are in.”

“Hopefully, I am only overthinking it.” Mr. Wang walked at the back of the group. He rarely had the chance to engage with his students in this kind of situation.

“Sir, if you are really that interested in this place, we can come over for another visit in the future.” Zuo Han wanted to lighten the atmosphere. He was afraid that Mr. Wang might be reminded of the bad things from the past.

“I am afraid there won’t be a chance for that anymore. Soon, I will need to go to Xin Hai.”

“You still cannot let go of that case?”

“Zuo Han, do you know what the most important thing for a forensic doctor is?”

“Find clues to help decide the cause of death from the science of pathology and provide law enforcement with the most effective support through the construction of a strong evidence chain.”

“You are right and also wrong.” Mr. Wang pointed lightly at his heart, but he did not elaborate. Zuo Han did not press for details either, but he did memorize the words ‘Xin Hai’. If possible, he wanted to give his lecturer a hand. The remaining four visitors entered Jiu Hong Apartments Block 1. The dark corridors were permeated with a light stench. Every house had a bowl of white rice before the door, and a pair of chopsticks were stuck vertically inside the bowls of rice.

“Before we explore this scenario, I need to warn all of you. We are two thirds into the visitation hour. Soon, the scenario will welcome its third stage, and all the ghosts in this scenario will go berserk, so we’d better be mentally prepared for it.”

After saying that, Zuo Han led the others into the building. Soon after they had gone in, the blood rain rinsed the outside of the building. In the black fog, many red shadows started to appear.

The visitors inside the building had not realized those anomalies. Qin Guang, who was hugging the rag doll’s head, was walking at the front of the group. After he realized that the head could chase away the black fog, he had been treating it as a treasure, hugging it tightly against his chest.

This time, I am quite lucky to have run into a group of experienced players who are willing to take me with them, but I wonder how things are over there with CEO Ma.

He opened one door after another, and no accidents happened. That caused Qin Guang's courage to grow. When he came to the third floor, a strange noise came from the first floor. It sounded like someone had accidentally kicked over the bowls of rice that were left in front of the rooms.

Chapter 1133 - Truly, the Older the Ginger, the Spicier They Are! 3 in 1

1133 Truly, the Older the Ginger, the Spicier They Are! 3 in 1

“Did you guys hear some strange noise?” Qin Guang held the rag doll’s head and stood guardedly at the door like some kind of protective talisman. The mission that Zuo Han had given him was to stay as a guard at the door because the rag doll’s head that he was holding could chase away the black fog and prevent the ghosts from getting too close to them. This excuse had successfully convinced Qin Guang. Earlier, when they were walking through the black fog, he had realized that the rag doll’s head indeed had that function. Now, if anyone else asked him to hand over the rag doll’s head, he would not surrender it easily.

“Just stay outside the door and do not move randomly away. If you see any ghosts coming, yell to warn us.” Zuo Han and the other people from Jiujiang Medical University were searching inside the room. The real reason he wanted Qin Guang to stand outside the room was because he wanted to use Qin Guang as bait to distract the ghosts and monsters so that when the real threat arrived, their main target would be Qin Guang.

“Okay.” Just as Qin Guang answered, he heard that strange noise again. The noise came from the bottom floor. Slowing turning his head, Qin Guang stared at the mouth of the staircase. The flaking walls had white calligraphy of the word ‘bliss’ inverted on them. The floor was littered with banknotes, and a bowl of white rice were placed before each room. This whole building felt like a mass grave, and it was the home for a whole building of dead people.

...

“Everything is fine. Everything is fine. I am just visiting a haunted house. I have been to real haunted locations before. There is no reason for me to be afraid of these fake things, right?” Qin Guang tried his best to console himself. But once the emotion of fear appeared, it would grow and spread like wild grass. The more he tried to convince himself, the more his brain would move toward that direction that he had been trying to avoid. Qin Guang could not stop his eyes from wandering to the mouth of the staircase. Since no one had passed by that place for a long time, the sound-controlled lights at the corner of the staircase went off on their own, and the whole corridor sank into darkness.

“Tsk... This is quite scary...” Sucking in a cold breath, Qin Guang curled voluntarily backward. For some reason, he had a very bad feeling in his heart. It was as if his natural instincts were urging him to leave this dangerous place.

Qin Guang turned around to ask Zuo Han, “How much longer do you guys need to search inside there?”

The latter’s answer floated out from the bedroom. “We are almost done.”

After getting the reply, Qin Guang felt more comforted. His current condition was like a child who did not dare sleep on his own. After a fixed period of time, he would call out to see if he would get any response from his parents to check and see whether his parents had left him alone in the bedroom or not. Once his heart returned to his stomach, a faded cold light suddenly shone on his face, and the sound-controlled lights at the corner of the staircase suddenly switched on.

“Someone has gone past the staircase? But I did not see or hear anyone?” He stared fixatedly at the corner of the stairs, so he did not notice the blood that had started to leak out from the gap in the wall. However, he did notice that the black fog was slowly spreading inside the corridor.

“The black fog has entered the building?” His heart started to race. It appeared like someone was moving inside the fog. Training his focus, Qin Guang stared directly at the corner of the staircase. Just as he blinked, a child’s face suddenly poked out from the corner of the stairs!

“What the f*ck!” Holding the rag doll’s head, Qin Guang stumbled back in panic, causing his body to knock into the room door.

“What is going on?” Zuo Han and He San quickly ran over when they heard the commotion.

“There was a child at the corner! He appears to be tailing us!” Qin Guang hugged the rag doll’s head tightly as his eyes kept staring at the mouth of the stairs.

He San summoned his courage to move to the mouth of the stairs. He could not see the aforementioned child. “Is it possible that you were hallucinating?”

“He is not lying. It is true that someone was inside the stairwell earlier.” Zuo Han pointed at the voice-controlled lights. “The lights inside the stairwell are on. That means that someone has indeed been here. We need to pick up our pace. It looks like Boss Chen is not going to give us much more time.”

Zuo Han had personally experienced how scary it would be when the ghosts of the entire scenario went on a rampage. That was a memory that he did not wish to revisit.

“Go to the next room now, hurry!” Zuo Han had conspicuously picked up speed. Qin Guang did not dare stay outside the room alone, so the four of them entered the room together to search for any possible clues.

“The time is running out.” Zuo Han was sweating profusely, and there was an unbridled anxiety in his eyes. Next to him, Mr. Wang noticed this emotion appearing in Zuo Han for the first time. Clearing the scenario was almost impossible; Zuo Han was already starting to consider how to escape. Of the team of four, only He San and Qin Guang were still trying their best to search for clues.

“I’ve noticed something strange. Whenever we come across a family with a child, they will ultimately get into some kind of tragedy.” He San found a family portrait on the windowsill. The adults’ faces had been preserved, but the child’s face had been scratched away. “There appears to be a ghost that desperately wishes for the love of a family inside this building. He is envious of those families with happiness and bliss. The happier the family is, the worse their ending will be.”

“Your analysis is a bit too one-sided. If you ask me, I think the ghost we are dealing with is rather innocent. Even if he represents evil, it is a seed of evil, the kind that is just growing.” Zuo Han stared at the picture He San was holding. “Just like how some children like to go tear off the wings of dragonflies or sneak up to stray cats and dogs to beat them, yes, their actions are reprehensible, but that also explains at the same time that they have not been given correct guidance in their lives.” Zuo Han placed the family portrait where it was found. “Do you guys still remember Jiu Hong Apartments Block 2? The building that looked like a private mental asylum?”

“Senior, why would you suddenly bring up that place? The styles of these two buildings are completely different. Block 2 is more like a mental hospital while Block 1 is a normal residential building.” He San was rather confused.

“Think back closely to what I said earlier. The ghost inside this building is a monster that has not achieved a mature self-construct. If he runs into the correct people, perhaps he might repent and turn into a good ghost. But the despairing truth is that the sub scenario that we visited earlier was a mental asylum. He was not only not given the correct treatment, he was misguided by these people down a deeper path of darkness.” Zuo Han had finally figured out the connection between the two buildings. “Based on my analysis, there should be a part of the rag doll’s body inside each building in this hidden scenario. In the process of finding all of its body parts, we will have to experience the whole life story of the rag doll and watch how he drops into the dark abyss step by step and becomes the version of himself that he hates the most.”

“We have just found the head. Based on what you’re saying, this means we still need to go to another four buildings?” Qin Guang felt slammed by a fist of despair.

“The haunted house would not have given us a mission that we cannot complete. Therefore, after giving it some thought, I believe the true mission of this scenario is not to find all the body parts of the rag doll and bring them out but to experience the life story of the rag doll ourselves and figure out a way to reform him, help him rebuild a correct self-construct, or at least make him see kindness enough to let the rest of us go,” Zuo Han said confidently.

“The mission is so positive and inspirational?” Qin Guang had trouble accepting a statement like that. Of course, this was not the man’s fault. After all, a haunted house always gave people the first impression of being a scary place, especially Chen Ge’s haunted house. It was meant to reach into the depths of your fear. Who would have expected such a ‘ghastly appearance’ to hide such a warm and gentle core?

“The rag doll’s body parts can chase away the black fog. The haunted house boss wanted us to find the body parts for two reasons. One, it forces us to experience the previous life of that ghost, and two, the body parts themselves are a kind of protection for us, aiding us in completing our mission. The boss of this haunted house is very brilliant. Every mission that he arranges has a deeper meaning behind it.”

Once he heard Zuo Han say that, Qin Guang’s hands that held the rag doll’s head curled around it even harder. He did not realize that Zuo Han’s words were a mixture of truth and falsehood. Zuo Han purposely let slip this information so that Qin Guang would listen to their orders more obediently and more willingly.

There were not that many visitors left. Therefore, Zuo Han started to value Qin Guang even more. If this was another moment in time, he would not even have thought of communicating with Qin Guang because they were completely different individuals. It was clear that Zuo Han was not as active as before during the search for clues. Mr. Wang’s attention though was more placed on his observation of Zuo Han. Of the team of four, only He San and Qin Guang were seriously looking for clues inside the haunted house.

Entering the bedroom, Qin Guang, who was hugging the rag doll’s head, got close to the bed. He noticed that there was a layer of something black on the bedsheets. It looked like some kind of ointment.

“What is this?”

He pulled back the mosquito net to look inside it. Amid the black material, there was an outline of a living person. The empty space still had some very small characters written on the bedsheet. Qin Guang stepped onto the bed with his shoes on. He squatted down on an empty spot not polluted by the black material, took out his phone, and aimed the light at the bedsheet.

“Today, it returned again. It stood at the door. I have no idea what it was up to. It appears to wish to enter the room. It looked like my child who has passed away, or at least, it looked familiar from behind. My family saw it as well. I am not hallucinating; it really exists. Whose family does the child belong to? How come it appears at the corridor whenever midnight falls?”

Just reading the words left on the bedsheet, Qin Guang felt the hairs all over his body stand up on end. “There is a ghost child living inside this building!”

As he continued to read, Qin Guang felt a chilling presence getting stuck in his throat, like he had just swallowed a large ice cube that refused to melt. He was focused on reading the messages when the shadow that was formed from the light of his phone suddenly flickered. Qin Guang turned back to look. He San, who was closest to him, was standing at the door of the bedroom, but he did not appear to be interested in entering.

“It was not that medical student. I was squatting here and have not moved. Could it be a trick of the mind?” Qin Guang did not dare stay too long inside the bedroom. He straightened up, and his forehead knocked into the top of the mosquito net. It buzzed with pain. He reached out to scratch his head and subconsciously lifted his neck to look. At that moment, there were many faces leaning on the mosquito net above his head!

The pale faces were all imprinted on the outside of the mosquito net. The clear facial features started to sink inward. All the faces were all staring at him! The scariest thing was that he had no idea how long they had been staring at him!

“Argh!” Qin Guang collapsed on the ground. Footprints started to appear on the strange black material. It felt as if the ghosts that were previously outside the mosquito net had crawled inside it.

“Help! Help me!” Hugging the rag doll’s head, Qin Guang was like a bull gone berserk as he rolled off from the edge of the bed. His body was entangled inside the mosquito net, so when he fell, he yanked off the net that was fixed to the ceiling. He screamed madly as he rushed toward the bedroom door. He San was frightened by the sudden scream from Qin Guang. When he recovered himself, he saw Qin Guang charging at him like a crazy bull. The two tumbled to the ground. Qin Guang, who was entrapped inside the mosquito net, rolled on the ground. He did not seem to have recovered from the sting of fear.

“Quiet down!” Zuo Han had no idea what Qin Guang had seen, but from Qin Guang’s over the top reaction, he knew that the last stage of the ghost fetus scenario had already started!

Since Qin Guang was holding the mission item, he was the first one to be ‘attacked’. Zuo Han signaled toward Mr. Wang, and the two of them worked together to extricate Qin Guang from the mosquito net.

“There were ghosts! I saw many ghosts! They were inside the mosquito net!” Qin Guang screamed loudly. His face was pale, and he was so frightened that his lips were purple. “I have experienced supernatural events before, and this was even more intense than last time. I am not lying to you! This place is really haunted!”

“I cannot be sure whether ghosts exists in this world, but I know that most of the time, ghosts only apply some kind of psychological signal on their victims, so what you need to do now is take deep breaths and try to stand up with the rest of us.” Mr. Wang’s voice was commanding and assuring; his words slowly helped Qin Guang calm down.

“The rag doll’s body part is not inside this room. Let’s prepare to leave.” Compared to Mr. Wang, Zuo Han was a much colder in person. He was the first to leave the room and enter the corridor. The black fog had already shrouded the entire corridor. There were many children’s bloody handprints that appeared on the walls, and it was worth noting that these bloody handprints were still wet as if the children had just crawled over the wall earlier when they were searching inside the room.

“It is the same scenario, but it gives off a completely different feeling from when I first entered it.” Mr. Wang’s brows were creased together. “Honestly, some of the crime scenes that I have been to were not as scary as this place.”

“The scarier stuff is waiting for us.” Zuo Han dragged Qin Guang to his side. “Currently, we are inside the hidden scenario, or in other words, the last scenario of this whole visit. The exit should be at the deepest part of this scenario. If we are separated from each other, try to run toward the deepest part of this scenario. Do you understand?”

“Understood.” Qin Guang felt that Zuo Han was being very righteous and fair toward him. He shared all of his information with him and did not purposely hide anything from him.

“Since you are the one holding the rag doll’s head, you have to be especially careful. Whether or not we will be able to escape from this place is heavily dependent on you.” Zuo Han still had some other words to give Qin Guang when another change occurred in the corridor. The black fog suddenly thickened, and the sound of high heels clacking echoed inside the building.

“Someone is coming! It’s coming from the lower floor!” Zuo Han perked up both of his ears. All the buildings in the ghost fetus scenario were inverted compared to the actual world behind the door. The first floor was closest to the ground, and the fifth floor was at the most bottom level of the building. The sound of high heels clicking against the ground directly exploded in their minds. Zuo Han shared a look with He San. They were reminded of another legend inside Chen Ge’s haunted house. There was a scary Red Specter who would appear randomly inside the haunted house. No one knew what she looked like, but before everyone fainted, they could clearly remember hearing high heels clicking against the floor.

“We need to retrace our steps! We have to abandon this building! We need to leave immediately!” Zuo Han’s tone turned urgent. The four of them immediately rushed as fast as they could out of the building. The monsters in the black fog appeared to have realized that they had been discovered, so they did not try to hide their presence anymore. The sound of crying and laughing appeared at the same time, doors were all pushed open, the banknotes on the ground were lifted off the ground by an unknown draft, and strange, eerie background music rang inside the cramped corridor. The four visitors raced up the stairs. Inside the black fog, at the corner of the staircase, several red shadows slowly appeared.

“What are those?” Zuo Han could feel his body start to involuntarily shake. He did not even know why he was so overwhelmed by fear. The sound of footsteps behind him got closer and closer, and the red shadows before them became clearer and clearer. Blood rain fell on their faces. A face with her lips sewn together by threads was the first to appear before the visitors.

“Have you seen my child?” Blood rain slid down the red raincoat. Before she finished, another large, rotund man in a red shirt walked out from beside her. The man was dragging a large cleaver in his left hand and dragging an unconscious ‘dead body’ covered in fresh blood in his right.

“Fu Bole?” Seeing Fu Bole, who had turned into a ‘prop’ of the haunted house, Qin Guang’s eyeballs almost fell out from their sockets. His heart skipped a beat, and he almost keeled over. Just as these two Red Specters appeared, a child’s giggling appeared from above the visitors. Raising their heads to look, a child covered in fresh blood was crawling on the ceiling, dragging a whole lot of doll parts behind him!

“Why are you leaving so soon? Stay and play with me!” Blood fell rightly on Qin Guang’s face. He was standing at the front, and at that moment, the three Red Specters were surrounding him. His legs were weakening. Qin Guang did not know what to do.

The footsteps coming from the underground finally arrived. A pair of red high heels floated out from the black fog. She appeared to be the queen of the curse, followed by an entourage of strange monsters.

“Behind you! Behind you!” Qin Guang shouted. The high heels were only several steps behind Zuo Han. They were already in a deep quandary. Everyone was on the brink of collapse.

“Behind me?” Zuo Han’s reflexes appeared to have slowed down. It was as if he had just realized something, and he turned to look behind him. Through the black fog, Zuo Han happened to connect with the pair of eyes that were filled with curses. His heart squeezed. Even though he was already mentally prepared, Zuo Han still felt his scalp go numb. But the biggest difference between him and the normal visitors was that he had a superhuman determination. His brain worked quickly, and Zuo Han came up with a solution almost instantly.

When a person receives a horror more than their normal threshold, they will enter temporary shut down, and their body will react accordingly. When a normal person receives overwhelming shock, the first problem will arise with their circulation system. Their coronary artery will shrink, causing the loss of blood flow to the rest of their body, which leads to heart palpitations, high blood pressure, lack of breath, heart agitation, and difficulty of breathing.

Related knowledge flashed across his mind, Zuo Han grabbed his chest, and like a landed fish, his pupils rolled back in his head, and his body fell like a fallen tree. This was an unresolvable problem, so Zuo Han decided to fake passing out. This was a plan that he had come up with from the beginning. He purposely had Qin Guang hold the rag doll’s head to distract the actors and told Qin Guang to run toward the deepest part of the scenario. After Qin Guang had led everyone away, he would retrace his steps and leave from the hidden pathway.

His body was careening backward. Before Zuo Han fell, he suddenly heard a heavy thud beside him!

His eyelids flickered slightly open, and Zuo Han realized that Mr. Wang had already ‘fainted’!

His face was unnaturally red, and his expression was one of pure pain, and before he fainted, he even used his hands to press against his brain.

When a person is in shock, their internal hormones will go out of balance. The symptoms of this include a red rash on the face following the rise in body temperature and blood pressure. At the same time, shock will trigger a reaction in the human being's nervous system. The symptoms include dizziness and headaches, and a small percentage of people will even react with projectile vomiting...

From a medical perspective, Mr. Wang's fake fainting was obviously more professional!

Truly, the older the ginger, the spicier they are!

When Zuo Han and Mr. Wang fainted at the same time, He San caught up to the idea and reacted almost instantly. But just as his hand went to clutch his chest, before he could fall, he felt a pull on his arm. "Quick, let's go! This is our chance!"

"What the... Let go!"

After the red high heels showed up, the three Red Specters had obviously slowed down. They seemed to be afraid of the current red high heels. Qin Guang used this opportunity and forcibly yanked He San through the three stunned Red Specters. The two raced like their lives depended on it. The three Red Specters and red high heels all then gave chase after them, running out of the building!

Chapter 1134 - In That Moment, I Believe I Saw My Lecturer 2 in 1

Chapter 1134 In That Moment, I Believe I Saw My Lecturer 2 in 1

After the few Red Specters left, the black fog in the building not only did not disperse, if anything, it only thickened further. The scary laughter of children echoed in the corridors, and countless monsters weaved from curses crawled on the walls. Without the presence of the red high heels, this scenario appeared to be even scarier than before.

“Once those Red Specters show up, the only thing left for us to do is clean up.” A woman wearing a flower-patterned dress walked over. There were two men following beside her. One of them looked to be in his forties, and he always had a smile ready for those around him. “Miss Dress, Mr. Wood, looks like you two will also have the chance to experience the joy of this job.”

“We are given the chance to scare the visitors, and from that, we will be able to gain negative emotions from them. It helps us in the process and will give them an experience that they will never forget. The boss is really a genius; only a genius could come up with a brilliant idea like that.” Miss Dress, who was in the flower-patterned dress, was very impressed by Chen Ge.

...

“There are many other brilliant qualities about our boss, but the most important thing is that he treats us with sincerity, and he really sees us as one of his family.” The middle-aged man walked to Zuo Han’s side. “Whenever a new scenario is open to the public, there will be a group of visitors that serve as the first sacrifice. I actually have quite a good impression of these students from the Jiujiang Medical University. What can I say? They have just come at the wrong time.”

“Brother Zhou, is it really okay for us to scare the visitors like this. I am afraid that something will really happen to them.” The rather numb Mr. Wood turned to look the two ‘fainted’ visitors, and he was earnestly feeling pity toward them.

“They will be fine. To prevent this kind of problem from happening, the haunted house has the most professional medical unit, and all the fainted visitors get sent over for inspection before they are sent out of the haunted house,” the middle-aged man who was referred to as Brother Zhou said proudly.

“We even have a professional medical team at this haunted house?”

“Yes, they reside in the underground morgue. We will be going there now.” The medical unit was based in the underground morgue. This sentence was rather contradictory, but since Miss Dress and Mr. Wood were both new employees at the haunted house, they did not press for more details. The three employees worked together to pick up the two ‘fainted’ visitors. After they took the visitors out of the apartments, there were carts moved over from the underground morgue waiting for them outside the apartment building along with the other workers. All the workers appeared to be very familiar with this process. They adroitly moved the ‘fainted’ visitors onto the carts and moved to the fringe of the ghost fetus scenario.

“This time, the number of fainted visitors is rather high, so the group of doctors have personally come from the underground morgue.” With the directions from Brother Zhou, the two ‘fainted’ visitors were sent into one of the buildings.

“Be careful over there. Do not accidentally bump their heads.” The haunted house workers pushed open a wooden door. There were no lights in the room, but once they entered it, the surrounding temperature dropped instantly as if they had entered a fridge.

“Doctor Wei, would you mind holding back your presence? You’re going to give the visitors a cold.” Brother Zhou reminded the good doctor softly.

“More students from Jiujiang Medical University?” The old man’s voice came out from inside the room. Hearing this voice, Ol’ Zhou had a better smile on his face. The other haunted house workers were reacting normally, but one of the fainted visitors started to shudder and shake.

“This time, we not only have a student from Jiujiang Medical University, we also have a lecturer from the university.” Brother Zhou pointed at the fainted visitors and then took a step back.

“A lecturer? What is going on? Even a lecturer has abandoned their job to come and do this nonsense?” Doctor Wei in the white lab coat and three other doctors walked out from inside the room. The four pairs of eyes skipped over Zuo Han, and they all focused on Mr. Wang.

“Wang Qinzhi?” When he saw Mr. Wang, the name practically fell out of Doctor Wei’s lips. Just as he said that name, the fainted visitor’s body shook violently. The always stern and severe Mr. Wang flipped open his eyes. When he saw Doctor Wei, his eyes reddened almost instantly, and he croaked out with melancholy and shook. “Sir?”

“Sir’s sir?” Zuo Han, who was still pretending to be unconscious, slightly opened his eyes. He was too curious about this development. Being recognized by his own student, Doctor Wei’s original anger halved. The old man did not say anything for a long time. Seeing Mr. Wang crawl down from the cart, Doctor Wei said, “You have the wrong person.”

He turned around and disappeared into the room.

“Sir!” Mr. Wang chased after Doctor Wei. He knew that Doctor Wei was not of this world anymore. After all, he had personally sent his dear teacher away, but now he had encountered his respected teacher again inside the haunted house. The people from the past reappeared before him. Mr. Wang did not have any fear in his heart. He merely wanted to chase after Doctor Wei. The overly long time he had spent faking his unconsciousness made his legs a bit numb. Just as Mr. Wang stood up, his arms were held back by others.

“Let me go!” He struggled as he yelled the name of his lecturer. At that moment, he was acting like a child calling after his parent.

“No wonder he is a lecturer at a respected university. His acting is so good that he managed to trick all the ghosts.” Mr. Wood grabbed Mr. Wang while Ol’ Zhou’s hands lightly pressed on Mr. Wang’s head. He did not use much force, but Mr. Wang’s body slowly crumbled to the ground. Peace returned to the room.

After Mr. Wang had really fainted, Doctor Wei walked out from inside the room. The old man had a conflicted expression. He squatted before Mr. Wang and studied him for a long time. “Of all my students, he is the most like me. In fact, he is even more serious and stubborn than I am. You’d better find a way to make him lose this part of his memory, or he will spend the rest of his life visiting this haunted house until he finds out the truth.”

“Are you sure you want to do that? You are his respected teacher. This would be a very good memory for him to have as a keepsake.” Ol’ Zhou still thought that it was better to ask for a second opinion.

“Keep what sake? When I was alive, I did everything that I could. I have already taught them everything that I know, so I have no regrets.” Doctor Wei waved his hands. “The living should look forward. It is understandable to be melancholic for a while, but drowning in the sorrow of the past will only drag them back.”

“Okay, then I will go and get Zhang Yi.” Ol’ Zhou and another employee went to summon Zhang Yi while Doctor Wei’s eyes slowly moved away from Mr. Wang to look at Zuo Han. He shook his head lightly. “You perhaps might not know this, but this is actually the third time you’ve pretended to faint before us.”

Zuo Han knew perfectly well that the elder’s words were meant for him. His eyelids were shuddering. He resisted the great fear that was growing in his heart and forced himself to keep his eyes closed. Doctor Wei looked at Zuo Han’s youthful and energetic face, and he slowly reached out to touch his head.

“You are the most talented child that I have ever encountered. You have all the qualities to be a very good forensic doctor. There is nothing more that I can teach you. I only hope that you will remember this—always insist on the truth. The dead cannot speak, so we forensic doctors have to help them voice their regrets.” The old man was suddenly reminded of Chen Ge. “Now that I think about it, that is also exactly what Boss Chen is doing. Could it be that the entwined interaction between the haunted house and Jiujiang Medical University was already written in the stars?”

New Century Park’s haunted house had a very good relationship with Jiujiang Medical University. That was a well-known truth. Their relationship was so good that there were people online who suspected that Chen Ge’s haunted house hired the students from the university to act as his ‘ghosts’.

“Similarly, we are all helping the dead who can’t speak seek their justice. Perhaps this is why both parties can understand each other so well.” Doctor Wei did not use much force on his palm, but Zuo Han felt a chill on the back of his neck, and he slowly lost consciousness. Making a living person faint without them realizing it was not that difficult for a ghost. At Chen Ge’s request, this had already become a skill that all the workers at the haunted house had mastered before they started working.

Moments later, Ol’ Zhou returned with Zhang Yi, and the latter started to work on hiding parts of the visitors’ memory.

...

“Let me go! Please let me go!” He San struggled as hard as he could, but probably due to highly strung nerves, Qin Guang only had one thought in mind, and that was to run. He did not hear He San’s pleas at all. The two broke through the barrier formed by the Red Specters and ran out of Jiu Hong Apartments Block 1. The whole hidden scenario was shrouded in black fog. They could not tell the direction at all. Qin Guang and He San did not dare stop. They did not even have a chance to take a breath before they took off into the black fog again.

Zuo Han said that the exit is at the deepest part of the scenario! Now that I have the rag doll’s head, the ghosts do not dare get close to me. If I am truly surrounded, I can sacrifice this student from the university and use him to distract the ghosts so that I can escape.

Qin Guang was racing like his life depended on it. He felt like he still had a chance of escaping.

“Hey! Watch where you’re going! It’s pointless to just barrel aimlessly in here!” He San yelled urgently, but Qin Guang was already beyond hearing any advice. This popular host who had left the hospital once again found his mental state at the edge of a breakdown. He did not wish to be sent back to the hospital just two days after he left it. When a person was under the great pressure, their inner potential would be invoked. Their adrenaline level rose, greatly improving their physical capability. Qin Guang and He San, both of whom did not like to do sports that much normally, somehow fought their way through the fog with the Red Specters chasing after them.

Another building appeared before them—Jin Hwa Apartments Block A.

“We’re at a dead end!”

“There is no way we are going into that building! If we are surrounded inside a room, then it will be over for us!” He San raised his voice to warn Qin Guang.

He had just said that when he saw a figure walk out from the building. Both parties were startled when they saw each other, and it was Qin Guang who was the first to recover. “You are... Xiao Sun?”

“Oh my, there are other survivors!” Sun Xiaojun was very surprised. He wanted to say something else when he suddenly felt the boiling fury in the black fog. A few Red Specters materialized in the black fog, and this army had stunned even this haunted house employee. “What the... What have you two done?”

Without saying anything, Xiao Sun turned back and ran, crawling back into Jin Hwa Apartments Block A. When creatures ran into danger, they would display a sheep effect. Wherever the leading sheep went, the group of sheep would follow. Only Qin Guang saw Xiao Sun run back into the building. He dragged He San and chased after him. The three kept running down the stairs. The building appeared like it led directly to hell. They passed one floor after another, but they still had not reached the end. He San’s mind was filled with despair, but there was no way back. All he could do was keep following Xiao Sun and Qin Guang down this road to hell.

“Brother Sun, where are you leading us?” Qin Quang slowly realized that something was wrong. This staircase kept on going downward like it had no ending.

“I have no idea either. Also, why are you two following me?” Sun Xiaojun was just a baleful Specter; he was also afraid of Red Specters, especially after he had accidentally offended one of them. So, just like that, two visitors found themselves chasing a ghost down to the bottom floor of Jin Hwa Apartments Block A. Along the way, they did not dare stop because there were too many abnormal ‘neighbors’ living in this building, and the way they looked at the visitors was like they wanted to eat them alive. The blood trickled down the banister and the walls. The black fog surged down the stairs, and the three visitors had nowhere else to run.

“What do we do now? We have nowhere else to go!”

“I already told you we should not go inside the building! You guys are too stubborn to listen to me!”

“Get into the room! Quick! Go and hide! The tour is almost over anyway!”

The three visitors pushed open a random room. They held their noses and mouths as they went hiding inside.

“What is it?” After closing the door, He San’s group realized that they found themselves inside a room with no furniture but multiple sets of old, boxy television sets. The television sets were placed together, and just the sight of them made one feel quite pressed.

"This feels so weird." The room suddenly became very quiet, and the footsteps outside the corridor disappeared. It was as if the room that they were in was forgotten by time. The air froze, and the sound of static appeared. The television that was placed right in the middle suddenly came on. The faded light fell on the three visitors' faces. The black and white static flickered, and one could see a black shadow that was slowly walking toward them. When the screen returned to normal, a child's face was showing on the screen. The child's gaze appeared to pass through the screen and stare directly at the three visitors.

His face slowly opened into a smile as his body slowly retreated. Then, the scenario that appeared on the screen shocked everyone. The three visitors appeared on the screen, and at that moment, the child was sitting among them!

"He's right here!" Qin Guang pointed at the empty space before him. There was nothing there, but the television was clearly showing a child standing there.

"It should be some kind of reflection." Before He San could finish, all the televisions got switched on at the same time. The static sound tortured the nerves of the visitors. After the screens stabilized, the three visitors saw something scary that would scar them for life!

Each television was broadcasting extremely gory and scary images, and these images were taken inside the haunted house. Some of main characters shown were their once teammates. It was so suffocatingly real, but that was not the scariest part!

It was as if all the killers, ghosts, and Red Specters had made a promise, they all seemed to notice that someone was watching them at the same time. Their bloody heads slowly turned around at the same time, and the crazed eyes stared at the three visitors beyond the screen!

The eyes filled with blood, madness, and sadism stared right at the visitors. The expressions of the ghosts and murderers slowly changed. It was as if they had found new prey. They dragged their weapons of choice and slowly walked toward the screens!

They got closer and closer to the screens. The scary faces stuck to the screens. Just as the three visitors were about to faint from shock, the television sets in the room suddenly all got turned off. The light all disappeared from the room, and the three visitors collapsed to the ground. They gasped heavily for air like they had just been given a second lease on life. But before they could recover, the television sets all turned on again, but this time, only the victims were left on screens. The killers and ghosts had disappeared!

“Where... have they gone?” He San stammered.

At that moment, knocking came from behind them!

Dong dong dong!

The three visitors instantly scurried away from the room door. Their faces were pale; none of them dared open the door. The knocking became more insistent, and the door trembled. Several seconds later, the door suddenly opened on its own. There was nothing outside the door, but the light in the room suddenly darkened as if the light from the screens was being blocked by something. He San, who was closest to the television sets, turned back to look, and his gaze was directly glued to the television screens.

All the screens had changed. They all turned to show this room that they were in. Other than the three visitors, the room was incredibly crowded, filled to the brim with different kinds of people. Blood dripped until the screens were dyed red. One figure after another appeared in the room, and the image broadcast on the television sets was slowly turning into reality.

Qin Guang was so scared that he had already fainted. Before He San lost consciousness, somehow, the scenario from back when he first visited this haunted house crossed his mind.

“If only I hadn’t tried to be so cheap that afternoon and used that theme park coupon that had almost expired...”

Chapter 1135 - Xin Hai Branch

Chapter 1135 Xin Hai Branch

The dead body carts' wheels rolled across the ground. Ol' Zhou hummed a merry tune and happily sent the carts of visitors out of the underground scenario. The longer he worked at Boss Chen's haunted house, the more Ol' Zhou enjoyed this occupation. He was glad that Chen Ge had decided to take the few of them with him when he completed his mission at the old apartment. Now, Ol' Bai had become a Red Specter, Duan Yue had walked out from the mist of her depression, and even the most despondent Yan Dalian had accomplished his biggest dream. All this was possible due to Chen Ge.

Turning back to look at Chen Ge, who was standing amid the group of Red Specters, Ol' Zhou could not hide the smile that appeared on his face.

"I have already found out everything that happened. The reason this tragedy has occurred this time is because of me. I gravely underestimated your power." Chen Ge and several Red Specters surrounded Xiao Sun in the middle.

...

Brother Sun looked as sad as anything. His watering eyes were upturned. "Boss, I know my mistake already. Can you please give me a chance to redeem myself?"

"Do you plan to do that?"

Xiao Sun crawled up from the ground and walked to the red raincoat's side. He used both of his hands to grab the red raincoat's wrist and then placed the red raincoat's hands over his heart. "Big sister, I swear that whether your child is still alive or not, I will help you find him!"

After saying that, a thread that was entwining both red and black color crawled out of his heart and proceeded to curl around the red raincoat's pinkie finger. If a baleful Specter wished to become a Red Specter, they needed to have a heart, and a heart was made up from threads of blood vessels like this, but strangely enough, the blood vessels within Xiao Sun's body were all alternatively red and black like this. It was incredibly anomalous.

Staring at the thread on her pinkie finger for a long time, the red raincoat paused as if to think before lightly nodding.

“Xiao Sun, would you have passed your misfortune to red raincoat just like that?” Chen Ge asked softly. He was really worried that this might happen.

Hearing what Chen Ge had to say, Xiao Sun felt so wronged that tears came to his eyes again. Chen Ge quickly moved to console him. “Since the red raincoat has forgiven you, the conflict between you two can be considered to have been resolved. But this time, you almost tore the haunted house apart. That is something that we need to deal with.”

“I did not mean to do it on purpose...”

“It wouldn’t have really mattered even if you had destroyed the haunted house, but the problem is you almost scared that person called Ma Feng to death. The man had already fainted so many time, so why did you insist on waking him up every time? When I saw that through the surveillance camera, my scalp went numb immediately. My heart even went out toward him. The man suffered more than enough.”

Chen Ge was telling the truth. Fainting was the body’s self-protective mechanism. The man had already fainted, but he was brought back to consciousness again and again. How was that different from bringing the tortured soul back to life to be flayed again and again?

Xiao Sun opened his arms and said with a helpless expression, “If I said I only wanted to save him, would you guys believe me?”

“When Ma Feng wakes up and hears you say that, I believe he will probably faint again from pure anger.” Chen Ge and the employees around him started to laugh. Xiao Sun always had the capability of doing the wrong thing out of kindness, but that could not be blamed on the young man. That was simply his natural talent.

“Laugh all you want. In any case, I do not plan to act as a visitor anymore. You guys have no idea how nerve-wracking it is to be surrounded by more than ten living people at the same time.” Xiao Sun leaned the wall and looked for all intents and purposes to have given up on his ‘life’ already. Actually, he knew about his own talent, but he only wanted to be a part of the big family.

“Xiao Sun, pretending to mix among the visitors indeed is a great waste of your talent, so I have a very important mission that I have arranged for you.” Chen Ge slowly drew back the smile on his face, and his expression turned severe and serious. “This mission is related to the survival of our haunted house.”

Noticing the change in Chen Ge’s tone, Xiao Sun also stood up straighter. “Brother, are you sure you wish to hand over such an important mission over to me? I am afraid I might screw it up again.”

“You are the only candidate that is suitable for this mission. Of course, the current you is still far from capable of accepting it, so the other employees at the haunted house and I will conduct intensive training for you.” Chen Ge planned to fully unleash Xiao Sun’s hidden potential so that this cursed seed would grow up into a large and powerful cursed tree. “Later in the afternoon, I will need you to come to the staff breakroom. Then, I will tell you the objective of the mission in more detail.”

“Okay.”

“Then, there is nothing else. Everyone, please try to recover the scenario as best as you can and then return to your own posts and prepare to receive the next batch of visitors.”

After giving all the orders, Chen Ge walked out from the underground scenario. Ol’ Zhou had already moved all the fainted visitors to the entrance. All Chen Ge needed to do now was wheel them all out.

Pulling back the thick curtains, following the creaking and cracking of the wheels from the body carts, all the visitors who were gathered outside the haunted house turned to look toward Chen Ge. The warm rays of the sun showered on his body, and Chen Ge pushed out the first cart of visitors.

“See, what did I tell you earlier? It is another group wipe situation.”

“Look at how peacefully they are smiling.”

“Do you still want that ice cream? Still dare cry? If you continue to cry, when you grow up, I will send you inside that haunted house!”

“Where have all those people who posted the thread about challenging the most difficult scenario gone? Quick, we need to split up and go bring them back!”

Before so many visitors, Chen Ge pushed out the other top haunted house designers. “Uncle Xu, I will need you to help me call over some theme park workers.”

“There are more after this?”

“After this cart, there are three more carts.”

Chen Ge moved all the visitors that had visited the ghost fetus scenario out of the haunted house. As predicted by some of the earlier visitors that knew Chen Ge’s haunted house well, all the visitors that went in had come out on the body carts. There were none that could still walk out on their own two feet. Uncle Xu had already called for help on his end, and they arrived to hurriedly take the visitors to theme park’s infirmary. If this happened at any other theme park, it could be something that would shut the place down, but at New Century Park, it happened so commonly that most of the visitors had even gotten used to it.

Even though more than ten people had fainted at the same time, the order within theme park was not disturbed at all. Everyone went about their day normally. Those who were lining up continued to line up, and those who were supposed to visit the haunted house continued with their tours. At most, some of them stopped to take one or two pictures or recorded a short video to keep as a memento. In less than ten minutes, everything had returned to normal.

At noon, the long queue was still waiting outside the haunted house. For the visitors who had waited for a long time already, Uncle Xu was kind enough to provide them with bottles of mineral water.

Back inside the haunted house, Chen Ge had already returned to the staff breakroom, and currently, there were four employees standing inside the room.

“Xiao Sun, the mission that I am going to give you this time is very important, but it is also very dangerous. Before you give me your word, I hope that you will listen closely to everything that I have to say.” Chen Ge sat down on the chair and waved at the space beside him. The Red Specter Ol’ Bai understood the meaning of the gesture and placed a black, non-transparent plastic bag on the table next to Chen Ge.

“Our haunted house is currently faced with a very large threat. Behind the door of the ghost fetus’ world, we killed a Demon God sent by the cursed hospital in Xin Hai. That Demon God is probably being digested by Zhang Ya. That is an action that the cursed hospital will never forgive. The hospital will definitely try their best to take revenge on us.” This was the first time Chen Ge had revealed the information related to the cursed hospital to his employees. “The cursed hospital is situated at the borders of Xin Hai and Jiujiang, but geographically speaking, it is closer to Xin Hai. The place is incredibly dangerous because they likely have more than one Demon God at their disposal.”

Chen Ge did not hide anything. He shared all the information he had about the cursed hospital with his most trusted employees. He would have no problem putting his life in the hands of anyone currently standing inside the staff breakroom.

“This time, there were people from the cursed hospital mixed among the visitors. The enemy’s special power is very unique. It can help him avoid detection from even the Top Red Specters. But luckily enough, due to Xiao Sun’s presence, we detected them before they could do further damage.”

“Because of me?” Xiao Sun did not even know what he had done.

“Yes, because you turned the whole haunted house upside down to the point that the alarms went off everywhere, when I came in, I thought that the cursed hospital had infiltrated the place, so I hurriedly summoned all of the other employees to salvage the situation. To my surprise, there were indeed people sent over by the cursed hospital hidden among the visitors.”

After hearing Chen Ge say all that, Xiao Sun touched his nose embarrassedly. “I did not do it on purpose...”

“Whether you did it on purpose or not is not important. The important thing is that it has helped expose your immense talent. Disguising yourself as an extra among the haunted house visitors is a waste of your talent; you need a bigger stage,” Chen Ge said as he opened the black plastic bag on the table.

There was a patient’s garb inside the bag. The garb looked rather normal. There was not even the hospital’s name on it. It only had a number on it—101. Other than the patient garb, there was a patient’s form inside the bag. There was no name on this patient’s form. Wherever the signature of the patient was needed, there was only written one number—101.

“Number 101?”

“Xiao Sun, this will be your number in the future.”

“Mine?” Xiao Sun picked up the patient garb with the utmost confusion. The question marks were viewable all over his head. “Brother, don’t tell me you wish for me to pretend to be a mental patient? But you know very well that I do not know how to act!”

“You not only need to act as a mental patient. You only have to infiltrate into the cursed hospital to obtain information for us.” Chen Ge then waved at Zhang Yi and picked out a lingering spirit that was almost dispersing from the slightly hunch-backed Zhang Yi. “This lingering spirit is the real Patient 101, but he has been turned into a simpleton. His only remaining memories have been tempered with by us. With Zhang Yi’s help, take it with you and practice as much as you can. Try your best to get to know it and then try to become it.”

“Big brother, are you sure I am capable of doing this?” Xiao Sun had very little confidence in himself. After all, he had almost ruined the ghost fetus scenario earlier.

“That is why I have found a few other teachers for you.” Chen Ge first had Ol’ Zhou come over. “You will follow your Brother Zhou. I have already arranged everything. Everyone will help you together to train you to become the most perfect actor our haunted house has ever seen.”

“Okay.” Xiao Sun took the patient garb and the lingering spirit of Patient 101 and was about to leave the room when he was stopped again by Chen Ge.

“Wait a minute. I have a few books here with me. Take them and try to read them as closely as you can.” Chen Ge pulled out several thick books from under his bed. Among them there were books on societal psychology, micro expressions, and social psychology. “The best psychologist of Jiujiang once recommended these few books to me, and now I have handed them over to you. These things might not be directly useful to you, but they will aid you in changing the way you face any difficult problems and expand your mindset.”

Chen Ge handed the books that Doctor Gao had once recommended over to Xiao Sun. The whole process had a ritualistic inheritance feeling to it. “Good luck, I have faith in you!”

After all the ghost employees had left, Chen Ge crawled into bed to rest for a moment.

“The cursed hospital has already made their move on me. I need to make the necessary preparation to counter them.” Chen Ge took out some paper and a pen and started to doodle on it. He arranged the things that he needed to do in order, from the most urgent tasks to the less important ones. “Zhang Wenyu is already very close to me. If I work harder, perhaps I can persuade him to join us. Before I depart for Xin Hai, I need to get him to side with me.”

Even though he already had plenty of Red Specters, the feeling that Zhang Wenyu gave him was very unique. He did not have the Yin energy unique to ghosts on him at all. If he did not know it from the black phone, even Chen Ge would probably have treated him as a living person.

“Other than Zhang Wenyu, there are still many more famous local ghost stories in Jiujiang. Over the next few days, I should take my employees to look around. Perhaps we’ll run into new friends who might have the same target as us.

“Other than that, I will need to fulfil the promise that I have given to help search for the backup that Chang Wenyu left behind. The siblings schemed against me at the School of the Afterlife. Once I have saved them, I need them to pay me back with interest when I am dealing with the cursed hospital.”

Due to Zhang Ya’s presence, Chen Ge could basically do anything he wanted in Jiujiang, but his overall power was still far lacking when in comparison to the cursed hospital.

“The cursed hospital is somehow related to me twenty years ago. They know my background immensely well, but I know so little about them. Before the real fight begins, I will have to depend on the surprises that perhaps Xiao Sun will be able to bring me.” Chen Ge had great faith in Xiao Sun because he had personally experienced Xiao Sun’s talent.

“Everything is in order except what is crucial. All I can do now is wait and try my best to turn all the extenuating factors into my supporting factors.”

...

At 2 pm, the special care unit at the Jiujiang People’s Hospital echoed with a particularly shrill scream. The doctors and the nurses rushed into the sickroom and saw the patient that had been delivered that morning rolling on the ground. His body was curled up in a ball, and his body was shuddering endlessly due to fear.

“Calm down! Shang Guan Qing Hong, you have already left the haunted house! You are now very safe! You are at the hospital!” Originally, the patient was only afraid, but once he heard the term haunted house, he started to wail again.

“Doctor, what should we do now?”

“Sigh, it took us so much effort to cure him of his illness, but people truly are stubborn creatures. He insisted on going back to traumatize himself again. I also do not know how to comment on this issue now. Oh well, it is a good thing that it did not take that long for him to wake up this time. Hurry and move him to a normal sickroom.”

The nurse pushed Shang Guan Qing Hong down the hospital corridor in a wheelchair and arrived at a familiar sickroom. Pushing open the door, Shang Guan Qing Hong saw many familiar faces. The sickroom was filled with the victims of Chen Ge’s haunted house. At that moment, everyone was looking at Shang Guan Qing Hong in the wheelchair with shock and awe.

“Wasn’t he sent out from the hospital two days ago? Why is he back so soon?”

“Has he relapsed?”

“Qing Hong, didn’t you say you were going to teach Boss Chen a lesson he would never forget? How come...”

His friend only mentioned the word Boss Chen, and Shang Guan Qing Hong shivered involuntarily. He covered his ears, and his mouth mumbled incoherently, like a child who had been abandoned by the world.

“Brother Shang Guan, you have returned, but what about Qin Guang?”

“That man is in intensive care. It is still unknown whether he will return to us or not.” The nurse rolled her eyes at the other patients. “Shang Guan Qing Hong needs plenty of rest. Do not try to attempt to engage him in any conversation related to the haunted house. Whenever he hears the term haunted house, his illness acts up. Do you all understand?”

“Yes, nurse.”

The old patients looked at Shang Guan Qing Hong with pity. Everyone

there had been scared until they fainted inside Chen Ge's haunted house. Shang Guan Qing Hong was a repeat patient, and that was a badge of honor among the victims because at least he had resisted at least once. At the time, they still had not found out about Ma Feng's situation, so they thought being scared until one fainted twice was already very impressive.

...

At around 5 pm, the day of business at New Century Park was reaching its end. Director Luo suddenly summoned Chen Ge to his office and placed a document before him. "Director Luo, what is this?"

"This is a contract that I have negotiated for you." Director Luo opened the document, and there was a contract inside. "The boss of the haunted house in Xin Hai has completely given up this industry. Last I heard, he appears to have obtained this illness where he goes crazy whenever he hears the words 'haunted house', so his people immediately started to let go of his assets in Xin Hai. I remembered you mention this before, so the moment they started setting the sale sign, and once I saw the low price that it was going for, I snapped it up."

"Shang Guan Qing Hong is finally willing to give up his haunted house? Has he lost his confidence already?" Chen Ge looked at the contract he was holding. Director Luo had basically used his own money to purchase the haunted house in Xin Hai and gifted it to Chen Ge.

"I cannot sign this contract with good conscience. Director Luo, you've used your own money, which is meant for New Century park, to purchase this asset. If there is any income, I will be the benefactor, but if the Xin Hai haunted house loses money, you will be the one who takes the fall. This is very unfair to you and New Century Park." Chen Ge did not want to sign this contract not because it was unfair but because he felt like he was taking advantage of Director Luo.

"Without your haunted house, New Century Park would have been crushed into the ground by the futuristic theme park by now. Consider this haunted house in Xin Hai a present from me to you, but I do have a very small request." Director Luo revealed a smile on his face. "The branch that you build in Xin Hai must be named New Century Park as well, or at least the name has to be tied on somehow."

"Naturally."

After half an hour of discussion, Chen Ge signed his name on the contract. Chen Ge was going to pay full attention to dealing with the cursed hospital next. His intention was to turn the branch in Xin Hai into a safe second base.

Chapter 1136 - Draw Thirty, Presents for His Employees 2 in 1

Chapter 1136 Draw Thirty, Presents for His Employees 2 in 1

Chen Ge did not expect things to go so successfully. Before this, he had already had his eye on that haunted house in Xin Hai, but Shang Guan Qing Hong had refused to sell his own haunted house even though he was scared to the point of being hospitalized. The man himself appeared to realize how unique that asset was. But happiness always came so suddenly. Chen Ge had no idea why suddenly Shang Guan Qing Hong had changed his mind and decided to sell the Xin Hai haunted house.

“Perhaps he has finally realized the large gap between his haunted house and my haunted house. If there is a chance, I should go to the hospital to visit him and thank him in person.”

Holding the contract, Chen Ge walked out from Director Luo’s office. At that moment, the theme park was about to close for the day. However, there were still plenty of visitors lining up outside the haunted house. Many of them had come from different corners of the country just to visit the haunted house, so they kept queuing up to experience as many scenarios as they could so that they would not waste a second of their visit.

...

Among them there were quite a lot of internet celebrities and private media individuals. Chen Ge’s haunted house had provided them with plenty of material to use, and of course, they had contributed back by increasing the popularity of Chen Ge’s haunted house. It was a symbiotic relationship. Other haunted houses basically would not allow anyone to conduct any video-shooting inside their premises, but Chen Ge’s haunted house was unique, and that was how Chen Ge had a close relationship with these people.

Returning to the staff breakroom, Chen Ge put the contract nicely away. Director Luo wanted him to go over to Xin Hai to start dealing with the new branch as soon as he could. If Chen Ge had any needs, he should not tarry and could bring the issue up with Director Luo immediately, and the latter would help settle it. However, Chen Ge did not plan to go to Xin Hai so soon. Jiujiang was the place where he had grown up; he had a very unique relationship with this piece of land. Even though this city had numerous indescribable scary stories, stepping on this piece of land, he would feel strangely comforted as if there was some kind of hidden force protecting him. Xin Hai, in comparison, was a relatively stranger city for Chen Ge. In fact, the cursed hospital had possibly laid plenty of traps over there, just waiting for Chen Ge to voluntarily walk into them.

“Before I go to Xin Hai, I must be very well prepared. I not only have to bring all the Red Specters with me, I have to give a notice to Captain Yan so that he can inform his colleagues in Xin Hai. I have a good history with our law enforcement after all.”

Chen Ge had met the law enforcement of Xin Hai before. Back when he first visited Xin Hai, he had been escorted away by the police because he jumped down from the second floor of Shang Guan Qing Hong’s haunted house. He had experienced getting a ride in a Xin Hai police car.

“The police are the citizens’ nannies. The reason I am going to Xin Hai is to help protect Xin Hai’s local safety and contribute as much help as I can to maintain the serenity at Xin Hai. I am sure that the law enforcement of Xin Hai will be able to understand my point of view.”

Lying in bed, Chen Ge took out the comic and the black phone. He looked through the details of all his current employees again and memorized all of their individual unique powers in his mind.

“There are still plenty of things that I need to do. Furthermore, it is not me who should be worried at the moment. The cursed hospital has suddenly lost a Demon God without actually knowing why. Therefore, they will keep sending people over to Jiujiang to conduct an investigation. As long as I intercept them and deal with the people they send to Jiujiang, I would be able to steadily drain their power.”

After the completion of the ghost fetus’ mission, the pressure on Chen Ge’s shoulders had lightened significantly. In fact, one could even say that he was currently the one who had the upper hand. The ball was in his court.

Xiao Sun was led by Ol’ Zhou to the underground morgue to conduct his special training. Other than the acting lessons, Xiao Sun also needed to study psychology, basic medicine, and psychiatry. The other employees had their own roles to complete, and they were preparing in their own way for their final mission.

At around 9 pm, Chen Ge carried his backpack and left the haunted house. He took several Red Specters with him with the intention of helping Zhang Wenyu complete as many dying wishes of the suicide victims as he could, and at the same time, he wanted to see if he could encounter any new friends. After wandering around through the night, Chen Ge again helped Zhang Wenyu completed several wishes. Zhang Wenyu could be said to have full trust in Chen Ge. He believed that Chen Ge was one of those rare individual in the world who would stop at nothing to help others.

Actually, perhaps only Chen Ge himself did not realize this. Most of the employees around him had already noticed that Chen Ge was actually someone incredibly charming. He could bring energy and courage to those in despair, and he had the great ability of sympathizing with others and thus would be able to understand things from another's perspective and quietly listen to their story and past.

"Is it because I have brought too many Red Specters with me? How come I did not run into even a single lingering spirit tonight?"

After Chen Ge reflected on this, he believed that he needed to change his method of working.

"This city is too big. The way I have been aimlessly searching for a new Specter is like finding a needle in a haystack. There has to be a method that is far more efficient."

Then, Chen Ge took out the black phone. He opened one of the apps, and a grotesque black spinning wheel appeared on the screen.

"Currently, my title is Red Specters' Favored. If I draw another ten Specters, my title will upgrade again."

If the title upgraded, Chen Ge would gain the affection of even more ghosts and Specters, and it would be much easier for him to gain their trust and affection. At the same time, however, it would mean that it would be much easier for him to run into misfortune and tragedy.

"I really have no idea whether I can support having the title upgraded again. Speaking of which, why does this spinning wheel only reward me with Specters? Damn! The rules specify very clearly that there will be many different rewards, but I somehow keep drawing baleful Specters with extremely low probability. Could it be that I am Sun Xiaojun's long lost elder brother?"

The sky outside the window was turning bright. Chen Ge put away the black phone.

“It is time for a quick nap. After I am done with the workers’ make-up, I should go and visit the futuristic theme park. Their theme park has quite good Feng Shui. It will be very suitable to spin the wheel there.”

At 9 am, New Century Park opened its gate for business. As the body cart had been used to push out more than ten visitors the previous day, there was not one person who was there to cause trouble for Chen Ge. Even the fifty cent army’s activity on the haunted house app had conspicuously lowered.

“Uncle Xu, I have something else to do, so I will leave the operation of the haunted house to you.” Chen Ge carried his backpack and hailed a cab to get to the futuristic theme park. He had purchased his ticket online the day before. When he pulled out his identity card to retrieve his ticket, all the machines at the self-ticketing counter lit up with red light. Moments later, three workers from the futuristic theme park ran over, and they followed Chen Ge like his bodyguards. Those who did not know would probably believe that Chen Ge was some kind of ‘VIP’ that they had invited.

“Don’t be like this. It is making me so uncomfortable. See how many people are looking at us.” Chen Ge carried his backpack while being surrounded securely in the middle by three futuristic theme park workers. “I came today as a very normal visitor. You guys should relax.”

Chen Ge’s initial plan was to go there to draw a prize and try his luck, but being surrounded so closely by so many people, he was too embarrassed to do that.

“Boss Chen, we also do not wish to do this, but...” One of the younger employees was about to explain when he was cut off by a warning gaze from the other older employee. Then, the three of them trailed behind Chen Ge like his shadow without saying anything else.

“Well, if you wish to follow me like that, I cannot do anything to stop you.” Chen Ge wandered his way over to the futuristic theme park’s haunted house. He noticed on the ranking outside the haunted house that the second place would be able to pass him with another five thousand points, and that caused a sense of danger to arise in his heart. Since I am already here, why not go in for a stroll? After all I have already paid for such an expensive ticket. Not using it sounds like such a waste.

Chen Ge came to the control panel and randomly picked anything that caught his eye. He did not study them closely; he just scrolled through and selected any scenario that sounded interesting and then picked hellish mode. As if purposely to prevent the tragedy that Chen Ge caused during his previous visit from happening again, this machine could no longer mix more than fifty scenarios at the same time. The computer would instead select ten random scenarios from all the available scenarios and then create an amalgamation for the visitors to tour.

Under the employees' extremely guarded scrutiny, Chen Ge entered the futuristic theme park's haunted house. He would be challenging the scenario alone. It was as if Chen Ge had booked the place for himself—that was how much the futuristic theme park 'respected' Chen Ge.

Listening to the eerie background music, Chen Ge felt like he had returned to his second home. His expression was relaxed and happy. Somehow, he made it seem like he was enjoying a stroll through the park when in reality he was challenging a haunted house. After clearing the scenarios with ease, Chen Ge found a blind spot where the surveillance camera would not capture him. He silently took out the black phone and slid on the screen, clicking open an app.

"Without even realizing it, I have already accumulated so many scare points. Should I commit to a ten draw this time? Since obtaining the black phone, I have not done something like this before. Zhang Ya should not be hibernating, and I'm currently at someone else's haunted house. Another main reason is their boss came to my own haunted house just yesterday to purposely create trouble for me. It is only fair that I come to his haunted house and do a ten draw on the phone, right?" Chen Ge slowly convinced himself. But actually, he knew very well that the drawing process was extremely safe. At least, no accidents had happened from it in his previous experience.

Looking at the spinning wheel on the phone, Chen Ge sucked in a deep breath. "I refuse to believe that I will draw ten Specters with ten draws."

Gritting his teeth, Chen Ge chose to spin the wheel ten times. Looking at the wheel that started to spin, Chen Ge's heart was in his throat. The black spinning wheel was slowly dyed red. This was something that had not happened before. With Chen Ge as the center, the surrounding temperature in the room started to drop. Bloody red patterns started to surface on the shell of the black phone, but the patterns disappeared as suddenly as they appeared. Ghost faces flickered across the screen. These many signs all gave Chen Ge a very bad premonition. The spinning wheel slowly stopped. The black phone kept vibrating as he got ten consecutive messages!

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique baleful Specter—Shi Guo!

“Shi Guo (Rare Unique Specter, Draw Probability 1/100): A solitary soul wandering on Route 4 of the underground terminal. He walks through time. He will visit yesterday, pacing between minutes and seconds. He is a ghost forgotten by time.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a baleful Specter—Ce Gui.

“Ce Gui (Draw Probability 1/20): He has nothing unique going for him. He is unassuming and appears to be completely harmless. He likes to stay alone inside the quiet bathroom. He is like an old man who has lost his interest in his marriage and his life.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—Butterfly Hairclip!

“Butterfly Hairclip (The item of possession for a unique baleful Specter, Gui Qiudie, Draw Probability 3/10): This is the first present you ever gave me. I have always worn it in my hair. Hopefully, one day, you will be able to spot me through it in the crowd. You will be able to see the butterfly hairclip that you once gifted me.”

...

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored for obtaining a unique Red Specter—Xue Rong!

“Xue Rong (Rare Unique Red Specter, Draw Probability 7/1,000): I once created more than one hundred breath-takingly beautiful faces until, one day, I realized I could not tell what beauty is anymore.

“Warning! Red Specter Xue Rong is extremely dangerous and sensitive! Please visit the new city’s Yi Ren Pavilion beauty parlor after midnight!

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item

—Bai Qiulin's Severed Arm.

“Bai Qiulin's Severed Arm (Collection of Resentment): The lost arm that was stolen away by the gambler has been used as the underground casino's boss' prop to demand money from his debtors.”

The temperature inside the room had dropped to close to zero. Every message on the black phone was related to a baleful Specter. The air of resentment was almost bursting out of the screen already.

“Ten draws and I got nine baleful Specters out of it.” Chen Ge wiped away the cold sweat from his forehead. He was shocked by the result. Other than Bai Qiulin's severed arm, the other nine were all baleful Specters, and one of them was even a Red Specter. The black phone recorded the backgrounds and the special powers of these baleful Specters. The Specters were dispersed all over Jiujiang, and it required Chen Ge to personally fetch them.

“Of the ten draws, I only drew one Red Specter. Looks like the probability of drawing a Red Specter is still quite low. I was really lucky to have drawn Zhang Ya during my first draw.”

But then again Chen Ge really did not know whether he really should call himself luck or unlucky. The temperature inside the haunted house slowly rose back to normal. Just like students who had just finished their difficult finals, Chen Ge felt like he had just overcome a big ordeal, so he visited a few other scenarios to clear them and to relax his tense mood.

“If I manage to draw one more Specter, the title of Red Specter's Favored will upgrade. The problem is, I still have a lot of accumulated Scare Points, and it is more than enough for me to draw a lot more.” Chen Ge was feeling very conflicted. His rational side told him that it was about time to stop, but his finger was twitching madly whenever he saw that spinning wheel on the black phone. “My parents' disappearance might be related to the cursed hospital as well. In other words, they are the source of all my bad luck and the tragedy that has fallen the city. Facing such a powerful enemy, I have to fight with everything that I have got.”

Chen Ge thus found another blind spot.

“It is not often that I can come to the futuristic theme park to visit. How about I just go for broke this one time and use all of the accumulated scare points within their haunted house?”

If he drew one more Specter, the title would upgrade, but Chen Ge had already considered it from every angle. After all, danger was already coming his way no matter what. Since it could not be avoided, he might as well make the storm blow even harder and bigger. Sliding the screen, Chen Ge opted for another ten draws!

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—Xu Yin’s Music Sheet.

“Xu Yin’s Music Sheet: He was once innocent and happy; he also once believed in light and goodness. He had written all his love into his song and sang it to the girls who killed him.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—An Incomplete Birth Certificate.

“An Incomplete Birth Certificate: Men Nan is a child born inside a mental asylum. The world that is viewed as twisted and abnormal is the world where he grew up. This birth certificate contains his mother’s signature and is the last memory he has of her.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—White Valentine’s Candy “White Valentine’s Candy: These are candies she personally made for you. You promised you will finish all of them.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—Blue Raincoat.

“Blue Raincoat: She bought her child a blue raincoat with cartoon characters on it. The child wearing the raincoat looks as cute as a little penguin. That night, it was storming in Li Wan City. She held her child’s hand waiting for the bus at the bus stop, but when Bus 104 entered the station, her child had mysteriously gone missing. No one knew where her child went. Perhaps this blue raincoat will provide you with some clues to his location.”

...

After the second lot of ten draws, Chen Ge was stunned. “I did not manage to draw one single Specter, huh? This is so unscientific! Have I drawn all of the Specters available in the prize pool?”

In terms of probability, baleful Specters were indeed rare draws, much less Red Specters. It was already hard enough to draw a normal Specter.

“Is this done on purpose? I’d already mentally prepared myself for the title for upgrade, but the result is that I didn’t even get one baleful Specter?” Chen Ge considered it as rationally as he could for half a minute and then made a really irrational move. “Should I do another ten draws?”

His finger reached dangerously toward the sliding screen, and the strange spinning wheel on the black phone started to rotate rapidly again.

Chapter 1137 - I Hope Each of You Can Find Happiness 2 in 1

1137 I Hope Each of You Can Find Happiness 2 in 1

The temperature in the room did not drop again. Following the vibration on his phone, Chen Ge received yet another ten messages.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a one-time use Nightmare Mission coupon!

“After using the coupon, it is guaranteed that a new Nightmare Mission will be registered when the daily haunted house missions refresh at midnight!

...

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a haunted house employee costume—Clown of Misfortune!

“Clown of Misfortune: They always laugh seeing me cry. They believe my sadness is their source of joy.

“Warning! The whole costume for the clown of misfortune consists of the clown’s mask, a bloody make-up bag, and a human skin jester costume. After putting on the whole costume set, it will create an unknown effect.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a haunted house employee costume—The Food Connoisseur!

“The Food Connoisseur: I am the pickiest eater in the world. I have tasted the meat of almost every animal in the world. Lately, I have been obsessed with an optimal prime cut of meat. Would you like to follow me to the kitchen to take a peek at it?

“Warning! The whole costume for the Food Connoisseur consists of the night-colored western suit and the good night briefcase. The suit can increase the wearer’s personal charm. A friendly warning, do not open the connoisseur’s briefcase when there is a crowd around you.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a haunted house employee costume—The Stranger!

“The Stranger: A homicide with a random target is the hardest case to solve. There is no motive and no rules. The unrelated victim and the foolproof murder method, do be careful of that stranger that brushes past your shoulder when you walk alone at night.

“Warning! The costume of the Stranger only consists of a casual outfit. The outfit can help lower your presence to the lowest. Even if the witnesses have seen your face, their memory of you will soon be forgotten.

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining a unique item—An Inscribed Pair of Wedding Rings!

“An Inscribed Pair of Wedding Rings: Not long after their marriage, the husband often returned late from work. On a stormy night, the husband left and was never seen again. The police searched for three days and three nights, but no trace of the husband could be found. The wife cried herself to sleep every night. The case eventually became an open case. No one knew where the husband had gone, and the wife slowly spiraled into insanity. She could often be seen whispering to the pair of wedding rings on her fingers on her own.

“Warning! As long as both parties are wearing the wedding rings, no matter how great the distance between them, they will be able to sense each other’s general location! But wearing the rings for too long will have a negative impact on the wearers’ bodies.”

...

Another ten draws, but Chen Ge appeared to have really drawn all the existing baleful Specters from the prize pool. This time, he not only did not draw any Specters, all the rewards that he had drawn were equipment, and they were not particularly rare items on top of that.

“Could it be that all of my luck has been exhausted on my random encounters with ghosts? But that does not sound right! I have already drawn twenty consecutive times, and there has not been a baleful Specter in sight, or am I actually accumulating my luck? Will my next draw nab me a Top Red Specter or even a Demon God?"

Chen Ge was slowly being drawn into the gambler's fallacy, but thankfully, our main character's rationality regained its possession of his mind. Shaking his head, Chen Ge realized how unrealistic his thoughts were. After all, a Demon God was on a completely different level compared to a Red Specter. After completing his thirty draws, Chen Ge memorized all the rewards and prizes that he had drawn in his mind and then slowly made his way through the rest of his tour of futuristic theme park's haunted house.

"Quick! He is coming out!"

"Brother Jiang! Brother Jiang! The person is heading toward the exit that you are guarding!"

"All departments, be on full alert! Do not let anything slip past your eyes!"

Pushing open the last door, Chen Ge walked out from the haunted house, and he saw Jiang Ming, who appeared to be waiting for him at the exit.

"Long time no see. How have you been lately?"

Chen Ge initially thought that Jiang Ming would have nothing but a huff or a rolling of the eyes for him, but that was far away from the truth. Jiang Ming very naturally greeted Chen Ge, and there was even a trace of friendliness in his voice. "I am doing quite well lately thanks to you."

"Thanks to me? What have I done?"

"You sent that idiot Ma Feng to the hospital. Now, even the breaths that I take in feel that much easier and fresher," Jiang Ming whispered. The management at the futuristic theme park was wildly different from the management at New Century Park. It appeared like there was much internal fighting. After Jiang Jiu was hospitalized, Ma Feng had seized all managerial power. As Jiang Jiu's adopted son, Jiang Ming had naturally suffered a lot under the new leader.

"Hey, watch what you're saying. I had nothing to do with the fact that he is currently hospitalized. He signed the disclaimer." Chen Ge walked away from Jiang Ming. He actually wanted to tell Jiang Ming that compared to Ma Feng, if he had really personally sent anyone to the hospital, that person was Jiang Jiu.

After playing at the futuristic theme park's haunted house a few more times, Chen Ge left the theme park after collecting about 10,000 points at the futuristic theme park's haunted house ranking. Seeing his departing back, the workers at the haunted house were stunned beyond belief. Their technology like data analysis and visitor simulation had lost their uses against Chen Ge. A result of 10,000 points was something their system had predicted would only be reached after another half a year.

Hailing a cab, Chen Ge returned to New Century Park. He hurried back to the haunted house and went directly to the Prop Room. The already congested Prop Room appeared even more crowded. There were many items left in the corner. If one did not take a closer look, one would not have noticed them. It was as if these things had been there from the time the haunted house was built. "It somehow feels like they belonged to the haunted house to begin with."

Chen Ge had no idea when these things appeared. It felt like someone had pushed open a certain door inside his haunted house and then deposited the items inside the Prop Room. "It should be my imagination taking over. Something like that would be noticed by the employees."

Holding the black phone and reading the item descriptions for each of the rewards, he categorized the items that he had drawn into different piles.

At around 6 pm, the haunted house officially closed for the day. After all the living employees had left, Chen Ge took the comic and summoned most of the ghost employees to the first floor. If there was a lingering visitor that entered the haunted house at this moment, they probably would have their soul scared right out of their body. The already closed haunted house corridor was filled with people, and none of them had their make-up removed yet.

"Some of you have already worked for me for a very long time. From the initial discomfort to now becoming the central pillar of support of this place, your transformation is beyond my wildest expectations, and our haunted house is only becoming better and better because of all of you." Chen Ge pushed open the door of the Prop Room. "I am very appreciative of everyone's help, so I wanted to do something in return for all that you have done for me."

"Boss, you are treating us like strangers. That shouldn't be the case. We already treat this place like our own home. Without this haunted house, all of us probably would still be wandering aimlessly at some corner of this city.” Ol’ Zhou stood next to Duan Yue with a blissful expression on his face. “In any case, I like working here. Here, I can feel something that I have not felt in a long time. I also do not know how to describe it in words.”

“I personally do not feel like I am working at all. This is more like a game for me, and it is quite interesting,” Men Nan said with a casual expression. At the end of the day, he refused to admit that a Red Specter like himself was willingly working under Chen Ge.

“At any other corner of this city, no matter what I did, or no matter what I saw, everything around me kept on installing in my mind the reminder that ‘you are already dead’, ‘this world does not belong to you’, ‘you are nothing but a lingering spirit that should have gone a long time ago’, ‘you do not belong here’, and ‘you are an anomaly’. But that sensation has not surfaced even once here. I do not need to hide my real self, and no one has ever suspected of my real identity.”

After the ‘monitor’ from the School of the Afterlife voiced her thoughts, many lingering spirits from the students also nodded. They were a bunch of kids without a home to return to.

“Before this, I never did care about anything. I only started to regret after I lost everything in gambling. I thought the world had already abandoned cursed souls like myself, depriving me of the chance for a new life, but I am glad that I ran into you, boss.” Ol’ Bai had his single arm placed inside his pocket, and his bloodied body leaned against the door. “Before this, I did not have the privilege of choice, but now, I just want to be a professional haunted house worker.”

Hearing Ol’ Bai’s words, Chen Ge winked at him. “I have been intending to do something for all of you, so I will present you guys with some gifts. Those who do not get any gifts, please do not worry. I am sure there will be more in the future. Your turn will eventually come.” He waved at Bai Qiulin. “Ol’ Bai, the first present is for you. I found your severed arm. It was used as a tool by the boss of an underground casino to scare his customers.”

Chen Ge handed a paper note with an address to Bai Qiulin. “Initially, I thought about going and personally retrieving it for you, but I believe it might be better if you go and take it yourself. Leave behind every regret and officially start over with your new life.”

The reason Bai Qiulin could become a Red Specter was because he had consumed Xiong Qing's heart, but he himself was still missing his heart, so even after becoming a Red Specter, his power level was weaker than the others.

Accepting the paper note, Ol' Bai used his remaining hand to squeeze it tightly. Even though he was now a Red Specter, he was still missing a limb. Normally, he could use blood vessels to weave out false fingers and an arm, but that was just a lie, a lie more to himself than to the others. The crack in his soul was due to his memory. When he was alive, he chopped off his arm, and at the same time, he had chopped off his memory.

"Thank you."

"There is no need for thanks. We are already family." Chen Ge patted Ol' Bai on his shoulder. Probably because Ol' Bai was still caught in the excitement of the moment, he did not rein in his bloody aura and blood vessels, so he splashed Chen Ge with blood.

"There are presents to receive as your employees?" Men Nan stood at the door. Even though his tone was laced with derision, there was a trace of envy that crossed his eyes. "Giving your employee a severed arm, that kind of company benefit does match your quality and personality quite well."

Seeing how Men Nan kept mumbling to everyone around him, Chen Ge then walked to stand before Men Nan. "Even though you are not really my employee, after all you have lent me your help many times, so I have prepared a present for you as well."

"I also have one?" Men Nan's eyes lit up with joy, but he soon put on his normal, annoyed expression. "Tsk, I know, it will be something strange and obtuse again, right?"

Chen Ge shook his head. He took out an envelope that was carefully and delicately wrapped from his pocket. "This is for you. Do not open it now. I'd advise you take a look at the content when you are alone."

"What is it? Why are you making it sound so mysterious? Is this a prank?" After receiving the envelope, Men Nan did not listen to Chen Ge's advice. His childlike curiosity compelled him to open the envelope on the spot. "So, it is just a piece of meaningless paper..."

When his eyes landed on the signature on the paper and the mother's words of wishes for her son at the back of the paper, Men Nan, who had been grumbling, suddenly went quiet. The boy who wore the red shirt stood at the door holding the paper with both hands like it was the most valuable treasure in the world. Men Nan's mother cherished her son a lot, and she had many words that she did not have the chance to tell Men Nan.

Chen Ge squatted down next to Men Nan and whispered in his ear, "Your mother's last wish will be fulfilled because you will only become happier and happier."

This time, Chen Ge had drawn many objects, and most of them were related to his haunted house workers. These items could help his employees repair the cracks in their soul, helping them becoming more powerful and perfect. After gifting a few more workers their presents, Chen Ge called Xiao Sun, who was looking at him with blank eyes.

"Big brother, do I also have a present? Honestly, I do not have that many friends. I have grown so old, but other than my father and mother, I have not received any gifts from any other person before." Xiao Sun was quite excited.

"Then I am afraid I will disappoint you. The thing that I am going to give you is not a present but an item to help you save yourself." Chen Ge took out a pair of wedding rings from the Prop Room. The wedding rings appeared to be made from someone's ashes, and they had two hearts that were linked together carved into them.

"Wedding rings?" Xiao Sun was stunned, and then he was suddenly reminded of a certain Demon God who was hiding inside Chen Ge's shadow. Instantly, he leaped back like someone had struck at his soul. He quickly waved his hands. "Brother, no way, you must be mistaken! I can't take something like that!"

"These wedding rings were made by a woman using her husband's body who had betrayed her. They are called Inscribed Wedding Rings. The two who wear these rings will be able to sense the other person's location no matter the distance between them." Chen Ge handed one of the rings to Xiao Sun. "You are going to the cursed hospital, but I will pay close attention to your movement in Xin Hai. This is not a present for you, but it is to help you stay alive."

Even though he did not get a present, Chen Ge's words still touched Xiao Sun slightly. Chen Ge was not sending Xiao Sun to his death, but he was trying his best to help Xiao Sun come out the other side more powerful and alive.

“Thank you, big brother.” Xiao Sun looked at the wedding ring in his palm. His heart was warm but rationality reminded him that it was best to ask more questions. “Brother Chen, are you sure that I can live until the day I am to be sent to the cursed hospital wearing this wedding ring?”

“What are you trying to say?”

“I mean...” Xiao Sun winked and made gesture at Chen Ge’s shadow, trying to express himself without being too obvious about it.

“Don’t you worry. She is not as narrow-minded as you think.” After saying that, Chen Ge ignored Xiao Sun. He then took out a child’s blue raincoat from the Prop Room. He walked through the group of employees and reached the corner of the room. The red raincoat was standing alone in the corner. She had watched the proceeding silently but never once taken a step forward. When she saw Chen Ge walk toward her, she was quite surprised, but when her eyes landed on the blue raincoat Chen Ge was holding, her body appeared to be struck by lightning.

“I have helped you find the raincoat of your child. I still remember the promise that I gave you. I swear I will complete it.” Chen Ge handed the blue raincoat to the poor mother. “There was some lingering curse on the blue raincoat. I had the red high heels check it earlier. She said that the curse was different from the one used by the ghost fetus. It appeared to be related to the cursed hospital.”

Just as Chen Ge finished, the red raincoat reached out to grab his arm. “Bring me with you!”

Looking into the red raincoat’s eyes, Chen Ge lightly nodded. “Of course.”

The red raincoat slowly let go. At the same time, the black phone vibrated slightly. Chen Ge took out the phone to glance at it. Inside the worker’s employee tab, the red raincoat’s information had appeared.

After gifting almost all the presents, the employees slowly shuffled back underground. Chen Ge sat in the Prop Room alone. He took out the recorder from his backpack and pressed a button on it. The static sound rang beside his ears, and a blood figure silently materialized beside Chen Ge. Without asking for any reason or requesting anything, he had never even considered the danger that he would get into by following Chen Ge. Whenever Chen Ge pressed the play button on the recorder, he would appear.

“Xu Yin...” Chen Ge looked at the young man standing beside him, studying the painful and melancholic face. He pulled out a music sheet from the drawer.

Chapter 1138 - Look Into the Eyes of These Red Spectres and Reconsider Your Answer 2 in 1

Chapter 1138 Look Into the Eyes of These Red Spectres and Reconsider Your Answer 2 in 1

“Xu Yin, this is for you.” The old music sheet had many different tunes, and every note was playing a happy and lovesick song. The static noise drifted through his ears. Xu Yin did not reach out to touch the music sheet offered to him by Chen Ge. He stood silently at the side, like always shielding at Chen Ge’s side. He did not say a word and was always unfazed by anything that came his way. Being lied to by the person he loved, being hurt by the person he loved, being amputated by the person he loved, it was as if Xu Yin was no longer himself once the knife stabbed into his heart. All his hope, all his joy, all his love had been completely shattered. He had accepted the drink proffered by his love without any hesitation. He saw the person he loved the most standing beside him with a glinting knife through his blurred vision. He wanted to scream for help, but he could not make any sound; he wanted to struggle, but he could not control his body. He could only watch his beloved’s face as despair slowly consumed him. After Xu Yin became a Specter, he lost his rationality. Whenever he ran into an enemy, no matter how strong the enemy was, he was charge forward like a crazy bull. He wanted to die; he wanted his soul to disappear; he wanted to end all his pain and despair; he had been actively seeking death. Someone like him had run into someone like Chen Ge. Whenever he was maddened by despair and tortured until he could not recognize himself by pain, Chen Ge would always be there to lend him a hand, to help his wounded self up from the ground. The way Chen Ge looked at Xu Yin had never been filled with disgust or terror. There was only gentleness and concern. In this world, the only person who really understood Xu Yin was probably Chen Ge.

“Take this. Compared to hoping that it will make you stronger, I wish that it can help return to you at least some of your former smile.” Chen Ge handed the music sheet to Xu Yin, but when Xu Yin touched the music sheet, the old music sheet was instantly dyed red. The love songs’ lyrics were instantly blurred by blood, and they rearranged themselves into new lyrics.

“I am a bird who has lost its voice; no one will be able to hear my tune anymore.

...

“My beloved tore away all of my feathers and plunged a knife into my heart.

“They embraced my bodies into their hands, saying it was all for my own good.

“I understood. I knew.

“She wanted to personally create the person that she loved.”

The bloody lyrics appeared on the music sheet and tore away the happiness, replacing it with something bloody and cruel. Throughout the whole process, Xu Yin had not done anything. All he did was hold the music sheet.

“There is no return...”

Covered in wounds, the bird whose body was pierced by the knife had lost its beautiful voice. The music sheet that once recorded the joy of love was soaked in blood and slipped through Xu Yin’s fingertips. Before it fell to the ground, it was caught by a pair of hands.

“It does not matter. There is no reason to force yourself to accept the joy from the past. The current you can and should strive for joy in the future. You deserve that much.” Chen Ge’s eyes were shining with the light of hope. He patted Xu Yin’s shoulder. “Compared to when I first met you, you have already changed a lot. Do not worry. I will always be by your side.”

After finding his own heart, Xu Yin’s emotions had stabilized a lot. He was no longer dominated by pain and despair, and other colors had started to appear in his world.

“One day, I will ensure that you and everyone else at this haunted house obtains their well-deserved happiness.” Chen Ge placed the bloodied music sheet on the table. His gaze was gentle and filled with power.

Standing before Chen Ge, Xu Yin opened his lips but did not make any sound. Instead, his pale fingers lightly caressed the music sheets, and his body slowly dissolved into blood vessel. In the end, Xu Yin took away the music sheet. Just as his body was about to disappear, he wrote down one short song on the music sheet.

“The world kissed me with pain, but I am willing to repay it with songs.”

Peace returned to the Prop Room, and Chen Ge looked at the spot where Xu Yin had disappeared. At the last moment before Xu Yin disappeared, Chen Ge noticed a very powerful energy surging out of Xu Yin’s body. He seemed to have broken through some kind of threshold, and a black pattern started to appear around his heart.

“Has Xu Yin suddenly gained some epiphany? The presence about him suddenly grew intense, and the presence was different from the ones released by the other Red Specters. The black pattern on his heart was very similar to the pattern on the edge of Zhang Ya’s dress. Is it possible that Xu Yin has sown the seed to become a Demon God within himself?

“The items that I can draw from the Wheel of Misfortune can be so beneficial to a Red Specter? No wait, other than gaining enormous affection from him, the letter that I gave Men Nan did not help with his overall ability at all. Looks like it differs according to the individual.”

The items obtained from the roulette sealed the many Specters’ past, those items would indeed help the Specters and Red Specters become more perfect, but ultimately, they were just mere objects. The biggest reason such a huge change would happen to Xu Yin was due to Chen Ge. Who would have thought a ghost who only wanted to find release in death would encounter the kindest and gentlest friend in the world after his death?

...

At 8:10 pm, the door of a mom and pop shop in the old city area western street was kicked down. Many different kinds of snacks were scattered everywhere. Soon, a young man wearing a white shirt was dragged out from the inner room.

“Brother Leopard, Brother Eagle, this has nothing to do with my family. We have already discussed this. I will return the money.” The young man’s face was bloodied, but he still tried to struggle up from the ground like he could not feel the pain.

“Do you think we would still believe you? The wily hare has three holes to his burrow! If you hadn’t been changing your hiding place, do you think we'd come to this place to find you?"

Holding the broken beer bottle in the hand, a bare-chested, middle-aged man walked out from the inner room. There was a scar on the corner of his eye, and the tattoo of a leopard head could be seen on the back of his arm.

"Brother Leopard, give me three more days! I promise I will return the money by then!" The young man knelt to the ground and repeated earnestly.

"Where are you going to find the money?" Brother Leopard held the broken beer bottle and pointed the sharp edge before the young man's face. "Actually, I noted that this little shop of that limping grandfather of yours is still worth quite a pretty penny. Tell him to sell this place, and perhaps you might be able to collect enough money."

"No! That won't do! This is my grandpa..."

"What nonsense are you talking about? Do you think you still have the right to say no to us?" The other man patted his waist. There appeared to be a knife hidden under his shirt.

"Please don't come after my place. I will find the money no matter what! Three days. Please just give me another three days!"

"Fine, fine. In three days, if you still have not given me the money, I will take an arm away from you." Brother Leopard yanked the young man up by his hair so that the young man would look him in the eyes. "Previously, there was someone who also wanted to escape from his debt. In the end, I chopped off one of his arms. The blood was squirting everywhere, and it refused to stop flowing. Would you like to see that arm? As a souvenir, I have been holding onto it."

"There is no need for that, Brother Leopard. I swear I will figure out a way to pay you back." The young man curled up on the ground, making himself as small as he could until Brother Leopard and Brother Eagle left. The pride of a man was abandoned fully. He wiped away the blood on his face, picked up the broken door of the shop, and fixed it back with his head lowered. The beer and bottles littered the ground, the shelves were tipped over, and a limping old man was seated in the middle of the not so big room. The elder was way past his prime. He had been hit once on the head by a beer bottle, and the blood was bright in his head of white hair.

"Who are you?" Inside the small room, other than the old man, a middle-aged man wearing a red shirt had mysteriously appeared. Holding some cotton wipes and disinfectant, he was carefully picking out the glass shards from the old man's head wound.

"Why did that group of people only come after your grandfather but not you?" The man in the red shirt's voice had no emotion.

"My grandpa wanted to protect his shop, so he fought with them..."

"How much money do you owe them?"

"300,000 RMB, but initially, I only owed them 50,000 RMB. As the interest continued to grow, they want me to pay them back 300,000 RMB." The young man ran to his grandfather's side and helped to dress the wound. He held the old man's hand, and his heart must not have been as calm as he appeared. "I have already paid them 70,000 RMB, but they still want more. I really do not have any money left."

"Why would you owe them money in the first place?"

"Because..."

"Because you like to gamble?" The middle-aged man in the red shirt finished the sentence without even lifting his head.

"I... yes." The young man did not dare speak, and he was too ashamed to look at his grandfather.

"Those who like to gamble will never win." The middle-aged man in the red shirt stood up. His ruby like eyes stared at the young man. "If you promise me to find an actual job and honestly earn a living for yourself, I can help you deal with your debt."

"You are willing to help me?" The young man was at a dead end. He looked at the man, and his emotions were complicated. "Thank you. I will definitely return the money to you! Can you please give me your contact number?"

"I am helping you because I saw the past version of myself kneeling there on the ground in you. I was once in your place, but at the time, no one was willing to come and help me." The man's eyes were swimming with blood vessels. "I do not need you to pay me any money. I only wish for you to take good care of your grandfather. If you dare go back to gambling in the future... I will swear to return to claim your life."

The man in the red shirt walked out from the shop. The young man hurried after him to ask, "Where are you going?"

"I am going to find that group of people who just left to ask them to return what they owe me."

"They also owe you money?"

"Money?" The man in the red shirt showed off the stub that was hidden in his shirt sleeve. "They owe me an arm."

...

Inside the VIP room at the Jia Hao Night Club, several couples were grinding with lust and passion. The lights in the room flickered several times before they suddenly went out like someone had cut the wiring.

"F*ck! There's a blackout? Where is the waiter?"

"Little Leopard! Why did you pick such a horrible place? How come there is not even one person out in the corridor?"

"This f*cking blows!"

The shrieking background music disappeared, and the night club became eerily quiet like everyone's mouth had been sewn shut.

"Hello? Is anyone there? Motherf*cker! This place is the worst. What the hell are you people doing? Get me your boss over here now!" Brother Leopard and Brother Eagle followed behind a fat man. The three of them walked out from the room, and they turned many corners before they saw a man. The man was sitting in the lobby, wearing a blood red shirt.

"Hey! We're talking to you! Are you deaf or what?" Brother Leopard kicked the sofa to the side. "Have you seen a waitress or waiter here?"

The man in the red shirt took a sip of the alcohol in the glass. Without even looking at Brother Leopard, he walked directly toward the fat man.

"This man is rather strange."

"What are you doing! Stop right there!" Brother Leopard stood guardedly before the fat man.

"I owed you money in the past, and my boss told me that I need to return the money that I owe you.” The man in the red shirt took out a credit card from his pocket. “Inside this card, you will find the full amount of the money that I owed you.”

Brother Leopard turned to look at the fat man. The fatty did not ask for details. Since someone was there to deliver free money to them, why would they say no?

“I have received the money, so you can go now.” The fat man had this sneaking feeling that the man before him was rather familiar, and coupling that was a very bad feeling.

“Now that I have returned the money that I owe you, it is time for you to return what you have taken from me.” The middle-aged man had one of his hands placed inside his pocket. He stood in the middle of the lobby. Multiple blood vessels crawled down from the ceiling, and pools of blood spread on the ground.

“What is it that we have taken from you?” The fatty looked at the middle-aged man’s face. His eyes slowly widened. Suddenly, his expression scrunched up in fear as a name that he had almost forgotten floated up in his mind.

Bai Qiulin!

“Do you not remember it anymore?” The middle-aged man’s bloodshot eyes stared at the three in the lobby. The red shirt fluttered like blood, and the air of Yin energy raised the roof. “I have been searching for that arm for so long.”

...

At 9:30 pm, Chen Ge summoned all the Red Specters at the underground scenario. After waiting for several minutes, Bai Qiulin finally arrived. The presence that radiated off the man was obviously different from before. The crack that he had from consuming Xiong Qing had been filled. There was now an energy in his eyes that forbade others from looking straight at him. Sensing the change in Bai Qiulin, Men Nan grumbled under his breath, “Great, yet another Red Specter that I cannot defeat. Yay.”

“Alright, everyone is here.” Chen Ge clapped his hands for silence. “I have called you all here because we are going to find and welcome our new colleagues.”

“Who are you lying to? Bringing so many Red Specter to welcome new colleagues? Aren't you afraid they are going to get scared to their second death?" Men Nan gibbered and then turned enviously to look at Bai Qiulin. "When will it be my turn to get stronger?"

"There will be nine new colleagues in total. I have written down their information and unique background. Please memorize them lest we get the wrong person."

After all the Red Specters had memorized the details, Chen Ge summoned everyone back into the comic and then hailed a cab to leave the haunted house. The first place he visited was an apartment building at the old city. The life tempo here was very slow; the tenants were mainly the elderly and children.

He climbed all the way to the fourth floor and stopped before the door of the public bathroom. The old door was sealed shut by wooden boards. The landlord had even added two large locks and several yellow talismans on the door.

"This should be the place." Chen Ge took out the hammer from his backpack and broke down the locks. He pushed open the bathroom door and saw the magazine and newspapers that littered the ground. "It appears like this bathroom has been vacated for a long time."

Following the information provided by the black phone, Chen Ge came to the fourth cubicle. He shook the cubicle door and realized that the cubicle was locked from the inside. Turning to walk to the third cubicle, he gathered the newspapers from the ground to form a pile and stood on them. Over the cubicle wall, he used Yin Yang Vision and looked into the fourth cubicle. Inside the cramped space sat an uncle wearing black-rimmed glasses. The uncle looked tired and disinterested in everything. Even though he had realized that a living person was standing next to him, he could not gather the energy to scare Chen Ge.

"Hey! Would you like to follow me to change your life?" Chen Ge shouted at the uncle.

The middle-aged man sitting on the toilet looked left and right before lifting his head with confusion. He extended his finger to point at himself. "You can see me?"

"Of course, I own a haunted house. Isn't it perfectly normal for me to be able to see a ghost?" Chen Ge smiled kindly at the middle-aged man. "Are you willing to step out of your comfort zone and start a new life?"

“No, I am not.” The middle-aged man lowered his head to turn back to his newspaper. He had no interest in answering Chen Ge.

“I wish for you to welcome your new life with me. How about you become an employee at my haunted house?” Chen Ge flipped through the comic. The sound of pages turning rang out inside the small bathroom.

“Do you have nothing else better to do?” The middle-aged man lifted his head with annoyance. By then, the whole public bathroom was covered in blood vessels. Soon, more than ten Red Specters’ heads floated up, surrounding his cubicle.

“I am serious. Why don’t you look into the eyes of these Red Specters and reconsider your answer?” Chen Ge asked with some sincerity.

Putting down the newspaper, the middle-aged man who was surrounded by the Red Specters blasted out from the cubicle and reached to grab Chen Ge’s hand. “I knew I could find a friend in you once I laid my eyes on you. From today, my life is yours.”

“Er... have you washed your hands?”

“Aristotle once said, those who sit on the toilet might not be pooping. They could be searching for the corner of human life, thinking about the ultimate secret of the universe.”

“You are familiar with the study of philosophy?”

“Er, well, I know one or two things about it.”

Chapter 1139 - Welcome to the Family 2 in 1

Chapter 1139 Welcome to the Family 2 in 1

“Congratulations, Red Specters’ Favored, for obtaining Ce Gui! The haunted house has gained one new employee!

“Ce Gui (Dong Wentao): No one knows about his past, and no one knows how he came to be in his current state. I can only tell you he has very great potential. It depends on you whether you can unlock his potential or not.”

Chen Ge studied the new message that appeared on the black phone. He really did not expect that Ce Gui to directly become his haunted house worker so easily.

...

I merely used ten Red Specters to invite him. Who would have thought he would accept my invitation so easily?

Silently studying Ce Gui who was surrounded by the Red Specters, Chen Ge was honestly rather surprised that the black phone had such a quite comment for him. This baleful Specter looked very unassuming in terms of appearance. He wore an old-fashioned western suit, with unkempt hair, looking like a quintessential member of the lowest rung of the societal ladder.

Since he has potential, I should try to push him further. Perhaps the uncle might also find new hope in the afterlife and welcome rejuvenation.

After summoning Ce Gui, whose legs had gotten weak, and the other Red Specters into the comic, Chen Ge walked out from the bathroom.

“This was originally a haunted house, but now that the Specter has been taken away, it is quite a waste for them to abandon this place.”

He tore down the yellow talismans from door. He took out the ballpoint pen wrapped in tape and wrote down the following on the back of the talismans. “The ghost has been taken away already. The tenants here can now use this public bathroom without worry.”

He pasted the talisman back onto the door. Chen Ge then dragged the Doctor Skull-cracker's Hammer and left the apartment building.

"Okay, who shall we go pick up next?"

Looking at the map on his phone, Chen Ge came to the third Jiujiang subway route.

"The black phone said that this Specter is hiding on the fourth Jiujiang subway route, but Jiujiang current only has three subway routes. The fourth route is still under construction."

By the time he arrived, the subway terminal was almost closing. Chen Ge stopped around the third subway route and asked any passersby about the information regarding the fourth route. The workers there said that there would still be a long time before the fourth route was opened to the public. When Chen Ge pressed for more details and the reason why, they refused to say anything, but they all had this strange expression on their faces.

If Chen Ge was known for one thing, it was his power of persuasion. After much pressing and pushing, one of the workers finally admitted that the surveillance at the subway terminal would always capture the image of a strange person in the night. The person would appear on different subway trains, but he always sat alone by himself on a certain seat, and the people beside him never seemed to notice his existence.

As the work for the fourth route started, the surveillance stopped capturing that person on camera, but the workers started to notice a flicker of shadow down deep in the tunnel. The workers thus started to suspect that the ghost who had been haunting the subway had moved into the fourth route that was under construction.

After finding out the backstory behind the ghost, Chen Ge silently sneaked into the construction site of the fourth route. To prevent other people from discovering him, he released a few Red Specters and had them scout ahead for him inside the tunnel while keeping their presence as low profile as possible. Initially, Chen Ge was already prepared to spend a lot of time searching for this Specter. After all, the tunnel was quite long. However, he only walked for a few steps when he saw a young man who was bare-chested running as fast as he could about a hundred meters in front of him.

"Who is running naked in the middle of the night inside a constructing subway tunnel? This is so strange."

It was impossible for Chen Ge not to notice the young man. He immediately had the several Red Specters go and stop the young man. The strange thing was the young man appeared to have known beforehand that Chen Ge was coming. When he saw Chen Ge's face, his eyes were filled with fear.

"Have we met each other?" Chen Ge was rather confused by this. He was sure that this was the first time they had encountered each other, so if that was the case, why would the young man look at him in such a way? "You are not afraid of the Red Specters, but you are afraid of me. Why? Do you know me? But that is not right either. If you know me, you should be familiar with the kind of person that I am."

Blood vessels floated on the young man's body and weaved into a simple shirt. His face was pale, and his body was almost transparent. He was about to depart from this world.

"Brother, at least give me something to work with. Is there some kind of misunderstanding between us?" Chen Ge just wanted to approach the young man when the latter dropped to the ground. He tried to retreat as far away as he could until his retreat was blocked by the Red Specters.

Seeing as his escape was cut off, the young man crawled up from the ground as if he had surrendered to his fate. He turned to Chen Ge and said, "I am willing to become a worker at your haunted House."

When the young man said that, it was time for Chen Ge to be startled. "I have not even stated my reason for being here. How come you gave me your promise so easily? Do you know how to read people's minds?"

With his face as pale as before, the young man shook his head rather helplessly. "We met each other once ten seconds ago."

"Ten seconds ago?"

"My name is Shi Guo. My power is to return to a space in time ten seconds ago. There is a huge limitation to this power. I can only use it once per month, but if I use it correctly, it will have miraculous effect," the young man said softly.

"The power to manipulate time?" Not only Chen Ge, even the Red Specters around him were quite surprised by this unique power. Even though Shi Guo's power could only be used once per month, if it was used at the right time, it could reverse any situation!

“As I’ve said, there is a huge limitation to this power. Only I will be able to return to ten seconds ago. It is not as useful as you might think.” Si Guo smiled bitterly. “I used this power earlier.

Unfortunately, even with the extra ten seconds, I cannot escape your grasp. Speaking of which, how did you find out about my presence? You even brought ten Red Specters with you to come find me...”

“I am in the middle of a fight against a cursed hospital in Xin Hai. They have obtained your information, and they wish to enslave and control you, so I have come to fetch you before they have the chance to.” Chen Ge very seriously extended his hand toward Si Guo.

“Welcome to the haunted house. If you have any dying wishes or things that you wish to have completed, feel free to tell me.”

Shi Guo hesitated for a moment before he accepted Chen Ge’s extended hand.

“By the way, why were you so afraid of me earlier? What exactly did I do to you ten seconds earlier?”

“I cannot say. If I did, I will suffer severe countereffects from my own power.” Even though Shi Guo verbally said that he was willing to join the Haunted house, the black phone did not send a message about him joining. That was probably because he did not fully trust Chen Ge, and the young man still had other plans in his mind. Chen Ge placed Shi Guo inside the comic. He situated him in the same page as Ol’ Bai and Ol’ Zhou.

“The Specters that are noted by the Wheel of Misfortune are indeed all of great quality. This kind of special power is very rare and powerful.” Chen Ge valued Shi Guo greatly, but unfortunately, Si Guo refused to reveal any information about himself, so Chen Ge could not do anything to help him, to prove that he only wanted the best for the young man. “I will have to take this slow. Thankfully, I still have time.”

Putting away the comic and the black phone, Chen Ge departed from the subway terminal and came to the residential plaza in the new city area. By the time Chen Ge arrived, it was already midnight. There were very few occupants in this residential area. Chen Ge glanced at the different apartment buildings, and only a few windows had their lights on.

“The black phone only said that the butterfly hairclip can be found in this residential area, but it did not give me an actual address. There are at least a hundred apartments here. Am I supposed to go and knock on each of the doors one by one?" Chen Ge stood in the middle of the residential area and tilted his head back to look at the several tall buildings. "Jesus, how long this will take me?"

Holding the comic, Chen Ge hesitated. It was not really a bright idea to release Specters into random people's homes. He had a principle that he followed closely in his life. If the other people did not come to harm him, he would not purposely go and influence others.

"I guess I'd better go and search for it myself."

Clutching the comic in his hand, Chen Ge was about to pull his gaze away when he suddenly noted a woman with long hair standing at the edge of the roof at the top of one of the apartment buildings. Narrowing his eyes, Chen Ge used his Yin Yang Vision, and he could clearly see the woman holding something in her hands as she stepped onto the edge of the roof. As if sensing Chen Ge's eyes on her, the woman who was originally spacing out slowly turned her head. Her black hair fluttered away from the wind to reveal an incredibly pale face.

Chen Ge's shadow was reflected in her red eyes. The bloodied mouth slowly opened as if she was telling Chen Ge something. The more she spoke, the more her emotions started to unravel. Her face became twisted with harsh emotions, and a black blood vessel popped on her face. The woman who had turned into a monster finally made a decision. She raised both of her hands and pinned the butterfly hairclip that she was previously holding onto her hair. The pair of venomous eyes stared straight at Chen Ge. She opened her arms like a black butterfly caught in fire as she jumped down from the roof as if she was trying to fly toward Chen Ge!

The night breeze buffeted her coat. One wound after another surfaced on her body. Half of her body was dyed red, and all the pain had transformed into anger.

"The first present that you ever gave me, I have always worn it at the top of my head. I have treasured everything that you have ever given me, but you..."

Resentment pierced through her eyes. The woman in the half red coat was halfway through her complaint when she suddenly saw a young boy who was grumbling endlessly appear next to the young man that she was heading toward. Following the young boy, a middle-aged man who had one of his hands stuck in his pocket materialized next to the boy. Then, the woman who was rapidly falling through the air suddenly heard the sound of static in her ears.

One red shadow after another appeared next to the young man. The resentment and blood vessels that radiated from their bodies appeared to wish to bury the whole residential area alive. The scary presence overwhelmed the woman until she felt the difficulty in breathing, but the problem was, she had already thrown herself off the roof. She could no longer control her body due to the pull of gravity. There was nothing she could do but watch herself fall.

“Which one of you is kind enough to go and catch her?” Endless blood vessels curled around the woman. She maintained her falling posture with her face facing down and dropped to a meter before Chen Ge. Being surrounded by ten Red Specters, she had even forgotten what she wanted to say. All she could feel in that moment was her blundering mind and thoughts.

“If you run into difficulties in life, there has to be a channel for you to vent. If no one is willing to listen to you, feel free to come and find me in the future.” Chen Ge had the Red Specters pull back their blood vessels. He moved toward to help the woman up from the ground like a true gentleman. “What is the name of that pig who disappointed you? I can take you to go and find him.”

First, she was almost scared to her second death, and now, she was suddenly touched. The woman’s lips quivered slightly. “He has already left this city. He has gotten married in Xin Hai.”

“Xin Hai, huh? No problem, I will personally take you there in a few days. Are you willing to come with me?” Chen Ge looked at her with clear, glittering eyes with no malicious intentions in them. The woman nodded. To be honest, she was still rather confused by what had happened. Everything that had occurred to her that night was a bit too much to process.

“Then we will be a family in the future. I will try my best to help fulfil your wish.” Chen Ge pulled the woman into the comic and then led his employees to the next location. “I am quite surprised that the Specter possessing the butterfly clip is a Half Red Specter. She has extremely deep resentment. With some time and training, it should not be hard for her to transform into a real Red Specter.”

Scanning the map on his phone, Chen Ge walked out from the residential area. "The only Red Specter that I have drawn from the Wheel of Misfortune can be found in the new part of the city as well. Since I am already here, I might as well take a swift detour to go and visit her."

Red Specter Xue Rong, she was hiding in the new city's Yi Ren Pavilion. The black phone's comment on her was that she was extremely dangerous and sensitive. Jiujiang's newer part of its city development was not bad. This part of the city was closer to Xin Hai. It was where many of the state's smaller roads congregated, and it had a large population of outsiders.

Chen Ge could not find the location of Yi Ren Pavilion on his GPS in his phone. He searched for quite some time on the internet before he managed to salvage a little information related to this Yi Ren Pavilion. This beauty parlor was very famous a few years ago. It specialized in high-end spa and beauty treatments. It had great popularity among the rich and famous, but for some unknown reason, it was closed by the police out of the blue. The rumors about its closure ranged from everything on the internet, but the most reasonable reason was probably it had to do with a murder case.

The information of the victim was not released, and it was also unclear whether the killer was caught. The victim's family did not come forward, and the whole case was like a pebble dropped into the ocean. After the initial ripples, it was forgotten by the world, which had moved on. Based on the little information he had managed to find online, Chen Ge passed through the bright lights and neon glow and came to the other side of the city. The new city, which was bright and alluring in the day, appeared particularly lonely and deserted at night. The buildings beside the road became smaller and smaller, but the air became fresher and fresher.

At the end of the paved road, Chen Ge saw an abandoned garden. Various kinds of flowers grew on the rusted iron railings. Even though it was way past their flowering season, the plants on the iron rails were blooming gorgeously like rubies in the dark. It was clear that no one had been to this place in a very long time. The place was covered in wild grass, and the trees had grown out of shape due to a lack of treatment and care.

Jumping over the railing, Chen Ge spotted a small path winding through the wild grass. Walking through the small path, Chen Ge could see in his mind's eye how beautiful this garden must have been in its prime.

“To think Jiujiang still has such a beautiful garden with a mixture of eastern and western style. If such a gorgeous place was abandoned just because of the haunting, it would be such a waste.” Chen Ge reached the end of the path, and a bungalow appeared before him. The architectural style of this building was more western, but the Chinese character for Flying Dragon and Dancing Phoenix was written on the top of the front door. “I guess I should be more careful when dealing with a Red Specter.”

Even though Chen Ge currently had many helpers, if he was careless, there was still a very high chance that the other party could slip away. Flipping through the comic, before Chen Ge summoned them out, he purposely reminded them to keep a low profile and rein in their presence. The Red Specters showed up one after another. There was no change discernible inside the abandoned bungalow until the appearance of the red high heels.

Initially, Chen Ge did not want the red high heels to come out. What he needed her to do was take in all of the ghost fetus’ memories as fast as she could. If the red high heels could become a Demon God before he headed toward the cursed hospital, the pressure on Chen Ge would become much weaker. But to Chen Ge’s surprise, the red high heels appeared to have sensed something and voluntarily materialized on her own.

To his greater surprise, once the red high heels showed up, the whole abandoned bungalow including the large garden started to be covered in this blood fog. Drops of fresh blood froze on the leaves like fresh dew. It looked quite strange. The red high heels walked past all the Red Specters. Only Xiao Bu was able to resist her presence, and this was when the red high heels had not unleashed her full power.

“You won’t have scared the target away, will you?” But soon, Chen Ge realized that his worry was unfounded. The front door of Yi Ren Pavilion was pushed open from within, and the heavy scent of medicine and stinging smell of blood drifted out at the same time. The red high heels strode into it directly. Chen Ge called the other employees to hurry and catch up.

The interior design of the bungalow was extremely bizarre. Abstract pictures of human faces hung on the walls, and the tiles were pieced together to form the outline of human faces. Almost every piece of furniture in the room had drawings of the human body on them.

“This place is too scary.” Chen Ge stood quickly in the midst of his employees. “When I return, I need to find an excuse to persuade Director Luo to purchase this place.”

Chapter 1140 - Those Who Have Escaped From the Cursed Hospital 2 in 1

Chapter 1140 Those Who Have Escaped From the Cursed Hospital 2 in 1

Everywhere he looked, he could see human faces staring back at him from inside the western bungalow. There were also pictures related to the human anatomy. It was a very strange experience walking through it. The place had been deserted for a very long time, but strangely enough, there was not even a mite of dust that could be seen. It was very clean, like someone would come and clean it every day. The red high heels walked ahead on her own. She seemed to have visited this place before. The woman with bandages wrapped all around her body walked directly into the lobby and stopped next to an indoor fountain. "Be on full alert and guard all the exits. Do not give anything inside the building a chance to escape."

Even though Chen Ge was standing among a group of Red Specters, he did not feel out of place at all. In fact, his expression was closely matched to most of the Red Specters.

The smell of blood and medicine thickened in the air. Large blood vessels started to appear on the walls, giving the feeling that they were trying to tear down the building from inside. The human faces on the walls started to cry tears of blood, and their eyes slowly moved to stare at the red high heels. Everything inside the bungalow that was related to the human bodies appeared to come alive and reveal their true selves. This place had the feeling that it was constructed from human body parts. Throughout the whole process, the red high heels showed no reaction at all; she merely stood right in front of the fountain, her eyes staring straight at the fountain that was already dry.

...

About several minutes later, the sound of water came from inside the foundation. Several female human skulls that were carved on the inner wall of the fountain opened their mouths. A horrible-smelling jet of blood poured into the fountain. The fountain slowly filled with a disgusting-smell pool of blood, forming a stark contrast to the exquisite carvings that decorated the fountain. The fountain slowly returned to normal. Blood water splashed everywhere, as if covering everyone and every object in a layer of bloody mist.

“This Red Specter intends to trap all of us, it seems,” Men Nan whispered softly. Even though he was not that strong, he had witnessed many things in his life, and he had a very brilliant mind.

“She sure is ambitious if her intention is to trap ten Red Specters at the same time.”

The red high heels next to the fountain also noticed the strange phenomenon. She continued to move forward, and with each step, the bandage on her body would slip down little by a little. The scary and curious black tattoo flowed on her body. It was a kind of grotesque beauty. Of the entire four-star Ghost Fetus Trial Mission, the Specter who had gained the most was the red high heels. She had almost consumed everything that the ghost fetus had. After the ghost fetus scenario was reconstructed, she was the one responsible for organizing and consuming the ghost fetus’ ghosts. As for how strong the red high heels really was, even Chen Ge had an idea.

All the beautiful faces inside the fountain started to become twisted as the red high heels approached. They tried their best to hiss at the red high heels. Any semblance that they had to ‘humanity’ had completely disappeared at that moment. The curse on her body expanded everywhere. The black lines cut through the fountain before her maliciously and effectively like knives. The beautiful carvings on the fountain were easily shattered, and their destruction revealed the blood vessels that were hiding inside them. The power level of the two adversaries was not even on the same level, or rather, the Red Specter inside the bungalow had not even used her full power yet.

“In the end, you have found me after all.” A very grating female voice came from deep inside the fountain. The speaker’s throat appeared to have been injured before. Her voice was very shrill and sharp. The blood inside the fountain moved to the side, the ground cracked, and there was a monster wearing a red dress buried underneath the bungalow. Her skin was startlingly pale, and several blood red flowers bloomed on her body, which fixed under the fountain by countless blood vessels.

“How did you manage to find me?” The monster lifted her head to look at the red high heels, and a smile involuntarily appeared on her lips. “My proudest patient.”

“Patient?” Chen Ge instantly captured the keyword within the Red

Specter's words. He was then reminded of the bloody heart mission related to the red high heels given by the black phone. "Could it be the red high heels was once a patient at the cursed hospital? And this Red Specter was once a doctor at the same hospital?"

Chen Ge had no idea what the Red Specter had done to the red high heels, but this was the first time he had seen the red high heels go on the offensive so actively. The black curses covered the entire bungalow. The black fog easily suppressed the blood mist. The black threads wrapped around the Red Specter's body and harshly dragged her out from the bottom of the fountain. The Red Specter did not resist; she merely cackled like she had lost her mind.

"Do you think only the patients being treated are in extreme pain? Actually, the real sufferers are us doctors! You guys can still escape, or at least have the chance to escape. But what about us? Once we chose to leave, the curse that the hospital director buried inside our bodies will be triggered, and we cannot even die and become normal ghosts!" The shrill voice echoed in the hall. The red high heels looked at the monster before her. Her eyes were filled with complicated emotions. There was some resentment and fury but also pity and melancholy.

Chen Ge walked out from the group of 'people' and came to the red high heels' side. The Red Specter who was entangled in the curse also noticed Chen Ge. A blood red flower grew out of her left eye socket. Currently, she was studying Chen Ge with her right eye.

"A living human standing side to side with a Top Red Specter?" Earlier, the Red Specter had focused all of her attention on the red high heel; she did not notice there was a normal person standing amid the group of Red Specters far behind. Initially, she thought this was a puppet that was randomly created by one of the Red Specters, but from the looks of things, this normal individual appeared to be the leader of all the Red Specters. "Now this is interesting..."

"You were once a doctor at Xin Hai's cursed hospital, right?" Chen Ge did not waste his time with introduction. He cut to the chase and said, "if you answer my questions nicely, perhaps we can still be friends."

"Are you threatening me?" The flowers on her body leaked blood. The Red Specter probably did not expect to one day be threatened by a normal living human.

"From what you said earlier, I surmised that once a person has been selected to be a doctor at that hospital, they will have a horrible ending. Even after death, they cannot become a peaceful ghost.” Chen Ge stared at the Red Specter’s eyes. Her emotions were calm; there was not even a ripple of agitation or stress in her eyes.

“Yes, the hospital director plants a seed of curse inside each doctor.” The Red Specter was now being controlled by the red high heels. She very cleverly chose not to resist and honestly answered all of Chen Ge’s questions.

“Can the curse be removed?”

“Why would you want to know about that?” The Red Specter was confused.

“I know a doctor who also escaped from your hospital. After he died, he transformed into a Top Red Specter, but the next time I encountered him, he had completely lost his mind, and he was still carrying the head of his beloved in his chest.” Many questions that had eluded Chen Ge earlier could now be explained. When Chen Ge heard what the Red Specter had to say earlier, he had instantly been reminded of Doctor Gao.

“No one can remove the curse of the hospital director. Even if one becomes an entity beyond a Red Specter, they will have to continue to bear it, unless he voluntarily gives up the curse or...” A maddening smile appeared on the Red Specter’s face. “You can somehow kill the hospital director’s soul.”

“Is the curse really that scary?” Chen Ge’s initial plan was to wait for the red high heels to become a Demon God, and then he would find Doctor Gao. With her help, they would remove the curse from Doctor Gao’s body. He planned to use this as bargaining chip to levy with Doctor Gao, but from what this Red Specter had told him, his idea was too naïve.

“It is much scarier than you think. You can say that it is incurable. Several years ago, I escaped from the hospital during one of the riots and came to this beauty parlor at Jiujiang. To resist the curse inside my body, I have to keep on changing my bodies, but even so, that only delayed the triggering of the curse inside my body.” The Red Specter’s mouth burst open, and a flower crawled out from her throat and bloomed into a giant red flower.

“What will happen after the curse is triggered? Will your soul be torn into shreds immediately?”

“The curse will take away my consciousness and turn me into a completely mad presence. The life would be worse than a death sentence.”

The description was similar to Doctor Gao’s situation when Chen Ge encountered him in Li Wan City.

“But you are very conscious of yourself at this moment.” Chen Ge had many questions that needed to be answered. The appearance of the Red Specter at this moment was very crucial to him.

“Can you see all the flowers that bloom all over my body? They are the instrument that I use to temporarily suppress the curse, but once I move too much, the curse will consume me instantly and make me lose my rationality once again.” The blood vessels and blood flowers on the Red Specter were similar to the black chains around Doctor Gao; they had the same function of suppressing the curse. Chen Ge then put forth a few more questions. Due to reason that Chen Ge did not understand, the Red Specter was very cooperative; she told Chen Ge everything that she knew.

Before she turned into something like this, the Red Specter had been the best cosmetic surgeon in Xin Hai. Her name was Xue Rong. One day, she received an invitation from the cursed hospital out of the blue. They wanted her to come in to help with a surgery. The high pay convinced Xue Rong, but when she came to the hospital and entered the surgery room at the promised time, she only then realized that her patient was not a living person. That was also the first time the red high heels had encountered Xue Rong. The surgery was not that successful, and the red high heels was taken back by the hospital.

From that day, she was followed by the curse, and in the end, she was forced to become one of the night doctors at the cursed hospital, and the red high heels was the most important patient that she was responsible for. The red high heels was originally just a Red Specter, but the hospital valued her greatly because her talent was related to curses. That was extremely rare. After frequent surgeries that were so cruel that they could not be put down in words later, when both Xue Rong and the red high heels had gotten to their lot in life, the chaos that was planned by Doctor Gao and the ghost fetus erupted.

Many patients and doctors chose to escape. Xue Rong also abandoned the red high heels on the surgical table without hesitation. She stole away the red high heels’ most beautiful face and chose to escape on her own. Most of the patients followed the ghost fetus and went to Li Wan City to hide. That night, the red high heels had gone to Li Wan City to search for traces of Xue Rong, to recover her most beautiful face. Everything was linked together somehow; the scraps of clues were now linked.

Under the gaze of the ten Red Specters, Xue Rong took out a book from her chest. With much unwillingness, she parted with the box and handed it to the red high heels. The pale fingers flipped the lid open. No one could see what was inside the box; they only felt the red high heels' presence had become much scarier than before. The red high heels appeared to have obtained the thing that she was looking for. She lost all interest in Xue Rong and slipped back into the comic. Seeing the departure of the red high heels, not only Xue Rong, even the Red Specters around Chen Ge all sighed in collective relief.

"I have already told you everything that I know. Can you let me go now?" Xue Rong collapsed in the pool of blood inside the fountain. After the box had been removed from her heart, she became much weaker. "I carry the seed of the cursed hospital on me. Even if you consume me, you will be influenced by the curse. Instead of heading to that end, how about we try to form a friendly relationship?"

Chen Ge was also deliberating over how to deal with Xue Rong. Her own body was covered in curses. If the other Specters consumed her, they would be cursed themselves. Convincing her to become an employee at the haunted house was a worse idea. What if she suddenly went out of control? All the visitors would be put in danger.

"From the moment we saw you, you have been showing your weaker side. You have no intention of showing the full capacity of what you can do." Compared to what Xue Rong said on her own, Chen Ge had more confidence in the remarks given by the black phone. Xue Rong was an extremely dangerous Red Specter; she must have many tricks up her sleeves that she did not show that night.

"As I mentioned earlier, should I try anything too drastic, the curse will be triggered. At the time, I will indeed become so scary that I will not recognize myself anymore." At this point, the cadence of Xue Rong's tone changed. "But even if I go out of control, I will not be a match for a Top Red Specter. She has grown way too powerful. Based on the prediction of the other night doctors, a talent related to curses should be the hardest to master."

"A wise woman submits to circumstances. I require all the information that you have regarding the cursed hospital inside your brain. If you are willing to lend me your full cooperation, perhaps I can one day help you break away from the curse.” When Chen Ge spoke, he did not use any special tone, but there was something in his words that could make others believe him.

“You think you can convince the hospital director to let us go?”

“I was thinking about a different method.” Chen Ge flipped through the comic and pulled Xue Rong into it. The originally blank page was dyed red instantly. Florets of flowers blossomed on the beautiful body; Xue Rong appeared to have gone to sleep.

“Yan Danian probably never imagined that so many Red Specters would one day be inhabiting his comic.” Due to the fact that Xue Rong might go out of control at any moment, Chen Ge had to ensure there would be several Red Specters inside the comic that watched over her constantly. “Alright, it is time for us to go and fetch our next employee.”

In just one night, Chen Ge found all nine baleful Specters that he had drawn from the Wheel of Misfortune. Compared to the first time he used the wheel, the effectiveness had doubled who knew how many times. When he returned to the staff breakroom, the sun was already up. Chen Ge pulled the curtains shut and prepared to lie down for a small break.

...

At the same time, inside the hospital that worked together with Jiujiang Medical University, Mr. Wang sat up from the sickbed. He reached out to pull back the curtain so that the sunlight could shower down on him.

“Mr. Wang, are you feeling better?” Zuo Han’s voice came from the bed next to him. He was currently doing pushups on the bed.

“The brain still feel a bit muddled. I feel like most of my memory is not connected. It feels like something is constantly escaping my mind.” Mr. Wang took out a notebook from the drawer. It was filled with very small handwriting detailing what had happened inside Chen Ge’s haunted house. Small details like at what time he had taken a sip from the bottle of mineral water were recorded as well. “Something is not right. The logical sequence between the series of event is not correct. My memory appears to be lying to me.”

“Sir, those things are already in the past. There is no point worrying over it any longer,” Zuo Han persuaded in a small voice.

“You don’t understand. I believe I had a glimpse of my former lecturer that night, but there is no recollection of that at all in my memory.” Mr. Wang’s brows were heavily creased. He was about to say something else when the door to the sickroom was knocked and pushed open. Two people from the university walked in with a police officer in uniform.

“Mr. Wang, the management has approved your request. You can travel to Xin Hai in a few more days,” one of the workers said. “This is one of the best officers from the local police station’s major crimes unit. He was also involved in the case that happened twenty years ago. I pulled many strings before I finally got my request to get his help from the local station approved. For your information, he will be accompanying you on your trip to Xin Hai.”

Chapter 1141 - Xin Hai, Here I Come 2 in 1

Chapter 1141 Xin Hai, Here I Come 2 in 1

“An officer from the Jiujiang station?” When Mr. Wang heard these few words, he started to frown involuntarily. “I have never required their help before. Go and tell him to return. After all, they won’t be of much help anyway.” “Mr. Wang, you have been busy recovering your body and lecturing your classes, so you might not know this,” the worker from the university said with a smile on his face. “In the past half a year, the Jiujiang station has been breaking one major crime case after another. Even if you compare them to the law enforcement over the whole country, you will see that they are the best of the best.”

“The reason I needed to recover my body is related to the Jiujiang station, so I have nothing to say to their people, and I do not care about how many cases that they have solved.” Mr. Wang appeared like he had once worked at the Jiujiang police station, but due to various reasons, his relationship with the station was rocky at best. “Like I said, tell him to leave. I am sure they currently have many cases to handle. They should not part with one of their people just to accompany me.”

The university worker looked at the police officer standing next to him helplessly. The rather old police officer walked toward Mr. Wang and said, “Brother Wang, Captain Yan has returned. He is now the leader at the local station.”

...

“Captain Yan?”

“Twenty years ago, he was the young man who requested for the case to be reopened due to the problems that he had discovered about two weeks before you did. He is now the leader at the Jiujiang station. It is under his brilliant leadership that we have managed to solve so many major cases.” The old officer appeared to recognize Mr. Wang.

“Brother Wang, the current local station is no longer the same as it was. The reason I am here today is because of Captain Yan. In fact, if possible, he wishes to see you in person before we depart. After all, you were the only person who lent your support to him back then.”

When Captain Yan's name was brought up, Mr. Wang was silent.

"I do not have the face to see him." Closing the notebook in his hands, Mr. Wang handed it over to Zuo Han. "Don't you suspect that the haunted house is really haunted? Perhaps this notebook will help guide you closer to the discovery of the truth."

"Sir?"

"I feel well rested already. Today, we will depart to Xin Hai." It was as if Mr. Wang had turned into a different person. The presence that radiated off him was completely different from before.

"You still have not changed after all this time." The worker from the university shook his head. "We have already prepared the transportation for you. You can depart at 2 pm. Before that, you'd better rest as much as you can."

...

After stretching lazily, Chen Ge was woken up by the alarm clock. After a quick freshen up in the bathroom, he hurried to open the door. Ever since he obtained the black phone, his every day had been filled to the brim with meaningful events. Be it morning or night time, almost every hour of his life was occupied by some important event. After doing the make up for his employees, Chen Ge stood inside the dressing room. Watching the employees chatting among themselves, he too felt quite relaxed within that atmosphere. "If only this kind of life could continue forever."

After he had finished the make up for everyone, Chen Ge called for a simple morning meeting to discuss the future direction of the haunted house with his employees.

"You are all now experienced actors at the haunted house. You have plenty of experience in this field and are more than capable of handling any type of sudden accident, so I am not worried about leaving the haunted house in your care."

"Boss, how come it sounds like you are going to leave us behind and go for a long trip away all of a sudden?" Xiao Gu was wearing the Doctor Skull Cracker outfit. He pulled off the mask with both hands.

"Director Luo has just bought the biggest haunted house in Xin Hai. In the near future, I will move over there to open our first branch. After the situation at the branch has stabilized, I will return here."

Opening the branch was the second important mission; the main reason Chen Ge was going there was because he wanted to deal with the cursed hospital. Currently, all the clues pointed toward the cursed hospital. His parents might be found there as well, so he had to go there no matter what.

“Boss, our situation here has just stabilized. Isn’t it a bit too rushed to suddenly open a new branch?” Zhang Jingjiu had experienced the nastiness of society before, so his thoughts were rather more reserved.

“Our base will still be this haunted house in Jiujiang. The branch in Xin Hai can only be called a trial.” Chen Ge looked at his employees. “Now, I will assign all of you some work. After I leave this place, the scenario aboveground will all be handled by Xu Wan. I will also hand her the temporary key for the haunted house to Xu Wan. Xiao Gu if you run into any problems, you should go to Xu Wan or Uncle Xu for help.”

“Okay.”

“The underground scenarios will be handled by Wu Jinpeng.” Chen Ge turned to look at the handsome uncle with the single ponytail.

“What, me? No, no, I can’t do it.” Wu Jinpeng quickly waved his hands.

“Do not worry, there are people who will come help you. This here is the list. Later, you shall go to the underground scenarios to communicate with them and see if there is anything you guys can do to ensure the operation can run smoothly.”

The whole room was filled with his trusted confidants. Most of the living employees had survived a life or death situation with Chen Ge before; he would not worry about leaving his life with them. Chen Ge handed a name list to Wu Jinpeng. It had names of several ‘people’ like Doctor Wei and Ol’ Bai on it. After being given the name list, Wu Jinpeng slowly calmed down.

“Now that the people in Jiujiang have been arranged, I will discuss the people who will come to Xin Hai with me.” Chen Ge turned to look at Zhang Jingjiu and Qu Changlin. “Changlin, you have personally worked at that haunted house before. I will give you the task to design the various scenarios and mechanisms for that haunted house. From today onward, you will be the designer of the props used in the scenarios at that haunted house.”

Qu Changlin was especially proficient at building various kinds of haunted house props and mannequins. The man himself was originally Shang Guan Qing Hong's employee, but he was lured over by Chen Ge to work for him. "Shang Guan Qing Hong did not even attempt to train you to your full potential. But now, I will provide you with a large enough stage so that you can showcase your talent as much as you can."

Chen Ge had ultimately fulfilled his promise to Qu Changlin. Back when they first met, Qu Changlin was just a bottom feeder who was not given much attention, and now he had been promoted to the main designer at Xin Hai's haunted house. That was a promotion that skipped several steps.

"Thank you, boss!" This appreciation came directly from Qu Changlin's heart.

"Qu Changlin will be responsible for the design of the set and props; the rest will be handled by Zhang Jingjiu." Chen Ge valued Zhang Jingjiu a lot. He had rescued this employee from Li Wan City, and since he started working for Chen Ge, his improvement could be seen with naked eye. He had familiarized himself with the operation at the haunted house in a mere few days and could often provide unexpected help to Chen Ge.

For example, when Chen Ge was fighting Liu Gang online, it was Zhang Jingjiu who led some of the fans to lead Liu Gang slowly into the trap. In terms of business management and interpersonal relationships, Zhang Jingjiu had done better at these compared to the other employees. Now that they were going to a new location, Chen Ge required such a talent. Furthermore, it appeared like Zhang Jingjiu himself came from a wealthy background. His own family business had been in operation in Xin Hai for years already. Combining all these different factors, Chen Ge decided to select Zhang Jingjiu as the branch manager.

"Boss, I am afraid..."

"There is nothing to be afraid of; you are the most suitable candidate." After saying a few more words, Chen Ge had his employees return to their posts and started the business for a new day. "Later tonight, perhaps I should use the nightmare mission coupon that I won from the Wheel of Misfortune. After completing this daily mission, I can consider moving to Xin Hai."

Chen Ge had done everything that he could do; he had drawn practically all of the ghosts from the black phone's Wheel of Misfortune. Even though there were still some unexplored ghost stories left in Jiujiang, exploring those deeply hidden stories would take weeks or even months. Chen Ge did not have that much time.

"The most important thing to do now is to set the scene as soon as possible by sending Xiao Sun into the hospital. That is the most crucial part." After witnessing Xiao Sun's talent in person, Chen Ge desperately wanted to send Brother Sun into the cursed hospital. The popularity of the New Century Park haunted house was rising day by day on the internet. It attracted many foreign visitors. The income of theme park had steadily increased. In contrast, there were endless problems with the futuristic theme park.

After two directors had been hospitalized, the upper management had been thrown into yet another power struggle. Many basic employees had no idea what was happening, and that seriously impacted the visitors' overall experience. All in all, New Century Park had already stabilized the situation, and it was time to overthrow the enemy.

That noon, Chen Ge suddenly received a call. It was from an auntie. She told Chen Ge that the doctor that Chen Ge had once introduced to Jiang Ming could no longer be contacted. Before this, the communication had gone smoothly. The preparation for the cochlear operation had been done already, but the doctor had suddenly gone out of contact, and this caused Jiang Ming and his mother to be extremely nervous. Chen Ge asked the auntie for a few more details, and only then did he find out that Jiang Ming's mother had already taken Jiang Ming to Xin Hai. With the auntie's help, they had found a cheap rental home to stay at. The operation was originally planned for the following day, but the surgeon had suddenly disappeared, so all of them were panicking.

"This can't be dragged on any longer. I shall depart for Xin Hai today." Chen Ge knew very well that the doctor in question had already had some problems before this. His disappearance probably had a lot to do with the cursed hospital. If he hurried over, perhaps there was still a chance to save that doctor's life. With a human life on the line, Chen Ge did not hesitate. He rushed back into the haunted house and informed Qu Changlin and Zhang Jingjiu to pack up their stuff after work that day, and they would meet up at Xin Hai's haunted house the following day.

Since Qu Changlin had worked at the haunted house before, Chen Ge did not have to purposely jot down the address for him. Picking up his backpack, due to the suddenness of the event, Chen Ge only took most of the Red Specters and the more dangerous Specters that might go out of control when he was not around with him.

“Ol’ Bai can look after White Tiger when I am gone, and I will leave the Doctor Skull Cracker costume for Xiao Gu. I will instead bring some of the new costumes with me. Perhaps they might come in useful.”

A haunted house prop that looked as suspicious as the Doctor Skull Cracker’s Hammer would never pass the security check, so Chen Ge decided to figure out a way to book a car to head to Xin Hai. Taking out his phone, Chen Ge made a call to Lee Zheng. “Brother Zheng, there is something that I need to report to you.”

When Lee Zheng got Chen Ge’s call, his heart dropped into his stomach. “Why are you reporting to me? It makes it sound like you are part of our major crimes unit. If it is nothing important, you can talk to me after I am off work. We’re still busy dealing with the case at Jiu Hong Apartments.”

“It’s like this. There is a Doctor Fang from Xin Hai who has suddenly disappeared. Based on his various actions, I suspect he is currently in a very dangerous situation.”

“How would you come to know a doctor from Xin Hai?” Since this was related to a human life, Lee Zheng pulled his attention immediately. Chen Ge summarized how he got in contact with Doctor Fang and the history of Jiang Ming and his cochlear operation to Lee Zheng.

“You’re putting me in a very hard spot! All I can do is help you contact the police at Xin Hai and inform them of the severity of the situation, pushing them to launch an investigation.” Lee Zheng had his own difficulties. He was a police officer in Jiujiang, and the case in Xin Hai was beyond his jurisdiction.

“Brother Zheng, can you send someone to accompany me to Xin Hai? If I go on my own, I definitely cannot convince the officers at Xin Hai. They will not believe my story either. That will only waste precious time. Perhaps, because of this, it might cause us to lose the precious time that could be used to save a human life.”

Chen Ge was telling the truth. If not for the fact that Chen Ge had helped the Jiujiang police so many times and cooperated so many times with them, meaning they could be sure that Chen Ge would never lie, they would not trust him so implicitly.

Lee Zheng also knew that Chen Ge was most likely not lying. He paused for a long time before he said, “We are seriously understaffed at the moment, but I heard from Captain Yan that Ol’ Wu will be heading to Xin Hai for a mission this afternoon. You can hitch a ride with him.”

“Thank you so much! Forgive me for asking this, but how is he going to Xin Hai?”

“He will be taking a transport assigned by the Jiujiang Medical University. The mission that he was given was, I believe, related to a lecturer from that university as well. But don’t get ahead of yourself. This might not work. Let me go and inform Captain Yan of this first.”

Lee Zheng hung up the call while Chen Ge carried his two large bags and called a cab to head to Jiujiang Medical University. On the way there, Lee Zheng came back with good news. Captain Yan had approved for Chen Ge to tag along with Ol’ Wu and the people from Jiujiang Medical University. At 1:30 pm, Chen Ge finally managed to contact Ol’ Wu. He placed his two large bags in the trunk. When he got into the car, he was greeted by Mr. Wang’s dark face.

He had just been scared until he fainted by this man before him, but now they had somehow found a way to sit in the same car. Mr. Wang did not even know what to say. He had many thoughts in his mind, but he did not dare voice them. He appeared to fear Chen Ge without even realizing it.

“Mr. Wang, let me make the introductions. This is Chen Ge. He has helped us solved the case of a hidden body inside cement, abandoned bodies inside an old well at a school, a killer on the loose at the Third Sick Hall, the case of Jia Ming killing his wife...” Ol’ Wu gave a random repertoire of Chen Ge’s history, and it shocked Mr. Wang.

“It feels like you two share a very good relationship, as close as actual colleagues.” Mr. Wang once again studied Chen Ge. He really could not figure out how a haunted house would come to help the police solve so many major crimes. Was the haunted house boss actually an undercover cop?

“I guess you are not wrong that. There was this week when I encountered him six times. At the time, we were working three shifts per day. I met him more often than I encountered my actual colleagues.” Ol’ Wu was once rescued by Chen Ge, so he had a good impression of the young man. “Captain Yan and Inspector Lee value his opinion as well. They often joke among themselves that it was such a loss to the law enforcement that this kid chose to open a haunted house and not serve the force.”

With Ol’ Wu there, the atmosphere in the car was not that awkward. After they got on the highway, Chen Ge drifted off to sleep. At 4 pm, Ol’ Wu first deposited Mr. Wang at his assigned living area, and he continued to drive Chen Ge to locate Jiang Ming and his mother. Xin Hai was much bigger than Jiujiang; they traveled for a very long time before Ol’ Wu found the place. He parked the car in front of a rather old-looking apartment building, and Chen Ge got his two large bags out of the trunk and entered the building.

“Room 202, is it? I’m on my way!” After hanging up, Chen Ge raced up the stairs and knocked on the door of Room 202. It was an auntie who opened the door. Chen Ge had met her at Jiang Ming’s home before. She was very kind and passionate.

“Chen Ge, I know that you are not a bad person, but the doctor that you recommended has suddenly disappeared. We really do not know what to do!”

“You need to first change the surgeon for Jiang Ming. The disappearance of Doctor Fang cannot be explained in a few words.” Chen Ge thought about it and then said, “Have you contacted the police?”

“No, Doctor Fang has not taken our money, so there is no reason for us to report to the police.” The auntie was really nice to have stayed with Jiang Ming and his mother for emotional support.

“Leave this to me then.” Chen Ge helped Jiang Ming contact another doctor. After he consoled them, he led Ol’ Wu directly toward the hospital where Doctor Fang worked.

“Chen Ge, are you sure something has happened to Doctor Fang? It is very inconvenient for you to carry two large bags like that. How about we find a place to stay first?” Ol’ Wu noticed the sweat on Chen Ge’s head, and he knew that Chen Ge was really desperate.

“Doctor Fang has come into contact with things from that hospital. If we do not hurry to find him, I am afraid we might not be able to find him at all.” Chen Ge knew that Doctor Fang was a very good doctor, and it was because Doctor Fang was the best in his specialization, so he was worried that the cursed hospital might have gone after him.

Chapter 1142 - A Good Person? 2

in 1

Chapter 1142 A Good Person? 2 in 1

“There are still three and a half hours until night falls. We have to investigate the places that Doctor Fang has been to before he disappeared,” Chen Ge said adamantly. When he stayed together with Ol’ Wu, those who did not know would assume he was the police officer and Ol’ Wu was just the driver. As Ol’ Wu drove away, he could not help but ask in confusion, “Why can we only conduct the investigation when there is still light? Do you have something else to do at night?” “The city will not be safe at night.”

“Xin Hai is the safest city on the northern side of China. Some of the business areas here operate for twenty hours. It has the nickname ‘the Eastern City that Never Sleeps’.” Ol’ Wu gripped the steering wheel. “Shouldn’t you youngsters be more familiar with these things than me?”

Chen Ge smiled but did not explain. Twenty minutes later, they arrived at Xin Hai Second Hospital. The whole of Xin Hai City had eleven top grade hospitals, and the Second Hospital that Doctor Fang was posted at was ranked at the forefront of the ranking and situated at the busiest part of Xin Hai.

...

Chen Ge and Ol’ Wu, who was wearing his police uniform, walked to the administration counter. “Hello, I would like to ask you some questions about one of your doctors here.”

The nurse on duty initially did not want to respond to Chen Ge, but when she saw the uniform that Ol’ Wu was wearing, her attitude became much better. With the accompaniment of the nurse, Chen Ge came to the unit for ENT specialists. There was currently a doctor who was inspecting a patient’s body.

“Doctor Fang has missed work for many days now. I personally have no idea what is going on. The doctor inside is called Doctor Zhao. He is Doctor Fang’s closest colleague and best friend, so he should know some information.”

After leaving that nugget of information, the nurse of duty left to return to her desk. Chen Ge and Ol' Wu waited for Doctor Zhao to finish his consultation with his patient before they entered his room.

"Which one of you is the patient?" Doctor Zhao was very busy. He appeared like he needed a very good rest. He had heavy bags under his eyes, and he looked rather dispirited.

"We are not here to consult the doctor." Chen Ge pointed at Ol' Wu next to him. "This is one of the best inspectors from the major crimes unit from the police station."

Chen Ge did not introduce himself and did not specify that Ol' Wu belonged to the Jiujiang's police station. Even though his entire sentence was nothing but the truth, it gave off the feeling that both of them were people sent over by Xin Hai's police station.

"Inspector?" Doctor Zhao immediately understood the severity of the situation. "Are you here for Doctor Fang?"

"Looks like you really do know something." Chen Ge planted himself on the chair, and the real police officer, Ol' Wu, stood at the door.

"I told the officer from your station the actual details yesterday, but I did not expect another visit from your inspector again today, so it looks like Doctor Fang has already..." Doctor Zhao did not finish the sentence, but the intention that was in his words was not lost on everyone inside the room.

"Do not ask questions that you should not. You only need to tell us the information that you know." Chen Ge picked up a piece of paper and a pen from the table and prepared to start his inquiry. The feeling that he gave off was very professional.

"The past few weeks, Doctor Fang has been performing very badly. He even made a mistake during one of his surgeries. The number of patients who have complained about him has grown larger and larger. This would never have happened in the past. Ol' Fang is the best ENT specialist we have ever had."

"Could Doctor Fang's mental condition be related to his family members?"

"I saw Ol' Fang's family just yesterday. His wife and daughters are perfectly normal. They couldn't be more worried about him. Oh right!" Something appeared to have just occurred to Doctor Zhao. "From what Ol' Fang's wife told me, Ol' Fang would often spend time mumbling to himself, saying things like they are coming soon, they are very happy, and they are already here.”

“They are already here? Was someone following Doctor Fang and stalking him?” Ol’ Wu closed the door of the consultation room and walked over. He did not expect to stumble upon such a curious case as soon as he arrived in Xin Hai with Chen Ge.

“A few days before he disappeared, Ol’ Fang had serious problems sleeping. He kept hiding next to the bedroom window holding a knife and would keep sneaking glances outside the window as if there was someone standing there outside their house. His wife and daughters were very afraid, and they could not help themselves from looking out the window as well, but they never see anyone out the window. There was no one down there.” Doctor Zhao sighed. “Ol’ Fang’s wife prepared to book an appointment with the psychologist here for him, but before the appointment could be arranged, Ol’ Fang disappeared.”

“Doctor Fang’s wife and daughters did not see anyone outside the window, yes?” Chen Ge repeated as confirmation.

“Ol’ Fang’s wife did not see anything, but his youngest daughter yesterday told the people from the police station that there was a woman who would not stop smiling hiding at her home.”

“A woman who could not stop smiling?” Chen Ge narrowed his eyes, and the name instantly floated up in his mind—Non-smilers.

“The station naturally sent people to check Ol’ Fang’s home, and they did not find any traces of this mysterious woman. They concluded that Ol’ Fang’s daughter had probably been under too much pressure lately, so she had been seeing things.”

“The things that she saw would still be related to her own memory. The woman who kept smiling would not appear out of nowhere in her mind. They should have followed this thread much further.” Chen Ge did not go into deep criticism about the things the police from Xin Hai had done; all he wanted to do now was find Doctor Fang as soon as possible. “Doctor Zhao, do you know who the last person who saw Doctor Fang was?”

“I believe that person would be me.” Doctor Zhao looked like he had aged several years in this short questioning. “Ol’ Fang had just requested half a month off, but before his holiday was over, he suddenly came back to work a few days ago. From the looks of it, he appeared rather normal, so I believed he had recovered. At the time, I did not think too much of it, and I even invited him to go have a few drinks with me after work.”

“Doctor Fang disappeared at the hospital?”

“For now, the evidence appears to suggest that. After his shift ended, no one saw Ol’ Fang leave the hospital. He locked himself inside his own room. I have no idea what he was doing inside. When I came to work the next morning, people told me Ol’ Fang had already disappeared.” Doctor Zhao was filled with regret. “If only I’d paid more attention to him that day, perhaps things might’ve ended up differently.”

“You should not blame yourself; this has nothing to do with you. You did everything you could.” Chen Ge frowned deeply in thought as he tried to think back to his first phone conversation with Doctor Fang. Doctor Fang had indeed mentioned he was being followed by non-smiler, and he had also brought up the recent reconstruction of the hospital’s storeroom and his finding an envelope in the old storeroom. After opening it, he had found a letter that requested him to go to an abandoned hospital at midnight. If he refused to do so, something bad would happen.

“Doctor Zhao, a few weeks ago, your hospital updated the hospital’s storeroom, didn’t it? Did Doctor Fang visit the old storeroom at the time?”

“How did you know that?” Doctor Zhao was truly surprised. From his point of view, the renovation of the storeroom was a completely different separate from Doctor Fang’s disappearance. There was no connection between the two at all.

“Try to think back to that period. Did the strange behavior about Doctor Fang start during the time he entered the old storeroom?” Chen Ge put down the pen he had taken and placed the paper note on which he had jotted down the important information into his pocket.

“Now that you mention it... that does ring true.” More surprise appeared on Doctor Zhao’s face. The feeling that Chen Ge gave off was completely different from the local officer that had visited him the previous day. “No wonder you guys are inspectors. Even such details do not escape your notice.”

“If it is not too much trouble, do you mind bringing us to visit the old storeroom now?”

“Of course not. Besides, the place is pretty much abandoned now.” Doctor Zhao was very good friend of Doctor Fang’s, so he was more than willing to help. After informing another doctor of his departure, Doctor Zhao led Chen Ge and Ol’ Wu out of the hospital.

“The old storeroom is not at the hospital?” Chen Ge asked with curiosity.

“A few years ago, our hospital changed address. The storeroom is still at the old address. The old hospital only has a few specialist units left over there.”

Twenty minutes later, the three arrived at the hospital’s original address. After they got the key from the manager, they entered the old storeroom. The place had just been cleaned, and the rows of shelves were all empty; there was practically nothing left in the room.

“When you guys were cleaning up the room, which area was Doctor Fang responsible for?”

“I believe it was at the inner part of the storeroom.” Doctor Zhao took out the key that would open the iron door leading deeper into the storeroom. “Due to the aging electrical circuit, the lights inside are not functioning that well. The place is very dim. The nurses at the time refused to go with him. If I’m not mistaken, Ol’ Fang entered the place on his own that day.”

“The middle of this storeroom is partitioned off with an iron door? Who designed the place like this? What is the purpose of this?”

“I have no idea.” The three entered the inner room and discovered things that would never be used at a hospital, like an old, white wedding dress and pairs of shoes covered in a layer of dust. Inside the dark room, just these rows of tattered shoes gave off a very creepy feeling.

“I have no idea why these things would be found here. The old gentleman who guarded this place when it was built passed away many years ago. This place is commonly locked up. If not for the fact that the new hospital director wanted to redo the storeroom, no one would have known that there were so many shoes abandoned here.” Doctor Zhao held the flashlight and keys. His heart was palpating with an indescribable fear.

“There are all different styles of shoes, and the sizes are all different. Is it possible that one of the former guards here liked to collect dead people's shoes? Could he have stolen all of the dead people's shoes and then stored them here?" Chen Ge mumbled to himself. He did not notice the expressions on Ol' Wu and Doctor Zhao's faces that had gotten paler and paler.

"I have to say, if you don't mind, your supposition is rather unbelievable." Doctor Zhao pointed at the surrounding shelves. "All of these shoes on the shelves were once worn by dead people? I realize the process of thinking for you inspectors is really different from us normal people."

Ol' Wu touched his nose. He wanted to say something else, but after what Doctor Zhao said, he suddenly did not know how to voice his thoughts. Chen Ge, who walked at the front, did not answer. He suddenly stopped after walking past two shelves. "The shoes on the earlier few shelves were all neatly arranged. How come only the shoes from this shelf are on the ground? Someone has tripped here before!"

Narrowing his eyes, Chen Ge compared the location where the shoes had fallen and tried to reconstruct what happened that day.

"Someone who was about my height found something around this spot where I am standing. He was shocked, and his body knocked into the shoe rack, so the shoes got knocked off and spread to the two sides." Chen Ge had very sharp observational skills. Just based on where the shoes had landed, he had managed to come up with many reasonable hypotheses. "What shocked the victim probably suddenly appeared behind him. When he turned around, he lost his balance, and he knocked into the shoe shelf."

Chen Ge locked onto a direction and walked toward there. Scanning the shelves on the side with Yin Yang Vision, he came upon a discovery. "What's this?"

There was a small paper ball hidden in a very inconspicuous corner at the bottom of the shelf. Chen Ge opened it up, and there was only one sentence on it.

'Do not enter the last and innermost room!'

"Doctor Zhao, take a look at this. Do you think this is Doctor Fang's handwriting?" Chen Ge handed the note to Doctor Zhao.

After taking a look at it, the latter shook his head. "It is not Doctor Fang's handwriting, but it has appeared where Doctor Fang's accident happened. It can only mean that someone was kind enough to warn him of the danger before he came in here, but unfortunately, he did not notice it at the time.”

Chen Ge held on to the paper note. This was a very important clue, so he had to look after it. “Doctor Zhao, do you still remember the people who came with Doctor Fang to this storeroom that day?”

“I do.”

“Among them, do any of them have similar handwriting to this writing on the paper note?”

“I do not think so. The handwriting of most doctors is very hard to read because we need to write prescriptions very fast.” Doctor Zhao confirmed it one more time and finally said that the note was not written by the people who went with Doctor Fang that day.

“It was not someone from the hospital, huh?” Chen Ge frowned, but after a while, he said, “To enter this place, one has to first get the keys from the management center. Could it be that someone there passed this note to Doctor Fang?”

Since they could not find more clues at the old storeroom, Chen Ge took the paper note and hurried back to the management center. After comparing the handwriting, Chen Ge noticed that the handwriting on the note was very similar to one of the managers. The manager had the surname Chi[1]. It was a very rare surname.

Chen Ge put away the paper note. He looked at the pictures of the employees that were posted on the wall and asked very loudly, “I am so sorry, but is Chi Ren here? Is he on duty today?”

“Brother Ren asked for holiday a few days ago. Is there anything that you want me to tell him when he returns?” The people at the center thought Chen Ge and Ol’ Wu were inspectors from the Xin Hai station, so they were very cooperative.

When he heard that Chi Ren had not been to work for several days, Chen Ge immediately had a bad feeling arise in his heart. “Can you give me Chi Ren’s address? We wish to ask him some questions in person. This is very important.”

The people at the management center hesitated for a while before they finally gave Chen Ge the address of Chi Ren’s apartment.

“Brother Ren does not like to communicate; he normally will not talk to strangers. So, I advise you to be prepared for no one to answer the door.” The people at the management center had bitter smiles when they mentioned Chi Ren.

“Does he have any strange habits, or has he done anything strange before?”

“There is nothing particularly strange about him... Oh, right, Brother Ren, I am sure, lives alone. In his employment information, he stated very clearly that he has no family, but he occasionally mumbles to himself, saying terms that are very scary like Chi Shou[2], Chi Yanjing[3], Chi Bi[4], and so on.”

Just the mere mention of these terms made the person at the center feel uncomfortable.

“One time, I could not help myself and asked him why he kept saying these things, and then he told me all those terms were the names of his family members.”

“He sure comes from a very strange family. Who would even think of naming their children like that?” Chen Ge did not finish the other half of the sentence. He had a feeling that this family who had the surname Chi probably had some kind of relation with the non-smilers.

With this useful information, Chen Ge had Doctor Zhao return to his post while he and Ol’ Wu travelled to Chi Ren’s apartment. They knocked for a long time, but there was no answer. In the end, it was the landlord who had come over to tell them Chi Ren had not returned for days. The landlord revealed some very important information as well. The last time Chi Ren left the apartment, he was carrying a very large bag. It was filled with water and a lot of food. It was as if he was preparing for some incoming danger, and he was going into hiding.

If my assumption is not wrong, the reason Chi Ren gave Doctor Fang the note was because he wanted to save Doctor Fang, but he failed. He was worried about the non-smilers’ revenge, so he hurried and packed up to run away in the night.

From how Chen Ge saw it, even though this Chi Ren had a very strange name, he believed that he should be a good person.

“Looks like if we want to find Doctor Fang, we need to find this Chi Ren first. He will be our next lead. Hopefully, he can give us more information that might help lead us to Doctor Fang.”

[1] Chi (吃) can be literally translated as eat.

[2] Chi Shou can be translated as 'eat hand'.

[3] Chi Yanjing can be translated as 'eat eyes'.

[4] Chi Bi can be translated as 'eat nose'.

Chapter 1143 - Which Is Scarier, Me or the Curse? 2 in 1

Chapter 1143 Which Is Scarier, Me or the Curse? 2 in 1

Chen Ge had Ol' Wu show the landlord his real identity, and then the two of them were given the permission to go inside Chi Ren's room to check. It was clear that Chi Ren had left in a hurry. The food that he ordered was abandoned, unfinished on the table; various clothes were abandoned on the couch; the drawers were left hanging open; the room was chaotic and unkempt, like it had been entered by thieves.

"Did Chi Ren tell you where he was going?"

"No, but recently, he has been calling someone. I overheard him begging that person to let him stay with them for a while. During one of the phone conversations, he even got into a huge argument with the other person." The landlord pointed at the wall. "This is an old apartment; the walls are thin. Chi Ren might look very honest normally, but he can be quite scary when he is angry."

...

"Then, did you happen to overhear any names or locations?" Chen Ge's expression was serious.

"I think they mentioned an eatery called Shi Li Xiang, and the owner of the eatery appears to have the surname Chi as well." The information provided by the landlord was very limited, so during the course of conversation, Chen Ge silently released Men Nan into the room. When they were conversing, Men Nan checked every room rudimentarily, but he did not come up with anything.

After leaving the apartment building, Ol' Wu drove Chen Ge and hurried toward Shi Li Xiang. The shop was situated on the busiest street in Xin Hai, Destiny Avenue. Coincidentally, Shang Guan Qing Hong's haunted house was close to Destiny Avenue. The two locations were in the same business circle.

Destiny Avenue has bright lights twenty-four hours a day. There will always be a crowd here, making it a clever choice for a hiding spot.

In places where there were many people, it would hinder the movement of baleful Specters. Even Red Specters would be influenced.

“Brother Wu, you can just leave me at the eatery. I have troubled you too much already today. When we have the time, I will definitely treat you to a meal.”

“Are you sure you can handle this alone? This is Xin Hai. You do not know anyone here, so please do not go and do anything dangerous on your own.” Ol’ Wu gave Chen Ge his own phone number. “If you run into any trouble, give me a call. I will do everything that I can to help you.”

“Thank you very much.” Ol’ Wu was on an official assignment to accompany Mr. Wang. Due to that, he could not stay with Chen Ge for too long, but just due to the fact that he was willing to bring Chen Ge to Xin Hai, the latter was very thankful.

Carrying two large bags, Chen Ge eventually found the eatery ‘Shi Li Xiang’. The shop was not that large, but there were many customers. There was a very long queue that led out the door. “The place has quite a good business.”

Chen Ge queued for about fifteen minutes before it was his turn. He looked at the food inside the counter, and the delicious smell of food hit him. “Boss, how come your food smells much better than other shops?”

“That is because it is cooked with a secret sauce that has been passed down through the family for generations. I can guarantee that you won’t be able to taste this delicacy anywhere else!” The boss was a big fatty, and he looked incredibly jovial.

“Then, why don’t you give me one of everything on the menu? I am particularly fond of meat.” When Chen Ge said that, he stealthily observed the boss and the employees. He did not notice any issues. This appeared to be a very normal eatery. After paying the money, Chen Ge left carrying a large bag of food. The sky was darkening, but the streets were still filled with cars. The place did not die down; if anything, it became even more crowded.

“Ultimately, Xin Hai is a big city.” Chen Ge carried two big bags and the bag of food and found Shang Guan Qing Hong’s haunted house on the corner of the street. Compared to the main avenue, there were obviously fewer people here. “When I came here last time, this haunted house still belonged to someone else.”

Just as Chen Ge stepped into the haunted house, an employee came forth to welcome him with passion, but when she saw Chen Ge's face, she immediately retreated several steps. "Chen... Chen Ge..."

The female employee had a very deep impression of Chen Ge. After all, it was due to this scary man standing before her that her own boss had been hospitalized twice.

"You will have to call me boss in the future. New Century Park has already bought this place from your previous boss." Chen Ge took out the proof of purchase from his backpack. "Go and summon all of the free employees. I have something to announce to all of you."

The nemesis had become their new boss; the expressions of all the employees in the lobby turned very ugly. The way they looked at Chen Ge was how a hapless victim would look at the villains in TV shows. To them, Chen Ge was the kind of villain who would not stop even when he had already pushed the victims to the brink of a mental breakdown.

"Don't just stand there, go!" Chen Ge did not intend to bully these employees. Even though it was this haunted house that first ruffled his feathers, Chen Ge was not a narrow-minded person. He had already forgotten about those offences in the past.

About ten minutes later, a few employees in ghost costumes and make up rushed out from their posts. Counting the receptionist and the floor boy responsible for cleaning up the place, there were about five employees gathered in the lobby.

"How come there are so few of you? Where are the rest? Is this some kind of rebellion against me?" In Chen Ge's impression, when he came last time, this haunted house had at least ten employees.

"Due to the dwindling number of visitors and the withholding of the salary, combined with the rumors of this place being haunted, many people chose to leave," the female employee said softly. "Since we are currently so understaffed, we only have our two most popular scenarios open for now."

"With such a good spot in the city, how is the number of the visitors dropping? Looks like Shang Guan Qing Hong really needs to reflect on his job." Chen Ge looked at the remaining five employees. "Shang Guan Qing Hong has already sold this place to me. If you are willing to continue working here, I welcome you to do so, but if you wish to seek employment elsewhere, I will pay the salary that Shang Guan Qing Hong owes you; we shall have a good parting.”

When Chen Ge said that he would pay them their owed salary, the remaining five employees wavered. In the ending, including the female receptionist, four of the employees chose to resign. Chen Ge cleared the debt that they were owed on the spot. “You guys do not need to come back tomorrow. I wish you the best of luck in finding a better job.”

After dealing with that, the four employees removed their make up and costumes before departing. The large haunted house only had Chen Ge and a female employee left.

“Why didn’t you resign with the rest of them?” Chen Ge looked at the female employee, and he thought that she looked rather familiar.

“I actually sleep here. If I leave this place, I won’t even have a place to stay anymore.”

“You should have saved a bit of money since you’ve worked here for quite some time, right? How come you still haven’t rented a place for yourself?” When Chen Ge asked that, he had forgotten that he himself had been staying at his own haunted house.

“My younger brother has a poor physical constitution; he needs the money for his treatment and education, so I try to save wherever I can,” the female employee said softly. She appeared to be very afraid of Chen Ge, but for the salary and a roof over her head at night, she forced herself to stand where she was.

“Family troubles are sometimes the hardest to solve. I understand.” Chen Ge nodded. “Why don’t me add my phone number first? I will send you the salary that Shang Guan Qing Hong owes you. From now on, you shall stay here to continue to work.”

“Thank you... boss.”

“Have we met before? I keep feeling like you look very familiar.”

“My name is Hu Die. Everyone calls me Xiao Die. When you came to visit last time, it was me who played the Pen Spirit game with you,” the female employee answered softly.

“So that was you! Without the make-up, I couldn’t recognize you.” Chen Ge finally realized who she was. When he played the Pen Spirit game with Xiao Die, during the second round, he had taken out the ballpoint pen where the Pen Spirit was hiding, and he had scared Xiao Die until she fainted. To avoid the awkwardness, Chen Ge changed the subject, "The people outside keep on saying that this haunted house is really haunted. I think you have personally experienced it before, so why do you insist on working here? Are you not afraid?"

"In this world, there is nothing scarier than poverty." Xiao Die squeezed her hands together. She seemed to come from a very bad family.

"Don't think about those unhappy things anymore. Keep working at this job. I do not dare guarantee that you will get rich, but I can at least promise that you shall one day get double your current salary."

Chen Ge did not like to give empty promises. Once he said something, he would try his best to make it into a reality.

"The employee benefits I have are much better than what Shang Guan Qing Hong gave you, so I suggest you find a place outside of this place to stay. Do not take this as me chasing you away, but after I visited this place last time, I realized that there is indeed some problem with your haunted house." Chen Ge started into Xiao Die's eyes. "There are certain things here at night. For your own safety, you'd better move out and find a place to stay."

Xiao Die nodded. She looked rather pitiful.

"Come, bring me on a tour of the haunted house. Last time I was here, I went through the place in quite a hurry. I believe I have not seen many of the scenarios before." Chen Ge and Xiao Die entered the haunted house. Before they visited much scenarios, Xiao Die's phone suddenly rang. Seeing the caller ID, Xiao Die very embarrassingly excused herself to the side and answered the call.

"Sis, where are you now? Can I stay with you guys tonight?" A male voice came from the other side of the phone. One could hear the voice trying to hold back his tears.

Xiao Die was caught in a conundrum. Chen Ge had just told her she could not stay at the haunted house overnight, so she really did not know how to answer her own younger brother. "But don't you have the permission to stay at the dormitory? How come you have sneaked out?"

"I really cannot stay there anymore."

“Are they bullying you again?” Xiao Die was rather angry.

“Sis, don’t ask me anymore. I am now at the entrance of your haunted house. Just let me stay with you for one night,” the boy pleaded. Xiao Die turned to Chen Ge helplessly. Before her lips opened to say anything, Chen Ge already nodded his agreement.

“That’s fine. He can stay here tonight, but this is not going to work for the long term. You’d better find out why he is unwilling to stay at his dormitory.”

“Thank you, boss.” Xiao Die hung off her phone and ran out of the scenario with Chen Ge. When they arrived at the lobby, there was a lanky high schooler with very fair skin standing there. He had a very small frame and wounds on his face. He was holding a pair of glasses that had been stomped on and broken.

“How come you came here on your own?” When Xiao Die saw the boy, she hurried over. She took a wet wipe from under the counter and cleaned up some of the dust stuck to the young man’s shirt and arms. “I will go and find some bandages. Stand here and don’t go wandering anywhere.”

After Xiao Die left, the lobby only had Chen Ge and the high schooler left.

“Your school allows their in-residence students to wander out of the campus at night?” Chen Ge placed the two big bags he was holding on the seat. He fetched two cups of water. He placed one before himself and the other before the young man.

The male student did not accept the water offered by Chen Ge; he did not seem to like Chen Ge. “Are you my sister’s colleague? How come there are only the two of you here tonight?”

“Do you have a problem with that?” Chen Ge took a sip of the water and smiled. They were not on the same level at all. Xiao Die’s younger brother stood transfixed. He held the broken glasses and did not dare say a word. Moments later, Xiao Die ran out with the haunted house’s first aid kit and dressed her younger brother’s wound as best as she could. During that period, Xiao Die asked her brother what had happened many times, but her brother clammed up like a shell. After she was done with his wounds, the young man grabbed his school bag and raced into the haunted house. He appeared to know where the staff breakroom was, so this should not be the first time he had run to the haunted house to seek help.

“Hu Yuan! Wait a minute!” Xiao Die shouted twice before the high schooler stopped moving.

“I do not know anything. Can you please stop asking me questions?” Hu Yuan had great emotional swings. It was a clear representation of his inner emotional state.

“This is my new boss, Chen Ge. If you want to stay at the haunted house, you must at least get his permission first. That is basic manners.” Xiao Die dragged Hu Yuan to stand before Chen Ge.

“He can stay here tonight, but what can hiding here one night change?” Chen Ge walked to stand before Hu Yuan. “Fear will not dissipate because you run away from it. Eventually, you will have to face it. Why don’t you share your problems with us and let me and your big sister help you?”

Ever since he obtained the black phone, Chen Ge had met many problematic children and had collected many useful experiences when dealing with him. With his coaxing and persuasion, Hu Yuan finally told the truth.

There were four students in his dormitory room, and the other three kept on ganging up on him. Normally, he would have just ignored them, but that afternoon, after school, the three bullies shoved an envelope to him. Hu Yuan did not want it. In the end, the three of them stayed to make horrid jokes about his sister, and that angered Hu Yuan enough to get into a physical fight with them. The thin Hu Yuan was naturally not their match. After being beaten up, he did not want to return to the dormitory room, so he chose to come to his sister’s place. It was typical school bullying. Xiao Die was very angry; she wanted to go to the school to talk to the teacher tomorrow.

“They wanted to give you an envelope?” Chen Ge caught onto this strange detail. “Did you take the envelope in the end?”

“Cao Fei shoved the envelope inside my pocket. I initially wanted to throw it away, but I hesitated after I saw the content of the envelope.” Hu Yuan took out an envelope from inside his school bag. “I don’t think you guys should look at it. I will figure out a way to deal with it later.”

Actually, Chen Ge did not mind this detail, but when he saw the envelope, his eyes slowly narrowed. There was a very dark print left on the surface on the envelope. “Why would there be human blood on the envelope?”

Chen Ge took the envelope and held it in his hands. Ignoring Hu Yuan's protest, he opened the envelope. Other than a few strands of hair of varying lengths, there was also a patient list. The list did not have the patient's name, but there were a few sentences written with red ballpoint pen on the back.

"Please clip a piece of your hair and place it inside the envelope and hand the envelope to the next person. If you do not pass the envelope to the next person before night falls, I will appear inside your house at 4:44 am.

"If you do not pass the envelope to the next person within the next three days, I will appear before your eyes at 4.44 am."

"A cursed letter? How juvenile." Studying the hair inside the envelope, Chen Ge knew that many people had received this envelope already.

"You'd better return the envelope to me. I heard Cao Fei say that he really saw something last night." Hu Yuan reached for the envelope but was evaded by Chen Ge.

"At your current age, the most important thing you need to focus on is your studies. Just ignore everything else." Chen Ge patted Hu Yuan's shoulder. "The person who handed you this letter is called Cao Fei, correct?"

"Yes."

"Does he also stay at the school dormitory like you?"

"What do you plan to do?" Hu Yuan was stunned. He turned to his big sister, but Xiao Die also had no idea what Chen Ge was planning.

"I plan to appear beside his bed at 4:44 am tonight." Chen Ge put the envelope away with a smile. "I'm just kidding. You must be tired. Go in and get some rest."

His expression was normal and easy, like nothing had ever happened. Chen Ge had Xiao Die lead him to visit the rest of the scenarios, and then he locked himself inside the headmaster's office.

"Nightmare Academy's sets are slightly better than my own haunted house. The props alone are worth quite a pretty penny." Chen Ge flipped through his comic and had his Red Specters check every corner of the haunted house. After ensuring that there were no hidden dangers, he sighed in relief.

“There are two things I need to do tonight—investigate the eatery and find the source of the cursed enveloped.” Chen Ge had seen many patient records, but this was the first time he had encountered one without a name or picture.

“After midnight, I will go and visit Cao Fei and trace it back student by student. Eventually, I will come to the source.” Chen Ge placed both of his legs on the headmaster’s office table and switched into a more comfortable posture. “The school is a place for education; those that target students shall never be forgiven.”

Chapter 1144 - Perspective of the “Victims” 2 in 1

1144 Perspective of the “Victims” 2 in 1

At 11 pm, inside the male dormitory at Xin Hai First High, the lights went off. The three male students in Room 408 had already locked the doors and windows and crawled into their beds before the lights went out. “Ol’ Cao, are you sure that you saw five people in the room last night?”

There was a rather well-built student sitting in the second bed, which was next to the window. He was wearing a basketball top, and the poster of a basketball athlete was pasted on the wall beside his bed.

“Why would I lie to you?” The student in first bed was bare chested. There were two night lights next to his bed, and he wore a pendant with a jade around his neck. “Initially, I also thought that cursed letter was nothing but a joke, so I did not give it much thought. Who would have thought there would be an actual extra person appearing in the room last night?”

...

Cao Fei, who was in the first bed, pointed at the window next to the second bed. “At the time, the person’s face was pressed against that window. I personally saw him open the balcony door and enter the room. Throughout the whole process, he had his eyes fixed on me.”

“Then, doesn’t that mean he was just standing beside my bed? What the f*ck! Why didn’t you warn me at the time? Some warning would have been helpful!”

“I really wanted to say something, but I realized I could not make any sound from my throat. Do you know the feeling of having a ghost pressing on you, holding you down? It felt just like that for me last night!” Cao Fei kept gesturing with both of his hands.

“Can you describe what that person looks like in more detail?” The student in the third bed removed his glasses and rubbed his eyes. He was very thin and tall. The textbook next to his bed had his name on it—Tian Yuan.

“I also cannot remember it that clearly anymore. I just felt there was someone there. He had been watching me as he slowly approached me,” Cao Fei said as he reached over to switch on the night lights. “Tonight, I am going to sleep with the lights on. Bros, you won’t mind, right?”

“Look at how cowardly you are. If you ask me, this is because you have done too many bad things, and it was your guilty conscience coming to get you.” Tian Yuan picked up the textbook next to him and resumed his study. He was a very hardworking student, but that did not change the fact that he too was a bully. “Speaking of which, who gave you the cursed letter in the first place? Who have you offended lately that wanted to do something like that to you?”

“Oh, it was nothing like that. The letter was given to me by my girlfriend. I saw how scared she was, so I voluntarily took it from her. Who knew the content of the letter would be true?” The bedside lights cast a halo on Cao Fei’s face. Once he reminisced about this incident, he could not stop the cold sweat from forming on his face.

“You are always the first to act like a hero, but now that you have to suffer the consequences, you have dragged all of your buddies down with you. I really do not know what to say other than thank you,” the male student in the basketball tank said sarcastically. “Sigh, when will I get a girlfriend of my own? Are the girls nowadays not into jocks?”

“Brother Zhuang, that is where you are wrong. I stopped the tragedy before it could get to the rest of us because I have already given the letter to Hu Yuan. He is not at the dormitory at the moment, so that ghost should have followed him home already,” Cao Fei said in a hushed tone. “Tomorrow, when he comes back to class, we will try to get some information from him, and we will frighten him even more and try to make him to stay away from the dormitory for the next few days so that the ghost will keep on following him back to his place.”

“What if he insists on coming back here?” Tian Yuan put his pair of glasses back.

“That weakling does not dare fight back. Even if he does fight back, what can he do to us?” It was clear that Cao Fei looked down on Hu

Yuan. "The only thing that he has going for him is his sweet older sister."

"Do you people know what time it is! Why aren't you sleeping yet! Turn those lights off!" The door of the dormitory was knocked on, and the dormitory manager shouted from outside the door.

The people inside the room quickly moved to oblige. After the dormitory manager left, Cao Fei used the blanket to cover the night lights, and he whispered to the room, "I am not going to sleep tonight. I will keep my phone on and take a picture of the ghost for you to see."

"I wish you best of luck. If you manage to get the picture, remember to wake us up." The bedroom became very quiet, and no one was speaking anymore. Cao Fei buried his head under the sheets and started chatting with his girlfriend via text. Young couples at the start of their romance had many topics that they would talk about, and without even realizing it, they had chatted until midnight. Looking at the amount of battery left, Cao Fei prepared to bid his girlfriend good night. The dormitory that they were in did not have a place for them to charge their phones. If they wanted to do so, they would have to wait for the next day when they went to class.

His fingers moved on the screen. Before Cao Fei could send the word 'good night', he suddenly heard a weird voice in his ears. It sounded like the room door moving. He immediately yanked back the covers and turned his gaze to the door. The door was closed, and there was nothing out of place about it. He looked around. The inside of the room was intensely quiet, so quiet, in fact, that he could hear the breathing of his other two roommates and the sound of the beating of his heart.

"Brother Zhuang? Brother Yuan? Are you guys asleep?" There was no response. Cao Fei snuck under the covers again. This time, he only allowed his eyes to peek out from underneath. The phone kept vibrating; his girlfriend was sending him new messages. Cao Fei was feeling weirdly frightened. The only person that he could talk to now was his girlfriend.

"Cao Fei? Why have you suddenly stopped talking? Have you fallen asleep? Come and chat some more with me. I am a little bit scared."

"Xiao Lu, our bedroom suddenly became very quiet. It is so quiet that even the buzzing of the mosquitos has disappeared. This is so strange!”

“Please don’t scare me like that! Have you passed the cursed letter on already?”

“Yes, I gave it to one of my roommates. He is not staying with us tonight.” When Cao Fei typed those letters, he heard another strange noise in his ears. It sounded like the water dripping and falling on the ground because the tap was not shut tightly.

“Then it should be fine. Don’t scare yourself. The curse has already been passed on to another person.”

“Let’s hope so.” After Cao Fei replied with that message, his gaze moved away from the phone screen and toward the window. Just as his eyes moved over there, they froze instantaneously because there was a face looking at him from the balcony!

His eyes blinked, and in that short moment, the face had already moved to stick itself against the glass window. Blood slid down the glass window. The handle that led to the balcony started to turn on its own. Cao Fei grabbed his phone like it was his lifeline. His heart would not stop racing. His limbs were as cold as ice, but the oxygen around him appeared to have ignited.

The balcony door that was locked from the inside was slowly opened. The temperature inside the room dropped drastically. Following the dripping sound, a man wearing a drenched red shirt appeared inside the dormitory room. The closer he got, the more twisted Cao Fei’s expression became, but he found out that his body could not react at all. The blood slid down to the floor, and the stinging stench of blood rushed into his nostrils!

The hair that was slick from water stuck on the man’s face. Only an eye that had no pupil stared at Cao Fei through the gap in between the hair.

Why? I have already sent the cursed letter away! Why have you still appeared!

It felt as if a pair of hands had gripped Cao Fei’s heart. His eyes were widened to its maximum.

Following the sound of water dripping, a hoarse voice came out from behind the curtain of black hair.

“Why do you always bully me?”

Whenever Cao Fei blinked, the person would teleport one inch closer to him.

“Why would you give me that letter?”

The soaked body was standing next to him bed. The eye that was fully white stared closely at Cao Fei.

“Why would you say bad things about my big sister? Why would you not let me lead a peaceful life? Why? Why! What have I done to you! Why? Why!”

His tone was getting more and more maddening. The Red Specter who was drenched leaned close to Cao Fei’s face. The wet black hair lingered on Cao Fei’s face. A death man’s pale face stared deeply into Cao Fei’s eyes.

“Why did you want me dead?”

“You are... Hu... Hu Yuan...” His body was leaning tightly against the headboard, Cao Fei’s body was frozen like ice. His pupils rolled upward; this scene was far beyond the threshold of horror that he could stomach. His body went limp on his bed, and the smell of ammonia later filled up the room.

“When you bully those weaker than you, you are like a horrible ghost, but when you run into an actual ghost, you perform even worse than those bullied by you.” The soaked Red Specter picked up Cao Fei’s phone and looked at the messages on it.

“What are you doing? How come you stopped answering my messages?”

“Are you still worried about the cursed letter? As long as you have passed the letter on to another person, the curse will not come to harm you.”

“Do not worry. The curse will only harm the latest unlucky b*stard. The two of us will be fine.”

Reading these messages, the Red Specters revealed a wicked grin.

...

It was already 1 am. Her roommates were all asleep, but Zhang Lu kept the night lights beside her bed on. She crossed her legs on the table as she applied something on her nails and glanced at the phone screen.

“How come he has not replied?” Zhang Lu’s fingers glided on the phone screen and wrote, “Do not worry. The curse will only harm the latest unlucky b*stard. The two of us will be fine.”

The screen in the dark finally lit up. Cao Fei had finally replied to her message.

“Where are you now?”

Zhang Lu found this question weird, but she still replied, “I am in my dorms! Where else would I be? What’s wrong?”

“I’m coming over to you now!”

“Now?” Zhang Lu looked at the time on her phone and quickly typed back a few words. “Stop kidding. It is already one in the morning.”

“I have already exited the male dormitory!”

“Are you really coming over now?”

“I have already reached the bottom of your building!”

“But the doors to the female dormitory should be locked already. How are you going to get in?”

“I have reached the first floor already!”

“First floor?” Zhang Lu looked at the messages that kept on coming. The frequency of the messages had suddenly increased. It made Zhang Lu feel very unsafe and uneasy.

“Cao Fei, I am warning you, don’t play such childish pranks on me.”

“I have reached the second floor already!”

“I have reached the third floor already!”

“I have reached the door of your room!”

The messages on the phone gave off a very strange and scary feeling. Zhang Lu gripped her phone tightly. She had a sudden feeling that it was not Cao Fei who was messaging her.

“When Cao Fei was chatting with me earlier, there was a long period when he did not reply to my messages. He claimed to have run into a ghost.” The more Zhang Lu thought about it, the more scared she became. She planned to wake up all her other roommates, but no one responded. After about ten seconds, there were no more new messages on her phone. Zhang Lu looked at the screen of her phone and silently slid to the door. She summoned all the courage that she had and slowly pushed the door open. In the dark corridor, other than the night breeze, there was nothing else.

“I knew it was a prank.” Zhang Lu bit on her lips. Her face had blanched from the fear, but that fear turned directly into anger. She fired a voice message to Cao Fei. “You sick b*stard! Do you think it is fun to scare me like that? Where exactly are you now?”

Moments later, Zhang Lu’s phone got a new message. “Look behind you.”

Zhang Lu slowly turned around, and the face of a dead man suddenly appeared behind her. “Why would you want me dead?”

...

Hanging up the phone, Wei Lijie cursed under his breath before he entered the bathroom of his own apartment.

“There are so many rich people in this world. How come I am the one who is so unlucky?” The man reeked of beer. He slumped down on the toilet and looked through the message history on his phone. “You can get much from threatening high schoolers anyway, and I still need to share the earnings with Cao Meng! F*ck! All he does is give me orders and stern faces. He really thinks he’s the mafia boss? Just wait until I climb higher than him. I swear I will work him to death...”

At this point of his complaint, Wei Lijie’s suddenly felt a pressure on the back of his neck. He lifted his head to look up in a blur, and he realized that there was a man in red shirt who was dripping wet standing at the top of his head. The blood leaked out from the shirt. Wei Lijie blinked several times, and the alcohol dissipated from his bloodstream immediately.

“Who gave you the cursed envelopes?”

“Cao... Cao... Cao Meng!” The man did not even take the time to put his pants on. He jumped up from the toilet and rammed into the bathroom door. He ran into the living room but was tripped by his own pants, which were tangled around his ankles. The sound of blood dripping echoed in his ears. He tried his best to crawl toward the door until his head bumped into something. Lifting his head to look, a fatty with an impossibly large body was reaching out to grab his head.

“Help! Help... Hmm!”

...

Cao Meng, who was busy partying at the night club, suddenly got a call from Wei Lijie. Due to the booming music, he could not hear what the man was saying. With great annoyance, he left the dance pool and entered the bathroom alone. “You’d better have something important to tell me to disturb me when I’m partying!”

He waited impatiently for a while. Just as he was about to hang up, an unfamiliar voice suddenly came from the other end of the line. “Why did you hand me that cursed envelope?”

“What envelope?”

“Why would you want me dead?”

“Wei Lijie, if you really want to know, the answer is that there is no reason. I just want you dead. So, what are you going to do about it? Someone has gotten too big to work for me, is that it?” Cao Meng hung up the call directly. His mind was still on the girl that he had been dancing with earlier. Grabbing the door handle of the bathroom, Cao Meng was heading out when a pale hand suddenly appeared on the door handle, placing itself on his own hand!

“What the f*ck!” Cao Meng whipped his head around, but he did not see another person in the bathroom with him. “Have I had too much to drink tonight?”

Just as he was confused, he heard a small voice from one of the cubicles. It sounded like the sound of a woman. He slowly approached the cubicle. Just as Cao Meng was about to reach the cubicle, the door slithered open, and a slender leg that was so white that it had no color to it extended out.

“A woman has snuck into the male toilets in the night club? I should teach her what kind of danger she might run into doing something as reckless as that.” Cao Ming’s heart was palpitating from the dirty thoughts. With the buzz of alcohol clouding his mind, his eyes could not stray away from that leg that appeared to be inviting him. Just as his eyes were fixed on the leg, a breath-takingly beautiful head dropped down beside that leg. She was staring at Cao Meng with the most beautiful smile.

Cao Meng's body stopped moving. In that moment, Cao Meng felt that even his own heart had stopped beating. His mind was drawing a blank as he collapsed to the ground.

...

At 4:40 am, Lan Xiaochen had just finished giving a horrible review to a horror movie that he had not even seen. Naturally, that got a strong reaction from the fans of the movies. He happily starting to troll these people. This was the happiest moment of his everyday life. The pressure that he suffered during the day was released at that moment. He enjoyed eliciting anger from others and felt a sense of satisfaction because these people were unable to do anything to him due to his anonymity behind the screen.

"You guys should be thankful that I have spent the little precious time that I have to write a review for your beloved movie. What more do you want from me?" He trolled the people for about ten minutes until he was banned by the moderator. Lan Xiaochen slammed heavily on the keyboard. "Such cowards. But never mind."

He scoffed chillingly and opened a new sub account to continue his trolling in the movie review segment. He used the worst language to curse all those people. "How I wish my curses could turn into reality and ruin the things that this group of trash values so much."

Lan Xiaochen stared at the ID of the moderator on-screen and looked at all his sub accounts as his comments were deleted. He took out an envelope from his drawer. "There is only one last envelope left. I wonder if it will work on an internet ID."

The time passed by second by second. When it was 4:44 am on the clock, Lan Xiaochen stuffed the written letter into the envelope, but before he could even seal it, the lights in the room suddenly all went out.

"What's this? A power cut?"

The light from the streetlight filtered into the room. Through the dim lighting, Lan Xiaochen realized that a few shadowy figures were flickering inside his room.

Chapter 1145 - From Today Onward, We Are Friends 2 in 1

Chapter 1145 From Today Onward, We Are Friends 2 in 1

A heavy stench of blood permeated the air. The originally spacious room suddenly felt so incredibly crowded. The chilling cold light from the screen lit up his surroundings. Lan Xiaochen stood before the computer table, holding the cursed envelope, and slowly turned around. "Who's there? Come out and face me!"

The man who was normally so courageous and fearless shouted loudly in the direction of the living room. Unfortunately, all that replied to him was the static of electricity. Inside the empty living room, the television set was suddenly switched on, and the black and white static appeared on the screen like snowflakes. Lan Xiaochen picked up the badminton racket next to his computer table and slowly nudged step by step to the living room. Perhaps it was a psychological trick or something else, but he felt a sense of déjà vu regarding this whole situation.

A barely discernible sound of crying came from a corner of the room. The computer suddenly started to play the horror movie that he had been watching earlier. The segment that Lan Xiaochen had critiqued as extremely clichéd to the point of boring him was replayed again and again. The things that occurred to the main character inside the movie when he was watching a horror movie had replicated it perfectly now in his real life.

...

The familiar conversation floated out from the speakers. The heavy breathing and the nervous tone kept on stimulating Lan Xiaochen's brain. Even though he was unwilling to admit it, he was really afraid at that moment. "Come out now! Or I will call the police!"

An overwhelming sense of helplessness overcame his body. Lan Xiaochen yelled at the living room as if raising his voice might increase his courage. He was facing away from the screen of the computer as he moved to the door between the living room and his bedroom. He noticed there was a bloody handprint left on his front door's handle, as if someone had opened the door from inside his house.

At that moment, the horror movie playing in his computer reached its climax. The male main character realized that the ghost from the horror movie he was watching had escaped into his own home. He wanted to escape from his house, but he suddenly noticed that the door of his house was locked.

Seeing the bloody handprint on the door handle, Lan Xiaochen suddenly realized that someone had entered his own house; this place was no longer safe. He moved very slowly, but as he approached the front door, he suddenly picked up speed.

When both of his hands gripped the door handle, he realized, no matter how hard he tried, he could not turn the door open. Fear had completely swallowed up his sense of rationality. The man who thought he was so above other people, the man who spent his daily nights trolling fans of different horror movies, that man felt the prick of fear for the first time in his life.

“How come the door won’t open?”

He shook the door as hard as he could, but the door refused to budge even an inch. However, blood started to leak from the edges of the door!

The main character on-screen was caught in the same conundrum. He took out his phone to call the female lead for help. In real life, Lan Xiaochen also took out his phone in a panic. However, this person had no close friends, so he was calling the police for help. The scene in the movie and the scene in real life had run parallel, and the result was surprisingly similar. The phone call was soon answered, and a stranger’s voice came from the other side of the line.

“You cannot escape.”

Trickles of blood and pale faces started to appear in the room. Shadowy figures wearing red outfits surrounded Lan Xiaochen, who was so scared that he had started to convulse. Lan Xiaochen, who was never afraid of voice his opinion and who was always ready for a fight on the internet, was currently shivering with the corner of his mouth bubbling with white froth, calling his mother with tears in his eyes. A boy in a red shirt dragged Lan Xiaochen to his side. He opened the front door, and there was a young man carrying a backpack standing outside the door.

“He is the source of the curse? Not even a Red Specter?” The young man entered the room and closed the front door behind him. “So, I was getting excited for nothing...”

Sitting on the sofa, the young man took out a comic from his backpack, and he started to flip through it. A pail of blood splashed on the top of Lan Xiaochen’s head. The man instantly waved his hands as if he was thrown inside an icy pool. His first instinct was to cry out for help.

“Chen Ge, wouldn’t it be much easier for you to have Zhang Yi look through his memories? Why waste time with this extra step?” Men Nan clamped his hand over the Lan Xiaochen’s mouth. He looked at the sticky white stuff on his palm and felt disgusted.

“Zhang Yi’s ability is to hide and remove part of one’s memory. If this man’s memory has already been tampered with, Zhang Yi will not be able to recognize it. To prevent us from being misdirected, I’d prefer hearing the truth from the horse’s mouth first. We cannot afford to be too careful.” Chen Ge was a very cautious person. He first wanted the young man to very carefully think over the things that he had done. “Hey, I will ask you a few questions now. I hope you will answer them honestly. If I find out you’re lying, I will make you see how difficult living can be.”

With his brain slowly coming back online, Lan Xiaochen was half lying on the ground. He used the remaining energy in his body to force his head to nod. Just from the tone that he employed, Lan Xiaochen knew that the young man sitting before him was someone he could not afford to offend. Lan Xiaochen might not be afraid of anything or anyone on the internet, but in real life, he was even more cowardly than a mouse.

“Who gave you the blank cursed letter?”

“No one gave it to me. I stole it from an abandoned hospital.” Lan Xiaochen placed the envelope on the ground with his trembling hands. “This is yours, right? I won’t dare do this again. Please forgive me.”

“Someone like you dared to sneak into an abandoned hospital to steal something? You have to be kidding me.” The incredulity was clear on Chen Ge’s face.

“I made a bet with someone on the internet that we would all go spend a night inside that hospital. I was just saying it for fun. Who knew they would really come to Xin Hai in person? I could not hide from them, so I was dragged by them along to the hospital.”

“Where is the exact location of that hospital?”

“The hospital was in Xin Hai’s countryside. The surrounding area has basically not been developed. It’s a very desolate place.” Lan Xiaochen was clearly at the point of crying already. “There were three of them in total. They were all visitors from Jiujiang. Jiujiang must be a very incredible place because each of them was more courageous than the next. Who knows what kind of training they underwent daily?”

“They entered the hospital with you?” Chen Ge did not expect visitors from Jiujiang to appear in Xin Hai.

“I was the first to enter, but once I escaped from their line of sight, I instantly went into hiding. After they had all gone into the building, I ran out of it immediately.” This proved how nefarious this Lan Xiaochen was. To put it more frankly, he was human scum, plain and simple.

“Did the rest of the visitors come out from the hospital?” Chen Ge was more concerned about the safety of the visitors.

“I have no clue. I have waited outside the hospital for half an hour, but there was noise at all coming from inside the hospital. It was as if the three of them had been eaten by something inside the hospital.” Lan Xiaochen’s voice was stammering. He was still very afraid of Chen Ge. “The place was very scary at night. I did not dare stay there for too long, so I ran home on my own. But I returned to the place the following afternoon. I found one of the visitors’ wallets in a corner of the hospital lobby. All the identification documents inside the wallet had disappeared. Instead, all that was left were the three blank patient records and a paper note.”

“Did you call the police after that?”

“No, I assumed they’d left on their own. This could not be counted as a disappearance, and there was no sign of any dead bodies, so I had no reason to report to the police, right?” It was unclear whether Lan Xiaochen was trying to convince Chen Ge or himself.

“Where are the three blank patient records and the paper note now?” Chen Ge’s face was dark as a storm, and the atmosphere inside the room was equally suffocating.

“I have already used two of the patient records. The last one is inside this envelope.” Lan Xiaochen shrunk his neck back like a turtle. “Initially, I really did not know this patient record can curse someone. It was not until the day the neighbor’s dog would not stop barking. I was just intending to give it a try, so I wrote down their name. Who would have thought the whole family would get sick and die? The dog was the last to perish.”

“You said, other than the three patient records, there was also a paper note, right? Go and get it for me. I want to take a look at it.”

Lan Xiaochen initially wanted to use that paper note as a bargaining chip, but he realized that he did not have the courage to sit on the bargaining table with Chen Ge. “The paper note is inside the locked drawer inside my bedroom. The key is inside my pocket.”

Men Nan took out the key and headed into the bedroom. Moments later, he handed the paper note to Chen Ge. Lan Xiaochen might call it a paper note, but it was actually a page that was torn out from a book. There was a dark stain of dry blood left on it, and once one looked closer, one would realize the blood stain was hiding a sentence.

“This is a sickened world, why have you not discovered that fact? I swear to cure you!”

These simple words had a very special power. They would give the reader a strange feeling, as if the statement was meant for them.

“A sickened world? I think you’d better work on curing yourself first.” Chen Ge used Yin Yang Vision to study the words on the page. The more he looked at them, the more confused he became. The black blood stain had a clear layering to it, as if people kept writing the same message on the same part of the page over and over again. “This feels like a notice, but at the same time, it could be some kind of hint. Could it have been left behind by the doctors of the cursed hospital? But why would this page be placed together with the three blank patient records?”

Chen Ge had fought with the cursed hospital several times already. This was the first time he had encountered a blank patient record. This was not something that someone could pick up randomly from the floor.

“I have already told you everything I know,” Lan Xiaochen whispered. “So, can you...”

“I can give you a quick release.” Chen Ge waved his hand, and Zhang

Yi directly crawled into Lan Xiaochen's brain. A person the size of an adult crawled into another person's body through his head. This kind of horrifying scene happened almost daily before Chen Ge. With regards to Lan Xiaochen, it was not that important anymore. After all, when Zhang Yi exited his body, some of his memory would be hidden away. Ten seconds later, Zhang Yi crawled out of Lan Xiaochen's body, and all the red Specters in the room disappeared. The television screen switched off, and everything returned to normal, but the world had lost an internet troll and had gained a young man who had a renewed appreciation for life.

"Lan Xiaochen was not lying, but there was a part of his memory that was very blurry. Even I could not see through it clearly." Zhang Yi followed beside Chen Ge, walking in the shadows of the city.

"Which part?"

"Be it the first time he entered the hospital or the time he returned to the hospital, the details about these two incidents were all very blurry. In fact, perhaps he had not actually entered the hospital, but he was made to believe that he had entered the hospital." Zhang Yi gestured with his hands. "I believe the enemy have an entity that can control memory as well, and they are much more powerful than me."

"The cursed hospital also has someone who can control memories? Looks like I have to figure out a way to turn you into a Red Specter. Your current state as a Half Red Specter is no longer good enough to deal with the current dangerous situation." The Specters who had more unique powers would have a harder time achieving a breakthrough. Chen Ge was very familiar with that fact. He wanted to cultivate Zhang Yi, but unfortunately, he had not found sufficient 'food' for him. He had befriended most of the Specters in Jiujiang already. He could not bring himself to feed them to his employees, but the situation was completely different now that he had arrived in Xin Hai.

"Do you think it is possible that Lan Xiaochen was a chess piece employed by the cursed hospital? Be it the cursed letter received by Xiao Die's younger brother or the supposed disappearance of the visitors from Jiujiang, these two incidents feel so premeditated. It's as if they're inciting me to speed my investigation up." Chen Ge's mind was moving quickly, contemplating various possibilities.

"I honestly have no idea."

“You’d better return to the comic to rest. Thank you for everything you have done tonight.” Chen Ge pulled his employees back into the comic, and he strode down the street alone. “I mustn’t act too rashly. Both Zhang Yi and Yan Danian are extremely rare Specters, so what I need to do now is train them to become Red Specters.

“Once these unique Specters around me become Red Specter, they will become a force to be reckoned with!”

Chen Ge’s mind was made up. Yan Danian, who was just a baleful Specter, was already determined by the black phone as a Lesser Red Specter, a Specter most powerful among all the baleful Specters, so if he turn into a Red Specter, would he not become a Lesser Demon God?

“I need to find a chance to sneak Xiao Sun over first and then take it slow. We will see who exhausts the other first.”

At 5 am, Chen Ge returned to Destiny Avenue. He was about to return to Nightmare Academy when he saw someone walk out from the backdoor of Xi Li Xiang eatery. The person looked similar to Chi Ren from behind.

Carrying his backpack, Chen Ge quietly snuck over. The sun was just coming up. It was the time of the day when Destiny Avenue least crowded. The person who snuck out from the backdoor of Xi Li Xiang was pulling along a suitcase. He carefully looked up and down the road as if trying to hide from someone. Chen Ge slowly approached, his footsteps not making any noise. He stared at the man for a long time before finally matching the man to the picture of Chi Ren that he had seen on at the management center.

“Have you been chased out by the boss?” Chen Ge’s voice suddenly appeared beside the man’s ear. It scared him so much that blood drained from his face.

“Who are you?”

“I am the new boss of the haunted house next door. If you have nowhere else to go, I’d be happy to take you on.” Before Chen Ge even finished, the man made a very strange gesture. He closed his mouth with both of his hands.

“What’s wrong? Are you not feeling well?” Chen Ge used his body to block the road. The man shook his head quickly. Finally, he took out his phone and type the following on it. ‘I do not want to harm you!

Please go away!’

“Harm me?” Chen Ge used his Yin Yang Vision to stare at the man for a long time. After he ensured that he was indeed dealing with Chi Ren, he looked at the surrounding. They were at the backdoor of Xi Li Xiang eatery, and there was no surveillance camera there.

“You have trouble looking after your own safety, but you still care about harming an innocent passerby. Looks like you are indeed someone trustworthy.” Chen Ge took out the comic. Blood vessels boiled behind him, and it swallowed up the light of the dawn.

“Red Specter!” The veins popped on the man’s face. He realized the presence of danger. He directly abandoned his luggage and turned to run.

“Don’t be afraid. I just want to help you.”

“I do not need your help!”

“I never give the people a chance to say no when I feel like helping them.” Chen Ge grabbed the man by his hand and forced him to stay where he was. “Be quiet. There are at least five Red Specters around us. Do you think you will be able to escape?”

“F, f, five?”

“Do not panic, maintain your breathing.” Chen Ge helped the man reposition his cap. The rim of the cap was placed just right to cover half of the man’s face. Walking down the street, Chen Ge led the man back to Nightmare Academy. After he locked the door, he grabbed the man and basically dragged him into the haunted house’s headmaster’s office.

“Okay, you are safe now.” Chen Ge and the man stood inside the office, along with Men Nan and the water ghost Red Specter. The man did not dare say a word. He believed he had failed to escape.

“Are you Chi Ren?”

The man nodded carefully. “How did you know that?”

“It was you who was responsible for guarding the storeroom at the old location of Xin Hai hospital, right?”

“Yes.”

“Did you give the note to Doctor Fang?”

“Yes.”

Chen Ge took out a piece of paper. “Repeat the message one more time on this paper.”

Ten minutes later, Chen Ge finally confirmed that the man before him was Chi Ren. A few days ago, this man had tried to save Doctor Fang, but he had failed to do so.

“Why would you risk offending the cursed hospital to help Doctor Fang?” Chen Ge wanted to know the answer to this.

“Doctor Fang is a very good person. Even though he is the best doctor in his field, he never had any sense of arrogance. He treated even us normal employees equally, and he has helped so many of his patients. He is the epitome of a good doctor.” Chi Ren sighed. “How could I watch such a kind person lose his life?”

“Then, do you still want to save Doctor Fang?” Chen Ge was gradually coaxing the man.

“Of course.” Chi Ren’s eyes lit up, but soon, the darkness dimmed them again. “But now, I can’t even save myself. How am I supposed to save him?”

“It’ll be fine. I will help you.” Chen Ge patted Chi Ren’s shoulder with a smile. “The enemy of my enemy is my friend, so from today onward, we are friends.”

Chapter 1146 - Two Demon Gods

2 in 1

Chapter 1146 Two Demon Gods 2 in 1

“Friend?” Chi Ren looked at Chen Ge, and he could not control his eyes from wandering to stop on the two Red Specters. Cold sweat slid down his forehead. “I... I do not have the qualifications to be your friend. We are people from two different worlds.” “We are living in the same world, and it is this world. The fact that I’ve survived to this day is due to the help of my friends. You are Doctor Fang’s friend, I am also Doctor Fang’s friend, and we have the same target and the same friend, so that is more than enough to form the bond between us.” Chen Ge was too lazy to waste more time on this topic. “Let’s not waste any more time dawdling on this. Please tell me everything you know about Doctor Fang to me now. Perhaps we still can save him if we make our move now.”

“We will not be able to save him; he has already been chosen.” Chi Ren shook his head. “It is indeed impressive that you can order Red Specters around, but compared to them, you are still very weak. The difference in power level is too much.”

“Who do you mean by them?”

...

“They are a hospital. Doctor Fang is someone chosen by that hospital. They wanted Doctor Fang to become one of their day-shift doctors. I do not know the actual reason. I believe it’s because a lot of doctors have recently gone missing from that hospital, so they are currently seriously lacking staff.” The information given by Chi Ren surprised Chen Ge. This could be considered extremely confidential information, but Chi Ren knew about it.

“What is your relationship with that hospital? Do not worry, everything that you say here will not be heard by anyone out of this room.” To ensure Chi Ren’s safety, Chen Ge even summoned out the red high heels.

“I wish I could tell you, but I cannot. The moment I reveal anything, I might die on the spot.” Chi Ren undid the first button of his shirt. There was a deep black blood vein around his heart. It looked as if a thin black thread had been sewn into his flesh. “Everyone related to that hospital will be cursed, and when the curse is triggered, this black capillary will continue to grow until it pierces your brain.”

“What will happen if the curse is neutralized? Won’t you be free to say anything without worry?” Chen Ge stared at the black blood capillary. He appeared to hear crying coming out from the capillary itself.

“No one will be able to neutralize the curse, not even the most powerful Red Specter.” Chi Ren shook his head. Just as he finished saying that, the surrounding temperature in the room suddenly dropped. A hand covered in bandages pressed lightly on his chest. The color of the black capillary started to fade until it stopped growing completely.

“You are not wrong that no one will be able to neutralize the curse, but this friend of mine can temporarily make it lose its power, and it will not trigger the alert of the person who laid down the curse.”

The temperature in the room slowly rose back to normal. Chi Ren stood there, stunned on the spot. It was as if the hand that had just pressed against his chest was a part of his imagination.

“Now you can tell me everything you know without worry.” Chen Ge prompted for Chi Ren to continue with his story.

After a moment of hesitation, Chi Ren took a deep breath. It was as if he had abandoned his life and sped through the following as if worried that death might strike him down at any moment. “There is a monster that even Red Specters are fearful of in that hospital. It also has the surname Chi. The curses that we get are all related to it.”

After he finished speaking, Chi Ren’s face was pale. He stared straightly at the black blood capillary on his chest. He waited for a long time, but there was nothing special that happened to that black blood capillary. He was still alive.

“The curse has really been temporarily suppressed!”

Relief washed over Chi Ren. It felt like the time bomb that was strapped to his body had just been removed. Wiping away the cold sweat that had slid down his face, Chi Ren’s tone slowly returned to normal.

“There are four types of living humans at the hospital: the patients beyond number 100, the day-shift doctors, the people with the surname Chi, and the non-smilers. Among them, the non-smilers are the hospital director's blood relatives while the people with the surname Chi are the family created by that monster."

The information revealed by Chi Ren to Chen Ge was very important. Other than the thousand-faced Demon God who had been killed by Zhang Ya, there were at least two more Demon Gods at the cursed hospital. One was the hospital director, and the other was the monster with the surname Chi.

"You are all family who were created? What do you mean by that?" Chen Ge used his Yin Yang Vision to study Chi Ren. This was just a very normal middle-aged man. There was nothing particularly special about him. Chen Ge really did not understand why a Demon God would choose him to become its family.

"To explain that, we will have to go back about fifteen years. Back then, I have just arrived at Xin Hai for work. I was young and ready for the world. A relative who already lived in Xin Hai introduced me to a job guarding a morgue. It was not a taxing job, but I would need to work a lot of night shifts. At the time, I was too young to believe in supernatural and superstitious things." Chi Ren started to reveal his past to Chen Ge. "I have not been to university and did not have any worthwhile skills. Just the fact that a relative was willing to help me find a job, I was already very thankful. Furthermore, the salary was quite lucrative.

"The hospital director told me that I would have to go on patrol at midnight, 1 am, and 2 am—three times in total. The focus of the patrol was the few doors at the bottommost floor of the morgue. Once I noticed that the lock had loosened, I had to report to him about it no matter how late it was. But seriously think about it, who would go to the morgue to mess with the locks so late at night? It was a morgue; there was nothing valuable here. There were only dead bodies. Which idiot thieves would be so dumb to go to a place like that to steal stuff?

"Naturally, I thought that this order was very strange, but I did not dare question it because this was my new job, and I was not sure I could find anything better. Everything was fine on the first week. Back then, the mobile phone had not been invented yet, and it was quite boring guarding the place alone. Furthermore, the morgue was very cool and comfortable at night. There was not even a mosquito. So, I started to think about stealing time off work.

"Instead of patrolling three times, I patrolled only the first time and then went to sleep inside the morgue. The place was particularly cool.

That was understandable due to the air conditioning, so sometimes, I even brought a blanket with me. About two weeks after that, I started to have nightmares, the kind that felt incredibly real. I dreamt that after I had fallen asleep, there was a group of people standing around me, looking at me. I even dreamt that I was treated as a carcass being pushed into the crematorium to be burnt. Those were not even the worst of the nightmares. The worst came on the third week, when I dreamt about a child.

“The child’s face did not have any eyes or a nose; it only had a mouth. He stood beside my bed and asked me to tell him some stories. I was so afraid, but I did not dare refuse, so I told him some of the ghost stories I’d heard back home. He seemed to greatly enjoy himself, and he started to appear in my dreams every night. Eventually, I ran out of stories, but the child with only a mouth still refused to let me go. From then on, it not only appeared in my dreams, it started to show up in real life as well. When I felt like I was going crazy, when my mind was breaking down, a monster whose face was dominated by mouths appeared, hugging that child. He asked me whether I was willing to become his family member or not. I did not dare refuse.” Chi Ren had a pained expression. “He appeared to be looking for his family members, but he had no luck finding them.

“After I became that monster’s family, he left. Then I found this black blood capillary grown around my heart. I had to follow his requests and orders to go and do certain things. No matter how unwilling I was, the moment I dared go against his will would be the moment I died.”

After Chi Ren finished his story, he turned to look at Chen Ge. “You are the first person whom I have encountered that has the power to suppress his curse.”

Controlling a Demon God’s curse was very difficult. The red high heels was a Specter that had an extremely rare talent related to curses. Combined with the fact that she had consumed and inherited everything that belonged to a Demon God, the ghost fetus, she was basically a Top Red Specter already. It was because she had fulfilled these impossible conditions that she had managed to suppress the curse of this monster with the surname Chi.

“How is the relationship between the hospital director and the monster with the surname Chi?” Chen Ge wanted to see if he could get the two biggest bosses to go against each other. After all, Zhang Ya could only hold back one Demon God, and during that period, the other Demon God could easily kill all of Chen Ge's employees.

"They have a very good relationship. Sometimes, we even feel like they are the same person." Once the curse was brought under control, Chi Ren started to gain his confidence. He had been keeping his words inside his heart for a long time already, and now, finally, he had a chance to voice them out loud.

"Wait, you said 'we'."

"Yes, there are more who have the surname Chi in Xin Hai. Even the boss of Xi Li Xiang has the surname Chi. We are all victims of the cursed hospital, and we are forced to spend the rest of our lives under the shadow of the curse. We do not dare reveal any secrets, and we also need to satisfy their requests."

Chi Ren gritted his teeth like something horrible had just occurred to him.

"Some of the requests are plain inhumane. The boss of Xi Li Xiang was force fed a kind of meat due to one of the incidents and was punished. One person went into the hospital in search of his daughter, but in the end, he failed to find his daughter but had his memory changed and was turned into a soulless puppet controlled by the cursed hospital." With green veins popping on his forehead, Chi Ren sighed with heavy regret. "Yes, we are all monsters."

"As long as you still have that glow of humanity in you, you are still human." Chen Ge comforted Chi Ren, but in his mind, he was thinking about something else. The hospital director had a very good relationship with the monster that had the surname Chi, so close that other people felt like they could be one person, so Chen Ge's plan of turning them against each other was impossible. If Chen Ge had to go against them, he would have to obtain the help from two more Demon Gods. That would only give him the qualification to face the cursed hospital. The cursed hospital had existed for more than twenty years. Just how many Demon Gods they had in their midst was truly a mystery in and of itself. Even a victim at the most outer fringe like Chi Ren knew of the existence of two Demon Gods, so the actual number of the Demon Gods inside that cursed hospital was probably much higher than Chen Ge previously predicted.

"Zhang Ya is a Demon God. The red high heels is a Top Red Specter. Xiao Bu can unleash the power of a Top Red Specter in Li Wan City, but her power will be slightly weaker than a Top Red Specter behind other doors.” These three were the most powerful Specters that Chen Ge’s haunted house had. The red high heels and Xiao Bu were also the Specters most likely to become Demon Gods in the immediate future. “The difference in power is too big. I still need to gather more strength.”

Three names instantly surfaced in Chen Ge’s mind—Doctor Gao, the painter, and Chang Wenyu.

“Doctor Gao destroyed the door at Coffin Village. He can move freely through the red city. Perhaps he has already become a Demon God. The relationship between us is very complicated. We are both members of the Ghost Stories Society, and with the favor that he left me regarding Gao Ru Xue, perhaps I will be able to convince him.

“The painter himself already possesses power close to a Demon God, and he has many Red Specters following him. Due to the presence of Fan Yu, we are not really enemies.

“Even though Chang Wenyu once used me, she desperately needs me to help her recover her soul. Of the three ‘people’, she is the easiest specter for me to befriend.”

Chen Ge knew that he would not be much of a threat to the cursed hospital based on his own power, so he decided to contact all his friends.

“If I see it from that perspective, I still have the chance at winning this.”

After speaking with Chi Ren, Chen Ge decided to help fulfill Chang Wenyu’s demand that night. The earlier he helped Chang Wenyu recover, the better it would be for him.

“With the current employees that I have, if the cursed hospital comes to hunt me at their full potential, I will definitely not survive.”

The haunted house had many Red Specters employees, but the boss, Chen Ge, was just a normal person. The cursed hospital would not have too much trouble murdering a living human.

“The whole plan will have to be moved forward. I cannot give the cursed hospital too much time.” Chen Ge turned back to Chi Ren. “Since becoming a member of the Chi family, have you run into any doctors or patients who were sent out of the hospital?”

“Yes, I did.”

“They will naturally run into danger when they are out completing missions away from the protection of the hospital, so did they come to you guys for help?” Chen Ge asked patiently. “After all, all of you are related to the cursed hospital, and all of you carry the curse on your bodies.”

“We with the surname Chi are normal humans who are spread over the city. To be honest, we are nothing but disposable chess pieces to the cursed hospital. Be it the patients or the doctors, once they sense the presence of the curse on us, they will order us to do something for them, and normally, we have to agree without the chance to bargain.” Chi Ren looked pained. “Because we do not have the power to reject them.”

“In other words, the people with the surname Chi are the bottom feeders at the cursed hospital.” Chen Ge had a brave idea surfacing in his mind.

“You can put it that way, yes.”

“You can stay here for now. I can guarantee you that as long as you do not leave this place, you will not run into any danger.” Chen Ge had not slept a wink the entire night, but he did not feel drowsy at all. If anything, his eyes were glowing with excitement.

“Are you going to leave already? By the way, I still do not know what your name is.” Chi Ren was still rather confused at this moment. Both the cursed hospital and Chen Ge were existences that he could afford to offend. But in comparison, Chen Ge appeared to be kinder and more reliable.

“There’s food and beer that I bought yesterday on the table. The bathroom is just next door. If you are tired, feel free to rest. Before I return, do not leave this building.” Chen Ge left the two Red Specters behind. He ran to one of the scenarios on the first floor and summoned Xiao Sun. “How far have your studies come along?”

Chen Ge looked at Xiao Sun with anticipation.

“I really did not expect that even after death, I would still need to study like I am going to sit a university entrance exam...” Xiao Sun appeared much thinner than before, and his body was more transparent. “I have studied everything that I need to, and I’ve memorized everything that was given to me. Now, even if Patient 101 comes back to life, I will be a much more convincing Patient 101 than he would ever be.”

“Very good, I need you to be as prepared as possible. I will send you into the cursed hospital in a few days.”

“So soon?” The blood drained from Xiao Sun’s face immediately.

“Listen to my plan first.” Chen Ge planned to make use of someone with the surname Chi to send Xiao Sun into the cursed hospital. He shared his plan with Xiao Sun and then brought Xiao Sun out to the city to scout out the target. It took a whole morning before they locked onto a person with the surname Chi in Xin Hai’s countryside.

“We will familiarize ourselves with the environment around here first before we make our move tonight.”

At around 1 pm, when Chen Ge returned to Nightmare Academy, he realized that Zhang Jingjiu and Qu Changlin had already arrived.

“From today onward, Zhang Jingjiu will be the branch manager, Qu Changlin will be the main designer for the props and sets, and Xiao Die, you will be the staff manager.” There were only three living employees at the haunted house, and Chen Ge had given each of them a very impressive sounding post. “I need everyone to help clear away the damaged and unused props and clean up the old scenarios. Depending on the situation, we might reopen for business in three days.”

After assigning the jobs, Chen Ge asked Xiao Die some more questions about her younger brother and then picked up his backpack, heading to Xin Hai First High. That was because Xin Hai First High, where Xiao Die’s brother attended, was the school where Chang Wenyu had left her shattered soul. That was where the girl whom Chang Wenyu had asked Chen Ge to find studied as well.

Chapter 1147 - Ghost Stories

Reviewer – Chen Ge 2 in 1

Chapter 1147 Ghost Stories Reviewer – Chen

Ge 2 in 1

“Did you hear? There are rumors that a ghost visited the male dormitory last night! There was a student who always bullied his roommate found dazed in his bed. Both pee and poop were found staining his shorts!” “How come I heard it was the female dormitory that had a problem last night? The surveillance camera was covered by a black shadow, but the manager said she saw many different human faces flutter into the dormitory through the blurry camera! There was a female student who was found in the corridor. She was incognizant. People said she was sleep walking!”

“Yes, yes. This morning, I saw someone was sent to the hospital. The ambulance stopped for a while before the female dormitory. Now, everyone is talking about how the students who often bully their classmates are being cursed! This is karma rearing her ugly head!”

A few girls were standing together, whispering and gossiping among themselves. The most beautiful among them did not say anything; she just looked at the rest of them with derision in her eyes.

...

“Chen Wen, you’d better take this as a warning. If you continue to go cause trouble, be careful. You might also run into a ghost at night.” A female student with a coarse voice and a rather unisexual appearance turned to warn the student who had not spoken.

“Do you think I’ll believe these ridiculous stories?” Chen Wen crossed her arms. She guarded at the backdoor of the class like she was waiting for someone. The bell for class rang. Most of the students returned to their seats, and at that moment, a female student who was very casually dressed stepped into the class. She was wearing clothes that were bought at the market. She did not know how to dress herself. Her eyes darted everywhere but her deskmate, Chen Wen. The first class of the day was over. The girl did not dare leave her seat even though she wanted to go to the toilet. She kept herself glued to her seat, as if the moment she left the classroom, something bad would happen to her.

“You seem to have some issues with me, huh?” Chen Wen moved her chair to the girl’s side. If one was not close enough to hear the content of her voice and the tone of her voice, just looking at them, one might think they were very close friends.

“No.” The girl held her pen and kept flipping through her notes.

“Where are your manners? I am talking to you. Look at me. Look at me!” Chen wen’s arm landed on the girl’s shoulder. “How about we go to play together after school? Don’t be such a good two shoes. You’ve been wanting to make friends, right? After this afternoon, we will be friends.”

“But I have something to do...”

“Okay, so that is a promise. If you dare skip out on me, there will be hell to pay. I will see you later.” Chen Wen let go of her arm and took out her phone to start chatting with someone.

Her deskmate gripped the pen in her hand tightly. She was very afraid, but she did not know who to share her problem with. She did not know what Chen Wen wanted from her, but she was sure it was nothing good. Without any actual evidence, even if she went to the teacher, the school would not intervene to deal with Chen Wen. Furthermore, even if the teacher did choose to believe her, all the school could do was leave Chen Wen a warning. As long as they did not kick her out of school, Chen Wen and her friends would only make it their mission to make the girl’s school life more miserable.

This was the saddest point about the victims of school bullies. They were the victims, but they were the ones being ostracized, and sometimes, they might even suffer secondary damage from their family and the school. Her head was filled with what Chen Wen had said; the girl could not even pay attention in class. She did not dare speak up, so she stared at her textbook quietly. During the physical education class, the girl requested a break from the teacher with the excuse that she was not feeling well. She returned to the classroom to rest on her own.

“Should I tell the teacher? The girls being targeted by Chen Wen either become her friend or transfer from this school. She appears to come from a very powerful family.” The girl’s family had just moved to Xin Hai not that long ago. She had the feeling of self-deprecation of a newcomer. “I cannot create more trouble for my parents anymore, but... what should I do?”

“Chang Wenwen?”

The girl suddenly heard someone calling her name. She turned her head to the source of the voice. There was a young man standing at the classroom window with a smile. The sun created a halo around the young man, and the young man’s smile was as warm as the sun.

“That should be her! Quick! Pull me back into the comic! My body is about to dissolve under the sun already!” There was a shadow behind the young man who was struggling and pleading, but of course, the girl could not see that.

Pulling Chang Gu back into the comic, Chen Ge pushed open the backdoor of the classroom. “Please do not be afraid. I am completing a request for a friend, and I am here because I need a favor from you.”

The girl was utterly confused. She had no idea what Chen Ge was talking about at all.

“Have you ever had this dream before?” Chen Ge stood at the backdoor and softly spoke. “You dreamed about a blood red door. Inside the door, there was a school that only had its classes at night. All the students and teachers at the school were ghosts. When you were lost and in despair, a female senior appeared to help you.”

The words jogged the girl’s memory, and her face was overwhelmed by surprise. “How do you know about that?”

“Do you still remember what kind of promise you made that female senior?” Chen Ge followed what Chang Gu said and was slowly leading the girl step by step.

“She would help me escape from the nightmare, and in exchange, I would help her look after something.” The female student was very innocent, and she did not even consider hiding any information from Chen Ge.

“I am that female senior’s friend. She asked me to come to you to reclaim that item.”

Chen Ge did not look like a bad person. After a moment’s hesitation, the female student undid the first button of her blouse and took out something that looked like a pouch from around her neck. “All this time, I have been wondering whether that was a dream or not. If it was not a dream, how come I cannot remember more details about it? If it was a dream, how I do explain this thing that appeared in my grasp after I woke up that night?”

The girl opened the pouch. Inside was a red stone, and in the middle of the stone was a strand of hair that had been balled up.

“This should be the thing.” Chen Ge accepted the stone. The several Red Specters inside the comic gave him warnings at the same time as if this thing was extremely dangerous. “Thank you, I shall take this with me. From now on, your luck will slowly become better.”

Before the school security arrived, carrying the stone, Chen Ge hurriedly left the grounds of Xin Hai First High.

“Chang Gu, I have already obtained the object. What should I do next?” Chen Ge carried his backpack to the shadows of a large tree. It was as if he was talking to himself.

A shadow behind Chen Ge opened his lips to say, “That strand of hair is the last lingering spirit of my little sister. The red stone is formed from the blood of her heart, the most important drop of blood for a Top Red Specter.”

“Are you not afraid that I’ll have the other Red Specters consume her by revealing to me such an important information?”

“Naturally, I am afraid of that, but there is nothing I can do about it,” Chang Gu said with a bitter smile. “Even if I hid that information from you, your other Red Specters employees would notice it.”

“Don’t worry, I will fulfil the promise that I have made. I just hope that you siblings will do the same for me.” Chen Ge tossed the blood stone lightly into the air, and that caused Chang Gu to get immensely worried. “With just this lingering spirit and blood stone, your younger sister can come back to life?”

“She still need to consume some Specters first, but I have no idea the exact number of ghosts that she needs to consume.” Chang Gu lowered his head. He did not dare look at Chen Ge.

“In other words, you two planned to rope me into the role of her nanny, huh? I think I finally understand Chang Wenyu’s plan now. Her enemies are all in Jiujiang, so she chose a girl who just moved to Xin Hai and left her last shred of lingering spirit with her. After she awakens, she can consume the ghosts in Xin Hai to recover her power, and when she is at her full strength again, she can easily return to Jiujiang.”

Chang Wenyu was indeed very clever, but she had seriously underestimated Zhang Ya. She had failed to anticipate that Chen Ge would have a Demon God with him.

“Boss, we were indeed in the wrong at the School of the Afterlife. I hope you will help her one more time.” Chang Gu was basically begging Chen Ge. During this period when they were together, his opinion of Chen Ge had kept improving. He felt like Chen Ge was someone trustworthy.

“Don’t worry.” Chen Ge put away the blood stone and creased his brows. “To awaken Chang Wenyu, she needs to feed on ghosts. To improve my employees’ abilities, I also need ghosts and Specters.” After giving it some thought, Chen Ge took out his phone and started to search for ghost stories related to Xin Hai. He created a throwaway account and snuck into a local supernatural forum. Inside a pinned thread, he found the thing that he was looking for.

‘The collection thread for the ghost stories in Xin Hai! Come and review and vote your top ten scariest ghost stories from Xin Hai!’

Chen Ge surveyed the thread post by post. His pupils slowly narrowed as he silently recorded all the information. Chang Gu, who stood next to him, did not dare speak. When his boss looked through these ghost stories, it was like a customer looking over the menu at the restaurant. The serious expression on the man’s face caused his heart to shiver with fear.

“This thread is still updating. The latest post was posted about two minutes ago. Looks like I have come across a treasure of a thread.” Chen Ge bookmarked the page. He had already memorized the addresses of some of the ghost stories, and he planned to visit them that night.

Returning to the Nightmare Academy, Chen Ge did not have time to greet his employees but directly rush back into the headmaster’s office. He asked Chi Ren some questions again and confirmed some information about Doctor Fang and people with the surname Chi before he left.

“Failure to plan is planning to fail, but sometimes, luck plays a huge part of it as well. Xiao Sun, you will run into many kinds of danger on this journey of yours, but I believe in you because you are different from the others.” Chen Ge personally inspected the final result of Xiao Sun’s special training and taught Xiao Sun a few more tricks.

Once the sky darkened, Chen Ge, who was all prepared, carried the ‘heavily injured’ Xiao Sun to the countryside of Xin Hai. The secret of the people with the surname Chi was only known to the people with the surname Chi, and this secret was one that they could not share. Due to the curse of the Demon God, once the person revealed the secret, not only would they die, the Demon God would be apprised of the situation there almost immediately.

The cursed hospital did not expect the red high heels to inherit everything that belonged to the ghost fetus and become a Top Red Specter, and Chen Ge was currently making use of this. Chen Ge created an accident so that the people with the surname Chi who lived at the countryside very coincidentally run into Patient 101 Xiao Sun, who was about to dissipate. After using some words and actions to convince the man, Chen Ge watched the man carry Xiao Sun out of Xin Hai with his own eyes. The place that they were heading to was the border between Xin Hai and Jiujiang. There were many ghost buildings and barren lands there. It had been abandoned for many years already.

“God will smile on the faithful. Hopefully, Xiao Sun will make something of himself at the cursed hospital.” For some unknown reason, after sending Xiao Sun away, Chen Ge unconsciously sighed in great relief.

“What I need to do next is improve my employees’ ability as fast as I can and try to get the red high heels to become a Demon God.” It was extremely difficult for a Red Specter become a Demon God, but Chen Ge had no other choice. Only by having the red high heels become the Demon God would he have the right to fight the cursed hospital.

Logging back into the supernatural forum, Chen Ge noticed that the thread was still updating. The forum users had gotten into an argument about the ranking of the ghost stories. No party wished to back down. In the end, some of them even swore that they would go to the locations of the ghost stories to record a video to show the other users how scary the place was.

“Ultimately, the place is a big city. The people are always busy.” Jiujiang had similar forums, but the number of active users was pitifully small. The populations of both cities were not on the same level. “The place with more people will have more despair and thus more ghost stories. Theoretically, that should be the case, but it appears like Jiujiang is an exception to the rule.”

Chen Ge had also noticed that the number of ghost stories in Jiujiang was abnormally high. If he was to relate a city to a person, then Jiujiang was like Sun Xiaojun. It had the love of a thousand Specters.

“It has been quite a few days since I arrived in Xin Hai. It is about time I go pay them a visit.” Chen Ge hailed a cab to head to his destinations. “Sir, please drive faster. I am in a hurry. I have to visit a few places tonight.”

...

By 11 pm, of the top ten Xin Hai Ghost Stories, Chen Ge had already visited three of them, but unfortunately, he was not rewarded. He also slowly realized that the ghost stories with great word of mouth in reality would have a very low chance of actually hiding a Red Specter. If an actual Red Specter with great resentment was behind these ghost stories, there would not be any survivors to spread the ghost stories. Without any survivors, there naturally would not be any witnesses, and the ghost story would not even be known.

With a spirit of not wanting to miss anything, Chen Ge had recorded all the ghost stories on the pinned thread. Among them, he had found a few special ghost stories. The descriptions were not that detailed, but he could pick out specific terms like bloody clothes and red.

“Xin Hai Ghost Stories Rank Twenty-Seven. A crying well in a developing part of the city—it was supposed to be an abandoned well, but there was a crying sound coming from inside it. And there were witnesses claiming they saw bloody hair crawling out from inside the well. This sounds promising. It is worth a visit.”

Placing his phone on his knee, Chen Ge used his pen and some paper to help with his note-making. Those who did not know better probably thought he was really reviewing these places.

Ten minutes later, Chen Ge arrived at a developing construction site. Due to many reasons, the construction progress was halted, and the well was at the foot of the hill behind the construction site. Walking through the bushes and trees, Chen Ge finally found the well. The well was made from stone, and not far away from the well were a few old and abandoned houses.

“This should be the place.” Before Chen Ge even got near, he could hear a wispy crying sound. “It’s coming from inside the well?”

There was a magical power about the crying. Chen Ge appeared to lose control of his body as he slowly moved to the mouth of the well. The pale moonlight shone on the surface of the water. Chen Ge looked into the well. There was endless black hair floating on the surface of the water. Without any attempt at communication, the black hair gathered together and tried to grab Chen Ge around his neck, intending to drag him into the well!

“You asked for it!” His palm flipped through the comic. The moon turned red as blood flushed right into the well. Moments later, the water ghost reappeared beside Chen Ge holding Chang Wenyu’s blood stone.

“There was a Half Red Specter inside the well, but it appeared to have been cursed. It cannot be rationally communicated with. It did not even seem to realize it was a ghost.”

“It was cursed?” Whenever Chen Ge heard the term ‘curse’, he was immediately reminded of the cursed hospital.

“After swallowing the Half Red Specter, the blood stone has deepened in color. I predict it will need to swallow at least two more Red Specters before she can awaken. Other than that, there’s something else at the bottom of the well. I think you’d better go and look at it yourself.”

The water ghost and Xu Yin led Chen Ge into the old well. At the bottom of the well, they encountered a tomb. Inside the tomb was a set of well-preserved clothing, and among the folds of the clothes, there was a patient record. On the back of the patient record was written—“This is a sickened world. Why have you not discovered that fact? I vow to cure you!”

“This statement again?” Chen Ge had once seen this sentence before at Lan Xiaochen’s home. “This is a sickened world. Why have you not discovered that fact? I have a feeling that question is meant for me.”

Putting away the patient record, Chen Ge crawled out from the old well. “It’s pointless to think about it now. We should hurry to the next location of ghost stories instead.”

Chapter 1148 - The Awakened Top Red Spectre 2 in 1

1148 The Awakened Top Red Spectre 2 in 1

“Xin Hai Ghost Stories Ranked 19—Midnight Delivery. There was a horrible homicide that occurred at Xin Yue Towers Room 444. When the murderer was dealing with the dead body, the food delivery ordered by the victim arrived. The deliveryman had no idea what had just transpired inside the room; he was just hoping to complete his job and get a good review from the customer. The room door creaked open, and the deliveryman was pulled into the room to face his death. From then on, as long as someone ordered food from Xin Yue Towers after midnight, one would have a chance of running into that poor food deliveryman.”

After reading the information on the phone, Chen Ge gently shook the door handle of Xin Yue Towers Room 444. To his surprise, the door was not locked. He entered it directly and took out his own phone to order some beer and food. Probably because the address that he filled in was Xin Yue Towers Room 444, even after the eatery had finished his order, there was no deliveryman who was willing to pick up his order. He waited for half an hour, but the food still had not departed from the eatery when suddenly footsteps came from the corridor outside room. Chen Ge peered through the peephole. There was a man standing outside the door of Room 444. He was carrying a red box that appeared to be overflowing with blood.

Chen Ge took out the comic and flipped through it while he shouted at the door, “I am sorry, but did you get the wrong address? My delivery app shows that the food is still at the eatery. No deliveryman has gone to collect it.”

...

“There is no mistake. This is the address that I was given.” The man outside the door had his head lowered, and his body leaned very close to the door.

“Then it appears like there is something wrong with the app on my phone.” Chen Ge appeared to convince himself. He opened the door and looked at the man with a smile. At that same time, the three Red Specters behind Chen Ge also turned to look at the deliveryman. When the door opened, a wicked smile appeared on the corner of the man’s lips, but soon, the smile froze on his face. The red box that he was carrying suddenly appeared to weigh a lot more. His Adam’s apple quivered slightly as he took a subconscious step backward. “I am so sorry. It appears like you were right. I’ve probably got the wrong address. This isn’t what you ordered.”

Hugging the red box, the man turned and attempted to run but was stopped by the water ghost. “The address is not wrong. The delivery that we have been waiting for is you.”

With the Red Specters surrounding him, the delivery man had nowhere to run, but Chen Ge did not feed him to Chang Wenyu. This baleful Specter was very conscious of his actions; there was no trace of a curse on his body. Chen Ge also did not discover any information related to the cursed hospital on the man.

“He is not even a Half Red Specter; it would be a waste to feed him to Chang Wenyu. Furthermore, he looks quite clever, and he even knows how to make deliveries. I suppose you can consider that a unique talent.”

Chen Ge pulled the delivery man into the comic and had him stay together with Men Nan.

“The ability of the delivery man was worse than the crying ghost in the well, but the atmosphere of horror he created was much stronger than the crying well. I’m struggling to make a decision. For now, this ghost story should be ranked lower than the weeping well.” After leaving Xin Yue Towers Room 444, Chen Ge hurried without pause to the next ghost story. He had already visited seven ghost stories that night, and of the seven, three of them were fake; there was no presence of ghosts. From the remaining four, only the Half Red Specter inside the crying well was made into food. The other three ghost stories had only normal lingering spirits and baleful Specters. There was no point in consuming them.

“Xin Hai is so large. There is not even one ‘wild’ Red Specter?”

Looking through his phone, Chen Ge arrived at a place situated in the old part of Xin Hai known as Cards Archway. This used to be the most raucous location in Xin Hai’s old city, but due to a big fire, the place was abandoned directly. A development company bought the land at a very low price, but not long after that, for some unknown reason, the construction to bring this part of the city back to the life did not start. Thus, the place continued to be abandoned to the wilds just like that. The street was surrounded by cement walls. After Chen Ge leaped over the wall, he immediately sensed that something was not right.

The world inside and outside the cement wall could be said to be two completely different worlds. There was a scent of decay in the air, and the air pressed heavily on Chen Ge’s lungs. “There is no sense of human spirit in this place at all. Just how long has this place been abandoned?”

Oftentimes when a place in a big city was abandoned, it would soon become a paradise for squatters, but Cards Archway appeared to be an exception. With the training from the black phone, whenever Chen Ge entered a place, without even checking it too closely, purely based on the lingering presence in the air, he could tell whether the place was truly haunted or not. He had experienced so much that this had become one of his habits. He had mastered techniques that most people would not even dare to imagine.

Flipping through the comic and switching on the recorder, Chen Ge approach the nearby building whose entrance was burned to a crisp and entered the interior.

“Why is there a scent of blood in the air?” Chen Ge tilted his head back to take in a big breath, using his Spirit Sniff talent. “It drifts out from the interior of the building.”

Walking through a corridor filled with old cards tables and wooden cards, Chen Ge noticed something was wrong just as he turned the corner. Following the sound of ticking, he saw someone hanging at the end of the corridor inside the lobby. The horrible smell and the stench of blood radiated from this person, and just as Chen Ge discovered that person, the dead carcass, which had many fatal wounds on it, suddenly opened its eyes!

“Not good!” Chen Ge wasted no time in summoning his employees. Before the dead body managed to get close to Chen Ge, the water ghost and Xu Yin appeared to guard him. Black and red blood leaked out from the body's wounds, and black insects that looked like centipedes dropped down from the dead body. It did not know fear and pain; even facing the two Red Specters, it did not evade or run, instead charging headfirst at them. The water ghost easily blocked the dead body, but just as he touched the body, the fresh blood that leaked out silently behind the body morphed into a red shadow to gnaw at Chen Ge's face!

"Xu Yin!" The sound of static echoed in his ears, and a pale arm pierced through the blood shadow. A shrill wail echoed inside the lobby, but soon, something even scarier happened. The floor in the lobby started to crack and a face peeked through the gap. Black worms crawled out from the gap, and the floor not far from Chen Ge started to budge, as if something huge was moving rapidly underground!

About one second later, a face filled with wounds appeared next to Chen Ge's shoes. "There's another one?"

The face was about to burst through the ground but was stomped back underground by the boy with the stench. The stench with the giant body morphed into black mist and used his own body to envelope Chen Ge. The sound of wailing multiplied in the lobby. The paint on the ceiling started to flake like skin, exposing the many black and white pictures that covered the ceiling. The many faces stared closely at Chen Ge. Their faces were twisted in resentment and anger.

It was as if they had been given some kind of order. An endless stream of evil spirits rushed out from the pictures, and they all surged at Chen Ge like the latter owed them their lives. Xu Yin, who had torn open the red shadow, appeared again. He made easy work of the evil spirits that attempted to get close to Chen Ge. While Xu Yin was occupied by the wave of evil spirits, a tight web of blood appeared on the ground. A black red shadow whose body was charred ran out from the innermost part of the building. Its target was very clear—Chen Ge. If Chen Ge only had the protection of two Red Specters, then he would have been dead already. The ghost inside the building was very cunning. It waited until all the Red Specters around Chen Ge were preoccupied before it showed itself. But unfortunately, it had seriously underestimated the number of Red Specter that Chen Ge had with him.

After the Red Specter with the burnt body appeared, Chen Ge stopped hiding his true strength, he summoned out the rest of the Red Specters. Then, something very strange happened. The Red Specter whose body was burnt to a crisp appeared to lose his mind, and he started to fight several Red Specters like he had gone mad.

“Is he cursed as well?” For the sake of security, Chen Ge summoned out the red high heels. Once the Top Red Specter showed up, the whole building started to shake. The ground split open to reveal many charred bodies that were buried deep around. The battle was over once the red high heels showed up. The black and red shadow revealed its true appearance; it was an amalgamation of many vengeful spirits. When the archway was caught in the big fire, many people had failed to escape. The resentment from before they died was deeply buried underground, and they collectively formed a monster that was stronger than a normal Red Specter.

This monster itself felt deep resentment toward everything, and it was a victim of a curse. It would indiscriminately attack anyone that entered the Cards Archway at night. It was extremely dangerous. It could be said that Chen Ge had helped Xin Hai deal with a dangerous criminal. The collaboration of several Red Specters murdered the black and red shadow and fed all the resentment of Chang Wenyu’s blood stone. It was a mystery how many people had died in the big fire. There was no actual report, and Chen Ge could not find much more information on it.

As the blood stone continued to feed on the resentment, the black and white photos on the ceiling started to peel. The pictures yellowed and faded away, and the human faces became ever more blurry. Many cracks appeared on the ground, and even the outside wall of the building started to break. This old building that had survived for decades appeared to be on its last legs.

Over the course of fifteen minutes, Chang Wenyu’s blood stone finally swallowed all of the monster inside the Cards Archway. The stone had doubled in size, and it kept on pulsing like the beating heart of a living person.

“Let’s prepare to leave. This place is about to crumble.” Chen Ge was about to leave when the red high heels jumped into the mass grave where the victims were buried. Moments later, she returned with two objects from inside the mass grave, an envelope that was half burnt and an earring. Initially, Chen Ge did not care much for this discovery, but after he gave the items a closer look, his expression changed immediately. The earring, he was sure, belonged to his mother.

Putting the earring into the compartment of his backpack, Chen Ge tore open the envelope. His brows were then heavily creased together. The letter was half burnt, so only a few words were still visible—"This is a sickened world.'

The handwriting is very similar to my dad's. Did someone copy his handwriting? But why would someone do that? And why would my mom's earring be found inside the mass grave?

Chen Ge had encountered the sentence in the letter before, so even though the latter half of the sentence was burned away, he knew what the full sentence was.

'This is a sickened world. Why have you not discovered that fact? I swear to cure you!'

Is this a message that my dad tried to leave me, or is this a hint for me?

Chen Ge looked at the familiar handwriting on the letter and contemplated the meaning behind it for a while. His finger touched the edge of the letter that was scorched. Then he pulled out the patient record that had the same statement on the back of it.

No, wait! The letter might be written by my father, but the message might not be the same! The handwriting on the patient record is different from the handwriting on this letter. They were written by different people.

Narrowing his eyes, Chen Ge compared the handwriting of the full sentence on the patient record and the half-sentence on the letter.

Someone is purposely trying to mislead me, hoping for me to fall into some kind of misunderstanding!

He placed everything inside the compartment of his backpack, but he did not share his thoughts with anyone else.

The person behind this managed to acquire my father's handwritten letter and my mother's earring so the chance of them being related to the cursed hospital is very high.]

A sense of desperation arose in his heart. Chen Ge summoned back all his employees and left the Cards Archway.

"It's time to move to the next location." He had brought his habit that he had cultivated at Jiujiang to Xin Hai. He would not sit down and rest until the sun came up. At 3:55 am, Chen Ge arrived at an abandoned school in Xin Hai's countryside. Inside the school, he found a cursed Red Specter. After feeding the Red Specter to the blood stone, the hibernating Chang Wenyu finally awakened.

The beating blood stone was actually half of this Top Red Specter's heart. In the School of the Afterlife, she did not go after the painter with full force because she had kept half of her power in this stone as insurance. When the blood red heart started to beat again, all the animals and insects around the abandoned school became quiet. This place appeared to have become a zone of the dead. The single eye opened, a sea of blood hidden within!

With a twisted smile on her face, Chang Wenyu's bloody dress started to spread around her. She took slow and deliberate steps toward Chen Ge until she was stopped by the red high heels.

"I know you are very happy that you have come back to life, but I hope that you will rein in your power a little bit, or else I will feed you to the other Red Specters." Chen Ge had encountered many big events in his life. "You tricked me and used me, but I have repaid it with kindness. I not only did not take revenge on you, but I even brought you back to life. Aren't you supposed to give me something in return?"

"That does not sound like something an honorable person would say," Chang Gu whispered softly behind Chen Ge. After he saw his little sister, he was very excited.

Chang Wenyu slowly calmed down. Her remaining eye studied Chen Ge and her bloody lips slowly opened. "I once saw your phone at the innermost part of the red city. Only I know about that place. I can take you there."

When he was doing the mission at the School of the Afterlife, Chang Wenyu had stolen Chen Ge's black phone. Because of that, the black phone had purposely given a mission related to Chang Wenyu.

"Is that it? That's all you can offer?" Chen Ge was not satisfied. He had his employees surround Chang Wenyu. "For you, I have purposely come to Xin Hai and accidentally offended the scariest cursed hospital in Xin Hai. The hospital has at least two Demon Gods! After I have paid so much for you, what you have in return for me is a single sentence?"

Her single eye blinked. Chang Wenyu had just woken up. She had no idea whether Chen Ge was telling the truth or not, but she did know that she was at her weakest.

“What do you want from me then?”

“Until the cursed hospital is levelled to the ground, I need you to become an employee at my haunted house and listen to my orders.” Chen Ge gave his request.

“You just said it was you who accidentally offended the cursed hospital, so why would you want to level them? What have they done to you?”

“Since the offense has been made, the only reasonable step now is to vanquish the enemy to remove a possible threat.”

Being surrounded by multiple Red Specters, whenever Chang Wenyu’s single eye blinked, the madness and cruelty in her eye would increase. But at the final moment, she decided to bend the knee.

“Okay, I promise.”

“I swear this will be the best decision you have made in your life.” Chen Ge had the red high heels leave an imprint on Chang Wenyu, and he then untied the hair around the headless woman’s wrist and tied Zhang Ya’s hair around Chang Wenyu’s wrist instead.

Through the whole process, Chang Wenyu did not resist. After Chen Ge ensured that everything was fine, Chang Wenyu spoke. “I still have some of my own things to do. I will give you an eyeball. Whenever you need my help, just squeeze it until it breaks, and I will appear.”

The blood sea in the single eye boiled, the aura around Chang Wenyu was as reddened as the rising sun. She took out a bloody eyeball from inside her dress and handed it over to Chen Ge. Then, she dissolved into a blood mist and disappeared. Looking at the bloody eyeball sitting in his palm, Chen Ge’s face was twitching.

Chang Wenyu was an actual Red Specter; she was surrounded by resentment and was at the edge of lashing out at any given moment. She was not afraid of anything, and the parting gift that she gave was a bloody eyeball. The false Red Specters often bullied the weak and would run whenever they encountered Red Specters of the same level. They would not dare kill a chicken, much less harm a person.

“Where shall I put this eyeball? If I shove it inside the backpack, it might accidentally get crushed. If I put it inside my pocket, it might be discovered. People will treat me as a madman; it will only become worse if they call the police.”

Chapter 1149 - Innocent Citizen, Mr. Chen 2 in 1

Chapter 1149 Innocent Citizen, Mr. Chen 2 in

1

Chen Ge did not know where to put the eyeball given to him by Chang Wenyu. It did not feel like it was appropriate to keep it anywhere. After much deliberation, Chen Ge decided to hand the eyeball over to Men Nan. Of all the Red Specters, Men Nan had the highest IQ and EQ. In fact, Chen Ge would sometimes have him go off on some individual tasks. Therefore, he was not worried at all with Men Nan temporarily holding onto the eyeball.

“Now is the most vulnerable moment for Chang Wenyu. She does not dare stay too long around me, and she left the moment she found the opportunity to do so. Looks like she still has a problem trusting me. She is worried that I might really feed her to the other Red Specters.”

Rome was not built in a day; trust was the same. Chen Ge believed that with enough time, he would definitely be able to win Chang Wenyu's trust. The sky was already slowly brightening, but Chen Ge did not hurry to leave. He continued to wander about inside the abandoned school. “The Red Specter at this abandoned school and the Red Specter at Cards Archway are so much more powerful than normal Red Specters, but neither of their hiding places have the presence of a ‘door’. Is it because their despair is not strong enough for a door to appear?”

...

There was no absolute connection between Red Specters and the doors. A door pusher would always be a Red Specter, but not every Red Specter would possess their own door. Chen Ge did not think too much about it initially, but now that he stopped to consider it, he suddenly realized things did not add up.

“Could the doors be unique to Jiujiang?”

Entering the classroom where the Red Specter at the abandoned school first showed up, Chen Ge found that familiar statement on the table occupied by the Red Specter.

‘This is a sickened world. Why have you not discovered that fact? I swear to cure you!’

The words were carved unevenly on the table. It was like a kind of psychological hint, and it kept appearing before Chen Ge’s eyes. Eventually, even without realizing it, Chen Ge had already memorized the statement in his mind.

“The sentence is always the same, but the handwriting’s completely different, so they were probably left behind by different people. But why would these people that seemingly had no connection with each other all write or carve down those same words?”

He really could not come up with a reasonable answer. Chen Ge summoned back all his haunted house employees, hailed a cab, and returned to Nightmare Academy.

“I will go for a nap. You guys find something to do. Be prepared for business.” Chen Ge greeted his employees before entering the headmaster’s office. Chi Ren had been staying inside the room and out of boredom. He was building a paper tower from a deck of cards. “In a few days, you will be safe.”

Chen Ge entered the inner room, hugged his backpack, and entered his dreams. Without the need to worry about the operation of the haunted house and the safety of the visitors, he had the first relaxing sleep in a very long time.

At twelve noon, Chen Ge woke up and went out to purchase food for himself and his living employees. After lunch, he left the haunted house again. Xin Hai was, to him, an unexplored treasure trove. How he wished he could capture all the baleful Specters and Red Specters at once. “After I deal with the cursed hospital, should I go on a train ride all over the country to spread this kindness to different cities?”

Of course, that was just a thought. Chen Ge used the daytime to arrange his clues and information while preparing to visit the different locations to conduct his investigation at night. Before he had a full-on conflict with the cursed hospital, he needed to do everything he could to increase his own power. At around 6 pm, the employees were still discussing the plan for the Nightmare Academy, but as the boss, Chen Ge had already escaped to Xin Hai’s countryside.

It was yet another sleepless night. Chen Ge’s plan was to feed all the Red Specters that he found to the red high heels to help her become a Demon God, but she rejected Chen Ge’s kindness. As a Top Red Specter who had a special talent in curses, consuming other Red Specters would not help her in her breakthrough to become a Demon God; only by consuming greater and more evil despair would her power improve. In other words, the red high heels herself knew very well that the key for her to become a Demon God would be at the cursed hospital. The red high heels did not need to consume Red Specters, so Chen Ge turned his attention to Xiao Bu.

Xiao Bu, who could unleash the power of a Top Red Specter, had a very powerful innate talent. She was the shadow selected by Chen Ge's parents and was a door pusher valued by the ghost fetus. After consuming a Red Specter, Xiao Bu went into hibernation. With her ability, she would awaken after one night. When Xiao Bu was hibernating, Chen Ge pushed the rest of the Red Specters that he found to Xu Yin. Xu Yin was weaker than the spider in the tunnel, and he was not the strongest among Chen Ge's Red Specters, but Xu Yin's heart was very special.

Every time it beat, his heart would gain little more of the black pattern. That pattern appeared to be the branding of memories. It contained some kind of unspeakable power. The hearts of the other Red Specters were the source of their power, but Xu Yin's heart was more like a germinating seed. After consuming one Red Specter, the black pattern on Xu Yin's heart grew to his chest, but to Chen Ge's surprise, even after Xu Yin had consumed a Red Specter almost as powerful as he was, he did not go into hibernation. Whenever Chen Ge pressed the play button on the recorder, Xu Yin still showed up.

"After Xiao Bu and Zhang Ya consumed Red Specters of the same level, they went into hibernation. How come it is so special when it comes to Xu Yin?" Chen Ge tried to ask the young man directly for the reason, but all he got in return was silence. It was as if Xu Yin himself did not know the reason.

By 3 am, Chen Ge had already investigated eleven ghost stories. He had collected the information in the day and come up with the best route to visit all of them. Just as he was about to go to visit the twelfth ghost story, the sky over the horizon of Xin Hai's countryside was curiously dyed red as if a bloody hole had been torn open in the night sky. Initially, Chen Ge did not think much of this paranormal activity, but when he used the wedding ring on his ring and realized that Xiao Sun's current location was right under that bloody tear, he started to get a little bit panicked. "Brother Sun has already made his move? I only sent him in there two days ago. Will he be exposed doing something so obvious?"

Xiao Sun was moving too fast. Chen Ge was still training and preparing, but something had already happened at the cursed hospital.

“There’s no use in me worrying about this. I’d better focus on the things that I have to do.” Xin Hai’s population was several times greater than Jiujiang’s, so there were a lot of ghost stories. But most of them were just smoke without fire; only a very small portion of them really had actual ghosts behind them. For a professional like Chen Ge, he could sometimes tell the authenticity of a ghost story just from the description, but even so, Chen Ge was still tricked multiple times.

In two nights, he had investigated twenty-five ghost stories in total, and among them, eight were fake. Of the remaining seventeen ghost stories, however, there were five Red Specters. This probability was rather scary. But the thing that worried Chen Ge the most was that all the Red Specters that he encountered were on the verge of a mental breakdown. Every single one of them had a curse on them, and the statement about the sickened world could be found without fail at the location that they haunted. Now, Chen Ge felt that perhaps the statement itself was a curse. Every Red Specter, normal Specter, and human being who was given the statement would eventually lose their mind. After working hard for two nights, Chen Ge was quite satisfied with his haul.

Of the five cursed maddened Red Specters, two were used to awaken Chang Wenyu, one was fed to Xiao Bu, and the last two were fed to Xu Yin. As he fed on more Red Specters, the changes to Xu Yin became more obvious. The black pattern growing from his heart stuck on his body like a second layer of skin; it gave him a very dangerous feeling.

Of all the employees, other than Xu Yin, there was another employee that underwent a huge change, and that was Zhang Yi. As a Specter that possessed a very unique power like him, if he became a Red Specter by consuming other Red Specters, it would seriously impact his natural talent. That would be more of a loss than a gain. Therefore, Chen Ge did not have Zhang Yi feed on any Red Specters but provided him with the Half Red Specters that they encountered.

Before consuming two Half Red Specters, Zhang Yi asked Chen Ge to call Fang Yu, and then he talked on the phone for a very long time with Fang Yu. This was the first time he had actively called Fang Yu. It was a call that traversed death and life, memory and the past. Chen Ge had no idea what the content of the conversation between Zhang Yi and Fang Yu was. He did, however, manage to see Zhang Yi’s body slowly becoming more transparent. Just as the man’s body was about to fade away, a drop of blood appeared at the middle of his heart. Zhang Yi's power was deleting memories, but he could not recover deleted memories.

Luckily, even though Fang Yu had already forgotten all the memories related to Zhang Yi, she had not forgotten the sense of presence of the man who had been protecting her. She had stubbornly waited at the garden for ten years and tattooed Fang Yu's name all over her body. She had tried everything so that she would never forget until she eventually met the person that she had been waiting for. Ten years ago, Zhang Yi had saved Fang Yu, and ten years later, Fang Yu had become Zhang Yi's salvation.

After consuming two Half Red Specters, Zhang Yi sank into a slumber. The drop of blood inside his heart continued to spread until it formed a name, and it was seared at the bottom of his heart. Fang Yu tattooed a name all over her body while Zhang Yi branded a name at the bottom of his heart. It crossed the distance between life and death. They had chosen this method to remember each other.

"After Zhang Yi wakes up, he should be a Red Specter. His talent will improve again. Perhaps he will even gain a new power."

Zhang Yi had a very powerful talent, and Chen Ge had high expectations for him. With this in mind, he turned to glance at the comic with helplessness in his eyes. Danian was still hiding inside the empty page. His ears were closed to the world outside his comic, and he only had his attention on completing his work.

After Chen Ge detained the cursed Half Red Specter, the first person that he thought of was Yan Danian. He had the red high heels comprehend the Half Red Specter and then sent the Half Red Specter into the same page as Yan Danian. Then, something that no one expected happened. Both parties shied away from each other as far as they could. One was hiding in the corner, and the other was facing the wall. The image looked curiously harmonious.

After Yan Danian passed away, he had never harmed anyone, and he had never considered consuming other Specters. In fact, he was very reluctant to do things like that. Chen Ge had tried very hard to persuade him to overcome that mental block, but Yan Danian still unable to make that first step. In the end, Chen Ge had no choice but to give up.

After the old headmaster at Mu Yang High School passed away, he had not consumed a single Specter, but he had managed to become a Half Red Specter. From that, one could see that there were many ways for a Specter to increase their power; it was not limited to the consumption of other Specters. In comparison to other methods, however, consuming Specters was the most effective way. Actually, Chen Ge had realized in the few months prior, the presence radiating off Yan Danian had been getting stronger, but because Yan Danian had too low confidence in himself and would never leave the comic, very few people noticed this about him.

Chen Ge suspected that the change in Yan Danian was probably due to the fact that he had been sending multiple Red Specters into Danian's comic. Even for a normal object, if it was housing more than ten Red Specters every day, it would definitely change. The comic was originally Yan Danian's item of possession; now, every single page was filled with various Specters. Inevitably, that was also going to improve Yan Danian's own power. Chen Ge could sense that Yan Danian's power was increasing, but the speed was too slow. He had to face the cursed hospital soon, and he had to turn Yan Danian into a real Red Specter as soon as possible. He had very high expectations for Yan Danian. After all, when he was in the School of the Afterlife, even the painter had said that Yan Danian's talent was above his own.

After comparing the painter who had managed to build a heaven behind the door with his own power and then Yan Danian who cowered in the corner inside his own comic, Chen Ge did not know what to do. "Danian, if you are ever hungry, please tell me."

Pulling all the employees into the comic, Chen Ge waited until sunrise before he returned to Nightmare Academy. He did not sleep a wink throughout the night. He was just about to go and rest, but once he opened the front door of the Nightmare Academy, he saw all of his living employees waiting for him inside the lobby.

"Are you guys waiting for me?" Chen Ge soon noticed that something was wrong. Other than his employees, there were a few other police officers present. He had met one of them before when he first came to Xin Hai. He believed the officer's surname was Cai.

"Mr. Chen, do not worry. We just have some questions that we wish to ask you." The leading officer walked toward Chen Ge. "The night before last, the Cards Archway at the old city collapsed. We saw you on camera at the street right outside the area. I am just very curious as to why you would appear at that location during that time."

With the presence of so many police officers, Chen Ge instantly realized that the mass grave inside the Cards Archway had been found by the Xin Hai police.

“Even if you did not come to me, I was planning on going to you.” Chen Ge’s expression was even more serious than the police officer’s. “There are some words that are not so convenient for us to discuss here. How about we go to the station to slowly talk this over?”

“You want to follow us to the station?” The leading officer shared a look with his colleagues next to him. They were just there to ask some questions, but the man had voluntarily requested to follow them to the police station. What was the motive behind this?

“Trust me, I really have something very important that I need to tell you.” Chen Ge stressed this again. The few officers finally decided to bring Chen Ge with them back to the station. Seeing Chen Ge leave with the police, Zhang Jingjiu signaled for Qu Changlin and Xiao Die to return to their work. “Don’t just stand there. Go and do what you are supposed to do.”

“Brother Jiu, the boss has just been apprehended by the police! Why are you so calm?” Xiao Die was very worried. “Would something happen to the boss?”

“There is no need for you to worry. It can’t change anything either way. We have to believe in our boss. Eventually... you will get used to it.”

After he got into the police car, Chen Ge’s expression became even more serious. He sat on the backseat next to the two other police officers, and his demeanor made the two other officers quite uncomfortable.

“Okay, the night before last, why would you show up around the Cards Archway?” Captain Cai was curious, and he desperately wanted to know the answer.

“Other than the Cards Archway in the old city, I went to an abandoned skyscraper in the new city, a construction site in the countryside, and some barren land near the border.” Chen Ge had taken a cab between these places. The police would be able to trace his route easily, so he offered this information to prove his innocence.

“Why would you go to so many different places that night?”

“Not only that night. The night before last, I spent the whole night moving around the old city of Xin Hai and its countryside. I have barely slept for the past two nights.” Chen Ge was forceful. He was the one being interrogated, but he was extremely assertive, so it felt like it was him interrogating the police officers.

“You still have not answered my question. Why would you go to these many different places?”

“I am investigating the disappearance of a doctor. His surname is Fang.” Chen Ge grabbed Captain Cai’s hand. “Things are more serious than I thought. I might need your help.”

Chapter 1150 - Chen Ge, Victim From Twenty Years Ago 2 in 1

Chapter 1150 Chen Ge, Victim From Twenty Years Ago 2 in 1

There was no evidence that directly linked Chen Ge to the case at the Cards Archway. If anything, the only thing that they had was some surveillance footage that showed that Chen Ge was around the crime scene two nights ago. That barely amounted to anything. The police were just running through the motions by asking him in for questioning, but what Chen Ge said had gone wildly beyond their expectations.

“Mr. Chen, so you are saying that you went to these places just to investigate the disappearance of Doctor Fang?”

“Yes.”

...

“Okay, let’s just put that aside for now. Did you go to the Cards Archway last night?” Captain Cai was more concerned about the case at the Cards Avenue. When the place collapsed the night before last, it had exposed the mass grave that was previously hidden underground. Most of the dead bodies were from a very long time ago, but two of the bodies were fresh kills. Their time of death was only several months ago. After the police’s investigation, they found that the victims were all homeless squatters. They were most likely killed when they went to the Cards Archway to rest at night. Based on the profiler’s analysis, there was no conflict of interest or any beneficial relationship tying the victims and the killers. In other words, the killer was someone who was committing murder for the sake of it!

Such a dangerous person had to be arrested as soon as possible, or else it was certain that he would repeat the crime again.

“I only visited the place the night before last. I saw some things there as well. If you wish to solve the case at the Cards Avenue, then you cannot ignore the disappearance of Doctor Fang.” Chen Ge leaned against the cushion of the backseat. “Before Doctor Fang disappeared, his mental health was seriously affected. His colleagues said that he was not acting like his usual self. He spent the entire day in a daze, and he kept mumbling about some horrendous ghost stories.”

Chen Ge took out the notebook that he had been using to record all these details from the inner compartment of his backpack.

“For the past two nights, I have checked about twenty ghost stories throughout Xin Hai in an attempt to find any connection between them and Doctor Fang’s disappearance, and I really came up with something.”

Chen Ge then proceeded to pull out several paper notes from the compartment and showed them to Captain Cai. “I found these at some of the locations for the ghost stories.”

Seeing the strange statement on the paper, the young officers next to the Chen Ge were slightly confused, but Captain Cai’s reaction was very strange. He said subconsciously, “This statement again?”

“You have seen this statement before?” Chen Ge wanted to borrow the power of the law enforcement, but it was not easy to persuade the police to help him. After all, this was not Jiujiang; they had not cooperated in the past before, and they had no reason to put their trust in him. But Chen Ge did not expect Captain Cai to have seen the note before. With that, they had some basis to continue this conversation.

“About half a year ago, there were two homicides in Xin Hai. The victims’ state of death was extremely strange. We found the same notes with the same statement after canvassing the crime scenes.” Captain Cai put on a pair of gloves and took the notes from Chen Ge. “Even though the cases have been successfully solved... how shall I put this? When we got to the killer, the killer had already gone mad. Plenty of evidence pointed toward the madman as the killer, so at the time, the case was quickly solved and closed.”

“This note with the same sentence appeared more than half a year ago?” Chen Ge calculated the time. That would be around the time when his own parents disappeared. “Since the same notes have appeared again, is it possible that it could mean there was more than one killer behind those cases?”

Chen Ge was giving plenty of face to the police at Xin Hai. He did not point out directly that the Xin Hai law enforcement had missed the real culprit but used a roundabout way to point out that there might be more than one killer.

“From the killer’s lack of motive and the grisly method of killing, the possibility of that is high.” Captain Cai became the most serious he had ever been. “Mr. Chen, you have provided us with a very important clue!”

About ten minutes later, the three police officers brought Chen Ge into Xin Hai police station. Since it involved many murders, Captain Cai valued Chen Ge’s opinion a lot, so he was directly brought into the police station’s conference room. Pushing the door open, Captain Cai was surprised to find other people inside the conference room. A middle-aged police officer was seated at the side of the table with a serious expression. Opposite him stood a male lecturer who had the air of a cultivated scholar. It was clear that they had been arguing from the redness that covered both of their faces.

“Captain Yang?”

“Mr. Wang?”

Captain Cai and Chen Ge spoke at the same time, and the people in the room looked at each other.

“Who is this young man?” The middle-aged police officer known as Captain Yang looked at Chen Ge. “Ol’ Cai, how could you bring a normal citizen into the internal conference room?”

“The night before last, the Cards Archway collapsed, and thus, we found the dead bodies of two homeless people. The cause of death was determined as a sudden heart attack due to extreme pressure. It’s clear that they were both homicides. During our investigation, we encountered Mr. Chen, and he has provided us with a very important clue.”

Captain Cai pulled out the paper note.

“There might be more than one killer for the case of the two horrible murders that happened about half a year ago! The murder of these two homeless people was very similar to the previous cases. They might have been committed by the same gang of people!”

“So, the killers who are responsible for the death of the homeless people at the Cards Archway and the people responsible for the horrible murders that happened half a year ago could be the same, huh?” Captain Yang sank into quiet contemplation. Moments later, he turned to Mr. Wang. “Ol’ Wang, it is not that I don’t want to help you, but you can see for yourself that Xin Hai is not so peacefully. Our hands are full with all these sudden cases. We cannot spare any police officers for a case where the killer died twenty years ago. I hope you can understand our difficulty.”

Mr. Wang appeared to have expected this result before he came, so his expression did not change much when he was told such things.

“I shall be going then. I do not want to interrupt your investigation.” He did not appear to be in a good mood. When he walked past Chen Ge, he dropped his voice to a whisper and said, “Boss Chen, when you leave this police station, please do remember to reach out to me.”

“Me?” Chen Ge had no idea why Mr. Wang would suddenly reach out to him, but he still nodded. After all, they had both come from Jiujiang, so they should be helping each other. After Mr. Wang left, Captain Cai closed the door of the conference room and started to ask Chen Ge some questions in more detail. At Jiujiang police station, Chen Ge had accumulated a wealth of investigative experience, so he was very familiar with the procedure of the entire major crimes investigation. Initially, it was the two captains who were asking him questions, but eventually, Chen Ge slowly took over the discussion. He picked up the marker and started to draw and list out all the clues that they had found on the board. Those who did not know might assume that he was a professional lecturer hired by the police station.

His mind was clear, and his logic was in place. Chen Ge used the simplest and most common words to completely wash the suspicion away from himself, and then he proceeded to compile all the information related to the two murders. The cases that spanned half a year were connected together, and the string that connected them was the paper notes with the strange statement found at the various crime scenes.

“The real killer is not crazy, or rather, perhaps they are a team. They knew that they would not be able to escape from your investigation, so they dropped a sacrifice and pushed out a madman to take the fall as the scapegoat.”

When Chen Ge said that, he closely watched the facial expression on the two officers.

Where there was light, there was darkness. To reopen a case that had already been closed about half a year ago, this was not a result that would be easily accepted by everyone. With reputation and many other things on the line, some people might choose to turn a blind eye or purposely work around it. But thankfully, Captain Cai and Captain Yang were not such people. After they had confirmed that the two cases were related and knew that the real killer was still beyond the reach of the law, they immediately came up with a plan. Before Chen Ge, they summoned the entire major crimes unit at Xin Hai into the room.

The police were about to conduct a special meeting, but there was an additional stranger in the room. The young police officers that entered the room could not hide their surprise, but Chen Ge was completely at ease. He even found himself a seat in the corner and planted himself there.

“Mr. Chen, we still need to discuss some internal details about some of these cases. Based on the rules, this cannot be observed by normal citizens, so I will have to request you to wait outside for a while.” Seeing that Chen Ge was ready to sit in on their meeting, Captain Cai showed a helpless smile on his face. “Yue Ji, why don’t you show Mr. Chen to the breakroom and make sure that he is comfortable there?”

A female officer with a baby face walked over. Chen Ge rather unwillingly left the conference room.

“Looks like they do not trust me fully yet. Then again, I cannot blame them. I am only a stranger who’s just arrived from Jiujiang.” Chen Ge stretched lazily. “But it does not matter. Trust can be slowly built. After all, I have a feeling we will be have a lot more interaction in the future.”

He had not slept the whole night. So, when he entered the breakroom, he pulled the few chairs together to form a line, and then with his backpack as the pillow, he lay on them and fell asleep. During the whole process, the female officer stood at the side, watching Chen Ge move the furniture around inside the room, and then she watched him go to sleep just like that.

“He purposely came to the police station to have a nap? What kind of strange behavior is this?” Yue Ji did not dare violate the order given to her by her superior. She even suspected that the man before her might be some important suspect, and she had been given the task of watching over him. Without anything else to do, Yue Ji leaned against the table and kept staring at Chen Ge, who had fallen deeply into his slumber. About one hour later, Chen Ge was shaken awake. When he opened his eyes, Yue Ji and Captain Cai were standing beside him.

“Have you finished the meeting already?”

“Yes, we have decided to investigate both the cases from two nights ago and the case from half a year ago together.” Captain Cai poured a glass of water for Chen Ge. “Other than that, do you mind if we temporarily keep the notes? After the cases are solved, we will return them to you.”

“There is no need for that. You can keep the paper notes as evidence. But I advise your people not to spend too much time staring at the words on the paper.”

Those paper notes were nothing good. If the police were willing to take custody of them, Chen Ge naturally would not reject them.

“Thank you for your cooperation, Mr. Chen.” Captain Cai handed the water in the paper cup over to Chen Ge. “During this period, we might need to summon you again for your help, so I hope that you will not leave Xin Hai for the time being.”

“In that case, how about we exchange contact numbers? If you need any help from me, just call me directly. I am also very worried about Doctor Fang’s safety, and I wish to hear any firsthand information about him.” Chen Ge took out his own phone. Captain Cai could not find any reason to reject him, so he did end up exchanging numbers with Chen Ge. “These cases are not as simple as you might imagine. The killers behind them might be a huge group. They are extremely dangerous. You must be very careful during your investigation.”

The purpose of Chen Ge coming to Xin Hai Police Station had been achieved; he had formed a link with the police force and had pointed the law enforcement toward the direction of the cursed hospital. Next, he would need to slowly gain the trust of the police, and then he would gain support for his own objective.

“Okay, we will be extra careful. Look at you, you must be tired. You’d better go back and rest.”

“See you tomorrow.” Seeing Chen Ge depart from the station, Yue Ji was filled with confusion. In the end, she could not help herself but ask, “Captain Cai, who is this person? This is the first time I’ve seen you treat someone so kindly and respectfully.”

“His name is Chen Ge. He is the only normal citizen who has received the public security honorary badge in Jiujiang. He has been personally involved in more than ten major crimes and has helped more than twenty victims gain their justice.” Captain Cai’s gaze was heavy. “Lee Zheng at Jiujiang’s major crimes unit is my former classmates. I’ve already heard many things about this man from him. I just did not expect that he would come to Xin Hai so soon.”

“Could it be some exaggerated rumors? He is involved in more than ten heavy crimes and more than twenty human lives? Is he Conan?” Yue Ji’s interest in Chen Ge was piqued; she kept staring at his back.

“Regardless, time to get back to work. Things are going to get rocky in Xin Hai very soon.”

...

Once Chen Ge walked out from the police station, Mr. Wang, who had been waiting for him at the roadside, walked over.

“Mr. Wang, you have been waiting for me?” Chen Ge had good impression of Mr. Wang, or to be more precise, he had good impression of everyone from Jiujiang Medical University.

“Yes.” Mr. Wang hesitated. He stared at Chen Ge for a very long time before he finally said, “I hear from Zuo Han that you are a legend. To search for your own missing parents, you practically flipped the whole of Jiujiang upside down and solved several important cases along the way.”

“I was just extremely lucky.”

“To be able to encounter so many murders one after another, I would not call that lucky. If anything, I would say you are probably the unluckiest person in the world.” Mr. Wang sighed. “Death, despair, pain, and struggle—behind every murder, there is hidden humanity’s sin. During this peaceful era, we are the people closest to these sins.”

Mr. Wang was being very serious, and this caused Chen Ge to treat him very seriously as well. “Sir, why exactly did you wait for me? What do you need from me?”

“About twenty years ago, there was a serial killer in Jiujiang. At that time, public surveillance was not as comprehensive as it is now. Combined with the fact that all the murders were committed in the countryside, this seriously hampered the investigation.”

Mr. Wang looked at the cars moving up and down the road. It felt like he was talking to him.

“To avoid increased public panic, all the information related to the case was blocked off. The higher-ups even gave an order that the police needed to capture the murderer within a week. In the end, we indeed caught the killer on the seventh day, but at the time, we suspected that there was more than one killer.” Mr. Wang sighed lightly. “The captured killer could not even finish a full sentence. He was made to be killer simply because all the evidence pointed toward him.”

“Since all the evidence pointed toward him, doesn’t that mean that the police got the right person?” Chen Ge had a feeling that he knew what Mr. Wang was getting at.

“But what if the evidence was purposely set up by the real killer?” Mr. Wang squeezed his hands together. “The killer is very cunning. He probably already came up with the solution to shake the blame off him when he committed the first murder.”

The atmosphere slowly became heavy. Both parties were silent for a while before Mr. Wang finally continued. “That case has become a thorn in my heart. I’m always reminded of the victim’s face, his open eyes, how he was struggling for help from me in his last moments.”

When Mr. Wang said these things, he kept his eyes glued on Chen Ge.

“Do you know who the last victim was during that killing spree?”

“Who was it?”

“Chen Ge. That child had the same name as you.” Mr. Wang took a deep breath. “Perhaps it’s because of that Captain Yan was particularly partial toward you. I know you two cannot be the same person, but you two have the same gaze.”

“His name was also Chen Ge?” Chen Ge was startled. “Mr. Wang, do you mind me about this case from twenty years ago in more detail?”

“The first victim was a tourist from another state. He accidentally captured the killer in the process of murdering a child on his camera. The killer was wearing a white doctor’s coat, and the child was only about five.”

The case that Mr. Wang described gave Chen Ge an eerie sense of familiarity.

“After the tourist died, we started our investigation. We slowly discovered how cruel and mad the killer was. He used different methods to kill children of varying ages but of the same body size. Even though we failed to find the bodies of these children, there were witnesses and surveillance footage. Then, what happened next was inexplicable. Two witnesses were brutally murdered, and the murderer in the white coat even somehow managed to tamper with most of the physical evidence.”

Chapter 1151 - Could This Be the Truth? 2 in 1

1151 Could This Be the Truth? 2 in 1

Mr. Wang told Chen Ge about the serial killings that happened twenty years ago. Part of the details matched the information that Chen Ge already knew of the crime. For example, the killer once drowned the victim at Eastern Jiujiang Dam. Then, the killer lured the victim into White Dragon Tunnel and strangled him inside the tunnel, and there was a citizen who saw the killer push the victim from the edge of a tall building. Due to the long distance, the witness did not get a clear look of either the killer or the victim. However, in each case, the victims were children of a very young age. They wore different clothes, but their body size and height were extremely similar. It gave off the inscrutable feeling that the same child had been killed multiple times.

After hearing the revelation from Mr. Wang, Chen Ge's heart was thumping unevenly. When he did the Trial Missions given by the black phone, he had personally witnessed these scenarios. He was the child who was killed multiple times by the killer!

Lifting his hands to press against his temples, green veins popped on Chen Ge's forehead. The shattered memories were slowly piecing up together in his mind. He felt a headache mounting.

...

"Mr. Wang, are you sure that the name of the last victim was Chen Ge? Did you guys find his body?"

"Even though I failed to find his body, I was present when he was killed." Mr. Wang's eyes were filled with regret and guilt. His hands clenched into fists. “After our long analysis, we locked onto three children in Jiujiang who had the same build and size as the victims in the previous cases. We believed that the killer would target one of these three children next.”

“Therefore, the police had set up surveillance around these three children?”

“Yes. At the time, the law enforcement was lacking manpower, so I was called to join the operation as well. I was assigned to Team Seven by the captain of the Jiujiang Police Station at the same time. Our team was responsible for watching over a private orphanage.” Mr. Wang paused for a moment as if worried that Chen Ge did not understand him. He added, “Of the three children that we’d narrowed down, one of them lived at the city center of Jiujiang. He came from a very good family. The second child lived in Western Jiujiang, the child of the manager for Luo’s Real Estate. The last child though was living in Eastern Jiujiang’s private orphanage.”

The details of the three children did not match Chen Ge at all. He could remember very clearly that he was living with his parents at Jiang Yuan Apartments in Eastern Jiujiang. The three children targeted by the police at the time could not be him, but how come the last victim was called Chen Ge?

“Even to this day, I can remember what happened clearly. The police only told the orphanage’s teachers and the director their mission; the children did not know anything. They spent their day playing like usual and then went to sleep. Once night fell, everything was normal until it was midnight, and the child that we were supposed to be watching over suddenly disappeared. Even now, I have no idea how the killer managed to do something like that. It was impossible to sneak a child without a trace out of a room of other sleeping children. After the child disappeared, I immediately reported it to my superior, and then the whole of Team Seven started to go and search for the child.

“In the end, Captain Yan, who had just joined the force back then, and I found the child inside an abandoned building in Eastern Jiujiang.” Mr. Wang’s voice was shaking. Time supposedly washed away everything, but it was definitely not the case with Mr. Wang. Even when he was thinking back to the case now, he still found it hard to control his emotions. “The child was shaking like a leaf. He was seriously injured, and his eyes were pleading for mercy. He cried out for help. He told us that his name was Chen Ge. He said he wanted to see his parents, but just as the child was about to give us the name of his parents, the killer entered the room.”

“The child told you with his own lips that his name was Chen Ge?” Chen Ge himself had no recollection of this. He could not remember anything relating to Mr. Wang’s story.

“Every single sentence that I am telling you now is the truth.”

“So, what happened after the killer entered the room?”

“The killer was wearing a doctor’s coat and had the mask of a devil on. It appeared like he had already filled with room with narcotic gas before he walked in because once he did, Captain Yan and my mind started to spin and turn. After he shared a few words with the child, he took the child forcibly away.” Mr. Wang’s expression was wrought with pain and guilt. “If only Captain Yan had fired his gun at the time, perhaps things would have ended up differently.”

“Then, did you guys catch him in the end?” That was the only thing that Chen Ge cared about.

“Based on the report from the officers in the other teams, they finally surrounded the killer by the side of the lake, and they personally witnessed the killer toss the victim’s body inside the lake.” Mr. Wang took a deep breath. “The police instantly detained the man wearing the white coat by the lakeside. Everyone witnessed him kill the child and dispose of him in the lake, so there was no mistaking him as the killer! But the problem was there were still several unsolved mysteries regarding the killer that they captured.

“Number one, the man in the white coat that they captured by the lakeside was a madman. He kept mumbling, ‘Do not come back again... do not come back again.’

“Number two, the white coat that he was wearing did not fit him at all. It was clearly not his size.

“Number three, the way he disposed of the body was extremely amateurish. It did not look like the action of someone who had committed multiple murders.”

“So, you believe that the captured man was a scapegoat? The real killer found a madman and purposely put on a show for the police to see?” Actually, what Chen Ge did not say was, perhaps the killers had been switched as well. The victim and killer encountered by Mr. Wang and Captain Yan were the real killer and the young Chen Ge, while the one encountered by the main police force at the lakeside was a planted killer. Even the body that was tossed into the lake probably was not Chen Ge but one of the innocent orphans from the Eastern Jiujiang orphanage.

“Yes, your guess is similar to mine!” Mr. Wang’s gaze became sharp. “Captain Yan and I had a close encounter with the killer. Even though he was wearing a devil’s mask, obscuring his face, the chilling and oppressing presence that radiated off him was completely different from the killer who was eventually captured by the police!”

“Did the police eventually find the body of the victim of the child from the Eastern Jiujiang orphanage?” Chen Ge asked.

Mr. Wang shook his head. “Throughout the murders, none of the victims’ bodies were found.”

With what Mr. Wang had said, Chen Ge came up with a hypothesis. The doctors from the cursed hospital had been trying to kill him again and again for twenty years, but they realized that no matter how many times they tried, they could not kill him and attracted the law enforcement’s attention in the process. To distract the police away from them, they purposely directed this whole show before the team of officers and had the police apprehend a scapegoat. The killer and victim of these serial killings were still alive in this world, but other than a few people who were still concerned about this case, no one cared about it anymore. The truth would not change due to time; it would instead get buried under the sands of time.

“Have the police found any information regarding the previous few victims?” Chen Ge held onto the road light and kept his head lowered.

“No, they have failed to do so. Similarly, they could not find the bodies. Even the hair and blood had been properly cleaned by the killer, so nothing was left behind.” Mr. Wang’s expression was severe. “I can tell you confidently that this was a serial killer, but when the captain of Jiujiang Police Station closed the case twenty years ago, simply because the bodies of the victims could not be found, in the end, the case was treated as an indiscriminate murder case.”

“Is there a difference?”

“The difference is very big, but honestly, it does not really matter now.”

In the unfamiliar city, Mr. Wang and Chen Ge stood by the side of the road. The people walked past them. They had their own lives to hurry to, and no one really cared about what they were talking about.

“So, did you come to Xin Hai hoping to reopen this case?”

“Yes, the white coat worn by the killer at the time perfectly matched the uniform of a private hospital in Xin Hai. Other than that, Captain Yan and I heard the voice of the killer before. When he spoke, he had a local Xin Hai accent.”

“Do you still remember what the killer said at the time?”

“No, I don’t. The feeling of having the memory blurred out is very hard to stomach.” Mr. Wang swept a glance at Chen Ge, but he did not continue. Actually, he had the same feeling when he visited Chen Ge’s haunted house. Therefore, he had quickly recorded all the details that he could remember on the notebook the first moment he woke up. This did not mean that he suspected that Chen Ge was the killer. He just thought that Chen Ge did not appear like a normal haunted house operator, and that was one of the reasons he wished to cooperate with Chen Ge.

“What is the name of this private hospital that you mention? Where is its exact location?”

Mr. Wang was a crucial witness of the serial murder from twenty years ago, and that was the part of the memory that Chen Ge was lacking. Just based on this point alone, Chen Ge was ready to help Mr. Wang.

“The abandoned hospital was situated at the border of Xin Hai and Jiujiang. It’s used many names in its lifetime, but the one that most people knew it by would be Xin Hai’s Central Hospital.” Mr. Wang hesitated for a moment before he turned to Chen Ge with sincerity. “I know I cannot do everything on my own. A single person’s power is limited, and I won’t be able to handle most situations. If you are free tonight, do you mind going there with me?”

“Just the two of us?”

“And Ol’ Wu.” Mr. Wang was determined to make this journey no matter what, but Chen Ge also knew that with just the three of them, they would not put a dent in the defense of the cursed hospital.

“Mr. Wang, if you are willing to place your trust in me, I hope that you are able to wait a few more days.” Chen Ge would not tell Mr. Wang about his own secret, so he offered a different excuse. “The night before last, the Cards Archway in Xin Hai collapsed. The police found a mass grave there. This new case is related to a case that happened one year ago.”

“I know the police in Xin Hai are very busy, so they do not have the time to help me. I can understand that.”

“No, what I mean to say is that these two cases are related to the private hospital that you just told me as well,” Chen Ge said in a very serious tone. “These three cases are related to that hospital. The Xin Hai police will eventually realize that, and when that happens, we can go with them.”

“Then, how much longer do we need to wait?”

“Soon.” Chen Ge also had no idea when the law enforcement of Xin Hai would lead their investigation to the cursed hospital, so this was the only thing that he could say for now. “You have already waited for twenty years, so what does a few more days matter? We should exchange contact information. When the time arrives, I will inform you immediately.”

“Okay.” Mr. Wang also sighed in relief. If the police in Xin Hai could help him with the investigation, naturally, that would be best.

“Mr. Wang, there is one last thing that I need to tell you. Do not try to investigate this on your own. If there are things that you wish to tell me and cannot do so on the telephone, you can come find me at Nightmare Academy on Destiny Avenue.” Chen Ge put on a reassuring smile. “That is one of my estates as well. It is very safe.”

“Thank you.” Mr. Wang focused his eyes on Chen Ge. It was clear that he still had something else on his mind, but he did not say anything in the end. He turned around and left, melting into the crowd. After Mr. Wang walked away, the smile on Chen Ge’s face disappeared along with him.

“How come I have no memory of any of that at all? Has my own memory been tampered with as well?” What Mr. Wang just told him could prove indirectly that Chen Ge indeed had been killed many times when he was young. That was not an illusion created by the ghost fetus; it was something that had happened in real life. The thing that Chen Ge had been trying to ignore now was brought up to the surface. He could not pretend that it did not exist anymore. He had to face this head on.

“The child who was killed again and again should be me. All the information and details matched, and the person who killed me should be someone from the cursed hospital. And what kind of role did my parents play in this whole process? How come they did not stop the hospital from murdering me?”

Chen Ge gripped his hair tightly until some strands of hair came out in his fingers. This kind of feeling of being unable to remember something that had clearly happened was very painful.

“My parents were always so kind to me. It was this family who showed me the meaning of happiness, warmth, and love. How could such parents sit idle and watched me being murdered again and again?

“Or perhaps the person that the doctors killed was not the real me, but a kind of something on me. Like perhaps the amalgamation of sin on my body?”

Chen Ge took out the black phone and carefully looked over the Trial Missions that he had done in the past.

“When I first obtained the black phone, the first Nightmare Mission that I did required me to stand before the mirror with my eyes closed. It was midnight. The me standing outside the mirror was a person, and the me inside the mirror was a ghost. One was kind and cowardly; the other was cruel and scary. Is it possible that the mission was trying to tell me something through the Mirror Ghost?”

Chen Ge could still remember the description of that Nightmare Mission now.

I know you're still not wholly convinced about the existence of ghosts in the world. In that case, how about a little game? The truth will be revealed when you open your eyes.

“The mirror was used as the main item, when I opened my eyes at the time, would I see the version of myself in the mirror?

“When the haunted house officially opened for business, the first unique visitor that I encountered was Fan Yu. The child was reluctant to communicate with others in real life, and he had been searching for heaven. The other Fan Yu turned into the painter in the blood red world behind the door. He carried the curse and the resentment of the whole School of the Afterlife, building a heaven within the realm of hell!

“Fan Yu and the painter—one represented humanity, and the other suffered all the sin; one was living outside the door, and the other had entered the door. Fan Yu was the key person to unlocking the scenario of Mu Yang High School, and Mu Yang High School was the first two-star scenario I encountered.

“The key character to my first three-star scenario, the Third Sick Hall, was Men Nan. Wait, the situation here was the same with Fan Yu! He was born inside a mental hospital. All the tragedy and pain morphed him into a Red Specter behind the door while his actual living body became a student under Doctor Gao and lived a normal person’s life.”

Now that he thought about it, the whole thing was incredibly scary. Doctor Gao was the chairman of the Ghost Stories Society, and the Red Specter Men Nan was trapped by him inside the door at the Third Sick Hall while the Men Nan in real life became his best student. Doctor Gao might have known more than Chen Ge expected. From the very beginning, he was probably doing some kind of purposeful experiment, and Men Nan was his test subject!

“The events surrounding the four-star mission, ghost fetus, are even clearer. The shadow escaped from me. From the information that I have, he suffered most of my pain and despair, and he was desperate for happiness and bliss. It was this part of his emotions that became the seed that eventually birthed the ghost fetus.”

Holding the black phone, Chen Ge’s face was pale. He finally realized it. Ever since he obtained the black phone, every single key Trial Mission had been trying to tell him the same message. Behind one person’s happiness, there was another person who was silently suffering all the sin and tragedy.

“Could there really be another version of myself behind the door?”

Chen Ge looked at the black phone he held in his palm. He looked at the messages that he had received on it. He looked at the reflection of himself on the cold phone screen.

“I think I get it now.”

Chapter 1152 - Dinner Is Served

2 in 1

Chapter 1152 Dinner Is Served 2 in 1

“Chang Wenyu once said that she’d seen the black phone somewhere inside the blood city, so the person who has been messaging me should be there as well.” Many clues started to link together, and Chen Ge was getting step by step closer to the truth.

When Chen Ge entered the Nightmare Academy on Destiny Avenue, he noticed that there was a gaze from the Si Li Xiang eatery opposite that had been following him. But when he turned his head that way with Yin Yang Vision, he failed to find anyone. There was no one there staring at him.

“Was it the boss of Si Li Xiang staring at me?” Chen Ge could not confirm that suspicion. He planned to wait until night arrived before he went over the place to give it a more thorough check.

...

Entering the headmaster office, he noticed that Chi Ren was asleep. Chen Ge did not disturb him as he moved to sit at the study table. He opened his backpack and was about to arrange his items when his expression darkened.

“Why are these paper notes still inside my backpack? Didn’t I hand them over to the Xin Hai police?” Chen Ge took the paper notes out from his backpack. The uneven handwriting on them was like a curse that could not be shaken loose.

“There are more than ten Red Specters living inside my backpack. If ‘someone’ intended to silently to place the paper notes back inside my backpack, the Red Specter employees would have noticed it!”

If a common person encountered something like this, the first thing that would come into their mind was tearing up the paper notes or burning them. After they did that, they would realize that the paper notes would continue to appear in their vicinity. This was the quintessential beginning to a ghost story. But Chen Ge, as history had proven, was not a common person. First, he placed the paper notes on his own shadow. He waited for half an hour and noted that nothing strange had happened. Then he picked the paper notes up and shoved them inside the red high heels.

“These paper notes keep appearing, as if they are trying to remind me that I am living inside a sickened world. They keep on repeating the same sentence. If I start to believe the message of the statement and am led to believe its truth, I will probably become an actual patient.”

The cursed hospital only needed two kind of people—doctors and patients. The way they treated Doctor Fang and Chen Ge was completely different. It was as if they had already decided that Chen Ge was a ‘suitable’ patient from the very beginning. They had tried everything they could to convince and persuade Chen Ge of his own ‘illness’. The moment Chen Ge’s conviction started to shake, the moment he also believed that the world was sick and needed to be changed, he would have fallen completely into the cursed hospital’s trap.

“The city of Xin Hai gives me a very bad feeling. On the surface, it is peaceful and vibrant, and the security is very tight. Yet, I cannot feel safe for some reason whenever I am here.”

Chen Ge was still thinking about the problem when Chi Ren, who was asleep on the bed, suddenly screamed. His hands waved violently about, and his lips kept mumbling something incoherent. His emotions were unusually heightened.

“What happened to him? Is it a nightmare?” Chen Ge had a Red Specter who specialized in dreams—the son of the woman in the tunnel. But Chen Ge did not dare summon him out that easily. What if Chi Ren suddenly woke up to find a giant spider before him? He would probably be scared out of his wits.

“Hey! Wake up!” Chen Ge pushed slightly but firmly on Chi Ren’s shoulders. Chi Ren, who was woken up from his sleep, sprang up into a seated position. His chest was rising and falling violently, and his clothes were wet from cold sweat.

“Was it another nightmare?” Chen Ge handed a glass of water to Chi Ren, but Chi Ren did not dare touch the glass. He curled his body into a ball and shrank backward, his eyes overwhelmed with fear and terror.

“It came into my dream again! It appears to know that I have already betrayed it!" Chi Ren claimed in a shrill voice. His hands scratched his face. The man did not seem to realize that the scratches went so deep that they left bloody gashes on his face.

"Don't panic. Can you please tell me what happened in your dream first?"

"I dreamt about that ghost who only has a mouth on its face. It was standing next to the bed and requested that I told it a story." Chi Ren placed his hand over his heart. "I was very afraid, and I told him that I no longer had any stories to tell it. But it refused to take no for an answer. It threatened me, saying that if I refused to tell it any story, it would peel open my head and crawl into my brain."

"Then what happened?"

"Just as it was about to crawl into my brain, you woke me up." Chi Ren was obviously still petrified by his nightmare. "I have a feeling that it knew I have already betrayed it. All the family members who have betrayed it get seriously punished. They would be better dead. I need to escape! I cannot stay in Xin Hai!"

"You need to calm down first." Chen Ge grabbed Chi Ren's shoulders as he tried to crawl out from bed. "The curse on your body has been temporarily suppressed. Even if he knows that you have betrayed him, as long as he is unable to find you, you will be temporary safe."

"But it knows how to find me. As long as I am still in Xin Hai, it will eventually find me!" Chi Ren was on the verge of a mental breakdown. A man of over forty was scared witless, to the point he had regressed to the state of a child.

"If it could appear in your dream, there is a possibility that it could have gone through your memory through your dream. That way, it found your location and came in person to get you." Chen Ge did not want to lie to Chi Ren.

"I am surely dead now. I need to leave this place as soon as possible! I need to go now! I cannot wait until sundown anymore! There is no more time!"

"Like I said earlier, please do not panic. It could only go through your memory in your dream, which means that it can't do anything to you as long as you do not fall asleep." Chen Ge flipped through the comic to summon out Zhang Yi. Zhang Yi, who was now a Red Specter, gave a presence that was completely different from before. It was intensely scary.

“I could stay awake for another twenty-four hours, but that does not mean that I won’t eventually be overwhelmed by fatigue and fall asleep!” Chi Ren hugged his own head. His eyes were filled with despair. At the beginning, he only gave Doctor Fang a warning. That was not a big sin, but now he had shared everything he knew with an outsider. That was a taboo at the cursed hospital. If he was captured, he did not dare imagine what those group of people might do to him.

“The person that you fear can look through your memory in your dream and know everything that has happened to you, that is indeed a very formidable power, but it does not mean that it is irresolvable.” Chen Ge signaled for Zhang Yi to use his own power. “We only need to tamper with your entire memory and consciousness, then we will be able to fool the enemy. In other words, we will have to create a fake memory for you.”

“Create a fake memory for me?”

“Yes, I will temporarily hide away part of your memory and use that to misdirect the enemy.” When other people ran into trouble, the first thing they would consider was how to solve the problem, but when Chen Ge ran into any trouble, the first thing that he would think of was how to turn that problem into his own benefit.

“It will be pointless. Even if the memory is hidden away, as long as I am still in Xin Hai, it will definitely be able to find me.” Chi Ren shook his head with pain in his eyes. He had already given up. “Every person with the surname Chi in Xin Hai is its eyes and ears, and I still have its curse inside my body. If I do not escape from Xin Hai, it only needs to pay a little sacrifice, and it will be able to sense my location. I am its ‘family’, someone who can never shake loose from its control.”

“Its sensory power is only limited to Xin Hai?”

“They have buried their curse deep beneath the ground of Xin Hai. They have cursed this city for twenty years. You should run away with me; we cannot win this.”

“The curse is buried underground?” Chen Ge held a tight grip over Chi Ren’s hands. “Tell me more about that.”

“I cannot say more than that. Once I do, the curse will be triggered! It will hurry over here immediately!” Chi Ren struggled with his life. The cursed hospital was a fear buried deep inside his heart. Any kind of verbal consolation was unable to coax him out of his mist of despair.

“Looks like there is no other way. I will figure out a way to bring you away from here, but before that, I need you to take you to one place first.” Chen Ge waved for Chi Ren to follow him. They walked out from the headmaster’s office and down the dim corridor of the Nightmare Academy.

“We are here. This is the place.” Chen Ge stopped before a door. When he pushed open the door, he also made a signal out of Chi Ren’s sight. Zhang Yi silently appeared behind Chi Ren. When Chi Ren peeked inside the room to look, Zhang Yi’s hand fell on the top of Chi Ren’s head. The eyes slowly closed. Zhang Yi had wiped out all of Chi Ren’s memory that was related to Chen Ge inside his mind.

“You have helped me a great deal. Naturally, I will not leave you to die like that.” Chen Ge was a very principled man. He planned to wipe out Chi Ren’s memory and then sneak him out of Xin Hai at night. “The Demon God with the surname Chi is able to look through all the memories of the people who have the surname Chi through their dreams. I will have to remember that. That is very important info.”

Zhang Yi could look through a person’s memory as well, but even after he became a Red Specter, he still had to make physical contact with someone before he could use his power.

“Boss, his mind was filled with a black spider web, and many memories had been melded together with curses. The only thing I could do was remove the most recent memories related to you from his mind. I did not even dare look through his earlier memories before I got afraid of triggering the curse and setting off the enemy’s alarm.”

After Zhang Yi became a Red Specter, he did not lose his rationality. If anything, he gained more than a bit of humanity.

“You have done very well.” Chen Ge looked at Chi Ren, who had fainted on the ground. “The Demon God with the surname Chi has started to appear in these poor people’s dreams. Looks like the cursed hospital has already noticed a problem. I wonder what they will do next.”

The true power of the enemy was an unknown, and their ability was unclear. If Chen Ge was cornered, he would be in a very bad spot.

“If I trigger the curse, will the Demon God with the surname Chi hurry over immediately? Perhaps I can make use of that.” Chen Ge took out his phone to call Ol’ Wu. “Brother Wu, do you have time tonight? Can you drive your car over to the backdoor of Nightmare Academy?”

“No problem,” Ol’ Wu promised readily. At around six something, Ol’ Wu drove the car provided by the Jiujiang Medical University and arrived at the backdoor of Nightmare Academy. Chen Ge released the Red Specters to scout their surroundings. After ensuring there was no one around, Chen Ge brought the unconscious Chi Ren out and placed him on the backseat.

“Who is this?”

“A friend of mine.” Chen Ge then grabbed his backpack and also crawled into the car. “I need to send him back to Jiujiang.”

“What? We are going back to Jiujiang?” Ol’ Wu was shocked. “Are you already done with your task here?”

“Not yet, but I need to go back temporarily.” Chen Ge closed the car door. “Brother Wu, when your car is about to cross Xin Hai’s border, you need to decelerate.”

“Why?”

“Just follow my instructions.” Chen Ge flipped through the comic and ensured that every single Red Specter was in their best condition. “Let us prepare to set off.”

The car slowly moved. A dangerous glint was hidden at the bottom of Chen Ge’s eyes.

The Demon God with the surname Chi has cursed every single one person with the Chi surname. Earlier, Chi Ren mentioned that once they trigger the curse, the Demon God will arrive immediately. Chen Ge slowly narrowed his eyes. In other words, this was a perfect chance to lure a lone Demon God away from the cursed hospital!

When Chen Ge heard what Chi Ren had to say earlier, a mad idea had formed in his mind. He planned to lure the Demon God out and use this chance to dispose of it!

He knew that the cursed hospital had at least two Demon Gods. If he was able to kill one of the Demon Gods, the situation would be much better for him. Chen Ge’s side was completely ready, but the Demon God with the surname Chi had been in existence for decades. Chen Ge believed that he had a seventy percent success rate, and that was enough for him to take this gamble.

The red high heel, Xiao Bu, Chang Wenyu—I have three Top Red Specters and several Red Specters with unique power and Demon God Zhang Ya. That should be enough to set up a death trap. The people with the surname Chi will not be able leave the territory of Xin Hai freely. Along with the fact that the curse has been triggered, even if the Demon God does not show up itself, it will send other Red Specters in its place. No matter what, this is the perfect chance to hack away at the power of the cursed hospital.

Chen Ge was tired of dealing with small mobs. He decided to tear off a huge chunk of meat from the cursed hospital. Ol' Wu, who was driving, had no idea what was going on in the backseat. He merely adjusted the temperature inside the car and mumbled under his breath, "This is so strange. How come the air con is so cold tonight? It's so cold that my teeth are chattering."

Xin Hai's streets were very busy. Chen Ge and Ol' Wu also happened to leave during rush hour. It took Ol' Wu a whole hour to get the car to the countryside of Xin Hai. As Chen Ge had requested, just as they were about to leave Xin Hai, he started to decelerate. The atmosphere inside the car became heavy. Chen Ge closed his eyes to rest as much as he could, and he had all the Red Specters rein in their presence. After a while, the car successfully left Xin Hai. No one appeared to stop them.

"The plan has failed? Did I overthink things?" Chen Ge did not let his guard down. He continued to wait patiently. The night sky darkened, the lights from the streetlights dimmed, and the surroundings suddenly became curiously quiet. The number of cars on the road gradually dwindled until Ol' Wu became the only vehicle on this long, solitary road.

"This is strange. There are so few cars on the road."

"You wanted us to take a detour before we left Xin Hai. This path is less commonly used. It is normal for there not to be too many cars on the road. It will become normal again when we get on the highway." Ol' Wu still had not realized the severity of the situation. Just as he said that, the vehicle suddenly shuddered. It felt like the wheels had rolled over something. "Hmm, what was that? The road should be flat here."

Looking at the rear-view mirror, Ol' Wu started sweating bullets. On the road behind him, someone covered in blood lay on the ground!

"I hit someone!" He stepped on the break immediately. Ol' Wu quickly parked the car by the side of the road. "Chen Ge! Quick, we have to go check up on the person!"

"Do not panic!" Chen Ge grabbed Ol' Wu's hand to steady him. "No matter what happens, I need you to stay close to me! You must not run away from me!"

"O... Okay..."

Carrying the backpack, before Chen Ge even got the chance to open the car door, Chi Ren, who was unconscious, suddenly started to shriek. His hands reached to his throat, and his fingers gouged into his neck. He was trying to kill himself!

"Ol' Wu! Watch over him! Try to stop him from harming himself!" Chen Ge had Ol' Wu control Chi Ren while he quickly flipped through the comic. The people from the cursed hospital had arrived, but he did not know whether it was a Demon God or not.

Chen Ge used Yin Yang Vision to look at the body on the ground. The dead body covered in fresh blood suddenly convulsed. A face that had been crushed supposedly by the car and filled with wounds turned toward him. "Save me..."

The sticky blood leaked out from the dead body's wounds. It morphed into numerous blood lines to pierce through its body. Then, the blood lines controlled the body to charge at Chen Ge!

"This Red Specter is just a toy! I need to find the puppeteer!" To be able to control a Red Specter like that, Chen Ge knew that he had landed a big fish. The sound of pages flickering kept echoing, and an endless sea of red started to spread around Chen Ge!

"It is time for all of you to come out. Dinner is served!"

Chapter 1153 - I Have Kidnapped the Demon God“s Son 2 in 1

Chapter 1153 I Have Kidnapped the Demon God“s Son 2 in 1

Chen Ge had predicted that the cursed hospital might send their people, so he had purposely gotten Ol' Wu to drive the car to the other side of the city, the side that was furthest away from the cursed hospital, and along a lane that people rarely used to leave the city. It was true that one might run into ghosts if one travelled too late at night, but if a ghost tried to ambush too many humans on the road, they might run into Chen Ge. There were not that many people on the road. Even if he got into a battle with a Demon God, they would not harm any nearby innocents. Furthermore, this place was very far from the cursed hospital, so Chen Ge had enough time to kill the opponent and escape as soon as possible. Chen Ge's escape looked like it was done in a hurry, but actually, every step was carefully planned. The endless blood waves gushed out from under his feet and soaked into the ground, sealing up the road at an extremely fast speed. The Red Specter before him was just a toy; the real danger was the one controlling it. Chen Ge knew that very well, so he had all his Red Specters make their moves at the same time to seal up the entire territory.

"Found you!" The spreading of the blood soon met resistance. Chen Ge turned his head in that direction. A child was sitting at the door of an abandoned building by the side of the road. The child kept his head lowered, and he had something like a lollipop in his hand. When the blood that came out from Chen Ge's feet reached the child, the blood involuntarily moved around him and could not get close to the child's body.

"Is it a Demon God?" Chen Ge was very nervous as well. Using his Yin Yang Vision, he finally saw clearly that the boy was not holding a lollipop but an eyeball that was pierced through a stick. Around the boy's feet was a cluster of toys. The toys were all made from different human facial organs. The Red Specter in the middle of the road lunged at Chen Ge under the boy's control. When it was about one meter away from Chen Ge, it could not budge forward anymore. The stench morphed into a thick palpable wall to block the way toward Chen Ge. The Red Specter howled in pain. Its body was torn by the blood lines. The boy did not care about its feeling. For him, it was just a tool that could be replaced at any time.

...

“No wonder you have the guts to escape. You’ve found someone to help you.” A chilling and shrill voice came out from the boy’s body. The boy raised his head. His face was as pale as paper, and his whole face only consisted of a mouth! “Why would you escape when we are family? There is nothing more that I hate than those who abandon their family!”

The boy’s voice travelled into everyone’s ears as if the voice could pierce through their eardrums. Seeing the boy’s emotion was getting out of control, Chen Ge was not only not afraid, the corner of his lips turned up into a smile.

He isn’t running? Looks like he has not realized the situation he is in.

Chen Ge had once heard from Chi Ren that this was the child that he first dreamt about inside the morgue. Later, his dream included a middle-aged man who only had a mouth on his face. With that information, the middle-aged with only a mouth was the real Demon God with the surname Chi, and this boy with just a mouth was probably his split self or perhaps his son. No matter the situation, there was at least one point that was certain. The boy was very powerful. At the very least, he was powerful enough to believe that he could deal with any trouble that Chen Ge might pose to him.

Even though he was surrounded by the sea of blood, the boy still did not intend to escape at all. He knew that he had fallen for an ambush. The first thing that came into his mind was to kill Chen Ge alongside with the traitor. Actually, this was expected of the boy; Xin Hai was the cursed hospital’s territory, so there was nothing for him to worry about. Furthermore, his task was to chase after a betraying family member. Who would have thought the person would have a friend that had a Demon God, three Top Red Specters, and many Red Specters with unique talents to set up an ambush? A normal person or ghost would not even consider that.

Chen Ge used this psychological that the opponent might have, and instead of running away, he pretended to escape to lure the enemy into his trap.

“This boy can control Red Specters like toys, and he has a curious relationship with that Demon God. Thus, the boy himself should be very powerful as well.” Chen Ge’s initial plan was to trap and surround the enemy, but he did not expect the boy to voluntarily fight him head on. If the boy had chosen to run away when he first saw Chen Ge, it would have been very unbeneficial to Chen Ge should this turn into a chasing battle, and that was what he worried about the most. Thankfully, however, the boy was too overconfident to do something like that.

Seeing the boy slowly walk toward him, Chen Ge could not stop the smile from appearing on his face. One Red Specter after another appeared from the blood mist. When the boy’s attention was occupied by the several Red Specters, the red high heels and Xiao Bu, who had been hiding in the dark, attacked at the same time. This was not cunning; this was Chen Ge’s tactic. The Top Red Specters attacked from the back. When the boy realized what had happened, it was already too late. Five fingers covered in curses pierced his chest, and multiple black and red blood vessels stuck into his body. The sound of wailing shattered the peace of the night. A pile of living facial organs fell out from the boy’s body. Somehow, these organs were still alive. The eyes were still blinking, and the lips were screaming; the whole scenario felt surreal and terrifying.

“Make it quick!” After the quick interaction, Chen Ge had a sense of the boy’s true power. He was a Top Red Specter, but he was different from a normal Top Red Specter. There were plenty of black patterns that did not belong to him residing inside his body. This gave Chen Ge the feeling that this body was like a spare body the Demon God had prepared for himself. Just like how Chang Wenyu had separated out her heart, the Demon God with the surname Chi had given the pattern with a special meaning to this boy. The boy could not utilize this power inside the black pattern. Combined with the ambush from two Top Red Specters, one of them being the red high heels, a Top Red Specter who specialized in curses, the battle from the beginning was one-sided bullying. That was Chen Ge’s style; he would never preserve his energy. A battle should be wrapped up as soon as possible.

Demons danced in the sky, and ghosts floated on the wind. Blood and curses covered the empty road. Even the clouds over the horizon were dyed red. The Top Red Specter from the cursed hospital was attacked by more than ten Red Specters from Chen Ge’s haunted house. His body was flickering. He was seriously injured, but he refused to die. The black patterns on his body would always protect him at the most crucial moment. In the end, he knew that he could not resist any further. He thus transferred his memory and his consciousness into the black pattern and gave up the rest of his body. The battle continued, but a very bad feeling started to form inside Chen Ge's heart. "If this continues to drag on, the cursed hospital will definitely send reinforcements!"

The black pattern on the boy's body was under incessant attack. The Demon God with the surname Chi must have sensed it already, and if he arrived at the scene, everything would go out of control. Chen Ge's plan was to surprise the enemy with an ambush, but now that the cursed hospital knew that he had the ability to surround and slaughter a Top Red Specter, they would not let their guard down again. Unable to take advantage of the situation, Chen Ge decided to call it a night. With the cooperation of several Red Specters, the dying boy was sent behind the door of the Tunnel Lady's son.

"Ol' Wu! Get back to the driver's seat! We are going back to Jiujiang!"

Chen Ge had done something big this time. He had directly kidnapped the Demon God's 'son'. With no time to waste, Chen Ge immediately ordered Ol' Wu to drive and leave Xin Hai. After they got on the highway, Chen Ge turned back to look at Xin Hai. The night sky above Xin Hai's countryside was painted red, like a bloody mouth that was widening. "Has something happened inside the cursed hospital? Did they not send anyone to chase after us?"

Touching the wedding ring on his finger, Chen Ge had no idea whether this had anything to do with Xiao Sun or not. Ol' Wu had just experienced the scariest night of his life. He drove the car directly back to Jiujiang. He had not driven so fast in his life before.

"Chen Ge, when we left Xin Hai, what was the thing that we encountered?" Ol' Wu's voice was shaking. He had been holding this question in during the whole journey, but just as they were arriving at their destination, the question finally slipped out.

"I will tell you in more detail when we reach New Century Park. We still have not escaped from the danger yet."

"The theme park? We are not going to a theme park! We should head to the police station now! I am going to give Captain Yan a call!"

"That won't be necessary. Trust me. I will explain everything to you when we reach the theme park."

When Ol' Wu drove the car into New Century Theme Park, Chen Ge summoned out Zhang Yi and sent Ol' Wu into a beautiful dream.

“When you wake up, you will forget all the pain and anxiety.”

Chen Ge left Ol’ Wu inside the car. He carried Chi Ren and headed toward the haunted house. After he opened the gates, before he even entered, the curtains were pulled back to reveal Ol’ Bai, who was hugging Xiaoxiao, and a big white cat was slumped lazily across his shoulder. “Boss, you’re home.”

Seeing Bai Qiulin in the role of a househusband, Chen Ge did not know what to say. He removed the white cat from Ol’ Bai’s shoulder. “You are a Red Specter. At least get them to respect you while you’re working.”

The white cat wiggled its body out of discomfort. It tried to scratch at Chen Ge, but it was easily ignored by the latter.

“Did any accidents happen at the haunted house while I was away?” Chen Ge was not that worried about the haunted house, but he still needed to ask.

“The running of the haunted house went smoothly. Everyone gave their full cooperation, but...” Ol’ Bai pointed at the direction of the haunted house’s toilet. “There was a little change there. Master Wei and I were planning to try to reach out to you and tell you about this.”

“The toilet? What happened?” Chen Ge became nervous.

“The door of the cubicle suddenly opened on its own one night.”

“What?” Chen Ge’s heart immediately jumped to his throat. His rushed to the toilet, and what he saw caused his already quivering heart to palpitate even further. The wooden boards that had previously sealed up the cubicle door littered the ground in pieces. The picture of the demon on the door was ghastly and creepy, like it was watching everyone that headed into the toilet.

“The door was opened from the inside. When I heard the sound, it was already like this.” Ol’ Bai walked in behind him. “To preserve the state of this place, I have not cleaned this place at all. I have been guarding the entrance and made sure that no one came in here.”

“When was the door pushed open?”

“Around midnight yesterday.” Ol’ Bai tried to bring up his memory about that night. “At the time, I was training the students from Mu Yang High School in the underground scenario when we suddenly heard a loud crash.”

Ol’ Bai walked to the cubicle door and pulled the door open. The picture of a demon was carved into the outside of the door, while inside the door, there was a bloody handprint.

“The handprint was left behind that night. It is clear that it is the handprint of a child. I can’t think of a child in this haunted house who would match this handprint.” Ol’ Bai shared everything that he knew with Chen Ge.

“The door that has been relatively quiet has started to change. Is it because someone has escaped from behind the door?” Chen Ge stared at the bloody handprint on the door. “And he chose to open the door when I was not at the haunted house? Is this a coincidence, or is it premeditated?”

The door at his own haunted house being pushed open from the inside was not something that Chen Ge had envisioned. His focus was currently all on the cursed hospital; he did not have any energy left to investigate this door at his own haunted house. One could not enter a blood door without any preparation. For example, the door of the ghost fetus and the door at the School of the Afterlife, once entered, would put one under the control of the ‘door pusher’. Therefore, Chen Ge had no intention of entering this door without finding out more about it. Ever since he obtained the black phone, this was the first time Chen Ge had been away from the haunted house for so long.

“I have a feeling that the thing that escaped from the door was purposely trying to avoid me. It did not harm anyone and did not destroy anything inside the house. After it left the world behind the door, it disappeared almost immediately.” Chen Ge silently scratched his chin. “It feels like it was being chased by something behind the door and finally found its chance to escape.”

The handprint on the door was that of a child. Chen Ge memorized the shape of the handprint and then closed the cubicle door.

“It feels like everything is connected somehow.” Chen Ge had Ol’ Bai to continue guard the entrance to the toilet while he entered the underground scenario. After greeting every employee who had been left behind at the Jiujiang haunted house, Chen Ge brought the remaining Red Specters into the Spider Boy’s door. The world behind the door was separated from the real world. Even the Demon God would not be able to sense the boy’s presence there. Chen Ge had already planned everything with no crack in his plan.

Chen Ge turned to Zhang Yi. "Have you gone through the memory of that Top Red Specter?"

"I just became a Red Specter myself, so the difference in power is too big. I cannot go through his memory." Whenever Zhang Yi wanted to get close to the boy, he would be burned by the boy's curse, and black blisters would appear on his body. Of all the employees, only the red high heels was not affected by this at all.

"The power difference is too big? Then you guys should continue to suck away his power. No matter the method, just keep on doing it until you are able to read his memory." Chen Ge used the most vindictive tone to say the cruelest thing.

Hearing what his boss had said, Zhang Yi smiled helplessly, but he did not dare reject him. He merely said, "The Top Red Specter who is familiar with curses is currently peeling away the layer of curses. After she has consumed all the curses, there should be no issue."

The curses on the boy were a strain that the red high heels had not seen before. The curse contained the Demon God's power, so it could injure the red high heels, but at the same time, it could increase her power. As mentioned before, it was difficult for the red high heels, who was already a Top Red Specter, to seek a breakthrough, but she was now one step closer to becoming a Demon God. With the cooperation of more than ten Red Specters, each using their unique talent, they had split the Top Red Specter from the cursed hospital into several parts.

The most dangerous curse was consumed by the red high heels, the remaining memory and consciousness was given to Zhang Yi, and the resentment and hatred collected by the Top Red Specter was shared among the rest of the Red Specters. The only thing that remained was the black pattern that came from the Demon God. This strange pattern contained the truth of life and death. It had a captivating beauty to it while giving off a very dangerous presence.

"The most valuable things on the Top Red Specter are these few patterns. Consuming them will give one an enormous power boost, but one has to be able to perfectly digest them." Zhang Yi relayed the words of the red high heels to Chen Ge. "It is very difficult to digest them. Even the boy with the aid of the Demon God was unable to do it."

“Even a Top Red Specter was unable to do it?”

“Digesting a demon god’s resentment with just the ability of a Red Specter is almost impossible because the process of digestion will take too long. During this whole process, the consumer will suffer from unimaginable pain and despair, and they have to be careful not to get influenced by the Demon God’s lingering spirit.” Zhang Yi shook his head. “That is too difficult. Unless the Demon God who produced this pattern is willing to help, almost no one could successfully digest this thing.”

The most valuable thing was also the most dangerous. Most of the Red Specters were unable to give it a try; only a Red Specter was silently staring at that strange pattern.

“Xu Yin?” Chen Ge and the nearby Red Specters all turned toward Xu Yin. The young man with the melancholic expression reached out, and he slowly raised his arm. The skin that came into contact with the pattern cracked and shattered almost immediately. This was a pain unimaginable to a normal person, but it only made Xu Yin barely frown.

Of all the employees at the haunted house, Xu Yin had the toughest determination, and Chen Ge had confidence in him. He believed that even if he was influenced by the Demon God, Xu Yin would not do anything to harm Chen Ge or the haunted house.

Chapter 1154 - The Last Nightmare Daily Mission 2 in 1

Chapter 1154

The Last Nightmare Daily Mission 2 in 1

When Zhang Ya was hibernating, Xu Yin had protected Chen Ge many times. Most of the time, both the human and the ghost were at their weakest, and they had somehow managed to survive through the impossibility. The ghosts that Chen Ge trusted the most were Zhang Ya and Xu Yin; the bond that they shared had already surpassed the distance between life and death.

“Are you sure you want to consume the black pattern of this Demon God?” Chen Ge looked at Xu Yin seriously. Even though Xu Yin was the most suitable candidate, he was not going to force him to do things that he did not want to. Even though Xu Yin was going to gain enormous power, he would also suffer from unimaginable pain. Just from the touch alone, Xu Yin’s skin had started to crack at a very fast speed.

Xu Yin looked at the black pattern at the tip of his fingers and then slowly nodded. No one knew what Xu Yin was really thinking. Perhaps he could feel the pressure coming from the Demon God, or perhaps he knew that Chen Ge was not in a good position. The danger that they had experienced together made him realize that his current power was not enough for him to protect everything that he valued. He never wasted much energy on words, but he knew deep inside his heart that he did not wish to lose anything else in his life.

...

“There is no need to force yourself.” Chen Ge and the other workers at the haunted house turned to Xu Yin. Among the group of ‘people’, Xu Yin slowly raised his arms and swallowed the Demon God’s black pattern. When the black pattern slid down his throat, Xu Yin’s face and neck surfaced with innumerable thin and tiny black blood vessels. The heart of the Red Specter in the middle of his chest was palpitating crazily.

Even just by looking at him, one could imagine how much agony he was in. Xu Yin's expression gradually twisted from pain. Despair and sadness rushed into his eyes, he seemed to turn back into that helpless young man that Chen Ge once encountered. Rationality was being consumed. Xu Yin was at the edge of going berserk. The endless howls echoed behind the door. Chen Ge actively rushed forward to reach out and grab Xu Yin's hands. The Red Specter's cold and sticky blood enveloped Chen Ge's hands. The blood vessels carved out numerable wounds on Chen Ge's arms. The blood vessels slid across Chen Ge's skin, cutting and slicing it open. Warm blood kept on leaking, but Chen Ge did not take one step back. "Do not be confused by the Demon God. You are Xu Yin. Your name is Xu Yin!"

The Red Specter employees behind him also moved forward. Blood vessels of different intensities fell on Xu Yin's body. They were unable to help him share the pain, so they could only use their own method to help him induce the recovery of his body as soon as possible.

A Red Specter had forced himself to swallow the pattern of a Demon God. This was something that had not happened before. In a few short minutes, Xu Yin's body felt like it had been reconstructed. A normal Red Specter would not have survived an ordeal like this, but Xu Yin had somehow survived it.

He slowly got used to that sensation of pain. The strange pattern around his red heart was growing rapidly while the black pattern from the Demon God with the surname Chi was disappearing at a rate noticeable to the naked eye. Suddenly, a strange male voice came out from Xu Yin's body. It was unclear what the man was saying, but it sounded like it was mumbling some kind of vicious curse. Following the curse, the black pattern inside Xu Yin's heart morphed into a mouth, and it attempted to bite at Xu Yin's heart from inside the latter's body.

When the mouth bit into Xu Yin's heart, the black pattern around Xu Yin's heart also crawled into that mouth. Neither party backed down, and they were both trying to eat the other. Resisting the extreme pain, with the aid from all the employees at the haunted house, the black pattern around Xu Yin's heart gradually won over. The black pattern from the Demon God with the surname Chi was shattered and was turned into nutrients for Xu Yin. Drops of black blood with strange presence dripped out of Xu Yin's heart. It changed the young man's presence completely. The black pattern around his heart also started to spread madly.

“Was that successful?” Chen Ge asked the red high heels through Zhang Yi.

“I suppose you can call it a temporary success. The pattern of the Demon God might strike back at any moment because Xu Yin still needs some time to completely digest the nutrients.”

Other people could not assess Xu Yin’s body; only red high heels, who was familiar with curses, would be able to do that.

After Zhang Yi turned to her with the questions, he also returned to Chen Ge with some good news. “Due to some unknown reason, a huge change has happened to Xu Yin’s body. Now, most curses will not work on him. This was something revealed by the Top Red Specter who specialized in curses as well.”

The pain would continue for a while longer, but Xu Yin’s condition could be said to have stabilized. The Top Red Specter from the cursed hospital was utilized completely; not even a single part was wasted.

“Zhang Yi, you’d better look through his memory as soon as you can. The more you can find out, the more beneficial it will be for us.”

Summoning all the Red Specters into the comic, Chen Ge left the world behind the door. Returning to the haunted house’s underground scenario, Chen Ge suddenly felt it was more comfortable at home. When he was at Xin Hai, even though he had so many Red Specters with him, he did not feel safe at all.

“The next focus should be the cursed hospital. My parents should be there. I need to find them as soon as possible.” Chen Ge had returned to Jiujiang, but Zhang Jingjiu and Qu Changlin were still in Xin Hai. He knew that their situation there would get more and more dangerous, so he had to return there. “I have already given my promise to Mr. Wang to solve the case together. Other than that, I still need to consider Xiao Sun’s safety. If I stay too far away from him, even if he sends me a message through the wedding ring, I will not be able to rush to him in time to help him.”

Chen Ge could not stay for too long in Jiujiang. He planned to deposit Chi Ren at the haunted house, and then he would depart back to Xin Hai once the sun rose.

“Last time, I left in such a hurry that I still have many things that I did not have the time to do.” Chen Ge first entered the staff breakroom alone. He took out the black phone and used the remaining scream points to draw items from the wheel of misfortune. Perhaps he had really drawn all the Specters from the prize pool already. He did not encounter any Specter from his draws, but he won many strange and curious items.

“Is the game a scam? Either I draw a Specter or something only useable by Specters? Can’t you give me something I can use once in a while?” Chen Ge was getting rather annoyed. He read through the introduction of the Wheel of Misfortune provided by the black phone again. He knew that there were supposed to be many different prizes, but everything that he had won so far was related to ghosts and Specters. “Is it the influence of the title Red Specters’ Favored?”

Chen Ge had no other choice but to share the items that he had won with his employees. Seeing the happiness looks on his workers’ faces like it was Christmas, the annoyance in Chen Ge’s heart slowly dissipated.

“The strengthening of the employees is beneficial to me as well.”

After he was done with the gift-giving, Chen Ge realized that the Nightmare Daily Mission Coupon that he had won from the previous draw still had not been used. He glanced at the time and decided to use it before he could think twice.

“The Nightmare Daily Mission normally has a special requirement—I cannot bring any Specter and things related to the black phone with me. It is impossible to do the Nightmare Daily Mission in Xin Hai. The risk will be too great, so I can only give it a try at Jiujiang.”

Putting away the black phone, Chen Ge looked left and right before he spotted the white cat, which was curled up next to the wall. The white cat, whose body had grown even rounder, looked at Chen Ge with open eyes. It waved its tail back and forth. The other Specters and spirits had all been given gifts. It appeared to be anticipating one for itself.

“Do you think I have forgotten about you?” Chen Ge took out the high-class cat food inside the cupboard. After he lured the white cat to his side, he scratched the cat’s head gently. “We might need to go out for a spin this midnight.”

Since he had returned to Jiujiang, Chen Ge wanted to finish things that he had not handled. After taking a swift break inside the staff breakroom, Chen Ge waited for midnight to arrive. He took out the black phone and tuned into the daily missions, which would have refreshed.

“Simple Daily Mission: The number of surveillance cameras is seriously underwhelming, so accidents are bound to happen. Please install new security cameras in all three-star scenario within the next twenty-four hours.

“Normal Daily Mission: The number of baleful Specter employees is growing rapidly. To ensure that they are loyal toward you, you must ensure the state of their mental health. Please help five spectral workers complete their dying wishes within the next twenty-four hours.

“Nightmare Daily Mission: Have you ever wondered if there would be another version of yourself standing on the other side of the door when you pushed open a specific door inside your house alone at night?”

Of the three daily missions, only the last mission was written in ghastly blood-like red letters. Taking in a deep breath, Chen Ge chose the last daily mission.

“Nightmare Daily Missions are very dangerous. Are you sure you want to choose it?”

“Yes!”

“Red Specter’s Favored, you have accepted the nightmare daily mission, door—this the most difficult of all the nightmare missions. Hopefully, your luck will be as good as always.

“Door (Nightmare Difficulty): Close your eyes, cover your ears, and do not speak a word that is not your name! Starting from 1:44 am, push open all the doors in your house!

“Whenever you push open a door, you must call out your own name. There are two ways to succeed at this mission. One is to have successfully pushed open all the doors in your house, and the other is to hear your own voice echoing from the other side of the door when you shout out your name.

“Warning! You cannot reveal the information of this nightmare mission to any other individual! You cannot carry any items related to the phone or any Specter or spirits with you when conducting this nightmare mission!”

Chen Ge was silent looking at the writing on the black phone. Based on the description of the nightmare mission alone, it did not look that scary, but Chen Ge knew how difficult it would be when put into practice.

“The mission requirement is for me to push open all the doors inside the house, but it did not mention whether ‘this house’ is referring to the house that I once occupied or this House of Horrors. If it is referring to this haunted house, even if it gives me the entire night, I will not be able to open so many doors when the most crucial of my senses are blocked.”

Chen Ge stared at the words on the phone screen.

“For me, the only way to pass this mission is to hear the echo of my own voice from the other side of the door, but at the same time, the mission requirement has me block off my hearing. In that case, how am I supposed to hear any voices coming from the other side? Or is it because the voice that rings out from the other side of the door will travel directly into my heart and mind?”

Pushing open doors in your own house and then hearing your own voice coming from the other side of the door, from the description, it sounded very simple, but it carried a very unique meaning to it.

“Will I run into any danger conducting this mission inside the haunted house...” The thought just flashed across Chen Ge’s mind when it occurred to Chen Ge that not too long ago, the door inside the toilet had been pushed open, and something had escaped out from it. The thing that had escaped from behind the door was possibly still hiding in the haunted house.

“Even if he is still hiding inside the haunted house, I should not be that worried.” For the sake of security, Chen Ge tied one end of the rope around the white cat and the other end of the rope around his own waist. Leading the white cat, Chen Ge entered the prop room and found the necessary eye patch and earmuffs. When all the preparatory work was done, Chen Ge walked to the front door of the haunted house. He wanted to start from the entrance and then gradually open all the doors inside the haunted house.

“I grew up in this haunted house. For the area aboveground, I can walk through it with my eyes closed. The real difficulty will be the underground scenarios.”

Time was slowly ticking away. At 1:43 am, Chen Ge put on all the necessary accessories and started to count his heartbeat at the entrance of the haunted house. When it was 1:44 am, Chen Ge pushed open the front door of the haunted house with a powerful swing. He was unable to see or hear anything. The world around him was dark and quiet; it felt like he was the only person left in the world. The map of the haunted house was slowly being constructed in his mind. Chen Ge moved down the corridor with his eyes closed. He did not bump into anything. After all, he had taken this route basically every single day.

“All the nightmare missions have a deeper meaning behind them. They are leading me step by step closer to the truth. This mission should be no different.”

Chen Ge did not tell his other employees about the details of the mission. He could not hear any voice or see anything. Padding down the corridors of his own ‘home’, it felt like he was walking back in time to the time when his parents had just disappeared. The young man who had just lost the anchors in his life always cowered inside the corner of the haunted house’s staff breakroom. He was very afraid. He was not yet ready to deal with all these things alone. But from a time that was hard to pinpoint, the young man had started to change.

“Chen Ge?” Pushing open the door to the dressing room, Chen Ge called out his own name lightly, but there was no response. Holding onto the door, the image of him helping his employees with their makeup appeared in his mind. They were busy as they joked among each other. He had never imagined that he would be able to make so many friends in his life.

“Chen Ge?” Then he found his way to the Prop Room. After pushing open the door, there was still no response. Chen Ge slowly moved down into the darkness. The surrounding became more and more quiet and cold. The surveillance room, the staff breakroom, the changing room, Chen Ge had visited them one by one before he finally reached the toilet. He knew very well that he was standing before his haunted house’s toilet. The blood door was inside this toilet.

“Is the aim of this mission to lure me to open that door? But a blood door can only be opened at midnight, can’t it? Unless the person pushing open the door is the door-pusher himself.”

With a certain supposition in his mind, Chen Ge opened the toilet door, walked through it, and moved toward the fated cubicle. His hand landed on the door handle and slowly pushed.

“Chen Ge?” The cubicle door was pushed open. Chen Ge’s heart was beating so loudly, and he held his breath without knowing it.

One second, two seconds...

About ten seconds later, he did not hear his own voice being echoed from the other side of the door.

“It’s not here?” Retreating from the toilet, Chen Ge went to explore the scenario of Minghun and Murder at Midnight, but he still failed to find that door.

“Could it be underground?” He slowly nudged his foot forward and pulled open the iron door that led to the underground scenario and carefully stepped down the stairs. The temperature continued to drop. Chen Ge shivered involuntarily. He tugged at the rope around his waist and realized that the white cat had already struggled loose from its constraint. The other end of the rope had been dragging on the ground.

“The cat has gotten cleverer and cleverer.”

Even though Chen Ge had gone to the underground scenario many times, it did not form muscle memory. To ensure that he did not miss any doors, he could only move slowly step by step.

Darkness, loneliness, chilliness, and quietness, Chen Ge felt like he was stranded alone in this world, and all of his sensory emotions were being slowly stripped away.

Chapter 1155 - Please Come and Find Me 2 in 1

Chapter 1155 Please Come and Find Me 2 in 1

With his eyes closed and ears blocked, unable to share what he was doing with his employees, all he could do was repeat his name again and again. Chen Ge walked for a long time down the dark hallway. He tried to bring up the map of the haunted house inside his mind, but he slowly discovered something scary. It appeared like he was not inside the haunted house at all. He had no idea where he had landed. He was unable to communicate with anyone. He could not hear anything, and all that he could see around him was darkness. Piercing chills stabbed into his heart; Chen Ge finally stopped moving.

“Am I still inside the haunted house?” This was the first time Chen Ge had felt like he was unfamiliar with his own haunted house. “Is it possible that I exited the haunted house when I opened one of the doors earlier?”

Many different scary thoughts entered his mind. Chen Ge had no idea what was waiting ahead of him, and he had even less of an idea when he could push open that real door. Searching in the dark, when he could not see even the wisp of hope, he tried to open all the doors that he could encounter. Chen Ge felt like this whole experience was quite a déjà vu. The Nightmare Daily Mission with the name ‘Door’ appeared to wish to tell him something. In the absolute darkness and silence, time slowly lost all meaning. Chen Ge’s body movement became more awkward and the surface of his skin was startlingly cold. Memories from his past flashed across his mind, and the strange sense of déjà vu became stronger and stronger.

...

“Chen Ge?” He called his name again and again while he kept repeating the same action. The surroundings became quieter and colder. Chen Ge’s gait slowed down. A very scary thought overwhelmed his mind. If he continued walking, he probably would not find his way back. His mind became duller, and he could not stop his brain from filling his heart with ghastly and eerie imagery. Chen Ge was visited by an emotion that he had not encountered in a very long time—despair.

In the past, no matter how scary the enemy was, no matter how strong the opponent was, Chen Ge would not give because he had a firm determination holding him upright and pushing him forward, but in this Nightmare Mission, the determination was slowly being hacked away. There appeared to be a lingering voice in his mind that was trying to tell him that despair was the norm. It was not until then that Chen Ge realized hope was like a colorful soap bubble—it would burst with the lightest of touch. All this time, he had been like a child who was holding a soap bubble in his grasp. He stood stubbornly on the other side of the world and insisted on believing that the world inside the soap bubble was the real one.

His memory was flipped over by a pair of invisible hands. Along with the sense of chill, pain, and suffocation, many kind of memories that supposedly did not belong to him were churning in his mind. The feeling was very bad, but strangely enough Chen Ge felt they were also quite familiar. It was as if he had personally experienced a similar kind of pain in the past, and he had been through it more than once. His footsteps gradually slowed down. He seemed to be walking down a path that had no end. All his memory and experiences were ‘polluted’ by despair. They did not want Chen Ge to keep on going; they wanted him to just stop and stay there forever.

The road ahead was very dangerous, and the chance of returning could be zero. It was a world of darkness waiting to envelope him. When he could still think with his mind, Chen Ge’s arms reached toward his eyes. He was hesitating over whether to take a peek or not. If he did look, the Nightmare Mission would definitely fail, but if he did not remove it, he could no longer standing the overwhelming anxiety in his heart.

“Is it possible that I am now inside the world behind the door? Someone other than the door pusher only can push open the door at midnight, but what if I am the door pusher? What if I was the one who pushed open the door in the haunted house?”

His fingers landed on the bridge of his nose. In the end, Chen Ge chose not to look, and his feet decided to keep on moving.

“I am currently experiencing pain that did not exist in my memory before. I am experiencing a despair that did not belong to me. I have no idea what the black phone is trying to tell me, but I know that when there is despair, there is also hope. The two cannot exist without the other.”

For those in despair, even though they were surrounded by bliss, they would not escape the torment of despair. And for those with hope, even if they had lost everything, they would be able to see a colorful world inside a simple soap bubble.

“I have never been treated kindly by this world, but that does not mean that I do not love this world for what it is.” For some reason, Chen Ge was reminded of Zhang Ya and the other employees at his haunted house. “Even when I am in the deepest despair, I can chance upon a very beautiful accident.”

With his eyes still covered, Chen Ge suffered the pain that he had not experienced. He forged his way forward while suffering the double torment both on his mental and physical health. He no longer hesitated, and he spent no time on overthinking as he picked up speed. The pain on his body became more obvious, and the pressure on his mind grew heavier. The scenes of Chen Ge being killed slowly swamped his mind. Before he died, he struggled helplessly and pleaded for mercy, but every time, the thing that welcomed him was painful death. His compromise, kindness, and help had all been disappointed; his final result was only despair.

The green veins on the back on his arms popped. Chen Ge suffered all of that silently. He did not stop his footsteps, and he kept on moving. “No wonder who is the owner of this despair, it will not stop me from moving forward.”

Before Chen Ge obtained the black phone, most of the memories left in his mind had been beautiful and happy ones. His parents also wished that he could continue with his life in that manner. But in reality, when he obtained the black phone, Chen Ge had been given the chance to make a choice. If he had chosen to deny accepting the phone when he found it, then he would have kept on living with his happiness, being none the wiser about the other world around him. However, Chen Ge had chosen a different path. He wanted to know the truth, and for that, he had traded his blissful ignorance for despair and began his slow journey of searching for his parents.

As he slowly approached the truth, the despair that had been hidden away would slowly be brought back to the forefront, but Chen Ge had no regret. Along the way, only Chen Ge himself knew how difficult the path he had chosen actually was. His life schedule had been turned upside down. He worked more in the night compared to the hours in the morning, he had not had a good rest since forever, and he was always caught in between the line of life and death. He spent his days with Baleful Specters and Red Specters.

Dancing on the sharp edge of a knife was not enough to describe Chen Ge's situation, if he was a little careless even once, he would have become a dead body already. He had chosen the most difficult path, but at the same time, this was the path that would lead him the quickest to the truth. This was not some kind of good fortune or bad tragedy that someone had placed on him, it was a choice that he had made for himself in the wide path of destiny.

"I will not change due to this despair, and I will never abandon my path. No matter what has happened in the past, I am willing to face them openly!"

Images of his own death flashed across his mind again and again. Chen Ge felt like his body was being torn apart repeatedly. Suffering the dual torture on his physical and mental selves, he pushed forward with determination in the seemingly endless darkness. He could not see his surrounding, and he felt he was stranded alone in the world. He could not hear any sound and could not sense the passage of time. He kept on calling his own name as he opened one after another door.

"Chen Ge..." He pushed open another door before him. Chen Ge had lost count of the doors he had opened, but suddenly, another voice came from the space before him.

"I did not expect you to really come here one day." Chen Ge's own voice came from a spot that was only a few steps away from Chen Ge. At that moment, Chen Ge almost removed the eye cover, and his body could not help shuddering. "Everyone wants to kill you. You are my final hope. Please come and find me no matter what."

Something was slipped inside his palm, and the voice became smaller and smaller.

"I am in the haunted house within that city. Please, you have to come and find me!"

That city? The blood red city? There is also a version of the haunted house in the blood red city?

Gripping the thing in his palm, Chen Ge could not control himself any longer. He opened his lips and was about to voice out the question in his mind. "You..."

But when the first word escaped from his lips, the chill around him instantly disappeared, and the arm that he raised suddenly came into contact with something hard. It was the handle of a door. Pushing the door open, the memories that did not belong to him started to disappear. It was as if he had walked back to earth from hell. The phone in his pocket started to vibrate. After being stunned for several moments, Chen Ge slowly removed the eye cover and the earmuffs. The first thing he saw was all his haunted house employees standing before him in a circle. They were all looking at him strangely and curiously.

“This is... Wait, I’m still inside the toilet?” He looked around and realized he was standing inside the cubicle of the haunted house’s toilet. His hand was still holding the door of the cubicle. “I did not leave this place and go to the underground scenario?”

“You covered your eyes and then locked yourself inside the cubicle. Initially, we thought you were possessed by some kind of ghost, but then we thought about it among ourselves and felt like no ghost would do something that would waste so much of their energy and for such little gain.” Men Nan was standing right at the door. Seeing that nothing was wrong with Chen Ge, he squeezed through the crowd of ‘people’ and left. “The party’s over. The man is fine. Go back to your work.”

I did not enter the underground scenario but have been standing inside the toilet cubicle. In other words, when I pushed open the door of the cubicle, I entered the world behind the door!

Chen Ge was covered in cold sweat. He lowered his head to glance at his palm. Before the other voice of himself disappeared, the person had shoved something into his hand. It was a key that was covered in cracks.

“A key? Wait, this is the self-preceptive key.” Once Chen Ge tried to take a closer look at the sky, the rust covering the key in his palm peeled off in big patches, and then the key itself split in two. “I entered the world behind the door, and it was with this self-preceptive key that I was able to return back to this world from the haunted house behind the blood door?”

Chen Ge had obtained two self-perceptive keys from his missions in the past, but he had no idea what they were for.

“It should not be that simple. The person behind the door perhaps wanted to remind or warn of me something through this key.”

The words that his own voice said kept appearing in his mind. Chen Ge's brows did not stop creasing.

"There is another haunted house inside the blood red city, and he is currently hiding inside that other haunted house, huh? Why does he treat me as his final hope?" Chen Ge leaned against the door. His back was already soaked in cold sweat. He felt like the energy had been fully drained from his body.

"This door inside the haunted house should've been pushed open by him." Chen Ge looked at the cubicle door. He pushed on it lightly, but nothing changed inside the cubicle. Only the door pusher could control the door. Chen Ge himself was unable to open the door, but the fact was, he had been able to enter the door earlier, so the real 'door pusher' had probably opened the door for him through some method.

"Wait a minute! Is there a possibility that the door pusher has been split in two? Only when both parties are touching the door at the same time can the door be opened?"

Climbing up from the ground, Chen Ge gave a brief explanation to his employees and then had Ol' Bai continue guarding the toilet while he ran back to the staff breakroom. The moment he opened the door, Chen Ge saw the white cat, who was munching on the high-class cat food inside the cupboard. But he was in no mood to be training his cat. He took out his black phone and swiped on the screen.

"Congratulations, Red Specter's Favored, for completely the Daily Nightmare Mission—Door! You have obtained the unique special talent—Lips of Tragedy!

"Lips of Tragedy (Natural Talent): As they say, tragedy comes from the lips. Now that you have gained this talent, you will be able to hear all that they converse about among themselves.

"Congratulations, Red Specter's Favored! This is so impressive. You now possess Mortician's Make-up, Spirit Sniff, Ghost Ear, Yin Yang Vision, Lips of Tragedy, and Dollmaker's Talent, all six natural talents. The current you can now produce the version of yourself that you want."

Looking at the message on the black phone, Chen Ge shuddered involuntarily. He had a feeling that the last sentence was hinting about something incredibly horrible.

“The current me can now produce the version of myself that I want? I need to personally make another version of myself? What does it mean?”

Chen Ge had not used most of the six talents to their maximum potential. Other than Yin Yang Vision, he did not use the rest of the talents much. All this time, he thought the rest of the talents were rather weak, but from the looks of it, that was not the case.

“Never mind, it is too early to consider something like that.” Chen Ge knew very well that to unleash the full potential of the dollmaker’s talent, he would first need to capture a living human to experiment on them. A perfect living door needed a fresh human life. This was something that Chen Ge would never attempt to do. “Perhaps in the future, I might change my mind, but I hope that day never comes.”

Chen Ge put the black phone away. The nightmare daily mission that night had given him more questions than answers. He needed to lie down to slowly work over the information that he had gathered.

“Is the despair that I experienced when I was doing the mission the despair that was experienced by my other self? What exactly is my other self anyway? Has he been shouldering all the despair that should have fallen onto me?”

Chen Ge found it impossible to rest. His mind was too active with questions. At that moment, Chen Ge’s eyes glanced at the white cat, which was still sneaking toward the pack of cat food. Chen Ge sat up to drag it away from the cupboard and forced it to join him on the bed. He tussled the cat’s furry coat, and his heart slowly calmed down.

“Even the cat knows when to run away from danger, but someone like myself insists on walking down the most dangerous past. However, the most despairingly, this appears to be the only path that is given to me.”

Being hugged by Chen Ge, the white cat appeared to be frozen in fear. It seemed to have realized that it had done something wrong earlier, so it was acting like the best pet in the world. It did not dare move in Chen Ge’s grasp, playing the role of a fluffy doll.

“The white cat has consumed the blood vessels from the Ghost Stories Society. The blood vessel was prepared by Doctor Gao for the woman in the well, so technically, it belonged to Doctor Gao.” Chen Ge scratched the bottom of the white cat’s stomach. “Is it possible for me to trace Doctor Gao through the blood vessels in the white cat’s body?”

Or can I somehow make Doctor Gao actively come to me through the blood vessels in the cat?”

There were at least two Demon Gods at the cursed hospital. Chen Ge knew that he was too weak to deal with the cursed hospital on his own, so he wished to gain the assistance of Doctor Gao. His finger moved up and down the white cat’s belly like a surgeon drawing out the lines before the surgery. The white cat was so scared by Chen Ge’s action that it could not help convulsing.

“The blood vessels have probably been digested by the white cat’s body already. Looks like I will have to bring it with me behind the door in the future.”

Looking at the time, there was still some time before dawn. Chen Ge carried the white cat in one hand and found the graduation certificate from the School of the Afterlife inside the prop room.

“It has been quite some time since I last returned. I wonder if anything has changed at the School of the Afterlife.”

The cursed hospital had placed a ton of pressure on Chen Ge. He decided to combine all the sources that he had to deal with the hospital together.

“The blood city is very close to the School of the Afterlife. If I am lucky, perhaps I will run into a lost Red Specter.”

Chapter 1156 - Expanding Red City 2 in 1

Chapter 1156 Expanding Red City 2 in 1

Chen Ge had Ol' Bai stay back to guard the haunted house. Then he pulled all the other Red Specter employees into the comic and carried the white cat out of the haunted house. The guard at the entrance of the New Century Park was already fast asleep. There were not many vehicles on the road. Chen Ge waited for a long time before a taxi stopped for him. At 3:00 am, Chen Ge arrived at Western Jiujiang Private Academy. He held the graduation certificate and ran to the toilet cubicle at the top of the education block.

"How do I use this thing?"

He gave it multiple goes, but the blood door did not show up. Chen Ge had no idea whether this meant some kind of accident had happened to the door of the School of the Afterlife or he had missed the crucial timing.

...

"The School of the Afterlife's door currently is still missing a door pusher. It looks like I will have to come back again at midnight tomorrow."

Just as he said that, the shadow behind him started to change. A drop of blood leaked out on the cubicle door, and the blood slowly bloomed like a flower. The blood flower expanded to cover up the entire door, and a strong stench of blood drifted out from the gap of the door.

The startlingly red of the blood reacted with the red letters on the graduation certificate. Chen Ge tried to give the blood door a push. Instantly, a wave of redness overwhelmed him. When he recovered, his world was covered in red, and the whole building was surrounded by blood. "The School of the Afterlife?"

Chen Ge stood where he was. Before he decided what to do next, the sound of footsteps came from the outside corridor. Chen Ge reached for the comic subconsciously to summon Men Nan and Xiao Bu. Moments later, the toilet door was pushed open, and two beautiful young ladies appeared at the door. One of them was wearing a white dress and the other a red dress. They had similar facial features, but the reactions they had when they saw Chen Ge were completely different.

“Yin Bai, Yin Hong?”

“Once the blood door was pushed open, I knew that you’d returned.” Yin Hong tilted her head to the side to swipe a glance at Chen Ge. Then her eyes landed on Xiao Bu and Men Nan beside him. Her cute brows slowly frowned as she pulled Yin Bai’s hand to move her away from Chen Ge. “State your intention. What is your purpose for coming back to your alma mater? Even though we do not really welcome you here, considering that you once saved our school, we can offer you some help if it is absolutely necessary.”

“Is the headmaster here? I wish to talk to him.” Chen Ge was quite worried about the School of the Afterlife as well. After all, this place was very close to the red city. The old headmaster from Mu Yang High School was just a Half Red Specter. Chen Ge was afraid that he might not be able to handle things alone.

“Follow me then.” Yin Hong did not waste time and led Chen Ge to the nurse’s office. After the original school doctor was killed, the place had been vacated.

“I want to meet the headmaster. Why did you bring me to the nurse’s office?” Chen Ge was rather confused.

Yin Hong shrugged quite helplessly. “Just go in, and you will see.”

Pulling open the blood red curtain, Chen Ge saw a fat old man who was in a red shirt sharing his experience and counselling several students. The old man heard the movement of the curtain and lifted his head to see Chen Ge. Instantly, a kind smile appeared on his face. “Chen Ge? Why are you here?”

“Sir, when you did breakthrough to become a Red Specter?” Chen Ge was very shocked. When he left, the old headmaster had been a Half Red Specter. It had not been that long since they last met, but the old headmaster had already become a Red Specter, and he seemed to possess a special power within him.

“I also cannot remember the actual moment. Ever since I took over the responsibility of this school, I have been trying my best to help these children, and without knowing it, I turned into a Red Specter.”

The old headmaster at Mu Yang High School was a very special

Specter. After he died, he did not consume any ghosts, but he had somehow become a Half Red Specter. Now, even more miraculously, the senior gentleman had somehow turned into an actual Red Specter. From the old headmaster, Chen Ge saw another path available for Specters to breakthrough to their next level. Perhaps this was a path that was more suitable for Yan Danian.

“How did you manage to do it? Can you tell me more about the details?” Chen Ge appeared rather inconspicuous standing amid a bunch of young students.

“My experience probably will not be much use to you. The children at the School of the Afterlife came from all different backgrounds, but most of them are victims of school bullying or children of broken families. They had never experienced love and warmth. My purpose is to heal the wounds that they have suffered during their childhood by attempting to provide them a new home at the School of the Afterlife.” The old headmaster rubbed his large belly. “Actually, I have not done anything. It was mainly because the children have slowly given me their approval. They have influenced the school’s consciousness, and I gradually gained the approval from the school’s consciousness.”

When the door of the School of the Afterlife was at its weakest moment, it desperately needed to search for itself a new door pusher. Under those circumstances, since the old headmaster had gotten the approval from most of the students, and there was no competition from others, the school’s consciousness was slowly channeling its energy into the old headmaster and aided him to slowly become the owner of this door. In terms of pure power, the painter and Chang Wenyu were much stronger than the old headmaster, but neither of them would be able to bring salvation to the students behind the door. Even though the old headmaster was the weakest among them, this kind gentleman was the most suitable candidate. While he could not build a fake heaven behind the door, nor could he help all the students escape from the constraint of the door, he was trying his best to create a sanctuary behind the door for these lost souls.

“A four-star scenario can cultivate a Demon God. The School of the Afterlife is a four-star scenario approved by the black phone. If the headmaster is given some more time, he might really become something of a miracle.”

Without consuming any Specters, he could become a Demon God. This incident that was almost impossible was slowly turning itself into reality due to the determination within the old headmaster to do the best by his students. The old headmaster had provided a brand-new path for Chen Ge. He felt like he should sit down and have a real talk with Yan Danian to understand the thoughts that Yan Danian had inside his heart.

“Sir, during this period, has the red city caused any trouble for you?” When Chen Ge entered the School of the Afterlife last time, Zhang Ya had just become a Demon God, and she had been recovering from a heavy injury. Moreover, most of his employees had still been quite weak. This time, it was different. Just looking at Top Red Specters alone, he had three with him.

“About that city...” The smile disappeared from the old headmaster’s face. “It is not looking so good. I will bring you to the top floor, and you will understand what I mean.”

The headmaster led Chen Ge to reach the top floor of the education block. The iron door that led to the roof was the only door in the School of the Afterlife that was not sealed up by wooden boards.

“I will open the door. Do not move too far away from me. It is very dangerous.” The old headmaster took out a key from his shirt. The key had the etching of a small heart of a Red Specter. Slowly, the door was pulled open slightly. The rolling blood mist slid through the gap and floated down the corridor. After ensuring that there was no danger, the old headmaster finally waved Chen Ge over. “Look for yourself.”

Using his Yin Yang Vision, Chen Ge looked through the gap. Many different kinds of buildings stood around the School of the Afterlife, and every one of the building was covered in blood!

“This was different the last time I came!” Chen Ge was very shocked.

“The School of the Afterlife has already been swallowed up by the red city,” the old headmaster said with a helpless smile. “Not long after you left, the distance between the school and the city became smaller and smaller. We had no choice but to abandon part of the campus and gather all our energy. We used the rest of the wooden boards and soul nails to seal up the main campus, and this is the only door that we have left open.”

“In other words, the School of the Afterlife is currently a completely isolated scenario?”

“Yes, we’ve had to abandon places like the field, the recycling center, the library, the extra-curricular hall, and so on. Most of the school body are gathered in the education block, the dormitories, and the lab building.” The old headmaster looked at the blood fog outside the door and sighed lightly. “That is the only solution available to us at the time. Before the red city, we are so weak and small.”

The School of the Afterlife had already been consumed by the red city. This was something that Chen Ge did not anticipate before he arrived.

“The red city is still expanding. No, perhaps the word growing is more suitable.” The old headmaster tried his best to look at the bright side. “Even though the campus is now much smaller, as long as we stay in the main few buildings, the ghosts from the red city will not harm us. They seem to have a set of rules that they have to follow here.”

Before this, the School of the Afterlife was situated at the fringe of the red city. Just like the ghost fetus scenario, it was a scenario in and of itself, but now the School of the Afterlife had become part of the red city. Chen Ge looked into the distance through the gap in the door. All he could see were the red buildings, and they continued over the horizon.

“I wonder if the cursed hospital is also isolated outside of the red city.” Chen Ge focused his gaze as far as he could. “If only I could make this city to go and consume that cursed hospital.”

“Chen Ge, this place is very dangerous. If there’s nothing else, I am going to close the door now,” the old headmaster said.

The painter headed into the red city after he was defeated, and Doctor Gao might currently be somewhere inside the red city as well. Should I try my luck inside the city?

Chen Ge flipped through the comic. He wanted to have his employees go hunting inside the red city, but it was too dangerous. He could still remember what had happened to Doctor Gao after he had forged his way through the underground morgue to the red city.

Bang!

The iron door was slammed shut. The old headmaster appeared to have read Chen Ge’s mind. “Do not do anything stupid. Even a Top Red Specter will not be able to survive the danger inside the red city.”

“How do you know that, sir?”

“When the school was first being consumed by the red city, there were some Specters and ghosts who were hiding inside the blood fog. It was clear that they wanted to enter the school. It was unclear what happened after that, but all of the ghosts and Specters were killed and murdered.” The old headmaster himself could not give a clear account. “It was very scary. We were hiding inside the education block at the time, and all we could see was a red shadow floating past.”

“Was that a Top Red Specter?”

“Even a Top Red Specter could not kill so many Specters in an instant. Furthermore, there were Top Red Specters among the ghosts who were interested in the School of the Afterlife.” The old headmaster still shivered just thinking about it. “If you somehow end up inside the red city, you have to remember to stay away from any red shadows. If I have noticed anything, it was that they do not seem to be able to enter any buildings.”

“Thank you for the information.” Chen Ge took a deep breath. “Sir, do you mind opening the door again? I wish to conduct an experiment outside the door.”

“How come a human like you is so much braver than ghosts?” The old headmaster shook his head, but in the end, he was persuaded by Chen Ge’s miraculous power of persuasion. Holding the comic, Chen Ge had the red high heels pull out some blood with the red Specter’s blood vessels from the white cat’s body. “Put some curse on this blood. See if you can make contact with Doctor Gao.”

The red high heels gave it some try before she shook her head.

“It won’t work? Looks like the blood vessels left behind the Ghost Stories Society are not enough. In that case, I will have to go and find Gao Ru Xue.” Chen Ge did not mean Gao Ru Xue any harm, but the girl was Doctor Gao’s blood relative, and he wished to reach Doctor Gao through her. The tragedy of Doctor Gao started when he encountered the cursed hospital. His wife’s death was also related to that hospital, so he shared a common enemy with Chen Ge. They should be able to form a truce.

“Chen Ge! Quick come back! Do not stay out there for too long!” The old headmaster spotted something approaching from the blood fog, and he shouted to warn Chen Ge. Chen Ge did not want to take any unnecessary risks. He put away his comic and returned to the school.

Closing the iron door, the old headmaster finally sighed in relief. "Do not go out there unless it is truly necessary. The red city is very dangerous."

"Sir, I hope you do not mind, but there is another favor that I need from you." Chen Ge voiced out the other reason he was there that night. "Is there anyone left at the school who can contact the painter? I wish to get his cooperation to help me with something."

"All the students who approved of the painter have already left with him, but there is something here that should be able to help you find the painter." After locking the door, the old headmaster led Chen Ge to the lab building. He found an unfinished oil painting inside the art room. "This is the only painting left behind by the painter. When he left the school, all the paintings dissolved into ash. This is the only painting that remained. I believe that is because this painting is very important to him."

Chen Ge picked up the half-finished oil painting. The content was very simple. It was the painting of a young man with heavy lines of worry on his face sitting next to a boy under the sun. They appeared to be chatting about something. "This painting is about the painter and Fan Yu, huh?"

This was a simple scene, but it was a dream that was impossible to fulfil for the painter. Chen Ge took good care of the oil painting, and then he went to meet up with the other Red Specters at the school. He still needed more helpers to deal with the cursed hospital.

After gaining the old headmaster's approval, Chen Ge left the school with three Red Specters. After leaving the School of the Afterlife, dawn had not yet arrived in real life. Chen Ge gave Zhang Wenyu a call, saying that he wished to meet him in person. Half an hour later, Chen Ge found Zhang Wenyu at an abandoned building in the countryside of Northern Jiujiang. The suicide line operator was standing next to a homeless person who was suffering from a serious illness. He stared at the person silently. It was clear that he wanted to save the person, but he knew better than to break the rules. In the end, he was like Death animated in real life, watching the person's slowly drift away.

"I wish to ask you for a favor." Chen Ge walked toward Zhang Wenyu.

Zhang Wenyu answered with a simple word. "Sure."

"Do not hurry to say yes. The enemy that I need to deal with has at least two Demon Gods.” Chen Ge did not want to press others into his aid.

“Demon God?”

“A ghost that is at least ten times scarier than a Top Red Specter,” Chen Ge said with a serious expression. “Are you still willing to help me after knowing that?”

“Of course.” Zhang Wenyu nodded.

“Thank you.” Chen Ge wanted to pull Zhang Wenyu into the comic, but he failed after multiple tries. After he asked for more details from Yan Danian, he only found out why. Zhang Wenyu might appear to be a Red Specter, but actually he represented a multitude of ghosts and Specters. The comic was not large enough to fit so many spirits and ghosts.

When Chen Ge was figuring out what to do, Zhang Wenyu’s body slowly disappeared. Moments later, Chen Ge got a message on his phone. It was a message delivered from the number of the suicide line operator. “I will always be by your side until you have resolved this danger.”

He turned to look around him. Even with the help of Yin Yang Vision, Chen Ge was unable to see Zhang Wenyu, but there was a source of power that he could not describe that was burgeoning in his heart. It felt like there were a large group of people silently following him and cheering him on. “The people that you have rescued will eventually become the source of your own salvation.”

The sun was rising over the horizon. Chen Ge put away his phone and left Northern Jiujiang. He hailed another cab, and this time, his destination was Jiujiang Medical University. He planned to meet up with Doctor Gao’s daughter, Gao Ru Xue.

Chapter 1157 - You Are My Seventh Friend 2 in 1

1157 You Are My Seventh Friend 2 in 1

He arrived at Jiujiang Medical University. Chen Ge gave a call to Gao Ru Xue on her phone, but no one picked up. Chen Ge entered the school and found a free lecturer. After asking him, Chen Ge only found out that Gao Ru Xue had applied to defer. She had not appeared at the school for a very long time. “Her mother was killed by that hospital, and now her father has disappeared after committing such a serious crime. It is hard to imagine the pressure and pain that Gao Ru Xue must be feeling.”

Since Gao Ru Xue refused to answer Chen Ge’s calls, he had no choice but to personally go to her place. He knocked on her door for several minutes before Gao Ru Xue opened the door. She looked so much more haggard, and she had lost quite a bit of weight. “Chen Ge?”

“Do you mind if I come in to talk with you?” Chen Ge carried his backpack. He had not slept that night. His eyes were bloodshot, and he did not look much better than Gao Ru Xue. “I have something that I have to discuss with your father, but I need your help to be able to find him.”

...

With a small nod, Gao Ru Xue opened the door and allowed Chen Ge to enter the room. The room was covered with a thin layer of dust. It was clear that the place had not been properly cleaned for quite some time, but at least overall the place still looked rather passable. Everything was neat, if a little bit dusty.

“I also would like to talk to him, but I have no idea where he is.” Gao Ru Xue sat on the couch. Even though a decent amount of time had passed since the incident at the underground morgue, Gao Ru Xue could not stop the change in her expression whenever she talked about her father.

“I need some of your blood.” Chen Ge did not wish to go into detail. He stated his reason for being there directly.

“My blood?” Gao Ru Xue slowly lifted her head that was previously lowered. She looked at Chen Ge with open confusion before she stretched out her arm toward Chen Ge. “Using my blood, you will be able to find out where my dad currently is, right?”

“It might not be successful, but it is worth a try.” Hearing that, the light in Gao Ru Xue’s eyes slowly dimmed, but she still did not pull her arm back. Instead, she said, “If you really do succeed in meeting him, remember to tell him that I miss him a lot.”

“Of course.” Chen Ge had Gao Ru Xue close her eyes, and then he summoned out the red high heels. A black curse like an iron needle pierced into Gao Ru Xue’s body and sucked out a drop of blood right from her heart.

“You can open your eyes now.” Chen Ge looked at Gao Ru Xue’s pale face, and he gave her a serious promise. “I will relay your words to Doctor Gao personally, and I will try my best to help your family if it is within my power.”

After he left Gao Ru Xue’s home, before Chen Ge moved that far away, Chen Ge got some good news. By applying a curse on both the blood vessels inside the white cat’s body and the blood from Gao Ru Xue’s heart, the red high heels had successfully sensed a very scary presence. Based on Chen Ge’s prediction, the monster that was giving off this scary presence should be none other than Doctor Gao

“It is a good thing that we can sense his presence. After we enter the world behind the door, perhaps the intensity of this presence will become much stronger.”

After he walked out from the apartment, Chen Ge rushed to Jiujiang Children’s home and retrieved a drop of blood from Fan Yu. After he was done with everything, Chen Ge silently returned to New Century Park and woke up Ol’ Wu before theme park opened for business. “Brother Wu, it is time to wake up. We should prepare to return to Xin Hai already.”

Ol' Wu, who was fast asleep, was shaken awake. He looked at Chen Ge blurrily. There were so many questions on his face.

Chen Ge tried his best to help 'recover' his memory. "Last night, I asked you for a favor to drive me back to Jiujiang to get something. Did you forget about that?"

"Yes, I think I do remember that." Ol' Wu rubbed his head.

"So, let's return to Xin Hai. I have already gotten everything that I needed." Chen Ge placed the white cat on the backseat. He had already done everything that he could. What he needed to do next was focus all his energy against that cursed hospital and get to the bottom of the mystery behind his parent's disappearance. The car left New Century Park in the morning, and they arrived in Xin Hai when the sun was at its peak.

"Brother Wu, if possible, stop using this car. Other than that, I need you to remind Mr. Wang not to go out late at night. It will also be best if the two of you are staying somewhere with a lot of people." Chen Ge was worried that the car might be targeted by the cursed hospital, so he gave Ol' Wu a kind reminder.

"Okay." Ol' Wu dropped Chen Ge at the Nightmare Academy and then left in a hurry.

Chen Ge carried his backpack and hugged the white cat as he pushed open the front door to the Nightmare Academy. Once he stepped into the building, he felt something was not quite right. Because they had not yet prepared to open for business, the central air con was not on, but at that moment it was curiously cold inside the haunted house. "Xiao Die? Zhang Jingjiu?"

With a bad feeling in his heart, Chen Ge flipped through the comic to summon out several Red Specter employees.

"Search the entire building!" Chen Ge ordered in a serious tone. He did move away from the entrance. He stood right at the front door. If there was a trap, he would turn and run at the first notice. Half a minute later, Men Nan appeared before Chen Ge. "There is no one inside the haunted house."

"Did something or someone come here last night?" Chen Ge was very worried about the safety of his haunted house employees.

"We cannot sense the trace of the presence of any other baleful Specters, but I can say for sure that something indeed infiltrated this place last night.” Men Nan pointed at the entrance to one of the scenarios. “Come and take a look at this.”

Being escorted in the middle of several Red Specters, Chen Ge walked to the entrance of the scenario. The wooden doors that led into every scenario were covered in paper notes, and every single note had that familiar statement on it.

“This is a sickened world. Why have you not discovered that fact? I swear to cure you!”

The paper notes with different handwriting covered the many wooden doors, and it looked intensely creepy.

“This has to be the doing of that cursed hospital.” Chen Ge was reminded of a detail. The previous morning, when he returned to the Nightmare Academy from his Red Specter hunting, he had felt a sharp gaze that was watching him from Shi Li Xiang eatery. Perhaps from then on, he had already been targeted. “Time to go to Shi Li Xiang eatery.”

It was just past the lunch time, so there were not that many people inside the eatery. Chen Ge burst through the door with several Red Specters behind him.

“Welcome to Shi Li Xiang. How can I help you today?” The waiter very passionately walked toward Chen Ge, but the latter ignored him directly. He walked toward the counter and strode toward the door that was meant for employees only.

“Hey!” This was the first time the waiter had encountered a customer so rude and unreasonable. He was about to reach forward to stop Chen Ge when his body was suddenly drained of power, and he collapsed onto the chair behind him. Chen Ge did not want to waste time on meaningless actions. Without wasting any time, he rushed into the kitchen at the back, and he saw the boss of the shop who was pouring something into a big vat of sauce. The boss was Chi Longtou.

“Zhang Yi!”

Wasting no time for a single pleantry, when Chi Longtou saw Chen Ge, Zhang Yi had already crawled into his body. About ten seconds later, Zhang Yi crawled out from the back of Chi Longtou’s head, and he reported with a disappointed expression. “The enemy appears to have realized that I can look through people’s memories, so this man’s memory has already been tampered with. I cannot find any useful information.”

The cursed hospital had realized that Chen Ge had a Specter who could look through people’s memories, so they had sent someone over to deal with Chi Longtou’s memory. Chen Ge had already predicted that the Demon God with the surname Chi would be able to look through a living individual’s memory, so he did not reveal the presence of Chi Ren to any of his living employees. He had kept Chi Ren hidden inside the headmaster’s office. The devil was always in the detail.

“Even if the cursed hospital has taken away my employees, they won’t be able to obtain any useful information from my living employees, but with how the cursed hospital approaches things, if I am unable to find Zhang Jingjiu and Xiao Die soon, I am afraid they will be in mortal danger.”

Be it living employees or ghost workers, Chen Ge treated them like they were his family. Now that his family had been kidnapped, he was naturally not going to sit idle.

After he returned to the Nightmare Academy, Chen Ge summoned out all the Specters from the comic. He started a carpet search, not letting go of a single detail. After about half an hour, Chen Ge was rewarded with a new discovery. He found a cursed letter inside Xiao Die’s room. The content of the letter was pieced together from newspaper cuttings. The letters of different size were stuck to the paper, and it looked like a ransom letter.

“Is this some kind of cursed game? I held the hands of seven friends to come to the hospital. My mother said that the patient is among us. If any of us are not smiling, then that person is the patient. My good friends, my bad friends, they all smiled.

“I held the hands of seven friends to come to the hospital. Father told us that mother is sick and told me to wait outside the sickroom. My good friends, my bad friends, they all turned to look at mother. They told me that none of us would leave the hospital alive.

“I held the hands of seven friends to come to the hospital. The doctor told us my father and mother had both died at the hospital. My good friends, my bad friends, they heard what the doctor said. They said that they would not come to play with me at the hospital at midnight anymore.”

Even after reading the letter, Chen Ge had no idea what the content of the letter was trying to express at all.

“Was this left behind by a non-smiler?” He turned the letter over to the other side. Chen Ge discovered the picture of a human face blurrily drawn on the back of the letter. When he looked closer, he was able to see the following words written not that clearly along the human face—‘You are my seventh friend.’

“I am the seventh friend? So, there are seven people who received this letter last night, huh. Is this some kind of an invitation to a cursed game?” Chen Ge put the cursed letter away. After he ensured that there was nothing else to discover, he pulled out his phone and called the police immediately. “Captain Cai! I have been assaulted by the criminals! Three of my employees were kidnapped last night!”

After hearing the call from Chen Ge, the police did not even know how to react. From their perspective, no matter how rampant the criminal activity might be, they would not go to the biggest business area in Xin Hai to conduct their crimes, much less commit something as serious as kidnapping three people at the same time.

“We will be there in a minute! You’d better look after your own safety until we get there!”

In just ten minutes, two patrol cars had arrived at the entrance to the Nightmare Academy. “Captain Cai, come and look at this door!”

Chen Ge dragged Captain Cai by his arm and ran to the entrance to the haunted house scenario. The paper notes that covered the wooden door gave the police quite a shock.

“When did you discover that your employees had disappeared?”

“I returned to the haunted house around noon today. Once I walked through the front door, I realized that the employee on duty was not at reception. It was then that I realized something was wrong because my employees were still living at the haunted house. After that, I called them on their phones, but there was no answer. When I walked in deeper into the haunted house, I encountered this door,” Chen Ge said urgently. “These employees followed me from Jiujiang because I wanted to expand my haunted house to Xin Hai. We were supposed to open a second branch here, but before we could even open for business, they have already been targeted by the criminals. This is all my fault! The criminal must know that I’ve been investigating him, so he used this kind of method to take revenge on me!”

“Please do not blame yourself too much. By the way, were you not at the haunted house yourself last night?” Captain Cai felt like there were too many loopholes regarding this case.

“Initially, I planned to reopen this place for business in three days, so last night, I went back to Jiujiang to gather some necessary props. Ol’ Wu from Jiujiang Police Station can attest to that. He gave me the ride back to Jiujiang. You can probably see us on the traffic cameras as well.” Chen Ge was very sad. “The criminals’ real target is me! If I had not involved myself in this case, then my employees would have been safe!”

“Mr. Chen, you must not think that way. It is already very impressive that you dared step forward to expose the evilness of the criminals. Technically speaking, it is our responsibility for the failure to protect the safety of your employees.” Captain Cai wanted to console Chen Ge, but he really did not know what to say.

“Captain Cai, there must be more than one criminal at work here. They were able to kidnap all three of my employees at the same time, so they should be working in a group!”

“Yes, that is what we are thinking as well, and our investigation is heading in this direction.”

“I am afraid that there might be more than just my three employees who disappeared last night. They should have been planning this for a long time.” Chen Ge’s basis for saying something like that was because of that cursed letter. The letter said that he was the seventh friend, so it was highly probable that there were seven cursed letters in total. “Captain Cai, the criminals have actively targeted me and my people. They must have done more than that behind the scenes. You are the only people who I can rely on now.”

“Please do not worry. I will assign people to guard around your haunted house. If they dare return, I will ensure that they are apprehended.”

“They have just caused such a big disturbance here. I doubt they will return to this place any time soon. This case is related to the safety of my three employees. Is it possible for me to join the investigation?” The cursed hospital had existed in Xin Hai for more than twenty years. The police must have collected some cases related to the cursed hospital. Chen Ge wanted to make use of the police force’s information and try to get to know that hospital as best as he could.

He knew the truth behind certain things, so the perspective that he held would be different from the Xin Hai police. Therefore, he might come to a different conclusion regarding the same case.

"I am afraid I cannot make the decision regarding something like that." Captain Cai rejected him in a roundabout way.

"That's okay." Chen Ge did not press further. "The criminals have kidnapped three people, so it must have caused them some trouble. They will make their next move tonight. You guys need to be careful."

When Captain Cai heard that from Chen Ge, he felt weirded out. Normally, when a person encountered this kind of situation, they would plead the police to capture the culprit as soon as possible, but Chen Ge had been consciously reminding the police officer to mind their own safety.

Both parties exchanged information for an hour. Chen Ge linked the clues of all the cases together, and some of the clues could be directly or indirectly linked to an abandoned hospital in Xin Hai's countryside. Xin Hai had always been a city with very good security. The cases that had happened in the past few days were extremely rare serious crimes. With the stern order from above, the police force all over the city had mobilized. More than one case was being investigated at the same time. When the whole city was brought under control, the police even prepared to conduct a deep investigation into the hospital in Xin Hai's countryside.

The peace and silence on the surface of Xin Hai had been completely shattered. The tides were raging violently under the surface. At 3 pm, Chen Ge had just sent the police off when he received a call from Ol' Wu. He brought Chen Ge more bad news—Mr. Wang had disappeared.

Chen Ge did not even have time to finish his meal. He hurried to where Mr. Wang was staying. He did not encounter Mr. Wang there, but he did come across Mr. Wang's student, Zuo Han. "Why are you here?"

"Last night, I gave my lecturer a call because I wanted to ask him something. When we were halfway through the phone call, he said that someone had entered his room." Zuo Han looked very serious. "He hung up on me to give it a check. After that, he did not answer any of my calls. I was worried about him, so first thing this morning, I got on the earliest train to come to Xin Hai."

"Did you find anything special inside Mr. Wang's room? Like a note or a letter...”

Before Chen Ge finished, he saw Zou Han pick up a letter from the small coffee table. The letter was similar to the letter that Chen Ge found inside Xiao Die’s room. The only thing that was different was on the back of the letter. On the human face on the back of the letter, it was written—’You are my first friend.’

Chapter 1158 - Four Star Trial Mission Cursed Hospital! 2in1

Chapter 1158 Four Star Trial Mission Cursed Hospital! 2in1

“This letter again?” Chen Ge pulled out the letter that he found in Xiao Die’s room and placed it on the coffee table as well. “Last night, three of employees went missing, and I found similar letters in their rooms as well.” “What is their goal?” Zuo Han’s eyes stared closely at the letters on the table.

“The back of Mr. Wang’s letter states that he is the person’s first friend, and on the back of this letter that I found in my employee’s room, it states that they are the person’s seventh friend. This person believes that my employees and Mr. Wang are both their friend. There must be something in common between my employees and Mr. Wang.”

Chen Ge very calmly started to do his analysis.

...

“In terms of timing, I suspect they have captured these people based on the serial killings that happened twenty years ago. Mr. Wang was the person who was involved in the investigation of the case from twenty years ago, so he was the earliest person who found out about the clues of the real truth while my employees are wrapped in this situation due to the fact that I started to investigate this case recently. In a way, they can be considered the last few people who became related to this case.”

“Therefore, Mr. Wang is the first friend and your employees are the seventh friend?” Zuo Han nodded. He agreed with Chen Ge’s analysis. “Boss Chen, can you leave the letter that the person left for Mr. Wang for me to keep?”

Chen Ge could guess what Zuo Han was planning. After a moment’s hesitation, he handed the letter to Zuo Han. “Do not act too rashly. The people that we are dealing with do not belong to the same world as you.”

“They do not belong to the world as me?”

"I am sorry that I cannot reveal more details to you, but trust me that I will not do or say anything with the intention of harming you." Chen Ge picked up his backpack. "If possible, you and Ol' Wu should leave Xin Hai as soon as possible and find a place where there are many people to stay."

"Then, what about you?" Zuo Han could pick out a trace of unusual urgency in Chen Ge's voice.

"Certain things happened because of me. Therefore, it's my responsibility to deal with it. I cannot escape from it." Chen Ge said a few words to Zuo Han and Ol' Wu, and then he left from the place where Mr. Wang was staying.

The cursed hospital had been operating in Xin Hai for many years. This was something that Chen Ge had already noticed several days ago when he was out hunting for baleful Specters. All the Red Specters in Xin Hai appeared to have been cursed, be it the evil spirit at Cards Archway or the Red Specter at the abandoned school. Their spirits had both been polluted; they had been turned into monsters who only knew how to kill and to spread the seed of despair. The control that the cursed hospital had over Xin Hai was invisible. Any Specters or spirits that had any kind of power within the territory of Xin Hai were all under their control. In other words, the cursed hospital could be said to represent the darker side of this big city.

"The seven friends might be all related to the serial killings from twenty years ago. In other words, these seven people might all be related to me. Perhaps they are all people who knew a little something about that case. The cursed hospital is now forcing me to show my hand." Chen Ge had been through a lot of things, so he saw through the cursed hospital's ploy almost instantly, but unfortunately, even if Chen Ge knew that this was the enemy's evil plan of trying to lure him into a trap, there was nothing that he could do about it. If he wanted to uncover the truth, he could not be a coward and slither away. Furthermore, this time, seven innocent human lives that were related to Chen Ge were on the line. The cursed hospital had done everything it could to force Chen Ge out from the darkness and into the open.

Perhaps the cursed hospital was somewhat cornered by Chen Ge as well. After all, Chen Ge was someone who was playing a hit and run tactic with his Demon God and Top Red Specters. Today, the cursed hospital had lost a Red Specter, and tomorrow, they might lose a Top Red Specter. No matter how long the history of the cursed hospital went in Xin Hai, they could not allow themselves to be continually ground down like this anymore. The cursed hospital had been cultivating their power in Xin Hai for more than twenty years; they would not allow Chen Ge to ruin their power. They had learned from their previous mistake. They would no longer send out one Specter after another for Chen Ge to ambush. That might happen in a game, but this was not something that would happen in real life.

After Chen Ge had ambushed and killed one of their Top Red Specters, the cursed hospital had responded almost immediately. They would have to deal with the big problem that was Chen Ge no matter what. To be frank, now was not the perfect time for Chen Ge to make his move, but the cursed hospital could not allow this to drag on any longer. The cursed hospital possessed the advantage of the location, but Chen Ge had the possible advantages of unity and people. Both parties had completely stopped dancing around in circles and started a killing game with the city of Xin Hai as the background.

Night fell. The busy city of Xin Hai was still as bright as if it was daylight. If anything, the crowd on the street was even more bustling than in the morning. The partying crowd did not realize that there was an additional hue of redness in the night sky. Bloodshot eyes opened up in the shadows of the city, but even they did not notice a young man who was standing at the corner of the street. The young man was carrying a large backpack, and he had a cat with a fur coat the color of snow following him.

Chen Ge did not return to Nightmare Academy. After he left Mr. Wang's home, he went directly to the police station. He did not enter the station but posited himself at the café next to the station. The passers-by assumed he was a street performer based on the large amount of items he was carrying and the pet that curled around him. In any case, no one came to disturb him.

At around 8 pm, Chen Ge received some good news. The red high heels had managed to gain contact with Doctor Gao through her curses. Although, instead of actually gaining communication, it was more like the red high heels had used the blood and curse to create the fake impression that Gao Ru Xue was heading toward the cursed hospital. Through the curse in the blood, she could sense that the distance between Doctor Gao and herself was slowly closing. To prevent unnecessary misunderstandings and accidents in the midst of battle, Chen Ge had the red high heels brand the blood that was mixed with the curse on the back of his arm. A scar that was in a shape of a droplet was the seal that was mixed from the blood from Gao Ru Xue's heart and the blood vessels taken from inside the white cat's body.

Doctor Gao was madly moving toward the location of this scar.

“Based on the red high heels’ prediction, Doctor Gao’s current power level is much higher than hers. To be able to surpass a Top Red Specter who specializes in curses, there is a very high chance that Doctor Gao has already become a Demon God.”

There was an irresolvable hatred between Doctor Gao and the cursed hospital. Chen Ge hoped that it would mean Doctor Gao would prove helpful to him when he was dealing with the cursed hospital. Now that he had the aid of two Demon Gods, Chen Ge felt like he could give it a try.

He took out the black phone and turned to the page that had all the Trial Missions. His eyes finally landed on the four-star Trial Mission, Cursed Hospital.

“The cursed hospital is the only mission that I have not completed on the black phone’s list of missions. I wonder if anything will happen to the black phone after I accept this mission.”

At the very beginning, there was no four-star trial mission that was showing at all inside the list of missions provided by the black phone. As Chen Ge continued to clear more and more missions, the four-star trial missions started to get unlocked.

“The black phone has not updated its list of available mission for a very long time now. After I complete the trial mission at the cursed hospital, I wonder if it will update with five-star trial missions.”

The difficulty of a four-star Trial Mission was already impossible for Chen Ge to accept. If there was really the presence of a five-star Trial Mission, how high would the difficulty be?

Chasing all the unnecessary thoughts out of his mind, Chen Ge looked at the last mission available on the list of the trial missions, and his finger slowly moved. His parents disappeared at that hospital. All of this started because he had not given up the mission of looking for them. Actually, he had been waiting a very long time for the arrival of this day. One could say that all of his effort and sacrifice was for this moment, for him to have the power to make this choice. And now he had done it and had surpassed the expectations of everyone.

“The lives of at least seven people are in the hands of the cursed hospital. I cannot watch them be killed by the cursed hospital just like that.”

His finger touched on the screen lightly. Chen Ge soon received the message from the black phone.

“Are you sure you want to accept the challenge of the four-star Trial Mission—the Cursed Hospital? Warning! This Trial Mission is extremely dangerous! Please make sure that you have finished with all of your preparations before you make this decision!”

“Yes, I am sure!” Chen Ge continued to move his finger to click on the confirmation button. The black phone then kept vibrating. He had received multiple messages.

“Red Specter’s Favored, Chen Ge, you have now accepted the four-star Trial Mission—Cursed Hospital!

“Cause and effect. The ending has been destined since the beginning. In the end, you have returned to this place.

“Life and death. You have used one death after another to deflect fate and destiny. Twenty years have been exhausted to buy yourself a chance at life.

“Kindness and sin. Everyone thought that the world behind the door is a representation of despair, pain, and unforgivable sin, but there was a child. He has sealed up his own kindness deep inside the nightmare behind the door but has left the most extreme sin in the human world.

“Human and ghost. Are you willing to choose to become a blissful human or an immortal ghost?

“Mission requirement: Arrive at Xin Hai Central Hospital before midnight and survive until sunrise.

“Optional Mission 1: Find your parents or their dead bodies.

“Optional Mission 2: Provide salvation to Patient 1 or kill Patient 1.

“Optional Mission 3: Kill the hospital president or become the new hospital president.

“Mission hint: The version of yourself who lives inside a dream might be immortal, but your life is nothing but a slate of barrenness.”

After reading the messages that appeared on the black phone, Chen Ge was startled for a very long time. The information that was provided by the description of the mission this time was enormous. The cursed hospital might be the most complicated and most difficult mission that he had ever attempted.

“The ending has been destined since the beginning?”

Reading the mission description, many predictions that Chen Ge had were slowly being confirmed.

“The young version of myself that died again and again must have come to the cursed hospital about twenty years ago. He fought for a chance for me to keep on living, but there is one thing that is different from what I believed. The child has sealed up the kindness in the nightmare behind the door but has left the most extreme sin outside the door. If this child in question is the other version of myself, then the child who is suffering the torment of despair behind the door is the representation of kindness and the me who is living a normal person’s life outside the door is the representation of sin. Can I understand it this way?”

Chen Ge paused for a moment and could not help questioning his own self.

“Do I look like a bad person? But I have sworn on my soul that everything that I have done was out of the kindness of my own heart. I have helped so many people and saved so many ghosts.”

Putting this question aside for now, Chen Ge turned to the optional missions. When he saw the first optional mission, his whole body became jittery with excitement. Since the black phone had given this mission, there was an eighty percent chance that Chen Ge’s parents were still trapped in the cursed hospital. From the first day Chen Ge obtained the black phone, he had been waiting for this chance to arrive.

“I am not that interested in the other two optional missions, but I have to complete this first optional mission no matter what!” Chen Ge only managed to calm down several minutes later. He read the information given by the black phone all over again. “Be it the hint or the optional missions, there are choices of opposite ends. This is something that is very strange. I should pay some attention to it.”

Chen Ge had done all the preparation that he could. At around 10 pm, he received a call from Captain Cai. The tone of Captain Cai on the other end of the phone was rather strange.

“Chen Ge, we have already finished our investigation of that abandoned hospital in the countryside. Our people did not come back with any findings of any strange events happening there. The hospital has been abandoned for many years now. There is no trace of any living people there at all.”

“Then, what’s your next move?”

“Part of the police will be assigned to continue the exploration at the abandoned hospital, but most of the police force will be mobilized to scout out the entire city. The criminals are very cunning. Perhaps they intend to use different existing ghost stories to create widespread panic throughout the city. If we do not capture them as soon as possible, it might lead to a very bad influence on the city.”

Captain Cai briefly informed Chen Ge of the investigation, but essentially, he had not given Chen Ge anything useful. Just as Chen Ge was about to hang up on the phone, Captain Cai suddenly lowered his voice. He appeared to have moved to a place where there were not that many people around him.

“Chen Ge, I need you to listen to me. This case is very strange. If you involve yourself any deeper, you might be in mortal danger, so you’d better leave everything to the police.”

“Did something happen to the police at the cursed hospital?” Chen Ge very astutely noticed something was not right.

“Do you still remember the reminder on that paper note?” Captain Cai’s voice lowered even further.

“This is a sickened world?”

“When you return, you’d better burn all the paper notes that contain that sentence.”

“What’s wrong? What did you guys encounter over there?” Chen Ge still wanted to press for more details, but the signal suddenly became very bad. Captain Cai’s yelp came from the other side of the phone. It sounded like someone had bumped into him. The call was disconnected. When Chen Ge called back the same number, no one picked it up anymore.

“The tone that Captain Cai was using was different from usual. Is it possible that he was forced to make this call under the threat of someone else? Or was someone trying to mimic him on the phone?”

Since Chen Ge had Tong Tong with him, he knew that other Specters could have done the same thing.

“This is not good.”

The cursed hospital had a lot more spirits and Red Specters compared to the number of employees that Chen Ge had at his haunted house. Their combined powers and abilities were enough to overturn Chen Ge’s understanding of the normal world.

“I have already accepted the trial mission on the black phone. I have no other choice.”

Chen Ge waited until past ten pm before he called a cab to head to Xin Hai’s countryside. To ensure that the driver was not a puppet sent by the cursed hospital, Chen Ge even had Zhang Yi quietly look over the driver’s memory. Ever since he accepted the mission, other than his company of ghosts, Chen Ge refused to blindly trust anyone from Xin Hai. To search for his parents, he had worked through endless days and nights. He had struggled multiple times along the line of life and death. Everything that he had done it was in preparation for this day. He would not allow himself to make any mistakes.

After they entered the countryside of Xin Hai, the hubbub of the city was left behind almost instantly. They were still within the territory of Xin Hai, but this place appeared to be a completely different world from the city. Behind them were the bright lights of a bustling city, while before them was an enveloping darkness. Only traces of some abandoned buildings could be seen in the dark. This was the countryside of Xin Hai, a piece of land occupied by many abandoned buildings. The deeper one ventured into it, the lower the chance of one encountering another person.

“Dude, I will drop you off here.” The driver parked the taxi by the side of the road. No matter how much Chen Ge was willing to pay, he refused to go any further. Chen Ge did not waste too much time arguing with him. After he paid his fare, he got out from the car. He was about to leave when the driver poked his head out from the driver’s seat window and waved at Chen Ge.

“Is there anything else?”

“Based on your accent, you aren’t a local, right?” The driver looked left and right before he whispered at Chen Ge. “Do not stay too long at the countryside. I hear from the older generation that this place is a small hell. Many people have been buried here.”

Before Chen Ge could ask for more details, the driver turned the car around and returned the way he came. The speed was twice as fast compared to before.

Chapter 1159 - When I Encounter Darkness, I Walk Right Into It (2 in 1)

Chapter 1159: When I Encounter Darkness, I Walk Right Into It (2 in 1)

“A small hell?” Chen Ge kept his eyes on the taxi until the last bit of light from the taillight of the taxi was also swallowed up by the darkness of the night. The countryside of Xin Hai was extremely deserted; there were barely any people on the road. Flipping through the comic, Chen Ge had all his employees remain ready, and then he placed the white cat on the ground. The white cat, which was naturally cautious, perked its ears perked up. Its heterochromatic eyes were filled with intense anxiety. It stuck close to Chen Ge and showed more than once that it would crawl underneath Chen Ge’s clothes if it could.

“You also feel the danger in the air?” Scratching the white cat on the back of its head, Chen Ge took a deep breath. He moved away from the main street and trekked deeper into the countryside on the smaller path. Walking through the series of abandoned buildings, the surroundings became quieter and quieter. The sound of the insects chittering had disappeared, as did the last speck of light.

“This piece of land consists of mostly unfinished residential buildings. How come the construction was stopped only after the shells of the foundation were built?”

...

Using Yin Yang Vision, Chen Ge saw the many different crass words that were written on the outer walls in red paint. It appeared like there was a riot among the employees due to the delay in the construction company paying their salary. They desecrated the unfinished building to force their bosses to surrender to their demands, but something else had happened.

Not far away from the unfinished residential area was a large site of an abandoned factory area. There were chemical factories and medical factories, but most of the factories did not specify what kind of factory they were. The rust on the fences showed that they had been there for a long time already. They lacked cleaning, and various large machines had become garbage that was impossible to deal with. The Xin Hai countryside was larger than Chen Ge anticipated. The taxi driver basically dropped him at the edge of the countryside; the man did not intend to drive Chen Ge in any further.

To prevent the possibility of an ambush on the main road, Chen Ge did not dare use the paved street. He could only slowly seek out his own path this day. The interaction that he had with the Xin Hai police proved useful at a moment like this. It was not completely useless. At least when he visited the police station, he managed to gain a more detailed understanding of the building layout at Xin Hai's countryside. The countryside had been abandoned for so long that the location of the various abandoned buildings and factories were only marked down at the map used by the police force.

“Residential areas, various factors, cinemas, supermarkets, small parks, and the types of abandoned building at this countryside sure are numerous. It is basically like a forgotten city.” Chen Ge had been wondering why the cursed hospital situated deep inside the countryside would be called Xin Hai Central Hospital, but he believed he had found the answer. If the entire Xin Hai countryside was seen as an abandoned city, then the cursed hospital was indeed placed at the center of this city. “The mission requires me to arrive at Xin Hai Central Hospital before midnight. I am on a time crunch. Looks like I'd better pick up my pace.”

If Xin Hai was the cursed hospital's territory, Xin Hai countryside was their old lair. Chen Ge reminded himself that he had to be extremely careful with his every step here. At around 11 pm, Xin Hai Countryside, which was surrounded in darkness, suddenly had a flash of light cut through it. Chen Ge looked toward the source of the light. It looked like a car that was driving down the main road. “Wait, isn't that the car from Jiujiang Medical University? Could that be Ol' Wu and Zuo Han?”

Chen Ge knew how dangerous the cursed hospital was, so he immediately took out his phone to call Ol' Wu. “Ol' Wu, you have come to Xin Hai Countryside as well?”

“It was Zuo Han who drove the car away! I parked the car in the original parking spot at the apartment, and then I brought Zuo Han with me to check in at a hotel in the middle of the city. But half an hour ago, when I went to take a shower, Zuo Han grabbed my keys! He's now missing, and he is not answering my calls!”

“Zuo Han is not the kind of person to act so rashly. Take a close look around the room. See if he has left any clues behind for you!” Chen Ge was a bit desperate. The battle between the haunted house and the cursed hospital was on a completely different level. No matter how clever Zuo Han was, if he was dragged into this battle, there was only one ending.

Death.

“When I went to take a shower, I believe he was reading a book... Hmm, yes, found it.” The sound of pages being flipped came from the other side of the line. Ol’ Wu suddenly said, “Hmm?”

“Did you find something?”

“Some of the words on this page have been circled in pencil,” Ol’ Wu said softly. “Room, someone, the, is, in.”

“Someone is in the room?” Chen Ge widened his eyes. “Someone is in the room! Ol’ Wu, leave the room immediately! Now!”

By the time Chen Ge shouted that order, the other side of the line had already gone quiet. No matter how loud he cried, there was no response.

“The cursed hospital has already made their move, so what exactly do they wish to take from these people around me?” Chen Ge shared a very normal relationship with Ol’ Wu. There was basically nothing that Ol’ Wu knew about Chen Ge, but even so, he was not spared by the cursed hospital. The memory that Ol’ Wu might have when he accompanied Chen Ge in leaving Xin Hai had already been wiped away by Zhang Yi. The cursed hospital would not find any valuable information on him. That could be considered the only good news.

“Have they targeted anyone related to me? The hospital is most familiar with curses. Is it possible that they are attempting to put a curse on me through the many individuals who are related to me?”

For most curses to work, they required a medium. The scarier and harsher the curse, the more significant the medium needed. A very bad feeling overwhelmed Chen Ge’s heart.

“Time is needed to complete a curse. They have just taken Ol’ Wu, so if I am not wrong, their curse cannot have been completed just yet.”

Chen Ge looked at the car that sped into the darkness, and he moved faster than before. At 11:30 pm, Chen Ge finally arrived at the perimeter of Xin Hai Central Hospital. This abandoned hospital was situated at the middle of Xin Hai's countryside. Several buildings were joined together to form an inverted cross. It gave off a sense of death, like a zone of hell.

"This is the place where my parents gone disappeared, huh?" Chen Ge did not use the front door. He summoned the red high heels and Xue Rong while he observed the hospital from the outside. Xue Rong did not expect that she would once again return to this place where her nightmare originated after she tried so hard to escape from it. The curse in her body was evoked. If not for the suppression from the red high heels, she would have gone berserk.

"Have you lost your mind? Why would you voluntarily come here to seek death? Can't you just live your life peacefully in Jiujiang? What is so bad about that?" Xue Rong tried her best to maintain her rationality.

"Stop wasting time. You were a night doctor at the cursed hospital before, so you should be very familiar with the inside of this place."

"I am not going back into this place. There is no way you can convince me!" Xue Rong was on the verge of breakdown. Chen Ge had the red high heels add new curses on Xue Rong.

"The cursed hospital has captured my employees, and they are threatening with the lives of many other innocent people. I am not asking you to do me a favor here. If you do not want to help me, then I will have my employees swallow you up right this moment." Chen Ge's tone was sharp and icy. At a moment like this, hesitation and kindness would not help. It would only delay his plan. The black lines on Xue Rong's body continued to increase as the red high heels applied more and more curses on Xue Rong. When Xue Rong was treating the red high heels, she too had placed many curses on the red high heels. In a way, this was a cycle in and of itself.

"Stop! Fine." Xue Rong's eyes were bleeding. Black blood vessels surfaced on her skin, and she was in extreme pain. "The cursed hospital will not capture people for no reason. There are only two kinds of people that they will capture—doctors who are worth investing in and humans who possess the unique properties to become patients! When the doctors are tricked into joining the hospital, they will start their work as a day doctor, but the patients are not so lucky. They will be kept inside the quarantine area. If they can survive for three days, they will gain a new number, which will replace their name.”

“Quarantine area?”

“Yes, all the new patients will be locked up there.” The black blood vessels on Xue Rong’s skin disappeared. She glanced at the red high heels fearfully. Her once patient had become a very scary monster. “The central hospital is very big, and the quarantine areas are at the deepest part of the hospital. I hope you will reconsider what you are doing.”

“I think you might have misunderstood me. I am not going to the quarantine areas to save people.”

“Then, what are you planning to do?” Xue Rong was a bit confused.

“My plan is to completely destroy this hospital and clear out any humans or ghosts who have already fallen for the curse. After cleansing the whole hospital, naturally, I will be able to rescue the people that they have kidnapped.” Chen Ge waved his arms. “Bring us into the hospital. Lead the way.”

Since she was basically no different from a hostage, Xue Rong had no choice. She led Chen Ge to the left side of the hospital.

“This here is the side door. It is relatively safer because only the hospital staff know about it.”

After Xue Rong said that, both she and Chen Ge saw the car that was parked beside the side door.

“Why would the car from Jiujiang Medical University be parked here? Did Zuo Han enter the hospital from the side door? But didn’t you say that only the hospital staff know about the existence of this door?”

“But that’s the truth!” Xue Rong was clueless as well. “I have no reason to lie to you. I will end up worse a thousand times if I am recaptured by the cursed hospital compared to being captured by you. Therefore, I will unconditionally side with you!”

“If the hospital staff know about this place, then doesn’t that mean that they will predict me using this door? This route is not as safe as you think.” Chen Ge shook his head. He chose a window that was even more out the way. At 11:54 pm, Chen Ge officially entered the cursed hospital. Xin Hai Central Hospital was supposed to have been abandoned for a long time already, but the inside of the building reeked of disinfectant, and there were occasional footprints and shoe prints on the ground as if people still wandered these halls.

“When Captain Cai called me earlier, he told me that there was no trace of any recent human activity at the hospital. Why would he lie to me? Was something standing next to him when he made that call?”

With the aid of Yin Yang Vision, darkness posed no trouble for Chen Ge. He carefully moved down the corridor. Without moving that far, Chen Ge saw someone had used a red paint to write the following on the wall of the corridor—“This is a sickened world, why not destroy it?”

The ghastly handwriting combined with bright red paint, it stood out even in the dark. Chen Ge frowned slightly. He continued to move forward. The real maddening side of this hospital was slowly being exposed to Chen Ge. Yellowed death notices appeared on the ground, and black and white pictures of doctors were hung upside down on the walls. Some of the pictures had scratch marks from fingernails, and the white coats were poked through with needles. “The owner of the cursed hospital is the hospital director, and the doctors... why would they allow such vandalism of the doctor’s pictures?”

The situation was more complicated than Chen Ge thought. The corridor that he had been walking along appeared to reach down into the endless darkness, and every door seemed to hide a monster behind it. Every corner of the hospital showed signs of the patients’ struggles. The walls had been repainted layer after layer. The surface looked white as snow, but the inner layers were already corrupted, and the new layer did nothing to cover up the rotting smell.

“This whole place does not feel right, but strangely enough, I cannot sense the presence of any monster or ghosts.” Chen Ge had superhuman senses. Ever since he entered the hospital, he did not sense any danger. He only felt strangely uncomfortable, like he was dropped inside a pool of quicksand. The white cat, which was highly alert when it was outside the hospital, started to relax once inside the hospital. It strode next to Chen Ge and sometimes turned its head around to observe things out of curiosity.

“Do not let your guard down. The night at the cursed hospital has always been like this. You should be lucky that you have not run into any patients or night doctors. Every single one of them is scarier than the last.”

Even though she was already a Red Specter, when Xue Rong thought back to these things, she was still afraid.

“Are you sure? How come it feels like all the ghosts have already decided to leave tonight?”

Chen Ge pushed open the door of the sickroom. He saw the handwriting left behind by the patient on the wall next to the bed — ‘Who can bring me away from this sickened world?’

“Why does everyone here think the world is sick? The truth is that because they themselves are sick, and that is why the world look sick from their perspective, isn’t it?”

There was plenty of similar handwriting, scratch marks, and paper notes that had the same message. Chen Ge had a feeling the cursed hospital was doing this on purpose. A normal person was led into the impression that they were living inside a sickened world, and then the cursed hospital used many crazy methods to show them how sick the world was to get the normal person to approve of the world’s sickness. Once that impression was made, the normal person would officially become a patient.

“No matter what, I cannot allow my conviction to be shaken. No matter how imperfect this world might be, it exists in reality!” Just walking down the corridor, the sickened world had already appeared before his eyes who know how many times already. Chen Ge finally understood why he felt so uncomfortable when he arrived at this place. Xin Hai Central Hospital was different from the outside world. In fact, one could say that the whole of Xin Hai’s countryside was different from other places. This place was the real sickened world. “They appear to have the aim of forcing madness on everyone that enters the hospital, be it the patients or the doctors.”

The scariest part of the cursed hospital was not the fact that they would kill people but that they would do everything in their power to change a person, like with the ghost fetus. What the shadow was looking for was bliss. He was desperate for love and being loved, but after he ran into the cursed hospital, the shadow’s worldview was corrupted. The child, who originally had a chance at salvation, was turned into a Demon God in the world of the dark fog. He had committed many erroneous crimes and had been made to suffer the most painful and the most despairing curse, and the culprit behind everything that had happened to him was the cursed hospital.

Chen Ge had no idea why the cursed hospital would do something like that, but he knew that what he needed to do now was ensure that he was not influenced by the cursed hospital. From the moment his employees were kidnapped, the cursed hospital appeared to have initiated their plan. Chen Ge wanted to destroy the cursed hospital, and the cursed hospital wanted to turn Chen Ge into a patient. The history behind the two parties had started more than twenty years ago; it crossed the line of life and death and two cities. It involved many forces. Many ghosts and people were waiting for this moment.

Walking out from the reception hall, Chen Ge entered the ICU. When Xue Rong and his employees were not paying attention, Chen Ge silently brushed against the wedding ring on his finger. Xiao Sun was located somewhere underneath the hospital. Chen Ge was very close to him. Chen Ge did not head directly to Xiao Sun but continued with his original plan. Along the way, he did not run into any living person or any ghost. He moved smoothly and arrived at the door that led underground.

“The first quarantine zone is underneath this door. I need to remind you, this place is very dangerous.” Xue Rong’s expression became quite strange. Black lines started to appear in her blood red eyes. “The atmosphere is indeed rather unusual at the hospital tonight. You’d better remain on alert.”

Looking at the dark corridor, Chen Ge rushed into it without any hesitation.

Chapter 1160 - Am I Still Me?

(2in1)

Chapter 1160: Am I Still Me? (2in1)

The underground layout of Xin Hai Central Hospital was incredibly complicated. The internal space was very large, and the twisted handwriting could be seen everywhere. The air reeked of heavy disinfectant. The ground was littered with stained patient's garbs and various types of trash. Occasionally, 'no entry' signs could be seen at the corners of the corridors, but the wooden signs had all been decayed away, and there were clear signs of struggles from the nail marks there were left behind on them.

"How come I have not encountered a single person or ghost at all? Is this Xiao Sun's work? But no matter how powerful Xiao Sun is, he could not have cleared an entire scenario on his own!"

Chen Ge walked down the underground corridor for a very long time. He looked into the many different sickrooms that were not locked. It was not until then that he realized none of the rooms at the hospital appeared to be locked. He could open the door and explore them if he wanted to. He had no idea what this meant but his feeling told him that this was not right.

...

"I have to be careful around these 'doors'."

The atmosphere inside the hospital became stranger and stranger. The feeling of oppression and suffocation grew stronger and stronger. It was as if the building that they were inside was slowly dropping into the abyss, and no one inside the building would be able to escape.

"If you move further ahead, you will reach the quarantine area. Everyone that is brought to the hospital, be it doctor or patient, will be first sent to the quarantine zone." Xue Rong's eyes were moving around. Her pupils were flushed with blood.

"Then that means that you were once sent into the quarantine area when you first arrived at this hospital as well. In that case, do you still remember any details from your days spent inside the quarantine zone?" Chen Ge suspected the secrets behind the hospital were all locked behind the quarantine zone.

“The quarantine zone’s main purpose is for the hospital to observe the patients and have them recognize their true selves. After their condition has stabilized, they will be released.” Xue Rong did not really answer Chen Ge’s question, but instead, she introduced the function of the quarantine zone to Chen Ge.

“How would a normal person be forced to recognize their true self? How would a person who is not sick get their condition stabilized?” Chen Ge could not help but frown. “What exactly is inside the quarantine area?”

What Chen Ge did not tell Xue Rong was, he realized Xiao Sun was currently located inside the quarantine zone.

“I really cannot remember anything. After leaving the quarantine zone, I realize I was unable to remember anything that has happened inside the quarantine zone.” Xue Rong did not look like she was lying around. “All I could remember was after I left the quarantine zone, I started to approve with the hospital’s philosophy and voluntarily stayed to work at this place.”

“You cannot remember anything about it?” Chen Ge thought back to the final stage of the ghost fetus scenario. He did not see any memory that was related to the quarantine zone inside the apartment building that was a tome of the ghost fetus’ memory. In fact, the ghost fetus’ memory started after he was moved into the sickroom. Based on what Xue Rong had said earlier, when a new person was brought to the hospital, they first had to be sent into the quarantine zone and not assigned a sickroom. “Did the ghost fetus forget the incidents that happened to him inside the quarantine zone as well?”

Chen Ge continued ahead. There was not even a glimpse of light around him, nor was there any sign of life. A strange feeling started to arise in his heart. The underground building of the cursed hospital was very similar to the underground scenario of his own haunted house; the atmosphere was surprisingly similar. It was eerie, scary, and it kept creating different nightmares to consume various negative emotions.

“It feels like both the black phone and the cursed hospital are trying to build the same thing but the path that they have chosen to do this is completely different.” Chen Ge eventually reached the end of the corridor, and before him now was a staircase that led deeper underground. At the corner of the staircase, written in uneven writing were the words ‘Quarantine Area’.

The signal that came from the wedding ring became more intense. Chen Ge was on high alert and slowly moved down to the second basement level. "This is the quarantine area?"

Chen Ge glanced down at the sickrooms at both sides. The rooms were filled with many different old clothes and old shoes. Some of the models had already gone out of fashion. They were from at least ten years ago.

"I saw a similar set up at the old hospital's storage where Chi Ren worked. The shelves there were filled with various kinds of shoes as well."

At the time, the image had left a deep impression on Chen Ge. Each pair of shoes appeared to represent a person. After entering the storage, he felt like there were many different dead people squatting on the shelves.

He continued to move down the corridor. Several consecutive rooms that he walked by were filled to the brim with old clothes. "Just how many people has the cursed hospital 'treated' in the past twenty years?"

Chen Ge temporarily did not notice anything special about the quarantine zone. What changed was the number of crazed words that were left on the walls. They overlapped over each other. Even if one did not pay them specific attention, the message would be imprinted in one's mind.

The smell of disinfectant in the air became so heavy that it had reached the point of being stinging to the nose. But what most alarmed Chen Ge was that even though the smell of the disinfectant was so intense, it did nothing to cover up the barely discernible stench that was lingering in the air. He was very familiar with this stench; he had once encountered it in the world behind the ghost fetus' door. It was a kind of stench that only his nose could pick up.

He carefully walked into the deepest part of the quarantine zone. Chen Ge finally stopped in front of a door. This was the fourth floor underground of the cursed hospital, and it was the location where the stench was the thickest and the location where the signal from the wedding ring was the strongest. Xiao Sun appeared to be behind this door.

"The whole hospital has not even one person. Why would they purposely leave Xiao Sun behind the door? Could it be that Xiao Sun has already been exposed? Or are all the ghosts from the cursed hospital currently hiding this door?"

The situation at the cursed hospital was too strange. Chen Ge did not dare lower his guard. He gave it some thought. Before he pushed the door open, he whispered Zhang Ya's name in his heart. The shadow behind him started to ripple. Zhang Ya also did not discover anything that was too strange about this hospital. She could not sense anything dangerous about this place. This appeared to be a very normal abandoned hospital.

With a Demon God present, Chen Ge felt more comforted. He signaled for Xue Rong to go and open this door at the deepest part of the quarantine zone. Xue Rong herself was one of the more powerful Red Specters. She would be able to take care of herself when she was faced with danger. Furthermore, she was at the constant edge of a breakdown, and she would not be able to listen to Chen Ge's order if that happened, so if an accident happened, it would not decrease the overall power level of Chen Ge's haunted house.

Chen Ge had taken many different factors into consideration before he decided to have Xue Rong push open the door. Xue Rong did not refuse. In her mind, her memory about her days in the quarantine zone was a blank as well. She wanted to recover the part of her memory that was lost. The finger that was covered in wounds landed on the door. Xue Rong slightly pushed. Just as she pushed open the door a gap, the shadow behind Chen Ge started to spread like a black ocean!

An indescribable horror reached its boiling point, and a pale arm reached through the line between reality and the void, carrying an enormous wave of blood as it surged at the door!

At the same time, the door before Xue Rong was thrown open from the inside. An arm that was carved with many black human faces reached out to block Zhang Ya's wave of blood, and then another blood red arm reached out from inside the door to grab at Chen Ge's shoulder!

"Two Demon Gods!" Black hair wound itself tightly around Chen Ge's body. He became the battleground for the three Demon Gods. His body temperature instantly dropped below zero. Chen Ge's physical body was being torn in many different directions. Just as he was about to be torn apart by the three Demon Gods, the black hair completely enveloped itself around Chen Ge. Zhang Ya hugged Chen Ge from behind and charged actively into the door!

Zhang Ya's diary that was sitting inside Chen Ge's backpack disintegrated into dust, and the lines of words appeared on Chen Ge's body instead. At the same time, the blood on Yan Danian's comic was slowly being washed away. All the pictures started to disappear. One Red Specter and ghost after another was pulled into the door. As the owner of the comic, before the last page of the comic disappeared, he held a ballpoint pen that was covered in cellophane tape in his hand and was madly drawing something at the edge of the page that was quickly dissolving. Before he was sucked into the door, the final painting that he had completed also appeared on Chen Ge's back.

Heaven and Earth spun. His body felt as if it had been pulled apart into small pieces and reconstructed again. Chen Ge hugged his head with both of his hands. Many different memories in his mind were being squashed, and they were replaced by painful memories that did not belong to him.

"This is a sickened world. Actually, you are more familiar with that fact than anyone else!"

In less than half a minute, the fourth basement level of the cursed hospital returned to normal.

Death, silence, oppression, and a complete void of hope.

...

He slowly opened his eyes. His line of sight was very blurry. Chen Ge tried multiple times before he managed to find a focus. His body was covered in pain. The pain came from all parts of his body, but the source of the most intense pain was his brain. Chen Ge found that he was unable to control his body. All he could do was barely move his eyes about. He realized he was lying inside a sickroom. The sunlight shone into the room through the window that was equipped with an iron fence. It was very warm and comfortable. The sickroom was not big, and there were other people in the room because Chen Ge could hear drifts of conversation coming from the other corners of the room.

"C Reactive Protein, homocysteine, male hormone, head CT, hypophamine CT, breast CT, the speed of the nervous transport system does not any obvious anomaly..."

"Similar checks have been done during his previous bout of fainting. His mind was clear, inspection of his heart and lungs showed no sign of damage, the nervous system showed no sign of negative impact, and his limbs were working just fine. There should've been a chance for him to improve, but his condition suddenly worsened after the treatment began.

"The patient suffers from paranoid schizophrenia as well as serious delusions..."

Searching for the source of the voice, Chen Ge slowly turned his head and looked beside him. Two doctors in white coats were chatting with one another. After the younger doctor noticed Chen Ge had woken up, he immediately stopped talking and walked out from the room with the document file in his hand. The other middle-aged doctor though walked over to Chen Ge's bedside.

"How did you sleep last night?"

Chen Ge raised his head with difficulty. When he saw the middle-aged doctor's face, his lips opened slightly, but he realized he was unable to utter a single word.

"You've forgotten everything again?" The middle-aged doctor appeared to have gotten used to this already. "I am your main physician. My name is Gao Ming. You can call me Doctor Gao for short."

"Doctor Gao?" The words were slowly formed in Chen Ge's lips. His throat was completely raw. It was incredibly taxing even just for him to say these two words.

"Looks like you have come back to us." Doctor Gao removed the straps that had been used to keep Chen Ge's limbs bound. "Last night, when you were acting up, do you know how much trouble you gave me and the workers?"

"Me? Acting up?" Whenever Chen Ge tried to remember what had happened, an intense pain would shoot through his mind as if someone was using a knife to stab into his brain.

"Take these pills and have a good rest. After your condition has completely stabilized, I will apply to have you sent over to the normal sickbay." Doctor Gao fed Chen Ge two white pills. After swallowing the meds, Chen Ge realized his headache was gradually going away. After ensuring that Chen Ge had swallowed the pills, Doctor Gao turned to walk away.

“Wait a minute, Doctor Gao.” Even though he was quickly overwhelmed by drowsiness, Chen Ge still called after Doctor Gao. “What is this place?”

“Xin Hai Central Hospital.”

“Who brought me here?”

“Don’t you worry about that. Just get a good rest. Do not go and think about those things. It will only hinder your recovery.” Doctor Gao left after he said all that. The sickroom became incredibly quite other than the occasional bird song that came from outside the window. The warm sunlight showered itself warmly on Chen Ge’s body through the iron net. He tried his best to gather his strength, but he was unable to sit up.

“My head hurts so bad...” His mind was working very slow, and whenever he tried to formulate a thought, intense pain would shoot through his body, so all Chen Ge could do was lie in the bed quietly. After who knew how long, the door was pushed open, and a young female nurse walked in carrying his meal. When Chen Ge saw the female nurse’s face, the name practically slipped out of his lips. “Xu Wan?”

When she heard Chen Ge’s voice, it was clear that the female nurse was quite shocked. She placed the tray of food on Chen Ge’s bedside table and she sat down beside Chen Ge. “You managed to remember my name after all? I guess the six months I have spent looking after you were not a complete waste after all.”

The female nurse was very kind. She looked cute and her voice was very soothing.

“Six months? You have taken care of me for half a year?” Chen Ge’s brows were knitted in a frown, and his brain felt like it had been pierced with a thousand needles.

Seeing Chen Ge in such pain, the female nurse quickly stood up, “Your condition has not stabilized yet. Please do not use your brain too much. It will only cause further injury.”

“Tell me, can you please tell me?” The pain scrunched up Chen Ge’s face, but he still gritted his teeth to repeat those words.

“I will not tell you anything, lest it puts any more pressure on you. Please do not exhaust yourself like this. I will go and get the doctor now!” Xu Wan turned to leave, but the corner of her shirt was grabbed hold by Chen Ge.

Turning around, Xu Wan looked into Chen Ge’s eyes that were filled with pain and sadness. “Who brought me here? What has happened to me?”

Xu Wan did not the heart to leave. She sat back down beside Chen Ge and reached out to massage Chen Ge’s arm that was bursting with green veins. “If you can calm down, I will tell you what you wish to know. That is a promise.”

Taking a deep breath, Chen Ge forced himself to stop thinking, and the pain slowly faded away. His facial expression slowly returned to normal. Chen Ge was like a wounded stray. His eyes were filled with the lethargy and pain after a long struggle. “Now, can you tell me?”

“About half a year ago, you drove your parents to the hospital. Your whole family was caught in a traffic accident, and only you were saved in the aftermath.” At this point, Xu Wan took a pause. She watched Chen Ge’s status closely. After noticing Chen Ge did not react too intensely, she continued. “But your brain was heavily damaged. You were in coma for a very long time. Not too long ago, you finally woke up, but the effect of the traffic accident appeared to leave you with a serious case of delusion.”

“I am suffering from delusions?”

“Yes, I believe it is your brain trying to protect itself. You refuse to admit that your parents are already gone, and you keep evading the truth and live inside the memory that you created for yourself.” Xu Wan looked at Chen Ge with clear concern in her eyes. “Occasionally, you lash out, but at other times, you are so still. During the few moments of sentience, you would describe a world where humans and ghosts were able to coexist, and you kept saying that you’d search for your parents, believing you could one day find them.”

“That was not a delusion, and I did not make any of that up.” Without even thinking, Chen Ge’s subconscious offered the words.

“I did not mean to shatter your dream, but if you insist on staying inside that dream, your only company will be pain. It is time to move on.” Xu Wan sighed under her breath. “Actually, you know that’s all fake. For example, in your story, you have not even met your parents because they are already dead. Furthermore, you rarely drive to any location; you always prefer public transport or taxi. That is because your subconscious is still afraid of driving after that car accident that cost your parent's lives. It is not that you do not know what is happening. It is just that you have been purposely avoiding seeing the truth before you."

Chapter 1161 - Cruel Truth? (2 in 1)

Chapter 1161: Cruel Truth? (2 in 1)

His memory was fragmented into pieces. Whenever Chen Ge tried to remember anything, his brain would feel like it was about to shatter, but even so, he resisted the torture silently. The arms that gripped the bedsheet started to pop with green veins. Seeing Chen Ge in such pain, Xu Wan did not have the heart to continue the story any longer. She laid a consoling hand on Chen Ge's arm. "I know how much the truth must hurt. After having your lunch, you'd better lie back down and rest."

Xu Wan picked up the meal from the bedside table and fed Chen Ge a spoonful at a time. Chen Ge's taste buds could sense the taste of the vegetables and meat perfectly. It was extremely real. Chen Ge masticated the food mechanically, and his eyes were unable to focus. The memory fragments that occasionally appeared in his mind convinced him that everything Xu Wan had told him was real. He indeed had been searching for his parents, and he rarely drove anywhere. The more he thought about it, the more he was convinced he did have a trauma being behind the wheel.

Picking up the napkin, Xu Wan wiped Chen Ge's mouth. "If you need anything, feel free to call me. If your recovery goes well, you should be able to move out from the quarantine area tonight. I know how much you wish to move back to the normal sickroom."

...

"Why would I be so desperate to return to the normal sickroom? Is there any danger from staying at the quarantine area?" The term 'quarantine zone' made Chen Ge's stomach flip. He had a very bad impression of this term.

"Of course, there is no danger here. No one will be able to harm you now that you are here. The reason you wish to return to the normal sickroom is because you will be able to see outside the hospital walls there." Xu Wan collected the utensils and left.

"I will be able to see outside the hospital walls?" After Xu Wan left, the room became quiet again. Chen Ge lay in bed. If he could stop himself from thinking, the pain that came from all parts of his body would lessen enormously. The sun showered on his body. His head cushioned on the clean and fluffy pillow as Chen Ge gazed outside the window. It was a brilliant and sunny day. White clouds drifted freely against the azure sky. All that ruined the verdant spectacle were the iron wires on the window.

“Are the iron wires to stop thieves from getting in or to prevent the patients from escaping?” The hospital was very well kept, and it made people feel very comfortable staying there. But for some reason, Chen Ge felt incredibly anxious lying there, but he had no idea where the anxiety came from. Whenever he tried to figure it out, his body would be tormented by pain, but when he stopped thinking and lay in bed like a wooden puppet, the pain would slowly disappear. He tried to move his body. Chen Ge worked on controlling his muscles. He needed about an hour before he finally managed to sit up in bed using his own strength.

“Deep purple welts cover my wrists and ankles from the straps. There are bruises on my back and shoulders as well. My left leg’s wrapped in plaster, and my cheeks are scratched...” Chen Ge was inspecting his own body. His eyes slowly moved before they landed on the back of his arm. There was a wound that was in the shape of a blood droplet there. “When did this wound show up? How did it get there?”

Chen Ge tried to think about it, and then it felt like an invisible hand gripped around his nervous system. The heart-drilling pain was enough to make him nearly faint.

Bang!

The room door was pushed open again. Doctor Gao walked in alone. He was holding a document in his hand. When he saw Chen Ge was sitting up on his own, the expression on his face was one of surprise. “Looks like your recovery is going very well.”

“Doctor Gao, my head hurts so much.” Chen Ge sidled to the edge of the bed. His body was still very weak.

“Now is not yet the time for your meds. Come. Why don’t you do this with me? Cross your arms before your chest and take a deep breath.” Doctor Gao instructed Chen Ge patiently. After the latter had calmed down, Doctor Gao moved over a chair and sat himself down next to Chen Ge’s bed. “Do you still remember what happened last night?”

“Last night?”

“Your illness suddenly acted up last night, and you were caught in a very serious delusion. I had to call in three hospital workers before we managed to detain you.” Doctor Gao took out a mechanical watch from his pocket. He glanced at the time before placing the watch on the bedside table. The needle of the watch ticked rhythmically and softly with every passing second.

“Why don’t you talk to me? Don’t treat me as a doctor. Just see this as a friendly chat between friends. There is no need to hide anything from me. Whatever you think of or anything that you have seen, you can tell me,” Doctor Gao said with a kind smile. “There is only one detail that you need to remember, and that is not to lie and do not say anything that is against your own principles.”

“I cannot remember anything. All I know is that I entered a dark and eerie hospital last night.” The memory in his mind had already been shattered. Chen Ge hung his head, and pain was plain on his face.

“What’s the name of that hospital? What did you see in that hospital? Did you have anyone accompanying you?” As the mechanical clock continued to tick, Doctor Gao patiently asked one after another question.

“I believe the hospital is called Xin Hai Central Hospital. I saw many different words and different handwriting. I did have someone accompanying me at the time... Her name was... Zhang Ya?” Suddenly, a name popped up in Chen Ge’s mind. The name escaped from his lips before he could stop himself. His hands reached to his head, and the immense pain caused the man to curl up in a fetal position on the bed. Screams kept coming out from his mouth. “So painful! This hurts so bad!”

Doctor Gao sighed softly, and he twisted open a medicine bottle and fed Chen Ge another two white pills. After swallowing the medicine, Chen Ge’s condition became much better. He lay back down on the bed, and his face was scarily pale.

“That was all a delusion. Last night, you stayed inside Xin Hai Central Hospital. You did not go anywhere. The eerie and scary hospital that you saw was this place.” Seeing that Chen Ge had slowly calmed down, Doctor Gao pointed around him. “Does this place look eerie and scary to you?”

The sun washed the room in a bright and sunny atmosphere. The room was clean, and everything was arranged neatly. The place had nothing to do with the terms scary or eerie.

“Perhaps this place is different at night compared to the day.” Chen Ge felt like he had said something similar somewhere else before.

“There is nothing different about the hospital, be it in the morning or at night. The building is not a living thing. All that will change is you.” Doctor Gao gradually revealed the truth to Chen Ge. “What changes when night falls is you.”

“Me?”

“Yes, you can be communicated with normally in the morning, but at night, you will turn into something of a beast.” Doctor Gao placed the document that he had on the table. “Initially, we thought that was a post traumatic disorder, but then we realized you suffer from severe delusions. And not too long ago, we discovered there was another persona living inside you.”

“Another persona living inside me?” Chen Ge’s brain turned dull. He was unable to process so much information in such a brief period.

“Why don’t you come and look at the surveillance video that we have captured last night?” Doctor Gao took out his own phone. The phone was pure white in color and had a large screen. Pressing the play button, a blurry video started to play on Doctor Gao’s phone. Chen Ge, who was lying in bed, suddenly sat up. He dragged his plastered leg and silently moved to the room’s door with his hands edging along the wall. When midnight arrived, he pushed open the door and attempted to escape from the hospital. However, he encountered the nurse on night duty. They got into an altercation. Chen Ge exploded like a cornered beast. He kept shouting words that no one would be able to understand, and he got into a serious physical tussle with the nurse.

About two to three minutes later, the hospital workers rushed to the scene. The three of them worked together to get Chen Ge under control and move him to the quarantine area. The surveillance did not end there. Chen Ge, who was lying in bed, struggled as best as he could. His eyes were red from the struggle. They were so red that it felt like blood would flow out from them any time soon. His body was twisted into impossible positions, and he appeared to be under enormous pain. His lips flopped open, and he screamed as if from pain.

“This was me?” Chen Ge looked at the video silently. Chen Ge lay in bed quietly. He had no recollection of this incident at all.

“He is you and not you. To be precise, he is the second persona inside you. The reason behind his existence is your illness,” Doctor Gao said seriously. “You must have an impression of his existence because you have been relying heavily on him, but you are unable to admit that to yourself.”

“No, I am me. There is no one else inside me.” Chen Ge shook his head firmly.

“Is that so?” Doctor Gao picked out a page from the binder. “From all the strange stories that you have told me, there was a ghost that has been protecting you. The ghost did not ask for anything in return for his protection. He even took up the role of being your guardian as the only reason in his life.”

Green veins surfaced on his forehead. Before the pain arrived, Chen Ge nodded. “I remember him. He’s not someone that I have made up...”

“Then, do you still remember the surname of your father?” Doctor Gao suddenly changed the subject.

“His surname is Chen.”

“Then, do you know what your own name is?”

“Chen Ge.”

“What is the surname of your mother?”

“It was Xu.”

“Now try to think about it. What is the name of that ghost?” Doctor Gao spoke very quickly. There was practically no gap between his questions.

“His name... is Xu Yin.” Chen Ge pressed his head from pain and difficulty.

Doctor Gao placed the page of information before Chen Ge. He pointed at the record from about a month ago. “The name that you have given your second persona is Xu Yin. In the morning, your name is Chen Ge, but at night, you are called Xu Yin. The ghost who has been willing to suffer all the pain without leaving and has been protecting you without asking for anything in return is actually yourself.”

“Impossible!”

“It is totally normal for you not to realize that. Based on my observation, the reason this second persona showed up is mainly because you have given yourself too much pressure, and you desperately needed someone else to come and share the pain and pressure that you were placed under.”

“That is absolutely impossible! Xu Yin is real! I remember him very clearly!”

“I am not saying that he is not real. In fact, he is as real as you and me, but he only exists in your brain and your stories.” Doctor Gao used a very soft and soothing voice to communicate with Chen Ge. “Whenever you wake up from your fainting, I’m the first person that comes to talk to you, and I’m always your first listener. In your stories, whenever you found yourself in danger, Xu Yin would show up to protect you. He is not that powerful, but he would always try his best to help you survive the ordeal. Think about it, a solitary figure that is not that powerful but refuses to give up, doesn’t that remind you of someone you know?”

Doctor Gao looked at Chen Ge with a sad smile. With the leading words from Doctor Gao, the figure in Chen Ge’s mind became more and more blurry before it completely overlapped with the image of his own self. Pain, loneliness, and sadness that could not be shared with anyone else—they shared too many similarities to be a mere coincidence.

“Xu Yin, Chen Ge...” Many different fragmented memories floated up in Chen Ge’s mind. He had no idea who to believe, but he soon adjusted to a firm belief. “Impossible. If Xu Yin is my second person, it means that all my previous experiences were fake, but I remember them very clearly. They are all real! There are really ghosts in this world! And Xu Yin is a real person!”

Chen Ge held onto the broken pieces of memory in his mind. Rationality told him that Doctor Gao was not wrong, but he refused to listen to himself.

“There are no ghosts in this world. The only thing that exists is the unpredictability of the human heart and the length that it might go to protect itself.” Every word that Doctor Gao said resonated greatly with Chen Ge. Chen Ge’s subconscious told him that the doctor was right, but he felt strangely discomfited by that thought.

“Come, I have already filled in the application for you to move back to the normal sickroom. Hopefully, you will recover soon.” Doctor Gao summoned Xu Wan, and the two of them supported Chen Ge on each side as they moved him out from the quarantine room. The bright and clean corridor smelt of disinfectant. The sickrooms on the two side of the walls were all locked. The window was blocked off by a thin curtain. Standing in the corridor, one would not be able to see into the other sickrooms. Walking down the corridor, the place was rather noisy. Many patients could be found loitering along the corridor.

“Please move out of the way.” Doctor Gao moved Chen Ge to the first room at the corner of the stair of the second floor. This room was much bigger than the room that he was staying in earlier. There were three beds inside the room.

“You should be able to remember your own bed, right?” Doctor Gao asked softly, but Chen Ge only looked back at him with confusion. “Looks like you have forgotten about it again. No matter, we can take this slowly. When the injury to your brain has totally recovered, it will not hurt so much anymore.”

Doctor Gao supported Chen Ge as they moved to the bed near to the window. Sitting on the edge of the bed, Chen Ge looked out the window. Beyond the wall was a theme park that was not that big. Chen Ge edged his way onto the bed, and when he settled down, he realized there was another theme park that he could see from his vantage point.

From Chen Ge’s bed, he was able to glimpse the entirety of the two theme parks. Most of the visitors were gathered at the theme park on the eastern side of Xin Hai Central Hospital. The place was equipped with a lot of high-tech entertainment devices while theme park on the western side of the hospital was relatively quieter with fewer visitors. Most of the rides on the western theme park were of the older fashion. The only attraction more conspicuous about the place was a haunted house. When he saw the haunted house, the memory in Chen Ge’s mind started to awaken. He held his head, but he did not move his eyes away. He kept his eyes on the theme park on the western side while resisting the pain.

“Is that New Century Theme Park?”

“That is called Xin Hai Theme Park. You often stand beside the window, observing it. Sometimes, you spend your whole day doing just that.”

“I think I have remembered something.” Chen Ge pulled on his hair with both hands. Thin veins appeared on his face, and sweat poured out from his forehead. “I once worked at a theme park. I inherited my parent’s haunted house, and I possess a haunted house that they left for me!”

“Just like her, right?” Compared to Chen Ge’s maddening claims, Doctor Gao’s voice was slow and even. He extended his finger and pointed in the direction of the haunted house’s entrance. Chen Ge followed the direction Doctor Gao was pointing. There was a woman dressed as a ghost standing at the entrance of the haunted house. The makeup on her face was ruined by the sweat that poured down her forehead. She wore a red dress, and currently, she was selling tickets while holding an advertisement board for the haunted house outside the gates.

“Zhang Ya?” When Chen Ge saw the woman’s face, he was stumped.

“To aid in your recovery, I went to make some inquiries. The identity that you have given yourself is actually stolen from this girl. Her family opened a haunted house here about ten years ago. The haunted house has been in business since her parent’s generation.” Doctor Gao shook his head, and a trace of pity could be discerned from his eyes. “The person who was running a haunted house for a living is this young lady, and all you did was hide behind the hospital window and look at her. You have not said a word to her before, but you have indeed visited her haunted house, a long time ago. That’s how you know her name is Zhang Ya.”

“Impossible. She is a ghost, a very important ghost to me!” Extreme pain came from Chen Ge’s brain again.

“If she is really that important to you, why don’t you personally go and talk to her after your condition is better? If you go in your current state, you will only scare her,” Doctor Gao told Chen Ge softly.

Chapter 1162 - Sickened World?

(2 in 1)

Chapter 1162: Sickened World? (2 in 1)

There was a window equipped with an iron net that stood between Chen Ge and the outside world. Standing at the window, he could smell the fragrance of flowers and the caress of the wind. He could even watch the person who was the most important in his mind, but what he could not do was leave this place. The world outside was very real and very beautiful, and the outside world belonged to the others. His hands gripped the iron net, and the rust cut against his skin. Chen Ge watched theme park on the western side quietly, his eyes never leaving the female actor in the ghost costume. Even though she was wearing heavy makeup, Chen Ge managed to pick her out from the crowd at first glance.

“You have to cooperate to receive the treatment. After your condition gets better and after we get the approval from the hospital director, you will be able to leave the hospital, and you can go and meet her in person.” Doctor Gao treated Chen Ge very kindly. He was familiar with Chen Ge’s sad background. Other than the doctor’s responsibility toward his patient, he felt deep concern and pity toward Chen Ge.

“I can leave this place after my illness is cured?” Chen Ge desired the outside world. He could not keep his eyes away from the female actor. The female actor who was selling tickets at theme park seemed to be able to sense something, and she turned her head to glance at the hospital. The two’s eyes met. Chen Ge subconsciously wanted to move his eyes away, but he soon realized the female actor did not mean him any harm. There was no trace of stigmata or disgust in her eyes. If anything, there was only more than a bit of curiosity. Perhaps she could discern the panic and anxiety within Chen Ge. The female actor in the ghost disguise gifted a light smile at him. After the one to two seconds when their eyes met, the female actor returned to work and started handing out flyers to the passing visitors. She kept holding the advertisement board and tried her best to promote the haunted house.

...

“The former me is just like her, so she is acting like the former me...” Two contradictory thoughts appeared in Chen Ge’s mind. He could not tell whether this was his instinct or this was a symptom of his illness.

He did not dare spend too much time contemplating this further. The pain that felt like it was about to tear his mind open was not something that could be stomached by anyone. Seeing that Chen Ge had returned to his post by the window, Doctor Gao sighed softly and then turned to silently walk away.

The sun over the horizon became softer. A hue of red and orange filtered through the light. When the dawning sun was blocked by the skyscrapers, it appeared as if the sky was on fire. It was beautiful and breath-taking. Chen Ge stood by the window for the whole afternoon. The temperature around him slowly dropped. The gentle night breeze crawled into his collar and caused the man to shiver.

“The sky is getting dark.” He touched his chest. The surveillance video that Doctor Gao had him watch earlier flashed across Chen Ge’s mind. “The beast-like person that appeared in the video, is that really me?”

The camera would not lie. Chen Ge believed subconsciously that the surveillance video was trustworthy evidence because in the past he had often used similar surveillance video to confirm many things. “The other me is called Xu Yin? If the doctor has not lied to me, when will he arrive?”

Looking at his own body, Chen Ge suddenly felt like he could not recognize it anymore. He leaned against the wall and slowly moved back to his bed. The sky was already dark, but Chen Ge did not choose to close the window. For some reason, whenever he thought about doing that, he would be wrought with discomfort. It was as if by closing the window, the air would become suffocating inside the room like he was dropped inside a maze that had no exit. “I wish to leave this place.”

The theme park outside the window had already stopped its day of operation, but the lights were still on at the haunted house. “She does not return to her own home? Or is the haunted house her home? Has she been living in the haunted house? It must have been quite taxing to clean up such a large haunted house on her own. If only she had someone else to go and help her. But wait, why is she alone? Shouldn’t she have her parents with her?”

When this thought crossed her mind, more sharp pain pierced Chen Ge’s head. Parents appeared to be a taboo inside his heart. Whenever he thought about anything related to his parents, his brain would respond with enormous pain. His hands hugged his brain. Chen Ge growled in pain. He curled up into a ball on the bed.

Bang bang bang!

The sound of knocking came as Doctor Gao pushed open the door. When he saw the status Chen Ge was in, he immediately ran to his side and helped him through a series of breathing exercises. After the pain disappeared from his brain, Chen Ge collapsed onto the bed.

“Clear your mind and stop thinking about these other things. Try and get a good night’s sleep.” After Doctor Gao said all that, he moved to the side. It was then that Chen Ge realized there was another person standing behind Doctor Gao. The person was not that old, but his face was expressionless. He appeared to suffer from a lack of emotions.

“Due to various reasons, the two previous patients that shared this room with you have been moved away. This will be your new roommate. His name is Zuo Han.” There were only three beds in total in the room. The patient who was called Zuo Han did not communicate with Chen Ge. With the same frosty expression, he walked to choose the bed that was closest to the door.

“Hopefully, you guys will get to know each other and help each other.” Doctor Gao gave Chen Ge a quick introduction of Zuo Han. During this period, Xu Wan arrived to bring meals into the room. Once Chen Ge and Zuo Han had finished their dinner, Doctor Gao took out the medicine bottle from his pocket. After he personally witnessed Chen Ge and Zuo Han swallow the pills, Doctor Gao left the room with Xu Wan. The night breeze blew into the room. Zuo Han was sitting at the bed close to the door, and Chen Ge was lying on the bed next to the window. There was an empty bed between them. Neither of them spoke. After ten minutes later, Chen Ge was the first to break the silence. “If you think it is cold, I can close the window.”

“That won’t be necessary,” Zuo Han replied snappily. He stood up to inspect the door, and after ensuring the room door was not locked, he climbed back into the bed with his shoes still laced to his feet.

“Aren’t you going to remove your shoes before you go to sleep?” For some reason, the name Zuo Han felt very familiar to Chen Ge, but his brain could not match the name to the face before him. Since he had just swallowed the medicine, his brain was operating conspicuously slower than normal. Zuo Han stared at Chen Ge’s face. After a long time, he coldly said, “The reason I am not removing my shoes is so that I can leave this place as soon as I can.”

“But why?” Chen Ge was reminded of the fact that he had once chosen to escape this place through the evidence shown to him on the surveillance video. His brain was not working as fast as he wished, but his senses were still very sharp. It was as if his instincts were kicking in.

“Because you are inside this room and you are a very dangerous patient.” Zuo Han rolled his eyes at Chen Ge.

“That is pot calling the kettle black. If you weren’t sick, you wouldn’t be here.” Chen Ge did not think he was that dangerous. If anything, he thought his mind was very fuzzy. Whenever he tried to concentrate on something, his mind would respond with pain. But if he stopped thinking for a long time, he felt that the only memories that he had of himself would completely disappear.

“I am not sick. There are indeed many people who wish to harm me in this world. That is the truth, not because I am sick.” Zuo Han scoffed coldly. “Furthermore, even if I am really sick, I am in a much better condition than you are.”

“You know me? You’ve heard about my stories before?” Chen Ge’s eyes that looked at Zuo Han changed.

Zuo Han shook his head. He opened his mouth to reveal the white pill that was hidden under his tongue. “The doctor only fed me half of a pill, but I saw that he fed you two whole pills! So even if we are really sick, your illness is much more serious than mine.”

“You did not swallow the pills that the doctor gave you?”

“Pills are meant for patients who are sick, and I am not sick, so why should I consume the pills?” Zuo Han sat up and walked to the side of the door. His finger slid across his lips and removed the pill without a trace. “The corridor outside the door is heavily surveilled. They want to trap me here forever.”

Squeezing the half pill between his finger, Zuo Han gradually grinded it down. He was very carefully until he grounded the pill into dust. Only then did he stop.

“If you do not mind me asking, what kind of illness did the doctor say you suffer from?” Standing from Chen Ge’s perspective, it was clear that this Zuo Han had something wrong with him.

“They said I suffer from serious paranoia and delusions, but I do not believe a single word that they say because I know the bunch of doctors are up to no good. They do not intend to cure me from the very beginning; they want to harm me.”

“Why would you think that?” A patient diagnosed with paranoia was sent to a hospital. The fact that he refused to take his medication and the strange way that he was acting as well as the belief that he thought the doctors were not trying to save him but harm him, all these were signs that he was indeed suffering from the illness that the doctor said he had.

“No reason.” Zuo Han paused for a moment. “My instincts tell me that things are not that simple. There are many things in this world that are problematic. I cannot tell you exactly why. But if I can leave this hospital, I am sure there will be numerous ways to prove that I am right.”

“Then good luck to you.” Chen Ge glanced at his right leg that was wrapped in plaster. “I couldn’t escape even if I wanted to.”

His body was covered in bruises, one of his legs was broken, and his brain only worked sometimes. Whenever he was deep in thought, he would be assaulted by pain, and apparently, there was a second persona living inside his body that would lash out like a beast. Under these conditions, Chen Ge did not think he would be able to escape from this hospital.

“How I wish to leave this place as well.” Chen Ge looked at theme park outside the window. Theme park was completely dark in the night, there was no light at all.

The room once again returned to silence. Neither Chen Ge nor Zuo Han spoke again. Closing the lamp on the bedside table, Chen Ge lay in the darkness. Being enveloped by darkness, he felt strangely comforted like the eyes that had been watching him could not see him anymore.

“I have not done anything throughout the day, but how come I still feel so drowsy? Is it the effect of the pills?” His eyelids became heavy. Before Chen Ge drifted off to bed, he glanced at the bed where Zuo Han was. Zuo Han did not go to sleep. He did not even change out of his clothes and shoes. He curled on his bed like a panther as his eyes followed the door alertly as if he believed that someone would burst into the room in the next moment.

...

He could hear the sound of nails scratching against wood. Chen Ge opened his eyes blurrily, and he saw someone standing by the room door.

Zuo Han? Chen Ge did not say anything. He pretended to still be asleep while he moved his eyes in the dark. On the bed nearest to the door, the bed was bulging. Zuo Han appeared to have stuffed his pillow under the bedsheet. Without making any noise, Chen Ge quietly watched the figure in the dark. After a few minutes, the figure suddenly turned around and headed directly toward Chen Ge. There was no sound of footsteps. The person moved very slowly before he finally stopped beside Chen Ge's bed.

"You have already woken up?" Zuo Han's voice came from the mouth of the figure.

Chen Ge knew that he had been discovered so he stopped with the pretense. "What are you doing?"

"Of course, I am trying to escape from this place," Zuo Han whispered. "When I first laid eyes on you, I felt you are very familiar. Have we met somewhere else before?"

"Why would you suddenly ask me about that?" Chen Ge also lowered his voice to a whisper.

"When I first moved in there, I noticed there were people standing outside the door. I suspected the doctor and nurse had not wandered away, so I did not dare to share too many words with you." Zuo Han sat on Chen Ge's bed. "I must have met you somewhere else before. I am certain of that. After all, when I first saw you, I knew that you are not dangerous at all. If there is anything that I am certain of, that would be it."

"Since you knew that the doctor was just outside the door, why would you volunteer the information that you did not consume the pill? Aren't you afraid of them finding out?" Chen Ge was confused.

"They already know that I have been skipping my meds. The reason I said that out loud was for them to put their guard down, for them to think that I did not realize they were spying on us." Zuo Han stared at Chen Ge's face. "Use their known secret to undermine them, to give them a feeling that they are in control, but in reality, they have no idea what I am thinking at all."

"You are quite a clever person." Chen Ge instantly understood what Zuo Han was saying. The conversation that they had in the late afternoon was not entirely filled with truths. At the time, Zuo Han suspected the doctor was just outside the door, so he purposely said certain things and did certain things, even going so far as to expose some of the smaller details to confuse the doctor.

“Whenever I encounter anyone in this world, there will be a guardedness that rises inside my heart, and that includes when I am around my parents and the doctors, but you are the only exception.” Zuo Han frowned. “It is very strange. This is the first time I’ve felt so open in front of a stranger.”

“Perhaps because I have a personable face?”

“Perhaps.” Zuo Han lowered his voice even further. “I know how difficult it is to escape from this place, so I need a friend. If you are willing to help me, I can bring you with me.”

“Are you sure we can successfully escape from this hospital?” The image of the beast-like self that Doctor Gao had shown him kept appearing in Chen Ge’s mind. The persona that had gone berserk made him feel fearful.

“I cannot be sure of that, but I know that if we stay here any longer, we will go crazy for real.” Zuo Han sat on the bed in the middle. “It’s now three in the morning. The workers change their shift at midnight. They will go on patrol around the rooms around midnight and 2 am. Each patrol will last for about half an hour.”

“How did you manage to find all this out?” Chen Ge’s eyes that fell on Zuo Han slowly gained a tint of suspicion.

“You worry that I am one of the people sent by the hospital? You are worried that this is all a test?” Not only was Zuo Han not offended, the icy expression on his face softened a lot. “Looks like we are the same kind of people. We bear suspicion regarding this world from the bottom of our hearts. Actually, it is not us who are sick; this world is sick. You and I have already realized that. We are living in a sickened world.”

When he heard the last sentence that Zuo Han said, Chen Ge’s heart was gripped by an inscrutable chill. It was as if the term sickened world represented a strong psychological pressure. He instinctually felt resentful and cautious of these few words. In his mind, only his nemesis would say something like that.

“Is this world really sick, or am I the one who is sick? Who is the one with the illness?” Chen Ge’s head started to throb with pain again.

“Are you alright?” Zuo Han started to frown. He wanted to look for a helper, not a burden, and Chen Ge was too weak physically.

“My head gets painful for no reason. Do you have similar symptoms?” Chen Ge forced himself to calm down. He tried to arrange his emotions and realized something very strange. He was disgusted by the term ‘sickened world’, but the disgust did not include Zuo Han, who uttered the term. It was as if he knew subconsciously that Zuo Han was not the one who was connected to that term.

“That has never happened to me. I need to stay on alert at all times to respond to any possible danger.” Zuo Han returned to his bed and maintained a distance from Chen Ge. “At 3:30 am, I will leave this room. At that time, I need a favor from you.”

“I am not in a good condition. I do not think I will be of any help to you.” Chen Ge still believed that, in their situation, it was best to not act too rashly.

Chapter 1163 - Self-Perception

(2 in 1)

Chapter 1163: Self-Perception (2 in 1)

“What I need you to do is very simple. If any doctor or nurse comes to inspect the room after I leave, you only need to pretend to be asleep.” Zuo Han did not place much hope in Chen Ge. “Do not give away any extra information. No matter what they ask you, just tell them you do not know anything.”

“That’s all?”

“Yes. Oh, other than that, when I return, remember to open the door for me.” Zuo Han lay in bed and stopped talking to Chen Ge. About ten minutes later, Zuo Han glanced at Chen Ge, got out of bed, and walked to the room door. He quietly pulled the door open slightly. After ensuring that there was no one else in the corridor, he snuck out of the room.

...

“This person is highly suspicious of everything. His various actions and words are consistent with the diagnosis that he suffers from paranoia.” Chen Ge sat up in bed. “Should I help him or not?”

Without even thinking too much about it, Chen Ge realized that Zuo Han had not left the room that night just to explore the hospital only. It was also a test for him. He did not trust Zuo Han, but Zuo Han also did not trust him fully. Inside the world of patients with delusional paranoia, the whole world was dangerous, and every corner was hiding a potential enemy. Without moving an inch, Chen Ge sat in his bed for about ten minutes, but Zuo Han still had not returned.

He glanced at the slightly ajar door. He got out of bed. Dragging his leg that was encased in plaster, he slowly moved to the door. Pulling open the door, Chen Ge glanced outside. The corridor of the hospital was not fully dark. The corners of the corridor and the nurse stations had lights.

“This is different to my memory of the hospital. Could it really be true that I completely imagined that eerie and dark midnight hospital?” Chen Ge had managed to work out a way to think about things. As long as he did not venture deep into any contemplation, as long as he did not try to think about the past, the pain would not assault his brain like it was trying to tear it into pieces. “When I think back what happened in the morning, the headache will not come, but whenever I try to think back to what happened before I fainted, the intense pain overwhelms me. This in itself is very strange. What is the meaning of these former memories to me? Why would the pain come just because I wish to remember them?”

Even under the influence of heavy medication, his body’s incredible weakness, and the torment of pain, even with all that, Chen Ge still maintained the ability to think for himself.

“In a way, I am rather similar to Zuo Han. He believes that everyone in this world is trying to harm him, and I also think everyone in this world is lying to me. Does that mean that we are really sick?”

Since he had such similar symptoms to a diagnosed mental patient, then the simple conclusion was that he must be a mental patient as well.

“To be able to realize that I might be sick, this means that I still have some ability to assess my own condition. My power of self-perception has not been weakened... Wait a minute, self-perception?”

The sudden term that burst through the fog of his brain stunned Chen Ge.

“Why does the word self-perception feel so familiar to me? This thing appears to have very great importance for me. I need self-perception or rather something that will be able to help me become self-perceptive!”

Pain rushed at him like waves. Chen Ge appeared to have triggered his former memory again. Different memory fragments collided in his mind, and the pain was so intense that he almost fell unconscious. Chen Ge gripped the edge of the bedpost with both of his hands and gritted his teeth firmly. Blood leaked out from the gums of his teeth, but he still did not make any noise. “Why would I have such a deep impression of the term self-perception?”

His consciousness started to flag. If Chen Ge continued to focus on this, the headache would escalate, and he might just faint on the spot. Taking a deep breath, Chen Ge tried his best to make himself calm down. He followed the breathing method that was taught to him by Doctor Gao. He tried it several times before the pain in his brain slowly faded away. In a short few minutes, Chen Ge’s back was already soaked in cold sweat, and he felt even more drained than before.

“If I’d fainted then, would the other me have appeared? Would I be able to communicate with him?” Just as Chen Ge prepared to return to his own bed, the sound of footsteps suddenly came from the corridor. “Zuo Han does not make any sound when he moves, so this should be the hospital worker.”

Chen Ge still remembered what Zuo Han had asked of him. He hurried back to his bed and pretended to be asleep. After about ten seconds, the sound of footsteps stopped at the door. Narrowing his eyes, Chen Ge glanced toward the door. He was not nervous and did not feel any anxiety. It was only then that he realized how strong his heart really was.

Knock.

Someone knocked lightly on the door. Then, as the sound of footsteps picked up, the person outside the door left.

“What is the meaning of this? The person came to knock on the door just once at three to four am in the morning and then left just like that? Is this a prank by one of the workers?” The person outside the door did not come in or even open the door. This was what confused Chen Ge the most. “Who knocked on the door? The hospital worker? Zuo Han? The doctor? Or another patient at this hospital?”

After some time, the door was pushed open, and Zuo Han walked in frostily.

“So, how did it go?”

“This hospital is enormous. It is a general hospital. The third sick zone where we are located is just a very small part of the whole structure.” Zuo Han walked to Chen Ge’s side and gestured with his hands. “If we assume this pillow is the hospital, I believe we are right about here.”

“Are you confident that you can escape from this place?” Chen Ge was more concerned about that. The strange knocking on the door earlier gave him a sense of urgency. It was as if his instincts were telling him that if he stayed there any longer, something worse was going to happen.

“No.” Zuo Han did not hide the truth from Chen Ge. “There are cameras installed at the start of every corridor, and our floor itself has three hospital workers and two nurses working twenty-four hours a day. The door to leave the hospital is also locked, and I have no idea who might have the key.”

“A key?” With the mention of the key, lightning flashed in Chen Ge’s mind. He was like a drowning man finding a floating log drifting toward him. “I need to find a key!”

“Yes, without that key, we won’t be able to escape from this place.” Zuo Han thought Chen Ge was acting quite strangely, so he did not communicate further with Chen Ge and returned to his own bed.

“Aren’t you going to sleep?” Chen Ge realized Zuo Han was still wearing his clothes and shoes. He leaned to the side and did not look like he intended to sleep at night.

“I do not wish to die in my sleep.” Zuo Han closed his eyes. He hid one of his hands inside his shirt. His palm appeared to be hiding something.

Could it be a knife? It does not look like it, but it should be something sharp. Where did he get it? When he was outside? Based on what the doctor said, Zuo Han is a patient with serious paranoia. Staying inside the same room with such a dangerous character who has access to a possible sharp weapon is very dangerous. Just the thought of it is quite scary.

Chen Ge’s rationality told him that he should be afraid, but to be honest, his heart did not feel any tension at all.

Turning to a more comfortable position, Chen Ge closed his eyes and slept.

...

The door opened, and Chen Ge slowly opened his eyes. The sun outside the window fell on him, and he stretched comfortably.

“This kind of life is not so bad. As long as I do not go and force myself to think about those horrible memories, my life is not much different from that of a normal person.” Chen Ge turned his head around. Zuo Han was still lying in bed. The young man appeared to have fallen asleep only after the sun came up.

“Looks like you got a good sleep last night.” Doctor Gao stood at the door. He did not stop to inspect Zuo Han but strode directly to Chen Ge’s bed. “Did you have any nightmares last night?”

“No.” Chen Ge shook his head. The image of Doctor Gao that he had in his mind was overlapping with this Doctor Gao in real life. Perhaps his mind was slowly recovering. The two previously contradictory memories started to heal and agree with each other. There was a force in his mind that was slowly changing his perspective, to aid him in seeing the truth and helping him slowly and gradually peel away the pain.

“This proves that my treatment is still quite effective.” Doctor Gao was thankful. “Today, I will stop Xu Wan from coming to bring you any more meals. You have stayed for far too long inside this room. It is time for you to work your muscles. I believe it will help immensely with your recovery.”

“That means that I can finally go out? Can I go visit that theme park?” Chen Ge was instantly given a shot of enthusiasm.

Doctor Gao tried to hold in his laughter at Chen Ge’s antics. “You wish to go and visit that female boss of the haunted house, do you? I am afraid that is not possible at the moment. For now, you can only temporary move within the hospital.”

“Okay then.”

“I will grab a pair of crutches for you. Hold on.”

After Doctor Gao left, Zuo Han, who Chen Ge thought was asleep, suddenly opened his eyes. He gestured at Chen Ge and after he got Chen Ge’s attention, he whispered, “Do not believe a word that he says.”

“You’re still awake? Aren’t you tired?” Zuo Han did not reply anymore. He did not move again. It was as if he had been asleep the whole time.

Several minutes later, Doctor Gao returned to the room with the crutches. He helped Chen Ge up from the bed, and the two of them left the room together. Throughout this whole process, Doctor Gao did not spare even a second for Zuo Han. It was unclear whether it was because Doctor Gao did not want to disturb the sleeping Zuo Han or there was another reason.

After breakfast, Chen Ge and Doctor Gao went to the garden outside the hospital building. Because they had already missed spring, there were not that many flowers in the garden, but even so, staying there made one feel quite at ease. The wind blew through the tree branches and caressed their faces like a pair of gentle hands. The sunlight filtered through the foliage and danced on the ground like swimming goldfish. The shrubs at the sides of the corridors were neatly trimmed. The whole place was like a verdant heaven in the middle of the hospital.

“Have I been lying in the sickroom for a very long time now?” Chen Ge stood with the help of the crutches and slowly moved his body.

“Why would you suddenly ask a question like that?”

“Because it feels like I have not felt so relaxed in a very long time. In fact, I do not think I have felt anything quite so serene before.” Chen Ge touched the bark of the trees around him to feel the grain under his hand. Then he found a quiet place and sat down on a wooden bench.

“It is not that you have not experienced something like this before. It is just that you are currently trapped inside a room with no light, and you have already forgotten about that feeling.” Doctor Gao sat down beside Chen Ge. He seemed to like chatting with Chen Ge.

“A room with no light?”

“This room with no light is your heart. You took the key and locked yourself inside it. All I can do is try to figure out a way to help you walk out from that room.” Doctor Gao looked into the sky. It was unclear what he was thinking.

“Does this mean my illness will be cured after I leave this room?” Chen Ge asked seriously.

Doctor Gao shook his head. “Mental illness is different from psychological illness. Mental illness cannot be corrected with only self-determination. It needs to be combined with medication. Helping you walk out from the room in your heart is just the first step.”

“Then doctor, how would you consider that I have already cured from my illness? Actually, to be honest, at this moment, I feel like I am not that different from a normal person.” Chen Ge leaned against the back of the wooden bench, and his eyes were glassy with confusion.

“You still have not realized that you are sick. This is evidence that you are still quite a distance away from full recovery. The knowledge of illness and self-perception are the basis that we doctors use to determine the severity of a patient’s condition.” Doctor Gao started to chat with Chen Ge.

“Self-perception? What is that?” Chen Ge grabbed the edge of bench and kept his head lowered. He did not want other people to see the current expression on his face.

“Self-perception is the patient’s ability to diagnose his own mental health and condition. It enables him to see whether his own mental health is good or not. It is clear that you do not have any self-perception at this stage of your illness.”

“But I still feel that I am not so different from a normal person. The only difference is the occasional headache.” Chen Ge lifted his head, and his hands reached to his temple. The headache appeared to have visited him earlier. Doctor Gao did not say anything to counter Chen Ge. He merely lifted his finger to point at a man who was talking to himself at a pergola that was not that far away from them.

The man was about thirty, and he was also wearing a patient’s garb. He stood under the sunlight and kept mumbling to a spot that was under the shade of the pergola. Chen Ge felt the man look incredibly familiar, but in that moment, the name could not come to his mind.

“His name is Zhang Jingjiu. He once stayed in the same room as you, but we realized after he had moved in with you, his condition kept on worsening, so we moved him to another room.”

“Zhang Jingjiu?”

“Yes, his family runs a big winery in Xin Hai. He is not that old. His future should have been incredibly bright, but unfortunately, something went wrong with his mental state.”

“What kind of illness is he suffering from?” When Chen Ge heard the name Zhang Jingjiu, his expression twitched slightly.

“Undifferentiated schizophrenia.” Doctor Gao stared at Zhang Jingjiu, watching his every move. “This patient is under the impression that he can see ghosts.”

“Ghosts?”

“Of course, there are no ghosts in this world. Actually, we have conducted many tests on his senses and realized that they are different from a normal person’s,” Doctor Gao said casually. “Unlike normal people, he finds it difficult to focus his senses. He keeps feeling that there is someone talking to him. This condition does not improve even when he is inside his room alone, and his brain has some issue when processing sound. I will give you a simple example. When a normal person hears a simple sentence, their brain will contemplate the meaning of this sentence, but he will hear them in individual words, so it means that every single sentence that he hears will be fragmented when it reaches his mind.”

When Doctor Gao was chatting with Chen Ge, the patient called Zhang Jingjiu turned his head around to them. His eyes suddenly widened as he ran over toward them. Before Doctor Gao and Chen Ge could even react, Zhang Jingjiu pulled on Chen Ge’s arm as he tried to pull Chen Ge off from the wooden bench. However, he did not realize Chen Ge’s leg was injured, so in the end, Chen Ge was dragged up and was left careening to the ground. This came without any warning, so even Chen Ge did not have the time to cushion his fall.

“Help! Nurse! We need help over here!” Doctor Gao and a patrolling worker dragged Zhang Jingjiu to the side. When he was being dragged away, he still kept screaming at Chen Ge, “Ghost! Ghost! Ghost!”

“Are you alright? Are you injured?” Doctor Gao helped Chen Ge up from the ground.

“I’m fine. It’s just a fall. It’s nothing serious.” Chen Ge sat back down on the bench. He thought the whole episode was rather strange. From Zhang Jingjiu’s parting words and tone, it was clear that he was afraid of ghosts, but if he was afraid of ghosts, why would he voluntarily come to grab me? And after he failed to do that, he kept screaming the word ghost at me...

Chen Ge lowered his head to pat away the dust from his clothes, and at the same time, he moved his eyes away from Doctor Gao. He should be trying to warn me that there is a ghost around me. He believes Doctor Gao is a ghost.

Chapter 1164 - Such a Large Cat (2in1)

Chapter 1164: Such a Large Cat (2in1)

Inside a mental hospital, a mental patient was hinting at another patient that the doctor could be a ghost, was this not a sign that they were both sick? From the perspective of a normal person, they would definitely think the patient who said the doctor was a ghost had to be suffering from some kind of illness but Chen Ge did not share that thought, he subconsciously believed that the man's words were worth studying. In other words, his subconscious also told him that there was some problem with this Doctor Gao.

His brain started to hurt again. Chen Ge gritted his teeth strongly. He was now very lost. His way of thinking was obviously different from a normal person but did that equate to the fact that he was ill?

Admitting that one was really suffering from mental illness was something difficult for a stubborn person because once admission was made, it was basically an overhaul of said person's entire worldview. When a person's worldview and thinking framework were changed, then could the person still be called the same person anymore?

He did not think any further, Chen Ge cleared his mind and stopped reaching for his memory in the past. The pain slowly faded away. It had been less than 24 hours since he woke up from his previous fainting spell, but he had already mastered the way to avoid the pain. And this was under the condition where he had lost most of his memory and he was acting for the most part on his instinct. Sitting on the wooden chair, Chen Ge who had his emotion adjusted turned to look at Doctor Gao, he was shocked to realize that Doctor Gao was currently closely watching him. The pair of sharp eyes stared directly into Chen Ge's eyes, as if he could look directly through Chen Ge's skin and see what was moving in Chen Ge's brain, this made the latter feel quite uncomfortable.

...

"Among the doctors at this hospital, there is such a statement that we share, do not contemplate too deep into the words that the patients say, we only need to believe in the reliability of science and the objectivity of the diagnosis and provide them with the correct prescription.” Doctor Gao said slowly, “This was our responsibility to the patients as well as to ourselves.’

“The patient appears to really believe that he can see ghosts. Doctor Gao, do you think there is actually ghost in this world?” Chen Ge knew Doctor Gao had noticed something. He merely said something to change the subject but to his surprise when he asked whether he believed there was actually ghost in this world, the deepest part of his brain started to blind him with intense pain again! It felt as if someone had asked him this particular question before!

The sudden pause caused Chen Ge to hug his head, he collapsed to the ground and rolled about in pain. Doctor Gao at his side quickly went to grab Chen Ge’s hands. “Quick, calm down and follow the breathing method that I taught you!”

3 to 4 minutes later, Chen Ge finally returned to normal. Doctor Gao also slowly replaced the bottle of medicine back into his pocket, if Chen Ge did not calm down soon, he was planning to feed Chen Ge another 2 pills.

“Did you remind yourself of some very bad memory from the past again?”

“Yes.” Chen Ge nodded, he would not purposely underestimate other people’s intelligence so he did not deny it when the truth was so obvious. “I feel like I have met ghosts before, many different type of ghosts in fact.”

“That is normal, in your own delusion, the identity that you have given yourself is the operator of a Haunted House and thus your employees were various types of ghosts.” Doctor Gao pointed at the fence around the garden. “The source of all your illusion is that Haunted House at Xin hai Theme Park, you have subconsciously posited yourself into the shoes of that female actor. The business of the Haunted House is dying out and most of the employees have quitted, therefore, in your imagination, you created many different kind ghosts and had them become actual workers at your Haunted House to help you resolve the issue of a lack of manpower.”

“Impossible...”

“Why would the employees of the Haunted House leave in the first place?”

“Because there are too little visitors and I could not pay their salary.”

“Do you need to pay salary to these ghosts if they were hired to replace the posts held by the living employees?”

“Well, of course not.”

“There you go. That is the basis of your delusion.” Doctor Gao helped support Chen Ge back to the chair. “In your imagined world, you have possessed everything but nothing has changed in real life. The only thing you could do is to sneak glimpses at that girl behind the window and she is still facing the dire situation of the Haunted House closing.” Doctor Gao sighed. “Do you know what is the thing that worries me the most now?”

“What is it?” Chen Ge asked since it felt like it was the right thing to do.

“The most that worries me the most is that after the Haunted House really shut down from business, you might not be able to see that female actor anymore.” When Doctor Gao said that, Chen Ge could feel his heart grip with pain. “That is the world of reality, it will not change due to a person’s determination. When the wind blows, the grass will bent, you think you are the wind but actually we are all small grass.” There was a trace of sadness in Doctor Gao’s voice. “I do not wish to shatter your beautiful imagination but I know if that Haunted House suddenly close, you might lose the only thing that keep you going and that might cause your condition to suddenly worsen.”

Chen Ge did not respond with anything. Doctor Gao though understood the conflicting feelings that Chen Ge was going through, “What you need to do now is to stop submerging yourself in the imagined world that you have created as a shell and try to a brave step forward to start a new life. Instead of waiting for the Haunted House to close and your condition to worsen and lose the chance to leave the hospital ever again, why don’t you cooperate with us and our treatment so that you can leave this hospital to go find her as soon as possible.”

Every word that Doctor Gao said was reasonable and logical and they were for Chen Ge’s own good, they were all concerns that Doctor Gao had towards Chen Ge.

“Is all my past really just an illusion?” Once Chen Ge imagined the closing down of the Haunted House, there would be an inscrutable pain that wrapped around his heart. This kind of pain was different from physical pain, it was hard to describe, but it was buried deep inside his heart.

“Actually you already have the answer yourself. In your imagined stories, there are many symbolism taken from real life. Did you not realize that in your stories there are more than a handful of psychiatrists and psychologists? They have been everywhere in your whole story and they were always there when your storied life has reached a turning point, do you think they are all just a mere coincidence?”

“Are they not?” Chen Ge’s eyes were dimming. In his shattered memory, there were indeed the presence of multiple psychologists and psychiatrists and each of them seemed to have their own stories and they were very important characters in Chen Ge’s supposed illusion. It was a doctor in a large doctor’s coat that had been killing the younger versions of himself multiple times, the head of the ghost stories society was Doctor Gao, his parents tasked a Doctor Chen to look after himself and if he was not mistaken, the most recent one was a... Doctor Fang? His brain appeared to be punctured by many needles. Chen Ge shivered uncontrollably but determined to pull through.

“The timing of these doctors’ appearance match up perfectly with our medical invention in real life, in reality your stories are just an extension of your real life, you will soon realize that.” Doctor Gao chatted for a while with Chen Ge and then there appeared to be some emergency at the other sick zone, so after feeding Chen Ge another 2 pills, Doctor Gao left in a hurry and left Chen Ge alone in the hospital garden.

“I so wish that I can go to visit that Haunted House in person.” After swallowing the pills, Chen Ge’s mind dulled and the sense of pain faded away. Time appeared to slow down and sleepiness caught up to him. “But a life like this is indeed far more comfortable compared to the scary life that I have led in my imagined stories.” As time continued to move, the outside temperature started to rise. Many doctors and patients escaped indoors until there was no one left around Chen Ge.

And right at that moment, a rustling sound came from the nearby bush. Chen Ge slowly turned his head to look at it. The small branches were pushed away and the head of a cat peeked out from behind the bush. The cat had a snowy white fur coat and it had different colored eyes. When it saw Chen Ge, it immediately bounded over and with a leap, it landed on Chen Ge’s knee. The leg that was encased in plaster suffered the weight of the white cat. It caused Chen Ge to grit his teeth in pain. “Holy cow, you are one big and heavy cat.”

Probably due to its unique breed, the white cat was much larger than a normal house cat, it weighed much heavier than it appeared. But the key issue was the white cat appeared to not know that at all, it very expertly attempted to crawl onto Chen Ge’s shoulder. Holding the white cat by both of his hands, Chen Ge placed it on the space next to him on the chair. “Why would there be a cat at the hospital? Are you a stray that has wandered in from outside the hospital?”

Chen Ge looked at the cat and the cat looked back at it. The cat’s eyes were very spiritual, they appeared to contain many very different emotions.

“Have you been abandoned by our master?” Chen Ge asked the white cat but to his surprise, after he said that, the cat looked at him with clear confusion. “Is it for real? Or I am hallucinating again? How come it feels like the cat is communicating with me with its eyes?” Chen Ge mumbled to himself, not realizing how strangely he was acting.

The white cat tilted its head to study Chen Ge for a long time when suddenly a trace of cunningness crossed its eyes. It suddenly leaped into the air and waved its paw to smack Chen Ge on the back of his head. Then as if worried of revenge from Chen Ge, it quickly slithered away as fast as it could. Sitting on the wooden chair, Chen Ge was stunned. He held the back of his head and said, “What the, I am already 26 but I was just whacked on the back of my head by a fucking cat?”

The white cat hid inside the bush that was several metres away watching Chen Ge, the confusion in its eyes grew even deeper.

“if not for the plaster on my feet, I would show you.” The drowsiness that came to Chen Ge due to the medication had disappeared completely. He felt weirdly energized now. Looking at the white cat hiding in the bush, there was a strange familiarity with it but it did not go further than that. There was no memory about any cat in his fragmented past. Be it in his illusioned stories or in real life, this white cat did not seem to exist in either of them. In other words, the memory fragments in his mind were only related to people but there was none that was related to any cat. After hearing the threat from Chen Ge, the white cat was not only not afraid, it ran back towards him.

“Well, I have to give you some merit for your courage.” Chen Ge looked into the white cat’s pair of confused eyes. He too thought this was quite strange, because the cat appeared to recognize him. “Are you a stray that I have kept before my car accident? Or I often come here to feed you food when I was hospitalized?” The white cat did not know how to speak. After it realized Chen Ge really failed to recognize it, the light in its eyes dimmed. It bounced around Chen Ge and kept using its head to brush against Chen Ge’s calf.

“Stop doing that, you are pushing so hard. The plaster might break if you continue to do that.” Chen Ge picked up the white cat and placed it on his knees. Looking at the white cat’s dual colored eyes, the sense of familiarity only continued to grow but nothing concrete came to him. Perhaps it sensed something was wrong with Chen Ge, the white cat kept meowing and it went as far as biting Chen Ge on the bottom of his pants as if it was trying to drag Chen Ge to some hidden location. Holding the crutches, Chen Ge stood up and followed the white cat deeper into the hospital. They walked through the entire garden until they reached the fence of the hospital. On the other side of the road was the western side of Xin Hai theme park, the white cat crawled out through the gap in the fences and then turned back to look at Chen Ge.

“You want me to leave with you? You wish for me to leave this hospital?” Chen Ge looked at the fence that was 2 metres tall and then he shook his head. Currently his body was very weak and one of his legs was wrapped in plaster. He had difficulty walking much less climb over a fence that was 2 metres tall. Seeing Chen Ge was about to turn back, the white cat crawled back in, it bit on the bottom of Chen Ge’s pants and refused to let go. About 5 minutes later, when the sound of footsteps came from down the distance, the white cat finally let of and escaped through the gap in the fence again.

“Chen Ge? What are you doing here?” Doctor Gao appeared behind Chen Ge.

“I just wanted to come to look at the theme park closer. Perhaps if I am lucky, I might chance a look at her.” The anticipation was clear in Chen Ge’s eyes. His reason was absolutely solid and it did not appear that Doctor Gao suspect anything else.

“It is about time we return to your room.”

“Okay.” Chen Ge followed behind Doctor Gao. After he took a few steps, he turned back to glance at the fence again. The cat was hiding inside the bushes outside the fence, half of its head was poking out and its dual colored eyes were following Chen Ge closely. When he returned to the room, Chen Ge saw that Zuo Han was still lying on his bed in his bed, even his pose did not change since the last time he left.

“Did you not go for lunch?” Chen Ge felt like perhaps he was born a kind person. Even if he had lost part of his memory, he would instinctually show kindness towards others.

“I am not hungry.” Zuo Han sat up in bed and opened the door for a gap. After ensuring there was no one else outside the door, he sighed in relief. “Where did the doctor take you this morning? Did he conduct some hypnosis on you? Or he has force fed you some other medication?”

“We just went for a sit at the garden. In the middle of it, Doctor Gao had to leave in a hurry because something else happened.” Chen Ge sat down in his bed and then he said in a smile. “Oh right, something very interesting happened to me today. There is a stray inside this hospital, it appears to like me a lot. It sticks to me like it was my pet.”

“Stray cats are usually highly alert, they will not show affection to any random stranger, perhaps that cat is really somehow related to you.” Zuo Han opened the zipper on the back of the pillow and took out several pieces of paper, there appeared to be many things written on them. “Sometimes animals are much more reliable than people because they do not have complicated emotions and most of the time, they are acting out of pure instinct.”

“But I have no memory of that cat at all, or to be more precise, all the memories that I have are in fragments and whenever I try to think about the past, my brain would be assaulted by intense headache.” Chen Ge’s words resonated with Zuo Han. He put down the pillow and silently walked towards Chen Ge. “You are in the same condition as I am. Even though I have not lost any of my memory, I realize there are many logical inconsistencies with them!”

“What do you mean by that?”

“It means that someone has messed with my memory, god damn it! I am very familiar with this feeling but I do not know why!” Zuo Han hissed through his teeth. “There are more than a fair of contradictory details in my memory. Perhaps the person who tempered with my memory thought this was the first time this had happened to me so they were not too cautious, they had no idea that I would suspect my own memory as well!"

"Brother, even though your various symptoms are indeed very similar to paranoia, but I still think you are one hell of an impressive person." Chen Ge could sense the special presence radiating off Zuo Han. Compared to Zuo Han, he felt much too plebian.

"That is where you are wrong. I have gone around to ask some questions, those kind of white pills are not meant for any person. The doctors will only use them in powdered form when some of the patients are acting up, but in your case? You have to take them 3 times a day and 2 pills each time! I suspect this hospital is trying to kill you through over medication!" the way Zuo Han looked at Chen Ge was filled with caution.

"I think you are stretching a bit there."

"Never mind, just consider it a warning. Other than that, you have to be careful about this too. Better keep your voices to yourself in the morning, the walls have ears." Zuo Han said and then returned to his bed. He still did not remove his shoes like he was ready to escape at any moment.

After lunch, Chen Ge had a counselling session with Doctor Gao in the afternoon. Being fed the pills multiple times, his illness did not surface anymore. A peaceful and beautiful day ended just like that, the sky started to darken down the horizon. After taking the medication, Chen Ge soon slumbered into his sleep. At around midnight, he was shaken away awake by Zuo Han.

"What's wrong?"

"Shush." Zuo Han pointed at the room door and signaled for Chen Ge to pay attention to his sense of hearing. Leaning on the door, Chen Ge perked up his ears to listen. He could hear the wailing of a man from down the corridor, he appeared to be repeating the same word—ghost.

"Zhang Jingjiu?"

"Do you know him?"

"I have seen him once in the morning, he was grabbing my hands and shouting ghost, ghost, ghost at me." Chen Ge told the incident in the morning to Zuo Han.

“It is obvious that he is in extreme pain, the hospital is clearly torturing him using some kind of method.” Zuo Han frowned. “The hospital will not torture him for no reason, it must be that he has made some mistake.”

After that Zuo han turned to look at Chen Ge. “Could it be that he has leaked the secret to you? This whole hospital is really filled with ghosts?”

Chapter 1165 - I Need More Stimulations (2in1)

Chapter 1165: I Need More Stimulations (2in1)

“The whole hospital is filled with ghost? How is that possible? If you say one doctor or one patient is possessed by ghost, then perhaps I can believe you but the fact that the whole hospital could be haunted is rather hard to believe.” Chen Ge did not voice his real thought, he was merely following the rationality that was set up in his mind.

“Well, to know whether it is true or not, we only need to go and ask, right?” Zuo Han was very courageous. “The screams came from above us. This hospital zone that we are in has 7 floors in total, so the sickroom that he is in should be on the fifth or sixth floor.”

“Are you sure you want to take this risk? If you run into any worker outside the room, then you will be in very serious trouble. I believe it is a very serious offense to wander around in the hospital at night,” Chen Ge was very cautious.

...

“I am not the one taking this risk alone, we are taking this risk together?”

“We?”

“You said it yourself that it was Zhang Jingjiu who came to pull on you voluntarily and even called out to remind you of something this morning, don’t you think that is rather abnormal?” Zuo Han stood at the door and kept on luring Chen Ge to join him like the devil. “I have encountered that patient before, all he ever did was to talk to himself. He would never actively approach someone, therefore, this proves that you are a unique presence to him.”

“But I have no memory of him at all.” Chen Ge did not dare to think of his past memory lest the pain suddenly came back again.

“Brother, I am telling you the truth. You might not believe me but the pills that the hospital is feeding you every day is used to suppress your memory, their intention is not to cure you but to change you into someone that they approve.” Zuo Han lowered his voice, “This world has its own set of rules that it operates on, and those who do not abide by the rules are viewed as patients, in contrast those who are willing to fit into the rules are considered normal persons, this is a whole entirely abnormal oppressive system.”

Seeing that Chen Ge’s conviction was slowly shaken, Zuo Han continue his persuasion, “You once told me that the moment you started to think about your past, the headache would come, is that a symptom of any kind of mental illness? If you ask me, they have tempered with your brain and placed some kind mechanism there that prevent you from thinking about your past.”

“But why would they do something like that? Why would you stop me from remembering my own past?”

“Perhaps the truth of this sickened world is hidden in your memory, in any case, your memory must be something that is feared by the hospital and thus they have to do everything within their power to stop you from remembering it, this is a very simple logical observation.” Zuo Han slowly convinced Chen Ge. In the end, the two of them decided to wait for the patrol to finish and then they would the room together to investigate. At around 1 am, Zuo Han and Chen Ge pushed open the room door and exited to the corridor.

“There are cameras at the corner of the stairs but the people on duty might not be paying attention to the surveillance at all times. As long as we can move fast enough, they might not be able to detect us.”

“So, essentially we’re hedging our lives on a bet?”

“There is no other way, because if we destroy the cameras, that would be directly telling the hospital that someone is trying to resist the hospital so all we can do now is to bet.” Zuo Han looked at the plaster around Zuo Han’s leg. “When did you injure your leg? How long will it take to recover? I do not wish to carry an incapacitated person with me when I try to escape from this place.”

“They told me I ran into a car accident about a year ago but theoretically speaking, any injury suffered then would have been healed by now so this broken leg must have nothing to do with the car accident. Therefore, it must have occurred after I fell sick.”

“Well, isn’t that interesting. In other words, you are telling me a mental patient suddenly broke his leg while inside the custody of the hospital.” Zuo Han looked at Chen Ge coldly, “You poor thing who has lost your memory, do you still think the hospital has your best interest at heart?"

"You suspect it is the hospital who broke my leg?"

"All the beautiful things are an illusion. Cruelty and sickness are the main theme of this world." Zuo Han's eyes were bloodshot. "How about a bet? I bet that your mental illness will be cured before your leg does."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Through many different observations, I believe you are the most dangerous patient here. After your leg recovers, the hospital will be anxious, therefore, some kind of accident will befall you and various kind of supposed coincidence will cause your body to constantly in a stated of injury." Zuo Han's eyes were shining darkly. "When I think about something, I have the habit of seeing from the worst possible outcome. I do not have any anticipation towards the innate kindness of human nature. If my words have offended you, I hope you do not mind, in the future, you will realize who is really looking out for you." Some people would run into the most beautiful accident in the deepest despair and some would encounter the cruellest truth in the most beautiful dream, Chen Ge did not think Zuo Han's words were in any way offensive, if anything, he agreed with Zuo Han's point of view. It was then that he realized he was slowly agreeing with the perspective of a patient diagnosed with paranoiac delusion.

"When we see Zhang Jingjiu later, no matter what happens, I need you to be calm." Zuo Han led Chen Ge to the corner of the stairs. The lights in the hospital were still on at night but the lights provided no warmth. Every single ray was radiating a chill and walking down the corridor, it could cause one's hair to stand on end.

"The hospital in the morning is different from how it is at night." Chen Ge also did not know how to describe this change. He merely felt that the hospital that he had seen in the final fragment of his memory was slowly overlapping with the hospital before his eyes, the illusions appeared to be returning. Zuo Han and Chen Ge were incredibly lucky. They came all the way to the fourth floor and they did not encounter any hospital worker, the whole area was very quiet.

"This place gives me the feeling more like a slaughterhouse than a mental asylum. Everywhere there is blood that we cannot see and souls whose mouths were sewn shut are hiding at every corner." Zuo Han's tone was getting crazier. At this moment, he looked like a quintessential mental patient that Chen Ge had seen on television show before. The patient was seriously ill but he had not realized it, in fact he thought he was still in very good condition. "Starting from this floor, all the doors are locked, looks like the patients who stay here are all serious mental cases." Chen Ge and Zuo Han came from the normal sick zone, their room door was not locked, they could leave and enter freely. The doctors and nurses could enter their room freely as well. But the rooms on the fourth floor were completely different. There was a lock outside the door and the patients inside had their freedom limited, if they wanted to leave, they needed to get the permission from the doctors and nurses first.

"Thankfully, there are windows on the doors or else we would have wasted our journey tonight." Just as Zuo Han and Chen Ge arrived at the fourth floor, they heard the echoing sound of footsteps coming from the stairs below them.

"The sound comes from the duty room, the patrols are coming!" Zuo Han had already scouted out the location of the duty rooms and the nurse stations. He grabbed Chen Ge by his hand, carried the man over his shoulders. "Jesus Christ, why are you so heavy!"

"Where are we going?"

"Shush, keep your voice down." Zuo Han carried Chen Ge who could not move that swiftly to the nurse station at the end of the corridor. Both he and Chen Ge hid under the counter at the nurse station.

"We're hiding at a place like this? Are you sure they won't come and check this place?" Chen Ge thought Zuo Han had a really big heart.

"After midnight, the workers and nurses would switch their shifts. I have been observing them for the past few days. The night workers like to stay in the duty room on the first floor, they rarely come to check the nurse stations." Zuo Han was the kind of person who had a brave heart but a careful mind. He was never going to fight a war that he had not planned but he was not going to miss out on a good opportunity due to hesitation either. The footsteps slowly approached. The two patients stopped talking at the same moment as if they had already planned this beforehand. Both of them appeared strangely calm. The footsteps eventually walked past them but neither of their heart rate had changed like this was something that they would encounter every day.

“You need to memorize the location of the nurse stations, there are one each on the first floor, fourth floor and seventh floor. If we run into any serious accident, I will distract the workers while you try and go hide at the nurse station.” Zuo Han’s tone was still frosty and it carried no emotion but Chen Ge could discern the actual concern that the man had for him. It was hard to imagine that a patient who had paranoid delusion would be so considerate towards others. Through this details, Chen Ge started to reconsider the words that Zuo Han had told him earlier.

Chen Ge’s brain would always be surfeited by contradictory thoughts. Every time he tried to think, these two opposite thoughts would collide and it felt like they were trying to tear his brain apart. One of the parties was the hospital that was represented by Doctor Gao, and the other party was the patients represented by himself. The former symbolized recovery and bright future while the latter symbolized a dark past and a whirlpool of despair.

Sometimes, Chen Ge also did not know how to choose. The medicine and the peacefulness that he was experiencing in real life was slowly dulling his senses and convincing him to accept his current life but at that moment, Zuo Han had shown up in his life. They were both patients but Zuo Han had placed a seed of different thought in Chen Ge’s mind.

After the footsteps left the fourth floor, Zuo Han and Chen Ge climbed out from behind the nurse station. Zhang Jingjiu’s voice should come from this floor. Zuo Han and Chen Ge had no idea which room he was staying in so they had no choice but to look through the door one by one. Both of them knew how Zhang Jingjiu looked like so each of them was responsible for one side of the corridor, they leaned on the small window on the door and looked into the rooms.

Most of the patients were asleep after taking their medication, but some of the patients were doing strange things inside their rooms. For example, one of the patients were shivering uncontrollably under his bed and there was another patient who folded a piece of paper into the shape of a fruit knife and she kept stabbing it at her pillow. These were rather explainable symptoms of mental illness. Chen Ge moved to the middle of the corridor. Just as he was about to look into the next window, he suddenly realized there was a face looking at him on the window!

The patient was standing at the other side of the door and the face was placed at the window. The two pairs of eyes met, Chen Ge was given quite a fright. The sensation of numbness over his skull and the shot of adrenaline over his body brought back a sense of nostalgia.

[Is this the sensation of fear?] Chen Ge's lips split into a smile. He did not feel any discomfort, in fact his brain started to become more active and excitement lit up his eyes. His hands pressing on the door, Chen Ge looked at the patient on the other side. The patient inside the door was like a puppet without soul, after looking at Chen Ge for a long time, he slowly wandered away.

"Found him." Zuo Han whispered softly. Realizing that there was no response from Chen Ge, he turned back to look and he saw Chen Ge was looking through one of the doors with excitement on his face.

"What are you doing?" Zuo Han did not dare to raise his voice, one was because he was afraid he might attract the attention of the workers and two was for some reason, his instinct told him to be careful around Chen Ge.

"Oh, it's nothing." Chen Ge's expression returned to normal. The fear merely gave him a temporarily sense of stimulation. The two patients squeezed at the door outside Zhang Jingjiu's room. At that moment, Zhang Jingjiu was lying on the ground, his eyes were lifeless. There was no obvious wound on his body but the man's face was scarily pale. Zuo Han tried to open the door but the door was already locked, he could not push it open. He knocked on the door lightly. Zhang Jingjiu inside the room appeared to have his soul taken away from him. He did not budge from his position and did not move at all.

"Looks like we will have to find a way to approach him in the morning. Now I am afraid that they might send Zhang Jingjiu to the quarantine area. Outsiders will not be able to enter that place and patients who are sent in rarely come out again." Zuo Han appeared agitated.

"I came out from the quarantine area. Don't give up just yet, let me try." Chen Ge stood at the door and knocked on it. He very easily called out Zhang Jingjiu's name. Zhang Jingjiu who did not react to Zuo Han's voice earlier suddenly blinked his eyes when he heard Chen Ge's voice. He slowly turned his head around to look at the door. When he saw Chen Ge's face, the fear in his eyes subsided. His lips moved like he was trying his best to say something.

"I think he is calling me boss. Why is that?" Chen Ge had no idea why he knew how to read life, it appeared like this was one of the talents that he was born with.

“From what I hear, Zhang Jingjiu’s father is a CEO of a big company at Xin Hai, he is a disreputable second generation young master, why would he call you boss?” Zuo Han turned to Chen Ge with confusion and then he realized Chen Ge’s face was quite scary. His forehead and cheeks were bursting with black and green veins. “Are, are you alright?” Zuo Han instantly noticed something was wrong. He grabbed Chen Ge by his shoulder and tried to move him away but a chill came from his palm. Chen Ge’s body temperature was rapidly dropping, Zuo Han had a moment thought that he was carrying a dead body. When Chen Ge was ‘acting up’, hurried footsteps came from downstairs, the workers chose this timing to inspect the corridors.

“Am I that unlucky?” Zuo Han looked at Chen Ge. With a grit of his teeth, he carried Chen Ge on his back again and he started to run away from the sound of the footsteps. Chen Ge on his back became heavier and heavier. Zuo Han bit on his teeth. “This is just one person but how come it feels like there are multiple person crawling on my back?”

Avoiding the cameras, and predicting the workers’ location through their footsteps, Zuo Han drafted the safest route to the nearest nurse station in his mind. He even predicted that the two workers might move separately so he used the timing that they had split up and finally successfully brought Chen Ge back to their room. After closing the door, Zuo Han directly deposited Chen Ge on the bed. Then he crumpled to the ground and gasped greedily for air. “In the end, I found no clues and I was almost exposed. Next time, I think I should just go on my own.” Zuo Han knew now was still not the time to rest. He adjusted his breathing and dragged Chen Ge to the bed near the window.

“Can you hear me?” Zuo Han tried to communicate with Chen Ge but then he realized not only Chen Ge’s face, the latter’s body started to surface with black veins too. The blood veins were like poisonous snakes, they looked incredibly scary. “Bursting of blood capillaries and they appear black and green in collar. A person of slender build would have this problem more often. Even though he looks weak, his body is incredibly muscular, especially his arms and legs, they are as muscular as athletes that I have once dissected! That takes away the possibility of weakness of constitution, the lack of red blood cells or irregularity of cellular metabolism will not cause this kind of symptoms either. This kind of symptoms is most commonly accompanied by poisoning, so my guess is right all along! The doctor has mixed the pills with poison! This is the aftereffect of overdosing on poison and medicine!”

Zuo Han was wrecking his mind on how to cure Chen Ge. About several minutes later, Chen Ge who was in a semi-conscious state had his body temperature gradually rise back to normal and the blood capillaries started to fade away.

“A medical miracle? The man is still able to recover after that kind of status?” Zuo Han really wanted to split open Chen Ge’s body to inspect the internal make up of his body. His gaze gradually regained focus. Chen Ge recovered his rationality, “It was you who carried me back here?”

“Who else do you think it would be? I have carried you for the whole journey back. I am definitely not going to bring you with me next time.” Zuo Han massaged his shoulders. “Your body looks even but why are you so heavy?”

“Perhaps because I carry too many things on me.” Chen Ge pushed against the bed with both of his hands but he failed to sit up even after multiple tries.

“What happened to you earlier?”

“I cannot explain it myself. When I saw through Zhang Jingjiu’s lips that he was calling me boss, my fragmented memories in my brain felt like they were going to explode. Multiple voices rang out at the same time and they were all calling me boss.” Chen Ge took in a deep breath. “I have not heard most of these voices before, but in that moment, I have already memorized their voices. If I can hear them again, I definitely will be able to recognize them!”

“That was all?”

“There is another discovery that I found. When we were inspecting the rooms earlier, I was given a fright by one of the patients. The sensation of horror made my mind active, there seems to be some kind of connection between myself and this sensation of horror.” Chen Ge held his brain.

“You like to be scared? What kind of strange obsession is that?” Zuo Han took several steps back.

“I do not know how to explain it, but when I am faced with this emotion, the memory fragments in my mind appear to come alive, they actively connect with each other and show me the past that I have forgotten...” Chen Ge tried to think back of that feeling and then he said with certainty. “I need more stimulations.”

Chapter 1166 - Exchanged Identity (2in1)

Chapter 1166: Exchanged Identity (2in1)

Chen Ge who was lying on the bed inside the mental asylum had the expression and said the words that perfectly matched the environment that he was in.

[Why does his condition become so serious at night when he was acting so normally in the morning?] Zuo Han sat back in his bed and stayed far away from Chen Ge. “I study forensic science, I have been studying for so many years and I have not heard of any cases where a person’s lost memory could be recovered through constant stimulation of horror.”

“You forensic science students deal with dead bodies, the situation of a living person might be more complicated.”

...

“Do you know how low your body temperature was earlier when you were acting up? The only difference that you had then compared to a dead person was you still possessed a heart beat.” Zuo Han’s initial thought was to cooperate with Chen Ge but now he gradually realized that might not be such a good idea because he slowly noticed how dangerous his roommate could be, the man might lose control and ambush him at any moment. From Zuo Han’s perspective, Chen Ge was not only suffering from mental sickness that simple, there had to be more secrets on this man.

“Is it possible that this hospital has been conducting human experiment on its patients?” Zuo Han tried to use his knowledge to search for the answer, but the more he thought about it, the more confused he became. Even science could not explain Chen Ge’s situation, this was already within the realm of theology and mythology.

“Zuo Han, can you tell me a few ghost stories? It is best if they are the one that are incredibly scary.” Chen Ge laid in bed and twisted his head to look at Zuo Han. His eyes were shining with anticipation in the dark.

“What is wrong with you? Why do you suddenly want to listen to ghost stories?" Zuo Han blurted out from his mouth, he realized he was completely unable to understand Chen Ge anymore. "In the middle of the night, you want to hear your roommate tell you a ghost story inside a mental hospital, I really cannot understand what is going through your mind when you made a request like that."

"I just wanted to see whether the sensation of fear could help me stimulate the recovery of my memory or not. It is just a test, we have nothing to lose."

Hearing what Chen Ge said, Zuo Han did not have any argument to retort. The corner of his eyes twitched and then he told Chen Ge a few ghost stories that he knew. "Well, are you scared?"

"Nah, it did not work. Your stories failed to give me any excitement at all."

"Who will get excited from listening to ghost stories?!" Zuo Han crawled out from his bed. He moved his bed as far from Chen Ge as he could. He only stopped when his bed was right next to the door. At this distance, if Chen Ge suddenly decided to attack him, he could open the door and run out immediately.

"Has anything scary happened to you in your life?"

"Yes, I was trapped inside a mental asylum and my roommate insisted on having me telling him a ghost story in the middle of the night." Zuo Han could not understand Chen Ge's behavior at all. From both scientific perspective and mythological perspective, Chen Ge's action made no sense what so ever.

"Your ghost stories are not scary at all, how about..." Chen Ge forced himself to raise his hand. "We play some haunted games? Games like Pen Spirit or Plate Spirit?" Without even needing to think, certain things were already branded in his body, Chen Ge was very familiar with these terms.

"Didn't you lose your memory already? How come you are so familiar with these strange things?" Zuo Han realized the source of the problem.

"In my memory, I was once an owner of a Haunted House but the doctor told me I had inputted myself into the identity of another person and my memory was just a projection."

"The doctor might be lying to you. From the various strange behavior that you have showcased tonight, it is clear that you are an adrenaline junkie, likes to be scared and you are very familiar with scary games like Pen Spirit and Plate Spirit, so you probably really did own a Haunted House in real life!” Zuo Han scratched his chin and shared his thought.

“But why would the doctor lie to me?”

“How would I know?”

“Then shall we play a game of Pen Spirit? Perhaps I might be able to slowly remember something.”

“We can’t, we have no pen or pencil?”

“How about Plate Spirit? I also know another scary game called back to back. One person will be lying on the bed and the other one will be hiding under the bed...” Once he started to reach into his mind, Chen Ge’s brain felt like it was being torn apart. So no matter whether he was speaking or acting, he tried to act on his instinct as much as he could. Zuo Han stopped interacting with Chen Ge. He looked at Chen Ge frostily before turning away to face the wall. With his back against Chen Ge, he started to formulate the plan to escape from the hospital. He maintained this position for a while when Zuo Han suddenly felt strangely unsettled. He thought back to what Chen Ge had said and he kept feeling something was not that right. [Is it possible that this man is just acting all along? Now that I have turned away from him, is it possible that he is standing behind me now?]

Goosebumps appeared on the back of his neck. Zuo Han whipped his body around and he realized Chen Ge was already asleep. “He looks so normal when he is asleep, no one would have expected such scary things would come out from his mouth.”

The room returned to silence again. At around 2 am, suddenly a loud crash from somewhere inside the hospital, it sounded like something had exploded. Both Zuo Han and Chen Ge were startled awake, before they realized what had happened, suddenly the sound of footsteps came from outside the corridor again.

“Someone is coming!”

The door of the room was knocked on lightly twice. Before Zuo Han or Chen Ge could get up to open the door, the footsteps had faded away already. When Zuo Han did open the door, there was no person outside the door at all. “Who was the person who knocked on the door?"

"Oh right, when you were out exploring the hospital yesterday night, someone also came to knock on our door, but at the time, they only knocked once." Chen Ge realized when he was thinking about the things that happened inside the hospital, his brain would not be assaulted by pain but the moment he tried to think about the memory that occurred before his fainting, the tearing would come to his brain.

"They had knocked once yesterday and today, they had knocked twice? Looks like they came here on purpose and were doing this deliberately." Zuo Han stared at Chen Ge. "Do you know any other patient at this hospital?"

"I cannot remember. From the time I was hospitalized here, I appeared to have fainted many times already. Whenever I wake up, the memory before the most recent fainting would become very blurry."

"So is this possible? The hospital wants you to become a 'normal person' that is following their standard but every time their 'treatment' has failed so they could only repeat the 'process' every time?" The more Zuo Han thought about it, the more he realized how probable that was. "You probably have undergone similar treatment many times already but you yourself simply could not remember them."

"But what does that has to do with the person who came to knock on the door?" Chen Ge laid in the bed. He tried to control himself to stop thinking and hopefully that would help recover his body as fast as possible.

"Perhaps the relationship between you and this person is similar to the relationship that you currently have with me?" Zuo Han gave a brave stipulation. "They perhaps were once your roommate but you were 'reactivated' due to the failure of your treatment but they were hidden away. The knocking could be some kind of promise between you two and perhaps they were thinking to pass some message to you."

"You have a point there." Chen Ge nodded.

"This means that they might show up again tomorrow night. We have to figure out a way to gain contact with them then."

"Okay."

The hospital that night was not that quiet. The footsteps kept echoing on the corridor and it was not until it was almost dawn when Chen Ge drifted back into sleep. At around 8 am, the room door was pushed open and Xu Wan as well as Doctor Gao walked into the room.

“How did you rest yesterday night?” Doctor Gao once again Zuo Han who was lying on his side in his bed. He directly moved towards Chen Ge’s bedside. He looked quite exhausted.

“Not so good. I think I heard something exploded inside the hospital yesterday night, the loud noise woke me up from my sleep.” Chen Ge looked rather weak and his tone was slow and sluggish.

“There was a small accident at the boiler room, it was nothing serious.” Doctor Gao sat on the bed in the middle of the room. “Did you have any dream yesterday night?”

“No.” Chen Ge shook his head. “I felt like I have forgotten some things, some blurry memory fragments are being wiped away by new memories. It is very contradictory, I do not know which one to believe, which one is the real me.”

“The fact that you can realize that is a solid proof that your condition is improving. Do not force it, we should take this slow.” Doctor Gao was very patient. “one cannot rush the recovery of mental illness. One has to accept it, recognize it and then finally overcome it.” After saying that, Doctor Gao turned his head to look at Zuo Han, “Chen Ge, I heard from the hospital workers that someone was loitering at the halls of the hospital yesterday night, neither you nor your roommate left your room yesterday night, right?”

Hearing this accusation from Doctor Gao, Zuo Han’s eyes flew open but since he was facing away from Doctor Gao, neither Doctor Gao nor Chen Ge saw this.

“we have been staying inside our room all night but I did hear some footsteps on the corridor right around midnight. There were so many of them, it sounded like the halls were filled with people.” Chen Ge did not continue on this topic but returned to the issue where he was startled awake from his sleep. “Doctor Gao, I still discovered something strange yesterday night.”

“Do tell.”

“Yesterday night, when I was startled awake by the sound of the explosion, it felt like a surge of electricity had crawled through my body in that moment. I hate that sensation of fear a lot and my body could not help shaking.” Chen Ge crossed his arms before his chest and color drained from his face. Doctor Gao listened to his patient kindly while Zuo Han who was pretending to be asleep crimped his lips. The madman who was smiling while having a staring contest with another mental patient inside the hospital now said he hates the feeling of being scared?

“It feels like I was thrown into an endless nightmare, headache, heart palpation and cold sweat broke out all over my body, I found it difficult to breathe, in fact there was even a loss of gravity and the imminence of death.” Chen Ge gripped his head and he was speaking very rapidly. “My former memory appeared to be filled with fear, whenever I was scared, the heavy sense of helplessness would overwhelm my whole body. I hate my memory from the past, I want to completely delete them from my mind! Doctor Gao, can you please help me?”

Before Doctor Gao who sat on the bed could say anything, Zuo Han’s eyes already widened. He already knew what Chen Ge was up to.

“Fear could make you feel disgusted and averse to the memory from your past?” Doctor Gao slowly nodded. “Like what I have told you before, the stories that you have invented for yourself are indeed scary and they are indisputably very horrible memory.”

His eyes were fading in concentration, Chen Ge glanced at the ceiling numbly, “That was such a painful experience, I hate the feeling of being submerged into helpless horror.”

“That is a normal reaction. The fact that you can feel something like that means that you are slowly recovering.” Doctor Gao took out the medication bottle from his pocket, and tipped out two pills. After he saw Chen Ge swallow them, he turned to leave. “I shall go and update our treatment formula. In a bit, you shall follow Xu Wan to go and have breakfast.” After Doctor Gao left, Xu Wan helped Chen Ge up from bed, and with his morning routine and then she brought Chen Ge to the hospital canteen. “This is the third sick hall’s canteen, after your condition stabilize further, you can come here on your own in the future.” Xu Wan only left after she had helped prepare Chen Ge’s meals.

“I am familiar with this scene a lot, in my memory, she often helps bring me food as well.” Chen Ge mumbled to himself. He had no friend and thus sat at the corner of the canteen alone. Occasionally he would lift up his head to study the other patients around him. “Xin Hai Central Hospital’s Third Sick Hall is the treatment centre for people with mental problems, similar to the place called Third Sick Hall in my memory.” The memory was weaving together with real life, forming a tight tapestry. Chen Ge held the spoon and lightly tapped it against the surface of the table. With no expression on his face, he was thinking about something on his mind.

“Doctor Gao said self perception is very important to a mental patient. In my mind, at the earliest part of my memory, the term self-perceptive key once appeared before and the term appeared as the same time as the Third Sick Hall. Even though I cannot remember clearly what I have done inside this Third Sick Hall, one thing is certain, there is some kind of connection between this Third Sick Hall and the self-perceptive key. Assuming the Third Sick Hall in my memory is based on this Third Sick Hall in real life, does that indirectly mean that the self-perceptive key is hidden somewhere inside this Third Sick Hall?”

The veins on the back of his hand pulsed as he tightened his grip around the key in his palm. The pain was torturing Chen Ge’s senses but he used his strong determination to suffer through it. “Doctor Gao said my past memory is all an invention, but the things in my memory are based on actual thing that exist in real life, in that case, I do wish to see what does the self-perceptive key that has appeared in my invention would look like in real life.” When Chen Ge made the connection between the self-perceptive key and Third Sick Hall, another memory fragment appeared naturally in his mind, “Self perception was important to a mental patient, the self-perceptive key was related to a mental asylum, this is not a coincidence, it feels like someone has purposely planned. It was as if they knew that one day I would end up trapped inside a mental hospital and have already placed this self-perceptive key to help me.”

Whenever his mind operated, it would feel like it was punctured by millions of needles, this kind of pain was not something that could be stomached by a normal person. “The self-perceptive key appears to be something important that might trigger my memory, it has provided me with a direction to formulate my thoughts.” Gripping the key that was almost twisted out of shape, Chen Ge resisted the pain and fed himself the food little by little. He was slowly getting used to the pain. He used this most stupid and cruel method to help himself face his own past. After having his breakfast, Chen Ge returned to the hospital garden with the aid of his crutches. “No matter what I cannot be moved back to the quarantine area again. I will play the role of the patient that the hospital wants me to, only then I have the chance to investigate the truth.”

Sitting on the bench, Chen Ge looked at the pergola that was not far away from him. Zhang Jingjiu was not there that day. “he was given such a serious punishment simply because he had uttered a single word to me?” The sun showered on Chen Ge’s face but he could not feel any warmth at all. “Looks like Zhang Jingjiu won’t be coming today.”

Several minutes later, the bushes were parted away and a cat’s head poked out. The stray cat appeared to be waiting for Chen Ge but who could say that Chen Ge was not waiting for it as well. Crawling out from the bush, the white cat bit on the edge of Chen Ge’s pant bottom and dragged him to the fence, Chen Ge did not resist. But this time, there was something different from last time. When the white cat led Chen Ge to the fence, it meowed several times at Chen Ge and then it crawled out through the gap in the fence and raced to the theme park across from the road.

“it wanted me to wait for it here?” Chen Ge had no impression of this cat at all. Be it his memory from the past or his current memory, this cat did not occupy either of them. About 10 minutes later, just as Chen Ge suspected he was being toyed by a cat, the white cat showed up again. Behind it was a woman in a red dress.

“Zhang Ya?” The woman was dressed as a ghost. When she heard Chen Ge call her name, she was slightly startled.

Chapter 1167 - The Paradox (2in1)

Chapter 1167: The Paradox (2in1)

“You know me?” The woman had put on make up, her face was startling white and her dress was covered in fresh ‘blood stain’. Even standing at this distance, Chen Ge could smell the scent of paint that drifted off her.

“I am Chen Ge...” Chen Ge blurted out the four words, he did not say that ‘my name is Chen Ge’ but directly introduced himself like they should have known each other for a long time already. A mental patient in a patient’s garb and a Haunted House worker in a ghost outfit stood at the two sides of the fence that surrounded a mental hospital just like that. They belonged to two distinctively separate world but at that moment, they were facing each other face to face.

“Is it your cat?” Zhang Ya did not get any closer to the fence but she did point at the white cat, “It was it who brought me here.” The white cat squatted between Chen Ge and Zhang Ya. Its fluffy tail wagged back and forth, it looked very proud of itself.

...

“It is a stray cat, but for some reason it is very close to me. It likes to come and visit me.” Chen Ge looked at the white cat that sat between them and a bitter smile appeared on his face. “Something is wrong with my brain, I have forgotten a lot of things and the doctors are helping me recover them.” Even though Chen Ge was wearing a patient’s garb, the feeling that he gave was completely different from the mental patients that were portrayed in mass media. He was very collected, calm and rational, there was nothing dangerous or strange about him. If he was not wearing the patient’s outfit, an outsider might thought he was a melancholic person and there was an inscrutable pain that was pooling in his eyes.

Studying the weak Chen Ge, Zhang Ya found it unable to hate him or be scared of him. “You should be the owner of this cat. You are hospitalized and sick so you have forgotten about it but it is clear that it has not forgotten about you. The fact that your cat sticks to you so much proves that you are definitely a very kind and gentle person. Hopefully you will be able to regain your memory as soon as possible.” Zhang Ya squatted down to scratched behind the white cat’s small head. “A cat is willing to cross a city to come find you. I cannot imagine that hardship that it must have encountered along the way, you must not lose it again.”

“Okay.” Chen Ge also squatted down. His eyes darted away, he did not dare to look at Zhang Ya’s face, so instead he silently studied Zhang Ya’s hand that was patting the white cat. Zhang Ya’s hand was very beautiful. She had tapered fingers, fair skin, so fair that they did not possess any color of blood at all. As if sensing Chen Ge’s gaze on her hand, Zhang Ya coughed slightly and pulled her hand back. “Starting from a few days ago, this cat has appeared around my Haunted House and refused to go. I noted how clever it is so I did not chase it away. But now that it has found its owner, I do not need to look after it anymore.”

“Wait a minute.” Zhang Ya stood up and prepared to leave but Chen Ge suddenly called after her.

“Is there anything else?”

Looking at Zhang Ya’s profile, Chen Ge’s eyes were filled with confusion and pain. “Have we met somewhere else before? I remember your name, I cannot forget it no matter what. You have shown up constantly in my past memory but I cannot for the life of me remember how you fit in my past life.” If a stranger had said something like that to Zhang Ya on the street, she definitely would have turned and walked away, and if the man insisted on bugging her about this, she might even call the police. But this situation was different. Chen Ge was a patient inside a mental hospital and from the looks of it, he did not look like he was acting. The pain and helplessness that were clear inside his eyes pulled at her heartstrings. Zhang Ya stopped moving and carefully studied Chen Ge’s face. She had no impression of this person at that. But she did not feel strangely comforted by this face that could not be called that handsome.

“I believe this is the first time we have met? Actually I am curious too how did you know my name?”

“I cannot remember. The doctor said I have once visited your Haunted House and that was how I know your name but I am afraid that might not be the truth.” Chen Ge grabbed the fence link that was rusted. “I have a feeling that you are someone very important to me.” This was a very simple sentence but it was pulsing with sincerity when it left Chen Ge’s lips. The impression that he gave was that he was like a piece of white paper and the whole paper was written to the brim with Zhang Ya's name. Due to her beauty, Zhang Ya had heard other people said similar words to her before but this time, when Chen Ge said it, it evoked some kind of indescribable feeling inside her.

Her heart slowly picked up its pace. Zhang Ya hesitated as she turned around to look at the Haunted House before she walked to stand before Chen Ge. "Normally I remember all the visitors that have come to my Haunted House in the past, but this really appears to be the first time we have met. Is it possible that your doctor has mistaken that detail?"

Chen Ge shook his head. "I can still remember the scenarios that are available at your Haunted House, Night of the Living Death, Minghun, Murder at Midnight and a high school..."

"Night of the Living Dead and Minghun are indeed scenarios at my Haunted House but the ones after that do not belong at my Haunted House." Zhang Ya said rather sadly, "Currently my Haunted House do not have that many visitors, it is already maximum for us to have 2 scenarios. If we open up more scenarios, we will be seriously understaffed."

"How many employees are there at your Haunted House now?"

"There are three of us working there, me and my parents." Zhang Ya was quite embarrassed. "I am responsible for giving out flyers and selling tickets. My father plays the role of the zombie while my mother is responsible for the Minghun scenario. Even though we do not earn that much, it is a pleasant way to spend our days." Discrepancies appeared in his memory, Chen Ge's head started to become painful again, he remembered through the fog of memory that the Haunted House's boss' parents had already left the Haunted House.

"Why are you breaking out in sweat and your body is shivering? Hey, are you okay? Do you need me to go and call the doctor for you?!" Seeing how startling pale Chen Ge's face was, and the green veins that popped on the surface on his skin, Zhang Ya was quite worried. She thought that she had accidentally said something wrong. "Stay right here! I will go and get the doctor for you!" Zhang Ya turned and prepared to head to the entrance of the hospital but before she could take the first step, Chen Ge reached out to grab hold of her wrist. "Please don't leave and please do not go and get them..."

Both of their arms were equally cold. Zhang Ya was given quite a fright. Just as she was wondering what to do next, a large piece of bruise on the back of Chen Ge's arm started to leak with blood. The blood droplet appeared to gather into very small letters. They formed several lines as they went and together they bound to form an entry of a tattered dairy. The drop of blood slid from Chen Ge's arm and fell on Zhang Ya's wrist. At that moment, Zhang Ya's panicked heart instantly calmed down. Looking at her wrist that was held tight by Chen Ge, she was blanking out for a few seconds before she recovered herself and pulled her hand back.

"I am so sorry but I hope you will help me keep this secret. I do not wish for the doctors to know that I have met you in person." The pain assaulted him. Chen Ge did not dive that deep into his memory and did not trigger any memory fragment but the pain kept rushing at him like waves. It was as if the dam that had been holding the pain back had suddenly crumbled and now he needed to suffer this endless pain alone. His arms were shaking. Chen Ge thought he had gotten used to the pain but only at this moment, he realized, the pain that he was experiencing was just one tenth of the pain that he was being subjected to now.

"But why?"

Chen Ge's legs lost their balance and the man dropped to the ground. The white cat ran around him in clear concern. Zhang Ya also kept saying something at Chen Ge but Chen Ge could not hear her anymore. "What have I done that this pain would suddenly appear to overwhelm me?!" His body felt like it had been torn apart, Chen Ge used the last shred of his rationality to yell at Zhang Ya and the white cat. "Bring that cat away and tomorrow morning I will be back here."

After stammering out the words, Chen Ge immediately turned to run back into the hospital with his hands clamping over his heads. He used the last bit of his energy to burrow through the bushes and finally fainted at the garden path. This time he was knocked out directly by the immense pain.

...

"So painful! So painful! So painful!" In the world of darkness, Chen Ge could hear his own voice echoing. He followed his voice and tried to search for the source. Finally at the deepest corner of the darkness, he found a melancholic young man holding a beating heart and he was standing away from Chen Ge. The man looked similar to him from the back and the voice that came out from his lips was Chen Ge's voice but instinct told Chen Ge that the young man was not him.

"Xu Yin?" A name suddenly appeared in his mind. Chen Ge walked forward in the black sea but the waves of darkness gradually pushed him away. The young man who was standing in his place to suffer the endless pain appeared to hear his voice. Just as Chen Ge was about to be washed away by the darkness, the young man turned back to look. The front of his body was being corrupted by different kind of curses, the curses were like needles that were stuck into his body but he seemed to have a lot of resistance regarding these curses and pain. The curses were unable to drill into his body and harm the beating heart in his embrace and Chen Ge who had already being carried away by the black waves behind him.

The two eyes suddenly flipped over. Chen Ge's expression was violent and beast-like. He subconsciously wanted to raise his hands to grab at something but he was quick to realize both of his arms were strapped to the bed. He slowly calmed down. Chen Ge looked around him and took in the shattered windows, the tilted beds and the bedside tables that had been toppled over.

"Now I finally understand why the doctors are feeding you two pills." Zuo Han's voice came from the corner of the room. He had moved his bed as far from Chen Ge as he could. "I somehow have managed to survive for such a dangerous patient like yourself for two straight days. Thank you for not killing me by the way."

"it was me who messed up the room?"

"You were not only trying to mess up the room, you were trying to destroy everything." Zuo Han was now as obedient as a pet cat. He sat at the corner and refused to get close to Chen Ge no matter what.

"I can only remember that I have fainted, my brain felt like it was being torn apart and pain came from every part of my body, I cannot remember anything else."

"During your unconscious period, you have woken up once, that version of you is completely different from the current you. Your eyes were filled with blood and you roared like a beast while dragging a broken leg, refusing to let anyone get close to you." Thinking back, Zuo Han was still quite afraid about what happened then.

Bang! Bang! Bang! The room door suddenly burst open. Doctor Gao and two workers rushed into the room. When they saw Chen Ge had woken up, they all sighed in relief. The two hospital workers were still quite afraid, only Doctor Gao voluntarily walked towards Chen Ge. “Why would you faint at the garden this morning? Were you bothered by some of the other patients? Did they jolt some of your past memory?”

“I suddenly remembered something from my past, the more I tried to not think about them, the more they got out of control. In the end, I fainted because I could not suffer the pain anymore.” Chen Ge basically was telling the truth.

“Your condition has started to stabilize a few days ago, you should not have relapsed so soon. Is it possible that the medication has lost its power already?” Doctor Gao took out the medicine bottle and this time he tipped out three pills instead. “You should take a good rest after you take your medication. I will go and discuss with the other doctors regarding your condition.”

“Doctor Gao, does that mean that my condition is getting serious again?”

“No, you are indeed getting better, but your second persona is getting more intense. Perhaps he can sense that you are slowly getting better so he is getting more and more out of control.” Doctor Gao analysed.

“If I am getting better, how come my second persona is getting more out of control?”

“if you are fully cured, then it would mean that your second persona will completely be wiped out.” Doctor Gao sighed in a severe tone.

“Your second persona is built up from your negative emotions and the darker side of humanity. Selfishness, cruelty, violence, melancholy, he will not go peacefully. When that moment arrives, he will try everything within his power to bring you down with him.”

“My second persona will destroy me?”

“You should be able to sense the danger that he is in as well. But remember that you are the normal one and he is the abnormal one, do not lose yourself to that persona that only know how to destroy everything.”

After witnessing Chen Ge swallow the three pills, Doctor Gao left some orders with the hospital workers before he left in a hurry. The two hospital workers stood inside the room. They then cleaned the room, replaced the broken windows and they busied themselves until the afternoon before they left.

“Chen Ge?” Zuo Han summoned his courage to get close to Chen Ge. He shook Chen Ge’s shoulders slightly and was shocked to realize that Chen Ge’s eyes were open the whole time. “You have not fallen asleep after all?!”

“What’s on your mind?”

“Have you ingested all three pills?” Zuo Han reminded him out of kindness. “The white pills of the hospital can dull the pain, slow down your brain and help you decrease the sensation of pain but at the same time, the pills will slowly make you lose yourself. If you take too much of it, eventually you will turn into a living doll that only knows how to smile.”

“A living doll?”

“Like the name suggests, you will become a doll that is alive, you will become a puppet to be controlled by the others. Even though you will never feel pain again, but you will also never feel joy and happiness anymore, it will destroy everything that you are.” Zuo Han was himself a forensic doctor, he seemed to be familiar with these pharmaceuticals.

“Is the drug that scary?” Chen Ge slightly moved his head to the side and revealed the pills that were hidden under the pillow.

“You did not consume them?”

“My arms are tied, do you mind helping me grind these three pills into dust? Do not let anyone discover them.”

“Okay.” Zuo Han nodded subconsciously. He realized Chen Ge’s tone was slightly different from before, he appeared to be more in control of himself. More confidence was radiating off the man. “By the way, Chen Ge, there is something that I wish to tell you.”

“What is it?”

“Earlier Doctor Gao said that your second persona only knows how to destroy and is completely made up from negative emotions and darker side of humanity but actually he was lying to you.” Zuo Han went straight to the point. “When you were acting up in the room earlier, I was inside the room with you. You wanted to destroy everything within your sight, and attacked all the patients and workers that you could see but you never intended to harm me even though I was just literally a few feet away from you!”

What Zuo Han said successfully piqued Chen Ge’s interest. “Keep on going.”

“Your second persona appears to know me! This proves that perhaps we have known each other before we were admitted here!” Zuo Han lowered his voice but Chen Ge could hear the excitement in his voice. “if that is the case, then it will explain why I feel like the whole world is trying to harm me but you are the only exception! And at the same time, this is the evidence that shows that our memories have indeed been tempered before!”

Zuo Han was very sharp, he hit the nail on the head immediately. “We are each other’s proofs! Your memory from the past should not be the fake one, but it is these doctors who are trying to convince you that they are made up.” Zuo Han knew that once Chen Ge sunk into deep thinking, he would start to get headache so he was speaking very fast. He needed to voice out his own thoughts before Chen Ge fainted from the overwhelming pain again. “Back to the most basic problem, the doctors said that the illness happened because your parents got into an accident caused by you but have you ever wondered that perhaps your parents are still alive and considered the possibility that they are still somewhere inside this city?!”

Chapter 1168 - The Meaning of Zuo Han's Existence

Chapter 1168: The Meaning of Zuo Han's Existence

The word parent had special meaning for Chen Ge. No matter inside his fragmented memory or the memory that doctor fed him, his parents was the starting point of all the mystery. One could say that Chen Ge was the way he was now was mainly because of his parents. He was very certain of that but he had no idea why these thought would appear in his mind.

In his memory, parents meant more than just the words parents. Once he tried to think of anything related to his parents, his brain would throb with pain. Even though the doctors had told him things about his parents, Chen Ge found himself unable to agree with them, it was as if the parents the doctors were talking about were someone else's parents. With Chen Ge's personality he would not openly discuss these things with others, but he did not expect Zuo Han to approach him so directly.

Every words that came out of Zuo Han's mouth was like knives that drove themselves into Chen Ge's brain and pierced through the broken pieces.

...

"They are still alive?" There was a big premise that everything that the hospital had told him and that was that Chen Ge's parents had died in a car accident, but if Chen Ge's parents were still alive, then it would prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the hospital was lying to him!

Therefore to tell the false from the fear, to determine whether he was sick or not, the simplest way was to find his parents. This was the final thought that Chen Ge had before he fainted. Before he fainted, he pushed Zuo Han away, he was worried that his second persona might injure Zuo Han.

Seeing Chen Ge faint again, Zuo Han took in a cold breath. "Such a strong determination. The blood veins popped up all over his body like poisonous snakes but he manage to last until the last moment and only fainted after he pushed me away.” Actually Zuo Han was quite afraid of Chen Ge but the things and details that Chen Ge did always manage to lower that fear that he had. For example, Chen Ge resisted that amount of pain and would still be concerned about Zuo Han’s safety.

“Why would such a kind person have to suffer such a punishment?” Zuo Han turned back to look at the door and his eyes turned cold. “This world looks so perfect on the surface and all my memories tell me that this is a blissful world but such a perfect world has trapped me inside a mental hospital so is it really that perfect to begin with?”

...

When Chen Ge woke up next, it was already night time. Doctor Gao and two workers were inside the room. Zuo Han was lying on his side, it appeared like he was asleep.

“Time to take your medicine, Chen Ge.” Doctor Gao took out 3 white pills. After he saw Chen Ge swallow them, his expression softened. “The food is placed on your bedside table, remember to eat them. Tonight you better close the door before you got to sleep, there has been a small problem at the hospital recently. A patient is injured. We temporarily have not found the culprit so you better not go wandering around at night.”

“Okay.” Chen Ge nodded weakly. His body appeared to reach its limit already, his face was pale.

“You better rest.” Doctor Gao sighed. He had the workers undo the straps around Chen Ge’s limbs and left.

“How come it feels like Doctor Gao is getting busier and busier. A few days ago, he gave me a sense of unwavering confidence, has something happened to him?” A doctor had to make sure that they were well prepared before they faced their patient, that was why they would remind themselves to be in their best condition when they were dealing with certain patients. At the beginning, Doctor Gao was a model doctor but for the past few days, his condition had been worsening.

“Is there a patient who is more troublesome than I am at the hospital?” After Doctor Gao left, Chen Ge’s expression returned to normal. “Then again it might not be a patient, it could be another doctor.” Moving his wrists, Chen Ge sat up in bed. “Looks like something has indeed happened at the hospital or else they would not have purposely come to help me remove the binding.”

Taking out the pills that were hidden under his tongue, Chen Ge was about to grind them into dust when he noticed something was wrong. Of the three pills Doctor Gao gave him, two were white and one had a black stripe on it.

“What’s this? A hair piece? No, it is slenderer than hair.” Chen Ge was flustered. “Is it possible that Doctor Gao suspect I am not taking my medicine so he purposely switched one of them out?” Chen Ge did not destroy the pills but moved to wake up Zuo Han, “Brother, can you help me?”

He told Zuo Han about his discovery and hoped Zuo Han could help him capture some bugs or small animals to conduct some experiment. But when Zuo Han heard about it, he told Chen Ge they should just grind the pills into dust and slip them into the workers’ drink when they went on patrol. He had even come up with the best time to do so. He told Chen Ge that they could do that when the workers went on their last patrol.

“I don’t think we should experiment on live humans.” Chen Ge denied it firmly. If there was a real problem, the hospital would immediately link it back to him.

“They have already experimented on you but you are still so considerate towards them? Are you a saint?” Zuo Han grumbled.

“I believe someone has told me that before.” Chen Ge chuckled weakly. “I can’t help it, I guess I do not have a hardened heart.”

“It is definitely not a poison, the hospital wasted so much effort to cure you so they will not prescribe you poison, we are merely trying to analyse the drug through their symptoms.” Zuo Han was a doctor so he was good at this thing. “If you think that is not safe, then we can try on another patient.” Zuo Han was unable to convince Chen Ge, so in the end, they still experimented on bugs. Once the bugs that came in contact with the black pill’s dust became strangely agitated and even attacked other bugs. One of them directly tore into other bugs.

“The white pills are to numb the senses and the pills with the black line has the exact opposite effect.” Chen Ge looked at the dead bodies of the bugs and his eyes slowly moved to the straps. He seemed to be reminded of something and turned to look at the tray on the bedside table. “Zuo Han, before this, when Xu Wan came to send us food, she would bring the tray away with her when she left, right?”

“Yes, she would sit and watch until you finish your food and then take them away, I suspect the nurse has some interest in you.”

“but why didn’t they take away the tray this time?” Chen Ge took up the sharp metallic fork on the tray. “Plus I remember they will not give patients any forks or even chopsticks in fear of them hurting themselves. Normally they give normal utensils.”

Zuo Han also caught up to his thought. He looked at Chen Ge who was holding the metallic fork and then shuddered. “I know... the hospital wants you to personally kill me!”

When he said that, the room became instantly quiet. They had been living together for days, Zuo Han had gotten familiar with Chen Ge. Both parties had become the other’s support in some way. But while everything was looking up, the hospital exposed its evil plan. They had given Chen Ge the seed of hope and then they pushed him to snuff it out himself and pushed him step by step to become the person that he hated.

Perhaps from the moment Zuo Han moved into this room, the meaning of this young man’s existence had been decided.

Chapter 1169 - The Understanding Between Mental Patients (2in1)

Chapter 1169: The Understanding Between Mental Patients (2in1)

To have Chen Ge murder Zuo Han, that was probably something that the hospital had designed from the very beginning!

To push a madman deeper into the brink of madness, one had to dig out the deepest and darkest secret buried inside his heart and then used another method to showcase it to him once again.

“Is this really a kind of treatment?” Chen Ge’s hands slowly gripped into fists. Compared to Chen Ge, Zuo Han was comparatively calmer. “The hospital appears to have already prepared some other treatment options but due to certain reasons, they had to use this last method earlier than expected.” These two patients were incredibly unique. Chen Ge had a very complicated past, the hospital had poured all of its attention on Chen Ge and they had seriously underestimated Zuo Han. They did not expect Zuo Han to have the habit of suspecting his own memory and would disturb Chen Ge’s ‘treatment progress’. The other original plan was destroyed and now the two extremely astute patients were slowly taking back their upper hand.

...

“Yes, this action by the hospital has once again proven our speculation.” Chen Ge put down the fork. “But why would they do something like this?”

“Yes, this is something that confuses me as well. Be it from the state of mental health, or state of value, I would appear to be more valuable than you are, right? Even if I am not as good as you might be at certain areas, but to have been treated as one of the ‘medicines’ to ‘cure’ you is a bit maddening, isn’t it?” Zuo Han’s voice was dark.

“You are one of the medicines meant to ‘cure’ me? A living person is a medicine?” Something occurred to Chen Ge then but he quickly stopped himself from venturing further in his thoughts. “This is not going to be a quiet night. To prevent the hospital from suspecting us, I am afraid you might need to suffer a little bit.”

“Are you planning to punch a few holes in me with the fork?” The conversation between Zuo Han and Chen Ge sounded more and more like two mental patients.

“I am not going to go that far.” Chen Ge looked at the remaining pill. “Do you think I should ingest half of the pill to give it a try? To personally experience that kind of sensation?”

“have you lost your mind?” A mental patient was sincerely asking another mental patient about what he was thinking.

“If you do not die tonight, the hospital might continue to prescribe me this kind of medicine tomorrow. I need to know the effect from consuming this drug so that I will be able to play the role of an affected patient as authentic as I can.” Chen Ge had no idea why but he was very serious when it came to acting. It felt like this had to do with his sense of professionalism, “Do not stay too far away from me tonight.” Then Chen Ge used his finger to stick against some of the dust and slipped it into his mouth, he did not hesitate at all during this process.

“Jesus Christ, I can’t imagine what is going through your mind to do something like that.” Zuo Han took a step back, he was a very clever person. If they were just comparing intellect, he might not be worse than Chen Ge but he now slowly understood, overall speaking, he was still much lesser than Chen Ge.

“The taste is similar to the white pills, in other words, the black strand does not have any unique taste.” Chen Ge pursed his lips and turned to face Zuo Han as he moved to sit on his own bed. To prevent accidents from happening, he even purposely picked up the straps and bound his hands together.

“Is it because the dosage is too small? For now I do not feel anything, perhaps we have wasted too much feeding them to the bugs earlier.” Chen Ge’s eyes were calm. When the pain from his brain was burning at his soul, it had also left at the same time a gap in the ‘lock’ on his memory. He suffered the pain for a reason. Chen Ge now knew how to think without evoking that pain. As long as he did not venture into his past, and did not focus on those terms that contained special meaning, even if he triggered the pain, the pain would not be so intense that he fainted on the spot.

“Any kind of medication will take time to evoke its uses, you need to slowly process the changes to your brain and your body.” Zuo Han retreated to the corner of the room, this was already the furthest he could hide from Chen Ge. He stuck his back to the wall and said with a bitter expression. "The hospital wants you to personally kill me, so that means that my death should be able to trigger some kind of effect in you. It really does appear that we were friends in the past."

"In your memory, you are a student at a forensic university, you have a completely different path in life compared to mine, how would we become friends? Or rather what is the link between us?" Chen Ge could not think too deep, so Zuo Han had to play the role of the brain for him.

"Perhaps you were really a Haunted House boss in the past. I am a person with very deep curiosity and desire to win, perhaps I have visited your Haunted House before and have been pranked by you. Due to the unwillingness to admit defeat, I continued to come and challenge your Haunted House and that was how we became friends? After all, it would not be that uncommon for a business proprietor to befriend his frequent customer." Zuo Han was very familiar with his own personality. This was the first thought that came into his mind. "The various actions committed by the hospital actually had also revealed some important information, at least the two of us should be able to trust each other implicitly."

Chen Ge sat in bed and carefully experienced the change to his body. "There should be other friends of ours among the other patients in this hospital. For example, Zhang Jingjiu, there should be other patients just like him."

"But how do you explain what happened when we went to visit him?" Zuo Han tried to think back to the incident on the night before. "When we went to find Zhang Jingjiu, he did not react to my voice at all but once you said something, you got a reaction from him. The rest of us appear to be individual characters that do not know each other and we are only linked through you."

"Yes, that is what I feel as well. I am the centre of all the relationship." Chen Ge looked at the metallic fork on the food tray. "All of you appear to be 'medicine' that the hospital has prepared for me." The layers of the hospital were slowly being peeled back by Chen Ge and Zuo Han. The hospital that appeared to be providing treatment for its patient had a real purpose that might shock each and every patient. One hour later, black spots started to appear on Chen Ge's skin. Perhaps because he had taken too little dosage, the black dots were unable to form a black line inside Chen Ge's body. As the black spots started to appear, Chen Ge's eyes became bloodshot, his chest rose unevenly and the veins on his arms started to bulge.

"Are... are you okay?" Zuo Han stood at the door. His hands were on the door handle, he was ready to run as soon as things went south.

"The black spots appear to contain negative emotions and some kind of power, they want to take over my body but there appears to be another force inside my body who is resisting these black spots, to suppress their influence. The force appears to come from the heart." Chen Ge traced the change in his body closely. "These black dots should have the purpose of evoking the force that is resting in my heart, does this mean that my second persona is residing in my heart? But if I suffer from schizophrenia, shouldn't my second persona be a creation inside my mind and not my heart?" Sitting by the edge of the bed, Chen Ge mumbled to himself. Zuo Han at the door was nervous looking and he did not dare to reply at all.

The time ticked by slowly. The black spots in Chen Ge's body became more active. His status was not that stable, his eyes were filled with blood and he looked incredibly scary.

"After the drug enters the body, its effect will reach its climax after 3 hours. And if it is not released, the sense of agitation will continue to persist." Chen Ge was in a ghastly grimace but his tone was incredibly calm. "I have merely tasted some of the powder, if I have ingested the whole pill, undeniably the effect will shatter my mental defense and I would have killed my roommate without even realizing it."

"Hey, I am just standing over here. Do you mind paying attention to my feeling when you say those things?"

"But there appear to be benefit to this pill too. After ingesting it, the sense of lethargy that has been overwhelming my body dissipates tremendously, the sense of weakness that has been troubling me disappears gradually as well." There were pros and cons, and Chen Ge was most familiar with finding things that were useful to him in the most despairing of situation.

At 1 am, Chen Ge felt like the effect of the medicine will not strengthen any more. He forced the binding around his wrist to come loose. He picked up the metallic fork from the tray. "Zuo Han, if you do not run fast enough, you might have a few new blood holes on your body but don't you worry, I will make sure to avoid the fatal parts."

“Wait a minute! You are going to start now?! At least give me some warning!” Zuo Han had just finished when Chen Ge seemingly had morphed into another person. There was a bloodshot in his eyes and the twisted face was filled with a sick desire. It was as if he could not wait to destroy every living things. Only blood and murder would be able to calm his soul.

“What the fuck!” Even if they had planned this earlier, Zuo Han was still gripped by fear. He could not believe that Chen Ge was just acting. This was 120 percent too real. The fear grew around his heart like a poisonous briar. One of his leg was encased in plaster so he could not move quickly. Therefore, Chen Ge started to crawl on the ground like a beast. The hospital had once shown Chen Ge how he acted when he was acting up, Doctor Gao was using it to prove that Chen Ge the existence of a second persona in Chen Ge’s body, they probably would not have imagined Chen Ge would mimic the characteristic of that person in the video to fool them. Chen Ge had familiarized himself with how he would act after he had lost his mind. Be it expression or action, he had replicated it most perfectly.

The metallic fork stabbed through the bedsheet and pillow and it pierced through the mattress. It left a few small holes on the wooden boards. Zuo Han shrunk his neck back. He knew Chen Ge was not joking. If the same force was applied to his body, probably a bloody gouge would appear on his skin.

“Help me!” Opening the room door, Zuo Han ran outside while yelling at the top of his lungs. The beds were tripped over. Just as the moment Zuo Han ran out, the metallic fork brushed against the back of his head and slashed his clothes. With a streak, the shirt was torn open. A chill rushed up Zuo Han’s back. If he was one step slower, the fork would have directly stabbed into his spine!

[This man’s actual identity is a murderous killer! Or else how is he so good at this? He must have done this many times in the past? Perhaps I have been killed many times in his mind already!] The more Zuo Han thought about it, the more afraid he became. He charged out of the sickroom and then turned to look behind him. Cold sweat slid down his face immediately. Chen Ge moved with both of his hands on the ground. Dragging the plastered leg, the monster was chasing after him like a beast yearning for his delicious meal!

Even though he knew that this was all an act, Zuo Han was really afraid. He was unable to control himself and his instinct told him to run towards the duty room where the workers could be found.

“Help me! Someone please come and help me!” One was running and one was chasing. The familiar feeling rose in both people’s mind instantly, it was as if they had experiencing something similar before. Normally the workers who would come out when they heard the smallest of voice did not show up that night. It was as if no one was on duty. Even when Zuo Han’s throat was coarse from all the shouting, no one came to help him. Zuo Han did not dare to stop. Currently he had no idea whether Chen Ge was acting or he had really been brought under the influence of the drug, in any case, he did not want to stop to find out. That was definitely not an option.

He raced like his life depended on it. Zuo Han did not dare to turn back and eventually he found his way to the duty room. He knocked frantically on the door while screaming non stop. Moments later, the door was pulled open from within. A worker poked his head out with annoyance, the thing that he saw was Chen Ge’s ghastly face that was twisted from madness and blood lust.

Bang! Chen Ge slammed into the duty room’s door and Chen Ge sent the worker flying. At the same time, the force also threw the door of the duty room wide open. While the worker careened to the floor with a scream, Chen Ge who was supposedly in the grasp of madness shot a glance at Zuo Han and signaled for him to check out the rest of the duty room. Two patients communicated without words. While Chen Ge entangled with the worker, the other worker came out to help. Zuo Han used this opening to slip deeper into the duty room. Even though the medicine had been grounded down into dust, they had a great effect on Chen Ge, not even the two workers were able to restrain him.

A metallic fork became a lethal weapon in Chen Ge’s possession. The two hospital workers probably also did not expect to run into such a scary patient. One of them took out a phone with a white casing on it to call for help but before he could dial the number, he was slammed into by Chen Ge and pressed against the ground.

“Help me! Help me!” The fork fell down again and again and they were always aiming at the worker’s eyes. The worker who was so frightened barely escaping the fate of being blinded. This was not something a normal person would be able to suffer peacefully. Zuo Han appeared to have found something important inside the duty room after just a mere 3 minutes. He heard the workers call for help but he did not intend to help either of them at all. He ran past them and hurried down the other side of the corridor.

The two hospital workers knew that they were unable to stop Chen Ge. After they pushed Chen Ge off, they too started to take off for their lives.

“I was almost killed! Help me! I was almost killed by him!” Zuo Han screamed while he ran. He too was playing the role of a mad patient perfectly as he kept shouting this statement over and over.

“Go and find the night doctors! We need to head to the doctor’s office!” The two hospital workers ran down one of the directions of the corridor. Zuo Han stuck close to them. Chen Ge was crawling on the ground so he could not move fast, this gave them the opportunity to escape. In reality though, Chen Ge’s arms and legs were already filled with wounds but the pain only made his expression more intense and scary. Opening the door that was in the middle of the corridor on the first floor, the hospital workers ran into the second sick hall, this place was obviously eerier than the third sick hall.

“Doctor! Doctor!” The workers and Zuo Han darted into one of the rooms. The lights came on and a doctor in a doctor’s coat came out from it. With the direction from the doctor, the three of them worked together to apprehend Chen Ge.

Being put on the straps, Chen Ge felt like he could not resist any more. He snuck at room at Zuo Han. The latter who had been rummaging through the doctor’s room when they were coming to stop Chen Ge appeared to have stumbled across something very important. After he realized the job that night had been completed, Chen Ge relaxed. He used the last ounce of his energy to struggle as best as he could and then he started to focus on his memory fragments that were related to his parents and the Haunted House. Soon the brain-tearing pain overwhelmed his mind and Chen Ge fainted from the intense pain.

...

He slowly opened his eyes, the sun outside the window was about to sink down the horizon already. This time, Chen Ge had gone unconscious for about 10 plus hour.

“Can you hear my voice?” Doctor Gao was standing beside Chen Ge’s bed. He looked at Chen Ge with extreme concern. “you have finally woken up.”

“I...” His lips were dry and cracked. Chen Ge looked around him, he realized he had been sent to a room inside the quarantine zone. “Where is this place? Why am I here?”

“Your second persona has surfaced again yesterday night and he almost killed the workers at our hospital.”

“How is that possible?!” Chen Ge desperately wanted to sit up in bed but he realized his arms and legs were strapped to the bed and he could not move even if he wanted to.

“I am sorry but it is real.” Doctor Gao showed the surveillance video to Chen Ge again. “your second persona is filled with the desire to destroy. If you do not defeat him, one day you will be consumed by him.”

Chapter 1170 - They Are All Zhang Wenyu (2in1)

Chapter 1170: They Are All Zhang Wenyu (2in1)

Looking at himself inside the video, Chen Ge was surfeited with fear, he exposed an expression of disbelief, the shock and fear did not look like they could be faked at all. "Is that really me?" Chen Ge's voice was filled with suspicion and uncertainty. His eyes darted away, showing that he was too afraid to face this version of himself.

"The video can be faked but the wounds on your arms and fingers will not lie." Doctor Gao put away the phone with the white casing. "No one wants to believe that there is another person living inside them but sometimes with the evidence placed before us, we will have to face the truth." Chen Ge sat idly on the bed, his expression seemed to suggest that his mind was a thousand miles away.

Doctor Gao studied him for a while and could not help but console him, "Your second persona is getting more and more intense, but that also proves that our treatment is getting more and more effective. He is afraid, afraid that one day he might disappear. Don't be too saddened by this. Just try to take as much rest as you can while you are here, do not place too much pressure on yourself. Treatment of a mental illness is a very slow process, the more you try to rush it, the more the difficult the treatment will be."

...

Chen Ge nodded his head slowly, he seemed to still be in a state of shock. He did not appear to hear Doctor Gao, he was merely nodding simply because that was what was expected of him to do.

"Tonight you shall stay at the quarantine zone. After your condition has stabilized, we will consider moving you back to the normal sickroom." After Doctor Gao fed Chen Ge three white pills, he prepared to leave.

"Doctor Gao..." Chen Ge turned his head to look at Doctor Gao who had already reached the door. "Will my illness one day be cured?"

"Of course, as long as you have confidence in the hospital and yourself.” Doctor Gao left after saying that, and Chen Ge was left in the room after. The wounds on his arms had been bandaged, so they would not deteriorate. Perhaps due to the effect of the black pill’s dust, Chen Ge had slowly gained consciousness of the broken leg that was wrapped in plaster. After Doctor Gao had wandered far away, Chen Ge laid his bed but the pain and struggle on his face slowly disappeared and in their places was calmness and serenity. If someone looked into his eyes then, they probably would be in for quite a shock because Chen Ge’s pupils were gradually shrinking, “The hospital is lying to me, they do not intend to cure me at all, but they are trying to turn me into a monster that fits their requirement.” With the pillow cushioning his head, Chen Ge turned his head to glance at the straps on his body, “I need to leave the quarantine zone as soon as possible to gain contact with Zuo Han. Yesterday night, he appeared to have found very important discoveries inside the duty room and the night doctor’s office.”

Under the scrutiny of the hospital, the two patients put on a show with their lives on the line. They had temporarily fooled the hospital and had managed to obtain part of the information. “Zuo Han is very clever, he should be able to fool the doctors.” Chen Ge had done everything that he could. From the moment he fainted, the stage was handed over to Zuo Han already. Actually the two had very clear delineation of job, neither party could afford to make any mistake. If any party exposed even the slightest flaw, the other party would be dragged down by it as well.

But from Doctor Gao’s attitude towards Chen Ge, Zuo Han should have done everything flawlessly. There was no clock inside the room at the quarantine zone. After the sky turned dark, Chen Ge fell asleep again. After who knew how long, the door of the room was knocked on suddenly.

Bang bang bang bang

The person knocked on the door four times. When Chen Ge opened his eyes, the knocking sound had already disappeared. “The knocking returns at midnight again?” The door of the sickrooms at the quarantine zone were very unique. To prevent the dangerous patients inside from escaping, all the locks of the door were installed on the outside. In other words, the people could enter the room freely from outside, but the people inside had no chance of escaping the room at all.

Chen Ge’s heart slowly rose to his throat, he had been deeply curious about the identity of this mysterious knocker. "When I was staying at the normal sickroom, I could hear the knocking at midnight, but that I have been moved to the quarantine zone, the knocking has followed me as well! What is the person trying to communicate with me? But from mere knocking, what kind of information could be relayed anyway?" Chen Ge was moved to another area of the hospital but the knocking had arrived like usual, this meant that person behind the knocking was extremely familiar with the happening inside the hospital. "Other patients probably would not be able to know for sure which sickroom I have been moved to, does this mean that it is one of the doctors who has been knocking on my door at midnight?" With limited information, that was only the conclusion that Chen Ge could have come at.

"Assuming this is true, then the doctor who is behind the knockings appear to have a different stance from the other doctors at this hospital, does this mean that there are doctors at this hospital who are willing to help me? They are unable to show themselves so they have been using this method to tell me something? The hospital has been restless for the past few nights. Other than myself, I believe there are other people taking up the hospital's attention." After knowing other people had been helping him secretly, Chen Ge became even calmer.

He tried to think back to his own memory little by little. Yesterday night, to stimulate himself so that he would faint, he actively tried to think about things related to his parents and the Haunted House. And the result was before he fainted, his brain really did come up with fragmented images of these two things, "My parents, I believe, have told me when I was very young that to stay away from... Eastern Jiujiang no matter what?"

His limbs were tied to the bed, Chen Ge could not even move down from the bed. He did not dare to fall asleep so he kept staring at the door. Under the premise of not stimulating his brain, he had been arranging the events that had happened for the past few days. Reality and memory were mixed together, it felt like there were two voices arguing in his mind, no one was willing to admit that it was the false one because once the admission was made, it was meant that it would be abandoned.

After the sun came up for a long time, Doctor Gao came into the room with two hospital workers.

"Did you have any nightmare yesterday night?" Whenever Chen Ge woke up from his fainting spell, Doctor Gao would ask that question every time.

“I don’t think so. I slept quite restfully after taking the medicine yesterday.”

“That is good news.” Doctor Gao and the two hospital workers moved some large medical equipment into the room and gave Chen Ge a simple inspection. After he noticed there were still some black spots left on Chen Ge’s arm, the expression on Doctor Gao’s face relaxed a lot. “Chen Ge, do you wish to return to the normal sickroom or not?”

“of course, at that room, I will be able to see that theme park, the Haunted house and her.” Chen Ge answered without wasting a beat.

“But in your current condition, I am unable to persuade the other doctors and no patients will be willing to stay in the same room with you.”

“I only want to return to my previous room. So that I can occasionally see the theme park outside the room. The hospital does not even need to remove the bindings, this way I will not be able to harm anyone...”

“You still do not quite understand it.” Doctor Gao sat down on his bedside. “The problem is not you but your second persona. You represent kindness and he represent evil. You have to use your own determination to shake off his influence on you and deny him from the bottom of your heart, you have to abandon him fully so that you can truly start your treatment. You do not need to worry about being consumed by him, us doctors will always be there to help you.”

Chen Ge nodded his head, “I know what to do now.”

“if you lost control of yourself again, I am afraid you will forever be locked up in the quarantine zone already.” Doctor Gao stood up, “I will try my best to have you moved back to your original room but do not have too much hope about that.” Even though that was what Doctor Gao said, in that same afternoon, Chen Ge was moved back to his previous room by the hospital workers. Honestly, when the ‘second persona’ did not show up, Chen Ge was no different from a normal person, in fact, he was kinder and friendlier than most people. Many other patients thought he had the warmest smile. Only the doctors and a certain ‘victim’ knew how dangerous Chen Ge could be.

When he returned to the room, Chen Ge did not encounter Zuo Han. After asking the doctor, Chen Ge found out after Zuo Han knew Chen Ge was going to move back into the same room with him, he ran out into the corridor to scream and shout. He berated the hospital and threatened them with his life, he would do anything to be spared the fate of staying in the same room as Chen Ge anymore. After the hospital took in various consideration, in the end, they arranged Zuo Han to stay in the room adjacent to Chen Ge's room. Staying alone inside the normal sickroom, after ensuring there was no one outside the door, Chen Ge walked to Zuo Han's original bed.

"I almost killed Zuo Han yesterday night. Zuo Han as someone who was supposed to suffer from paranoia, no matter what he would not willing to be my roommate anymore. This matched his symptom perfectly and this would prevent him from being suspected by the hospital." If Zuo Han had shown no opinion when Chen Ge was supposed to move back in with him, then that would definitely arouse the hospital's suspicion, after all Zuo Han was supposedly to be suffering from paranoia. How could someone who was supposed to be so extremely sensitive to potential danger be willing to stay in the same room as someone who almost killed him? "Even though Zuo Han had moved away, the hospital workers still intentionally let slip the information that he was just living next to me. Looks like the hospital still has not given up, they still want me to go and kill Zuo Han. Furthermore, even after Zuo Han moved away, a new patient might move into this room with me. The new arrival will me a test for me or it would be an opportunity for me to gain a new person to help me."

Chen Ge was completely in tune with Zuo Han's thought. "Now I will have to solve the last problem. Zuo Han definitely had found something yesterday night. Since he had voluntarily asked to move away after he knew that I was moving back here, then perhaps he would have left his findings inside this room, so that I could be able to see them without having direct contact with him." Scanning the sickroom, Chen Ge mumbled to himself, "Where would he hide all those information?"

There were not many places where one could hide things inside the room. Chen Ge first checked under the bed, inside the bedsheet and mattress before he turned to the pillow.

"Could it be inside the pillow case?" Chen Ge removed the pillow on Zuo Han's bed from its case, it was completely empty. "After Zuo Han moved away from this room, the hospital workers might need to change his pillow case. After I move back into this room, the hospital workers might inspect my bed as well. In that case, the safest place would be the bed in the middle which had not been occupied by anyone before." Chen Ge picked up the pillow from the middle bed.

After removing the pillow case, he found a few broken pieces of paper that were filled with words. "Found it!"

He was not eager to read them. Chen Ge first returned the sickroom state back to its original and then crawled back into his bed. "He even found pen and paper, looks like Zuo Han had stumbled across a hoard of information yesterday night." Chen Ge sat away from the door and started to read through the pieces of paper one by one. The first piece of paper had to do with the hospital workers. Zuo Han had scanned through the hospital workers' identification and duty records. All of the hospital workers at this third sick hall have the surname Chi. Zuo Han suspected the surname Chi has a special meaning at this hospital, he hoped that Chen Ge would pay special attention to it.

The information on the second paper was marked important on the top by Zuo Han. He had found a cupboard which was used to store patient's record inside the night doctor's office. All the patient's record was arranged according to dates. There were seven boxes in the cupboard, corresponding to every day of the week. Six of the boxes only had several patient's records in them but one of the boxes were filled to the brim with patient's records. Perhaps there was not even space already, there were a few paper boxes on the ground that was filled with the patient's records on the same day. Zuo Han took a look at the date, all the patient's records on that day was from the day before he moved into the same room with Chen Ge, and the strangest thing was all the patient's name on the patient's record had the name Zhang Wenyu!

The age, symptoms and even pictures on each of the patient's records was different but in the space for the name, all the patients had the name Zhang Wenyu. Counting the patient's records in the few large paper boxes, the patient's records with Zhang Wenyu's name had reached up to the ten thousands. The hospital probably did not expect so many patients would appear on the same day, and so an accident happened. Part of the patients had escaped from the hospital before they could receive treatment from the hospital. Currently the hospital was very understaffed because one of the bigger reasons was part of the doctors and hospital workers had to leave the hospital to go to the Xin Hai city outside to go in search of the patients. The above information was obtained by Zuo Han based on the notes of the night doctor as well as his own close observation, it was trustworthy.

"Zhang Wenyu? Yet another familiar name." His brain was pulsing with slight pain, Chen Ge instantly made himself stop thinking. He continued to read. The third piece of paper wrote that Zuo Han had buried the phone with the white casing that the hospital worker had dropped under the third tree in the hospital garden. The fourth piece of paper contained some of Zuo Han's speculation and his words of appreciation to Chen Ge for sparing his life. "This kid is so capable. This amount of information he has found is far beyond my expectation."

The most important piece information was the one related to Zhang Wenyu. The day those ten thousands of patient's records showed up was the day Chen Ge first woke up from his unconsciousness. That was too much of a coincidence, so it had attracted the serious attention from Chen Ge. He suspected the appearance of such an exorbitant amount of patient's records had to do with him.

"I have just woken up from my fainting spell and the hospital had received more than ten thousand patient's records and some of these patients have even escaped from the hospital. If the memory of all the people inside the hospital has been tempered with by the hospital, then the patients who are still wondering outside the hospital, is it possible that they still retain their original memory?!"

"yes! That must be it! Or else why would the hospital go through so much trouble of tracking them down! The hospital suddenly had to deal with so many patients, the hospital would not be able to handle all of them so there has to be some who slipped through the cracks, there have to be people whose memory has not been tempered with!"

Chen Ge instantly got excited. There was originally only one voice in this world and that was those of the doctors. He was told to believe that everything the doctors said had to be the 'truth' but now things were different, Chen Ge knew that there was another part of people who had a grasp on a different version of the 'truth'.

"I have to figure out a way to gain contact with the people on the outside. Temporarily I am unable to leave the hospital so I would have to plead Zhang Ya to help me, hopefully I will be able to convince her."

Chen Ge started to have a plan formed in his mind. He stopped to believe implicitly in Doctor Gao, his search for his own truth had begun.

Chapter 1171 - Doctor Fang

Chapter 1171: Doctor Fang

After dinner, Chen Ge laid in bed. His expression was dull as he stared silently at the theme park outside the window. Compared to the previous time he woke up, Chen Ge had become more silent. Perhaps in the doctor's eyes, the current him fitted the hospital's requirement more.

Bang! The door was pushed open roughly. Two hospital workers and Xu Wan walked in. "Chen Ge, time for your medicine."

"Where is Doctor Gao? Isn't he normally the one who deliver the medicine?"

...

"He has something else to do tonight so I shall take his place tonight." Xu Wan's voice was very gentle, there was nothing strange about it. After confirming Chen Ge swallow the 3 white pills, she said again, "The hospital is lacking in open beds, so this is your new roommate, try not to scare him away again!" Two workers dragged a middle-aged man with pale face into the room and assigned him the bed previously occupied by Zuo Han.

"Try to get to know each other. Try to rest and do not go out at night." Xu Wan left with the workers after saying that, leaving the two patients in the room. Chen Ge studied the new arrival with curiosity. His new roommate looked about 40 plus. His face was free of wrinkles but his hair was all white. He seemed to have gone through many inhuman torture, his mental state was very weak and his body kept shivering.

"Brother, how shall I call you?" Chen Ge actively tried to communicate with him, he suspected this middle-aged man was another type of 'medicine' the hospital prepared for him. Since he was a medicine, then he must have played a part in Chen Ge's past before, thus he might help Chen Ge remember somethings.

"Can you hear me?" He called multiple times before the man finally turned to look Chen Ge. His eyes were filled with intense fear, when he saw Chen Ge, he immediately lowered his head again.

“Do you know something about me?” The man had completely different personality from Zuo Han, he refused to say anything and to communicate. Chen Ge had no idea what was his name and what illness he suffered from, he only knew the man appeared to be afraid of him. Night was falling but the sound of footsteps and trolley kept echoing in the hospital corridors. At around 1 am, the door of the room Chen Ge was in got knocked. The middle-aged man who slept in the bed nearest to the door sat up immediately. The door was knocked 5 times, the interval between each was very small. “They knock one more time compared to last night, the knocking represents how many days I’ve been here?”

The corridor soon returned to normal. The middle-aged man gathered his courage and walked to the door, he pushed the door open a gap and peered out.

“Hey, is there anyone outside?” Chen Ge suddenly spoke and startled the man. The man lightly closed the door and then shook his head at Chen Ge. “There is no one outside.”

The middle-aged man’s throat appeared to have been injured, his voice sounded awkward. When he spoke, his expression was pained.

“Brother, it is fate that we have been given this chance to share the same room, how shall I call you?” Chen Ge was surprised that the man would reply him, he felt this was a chance for them to get to know each other.

“My surname is Fang.”

“Brother Fang, why are you here? What kind of illness you suffer from?” Chen Ge asked.

“Paranoia. I used to be a ENT doctor but after I got sick, I have this feeling there is something alien inside my body, I’m feeling it now.” The man pointed at his ear and mouth. “I feel like there is a snail crawling in my ear and there is a full syringe with drug inside my throat. I know these are just my illusion but the feeling is so real.”

Combining that with the hospital’s various action, the way Chen Ge looked at Doctor Gang changed. He felt like these things might really exist within Doctor Fang and they were not an illusion. Doctor Fang became more talkative at night, it was unclear whether he was desperate for a friend to chat with or he had felt better around Chen Ge.

“Brother Fang, do you mind if I look down your throat? You said you feel there is a syringe in your throat, what if it’s true?” Chen Ge climbed up from his bed. Doctor Fang looked at Chen Ge with complicated expression. The fact that Chen Ge would say something like that proved that Chen Ge was also a mental patient but strangely enough, Doctor Fang felt concern in Chen Ge’s words.

“Is this what they call a friendship between mental patients?” Doctor Fang silently labelled Chen Ge—a kind madman.

“Open your mouth.” Chen Ge moved to Doctor Fang’s bedside. He looked into Doctor Fang’s throat and his pupils narrowed involuntarily. The esophagus was like an endless black hole, Chen Ge’s gaze was sucked into it like his whole person was slowly being pulled into Doctor Fang’s mouth. His consciousness kept falling, when the pupils were narrowed to its smallest, he saw a human face deep inside Doctor Fang’s throat!

Flesh enveloped that face, the face’s eyes were closed and it was hidden deep inside the esophagus. There was a person inside Doctor Fang’s throat!

His body was pushed back. Chen Ge’s eyes returned to normal and he looked at Doctor Fang in shock.

“Why are you looking at me like that? Is there really a syringe in my throat?” Doctor Fang sat at the edge of his bed, he was being stared at until his heart quivered.

“There is no syringe, but I did see a human face in your throat. He looks just like you with his eyes closed and face pale.” Chen Ge tried to gesture with his hands.

“There is a human face in my throat?” Doctor Fang first reacted with fear, then he shook his head, “Looks like you are more serious than I thought, how can there be a human face in one’s body?”

“It’s real.” Chen Ge did not argue on this point, he returned to his own bed and started to consider the Doctor Fang before him and the Doctor Fang in the throat, which one was the real Doctor Fang. The room returned to silent and neither of the patient spoke again.

...

Sun fell on his face, Chen Ge had a good night sleep.

“The morning of this world sure is alluring.” Chen Ge mumbled something that no one understood, his eyes were glued to the theme park outside the window. Soon the door opened and Doctor Gao walked in with Xu Wan. He had not seen Doctor Gao for one night but the latter looked more worn than usual.

“Did you have any nightmare yesterday night?” Before even greeting Chen Ge, Doctor Gao cut to the chase, he seemed to be in a hurry.

“No, I slept soundly through the night.” Chen Ge hesitated before finally asking, “Doctor Gao, why do you keep asking me that question?”

“A dream can often reflect a person’s mental state.” Doctor Gao ticked on a document, that appeared to be Chen Ge’s patient’s record. There was a number behind the document, Chen Ge could not see the two digits in front of the number but the last digit was the Arabic numeral ‘1’.

Chapter 1172 - The New Night Doctor, Doctor Sun (2in1)

Chapter 1172: The New Night Doctor, Doctor Sun (2in1)

Normally a patient's record did not have that many things to write, but Chen Ge's patient record was an exception, it consisted of several pages and the content of each pages appeared to be completely different. Doctor Gao had been recording Chen Ge's condition daily. He seemed to sense Chen Ge's confused gaze on him so he put the patient's record unassumingly away. "Chen Ge, I remember you told me a few days ago, you were very averse to the sense of fear. As long as you are wrapped in fear, you would feel incredibly anxious?"

"Yes, I did say that."

"based on my observation, the reason behind the birth of your second persona was to share in your fear. You have lived in your own made up horror stories for too long, at that imagined world, other than yourself, everyone else is fake. You yourself know that deep in your heart, and to buffer the pain and uncertainty, so your mind came up with another version of yourself to take in the pain that you are unable to face, and that person is Xu Yin." Doctor Gao sat on Chen Ge's bedside, it was hard to tell the doctor's real thoughts from the expression on his face. "When you are living in your nightmare, or in other words, surviving in your made up world, Xu Yin has been protecting you, to prevent yourself from being harmed; but when you return to real life and your condition has started to get better, your second persona, Xu Yin became the biggest hurdle in your road towards recovery."

...

"He is the problem on my road to recovery?"

"Under our treatment, you can now delineate between the real world and the imagined world somewhat but Xu Yin still does not possess that ability. He exists because of your imagination, your delusion is his whole world." Doctor Gao's every word was meant to lead Chen Ge, "When he wants to escape from this made up world, he would try his best to bring you with him so that you would not be able to escape as well. Perhaps, from his perspective, he was only trying to protect you but in reality, we know that he is only going to end up harming you.”

“Then what should I do?”

“Struggle free from his grasp that grips you. Leave him behind in your delusions and you step forward to embrace the light of the real world.” Doctor Gao stared into Chen Ge’s eyes, there was a heavy fatigue in the doctor’s eyes but deep inside his gaze, Chen Ge discerned a complicated emotion as well. That emotion confused Chen Ge, because in his memory, the Doctor Gao that he knew would not have expressed this kind of emotion.

“He will only appear when I am unconscious, I am unable to communicate with him even if I want to.”

“That can be corrected. We can create a unique scenario where we can evoke him from your mind while maintaining your consciousness. This will be very dangerous so we need full cooperation from you.” Many things appeared to have happened at the hospital for the past few days, this gave Doctor Gao a sense of urgency. He appeared to wish to stabilize Chen Ge’s condition as soon as possible, or at least do away with the second persona within Chen Ge.

“I am willing to cooperate with you. To be honest, I also wish to meet my second persona in person.” Once Chen Ge said that, Doctor Gao immediately shook his head. “Do not have any curiosity towards him, do not trust anything that he might say. It has not been easy for us to help you walk out of your delusion, you must not let yourself spiral back into it again.” Doctor Gao’s tone was very serious. “We have spent almost a year in your treatment and we are about to reap the reward soon. This is the most crucial moment, if your conviction crumble now, then everything that we have done will be for nothing.”

“I understand, but how am I supposed to cooperate with you?”

“When the time comes you only need to do one thing and that is to reject him from the bottom of your heart. Remember you have to tell him sincerely that you do not need his help anymore and you do not wish to be dragged down into that despairing dark sea again.” Doctor Gao put away the patient’s record and stood up, “If the reason behind his existence is only to protect you then he should be made to understand that his mission has already been completed, you do not need him anymore.”

Chen Ge nodded silently.

“The treatment will be conducted this midnight, I will return to this room to come fetch you.” Chen Ge took out the medicine bottle and fed 3 pills to Chen Ge. “You better take some rest now, tonight will be a very important night for you.” Pushing open the door, Doctor Gao left. Chen Ge laid in his bed, working over the words that Doctor Gao had said in his mind. “There has to be a reason why they have suddenly decided to adopt such a drastic treatment method. Some kind of accident must have happened. The hospital wants me to actively cooperate with them to destroy my second persona, this proves that with their own power, they are unable to temporarily remove this second persona in a short period of time. Just what kind of existence is Xu Yin? When I fainted last time, I once saw someone standing behind him, he has volunteered to take on most of the curse and pain, how would someone like that even contemplated harming me?” Chen Ge already knew what he should do. “tonight is indeed a very important night for me.”

Moving down from the bed, Chen Ge took a glance out the window. After bidding farewell to Doctor Fang, Chen Ge moved slowly to the cafeteria with the aid of his crutches. After having a comfortable meal, Chen Ge came to the garden outside the sick hall. After ensuring there was no one watching him, Chen Ge entered the garden. When he came to the chair that he usually occupied, Chen Ge realized Zuo Han was already there, the young man appeared to be waiting for him.

“have you seen the notes?”

“Yes.”

“Then what do you plan to do next?”

“I plan to search for Zhang Wenyu’s that might still be outside the hospital, they might retain the memory that has not been tempered by the hospital.”

“Do you need my help?”

“After tonight’s midnight, Doctor Gao wants to conduct an intensive treatment on me, if something happens to me, you should escape from this hospital.” Chen Ge said with a smile on his face. Just from his tone, it was hard to believe he would be in any kind of danger that night.

“You mean I am to escape on my own?”

“Yes, you need to protect yourself first and foremost, there will be plenty of chances in the future.”

“What about your new roommate? Can you befriend him?” Zuo Han asked carefully.

Chen Ge shook his head. “He believes there are objects inside his body like snail and syringe. I looked down his throat and the result was I saw a human face inside his mouth, it was his own face.”

“There is a face inside his mouth?” Zuo Han sucked in a cold breath.

Chen Ge and Zuo han spoke very quickly. In less than a minute, they had finished their conversation. Zuo han did not stay there for long. After they were done, he left immediately. After sitting for almost an hour on the chair, Chen Ge heard the rustling from the bushes. He walked towards it with the crutches under his arms, and then he saw the cute white cat’s furry head among the bushes. “Have you gotten fatter? How come it feels like you have gotten rounder than before?”

It had been two days since the white cat had seen Chen Ge. It bounded towards him and meowed continuously. Its dual-colored eyes were filled with concern. It brushed against Chen Ge’s feet and then led Chen Ge to the edge of the fence. Even through the distance, Chen Ge managed to see Zhang Ya who was standing on the other side of the fence. Zhang Ya in a red dress gave a sense of familiarity to Chen Ge.

“Didn’t you say you will come here every morning?” There was no trace of accusation in Zhang Ya’s voice, if anything, there was plenty of concern. But the girl herself had no idea why she would be so worried about someone that she did not really know.

“I thought you would not come back here again.” Chen Ge walked to the side of the fence and he gripped the rusted fence links with both of his hands. “Zhang Ya, I need a favour from you.”

“What kind of favour?”

“I need you to help him find people with the name of Zhang Wenyu inside the city.” Chen Ge lowered his voice. “They are currently being sought after, the hospital has claimed them as mental patients who have escaped from the mental hospital but actually they are not sick at all.” Studying Chen Ge who was in the patient’s garb, Zhang Ya hesitated. After all, this was not a request that could be accepted that easily. After all, from the perspective of a normal person, they had more reason to place their trust in the hospital than a patient inside said hospital.

“You said they are being sought after?” Zhang Wenyu is not a single person? Is it a code for a group of people?”

“Yes, these patients have different appearance, age and even occupation, the only thing that ties them together is that they share the same name, Zhang Wenyu.” Chen Ge looked at Zhang Ya seriously. “You need to pay special attention to visitors who come to visit the Haunted House. If they still retain their old memory, then there should be people among them who know about my relationship with the Haunted House so there is a great chance that they might voluntarily go and approach you.”

“I do not quite understand what you are trying to get at.”

“You do not need to, you only need to ask them whether they still remember the real past and ask them about details regarding and try to find a way to send those information to me.” For the sake of security, Chen Ge added the following, “if something happens to me, and I do not show up here for many days, then you should go and look for a young man called Zuo Han. He is a very clever person, he should know how to make use of these information about Zhang Wenyu.”

“How come it feels like you are giving me your last words?” Zhang Ya felt the mental patient before her was acting very strange, he kept saying these thing that made no sense but she did not have any sense of impatience at all, it was as if she could tell that he was telling the truth.

“I need to do something very dangerous tonight, honestly I do not know whether I will be able to meet you again or not.” Chen Ge prepared to leave after he had finished saying all that. “Zhang Ya, remember what I said.”

“Wait a minute.” Zhang Ya suddenly said, she walked to the edge of the fence, this was the first time she was so close to Chen Ge. “I have been coming here for the past few days because I have something to ask you.”

“You have something to ask me?”

“After the day that we met, I had a dream that night, in the dream, the parents that I lived with were not my own parents, my real parents had gotten into a car accident. The day was my birthday and the car still had the birthday present that they had carefully wrapped and a birthday cake that they had just bought for me.”

“Zhang Ya’s birthday present...” An inconspicuous fragment of memory was triggered at the corner of his mind and Chen Ge blurted out the following without thought, “Is it a ballet dress?”

After that, both Chen Ge and Zhang Ya were stunned. Both of them looked at each other in shock.

“How would you know that? I have not told anyone about this dream before!” Zhang Ya grabbed the fence with her hands as well. “The dream was so real, when I woke up, I still had tears on my face. I know that was not my life but I could not control the tears from falling.”

“I have had similar dream before, but in my dream, my parents are the owner of a Haunted House but one day they disappeared and left me alone.” Chen Ge grabbed Zhang Ya’s hands through the fence. “The life that you are experiencing now is the dream that I once had. The reality that I want to escape now is actually your past.”

“Impossible, I have been staying with my parents for over 20 years already...”

“There is no need to rush. Just follow my instructions for now. Among those people named Zhang Wenyu, there should be some who know the truth.” Chen Ge released his grasp. It was much too easy to grab other people’s attention if he stayed there for too long. He held the crutches and left in a hurry.

...

The sun sunk down the horizon. The color of night enveloped the hospital and it was complete darkness outside the window. Chen Ge had no idea what was the content of the treatment intended by Doctor Gao, he could only silently adjust his breathing, and try to ensure that he was in the best possible state to face this imminent challenge.

“For the past few nights, Doctor Gao was preoccupied with something else, I wonder what has he been up to in the nights? This is the first time I have encountered a treatment that has to be conducted after midnight. Is it possible that Doctor Gao in the day is a different Doctor Gao in the night?” Looking outside the window, Chen Ge was thinking when a flash of lightning crossed the night sky. In that moment, the lighting shattered the sky and then it was followed by rumbling thunder. The wind drifted into the room and caused the curtains to flutter. They flapped against Chen Ge's face.

"A storm is coming?" Ever since Chen Ge woke up, the sky had always been in a good weather. Every morning he would wake up to a warm sun, that was one of the good things that he could experience here. "Could there be a reason behind this sudden change of weather pattern?"

The rolling rain clouds gathered in the sky. A suffocating presence appeared within the heart of every patient. Doctor Fang leaned against the wall and bit on his own fingers. The edge of his lips were stained with blood but he did not seem to realize it. He kept mumbling something to himself. At around midnight, the door was pushed open and Doctor Gao walked in alone. Normally when Doctor Gao came to visit Chen Ge, he would bring the hospital workers with him. But tonight he had come alone, this discrepancy unsettled Chen Ge even more.

"The treatment room is on the fifth floor." The trace of warmth that was normally in Doctor Gao's voice had vanished. In fact, there was no emotion in his tone, it felt like all the emotions had been sucked out of his body.

"Fifth floor?" Chen Ge had been to the fifth floor before with Zuo Han. The place only had rooms for patients with serious problems, there was no treatment room on that floor. Doctor Gao personally bound Chen Ge's wrist with the strap. He did not give Chen Ge the crutches, instead he supported Chen Ge as they walked out of the room together. Just as they were about to leave the room, Doctor Gao turned back to address Doctor Fang, "Why don't you come with us, your illness has been dragged on long enough."

The hospital that night appeared to be different from usual. All the lights in the other sickroom had been switched off. The duty rooms and the nurse stations were all vacated. Chen Ge walked for a distance but did not encounter any other person.

"We are here." Doctor Gao took out a large ring of keys from his pocket, there was a number written on each key. These keys should correspond to the number of the various sickrooms. Opening the door, Doctor Gao walked into the room. And then as if on purpose, Doctor Gao hung the large ring of key on the hook beside the door while he made sure Chen Ge was watching him. "Why don't the two of you find a place to sit first?"

The room's light was not turned on. Chen Ge frowned as he scanned the room. The small room had seven chairs inside it and three of them were already occupied. They were all wearing patient's garb so they should be patients at the hospital as well.

Doctor Fang's shoulders were slightly quivering. He sought his way in the dark before settling in chair number one. Chen Ge looked around before finally deciding on chair number seven which was closest to the door. Of the seven chairs, chair number six and three were still empty.

"Two more patients who are supposed to receive treatment have gone missing so their empty spaces will be replaced by me and another night doctor tonight." Doctor Gao took chair number three. "after that doctor arrives, we will start our treatment immediately."

10 minutes later, the sound of footsteps came from the corridor and then came the knocking.

Dong dong dong dong dong dong! The door was knocked on consecutively for six times.

"The door is not locked, please come in."

The door was pushed open. A doctor in a white coat walked into the room. After he saw the seat next to Chen Ge was empty, he went towards it immediately and sat down.

"This new night doctor who has just arrived has the surname Sun, you can call him Doctor Sun." After making the simple introduction, Doctor Gao took out a bottle of medicine from his pocket. "During the process of treatment, do not matter what happens tonight, do not leave the room. If one of the patients suddenly act up, I hope everyone else will help us to restrain them and then feed them with the pills."

Chapter 1173 - Cursed Game (2in1)

Chapter 1173: Cursed Game (2in1)

The fifth floor of the hospital was the floor for patients with serious illness. The windows were reinforced with wires and the doors were specially reinforced. "It is now 12. 30 am, our treatment will start at 12. 44 am." Doctor Gao opened the medicine bottle on the table. "Before the treatment officially started, we need every patient to ingest a single pill. This is for your own good." There were only 4 pills inside Doctor Gao's bottle. Minus the two doctors who did not need the pills, the medicine ran out just as it reached Chen Ge. Placing the empty bottle on the ground, Doctor Gao took out a new bottle of medicine from his pocket. From the outside appearance, there was no difference between the two bottles of medicine.

When Doctor Gao was unwrapping the bottle, Doctor Sun who sat next to Chen Ge took out a bottle of medicine from his own pocket, "I still have some left overs on me." He shook out a single pill from his bottle. The surface of the pill was pure white in color but if you looked closer, you could discern some very small black lines on the surface. When Doctor Gao saw this, he reached out his hand to stop Doctor Sun, "Chen Ge's condition has become much better, he only needs half of the pill."

"Half of the pill?" Doctor Sun looked at Doctor Gao with confusion, the former should have been notified of the treatment process beforehand.

...

"Yes, he only needs half of the pill." Doctor Gao tried to cover up his hesitation.

"That is different from what the hospital director wants." Doctor Sun shook his head without any expression. "Even though you are his main doctor, some decisions are still made by the hospital director." He stood up and tipped the pill into Chen Ge's mouth. Chen Ge could feel the pill brush against his lips but the strange thing was Doctor Sun did not force feed him the pill. He only used his hand to cover his mouth, the pill was still squeezed between Doctor Sun's fingers. Doctor Sun took his hand back and Chen Ge subconsciously made a swallowing motion.

The pills with the black lines could make people go insane and lose their rationality, Chen Ge was very familiar with that. It appeared like Doctor Sun did not want to feed him that kind of people and even silently pulled one over Doctor Gao and the rest of the patients. This piqued Chen Ge's interest. Doctor Sun who sat next to him appeared to not want to harm him.

[From the day I woke up inside the hospital, someone would come to knock on my door every night. The knocking will correspond the amount of days I have spent inside the hospital. As if worried that I might lose count of the amount of day, the person will come to notify me every night. Yesterday night, they had knocked for five times so technically today, they should have knocked six times. Coincidentally enough, when this Doctor Sun entered this room earlier, he knocked on the door six times. Is he using this time of method to tell me that it was him who had been knocking on my door?] Thunder and lightning danced outside the window but the room was eerily quiet. The seven people sat around in a circle. Other than Chen Ge and the two doctors, the other patients had their heads titled downwards, as if they were asleep.

[They should be given the normal white pills. The medicine bottle that Doctor Gao has placed on the table now should contain the pills with the black lines.] Before the treatment started, Chen Ge already sensed something was seriously off. Based on what Doctor Gao said, if the any of the patient acted up, the other people had to help restrain them and feed them with the pills on the table. But clearly enough the pills inside the bottle on the table were not the normal white pills but the pills mixed with black lines. Ingestion of those pills would only make the patients go even more out of control. If this kind of treatment continued, the final result would most likely be the patient who was force fed the pills would end up killing everyone else in the room in a bloodlust berserk. Chen Ge narrowed his eyes. He was suddenly reminded of a detail. When Doctor Gao entered the room, he casually hung the ring of keys next to the door as if encouraging the patients to reach of it.

[being force fed the pills with the black lines, the patient will go completely out of control. After the patient kills every one in the room, they will take the ring of keys by the door and leave...] The more Chen Ge thought about it, the more unsettled he felt. If Doctor Sun did not help him, Doctor Gao would have fed him the pill with the black lines, then he would definitely be the first patient to lose control. If that happened, he would get restrained by the other patients and be fed more pills with the black lines which would only make him go even more crazier.

The end result would be Chen Ge would end up killing all the patients in the room and used the key to start a manhunt of the other patients in the sick hall. If Chen Ge had done something like that, then his humanity would be grinded away, all of his determination would turn into a sin that he would never wash away. He would also lose the version of himself in the past forever.

“Now that every patient has taken the pills, I need you to remember the number on your own chair, that number will be your name from now on.” Doctor Gao removed his watch from his wrist and placed it next to the bottle of pills. “At 12 midnight 44 minutes and 44 seconds, we will start the treatment.” All the patients and doctors looked at the clock face of the metallic watch. The room was very quiet and the only sound that remained was the ticking of the second needle. Tik tok, tik tok...

When the needle passed a certain number, Chen Ge suddenly felt an indescribable drowsiness overwhelmed his mind. His eyelids became very heavy. He could not help himself from closing his eyes, but he soon realized he must not fall asleep now, he had to maintain his consciousness. Just as his eyes were about to close, he flipped them open again, the whole process took less than a second but in this one second, a huge transformation appeared to have happened inside the room. He could not pinpoint exactly what the change was, he just felt mildly uncomfortable, as if the room that they were now in was different from the room that they had entered earlier.

“It is now 12 midnight 44 minutes and 44 seconds, the treatment will officially start now.” Doctor Gao’s voice became even more different than before. It was unfeeling and chilly like it came out of a dead body that had no emotion. “All of you are patients that suffer from serious paranoia. I have called all of you here today because I wish to commit to a collective treatment. Do not worry, I will only play a mini game with all of you, you only need to make the choice that is most suitable for you in your heart.”

Doctor Gao’s voice carried no emotion. First he turned to Doctor Fang who was seated at the first chair. “On the day of 1st April, you were working the night shift at Xin hai Central Hospital. Over the past few days something has been bothering you, you felt like someone was looking at you. At 12. 45 am, you stood up and walked to the window for the 17th time and looked outside the window.” Doctor Gao suddenly stopped and the silence lasted for a long time. And then he said while pointing at the window in the room. “Go and look what is outside the window.”

Doctor Fang who was fed the pill and his gaze was not so normal stood up from chair number one. With his hands on the wall, he moved to the window. When he pulled back the curtain, a flash of lightning crossed his face. It lit up the inside of the room as well as the space under the hospital.

“Ah!” Doctor Fang yelled from shock. His hands gripped the edge of the window tightly as if he was worried that he might fall over if he was not careful.

“You stood up and went to the window for the seventeenth time, and then what did you see?” Doctor Gao’s tone did not change at all. At this moment, it felt like he was a dead body among a room of living humans.

“There is a madman who is constantly smiling at me from the ground, he is waving at me! He wants me to jump down the window to join him!” Doctor Fang uttered softly. When he spoke, it felt like he had difficulty catching his breath.

“Now there two choices placed before you, do you want to jump down to meet him or have him come up to find you?” The two choices given by Doctor Gao were easy choices for Chen Ge. They were on the fifth floor, if you jumped down the window, you would definitely die. Therefore to survive, the only choice was for the man to come up to get you. This was a question that one did not even need to hesitate over but Doctor Fang gave it a serious thought. Drops of sweat slid down his face. His body kept quivering. In the end, he did not make a choice. He slumped down on the ground instead. Doctor Gao did not say anything until Doctor Fang climbed up from the ground and hid behind the curtain to look out the window. The question Doctor Gao asked was, “is the person still outside the window?”

“No, no, he is gone already.” Doctor Fang said with extreme fear. Then he moved back to chair number one. No one knew where the monster at the bottom of the building had gone. Doctor Gao did not force any more questions on Doctor Fang but Doctor Fang could not keep his gaze away from the door of the room as if he knew that the madman would come knocking at the door at any moment.

Doctor Gao moved his gaze to look at the second patient. “at 12. 46 am, you have come to Xin Hai Central Hospital to investigate an old case. These past few days you have been searching for clues. In the end, all the information all points to this hospital. You are certain that the killer is hiding inside this hospital. When you arrived at the hospital, you looked up and you saw a doctor pull back a curtain in a panic.”

Doctor Gao’s eyes wandered between Doctor Fang and the second patient. “Take a closer look, does that doctor look like him?”

The patient who was seated in the second chair lifted his head. His face was pale and he looked much older than his actual age. The patient in the second chair stared for a long time at Doctor Fang, and then he eventually shook his head. Silence returned once more to the room. The sound of the mechanical watch kept on ticking in everyone’s ears. After who knew how long, Doctor Gao addressed patient number 2 again. “at 12. 47 pm, you have found a letter asking for help outside the hospital lobby. A boy’s big sister was injured by one of the patients, the patient is hiding inside one of the many rooms. The description inside the letter is somehow similar to the case that you have been investigating. He kept the letter and entered the hospital.”

The emotion of patient number two had started to fray. He shook his head mechanically as if he was unwilling to believe anything. “Reach your hand into your sleeves, see if the letter is still there or not?” Doctor Gao’s voice weaved between the ticking of the clock. The middle-aged man who was the second patient subconsciously reached his hand into his own sleeve and pulled out a crumpled piece of white paper. After seeing the content on the white paper, the patient number two pulled on his hair madly. His eyes were turning red like he could go on a rampage at any moment.

“What is the thing that is written on the letter?” Doctor Gao did not seem to care about patient number two’s condition. Not even the tone of his voice had changed. Patient number two whose eyes were bloodshot placed the letter on the table. The whole letter was written fully with the two words, save me. The words should be written by a child. When he saw those words, Chen Ge felt a sense of familiarity in his word. He believed the handwriting was similar to his own when he was still a child.

“Now there are two choices before you, go into the hospital to save him or go into the hospital to kill him.” After saying that sentence,

Doctor Gao stopped caring about patient number two anymore. Doctor Gao himself was seated on chair number 3 so now he turned his attention to the patient on chair number 4. A female patient sat on chair number 4. She looked weak and thin, the patient's garb was hanging loosely off her body.

"At 12. 49 am, you were attacked by a patient inside your little brother's sickroom. The person has strangled your neck." Doctor Gao picked away the butterfly that was folded from a piece of paper from the grasp of patient number four. He pinched on the wings of the paper butterfly. He slowly gathered force and the paper butterfly's body was gradually being pulled apart. Seeing the butterfly being torn apart slowly by Doctor Gao, the patient number four looked like she was about to suffocate, it was as if Doctor Gao was not pulling on the butterfly but pulling on her neck. Blood drained from her face. Patient number 4 croaked out a desperate cry for help. She waved desperately at Doctor Gao but she did not possess the courage to grab the paper butterfly away from Doctor Gao.

"You are in extreme pain, you hope that someone will be able to come and rescue you but you do not dare to call for help because the killer said that once you utter a word, he will kill you and your little brother." Doctor Gao placed the paper butterfly which was about to be torn apart on the table. "Now there are two choices before you, one, you ram into the sharp knife the murderer is holding and call for your little brother to go and get help; or push your little brother against the tip of the sharp knife so that you can escape the room in the commotion."

Patient number 4's breathing became urgent. She was seriously considering this question. Her face spoke of intense pain and difficulty. Caressing the wings of the paper butterfly, Doctor Gao turned to patient number 5. "At 12. 50 am, you stood outside the door of a sickroom. The room was inhabited by the person that you love and his little brother." Patient number 5 was about at the same age as Chen Ge. He did not like to speak. Both of his hands were callused, it appeared as if he was very good at making things.

"You hesitated for a long time before you finally decided to enter the sickroom to see her, but once you pushed open the door, you saw a madman holding a sharp knife attempting to kill the brother of the woman you love and the woman you love are pleading at the madman. There are now two choices before you. Grab the woman you love and bring her away; or rush into the room to fight against the madman and die on her little brother's behalf."

Doctor Gao watched the expression of patient number 5 closely. When he was about to move his eyes away, patient number 5 suddenly spoke. "I will choose to go in to fight with the madman."

Of all the patients, patient number 5 was the only one who had really made a choice.

"Are you sure? You might die."

"Yes, I am sure because I have done something similar in the past before." After patient number 5 sat that, he gone back into silence. He pressed his hands closely together and the small wounds on his palms were gradually leaking with blood.

Doctor Gao finally turned to look at Chen Ge. "At 12. 52 am, you held the sharp knife and pierced it into the heart of patient 5. After killing patient 5, you killed patient 4 and her little brother." His finger reached out and grabbed the paper butterfly up from the table. Doctor Gao pulled suddenly and tore the paper butterfly into two. "And then you rushed out of the sickroom with the knife still dripping with blood. You encountered patient number two in the corridor. After you murdered patient number 2, you saw patient number one inside the night doctor's office."

The sound of the mechanical watch echoed in Chen Ge's ears. Chen Ge's eyes started to blur. His hands gripped tightly at the edge of the table but his body started to stand up like it was out of his control. The mechanical watch on the table was still ticking. The time on the surface of the watch now showed that it was 12 midnight 51 minutes and 44 seconds.

Chapter 1174 - Treatment that Has Gone out of Control (2in1)

Chapter 1174: Treatment that Has Gone out of Control (2in1)

Doctor Gao said that at 12 am 52 minutes, patient number 5 would be killed by a madman. When Chen Ge stood up from his seat, it was about 12. 51 am. The clock needle moved past every single digit, the ticking of the watch chimed in sequence with the beating of his heart. Everyone turned to look at Chen Ge, as if what he decided to do next would affect everyone. The memory in his mind slowly became blurry due to the sound of the mechanical watch. Chen Ge wanted to control his body but the more he wanted to do so, the more his body went out of his control.

Green veins popped out on the back of his hands. Chen Ge's lowered head slowly lifted, his bloodshot eyes turned to focus on patient number 5. Chen Ge was at the edge of a mental breakdown, Doctor Gao also stared closely at him. As a doctor, Doctor Gao not only did not move to stop Chen Ge, he instead took out something that was wrapped inside layers of newspaper from his pocket. He placed the object on the table before Chen Ge. When the thing landed on the surface of the table, it gave a crisp tingling sound. Something heavy was wrapped inside the newspapers.

Time was still moving. Chen Ge's consciousness gradually blurred. Now he was thankful that he did not take in the pills Doctor Gao was supposed to give him. If he had ingested the pill with the black lines, with the incitation from the pills, he would not have been able to stop himself at all. The edge of his fingertips slowly moved along the table until Chen Ge's hand closed over the newspaper. Five fingers clamped together. Fresh blood leaked out from Chen Ge's palm. The object that was inside the newspaper was very sharp. Blood soaked through the newspaper, turning it black. Chen Ge gripped the object inside the bundle of paper tightly. Large amount of blood seeped out of his palm but the curious thing was he could not feel any pain at all.

...

"Why would my body react like this? I am sure that I did not take any pills, but I still cannot control myself. Is it the effect of Doctor Gao's watch?" The mechanical watch on the table still kept on working. The needle moved second by second. 12 midnight 51 minutes, 50 seconds, 12 midnight 51 minutes 51 seconds, the sound of ticking became louder and louder, so did Chen Ge's heartbeat. His chest rise and fell unevenly and small black blood capillaries appeared on his face.

54 second, 55 second, 56 second!

His hand that grabbed the newspaper could not help trembling. Chen Ge leaned his body forward. The figure of patient number 5 was reflected in both of his eyes.

57 second, 58 second!

At 51 minutes and 59 seconds, Chen Ge raised the object that was wrapped inside the newspaper. But just as he was about to swing the sharp object at patient number 5, there came a knocking on the room door. The knocking interrupted the ticking of the mechanical watch. This was the first time the expression had changed on Doctor Gao's unfeeling face. Both of his brows creased slightly.

"Hong!" The thunder screamed outside the window. Soon after that, beads of rain splattered against the window like it was trying to shatter through the glass. The storm ravished against the night. Many sounds drilled in Chen Ge's ears, he finally regained control of his own body. Doctor Gao picked up the watch to look at the time before placing it back on the surface of the table. Then he turned to address patient number 1 again, "at 12. 52 am, you heard the knocking on the door you were in. You suspected it was the person who had been observing you who had arrived outside the door. You walked over to open the door."

"Impossible! He could not have been standing out the door!" Doctor Fang stood up from his seat. He stood at the door with his quivering finger pressing against the room door. Uncertainty and anxiousness made Doctor Fang hesitate for a long time. Then he pushed the door heavily open!

"Hong!" The sound of thunder exploded in everyone's ears. The doctors and patients inside the room all turned to look at the corridor outside the door. At the dark corridor, there was no light at all. All the sickroom doors were shut as if they were the only few people left inside the whole hospital.

"I remember the light at the corner of the corridor should be on." Chen Ge was slowly taking back the control of his body. He moved his arms and hid the hand that held the newspaper behind him. The newspaper was not wrapping a knife but the mirror piece with sharp edges. No one noticed what Chen Ge had done since their attention were all pulled to the corridor. The sickroom door was pushed open again. The hospital looked through the door appeared to be different from normal, it gave off a completely different feeling. If one had to describe it, the current hospital was more similar to the nightmare that had appeared in Chen Ge's night.

Storm and lightning were roaring outside the hospital, like it was the end of the world but inside the hospital it was so quiet that one could hear the sound of a pin falling to the ground. The dark corridor looked like it reached endlessly into the darkness. The white walls now looked more like the pale faces of dead people.

"At 12. 53 am, you saw the corridor outside the sickroom, there was no one on the corridor. The once familiar hospital now became a bit more unfamiliar." Doctor Gao stood up from his seat. He strapped the watch around his wrist. "you are afraid in your heart, there is a voice inside your heart that reminds you to not leave the room no matter what. Do not be compelled by your curiosity because once you take a step forward, you might not be able to return to this place anymore."

Just as Doctor Gao finished, the sound of a heavy object being dragged suddenly came from the empty corridor. It sounded like a fisherman had just dragged a large dead fish out from the water. Everyone was attracted by the sudden appearance of this sound. They all turned to look at the corner of the corridor. The sound was getting closer and closer until eventually a human head poked out from the floor of the corner.

"Zhang Jingjiu?" When he saw the human head, the name immediately floated up in Chen Ge's mind. Since he arrived at the hospital, Zhang Jingjiu had warned him twice. The first time was at the garden, when Zhang Jingjiu grabbed him and shouted the word 'ghost' repeatedly at him. Because of that, Zhang Jingjiu was severely punished. He was locked up by the doctors on the fifth floor which was meant for patients with serious problems. The man seemed to have gone through plenty of inhuman torture as well.

His second warning came when Zuo Han and Chen Ge explored the hospital late at night. Zhang Jingjiu opened his lips and uttered the word boss with what appeared to be his dying breath. From all these factors, Chen Ge could confirm that Zhang Jingjiu must be related to him, and he was definitely an ally and a friend from his past. At that moment, when Zhang Jingjiu's head appeared at the corner of the corridor, Chen Ge could not hold himself in anymore. The wall had blocked off Zhang Jingjiu's body so Chen Ge had no idea whether Zhang Jingjiu was lying on the ground because he had lost his mobility or the man only had a human head left.

"At 12. 54 am..." Doctor Gao's eyes scanned all the patients in the room. "All of you have seen the killer, now there are two choices in front of you, to kill the killer or be killed by the killer." After saying that, Doctor Gao started to observe the patients' reaction.

"Everyone has seen the killer? So that means the killer is inside this room with us?" The first person to return to normal was patient number 2. The middle-aged man appeared to have shaken off the effect of the medicine. His gaze slowly returned to normal, his eyes that were bloodshot stared fixedly at the human head at the corner of the corridor. The second person to return to normal was patient number 5. His eyes that turned to Chen Ge did not contain any hostility but only fear. "Kill the killer or be killed by the killer? This is not even a choice at all."

"Are you sure you are trying to treat us?" Chen Ge grabbed the mirror piece wrapped in the newspaper and used his other finger to point outside the door. "The things that happened inside the room were stories that were made up by you but there is a real accident that has happened outside this room. All of you have seen that head at the corner of the corridor right? Someone is really injured!" Chen Ge wanted to save Zhang Jinjiu even though he had forgotten his actual connection to Zhang Jingjiu.

"You really think all the stories that I have said earlier are all made up?" Doctor Gao lowered his head to look at his watch. "Didn't you always tell me the stories that you have made up? Then do you think those stories are real or not?" Chen Ge had no idea what Doctor Gao was trying to express. His fingers tightened around the mirror piece and he prepared to leave the sickroom to investigate.

"I will go with you." The patient number 2 who was the first to recover also stood up. He looked tired and old but his eyes were extremely sharp. He seemed to be in the law enforcement before he was sent into the hospital.

"Think about it carefully before you make your decision. After all, you only have one life. This reality is not a part of your imagination, you are not in the story that you have made up in your mind." Doctor Gao stopped talking after saying that.

Chen Ge was worried about Zhang Jingjiu. He held the wall and slowly moved towards the door. Even though patient 2 had decided to go with Chen Ge, he still maintained a safe distance from Chen Ge, as if he too was slightly afraid of Chen Ge. The two of them shuffled out of the room one after another. After they left the room, they realized things were definitely not right. The hospital was too dark. Not only the third sick hall, it was as if the lights at the entire hospital had been switched off.

“The hospital should have back up generators. If this is some kind of accident, at least the emergency lights should be on.” Patient number 2 walked ahead and he said in a serious tone. “This is too strange. I have walked down this corridor many times already but how come it feels so oppressive tonight?” Chen Ge did not communicate with patient number 2. He had a sense of familiarity from patient number 2 but in this circumstance, it was better to trust no one but oneself.

Dragging the leg encased in plaster, Chen Ge and patient number 2 reached the corner of the corridor. When he saw Zhang Jingjiu’s body, Chen Ge’s face darkened immediately. Zhang Jingjiu was lying at the corner of the corner. Both of his arms and legs were broken and they were arranged at a very curious angle. The loose patient’s garb could not cover up the wounds on his body. The poor man’s body was covered in boils and bruises, you could see the signs of needle injections all over his body as well.

“Zhang Jingjiu?” Chen Ge called his name softly. Perhaps it was Chen Ge’s voice who had evoked Zhang Jingjiu’s memory. He struggled to pull his eyes open. His lips moved as if telling Chen Ge to run as fast as he could. Holding Zhang Jingjiu’s bloated hand, Chen Ge wanted to pick Zhang Jingjiu up from the ground but he was hindered by his broken leg and he was unable to accomplish this.

“Let me help you.” Patient number 2 wanted to carry Zhang Jingjiu on his back. He grabbed Zhang Jingjiu by his shoulder and he was about to apply his strength when he suddenly realized Zhang Jingjiu’s stomach and chest were both stained with blood, soaking through his clothes.

“Blood?” Patient number 2 immediately tore open Zhang Jingjiu’s clothes. “The wounds are very small but they reach very deep into the flesh. They look like wounds from a sharp knife but the edge of the wound is extremely irregular. There is a fixed distance between the five wounds, what could be the weapon? This is a very strange pattern.”

Probably due to professional reason, the first thing that appeared in patient number 2's mind was various kind of possible murder weapon. Chen Ge gestured with his hands next to him and then his face paled even more. "Number 2, come and take a look at this wound. Don't you think they are the result of being punctured by five fingers as they plunged into his body?" Before Chen Ge said that, everything was fine, but after he did say that, the way number 2 looked at him changed. It was very strange. The distance between each wound on Zhang Jingjiu's body matched the distance between Chen Ge's fingers perfectly. In other words, Chen Ge's hand could have perfectly matched the wound on Zhang Jingjiu's body, giving the feeling that this was a wound left behind by Chen Ge.

"What is going on here?" Doctor Sun was the third person to walk out from the sickroom. The other patients followed behind him, Doctor Gao was the last person to leave the sickroom. The strange thing was, after Doctor Gao left the room, he kept his eyes glued to his watch as if he was waiting for certain things to happen at certain moments.

"Someone is injured! He is losing a lot of blood, we need to send him to the emergency room now!" The patient number 2 gave Zhang Jingjiu a simple bandage of his wounds. "The wounds are around his chest and stomach so we cannot carry him on our back. Hurry and find a stretcher! Someone come and help me support him!"

"The emergency room is at the fourth sick hall, I will bring you over there." Doctor Sun did not waste time, he had patient number 5 and 2 picked up Zhang Jingjiu and he led the way forward. A human life was on the line. Everyone was desperate to save Zhang Jingjiu so they ran into a hurry. This meant that Chen Ge who had a bag leg was slowly left behind at the back of the group. He ambled right next to Doctor Gao. When he was forced to slow down, Doctor Gao would slow down with his as well, as if the man intended to stay at the back of the group too.

"Doctor Gao, what has happened to the treatment tonight?" The treatment was supposed to be carried out inside the room but as accidents continued to happen, the treatment appeared to have gone out of control. Now Chen Ge could not even tell whether he was experiencing the treatment designed by Doctor Gao or something had really happened at the night. After all, it had not been a peaceful night at the hospital for the past few days. No matter what Chen Ge said, Doctor Gao did not open his mouth to reply. After the latter left the sickroom, other than occasionally lowering his head to check the watch, he did not utter another word. In contrast, it was Doctor Sun who slowly took over the session, it felt as if the restraint that had been placed on him was pulled off.

“Doctor Gao?” Chen Ge pushed lightly on Doctor Gao’s arm. The latter lifted his expressionless face and directed an icy gaze at Chen Ge. The sound of ticking echoed in Chen Ge’s eyes. Even though a storm was roaring outside the hospital, the sound of the mechanical watch was still echoing clearly in Chen Ge’s mind. [There has to be a special meaning behind this ticking sound, if there is a chance I should try to steal the watch away from Doctor Gao.]

Chen Ge was walking next to Doctor Gao, and he quietly observed the other patients who had walked ahead. [Based on the stories told by Doctor Gao back inside the sickroom, there was a very great chance that I am the killer. In other words, I would have killed the other patients according to the plot of Doctor Gao’s story. The hospital has been trying to make me kill people and these people appeared to be already selected. Why would they do something like this, what can they gain from it? Are they trying to fill me with guilt?]

With confusion in his eyes, Chen Ge then turned to Doctor Sun. [And what is with this Doctor Sun? Why would he help me? If the hospital want to submerge me in guilt, they will make me kill those who are close to me. If this Doctor Sun is related to me, then how come my other friends have all been transformed into patients but he has somehow become a doctor at this hospital?]

Chen Ge could not understand the reasoning behind this at all. He also did not dare to dive too deep into this just in case he triggered his past memory. “O well, I guess the only thing I can do is to take it one step at a time.”

After walking down the corner of the corridor, Chen Ge silently turned back to glance at the ‘treatment room’ that they had left. There appeared to be still 7 people sitting inside the room that they had just vacated.

Chapter 1175 - Brain Maze (2in1)

Chapter 1175: Brain Maze (2in1)

When Chen Ge and the rest left the treatment room appeared to still have seven people sitting in them. The seven people appeared to look like Chen Ge's group. He rubbed his eyes. When Chen Ge tried to take a closer look, Chen Ge felt a yank on his arm. He turned to look and it was Doctor Gao who was pulling him to the other corner of the corridor. "Perhaps I have mistaken?" 5 patients and 2 doctors had already exited the treatment room, so how could there still be seven people inside the same room?

[Or we are still inside the treatment room? The thing that has exited the room is actually our consciousness or soul?] Chen Ge shook his head to deny this thought because it was too impossible. Currently he did not dare to turn back to investigate it on his own so he followed the rest of them and continued to move forward. The most important thing now was to send Zhang Jingjiu to the emergency unit and try to stabilize his condition.

Doctor Sun, Patient Number 1 and Patient Number 2 walked at the front of the group. They found a stretcher at the nurse station. They carried Zhang Jingjiu and moved down the stairs. Patient number 4 appeared to be very afraid. She was still holding the torn paper butterfly as she kept hiding behind Patient Number 5. With just a glance, it would appear that everyone was acting perfectly normal. Without the patient's garb, no one would have believed that of the 7 people there, there were 5 of them who were suffering from serious mental illness.

...

[I have been to the fifth floor before. The patients at the serious treatment zone are noisier than the everyone else. Even at 1 am, this floor should be incredibly noisy but now, there is not even a whimper that could be heard throughout the floor. Have the patients been moved away from this place already?] The only answer that came to Chen Ge was this. He did not think someone could have killed all the patients and he did not think the killer was capable of silencing all the mental patients. [Unless the killer was a doctor and he had fed all the patients with a large amount of sleeping pills tonight.]

Chen Ge turned his head to glance at Doctor Gao, he felt Doctor Gao was turning into a stranger before his eyes. [It is this man who wants me to go insane, it has been twice already he wants to give me the drug that will make me lose control, but how come a doctor like this will give me a sense of familiarity? Is it possible that the Doctor Gao in my memory is not similar to the Doctor Gao currently before me?]

To prevent himself from accidentally triggering the memory from his past, Chen Ge carefully arranged the clues in his mind, [There were seven chairs in total in the treatment room earlier, that should not be a random number. The chairs were so many for a reason.] The few patients and doctors carried Zhang Jingjiu to the first floor. There was no one to be found at the nurse stations or duty rooms. The whole block was swallowed by the darkness, it was as if the hospital had been abandoned for a long time already.

“What is going on here? If it is just a simple loss of electricity, there should still be plenty of patients inside their room!” Patient number said urgently. He was worried about Zhang Jingjiu’s injury and at the same time, he felt the hospital that night was filled with strangeness everywhere.

“When I entered the treatment room, everything was still perfectly normal.” Doctor Sun walked at the front to lead the way. He was moving very fast like he was trying to escape from something.

“We have been in the room for at most several minutes only, it is impossible that everything has changed so drastically in such a short amount of time!” Patient Number 2 was still quite rational even though the diagnosis that the hospital had given him was that he suffered from delusion.

“Yes, this is too strange!” Patient Number 5 was very afraid too but he still stood firmly beside Patient Number 4. If there was any actual danger, he would bring Patient Number 4 away with him at the first notice. The few patients kept grumbling, perhaps he was annoyed by their endless question, Doctor Sun who walked at the front of the group suddenly stopped. He turned back to glance at Doctor Gao. After he made sure that Doctor Gao was now like a dead man, with no expression on his face, Doctor Sun’s eyes wandered over to Chen Ge. “Actually there is a ghost story at this hospital. According to legend, if you push open a door at the hospital after midnight, you will be able to see the other side of the hospital!” When Doctor Sun said that, he kept his eyes on Chen Ge as if the statement was meant for Chen Ge to hear and process.

“Push open the door and see the other side of the hospital?”

“What do you mean by that?”

“Doctor Sun, are you really a doctor at this hospital?”

The patients bombarded him with questions but Doctor Sun did not reply any of them. It was as if by saying the statement earlier, he had already taken a huge risk already. For the patients, this was the first time they had met Doctor Sun, and the only person who knew about Doctor Sun's real identity was Doctor Gao, but the latter was acting very strangely at this moment. Not saying a word, his body temperature continuing to drop, to give it a more accurate description, Doctor Gao was slowly turning into a dead man before their eyes. The patients had many questions but none of them was going to get any answer. The doors and windows of the hospital were closely shut. They had nowhere else to run so the only choice they had was to keep on following the doctor and moving forward.

Pushing open the door that led to safety corridor of the third sick hall, two dark and long corridors appeared before Chen Ge. He had been to this place with Zuo Han before but back then, he was playing the character of his second persona.

“Move quickly, do not stay inside the corridor for too long.” Doctor Sun chose the corridor that Chen Ge did not pick the last time. Doctor Sun kept urging them so even Chen Ge who was at the back of the group had started to pick up speed. When they had entered the safety corridor, the door on the other end of the corridor behind them closed with a bang on its own.

“There is someone following behind us?” Chen Ge now was getting more and more confused, there were too many unanswered questions. First they had encountered Zhang Jingjiu who was heavily injured. Then after they had supposedly left, Chen Ge realized there were still seven people sitting in the treatment room. Now the door behind them had closed on its own, a proof that people were following behind them. Chen Ge who had not fully recovered felt the splitting headache was about to come again.

“This is the fourth sick hall. All of the patients with terminal illness and heavy conditions will be transferred here.” Doctor Sun swept a glance at Chen Ge and added as if casually, “Many people have lost their lives here.” No one understand the meaning behind Doctor Sun's last statement. The doctor did not appear like he was going to provide any explanation either, he only tried to move faster. The electrical system at the whole hospital appeared to have gone down for the night, they could only borrow the temporary brightness provided by the flickering lightning from outside the window to move forward in the darkness. The fourth sick hall had a completely different internal structure than the third sick hall. There were not that many sickrooms that were available for patients. The ground floor was occupied mostly by various medical rooms.

“There is no one at the duty rooms at this sick hall as well.” Patient Number 2 said desperately. “We need to stop the bleeding on this patient as soon as possible or else he will be in mortal danger!”

“Why are all the pictures on the wall of the duty room at the fourth sick hall are of that of males?” Doctor Fang looked at the faces on the wall and subconsciously took a step back.

“How is that a strange thing? Is it that weird that they are all males?” Patient Number 5 asked softly.

“I used to be a surgeon. There was a period of time when many of the patients at our hospital were attempting suicide, it caused a lot of pressure on the staff. To protect the female doctors, we only assigned male doctors when we were deciding the night shifts.” After exiting the treatment room, Doctor Fang had failed to calm down. He would occasionally glance behind him for no reason as if worried that there was someone about to harm him who was hiding behind the nearest corner.

“You used to be a surgeon?” Patient number 2 was startled and then he turned to tell Doctor Sun, “We have a surgeon among us, so it does not matter whether there are people in the duty room or not. Now we only need some tools and we can help save this patient’s life.”

“But I was a ENT doctor...”

“It will be fine. I am a forensic doctor and thus know a bit of surgery skill, I will be able to help you.” Patient Number 2 did things quickly and swiftly. Even though he was not that much older than Patient Number 1, he was proven to be more adept at dealing with emergencies. Doctor Sun looked at the various patients and he only said lightly, “Follow me.”

Walking down the dim hospital corridors, Doctor Sun stopped before a surgery room. He did not enter it but did something quite out of the place considering the circumstance. He raised his arm and Doctor Sun knocked lightly on the door. The number of times that he knocked? It was perfectly six times.

When Doctor Sun knocked on the door, Chen Ge felt the temperature around him suddenly dropped. It was as if the world had decided to drop his disguise and to reveal his real self. But soon, the tick tock of the mechanical watch drilled into his ears again and nothing around him had changed. After knocking on the door, Doctor Sun did not enter the room. He just stood outside the room without speaking and did not push open the door.

“The door is locked?” Patient 2 was worried. He went over to push on the door of the surgery room and the door was pushed open easily. “Quick, carry him in here!” Patient Number 2 did not notice the strange way Doctor Sun was acting but Chen Ge watched all of this with his eyes. The few patients carried Zhang Jingjiu into the room. Just as they prepared to place Zhang Jingjiu on the bed in the emergency room, they realized there was a human-shaped stain left on the bed. It was black red color that had faded away. It was unclear whether it was blood or something but it had carved out the shape of a human being perfectly.

“It feels like someone who was bleeding out had occupied this bed in the past.” Chen Ge stared at the bedsheet with both of his eyes. Before he could take a closer look, Patient Number 1 and Patient Number 2 had already placed Zhang Jingjiu on the bed. Then they proceeded to look through the various cupboards in the room to look for medical instruments. They worked for quite some time before they managed to help Zhang Jingjiu stop his bleeding.

[Their mannerism and actions are so professional, they do not look like mental patients at all.] Chen Ge observed the proceeding silently from the side. He noticed more and more strange things happened around him. That feeling got especially stronger after Doctor Sun showed up. [Doctor Gao who had turned into a seemingly dead person had a death hold on him so that I would not be able to wander too far away from me. Doctor Sun who had been acting strangely kept giving me multiple hints like he is trying to tell me something. The two doctors appeared to have gotten into an argument because of me. This is strange. How come it feels like this whole world is constructed with me as the central character?]

Two patients who were formerly doctors were trying to provide the best treatment to save Zhang Jingjiu's life but the real doctors were standing outside the door to watch. This scene wrapped Chen Ge in a sense of absurdity. Inside this hospital at midnight, who truly was the patients and who was the doctor?

The grasp on his arm got tighter and tighter. Chen Ge frowned as he turned to take a look. He realized Doctor Gao's fingernails had practically dug into his flesh. "Doctor Gao?" Chen Ge waved his arm but Doctor Gao did not respond in any way. He only clutched onto Chen Ge tightly, refusing to let him go no matter what. [Why would he do something like this?]

Doctor Gao who was like a dead person beside Chen Ge seemed to have sensed something. The facial expression on his frosty face was slowly changing. Just as Zhang Jingjiu's condition was slowly stabilized, there was another sound of a heavy object being dragged that came from outside the emergency room.

"There are other victims here!" Chen Ge looked out the door. There appeared to be another person standing inside the corridor meeting his eyes.

"Who is that?"

[The hospital wants to make me go insane, their original plan is to have me kill everyone who are related to me. For example Zuo Han and Zhang Jingjiu, this means that the patients who receive the treatment with me tonight should be people that are related to me as well. But there is a detail that I should not forget. There were 7 chairs but there were only 5 patients. Doctor Gao said that the other two patients had gone missing. If these two patients were people that I know as well, then the higher chance was that something had already happened to them and not because they had gone missing. One of the victims was Zhang Jingjiu, the other was most probably Zuo Han.] With this thought in his mind, Chen Ge's heart wrenched with pain.

Coincidentally, just as Chen Ge walked out the room to take a look down the corridor, a flash of lightning crossed the sky. The blinding white light shot through the windows installed with security wires and lit up the corridor in that instant. Chen Ge's eyes slowly widened. With the light from the lightning, he finally had a clear look of that figure standing at the end of the corridor.

"Doctor Sun?" There was another Doctor Sun standing at the end of the corridor. His white coat was covered in blood, his hair was tussled, and blood was coming out from every orifice. But there was an exaggerated smile on his face!

The light from the lightning lasted for less than a second and the corridor outside the emergency room sunk back into darkness again.

[Doctor Sun is the killer? There are two Doctor Suns?] Chen Ge felt like someone had muddled his brain. He could not even tell that whether he was currently inside a nightmare or whether he was still in the real world. [Doctor Sun inside the emergency room had mentioned a door earlier. He said that if you opened open a door at midnight you would be able to see the other hospital, could there be a Doctor Sun both inside and outside the door at the hospital?] His mind reached this conclusion naturally but when that thought stuck to his mind, that heart-wrenching pain returned again. A growl escaped from his throat. Chen Ge gritted on his teeth. Initially it was Doctor Gao who held onto his arm tightly but now it was Chen Ge who was hanging onto Doctor Gao's arm. The latter's arm was twisted into painful shape by Chen Ge but the expression on Doctor Gao's face had not changed. It was as if after they left the treatment room, Doctor Gao was no longer a doctor but he had turned into a dead body without self consciousness.

[I must not faint now. This place is too dangerous. The Doctor Sun in the dark is slowly approaching, he might reach here at any moment.] Chen Ge tried his best to slam the door of the emergency room close. But the enclosed space not only did not bring him any sense of security, it only amplified the horror assaulting his heart.

"What did you see outside?" It was unclear when Doctor Sun had materialized beside Chen Ge. A question abruptly left his lips.

"When the lightning crossed the sky, I saw someone standing outside the corridor, he was covered in blood." Chen Ge did not say that the person had the same face as Doctor Sun.

"he was covered in blood?" Doctor Sun appeared to be reminded of something, "Does he have a fixed smile on his face?"

Looking into Doctor Sun's eyes, Chen Ge did not know how to answer anymore. If he said that he saw the figure was smiling constantly, then it would prove indirectly that he had seen the killer's face and he knew what the killer looked like. After giving it some thought, Chen Ge decided to nod in the end. "Yes, he is smiling like he cannot stop. And I realize he looks very similar to you."

"I know what you are afraid of. That man is not me, he is the ghost at this hospital." The smile on Doctor Sun's face was slowly morphing to mimic the smile of the 'ghost' outside the room. "Do you believe in the existence of ghost in this world?"

"I feel like many people have asked me that question before."

"Then do you know what kind of ghost is the scariest?" Doctor Sun appeared to be trying to help Chen Ge but at this moment he was really looking very scary.

Hearing Doctor Sun's voice, a figure with a red dress floated up in Chen Ge's mind as if on instinct. He answered as if hypnotized. "A ghost in a red outfit is the scariest."

"That is not correct." Doctor Sun's voice slowly lowered. He pointed at Chen Ge's eyes. "A ghost with warmth in his eyes is the scariest."

Chapter 1176 - Cursed Hospital (2in1)

Chapter 1176: Cursed Hospital (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“Ghosts with warmth inside their eyes? Doesn’t that mean that they are still human and not ghost?” Chen Ge had problem wrapping his head around Doctor Sun’s words.

“Doctor Sun! Do you guys have an antibiotics here?” Patient Number 2’s voice travelled out from the emergency room. “We have just bandaged up the patient’s wound and stopped the bleeding but the wound on the front of his chest suddenly worsens and it is now pouring with an exorbitant amount of pus!”

...

“The wound suddenly worsens?” Chen Ge also ran over, he had a feeling everything would not have been so coincidental. When he entered the room, he saw the bandage and various objects that littered the ground. At that moment, Zhang Jingjiu was still lying unconsciousness on the operation table and his chest had stopped heaving.

“He is still alive but he has lost his consciousness. However, if we allow his wound to continue to spread, then I worry he will not have any chance to survive tonight.” Patient Number 2 gasped greedily for air. His hands were filled with blood and it looked incredibly scary.

“Why would his injury suddenly worsen?”

“I have no idea, probably because the wounds that he suffered went a bit too deep.” Doctor Fang stood next to the operation table wearing his gloves, he looked very professional. “I need distilled water to clean the exterior wounds and Povidone to help with the disinfection. By the way, there are some black threads stuck inside the flesh around his wounds. They are probably the signs of infection of some kind of bacteria. If we have to treat him, we will have to do it at a sterile environment.” Doctor Fang’s head was covered in sweat. “I have not done similar surgery before and we do not even have enough tools here. We still professional surgeons to come do this!” Then he turned to Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao. “We should postpone our treatment for now, it is far more important to rescue this patient's life!."

"It is pointless for you to turn to me. Me and Doctor Gao are both psychologists, our knowledge of surgical medicine is even poorer than you. How about this, we will go to the other sick hall now and if we are lucky, we might run into other night doctors." Doctor Sun suggested casually.

"I suppose that is the only thing we can do. He is not able to move. Number 2 and I will stay here to watch over him, the rest of you should go and look for other night doctor." Doctor Fang and patient number 2 tried their best to help ease the pain on Zhang Jingjiu but without any professional tools, there was only so much they could do. Without a suitable medical device and surgical environment, they did not dare to apply any cut on Zhang Jingjiu. If it caused the infection to spread, then they would definitely claim Zhang Jingjiu's life.

"We are going to split up?" Patient Number 5 thought this was not a good idea. "The killer is still inside the hospital, if we split up now, we will get taken down by him one by one."

"This patient cannot wait anymore. If we carry him with us, it will only slow us down. The best solution is to temporarily place him here, that will also help with his condition." Doctor Fang considered everything from the perspective of a doctor first. His teacher kept installing in him a theory in life and that was to help anyone that he could. If there was a chance for a rescue, he should do everything within his power to help them, that was in the oath when he took up his occupation as a doctor.

"Number 1, have you seriously considered this?" Patient 5 was not afraid of death, if anything he appeared to be more concerned about Patient number 4's safety. "You have to understand not only this patient is in a situation of life and death, every single one of us is the target of the killer. To save the life of a person who might not survive, we are going to put the lives of all the survivors on the line, do you think that is worth it?"

"What kind of risk he has put you under? We are only going to temporarily split up, part of us will go look for medicine, doctors and help while the rest will stay here and guard." Patient Number 2 groused with impatience. "There is probably just one killer and there are seven of us. There is no reason for us to be afraid of him." Patient number 2 appeared to be used to deal with different kind of horrid and scary criminals in his past so he did not show any trace of fear, if anything he was anticipating to capture the killer.

“Three of us will stay behind while the four of us will go out to look for medicine. Number 1 is the only one with medical knowledge to tell how the patient is doing so he has to stay here. Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao know about the layout of this hospital so one of them will have to join us.” Patient number 2’s mind was sharp and clear, it did not feel like he was a mental patient at all. In just a few minutes, Patient Number 2 had decided the teams. Chen Ge, Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao as well as Patient Number 2 would go out in search of medicine and other night doctors while Doctor Fang, Patient number 5 and 4 would stay back to look over Zhang Jingjiu.

“Please move faster. The wounds are already leaking pus, the speed by which the wounds are worsening is a bit ridiculous.”

“Lock the door, and we will return as soon as we find the other doctor.” Actually in the beginning, Patient Number 2 did not intend for Chen Ge to leave because his leg was encased in plaster. But Doctor Gao and Doctor Sun refused to leave without Chen Ge, in fact they were insistent that they were not to be separated from Chen Ge so Patient Number 2 had no choice but to allow Chen Ge to leave with them. Opening the door of the emergency room, Chen Ge’s mind was instantly occupied by the image of the other Doctor Sun, he knew the person was just hiding in the dark, perhaps right at that moment, he was even watching them.

“The things that Patient Number 2 need is at the fourth floor but I do not suggest we go to the fourth floor. For the sake of security, we better go to the other sick hall to look.” Doctor Sun’s statement was very strange. It sounded like it was purposely phrased that way so that people would ask more questions.

“Why can’t we go to the fourth floor? Are all the doors locked?” Chen Ge decided to take the bait.

“The hospital director’s office used to be at the fourth sick hall on the fourth floor. But after the first hospital director committed suicide, the newly appointed hospital director had moved his office to somewhere else.” Doctor Sun said calmly but his words had provided a lot of information for Chen Ge.

“The first hospital director at this hospital has committed suicide? At this very hospital?” Chen Ge’s interest was piqued even further.

“Yes, this incident is a taboo at this hospital, very little people will bring it up.” Doctor Sun lowered his voice. “This hospital used to be the biggest hospital at Xin Hai and it was built at the newer part of the city. But for some unknown reason, people kept dying inside the hospital. Initially the deaths were mostly limited to people who died from medical incidents, and patients with terminal illness but soon after that, cleaners and general workers started to go missing and lastly it were the nurses and doctors.”

“They were probably murdered then?”

“if they were murdered, then most of the things would not have added up.” Doctor Sun said cryptically. “Each of the victim had a clear reason of death, most of them died from suicide but a very small part of the victims had their bodies gone missing.”

“you make it sound so scary.” Chen Ge felt chills running up his arms. Doctor Gao who was next to him had body temperature which was very low, it felt like he was now a walking dead body.

“The truth is far more scarier than I am describing it.” Doctor Sun walked adjacent to Chen Ge. “I remember the first victim that should not have died was found at the fourth sick hall. Technically speaking, it should be categorized as a medical incident. The patient’s family came to the hospital threatening to sue, the surgeon in charge was so scared that he went hiding inside the morgue. The hospital director came out personally to mediate the situation with the family, in the end, he finally got the family members to leave but when they came to the morgue to find the doctor, they realized he was already dead.”

“The doctor has died? What was the cause of death?”

“The autopsy given the Xin Hai Police Station was suicide. The crime scene also looked like a suicide. The doctor used the cloth that was meant to cover up the dead body to make a noose and hang himself on the beam over the door.”

“Isn’t it a bit too rash to determine the cause of death as suicide based on that little observation?” Chen Ge felt there was a bigger problem behind this. But since the police worked on evidence, everything should be based on facts.

“Actually it was not that surprising that the doctor chose to commit suicide. He was living not that happy of a life. Combine that with such a serious medical incident that he had caused, the man had nothing else to live for. He came from no background, and thus he would most likely lose his job and get ordered to court. With such a great pressure on his shoulder, it was quite easy to imagine why he had chosen the decision he did.” Doctor Sun appeared to be finding excuse for the doctor’s death.

“Anyway, the second victim was a night nurse. The surveillance video showed that she had been lying at the duty room all night, she maintained the same posture throughout the night. When the nurse from the morning shift came to check up on her, they realized her body was already cold.” Doctor Sun was telling these incredibly scary things but his voice and expression did not change at all. It was like he was just telling a normal story. “The double incident with the doctor and the nurse compelled the hospital director to call for an emergency meeting. However, he did not intend to solve this problem from its basic at all, but instead he planned to suppress all these news. The first hospital director had his own reason for doing so, I believe it has to be related to the fact that at the time the government was pouring money into setting up this newer part of Xin Hai. If everything has gone successfully, the new city where Xin Hai Central Hospital was situated would become much more advanced and populated than the old part of the city.

“In reality, we cannot really pin the blame on the first hospital director. They had more than enough reason to believe that the victims have died from suicide. Therefore, when you consider they have made all these decision on the basis that the victims had all committed suicide, the fact that they had come to these decisions were quite normal and reasonable.” Doctor Sun, Chen Ge and Doctor Gao walked side by side down the hospital’s dark corridor. Patient Number 2 followed behind them with his brows creased heavily together.

“The third accident happened to a male hospital worker. He had gone insane when he was patrolling the rooms and he jumped down from the window of the corridor. No one knew what he had seen in the corridor that day. This confused the police as well, just what kind of things he could have seen that might have scared an adult male so much that he decided to jump out the window.

“The atmosphere inside the hospital gradually became stranger. The doctors and nurses who knew the truth were afraid for their lives. Even though the hospital director wanted to keep everything under cover, the strange stories still eventually reached the ears of the patients. Coincidentally enough, the fourth victim was a patient who was living at the hospital.” At this point, Doctor Sun turned to take a look at Chen Ge. “The patient was staying at the third sick hall. He suddenly went insane at midnight, he claimed there was a ghost hiding under his bed and in the middle of the night, he demanded the night doctor to switch room for him. The doctor naturally rejected his request. But he could not allow the patient to cause such a big ruckus in the middle of the night. So after feeding the patient some medicine, the doctor stayed in the room with the patient until he drifted away into sleep. And then the doctor left.

“What the doctor did not anticipate was not long after he left, the patient would crawl up to the rooftop of the building and then jumped down. Now that the patient had died, the hospital wanted to push the blame fully on the doctor but the doctor felt wronged. Because normally the door to the roof would be locked but for some reason, it was left unlocked that night.

“The fifth victim was this hapless doctor. He wanted to investigate who opened the door to the rooftop that night. The hospital only installed the camera at the corner of the corridor. The doctor recorded everyone that had appeared at the corner that led to the rooftop that night. According to rumor, he stayed until very late that night to watch all the tapes. To clear his own name, the doctor was very serious. In the end, he did find something on the surveillance tape. On the night the patient jumped off the roof, there was someone in a red shirt that appeared in the corridor and he was heading up the stairs.

“But do you know what the scariest thing was?

“The doctor could only find the footage of the person in the red shirt going up the stairs but he failed to find any evidence of him returning back from the roof. There was only one way that led to the hospital rooftop and it was through this corner. The doctor was stumped. He looked at the time on the surveillance tape, even until after the patient had jumped off, the person in the red shirt still had not come down the stairs.

“In other words, when the patient jumped off the building, the person in the red shirt was at the rooftop, in fact he was probably standing next to the patient. The doctor finally found the real killer, he had made it his mission to find this person. He sat inside the surveillance room and focused his attention on the footage. He wanted to see when that person would leave the rooftop and where he had went after he left. But the thing that slowly worried the doctor happened. He had looked through all the surveillance footage but the person with the red shirt did not appear to have come up from the roof until now!

“The doctor started to panic. He kept on consoling himself, perhaps he had missed it or perhaps the man had escaped through the blind spot of the camera. Even though that was what he thought, the doctor kept flipping through the surveillance channel. He was freaking out but in the end, he did find the figure in the red shirt on the surveillance monitor. The person was standing behind him. The moment the monitor turned dark, the doctor saw himself and the red shirt behind him. The doctor gone insane. He repeated this discovery to everyone that he encountered but no one was willing to believe him. In the end, he was found dead inside the trash chute at the fourth sick hall.”

Doctor Sun did not appear like he was just telling stories, it was as if he wanted to impart more knowledge onto Chen Ge through these things.

“The sixth victim was the hospital worker who found the doctor’s body. He was a very common person, there was nothing too wrong with him but there was nothing that stand out about him either. The night he found the doctor’s body, he returned to the hospital for some unknown reason and the next day, his own body was found inside the same spot inside the same trash chute. In an extremely short amount of time, there were six consecutive victims. The hospital director could not hide this anymore. He gave the order to seal up the trash chute and the sickroom where the patient stayed. He even welded the door to the rooftop shut. He thought that would solve all the problem but who would have known he would become the seventh victim.

“The death of the hospital director was still a mystery. He returned to his office after dealing with all the admin work like usual but he did not come out from his office after that. The next day, the doctors found the hospital director’s body inside the director’s office. He spent the whole night, writing the character ‘death’ in blood on all the surfaces of the office.

“No one knew why the hospital director would suddenly go insane. Everyone was speculating whether it had to be a curse that had befallen the hospital because that was the only way to explain all the strange phenomena. How else would one explain the occurrence of so many creepy and scary things in such a short period of time.” Chen Ge thought Doctor Sun would end then. He was about to say something when suddenly Doctor Sun looked at him with a piercing gaze, it was as if Doctor Sun was trying to look through him.

“The hospital director was the seventh victim, since then, the number 7 became the unluckiest number at this hospital. Once 7 people entered the hospital at the same time, then all seven of them would be cursed and they would die one after another.”

“Isn’t it a bit late for you to tell me about all these now?” Chen Ge felt the Doctor Sun before him was both familiar and unfamiliar.

“Counting the two doctors, there are seven people in total that walked out from the treatment room earlier.”

“Think about the cause of death for the seven victims, it should be immensely helpful to you.” Doctor Sun turned his head around. The wounds on his neck and cheeks were slowly splitting open.

Chapter 1177 - Jar of Heart

(2in1)

Chapter 1177: Jar of Heart (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

There were 7 dead bodies in the hospital in the short amount of time. Each of them constituted a strange death but there did not appear to be a conspicuous thread tying them all together. [Doctor Sun purposely reminded me to pay attention to their cause of death but there is not any big problem just from their cause of death, or Doctor Sun is trying to tell me that there are actual existence of ghost in this world through the stories of these seven unfortunate victims?] Chen Ge had too little information and he was unable to retrieve too much information from Doctor Sun's stories so all he could do for now was to memorize the details of these stories in his mind for now.

The lightning continued to flash outside the hospital, the storm was like a desperate patient in and of itself. The wind lashed at the windows, the rain fell constantly on the roof, the sound echoing non stop in everyone's ears.

...

When the four people came to the mouth of the corridor that would lead them to the fourth sick hall, Doctor Sun stopped posing Chen Ge any questions, instead Doctor Sun led Chen Ge directly down the corridor. After they entered the corridor, Chen Ge's heart started to race, in fact his heart was pumping so fast that he felt like he was having trouble breathing. His mind kept repeating the stories that Doctor Sun just told him for some unknown reason. [The doctor who was looking through the surveillance saw a strange character in a red shirt in the corridor before. After that person gone up the stairs, she never came down again. This night is proving to be a strange night, I wonder if the few of us will run into her tonight.]

Theoretically speaking, this was something very scary but once Chen Ge considered the possibility of that, he only felt his heart race even faster and an indescribable feeling started to overwhelm his person. It was very complicated. Instead of fear, it felt more like curiosity and excitement.

[Curiosity kills the cat, I have to calm down first. There is no need to get ahead of myself.] After they reached the second floor, Chen Ge noticed there was a ragdoll that had lost its head sitting at the corner of the corridor that turned into the staircase. The doll was hand made. The body was torn apart and the opening exposed the black and red colored stuffing inside.

“Why is there such a thing at the hospital?” Chen Ge was about to go over to take a look at it when someone pulled on his clothes. Chen Ge turned around to look and realized it was Patient Number 2. “What’s wrong?”

“Why are you still so courageous even after you have broken a leg? Do not wander off from the rest of the group, we need to stick together.” Patient Number 2’s voice was filled with concern. It was clear that he really did have Chen Ge’s best interest at heart.

“Alright, I was just going to over to take a look.” Chen Ge had no idea why but his power of sight was incredibly good. Even in the darkness, he could see many things incredibly clearly. Perhaps this was caused by some kind of eye disease or at least that was what Chen Ge told himself. When they reached the corner, Chen Ge’s brows slowly locked together. There appeared to be animal organs stuffed inside the ragdoll’s body, it looked quite disgusting.

“Do not get too close to it. There was a pregnant woman who registered at the hospital before. Due to complication during childbirth, the child died during the surgery. The mother survived the surgery but it was hard to say it was a good thing. She slowly lost her mind and for that she was transferred to the third sick hall. During her period there, she had been searching for her own son.” Doctor Sun explained as he started expressionlessly on the ragdoll on the ground.

“You mean to say this ragdoll is left here by that pregnant mother?”

“Other than her, I cannot imagine anyone else would do something like this. Actually I pity her conditions. Perhaps because of the trauma, she refuses to admit the fact that her child is already dead, she kept on telling the people around her that her child is still alive and they are just around her. They will even crawl into her bed and lay beside her pillow at night.” Doctor Sun dragged Chen Ge away from the decapitated ragdoll.

“Then does that mean that she suffered from delusion?” Chen Ge asked. He felt like he could empathize with the lady.

“Yes and no.” Doctor Sun turned back to give him a smile. “The woman's condition is very similar to yours. She refused to take our treatment because perhaps she understood well inside her heart that once she was cured, she would not have the chance to see her own child again."

"How does that mean that her condition is very similar to mine?" Chen Ge could not understand it. He did not pine for any lost child the last time he checked.

"If the sacrifice for becoming better is to wipe out completely the stories that you have made up for yourself in the past, forget everything and everyone that existed in your stories, would you have voluntarily received the treatment?" Doctor Sun dropped the question in a casual but Chen Ge had a feeling that this was some kind of test. Chen Ge gave it a serious thought for a while. In the end, Chen Ge did not answer it, he did not want to expose the true thoughts inside his mind.

"Regarding these patients that refuse to be treated from the very beginning, no matter how hard the doctors tried, it would be pointless. The condition of the mother became more and more serious. She would often tore out pieces of the bedsheet or the curtain and made them into simple dolls. And then she would place the dolls at the corner of the stairs. For some reasons, she believed this would bring her child back to her. Until now I still could not understand the reasoning behind it. How could the ragdolls have helped with the return of her child? Would the child be attracted by the ragdolls and thus came searching for their mother or the dead child would occupy the dolls' bodies and came back to accompany their mother?"

"No matter which of the circumstance it was, I do not think we should have aversion to this ragdoll. Even though it looks scary, it possesses the lingering spirit of that pregnant mother." Chen Ge dragged his broken leg and stood before the ragdoll. What he said stunned Doctor Sun and Patient Number 2. They did not know how to react for a brief moment.

"You are pitying the mother?" Doctor Sun asked to confirm.

"it is not really that. Let analyse this from a more rational perspective. What has the mother done wrong in her position? Even if the child has turned into a ghost, is that the child's fault?" Chen Ge's way of thinking was obviously different from the doctors. "They are both victims, the real culprit is the ones who have killed them."

“You mean to say this tragedy is caused by the doctor?” Once Doctor Sun uttered that statement, Doctor Gao who had been acting like a walking zombie slightly frowned.

“No, I am not saying it is the doctor’s full responsibility, but it must have been related to him somehow. So many things have happened at this hospital, no one could have guaranteed that nothing has interrupted the doctor during the surgery.” Chen Ge looked at the headless doll that sat at the corner of the staircase. “There is no debt without creditors, if it is trying to look for a closure, then it will have to do with something inside the hospital has done.”

“Are you trying to reason with a ghost?” Patient number 2 also could not understand the various actions done by Chen Ge so far.

“I cannot tell for sure whether there are ghosts in this world or not, I am just voicing my own opinion.” Chen Ge moved his eyes away. “The hospital will be cleaned every day in the morning, but the ragdoll still appeared here at the staircase. This meant that the pregnant woman might still be alive. That proves that there are other survivors inside this hospital, this should be a good news for us.”

“The pregnant woman died on the third month during her treatment. When she passed away, we found a closet filled with ragdolls inside her room.” After Doctor Sun dropped this bomb, both Chen Ge and Patient Number 2 were stumped.

“She is no longer here? Then who placed the ragdoll here?” Patient Number 2 still refused to admit there was ghost in the world. “Only the doctors would know about the pregnant woman’s story, the killer is mimicking the pregnant woman, does this mean that the killer is a doctor?” Then he turned his accusatory gaze at Doctor Sun, honestly he suspected Doctor Sun a lot.

“When Zhang Jingjiu was injured, Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao were in our company. Even if the culprit is a doctor, it is not either of these two doctors.” Compared to believing the killer was a doctor, Chen Ge felt a higher possibility that it was a baleful spectre. During the argument, the group arrived at the second floor. The empty corridor was pasted with the pictures of many doctors, this gave Chen Ge a sense of déjà vu.

“The hospital used to honor the best doctors and those who had been awarded by hanging their pictures at the corridor. Xin Hai Central Hospital originally used a lot of money to hire many famous doctors, I suppose you could say this is a kind of advertising method. The intention of the hospital was coming from a place of good but after the accidental death of one of the doctors, the hospital thought it might not be such a good idea to keep the doctor's picture on the wall anymore so they removed his picture from the wall. But one night, when a nurse was on night duty, she realized the doctor's picture, which was supposed to have been removed from the wall, was hanging back on its original place.

"She studied it for a long time. And then she came to a scary conclusion. The picture of the doctor on the wall was not showing the original picture of the doctor but the much paler countenance of the same doctor as if it taken after he was dead. She reported this to her superior. The leader assigned the hospital workers to stay at the corridor to watch over any kind of incident but the scary picture never appeared again.

"At the time, this became a scary rumor at the hospital. The leader gave the nurse a long notice to stay at home for her to rest. Just as everyone thought this was the end of everything, the doctors who had their pictures hung on the wall had accidents happen to them one after another. After that, the hospital removed all the pictures from the wall and made a decision to stop hanging a living person's pictures on the wall anymore."

After hearing Doctor Sun's explanation, Chen Ge was even more confused. "You said the hospital had made the decision to show hanging the doctor's pictures, so what are these? Why are there so many pictures on both sides of the walls? Are you telling me someone came to purposely hung all of them on the wall in the middle of the night?"

"Like what I have told you earlier." Doctor Sun pointed at the door of the sickroom beside them. "After you walked through a doctor, the world inside and outside of it will be completely different. You are still inside the hospital but it is no longer the same hospital. By the way, there is one more detail that I want to tell you. The picture of the first doctor that appeared on the wall, that was the same doctor who performed the surgery on the pregnant woman."

There had to be a reason why Doctor Sun purposely stressed on this detail. Chen Ge ruminated on it and then he realized most of the victims at this hospital had interacted with other victims before. Their deaths were probably not accidentally but instead they were made to be looked like some kind of accident.

“We better do not stay here for too long.” The lightning flashed and lit up the many pale faces on the two sides of the wall. In that moment, Chen Ge had a scary realization that it was not simple pictures that were looking down at them. The group hurried all the way to the fourth floor, Doctor Sun was still the one who led the way. “I remember the storage room for the emergency store of medicine should be inside the seventh room.”

The corridor of the fourth floor appeared to have been long vacated. Most of the rooms here were locked and some of the locks had been rusted shut. “After the incident to the first hospital director, basically the fourth floor of the fourth sick hall has been abandoned. Normally the doctors and nurses will rather take a long detour than cross this place.”

“is this place that scary?” Chen Ge realized he was desensitized to the sense of fear.

“Well, there used to be a cleaner who did not believe in these things. He chose to do his job during the late afternoon when there were not that many people at the hospital. In the end, he saw someone held something in the corridor of the fourth floor corridor and was writing something continuously on the wall. He recognized the white coat the person was wearing and thus assumed the person was a doctor. But when he got closer, he realized the person was holding his own broken finger and was repeatedly writing the character death on the wall.”

“So the cleaner encountered the death hospital director?”

“Indeed.” Doctor Sun’s voice turned chilly. “But do you know something even scarier that happened after that?”

“The cleaner also died from an accident not long after that?” This was already the best conclusion that Chen Ge could come up with.

“The cleaner resigned from the hospital. But he could not survive without money for long. Therefore, he went to work at another smaller private hospital. On the seventh day he worked at that private hospital, he died inside the office of the hospital director but the curious thing was his cause of death was similar to the first hospital director here. In fact when the police arrived at the scene, they entered an office that was filled with the character, death. Not long after that, the private hospital closed down due to the bad publicity. The related admin of the hospital had gone missing and most of the doctors and nurses from that hospital, according to rumors, had stopped working in the medical field.”

“How could this sound like some kind of curse to me? The origin of the curse is this hospital and everyone with the curse will keep spreading the misfortune unless they will never be able to leave the hospital.” Chen Ge realized how preposterous he was sounding. “To use the hospital as the medium for curses and turn a place to save people’s lives as the source of tragedy, the person behind this curse is truly a scumbag of the century.”

“Curse? Misfortune? Your power of imagination is too strong.” Patient Number 2 shook his head. He did not agree with Chen Ge’s opinion. From his perspective, the cause of all the strange things was human being. But he was not going to get into an argument with Chen Ge, after all, Chen Ge was a mental patient.

Trailing the wall, Chen Ge followed the two doctors as they entered the corridor of the fourth floor. Initially there was nothing wrong but after walking for about 10 seconds, Chen Ge suddenly felt there was something out of place. The corridor did not look that long, one could see its end with a glance but they had been walking for 10 seconds already, they still had not reached the end of the corridor.

“This is strange.” Chen Ge stopped moving. The rest of the three turned to look at Chen Ge with confusion, their gazes were questioning why did he stop.

“What’s wrong?”

“None of you notice this?” Chen Ge pointed at the door beside them. “This is already the second time this sealed door appeared beside us! We appeared to have been walking in circle.”

Once Chen Ge said that, it hit Patient Number 2 on his head. “Indeed, I felt like we have been walking for a long time already too. I thought it was my mind playing tricks on me because I was too nervous.”

“The reason might be this door.” After hearing the story about the first hospital director, Chen Ge was greatly interested in the hospital director’s office. He was curious to see how this room with lots of secret would look like. Before the two doctors could stop him, Chen Ge pushed on the door of the director’s room softly. Who knew the door would be left unlocked. A stinging stench drifted out from inside the room. Patient Number 2 held his nose with his hands, even doctor Sun and Doctor Gao took a step back. Only Chen Ge stood dumbly at the door. His nostrils twitched. Chen Ge took in a deep breath. The suffocating stench triggered the memory in his mind as numerous scary thoughts flashed across his mind.

“I have smelled this stench somewhere else before!” He was certain of that fact. His brain pulled up the memory whether he liked it or not, the pain started to come for him again. Holding the edge of the door, Chen Ge gritted his teeth as he forced himself into the hospital director’s office. He looked at the death character that filled the room and it felt like his brain was being pried apart by a pair of invisible hands.

“I am very familiar with this stench! I have smelt it at the edge of death before! Whenever I smell this stench, something bad is bound to happen!” Leaning against the frame of the door, Chen Ge forced himself to stay conscious. He forced his eyes to open and finally located the source of the stench. In the middle of the desk inside the office, there was a glass jar. And inside the jar sat a heart that was curled around with black threads.

Chapter 1178 - A Madman who Uses Ghost Story to Deal with Curse (2in1)

Chapter 1178: A Madman who Uses Ghost Story to Deal with Curse (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“After the hospital director’s demise, his office has been kept the way it was?” The people outside the doctor were filled with confusion. Other than Chen Ge, including the two doctors, no one dared to enter the room. Currently Chen Ge was in a very bad state. The memory related to the stench in his mind started to loosen, pieces of memory fragments blasted to form many different images in his mind.

“Hey, don’t stay in there alone! It is too dangerous!” Patient Number 2 was worried about Chen Ge’s safety. He slowly approached the hospital director’s office, but when he reached the door, his body refused to enter the room. It was as if every cell in his body was resisting him, like they were certain he would die if he dared to ventured into the office.

...

In the brief clearing of his mind, Chen Ge heard the voice of Patient Number 2, but his nervous system was already swamped by the intense pain and torment. He started to lose control of his body. Under the dual torture of pain and the stench, he toppled headfirst onto the hospital director’s desk. His hands held the surface of the table. Chen Ge’s face that was twisted by pain almost crashed into the glass jar placed on the table.

“Whose heart is this?” His breathing came rapidly as his chest rose and fell. As the pain within Chen Ge intensified, the heart that was wrapped by numerous black threads started to pump inside the glass jar. It was like Chen Ge’s own heart, every beating was pulling along Chen Ge’s nerves. “Could the heart inside the glass jar be mine?”

Chen Ge realized the frequency of the beating of his own heart and the one inside the glass jar was slowly starting to line up. He stared at the glass jar closely as if his soul was about to get sucked into the jar itself. Indescribable pain and despair poured freely into the man’s body. The world before his eyes started to swirl. The multiple character of deaths amplified before his eyes, it was as if they had all come alive. Chen Ge wanted to wave his arms to resist but his body and nerves were at the edge of a breakdown, he had difficulty to even nudge a single muscle in his body.

“Being trapped inside the room filled with the word, death, how come this experience feels so familiar to me?” A memory bubbled up in the darkest corner of Chen Ge’s memory. A mud statuette carved with Chen Ge’s name at the chest was shoved inside an altar that was filled with the character, death by someone. What Chen Ge was experiencing now was similar to the mud statuette that was carved with his own name. But he was not trapped inside any religious altar but he was instead trapped inside the dead hospital director’s office. “Someone has placed a curse on me!”

The flickering memory helped Chen Ge confirm that someone had once placed a curse on him but due to various reason, the person had failed. But now he had triggered the curse again. The man himself had no idea why he could be so familiar with these things that should not be common to a normal person at all. Both of his hands slowly moved. Chen Ge’s gum was bloody from the heavy gritting of his teeth. He reached out to hug the glass jar on the table. The initial plan was to break the glass jar to see if that would break the curse but to his surprise, when both of his hands touched the glass jar, the black threads that was stuck to the heart crawled out from the heart and they started to bang against the glass jar itself. It felt like they were trying to break through the glass to enter Chen Ge’s body.

The glass jar started to splinter and crack. The stench in the room intensified. Chen Ge’s consciousness was failing. He used the last vestige of his energy to shove the glass jar to the edge of the table. The black threads slammed against the glass. The crack kept spreading. Just as the glass jar was about to shatter, deep red striations appeared inside the heart. These red blood vessels twined together and weaved out the face of a child inside the heart.

The child screamed. As if to prevent the child to escape from the cage of the heart, the black threads immediately wrapped themselves back around the heart and stopped attacking the glass jar. Chen Ge witnessed the whole process. Be it the black thread or the child’s face that appeared inside the heart, this was definitely different from the ‘real’ world that Doctor Gao was convinced they were in. He looked at the child’s face inside the heart rather confusedly. For some reason, the face reminded of himself when he was small.

“The heart that was kept inside the glass jar belongs to the young boy?” The pain in his mind faded away by quite a lot. Chen Ge collapsed beside the desk and gasped hungrily for air. The hospital director’s office had returned to normal. Even the stench in the air had lightened greatly.

“Are you alright?” it was not until now that Doctor Sun ran into the office. He squatted down beside Chen Ge with his back to the door.

“Do I look like I am alright to you?” Just as Chen Ge tried to speak, he started to cough uncontrollably.

Doctor Sun looked at Chen Ge quietly. He pointed at Chen Ge’s finger and then said something very strange. “Before the patients are admitted into the hospital, their personal effects will be kept in the fifth sick hall. There is a wedding ring inside your cupboard.”

“Wedding ring? But I am not yet married...”

“Indeed, you are not married, so why would you have a wedding ring on you?” Doctor Sun had a big smile on his scarred face, it radiated relief. He was facing away from the door so only Chen Ge could see the expression on his face at that moment. “If you can successfully escape from the hospital, remember to put on the wedding ring, I believe it is very important to you.” Chen Ge felt like Doctor Sun was a bit different from before. He tried to think closer about it. Ever since they left the third sick hall, Doctor Gao had been holding onto his arm while Doctor Sun had an icy disposition towards him. But after the latter entered the hospital director’s office, Doctor Sun suddenly smiled at him, this was completely different from how he had been acting up until now.

[Is this because Doctor Gao is not inside the hospital director’s office with us?] Chen Ge slowly discovered the difference between Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao. At this moment, Doctor Gao was more like a walking dead body while Doctor Sun was getting more and more humanized.

“Let’s go, it is not wise to stay too long inside the hospital director’s office. This place has witnessed too many tragedies.” Doctor Sun picked Chen Ge up from the ground. He supported Chen Ge as they were leaving the room when Chen Ge suddenly stopped. “Wait a minute.” Chen Ge turned around and picked up the glass jar that was left on the desk. He hugged it in his chest.

“What are you doing?” Doctor Sun took in a cold breath and subconsciously moved away from Chen Ge who was carrying the glass jar as if the glass jar was something incredibly dangerous.

“I want to bring this thing with us.” Chen Ge knew the black threads around the heart might claim his life at any moment but he still insisted on bringing this thing with him because he felt like the face that was hidden inside the heart was very important to him.

“Do you know what is that? The stories that I have told you before, do you really think they are just mere stories?” Doctor Sun’s expression changed immediately. He knew how scary the glass jar was but due to certain reason, he was unable to divulge more information.

“I know this thing is very dangerous but just because of how dangerous it is, there is more the reason for me to carry it with me.” Chen Ge answered seriously.

“What kind of twisted logic is that?” Doctor Sun started to suspect Chen Ge’s condition had worsened again.

“Actually I did not plan to take this thing with me at the start but the stories that you have told me changed my mind.” Chen Ge hugged the glass jar and his eyes fixed directly at the heart inside it. “This hospital might really be haunted. Against ghost, we have no defensive mechanism against them but that will change if we bring this with us. If a ghost really appear, we can use this glass jar to whack them.”

“Whack them?” Doctor Sun’s brows were pleated together. He asked with uncertainty. “Are you serious?”

“of course. The thing that was left at the crime scene of the first hospital director’s death has to be cursed somehow but you have to understand one problem. Carrying this with us might cause our death but running into a ghost will certainly kill one or more of us.” Chen Ge hugged the glass jar as he headed towards the exit. “The choice between the two is clear. I personally want to see whether this glass jar is more dangerous or a ghost encounter is more dangerous.” A ghost is an immaterial thing but the glass jar was corporeal and surprisingly hefty. Chen Ge wanted to use something a actual person could touch to deal with a flitting ghost, this plan had stunned and confused Doctor Sun.

“you... might really be a madman.” Doctor Sun’s statement appeared to have a double meaning to it but Chen Ge did not appear to grasp it. Of course, in Chen Ge’s condition, even if he did understand it, he would pretend otherwise.

"I am already sick but I will try my best to cooperate with your treatment." Chen Ge was being so kind and friendly that it was quite scary in this moment. Seeing Chen Ge carry the glass jar out of the hospital director's office, Doctor Gao who was like a walking dead not only did not reach out to grab Chen Ge's arm, he even voluntarily stayed away from Chen Ge and maintained a three metres distance from him. Neither of the two doctor was willing to stay close to Chen Ge. Even though Patient Number 2 had no idea what was going on and why the doctors were acting that way, he cleverly chose to stay away from Chen Ge as well.

"Why did you decide to bring that heart specimen with you?" Patient Number 2 was not averse to human organs but he was just worried that this was kind of sick hobby that Chen Ge had.

"Specimen?" Chen Ge looked at the living heart inside the glass jar. He felt like the appearance the 'heart' had in everyone's eyes was different. "Doctor Sun said the hospital might be haunted. So I am bringing this glass jar that is left behind by the dead first hospital director, I suppose you can say I am trying to fight venom with venom." Patient Number 2 could not wrap his head around Chen Ge's reasoning at all. He very astutely stopped this conversation with Chen Ge but turned to address Doctor Sun. "Where is the storage room for the medicine that you have mentioned? We have reached the end of the corridor but we still have not encountered any such room!"

"I must have remembered wrongly. After the strange death of the first hospital director, many doctors refused to come to this floor to take the medicine anymore so the hospital has moved the medical storage room to the fourth floor of the fifth sick hall." Doctor Sun said very casually.

"Are you sure?" Patient Number 2 sensed a big problem with Doctor Sun, then again he did not trust Doctor Sun that much from the beginning. Chen Ge also noted the strangeness Doctor Sun was acting, it appeared as if Doctor Sun did not care about the survival of the other people, the reason he said the medical storage room was on the fourth floor was probably to lure Chen Ge to the hospital director's office. Saving the other patient was just another reason for Doctor Sun to accomplish his own goal, the only thing that the doctor cared about appeared to be Chen Ge alone.

[Is it possible that as long as I am fine, everyone else will be safe?]
Chen Ge already realized the discrepancy between this place and the normal hospital. Doctor Sun had mentioned a 'door' earlier, in his memory, 'doors' were very special places. [Other than myself, the other patients will not really die even if they die here?] Chen Ge shook his head to chase this thought out of his mind. He was not willing to experiment with Zhang Jingjiu's life to prove his suspicion. If they failed to find the medicine, Zhang Jingjiu might perish at any moment. Doctor Gao refused to say a word like he was already a dead person so Chen Ge and Patient Number 2 had no choice but to place their trust in Doctor Sun's words.

They followed Doctor Sun's instruction and ran from the fourth sick hall to the fifth sick hall. Along the way, Doctor Sun had told Chen Ge even more strange tales that had happened inside this hospital. When they rushing over, some incidents that could not be explained by science happened inside the hospital as well but thankfully no one was harmed. The strange things never approached Chen Ge's group, they only flashed past somewhere very far away.

They finally arrived at the fourth floor of the fifth sick hall. This time, Doctor Sun was not lying to them, they did find the medical storage room there. But of course things did not go that smoothly. Tapes were plastered on the door of the room next to the medical storage room. Blood was still leaking out from the gap at the bottom of the door, so it was impossible to ignore it.

"This room with the tapes was the office for the second hospital director, he was once the vice director at this hospital. He had seven children. After the demise of the first hospital director, he was given the position temporarily to take over. But unfortunately, on the seventh day of his new posting he had mysteriously disappeared, he was not found until today." Doctor Sun stood next to the door as if encouraging Chen Ge to go in to take a look.

"The second hospital director went missing on his seventh day on the job? Looks like there is a big risk to becoming the hospital director of this hospital." Chen Ge avoided the blood stain on the ground. "I am very curious, how many hospital directors this hospital has had?"

"Including the temporary directors, there are seven hospital directors in total, the seventh hospital director is the unluckiest." Doctor Sun answered every question that Chen Ge had.

"Why is the seventh director the unluckiest? He had the most painful death?"

"Because he is still working at the hospital until now." Then Doctor

Sun raised his finger to knock on the door. Whenever the knocking echoed around them, the ticking that came from Doctor Gao's watch would weaken by a lot.

"Can I go in to take a look?" Chen Ge hugged the glass jar with a heart and pushed open the door of the second hospital director's office. The room was sparsely decorated, nothing stood out about the room in first glass. But after entering it, Chen Ge was assaulted by that horrible stench again. He rummaged through the items inside the room and finally found a glass jar on top of a bookshelf. This time the jar contained the facial organs of a person. Eyes, nose, ears and other organs were suspended inside a liquid bath filled with black threads. The strange thing was when Chen Ge approached it, the pair of eyes turned to look at him.

"Why the second hospital director also has jar inside his office?" Chen Ge questioned as he reached out towards the glass jar but he was stopped by Doctor Sun.

"Do not touch anything inside the room." Doctor Sun whispered. "you can only look with your eyes and memorize them in your head. Don't go and take away anything that you feel like it inside the rooms."

"Doctor Sun, do all the hospital directors have the hobby of collecting human organs?"

"You really think that is the case?" Doctor Sun scanned the door from the corner of his eyes. After he made sure Doctor Gao did not follow them into the room, he said in the fastest speed possible. It appeared like he did not want Doctor Gao to hear what he had to tell Chen Ge. "The seventh hospital director has seven glass jars in his office. The weight of the jars totalled up to the weight of a patient's soul, that patient has the same patient number as you."

Chapter 1179 - The Way for Chen Ge to Leave the Hospital (2in1)

Chapter 1179: The Way for Chen Ge to Leave the Hospital (2in1)

“That patient has the same registration number as I am?” Chen Ge’s interest was immediately piqued by Doctor Sun’s statement. “But since you know the number of that patient, then it would mean that you know what is my own number, correct?”

“When you find out what is his number, you will naturally know your own number.” Doctor Sun kept lowering his voice. “If you wish to leave this hospital as soon as possible, then you better find all the glass jars and memorize the things that are inside the jars.”

“I only need to memorize them?” Chen Ge narrowed his pupils. He studied the eyeballs that were submerged inside the glass jar filled with black threads and for that moment a very scary feeling overwhelmed him like it was his own facial organs that was soaked inside the jar. Based on his instinct, Chen Ge croaked out the final question, “Are these the things that I am missing?”

...

Hearing Chen Ge’s words, Doctor Sun was very surprised. He turned away from Doctor Gao and nodded his head lightly and then he stopped talking.

“The familiar stinging stench, the glass jars filled with black threads, the patient split into seven pieces.” Chen Ge’s mind was a mess and he did not know what to do. His instinct told him to bring the glass jar with him but unfortunately he only had two hands. He could not bring all these jars even if he wanted to, furthermore, even if he could, where was he going to place all of them? Reaching out to touch the glass jar on the bookshelf, the black thread inside the jar weaved into many ghastly human faces. They wailed and slammed against the glass before they were dragged back by the human face that was made up by the blood vessel within the facial organs.

“Doctor Sun, this glass jar might look dangerous but I have a feeling it will not harm us, would you mind helping me carry this one with us?” Chen Ge hoped to get Doctor Sun’s help but his request was firmly rejected by Doctor Sun. The doctors appeared to be very unwilling to get close to these glass jars. Even Doctor Gao who refused to let Chen Ge go at the beginning now had started to maintain a distance from Chen Ge. From the reaction of the two doctors, it seemed like it was not that the glass jars were harmless but they would not harm Chen Ge for some reason.

Earlier in the sickroom, Doctor Sun had dropped the hints on how to leave the hospital. Chen Ge needed to find all the seven glass jars in this extremely strange night and memorize the contents inside all the glass jars. He still did not quite get the connection between this and the method to leave the hospital but he would do what Doctor Sun suggested because his subconscious told him that Doctor Sun was someone to be trusted, he would not lie to him. Other than that, there was a force hidden deep inside his mind that was urging him to find those glass jars.

“When I first entered the office of the first hospital director, my past memory was triggered. The pain and the room filled with the character, death almost caused me to faint, but after touching the glass jar, the pain in my brain not only subsided, my consciousness also became sharper.” A brave idea occurred to Chen Ge. He wanted to attempt trying to think about his past while hugging the glass jar. But currently he was under such heavy scrutiny of the two doctors, Chen Ge temporarily did not have the chance. That was why he had been hugging the glass jar. The thing that was feared by everyone was treated by him like some kind of treasure. After all, Chen Ge had always been a talented actor.

After leaving the office of the second hospital director, Chen Ge and Doctor Sun entered the medical storage room next door to locate various kind of medicine. Several minutes later, Patient Number 2’s expression darkened and he sighed helplessly, “There is no medicine that we need here.”

“Then there is no other choice, we will have to try the other sick halls.” Doctor Sun appeared to have known this would happen. He walked ahead with Chen Ge who was hugging the glass jar and continued to relay the various ghost stories that had happened inside the hospital.

Looking at the three partners around him, Patient Number 2’s forehead was covered in cold sweat. A doctor who did not care about the survival of the patient and whose face was covered in scars, a madman who was hugging a glass jar filled with a human heart, a main physician whose face was so pale that he looked more and more like a dead man by every minute. [Could the culprits be the doctors?] He felt like he was the protagonist inside a horror film and was going through the most despairing events as he walked step by step deeper into the abyss. It was too difficult to survive on his own. So he had no other choice but to grit his teeth and followed behind Doctor Gao.

Chen Ge and Doctor Sun naturally did not notice the internal struggle of Patient Number 2. They paused in their movement occasionally and noticed many strange things about this hospital. There were seven sick halls in total at Xin Hai Central Hospital. It was once the biggest hospital at Xin Hai but there were too many despair and horror that happened here. The term of pain and sickness were tied together, human nature was showcased on its darkest side at the hospital, there was a story behind every single ghost story.

With Doctor Sun leading the way, the group had explored all of the sick halls. The office of the seven hospital directors were situated at each of the seven sick halls. Every hospital director's office contained a glass jar that was radiating that horrible stench and every glass jar also contained a human body part. The body parts were all soaked in a solution filled with the black threads and some of the body parts had gone completely black.

According to Doctor Sun's instruction, Chen Ge memorized all the organs inside the glass jars. Whenever he entered the office, he would even personally touch the glass jars. Initially his plan was try to simulate memory of his past when he touched the glass jars to try to remember as many things as he could but he discovered something very scary. Whenever he wanted to touch the glass jars, the black threads inside would go berserk. They would want to break through the glass jars to attack Chen Ge, but at that moment, there would be deep red blood vessels inside the different organs that would appear to drag the black threads back.

The strange thing happened then. Chen Ge wanted the black threads to go berserk so his hand would definitely need to go in contact with the glass jars. But when the blood vessels dragged the black threads away, they would pull something away from Chen Ge as well. This was a feeling that was hard to describe. Chen Ge felt the shackle on his body loosen. Some memories in the past would blur but most importantly his brain would be filled with new memory fragments. The curious thing was these memory fragments did not belong to him, they also did not coincide with the memory that Doctor Gao had describe to him, they belonged to the memory of a completely unknown third person.

When Chen Ge looked through this third person's memory, he would not feel pain but he would have a squeeze in his heart as if his instinct was telling him it would a horrible thing to read through the memory of this third person. Chen Ge did not reveal this information to anyone, he planned to wait when he was safe to continue reading the memory fragments of this third person.

After who knew how long, it felt like several hours had passed, but the sky outside the window was still dark, there was no sign that dawn was coming at all. Chen Ge's group had searched through all the sick halls but they still could not find the medicine that they needed. In the end, they returned to the third sick hall. This was the place where Chen Ge originally stayed. At the same time, it was also where the seventh hospital director's office was located.

They came to the seventh floor of the third sick hall and found the office of the seventh hospital director at the end of the corridor. Pushing open the door, there was an office desk that was placed in the middle of the simple room. A giant glass jar sat on top of the table and inside the jar floated a human head that was facing away from the office door. That was the head of a child. It did not have any facial organ or skin, it was more like a shell that had lost its soul. When they saw this thing, everyone stopped outside the door, no one dared to venture too rashly into the room.

"These hospital directors sure have strange hobbies." Probably due to professional reason, Patient Number 2 had desensitized himself to the sight of dead bodies and human organs but when he saw the human head inside the glass jar, he still could not control himself from shivering uncontrollably. The horror that was evoked by the human head was not physical but psychological, it appeared as if it was the symbol of horror and despair itself. Patient Number 2 and the two doctors halted at the door while Chen Ge strode into the room directly, he did not even hesitate for a moment.

"Isn't the seventh hospital director the current hospital director? As the only surviving hospital director, his office might be different from the other hospital directors." Chen Ge did not give up this rare opportunity. Before he approached the glass jar, he looked around the room. He wanted to get to know the personality of the current hospital director from the inside décor of the room. There was no decoration inside the office. Other than the glass jar on the desk, there was nothing that was unique about the room. After taking a quick tour of the office, Chen Ge came to the desk. He walked to stand on the front of the glass jar and looked at the human head that was floating amidst the numerous black threads.

“It is still a child.” The glass jar that contained the human head was much bigger than all the glass jars that Chen Ge had encountered earlier. It also had the largest amount of black threads in it. And when he looked closer, he noticed every single thread appeared to have a strange character written on them. It felt like a seal and also a curse. Ever since Chen Ge entered the room, the black threads inside the glass jar became active. When Chen Ge stood beside the table, the black threads weaved into various human faces inside the glass jar. The scary faces stuck before the human head, as if they wanted to block the face of the human head from view.

“The black threads feel like they are trying to block the sight of the human head inside the jar but can the human head still see me considering it does not possess any more facial organs?” Almost as Chen Ge finished that rhetorical question, the scary human head started to leak out a large amount of bloody red lines. The black threads tried their best to suppress them and wrap themselves around the blood vessels. If this was another person, even if they were not scared away, they would probably be stunned from the horror that was happening before their eyes but Chen Ge was different. He reached out his hands to hug the glass jar directly as if wanting to carry this largest glass jar away with him.

When his hands touched the glass jar, the black threads and the deep red blood vessels boiled at the same time. They were like lightning striking each other. Then a large pulling power appeared from inside the glass jar as if it was trying to suck Chen Ge wholly into the jar. The situation was getting dangerous. Chen Ge had no idea what the black threads and blood vessels represented but he could sense the danger that came from these things. If any of the black thread or blood vessel crawled into his body, he would probably die on the spot.

Doctor Sun stepped into the office. But after he took a few steps, his body could not move forward anymore. Perhaps they had managed to take something from Chen Ge’s soul, the blood vessels had managed to turn the table on the black threads. The human head inside the glass jar was slowly turning around. The faces made up by the black threads were torn apart one after another. Finally the human head was floating before Chen Ge, showing him its ghastly face that had no organs.

Hong!

Lightning struck outside the windows. It was so loud it almost shattered the window. The jaw of the human head inside the jar moved up and down before it suddenly slammed against the glass jar!

Clang!

The sound of the knocking was mixed amidst the thunder. The dark eye sockets carried with them endless terror. Even if it had been split apart, even if it had lost its skin and facial organs, the head appeared to still retain its consciousness. The eyeballs were gouged away. The blood vessels inside the two dark holes were boiling as they slowly converged to knit out the shape of a doll. When the doll was about to finish, Doctor Gao retreated with no hesitation, he ran as fast as he could from the office.

After Doctor Gao left, Doctor Sun seemed to have found his chance. He resisted the anxiety in his heart and burst into the office and slammed the door close. At that moment, he had escaped from Doctor Gao's sight, there were only him and Chen Ge inside the room.

"Chen Ge! I know the way to leave the hospital!" His voice had changed completely from normal. There was a kindness inside it and he sounded much younger than normal. "The hospital wants you to become one of their patients and for that, they have come up with two solutions. One is to create a false security for you so that you will be completely immersed in it and voluntarily give up your past! This way, you will slowly turn into a puppet living inside their control! Without knowing it, you will be given more curses, your friends and employees will be dragged down by the curse and they will all eventually become the patients at this hospital!

"The second method is to force you to personally kill your own friends and family. Since they cannot offer you false security, then they will have you personally destroy your own past, these wonderful past memories will become pain that you can never face! Chen Ge who is lost to madness will become a monster that is out of control and you will be locked up deep inside the hospital!"

Doctor Sun's words shocked Chen Ge awake. He hugged the glass jar with both hands and forced himself to turn around to look at Doctor Sun. The doctor's face and body was bleeding copiously. The words that he said appeared to have triggered some kind of curse and he was facing extremely scary punishment because of it.

“The hospital will stop at nothing to accomplish its goal. You will be trapped inside the hospital forever, unless they believe you are turning into the patient that they want out of you.” Doctor Sun pointed at the glass jar in Chen Ge’s grasp. “We are currently inside your brain maze, this is the power of one of the night doctors, I assume you can see it as some kind of hypnosis. This hospital behind the door is created from the night doctor’s memory. His goal is to make you kill all the patients here and push you over the brink of madness! When you become the last survivor, you will encounter your own self that is covered in blood and you will realize that you are the serial killer!

“But don’t worry, I have already swapped the drugs for you and my evil spirit will take your place as the murderer at this hospital, the illusion of the patients have been killed by me as well! You only need to insist that it was you who killed all of them and you have forgotten about all the other details!” The wounds on Doctor Sun’s body kept splitting up. He was covered in blood and he spoke faster and faster. “We do not have much time left! You need to remember the location of the seven glass jars and the organs inside them! I have investigated some information, the seven glass jars contain something very important to you!

“Since they can influence you even when you are inside other people’s memory, then it proves that the relationship between you two is far greater than I imagined! You have to find all of them! They are the only things that really belong to you inside this hospital!”

The head inside the jar banged furiously against the glass. After Doctor Gao escaped, tremors started to shake the hospital. Footsteps came from outside the corridor. A bloody figure appeared. The murderer that was played by Doctor Sun’s evil spirit rushed into the room dragged a long chain of human heads.

The giant glass jar exploded in that moment. Numerous black thread and deep red blood vessels surged into Chen Ge’s body. It felt intensely real, it did not feel like hypnosis at all. Perhaps due to some unique talent of Doctor Sun himself, the perfect plan that he came up with was derailed by some unknown factor that he could not have accounted for.

Chapter 1180 - Is this All Part of Your Plan, Doctor Sun? (2in1)

Chapter 1180: Is this All Part of Your Plan, Doctor Sun? (2in1)

The deep red blood vessels filled with despair crawled into Chen Ge's soul, the black threads that represented pain and curse also bound around his body, the two forces used his body as the battlefield as they tore at each other, they were close to tearing him apart. From his physical body to his soul, the pain was indescribable but the most horrible thing was Chen Ge realized he was unable to faint even if he wanted to. His body's self-protective mechanism had lost its use fully at that moment, there was no choice for him but to suffer that incredible pain.

"Is it all part of your plan? Doctor Sun!" Chen Ge still had a clear head on his shoulders. In his most despairing and impossible moment, he knew resistance would be futile. So he had given up on resistance and voluntarily opened his arms to embrace the pain. He had committed into a decision that no one else would have done in his place. When the two forces were fighting against each other, he worked his brain to its maximum and he started to dig through the memory fragments in his mind as much as he could!

Many sealed memories floated up in his mind, many familiar faces flitted before his eyes. Chen Ge was under such pain that he thought he would die on the spot. If he was still at the hospital, he would have fainted already but at this place, where his body and soul were taken over by two different forces, fainting was something that was deprived of him.

...

Looking at the horrible state that Chen Ge was in, Doctor Sun touched the scars on his face. He was also flummoxed at that moment, he did not know what to do. "The brain maze is the talent of the night doctor, why would it leave such an intense stimulus on him? Is it the influence of Patient Number 1? Once memory of him is triggered, one will be influenced by him?" The pain on Chen Ge was so intense that the man would have willingly sought after death but death would not continue. Doctor Sun was flustered but there was nothing he could do. In the end, he could only stand there and look at Chen Ge with apology in his eyes. “But if this continues, he might die from the extreme pain. Even though dying will not cause any influence to him in real life, I think this situation is rather unique!”

Doctor Sun reunited with his evil spirit. He did not dare to get close to Chen Ge himself so he had his evil spirit drag all the skulls to approach Chen Ge. His intention was to have his evil spirit bring Chen Ge out of the office but who would know once the evil spirit got close to Chen Ge, it was torn apart by the curse and blood vessels. Droplets of blood splashed on Chen Ge’s body. Combined that with the ghastly countenance that Chen Ge had at that moment, he had the perfect appearance of a demon who had just crawled out from the bowels of hell.

“Oh... damn...” Doctor Sun had no back up plan so he could only watch as things progressed. After who knew how long, under Chen Ge’s active cooperation the deep red blood vessels had completely suppressed the black threads of curse. Some unknown and strange memory fragments bubbled up continuously in Chen Ge’s mind. These memories did not belong to Chen Ge so they should belong to that child’s head. His memory was almost dominated by death. Different causes of death and every time he tried to find the way back. The boy wandered about a red city, as he kept pushing open doors that were covered in blood vessels.

The child’s memory perfectly laid over the gaps in Chen Ge’s own memory. The pain slowly dissipated until there was only a single sentence that was left in Chen Ge’s mind—I will be waiting for you at the deepest part of the hospital.

Lying supine on the ground, Chen Ge still had not lost his consciousness but he was so weak that he had lost the energy to even blink anymore. The glass jar inside the hospital director’s office was shattered. Chen Ge’s patient garb was covered in glass shards and blood stains. Several rolling human heads clustered around him, but if you looked closer, you would find there was not a child’s head among them. Doctor Sun looked through the entire office but he failed to find the child’s head. A chill ran up his spine. He tried to nudge Chen Ge and realized both the blood vessels and curses had already disappeared. He hurriedly dragged Chen Ge out of the hospital director’s office.

“Can you hear me?” Doctor Sun collected the heads of the patients and then half dragged, half carried Chen Ge back to the fifth floor of the third sick hall. “Even though there was some accident, everything has gone mostly according to plan, you have to remember what I told you.” He used almost 15 minutes before Doctor Sun managed to drag Chen Ge and all the heads back to the door of the treatment room on the fifth floor. “It depends on this time whether you will be able to escape from the hospital or not. The hospital is filled with their people, I cannot afford to communicate with you anymore. You will have to rely on yourself to mount this escape.”

Doctor Sun grabbed Chen Ge’s hand and used it to push open the sickroom door. And then he pushed Chen Ge and all the human heads back into the room. “You need to find back your real self.”

...

Doctor Sun closed the door and the moment the door clicked shut, Chen Ge’s eyes flew open.

“Ah!” Chen Ge’s horrible wailing echoed inside the treatment room. The chair toppled over and his body slammed heavily against the ground.

“Chen Ge?”

“Number seven?”

The mechanical ticking of the watch slowly weakened. Doctor Gao and the other patients all turned to look at Chen Ge. At that moment, Chen Ge was like a crazy man, he kept on screaming at the top of his lungs. “Why are all of you still alive? Why are all of you still alive!” Chen Ge waved the newspaper in his hands wildly and during this process, he sliced his fingers. The blood soaked the paper wet and the paper peeled off to reveal the sharp glass shard inside the folds of newspaper.

His eyes wandered until Chen Ge saw his own reflection inside the mirror shard. Then he screamed like he was given a huge trauma. “Killer! He is the killer! He has killed all of you!” The mirror dropped to the ground and shattered into even smaller shards and each shard had Chen Ge’s reflection looking back at him.

Doctor Gao who was seated on the chair slowly stood up. He put away the mechanical clock on the table. The ticking sound then disappeared. The other patients slowly returned to normal. They were looking a little bit pale but Chen Ge appeared to have truly lost his mind. “Inside the hospital, it was you who have killed all those people.” Doctor Gao took out a file and started recording something on it. The other patients tossed Chen Ge terrified looks. "The treatment will end now. Chen Ge will stay behind and the rest of you should return to your respective rooms." After all the patients had left, Doctor Sun and Doctor Gao tried to communicate with Chen Ge but Chen Ge was under so much pressure that he started to mumble incoherently. His condition was only getting worse.

Staring at the maddened Chen Ge, Doctor Gao considered for a long time before he wrote down the statement 'cured' in one of the pages of the file. After writing that, he handed the report over to Doctor Sun, "You have been following him in the brain maze, you did notice anything out of place?"

"Everything was going according to the treatment plan, you could say that everything has gone without a hitch." The blood kept leaking out from Doctor Sun's scars. At that moment, he looked no better than Chen Ge. Doctor Gao appeared to have heard some rumors about Doctor Sun. After he saw Doctor Sun also worked down the term 'cured' on Chen Ge's files, Doctor Gao only sighed in relief. "You should take the file to the vice hospital director. Hopefully our first cooperation is successful and hopefully this will also be our last cooperation." After he said that, Doctor Gao opened the treatment room door. Five hospital workers came out from the locked adjacent rooms. They worked together to drag Chen Ge to the quarantine zone. When Doctor Sun was the only one left inside the treatment room, he flipped through Chen Ge's file as his finger casually knocked against the surface of the table, he knocked six times.

Chen Ge who was struggling with his life heard the six knocks. He realized Doctor Gao's expression was slowly changing but Doctor Gao himself did not appear to notice it. [The night doctor has a kind of talent that is called brain maze. That kind of power can only be activated through the medium of sound and that appears to be the ticking of the mechanical watch that Doctor Gao had inside his pocket...]

A speculation rose in Chen Ge's mind. When Doctor Sun first entered the treatment room, he knocked on the door six times, at the time, Doctor Gao still had not taken out his watch. In other words, Doctor Sun had already come after Doctor Gao before the former even entered the door. Doctor Gao used his own talent to conduct the treatment on Chen Ge but way before Doctor Gao used his own talent, Doctor Sun had already pulled one over Doctor Gao. One trick over another, it was very intricately designed. However even such a perfect plan still could not prevent the occurrence of an accident at the very end.

Now the memory of a third person had appeared in Chen Ge's mind. The child's brain appeared to have settled into his mind through some kind of other method. To play up the role of the madman to fool Doctor Gao, Chen Ge continued to wail. He was acting crazier than an actual crazy person. He was finally strapped to the bed in the quarantine zone. Before Doctor Gao left, he poured out five white pills from the medicine bottle and tipped them all into Chen Ge's mouth.

After forcing them down Chen Ge's throat, he and the other hospital workers left the quarantine zone. Chen Ge yelled until his throat was coarse before sleep came to claim him.

...

The morning light showered on Chen Ge's face. He looked at the scenery outside the window silently. Yesterday night was the most dangerous night that he had experienced since he was hospitalized. If not for Doctor Sun, he would definitely think he was a serial killer already. Human consciousness required some key elements to support it, if Chen Ge had started to suspect himself, then he would have practically no chance at winning anymore.

"Even though it was very dangerous yesterday night, it was also extremely rewarding. I have gained a rough understanding of this hospital and when the blood vessels were fighting the black threads at the few final moments inside the brain maze, I have unlocked many memories from the past. Most importantly, I have memorized the location of the seven glass jars." Many unknown names appeared in Chen Ge's mind and there were some unfamiliar experiences as well. "I need to go and locate those seven glass jars as soon as I can so that I can leave this godforsaken hospital."

He had remembered many things but these fragments could not be strung together, they were merely images that seemed to have no correlation with one another.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Knocking was on the door and then Doctor Gao as well as two hospital workers entered the room. The three of them stood at Chen Ge's bedside. None of them said a thing, they merely looked at Chen Ge silently.

"Doctor Gao..." Chen Ge acted like he was too ashamed to face Doctor Gao, "yesterday night, did i..."

"I am afraid you will not be moving back to the normal sickroom for a long time in the future. I am sure you have not forgotten about your experience from yesterday night, right? You should still remember very clearly how it felt like to wield the weapon as it sliced through their skin." Doctor Gao looked at Chen Ge with disappointment. If not for the fact that Chen Ge had seen Doctor Gao written down the term 'cured' in his file yesterday night, Chen Ge might truly buy Doctor Gao's acting.

"Please don't say anything else anymore." Chen Ge's emotions started to fray away. It appeared like he was unable to accept the fact that he would have killed several people in one night.

"I know you are in great pain but if you are unwilling to abandon the stories that you have created for yourself to protect yourself from the truth, the rest of your life will be ruined just like that." Doctor Gao advised with extreme kindness. "your life is just beginning, are you going to stay as a monster that is avoided by everyone?"

"I just want to be like everyone, I want to live a simple life and be spared from this pain."

"The source of that pain is the fake memory that you have created for yourself. When those memories disappear, you will be cured fully." Doctor Gao poured out five pills from the medicine bottle. "From now on, every night I will come and conduct treatment with you, to help you wipe away your fake past. But I need your full cooperation during this treatment, in other words, you have to open up your heart to me and be willing to actively abandon the false past that you have created for yourself." Seeing the pained expression on Chen Ge's face, Doctor Gao sighed. "Falsehood and reality, you can only choose one, do not make the wrong choice again."

After feeding Chen Ge the pills, Doctor Gao left. Chen Ge was strapped into the bed. When the time came, Xu Wan would arrive to send him meal and wipe down his face and arms. Chen Ge was unable to see the theme park's haunted house from the quarantine area. The only person Chen Ge could talk to was Xu Wan. Luckily Xu Wan never showed any impatience towards Chen Ge, she kept telling Chen Ge about the beauty of the world outside the hospital.

That night, Chen Ge was sent into the treatment room again. Since Doctor Sun was not there, Chen Ge did not dare to open his heart that easily and allow Doctor Sun to travel into his mind. Whenever he heard the sound of watch ticking, he would be under great alert.

Unable to drag Chen Ge into the brain maze, Doctor Gao could only try other methods and this continued for seven days. Chen Ge's condition stabilized again. He was allowed to leave the quarantine zone. With the hospital worker's help, he was accompanied to the hospital garden to take a rest.

This was the first time he had left the building in seven days. Chen Ge slumped down on his usual chair to rest and soon a white cat leaped out from the flower bushes. The cat appeared to be really concerned about Chen Ge, once it saw him, it quickly ran over. When Chen Ge saw the white cat, he knew his opportunity had arrived.

He avoided the worker's gaze and hugged the cat by its head. "A cat has appeared inside this human world, you are the anomaly and also the key. Ol' Bai, help me delay and distract that hospital worker." Chen Ge subconsciously called out the name Ol' Bai. This was a name that came to him yesterday night. Based on the white cat's appearance, he believed that might be the cat's name. Tilting its head, the white cat looked at Chen Ge with confusion. Its dual-colored eyes blinked as if saying, 'erm, people with hands around me, have you lost your noodles?'

The hospital worker saw the white cat and was coming over. Chen Ge did not want to miss this opportunity and he used the back of his arm to brush against the cat's claw. To not harm Chen Ge, the white cat retracted its claw. But Chen Ge yelped as if in pain and threw the cat at the hospital worker. He covered the back of his arm with his hand like he was scratched. "Where did the cat come from?" Chen Ge yelled out the question in the hospital worker's mind.

When the hospital worker was busying himself to chase after the white cat, Chen Ge returned alone to the Third Sick Hall. Based on the route in his memory, he came to the seventh floor. "I do not have much time, I need to be fast!"

Not many people ventured beyond the fifth floor at the third sick hall. The surrounding was incredibly quiet. Chen Ge did not run into another patient or doctor. Pushing open the door to the hospital director's office, a stinging smell floated out from inside the room. Chen Ge slid into the room without any hesitation. The interior décor of the room was similar to Chen Ge's memory, including the giant glass jar that sat in the middle of the office desk. Seeing the child's head inside the glass jar, the memory that belonged to the third person in his mind was triggered. The world before his eyes changed in that second. The originally empty room was filled with endless black threads and various horrible curses surrounded Chen Ge. “That is how the hospital really looks like?”

Chen Ge had lost the choice to turn back at this point. When he took the step forward, he realized the black threads and curse did not come after him but they stared at the space behind him. Turning back to look, Chen Ge realized the space where he was standing earlier had the shadow of a human head on it. The shadow looked just like the human head inside the glass jar from yesterday night.

“The child’s head has followed me out from the brain maze? But doesn’t everything inside the brain maze are created from pure memory?” Chen Ge felt like the head behind him was just a shadow that was made from memory. Someone used this shadow to distract the curses inside the office to give Chen Ge’s the opportunity to enter it. “It feels like there is someone else who is helping me at this hospital other than Doctor Sun and perhaps Doctor Sun is even under their order.”

In the blink of an eye, Chen Ge’s world returned to normal again. He took big strides towards the glass jar and reached out to touch it.

Chapter 1181 - Kill the Past to Welcome New Life? (2in1)

Chapter 1181: Kill the Past to Welcome New Life? (2in1)

There appeared to be some kind of unique connection between Chen Ge and the human head inside the glass jar. When both of his hands touched the surface of the glass jar, the child's head that was floating quietly like a specimen started to slowly turn. Everything was going along quite according to what he had experienced inside the brain maze but the only difference was in real life, Chen Ge could not see the battle between the black threads and the blood vessels.

"I feel like you originally belong to me somehow." Chen Ge looked at the human head inside the glass jar and a very strange feeling arose in his heart. It was as if he was staring at his own head that was placed inside the glass jar. The child's incomplete face stuck to the surface of the jar. He had no eyes and the two hollow eye sockets stared closely at Chen Ge. The two stared at each other just like that. Gradually Chen Ge was surprised to see another version of himself inside the child's dark eye socket. His consciousness slowly blurred. His memory that was related to the past was sucked away by the head inside the jar and in their place was the memories of a third person.

"What is he planning to do?" His memory fragments were taken away, in other words, Chen Ge was slowly losing himself but he did not feel any anxiety or nervousness at all, as if he had just done an equal trade with the other party. The gaps in his mind were filled up by the child's memory while the child had obtained Chen Ge's past memory. Chen Ge's mind was slowly emptied. All the locked memory fragments had been taken away by the head inside the glass jar, all the remained inside his mind were the memory fragments that he had already unlocked previously.

...

"Is he trying to help me unlock the memories in my brain?" Whenever Chen Ge tried to force himself to think about his past, he would be overwhelmed by a splitting headache, most of the time, even if he resisted the pain, he would not be able to unlock the most instrumental memories. Now this head inside the jar had sucked away all the locked memories in Chen Ge's mind. It felt like he was worried that Chen Ge might be exposed and he even voluntarily filled in the gaps in Chen Ge's mind with other memories. These memories that belonged to a third person were buried deeply in Chen Ge's mind, he had no idea what kind of purpose they might serve.

After he felt more like himself, Chen Ge felt like the shackle around his brain had been loosened and his whole person felt much lighter. It was as if there was another force who was helping him shoulder the pain and despair. Chen Ge used his hands to rub the glass jar up and down. After he was certain he was unable to trigger any more response, he retreated out of the office in a hurry and returned to the quarantine area.

"There are seven glass jars in total, I have only encountered one so far, it is too early to draw any conclusion for now." Chen Ge was lying in the quarantine area for about several minutes already before the hospital worker arrived. When he saw Chen Ge was obediently resting in bed, he sighed clearly out of relief. "I am going to sleep now, please help me close the door behind you." Chen Ge said after he pulled the cover over him and he drifted off to sleep. The hospital director did not notice anything strange about this so he decided to not report anything that happened that morning to Doctor Gao.

At night, Doctor Gao and Xu Wan entered the quarantine area. They both started to persuade Chen Ge again, hoping that he would voluntarily cooperate with the treatment. Only by opening his heart and deleting the negative memories brought upon by his delusions that he would be able to welcome his new life. This time Chen Ge did not resist. After touching the glass jar with the child's head that morning, most of the memories he had about his past had already been sucked away, so now he had nothing to be afraid of anymore.

The treatment after midnight was very successful so successful in fact that Doctor Gao himself was surprised. The effect of the treatment was too good, they had managed to destroy most of the past memory in Chen Ge's brain at one go. Doctor Gao culminated on this and decided the main reason behind this was because Chen Ge had already given up on his falsified past and had decided to embrace his new life. To be honest, Chen Ge was definitely the most determined patient Doctor Gao had ever encountered.

To fully 'cure' a patient at the hospital, the first step was to remove their past memory and the second step was to rebuild them according to the hospital's requirement, there were a few more steps after that, this was a very long and arduous process. But Chen Ge, the patient, had taken almost half a month to complete the first step of removing his past memory and it was only completed in the end because Chen Ge had voluntarily cooperated with him. Only then there was some ray of hope. Not only Chen Ge, even Doctor Gao himself was tired already.

“The treatment has a wonderful effect. I am sure you will be able to leave the hospital soon if you continue to work hard like this.” After who knew how long, finally Doctor Gao had a smile for Chen Ge again.

...

The surveillance on Chen Ge inside the hospital gradually lessened but his request to move back to the normal sick hall was still denied and normally he was prevented contact with other patients as well. Most of the time, it was Xu Wan who accompanied Chen Ge and provided him with the best and kindest care. They always seemed to have something to chat among them. In this hospital, Xu Wan appeared to represent all the kindness and goodness.

During this period, Chen Ge had been finding opportunities to sneak into the offices of the previous hospital directors. Each time there was shock but no danger, it felt like someone had been helping him from the shadows.

After the third treatment Doctor Gao had given Chen Ge, Doctor Sun had appeared again to bring Chen Ge to go and meet the vice hospital director. The feeling that this vice hospital director gave Chen Ge was very strange, it felt like they had met somewhere before, but Chen Ge had no memory of that meeting at all. If Chen Ge wanted to leave the hospital, then he had to get the approval from the vice hospital director. In other words, the vice hospital director was the most important person at the hospital for Chen Ge. He needed to pass through the vice hospital director's examination before he was allowed to leave the hospital. Ever after multiple treatments by Doctor Gao and repeated examinations by Doctor Gao and Doctor Sun, and both of them thought Chen Ge was progressing fine, the vice hospital director was still not satisfied.

Chen Ge could not do anything about this except continue to stay at the hospital and two more weeks passed like that. He finally found the chance to touch the last glass jar. All of his past memories were all hidden inside the glass jars. Now the memory in his brain had already been swapped. The memories from the seven glass jars were embedded deep inside his brain and they bound together to form a child that was seriously wounded. Even though the seven glass jars were still inside the hospital, the memories trapped inside the organs inside them had already escaped. They used this opportunity to slip into Chen Ge's mind. For now, Chen Ge still had no idea what this meant but he was certain that the day for him to leave the hospital would not be far away now.

On the seventh day after he touched the last glass jar, Doctor Gao conducted the 17th treatment on Chen Ge. The treatment this time was very special, he did not warn Chen Ge about it. It was not until Chen Ge walked into the room that he realized Doctor Sun and that vice hospital director were also standing inside the room. Without giving him any chance to speak, when he pushed open the door, Chen Ge appeared to have fallen into the brain maze already. He did not even know when he was subjected to the trick.

"Chen Ge, this will be the last treatment for you. If this is successful, you will be able to leave the hospital in the morning." Doctor Gao looked at Chen Ge with a smile. He, Doctor Sun and the vice hospital director all stood at one side of the table.

"how shall I cooperate with you?"

"Very simple." Doctor Gao took out a tray from under the table. On the tray sat a sharp surgical scalpel. "Your second persona is hiding inside your heart. Dig out your heart, he is the last remaining vestige of your own delusion."

"Can I still live after I have dug out my heart?" Chen Ge was not expecting this to be the last treatment. He thought he would have been able to leave the hospital already. He did not expect the hospital would be so careful, they would not let him go even after they had cleared away all of his past memory.

"Among you and your second persona, only one will be able to survive. If you cannot make this decision, then have your second persona make the decision for you." Doctor Sun said darkly. The scars on his face were twitching. Not only Doctor Gao, even the vice hospital director did not appear to wish to stand close to Doctor Sun, perhaps they both thought Doctor Sun's methods were too drastic. Taking out a whole bottle of pills from his pocket, Doctor Sun flipped off the cap. It was filled with the pills bound with the black strands.

"Give me some time to think about it."

“It is time to give up on your past. This is only beneficial for you and him.” Doctor Sun tipped out some pills from the bottle. He did not even seem to count the number of pills that closely before he shoved them down Chen Ge’s throat. “Swallow them!” This action shocked both the vice hospital director and Doctor Gao but it was too late for them to stop Doctor Sun already. Chen Ge believed he had swallowed seven pills in total, and his body reacted to them almost instantly. His capillaries popped and wiggled like poisonous snakes on his skin. His skin turned blood red and his eyes were bloodshot like they were about to explode. His rationality was completely consumed in that moment, a beast like roar escaped from Chen Ge’s throat. Seeing the pain that Chen Ge was in, Doctor Sun appeared like he was admiring the most beautiful painting in the world. He caressed the wounds on his face and he looked positively drunk on happiness. “Do not control yourself, let your second persona come out!”

Doctor Sun yelled at the top of his lungs. He grabbed at the bottle of the pills again. This time he was stopped by Doctor Gao. If not, he probably would have poured the rest of the pills into Chen Ge’s mouth as well. The curse’s black fire burned Chen Ge’s consciousness. Chen Ge started to hallucinate. He could feel his soul was being grabbed by multiple hands and his body was slowly being dragged into a sea of curses.

His consciousness started to blur and in that moment, he saw again that man who was facing away from him. In the waves of curses, he had taken on 90 percent of the pain for Chen Ge. This man who felt so familiar to Chen Ge, did not turn his head around. He was guarding a heart and stood among the sea of curses like an unweilding reef.

“You are my second persona...” When the last time he saw this man, Chen Ge was also at the verge of a mental breakdown. It was the same again this time. He was force fed too many drugs at one time, the waves of curses ravaged his mind but even if the world appeared like it was ending, the figure still refused to budge. All the memories were shaken loose. When Chen Ge’s memory and consciousness were about to collapse, a child covered in wounds walked out from the deepest past of Chen Ge’s memory.

The curse did not seem to be able to affect the boy much. The child was like a shadow. He slithered to the man who was facing against Chen Ge’s side and whispered something into the man’s ears. Chen Ge was too far away to hear what the child said. He merely saw after the man heard what the child had to say, his body shuddered lightly. He slowly turned around to look at Chen Ge standing behind him. This was the first time Chen Ge saw the man's face. This man who was referred to as his second persona by Doctor Gao did not look like Chen Ge at all. There was a bottomless melancholy in his eyes and the front of his body did not have a part that was not injured. "Who are you? Why do you still help me suffer most of the pain even though you are already so heavily injured?"

It was unclear how much curses the man had already suffered, it was too much to count. He looked at Chen Ge silently as he slowly let go of his hands. He then handed the heart that he had been guarding all these time to the child. The child carried the heart and returned to the deepest part of Chen Ge's mind. The man used the last ounce of energy that he had to smile at Chen Ge and then he turned to wade into the black sea of curses.

The unimaginable waves came to swallow Chen Ge then and he too was washed away by the curse and pain. After who knew how long, when Chen Ge opened his eyes again, he saw before his eyes there was a tray that had a bloody scalpel and a beating heart before him.

"Chen Ge, your last treatment is very successful! Congratulation!"

"When your second persona took over your physical body, he had voluntarily cut open his heart and left your body." The vice hospital director and Doctor Gao talked over each other. The kind smiles on their faces formed a great contrast to the bloody and pounding heart on the tray.

With a pale face, Chen Ge looked at the beating tray on the tray. Then his body slowly slid backwards, "After losing his heart, can a person still survive?"

...

Chen Ge's body collapsed heavily to the ground. Then his eyes flew open. Air seemed to flow into his chest then.

"You have completed your last treatment and have made the correct choice. You have killed the false version of yourself. From now on, you will be able to welcome a brand new life!" The vice hospital director personally lifted Chen Ge up from the ground. He and the two doctors repeatedly wrote down something on Chen Ge's files. "bring him back to the normal sickroom, tomorrow we should be prepared with the papers for him to leave the hospital."

With the order from the vice hospital director, Doctor Gao also sighed in relief. This most difficult patient he ever had finally was going to leave already. He carried Chen Ge to leave the treatment room. The vice hospital director and Doctor Sun though were arguing over something while presiding over Chen Ge's file.

He returned to the normal sickroom and Chen Ge collapsed on the familiar bed. The extreme fatigue claimed him immediately and he soon fainted.

Early the next morning, the sun shone warmly on his face but he could only feel chill all over his body. "That was not my second persona at all. What kind of choice he has made inside the vice hospital director's brain maze? And whose heart was that which he had given to the child?"

After a month plus treatment at the hospital, the doctors all felt Chen Ge had already fulfilled their requirement but in reality Chen Ge did not change at all, if anything, he had become more suspicious of this hospital. There was even a maddening thought in his mind. If there was a chance, he would have to level this place. Initially this thought was not that strong but after that last treatment, after Chen Ge saw the man who had been shielding him from the curses leave, now his brain was only filled with such thoughts.

"killing my past self to welcome a brand new life..." Chen Ge mumbled to himself. This appeared to be one of his old habits. He liked to talk to himself about things that others would not have understood.

Bang! Bang! Bang! The knocking came and the person knocked in total for seven times. The door opened and Doctor Sun walked into the room. He looked at Chen Ge in bed and he only said one thing. "Go and find locker 29, the real treatment only starts now."

After saying that, Doctor Sun cracked his knuckles and then turned to leave.

"Creating a new memory for me, making it so that I almost murdered my roommate in cold blood, using hypnosis and medicine to cause hallucinations to torment me, and all that was just the first step of the treatment." Chen Ge's situation was extremely unique and he almost perished in this process. He had a hard time imagining what would happen to a normal patient after they were sent to this hospital.

Chapter 1182 - : When I have
Possessed All the Goodness (1)
(2in1

Chapter 1182: When I have Possessed All the Goodness (1) (2in1)

One hour after Doctor Sun left, Doctor Gao and Xu Wan walked into the room. They had a fairly good chat with Chen Ge and then Xu Wan led Chen Ge towards the storage room of the patients. They walked through the door and Chen Ge stood before his own locker. He looked carefully for the wedding ring that Doctor Sun mentioned but he did not find anything that fitted the description. "This is all your personal effects. You can change in here. I will go outside and wait for you." Even though there was what Xu Wan said, she did not walk towards the door. Instead she hesitated for a long time before she suddenly handed Chen Ge a piece of paper. "This is my phone number and social media account. After you leave the hospital, if you ever feel like there is a relapse, feel free to contact me any time you wish."

"Thank you." After Chen Ge kept the paper in his pocket, Xu Wan only left. Closing the door of the storage room, Chen Ge started to undress to change. He found a black phone with a shattered screen inside the pocket of his shirt. Probably due to the lack of battery, the phone could not be switched on. Other than that, there were also identification card, recovery proof and a thick stack of document inside the locker. The document recorded his everyday dosage of medicine and his bodily reaction, according to the files, the treatment started from one and a half year ago. He even found a receipt at the end of the document. The treatment for the past one and a half year had exhausted all the savings that his parents had left for him.

"Where is the wedding ring? I was told it would be here." Chen Ge gave his locker another thorough search when he was suddenly reminded of the message that Doctor Sun left him that morning. His gaze moved and Chen Ge found locker number 29 was located right underneath his own locker. The door was not locked and it appeared to contain the belonging of a female patient. It had her patient's records and urn.

...

"It wouldn't be hidden inside the urn, would it? If that is the case, just how important is the wedding ring that it has to be kept so far away out of sight.” Chen Ge opened the lid of the urn. He rummaged inside it and finally found the wedding ring. He silently slipped the ring inside his pocket and then returned everything into their original place. “This wedding ring should be some kind of memento. Now is not the time but I should take a closer look at it after I leave the hospital.”

The paperwork to leave the hospital was surprisingly complicated, Chen Ge spent a whole day dealing with it. After he ran through all the various departments to handle his document, that feeling of absurdity overwhelmed Chen Ge again, everything felt so real. He was just a simple man in the world and not the fact that this was his world.

Under the setting sun, Chen Ge carried his own backpack and left the hospital. He turned back to glimpse at the giant range of buildings behind him. He had the strange feeling that someone was watching him behind the curtained windows. “I have a feeling I will return to this hospital soon but I doubt it will be in the capacity of a patient anymore.”

Walking across the road, Chen Ge came to the theme park that was adjacent to the hospital. “It is already quite late today. Tomorrow morning, I shall go to the theme park’s Haunted House to go take a look.” The Haunted House was Chen Ge’s obsession. He too was also curious why he had so many fragmented thoughts related to the Haunted House in his own past memory.

“I only have a few RMB in my pocket now, I need to find a place to spend the night first.” Chen Ge sat on the shoulder of the road. He flipped through the document that he had brought out from the storage room. There were information about himself and his parents inside it. “My house is at Western Xin Hai?” Chen Ge had no impression of this at all. He looked at the key inside the file and stared at it for a very long time. “This is the key to my home?”

The file also had the address for his home. Before the sun darkened completely, Chen Ge hailed a cab and gave the driver the address to his own home. When he paid the fare, the driver gave Chen Ge a curious glance. After all, it was not an everyday affair where he would fetch a passenger like Chen Ge whose leg was encased in plaster and carried so many things with him.

“Do you need my help to carry your stuff up the stairs?” The driver offered kindly.

Chen Ge shook his head to reject the driver's kind offer. "it's okay, I can manage everything on my own." After watching the taillight of the cab disappear down the road, the sense of déjà vu assaulted Chen Ge again. It was as if he was often greeted with strange looks by taxi drivers in the past as well. "Such a nice and helpful man." Chen Ge carried his own things and entered the residential area. He had no impression of this place at all. He was merely following the direction on the files and slowly found his way to the doorstep of his own home. "Third building, third floor, Room 303..."

He used the key to unlock the door. Chen Ge looked at the lavish furniture in the room and he shook his head lightly. "There is no sense of homecoming at all, it is as if this place is not my home." After giving the place a quick cleaning, Chen Ge skipped dinner. He crawled into bed instead while hugging his own backpack. The night fell. Chen Ge did not switch the lights, he gelled with the darkness and glanced at the city down the distance through the window.

"There are next to zero stuff in this home related to my parents. The few photographs that do exist have nothing wrong with them. This means that I cannot use them to find more clues." Chen Ge looked through the whole house and found nothing useful. Now his only hope was the black phone which screen had already shattered. He turned back to glance at the phone that was charging. Chen Ge realized the phone appeared to have broken from a terrible fall. It could not be charged or even switched on.

"Doctor Sun said that the real treatment is just beginning but I have already left the hospital, doesn't that mean that treatment is already over?" Chen Ge reorganized the events that had transpired inside the hospital in his mind. He then came up with a plan for himself.

"Tomorrow I will first go and visit my parents and then I will go to apply for a job at that Haunted House. After all to survive in this city, I will need a job and I have a feeling that Haunted House will be very suitable for me."

Lying in the bed, the drowsiness came and Chen Ge slowly drifted off to sleep.

At 8 am in the next morning, based on some information on his own files, Chen Ge managed to gain contact with the policeman who was responsible for his parent's case—Lee Sanbao. This aging police officer was very kind. After he found out about Chen Ge, he personally came to bring Chen Ge to go visit his parents.

“your parents have left too suddenly. At the time, you were in a coma and you could be reached. I had no choice but to contact your parent’s friend and ask him to help to deal with you and your parent’s issues.” Lee Sanbao led Chen Ge to the graveyard at the Xin Hai countryside. He placed the bouquet of flowers that he bought before the grave. Looking at the picture on the grave, Chen Ge slowly squatted down. He felt like the energy was being sucked out of his body and he collapsed to the ground.

Lee Sanbao sighed under his breath and walked away to give Chen Ge some privacy. Several minutes later, Chen Ge stood up again from the ground and he looked more like his usual self. “Uncle Sanbao, who was the friend that helped with the funeral arrangement after the accident that befell my family? I wish to thank him in person.”

“His name is Lou Jing. He is your parent’s best friend and the famous real estate developer at Xin Hai.”

“Luo Jing?”

“Yes, I can give you his phone number.” Seeing the stable state that Chen Ge was in, Lee Sanbao did not feel that worried any more. After giving Chen Ge Luo Jing and his own phone number, he left the graveyard.

“it feels like everyone inside this city is a good people, everyone that I have met so far are so ready to lend their help.” Chen Ge’s own black phone could not be used so he shoved the paper with the phone numbers into his pocket and then he took the public bus and headed towards the Xin Hai theme park. His leg had not healed completely but Chen Ge could not wait anymore. He used the money that he found at home to purchase a ticket for the theme park. He walked through various attractions and headed towards the haunted house that was at the western side of the theme park.

The more he headed towards the western side, the lesser the visitor there was. Eventually the laughter and conversation of the visitors faded away and Chen Ge was the only one walking on the road. Stopping beside the road sign inside the theme park, Chen Ge looked at the Haunted House that was situated at the end of the road. A woman dressed in red was standing in front of the Haunted House that was positively vacant. She was holding a thick stack of flyers while toying with a white giant that was enormous in size. The familiar scenario, the familiar people, the familiar cat, now Chen Ge felt like he had truly returned home. He walked away from the road sign.

When he was still 10 metres away from the Haunted House, the giant white cat spotted him already. The white cat immediately lost interest in the woman and rushed towards Chen Ge.

“I had no choice when I had to throw you last time. I hope you will forgive me.” Chen Ge picked up the white cat and ruffled its fluffy head. “Honestly, the happiest time I had at the hospital was when I was ruffling your head.”

“Chen Ge? You have left the hospital?!” when the woman in red saw Chen Ge, she too jogged to his side.

“Yes, I am completely recovered already.” Chen Ge took out the proof that was given to him by the doctors from the backpack that he brought with him everywhere. He appeared rather shy around the woman in red like he had never communicated much with the opposite sex in his life.

“Congratulations. I don’t know what to say.” The woman in red was truly happy for Chen Ge. But one moment later, she looked at the white cat with some sadness in her. “I have been feeding the white cat for so long already but the moment it saw you, it has forgotten completely all about me.”

“That was probably because it has not seen me in a long time.”

“Are you here to pick up this cat?” The woman in red reached out to touched the white cat which was curled up comfortably in Chen Ge’s embrace. “Of course, you are not out of the hospital. It is natural for you to bring it home. In the future, you must not leave it alone in the house anymore, even cats will feel lonely.”

“I am not here to pick it up.” After Chen Ge said that, both the white cat and the woman in red turned their heads to look at him.

“Then you are here for?”

“I am here to look for a job.” Chen Ge put down the white cat and a warm smile appeared on his face.

“You’re here for a job application?” Both the woman in red and the white cat were stunned. “Why so sudden?”

“Well, before the car accident, I was already working in a Haunted House, I have plenty of experience and I feel that with my addition, I can change the condition of our current Haunted House around, I have the confidence to turn our Haunted House into the most well known haunted House at Xin Hai.” Chen Ge carried his backpack and said confidently.

“Well, I do not mind that myself, but the problem is...” The woman in red smiled sadly. “I do not wish to lie to you. Currently my family’s Haunted House account is in the red. You can say that it is running on deficit, I cannot imagine we would have the budget to afford yet another employee...”

“Then can you give me a tour for now?” Chen Ge very naturally walked to the woman’s side. “I have bought the ticket for the theme park.”

“Okay, I don’t see why not.” The woman in red pushed open the gates of the Haunted House. She then pulled back the thick curtains that blocked off the light and led Chen Ge into the Haunted House. With his hands on the wall and his fingertips touching the props that fell at the corner, Chen Ge felt his whole person relax. Everything here he was familiar with, it was as if these were things that flowed through his blood.

“Currently our Haunted House only has two open scenarios, one is the Night of the Living Dead and the other is Minghun, which one would you like to visit?”

“Then we can start with Night of the Living Dead.” Without the need for the woman to lead the way, Chen Ge pushed open the door of the scenario and walked into the it. The Night of the Living Dead was the old scenario that the Haunted House preserved, later it was also the scenario that was first abandoned. Looking at the obsolete set up inside the room and the props that were poking out from their hiding spot, Chen Ge picked up the rubber head that had slid down to the ground and hugged it in his chest. “I have been here before. I feel like everything here is made by me and my family, they are like my own children.”

Hugging the human head, Chen Ge sunk back into his reminiscence. He did not notice a zombie who was watching him silently from a far. “Did my parents bring me here before? Why does this place give me such a sense of home?”

Even though his brain had forgotten about the past, his body still remembered that familiar feeling. I suppose this would be what they called branded into one’s soul. Walking down the path that was filled with blood stains and human internal organs, touching the inverted body that hung from the rooftop, and smelling the faded scent of red paint in the air, Chen Ge came to the first scare point. The zombie clump that was before him had an actor hidden inside it underneath the mountain of mannequins. After triggering the trap, the zombie that was played by the actor would come alive to chase after the visitor. Chen Ge stopped before the zombie mountain. He sidestepped the trap and something akin to hope rose in his heart.

“In my memory, when I was small, I used to play hide and seek here. My father would hide inside the zombie mountain and continue to play dead even after he was found.” Pushing aside the different mannequins, when Chen Ge saw the zombie that was facing away from him in the middle of the mannequins, he could not help but raise his hand. His mouth moved faster than his brain and called out softly. “Dad?”

Everything before his eyes were overlapping with his blurry memory, he wanted to reach out to grab the man. But who knew the zombie inside the mountain would start to run without even turning his head around. The complicated path, the traps and props, be it the zombie or Chen Ge, they seemed to know this scenario as well as the back of their hands. Chen Ge stayed closely behind the zombie, this time he was not going to let this man slip away through his fingers again. The dark and bloody path slowly became wider and light appeared before them. Chen Ge and the zombie burst out of the scenario together.

“Dad? Why have you run out from the scenario? Is there anything wrong?” The woman in red holding the flyer was worried about Chen Ge but when she lifted her head, she saw her father run out of the Haunted House wearing the zombie costume.

“This man is even more familiar with the location of the props than I do! I can’t even find the chance to slow down and go into hiding at all!” A middle-aged man’s voice came out from under the zombie costume. Perhaps because he was running too quickly, after he said that, he coughed several times. Just as the middle-aged man finished saying that, Chen Ge who was hugging the human head ran out after him as well. When he heard the middle-aged man’s voice, his eyes dulled quite a lot because he knew the person inside the zombie costume was definitely not his father.

“Chen Ge, why did you bring the rubber head out with you?” The woman in red quickly ran over to grab the human head away from Chen Ge’s grasp. “You were not frightened, were you?”

She looked at Chen Ge who stopped at the entrance of the Haunted House. Currently Chen Ge's eyes were glazed over with confusion and water. "You do not look like you have visited a Haunted House. Why are there tears in your eyes?"

"Zhang Ya, is he your friend?" The middle-aged man removed the headpiece of the zombie costume. He then gasped hungrily for air. "There is something wrong with this kid. Once he entered the scenario, he picked up the human head and he ran all the way with it."

"Chen Ge, I mean he is..."

Zhang Ya was still trying to come up with an excuse for Chen Ge but Chen Ge voluntarily walked to stand before the middle-aged man.

"Sir, I am here for a job application."

"Sir? A job application?" The middle-aged man carried the headpiece of the zombie costume and his eyes wandered between Chen Ge and Zhang Ya. "Wait a minute. Let me clear my mind for a moment first."

Chapter 1183 - When I have
Possessed All the Goodness (2)
(2in1)

Chapter 1183: When I have Possessed All the Goodness (2) (2in1)

The middle-aged man did not believe any words out of Chen Ge's mouth at all, he looked at Chen Ge alertly. Then he pulled Zhang Ya over to his side and asked, "Daughter, is this young man your friend?"

"Yes, he is my friend." Zhang Ya smiled awkwardly. This was a situation that was quite curious, a zombie was pulling along a Red Spectre who was trying her best to protect a normal person. "Dad, Chen Ge just got released from the hospital, he just needs to find a job. How about we go into the house to talk this over? After all we have no visitors at this moment anyway."

"Why should we go into the house to talk this over? There is nothing to talk about! Have you been tricked by him? He treats our Haunted House like his own home. I have not even activated any of traps, he already know where all of them are located, he must have planned this for a long time already!" The middle-aged man was still grumbling. Zhang Ya appeared like she was feeling embarrassed. She forced the middle-aged man into the Haunted House.

...

"I am not yet done!"

"Chen Ge, why don't you come in?" Zhang Ya led Chen Ge once again into the Haunted House. She had Chen Ge sit down at the spot where the visitors were usually requested to sign the disclaimers. "There are bottle of mineral water on the table. You can sit here first. I will go and get mom, if she agrees, then you can start working here."

"What do you mean by that? Your mom agrees and he can work here? No, over my dead body!" Zhang Ya's father seemed to be on the lower rung of the totem in this family. Even though he was still complaining, Zhang Ya had already run away to the second floor where the Minghun scenario was. Chen Ge and the middle-aged man occupied both sides of the table. The middle-aged man thought there was a serious awkwardness in the air but Chen Ge felt very much at home. One minute later, Zhang Ya and a woman who was slightly shorter than her walked down the stairs. Perhaps both of them were in ghost make up, the woman did not look like Zhang Ya's mother, she looked more like Zhang Ya's older sister.

"Mom, this is Chen Ge who is here for a job application." Zhang Ya and the middle-aged woman sat at the middle of the table. The woman studied Chen Ge closely and then moments later, she shook her head. "It is not that I do not wish to employ him but the young man has a kind face and a sunny presence. I am afraid he won't be able to scare anyone even if we put him in a ghost costume." Zhang Ya's mother said with concern.

After hearing what Zhang Ya's mother had to say, Chen Ge's smile turned even more shy. "Auntie, actually I have worked in a Haunted House in the past. Erm, how about this. You can give me a trial period of half a month, if in that period, I fail to bring any changes to our Haunted House, then I won't take any salary from you."

"I knew you have an ulterior motive behind this all along! Working for free for half a month? Not taking any salary? Tell me honestly, you are here to get close to our Zhang Ya, aren't you?" The middle-aged man wore the rather pudgy zombie costume and directly waved his hands. "I do not agree. Not everyone is suitable for the job of a Haunted House actor. One has to learn many things to be able to scare the visitors." He stood up from his seat. "Kid, it might look like our Haunted House do not have any visitors now but a few years ago, we were the most famous Haunted House at Xin Hai. In terms of scaring people, we are the most professional."

"Sir..."

"Don't call me that, it gives me the chills."

"Uncle, I have the same opinion as you do. The career of Haunted House is not as simple as people think, a good Haunted House can help the visitors vent their negative emotions and can bring the visitors an immersive experience, I understand what you are trying to say complicated." Once Chen Ge opened his lips, he proved how professional he was. He followed up on Zhang Ya's father's point of view. Just from visiting one scenario, Chen Ge could already list out the current problem of the Haunted House and the key point was, not only did he point out the problems, he even came up with the solutions to solve them. Initially Zhang Ya's parents did not pay him much attention but as they listened to him, they could not help but be hooked into his professional extrapolation. They talked for about half an hour before Chen Ge stopped. By then, Zhang Ya's parents already had a great change of perspective on him.

"I think Xiao Chen is quite talented. How about we give him half a month to try out?" Zhang Ya's mother turned to look at her husband. Zhang Ya's father who was initially very averse to Chen Ge also started to falter. "I mean it will seem harsh to say no to a good talent like him."

"Then it shall be decided." Zhang Ya's mother looked at Chen Ge smilingly. "No matter whether there is any positive effect or not, we will still pay you the salary, just go ahead and do anything that you want."

"Thank you, auntie and uncle, but there is something that I need to tell you beforehand." Chen Ge opened his backpack and took out the recovery certificate from the hospital and his own identification card from inside it. "I do not wish to hide anything from you. Zhang Ya already told you I have just been released from the hospital but she did not mention what kind of hospital. It was a mental asylum. Actually I was caught in a car accident and I was diagnosed with serious delusion." Normally in a job interview setting, the boss would never hire people with mental illness and many applicants would try to hide their best as best as they could, but Chen Ge did not wish to do that.

"Delusion? Then this won't do!" Zhang Ya's father slammed his fist on the table. "The working location of a Haunted House actor is oppressive and sometimes harrowing, you might relapse in our Haunted House! I suggest you go and find a more relaxing career option."

When Zhang Ya's father said that, Zhang Ya's mother was looking through Chen Ge's hospital files seriously. She then glanced at Chen Ge's leg which had not yet recovered. "It says on here that the source of your delusion is because of your parents?"

"Yes, that car accident has taken many things away from me." Chen Ge's eyes were carrying a barely hidden pain.

"You will start working here starting from tomorrow. Before your leg is fully recovered, Zhang Ya will help you around." Zhang Ya's mother made the decision directly as she looked at Chen Ge with some concern.

"Honey, are you sure you do not want to consider this further? What if he suddenly acts up in the middle of the job and injures the visitors? What if his symptoms worsen due to his work here?" Zhang Ya's father was a lot more rational. "You are too rash with this decision."

"But that is no reason to discriminate against others."

"I do not agree! Are you kidding me? How could a Haunted House hire someone with delusions to become its actor?"

"Zhang Ya, why don't you bring Chen Ge around to help him familiarize himself with the layout of our Haunted House." Zhang Ya's mother ignored the middle-aged man.

"Of course." Zhang Ya grabbed Chen Ge's arm happily and led him towards the second floor, leaving behind the middle-aged man's grumbling and annoyance.

"My father is a grumbler but he is actually is a very kind person. He once rescued a drowning child and cooperated with the police to solve many cases, he was even awarded the medal for good citizen by the major before." Zhang Ya held onto Chen Ge's arm. Because the corridor inside the Haunted House was quite small, they stuck very close to each other.

"Your father is quite impressive." When Chen Ge heard Zhang Ya's father had once cooperated with the police force to help with their cases, he instinctually felt more admiration for the man as if people who had done something like that would be someone that he should admire and learn from.

"He is just a man of sharp words, he does not mean most of them. Actually he was the one to first discover the white cat and had tried to sneakily feed it on his own but he got scratched in the face for it." Zhang Ya could not help but giggle when she thought about that. "Your cat is very clever, it does not allow anyone to get close to it. It refuses to even let people touch its fur but for some reason, it is very obedient towards me, it will do anything that I tell it to."

"Perhaps that cat... remembers something that we don't." Chen Ge uttered softly. The inside of the Haunted House was not that big. Chen Ge only used half an hour to tour all of the scenarios. He already came up with the full complete plan to change up the place the moment he finished the tour. "The first floor is the Night of the Living Dead, the second floor is Minghun and the third floor is still not yet open due to the lack of staff. If I wish to change the current situation of the Haunted House, I will have to start with the third floor." Without direction from Zhang Ya, Chen Ge found his way to the staff breakroom. He found the pen and paper and started to jot down his plan.

There appeared to be endless scare plans in his mind and the words poured out of him. Zhang Ya stood quietly at the side and studied Chen Ge when he was seriously working, she did not disturb him. After using only about 10 minutes, Chen Ge had already finished with the draft of his plan. "These scares do not need too many props, you only need to add some small mechanisms and they will work."

"How did you come up with these things so fast? That is impressive!"

"It feels like they already belong in my head." Chen Ge smiled embarrassedly. "The night of the living dead and minghun will still be manned by uncle and auntie. I have decided to call the new scenario Murder at Midnight and I will be responsible for it myself."

"Are you sure you can do it?" Zhang Ya hugged the white cat and voiced out her concern. "Scaring someone is a very technical work, you can't be too deliberate but you can't make it too boring either."

"Don't worry." Chen Ge took the plan to go and find Zhang Ya's parents. The latter were clearly professionals. After Chen Ge made some simple introductions, they already understood everything.

"We will need to start by updating the Haunted House and only after that should we find a way to do the advertisement." Chen Ge found a piece of the disclaimer form. After reading all the clauses, he said, "We need to add a few clauses to this, for example, when a visitor faints inside the Haunted House, it will be none of our responsibility."

"But we have never scared anyone until they faint before. And wouldn't that be very difficult to do?"

"It is never wrong to plan ahead." Chen Ge said with the same smile on his face. "After all the interior of the Haunted House has been upgraded, the next most important step is promotion and advertisement. First, we need to try our best to attract the attention of the existing visitors inside the theme park. After the foundation is made, we can make use of short videos and livestreams to gain popularity on the internet. I have quite a few brilliant video ideas, but those cannot be hurried. We have to work slowly at it, the number of fans will slowly grow and eventually the increase in quantity will translate into an increase in quality. Leave the camera work to me as well, I will set up the shoot at the third floor of the Haunted House."

Before Chen Ge came to them, he actually had already figured out everything.

“But won’t the insider secrets of the Haunted House be exposed if you make the shoot inside the Haunted House? When the visitors already know what is inside the Haunted House, they won’t be that interested to come visit anymore.” Zhang Ya’s father still did not quite agree with this.

“First we need to arouse people’s interest. Whether the interior design of the Haunted House will be exposed or not, you do not need to worry at all. I have the design of many scary scenarios in my mind. There is no need to bring any big changes, only by building on the pre-existing basic, we can bring a completely different exciting experience.” Chen Ge paused for a moment. “In other words, if the visitors follow the video that I have shot to base their tours on, then they will only get double the joy.”

Zhang Ya’s father still did not quite understand what Chen Ge meant by that, he was still not that invested in Chen Ge. “Are you sure you can handle a whole scenario on your own, after all your leg injury is still not yet recovered.”

“it will be fine, I only need to shuffle slowly inside the Haunted House. Sometimes, a killer does not need to move fast, by letting the visitors know about my presence, it will be enough to give them pressure.” Chen Ge handed the plan that he had written down to Zhang Ya’s father. “Shall we start to build the Haunted House scenario now? The earlier we are done, the earlier the business will get better.”

“You are too anxious of an employee to prove himself, I still think you have an ulterior motive behind this.” Zhang Ya’s father had his gaze move behind Chen Ge and Zhang Ya until he was forcibly dragged away by Zhang Ya’s mother.

Chen Ge was a man of action. He did not waste time with words. With Zhang Ya accompanying him, he came directly to the third floor and started to build up the scenario little by little. Even though Zhang Ya’s father appeared like he was averse to Chen Ge’s presence but in reality no matter what kind of props and materials that Chen Ge asked for, he would try his best to provide them as soon as possible. Absorbed in his work, and with Zhang Ya’s accompany, Chen Ge did not feel tired at all. This kind of peaceful life that had a goal to it appeared to be something that he had been trying to find in his life.

...

In three days, the relationship between Chen Ge and Zhang Ya's parents was getting better and better. After the theme park closed its door, Zhang Ya and her parents would return to their own home while Chen Ge stayed at the staff breakroom. He worked even at night and rarely took breaks.

Every morning, Zhang Ya would bring an extra set of breakfast for Chen Ge. And during lunch time, Chen Ge would be invited by Zhang Ya's family to have lunch inside the Haunted House. Even though they had not spent that much time together, the more Zhang Ya's mother looked at Chen Ge, the more satisfied she felt about the young man. She realized Chen Ge barely had any negative quality to him. He was hardworking, incredibly handy with his work, he was also very talented. Sewing, installing surveillance cameras, making mannequin, even make up, the man was good at everything.

Zhang Ya also liked to stay together with Chen Ge. Even though when they were not talking, just staying beside Chen Ge and looking at him work, she would not be bored. Even though Zhang Ya's father still grouched once in a while, he appeared to have accepted Chen Ge. Just occasionally, he would complain that his position in the family appeared to have dropped even further.

Life was like the stream in the forest, it flowed quietly and peacefully. Chen Ge had more and more smiles on his face. He worked until late into the night almost every day, he was often so tired that he barely had the energy to dream. He loved everything about his current life. After two more days, the inside of the Haunted House was updated fully. Chen Ge persuaded Zhang Ya's father to organize an activity with the help of the theme park management, those who were available to clear all three scenarios at once and managed to maintain the volume of their scream under 120 decibel would be rewarded with 10000 RMB.

This reward money would be sponsored by Zhang Ya's father and the theme park would only be responsible for the promotion. With this activity, Chen Ge managed to attract a large batch of visitors. The western side of the theme park that was previously so quiet now became so noisy with activity. Seeing so many people, Zhang Ya's father regretted this decision immediately. But then something even more interesting happened. The first batch of visitors all 'died' inside the scenario for Murder at Midnight.

Chen Ge had his hands tied. He knew how important the 10000 RMB was for Zhang Ya's father so to protect the money, this patient who had managed to fool even the doctors had given it his all. The fact that visitors had fainted and cried from a visitation to the Haunted House brought instant popularity to the Haunted House and more and more people knew about this place. When the theme park closed, Chen Ge, Zhang Ya and Zhang Ya's father all collapsed on the table like three fish left out to dry in the sun.

Zhang Ya's mother though was looking at the computer monitor with her eyes glinting. She counted the ticket money that they had acquired that day and the smile on her face was so big her lips could not close at all. The more she looked at Chen Ge, the more she admired this gutsy young man. "It's time to get up, folks! We are going out to the restaurant to celebrate tonight!"

The few changed their clothes and went out for dinner. Zhang Ya's mother dragged her husband and sat at one end of the table. She looked at Zhang Ya and Chen Ge who occupied the other end of the table and occasionally a mysterious smile would appear on her face. By the end of the dinner, Zhang Ya's mother suddenly brought up the fact that she had forgotten to lock the house. After paying the bill, she dragged her husband away before he could even protest, leaving Zhang Ya and Chen Ge alone at the table.

"Auntie and Uncle are such nice people, they even treat me tonight." This feeling of belonging was something Chen Ge had not experienced in a long time already. In his memory, he did not have any image of dining with his family and friend. He felt like even if he did not lose his family, the person that accompanied him the most was probably that white cat.

"You have been slaving yourself out for the past few days already, here, eat some more." Zhang Ya appeared to have guessed why her mother had suddenly decided to leave. She kept her head lowered and her voice had become softer. The couple chatted over dinner. They always managed to find topic to talk about, the two seemed to share a bond, a connection between two souls.

Chapter 1184 - When I have
Possessed All the Goodness (3)
(2in1)

Chapter 1184: When I have Possessed All the Goodness (3) (2in1)

Chen Ge and Zhang Ya chatted for a long time before they left the restaurant. The two of them stood under the yellow streetlight and looked at the city around him.

“Your leg is still recovering, I should accompany you home.” After the ghost make up had been removed, there was an arresting beauty about Zhang Ya.

“No, I should do the gentleman thing and send you home first. It is already getting quite late, I will be very worried if I let you go back home on your own.” Chen Ge stopped one of the cabs and entered it with Zhang Ya. The two of them got into the backseat. Perhaps because the driver was there, neither of them said another word after they got into the car. One was silently looking out the window and the other had the head lowered, studying their own hands. When they arrived at the residential area where Zhang Ya stayed, Chen Ge also exited the cab with her. He only turned and left after he watched Zhang Ya walk into the building. Watching Zhang Ya disappear into the building, there was an inexplicable feeling that crowded Chen Ge’s heart. It was not entirely affection, underneath the sweetness, there was a stinging trace of pain. “The reality is too beautiful, I have not had a dream in a very long time already.”

...

He walked down the pedestrian walkway. Chen Ge did not wish to take a cab, he wandered around the city aimlessly. The city before him was busy, and beautiful but he felt like he did not belong to this place. It felt like he was someone that was forgotten by the rest of the world.

“I think I will take a break tonight and have a good rest instead.” At around midnight, Chen Ge only arrived at the Haunted House. He very expertly opened the gates of the Haunted House, pulled back the curtains and entered the staff breakroom. The white cat was lying on the table, biting on the box that contained the cat kibble. When it saw Chen Ge, it immediately jumped to the side, as if trying to say it had nothing to do with the kibble that scattered all around the floor. “I seem to have encountered this multiple times already. I feel like I have been staying for a long time inside this room.”

Joy was alluring and arresting. Initially Chen Ge thought he could quietly deal with everything but only now he realized he was not as strong as he thought. He could openly deal with all kind murderers and strange curses but when he was inside the same cab as Zhang Ya, he would feel extremely nervous.

“What is the thing that I have been aiming for?” Lying on the wooden bed, Chen Ge felt like his whole body was sinking into the bed. His body was enveloped by warmth, the fatigue of his body was slipping away and drowsiness slowly arrived to claim him.

The morning of the next day, Chen Ge was awakened by the alarm. He entered the bathroom to wash his face. He studied his own reflection in the mirror. “I did not have any dream again yesterday night.” This was the first time Chen Ge had a very good look at himself after he had woken up. Sometimes, he could not even have a clear recollection of how he really looked like. “When I was at the hospital, Doctor Gao would come and ask me every day whether I had a dream or not and what kind of dream it was? Is dream that important to me?”

Chen Ge did not quite understand it, for him, dream was just a dream, it was not part of his delusion and it did not seem to have too deep of a connection with the reality either. When he washed his face, the water splashed on the mirror. When Chen Ge reached out to wipe away the water stain, suddenly he saw that the door of the cubicle in the mirror was slightly left ajar. A flash of lightning struck his mind, he whipped his body around to look at the slightly open door of the cubicle.

Slowly using his strength, Chen Ge pushed open the door of the cubicle further, there was nothing inside the cubicle. He sighed in relief and the heart that was stuck at his throat sunk back to its natural place. “Everything about this world feels normal yet at the same time, things feel so out of place as well.”

Chen Ge left the cubicle door ajar and left the bathroom. He was ready for a new day of work. The theme park opened punctually at 9 am. Before the theme park even opened for business, there was already a long queue of visitors outside the gates, some of the youngsters were even there purposely to visit the Haunted House.

“Xiao Chen, from now on, we will help you clean the Haunted House together, your leg is still injured, do not try to hog all the works, I am worried that you will tire yourself out.” Zhang Ya’s mother was very kind towards Chen Ge. It felt like she had treated Chen Ge as one of her family already.

“It is fine, even the doctors have said that more exercise will be helpful for my recovery.” Chen Ge brought the white cat into the third floor scenario. The midnight killer that he played had become the main attraction of the Haunted House. Speaking of which, this was where things got a bit strange. There were many visitors that had visited the third floor scenario but the visitor’s description of the murderer was all different. Some of them said they said a blood-loving madman on the third floor, he was crazy, mental and over the top, it felt like he was going to tear everyone that he ran into. Some of them said they encountered a friendly visitor into the third floor. After getting to know the person and allowing him to join the team, for some reason, the team was slowly disintegrated from the inside.

Chen Ge had mastered the style of different killers and he could switch between them at will. He was the same person but he could give different impression to different batches of visitors. Furthermore, due to the dim lighting inside the Haunted House, so most of the visitors felt like the scenario was hiding several actors.

During the afternoon break, Chen Ge walked out of the Haunted House and he planned to go to find Zhang Ya to ask her some questions. He had just pulled back the thick curtains when he saw a few young people surrounding Zhang Ya, they appeared to be reasoning with her.

“What is going on here?” Chen Ge sidled up to Zhang Ya’s side. He scanned the few youngsters and for some reason, felt they looked familiar.

“Before we came, we heard there was an activity at your Haunted House, those who can clear 3 scenarios at one go will be able to get the reward of 10000 RMB, so the few of us purposely came and bought the ticket to come challenge it.” The young man who spoke looked honest and kind, “But this lady is telling us the activity is already over.”

“The activity is indeed already over, but if you really want to make things interesting, I can put my own 5000 Rmb on the table to play with you.” Chen Ge said with a smile, he was like a big brother next door with a sunny personality that was both good at sports and study. “If you can clear the scenario successfully and manage to do so without a scream over 120 decibels and then the reward money of 5000 RMB will be yours but if you fail, then you have to help promote the Haunted House among your family and friends.”

If they won, they would get 5000 RMB, if they lost, there was no punishment, in other words, there was nothing for them to lose. Therefore, the few youngsters agreed to the condition easily.

“Chen Ge, don’t act too rashly.” Zhang Ya silently pulled on Chen Ge’s clothes. “They are all students from Xin Hai Medical University, some of them have performed autopsy on real bodies before, they will not be so easily scared.”

“Xin Hai Medical University?” Chen Ge thought for a while and then turned to the two students who led the group. “Do you mind telling me your names?”

“I am He San and this is my senior, Gao Ruxue.”

Chen Ge’s eyes swept the students before him before his eyes landed on Gao Ruxue. The moment he saw Gao Ruxue, a strange scar on the back of Chen Ge’s hand started to bleed. Pulse of pain entered Chen Ge’s heart like someone was tacking pins on the back of his arm.

“Chen Ge, your arm is bleeding!” Zhang Ya pulled Chen Ge to her side.

“It should be an accident inside the Haunted House. I probably brushed against something sharp, it’ll be fine.” Chen Ge had been curious about this scar on the back of his arm as well. His broken leg had almost recovered but this small scar on the back of his arm shown no sign of recovering at all. Now it had started to bleed again, this was very abnormal.

[Gao Ruxue is related to the wound on the back of my arm?] He buried this thought deep inside his mind. Then he rearranged his expression back to normal and very passionately led the few students into the third floor scenario. Half an hour later, Chen Ge walked out of the Haunted House with a heavy frown on his face. “Zhang Ya, I am going to need your help.”

Seeing the deep frown on Chen Ge’s face, Zhang Ya felt a quick unease. “None of them screamed?”

“Yes.” Chen Ge scratched his head. “They all fainted before any of them let out a peep. I cannot drag all of them with just my own, will you come and help me?”

With their eyes twitching, Zhang Ya and the nearby visitors all took in a cold breath. They took a whole 20 minutes before Chen Ge and Zhang Ya managed to transport all the students out from the third floor of the Haunted House. “We should deposit them under the tree shade where the wind is breezy. I have already performed heart resuscitation on them and I have checked their vitals. They are fine, there is no need to worry.”

“Why are you so familiar with all these things?” All three members of Zhang Ya’s family hurried out. Chen Ge made so many people faint at one time, even the management of the theme park was spooked when they got the news. But thankfully, Chen Ge knew where to draw the line. After they were carried out from the Haunted House, He San’s gang woke up one after another.

“Right on time. It is same as how I calculated.” Chen Ge looked like everything was within his control. When the students left, he did not forget to remind them. “Please come back to visit us more in the future!”

The popularity of the Haunted House grew and the business became more and more lively. Even Zhang Ya’s father who initially had some opinions about Chen Ge now could not help but praise Chen Ge whenever he ran into his friends. He even said it was his own eye in business that noticed Chen Ge’s talent in the first. After one more week, the business at the Haunted House slowly stabilized. Chen Ge’s mind appeared to be a wealth of endless good idea, he could always come up with new designs. The Haunted House became one of the most popular attractions at Xin hai Theme Park and it had gained a fast growing following on the internet, the overall income had quadrupled its original earning. Everything was moving towards the right direction, Chen Ge got to know many new friends, the pain in his memory was slowly washed away by the passage of time and light slowly returned to his eyes.

Whenever he was free, Chen Ge would go and find Zhang Ya, he was like a shadow to her. The two of them worked together in the day and had their meals together. After work, Zhang Ya would accompany Chen Ge to do his physiotherapy. Chen Ge’s broken leg already recovered to a state where it hindered his movement no more. After they had worked together for quite some time, Zhang Ya also realized

Chen Ge appeared to like to be with her, but she quite like this kind of feeling.

They continued to work together until the last day of the month. The Xin Hai theme park needed to conduct machine maintenance and inspection. Coincidentally the day was raining so the management decided to close the park for the day.

“Today, we can finish earn a well-deserved rest.” Zhang Ya removed the ghost make up and changed into a pretty dress that she seemed to have prepared earlier. She ran into the prop room to find Chen Ge. “Chen Ge, today the them park is closed, do you have any plan for the rest of the day?”

“The management is going to maintain the equipment today, so the workers might come in the afternoon to inspect the machines. I will stay inside here to deal with the props.” Chen Ge sat amidst a pile of plastic ‘arms’ and ‘organs’.

“It is rare that we get a day off and you plan to spend it inside the prop room?” Zhang Ya bent over beside Chen Ge. “Would you like to go to the movies?”

“Well, is there a good horror movie recently released?” Chen Ge answered without lifting his head. The white cat at the side could not watch this anymore. It licked its claws as if considering whether it should give Chen Ge a swipe to help him along.

“Why are we going to watch a horror film when the horrors are already playing around us every day?” Zhang Ya grabbed Chen Ge by his arm. “Come on, don’t just stay inside the house. You need to take in the fresh air once in a while.”

“wait a minute, I still have a red paint on me, I am afraid that I will dirty your clothes. Hey! Wait a minute...” Zhang Ya did not release the grab on Chen Ge’s arm and the two of them walked out of the Haunted House sharing an umbrella.

“Tsk, tsk, it is nice to be young.” Zhang Ya’s father stood at the window at the second floor of the Haunted House and he had been quietly watching everything. After that lamentation, he turned to look at the other window. Zhang ya’s mother was standing there. “Honey, it’s rare that we get a day off, how about we too go to the movies?”

“The management is coming to check the equipment in the afternoon, you better go and inspect all the props. Fix those that need to fix and patch up those that need to be patched.”

“But, honey, this is such a rare day off...”

“Go!”

...

Chen Ge had a liking to rainy day, but he had no idea why he liked the rainy weather. He had no recollection of the reasoning behind it. After the movie was over, the two of them walked for a while inside the mall. Zhang Ya even picked out a set of clothes for Chen Ge. When they walked past a diy shop, Zhang Ya dragged Chen Ge into it. This was a place where the customers could make their own key chains, phone casing and there was a spot for couples for make soft ceramic dolls.

Once they stepped into the shop, the owner came over to welcome them. She selected a quiet spot for them and then started to introduce the items available in the shop. After listening to the introduction, Zhang Ya decided to make the doll with Chen Ge. The owner took out the catalogue that contained many different cartoon images. There were detailed instructions but before she could start with the lecture, Chen Ge had already finished pinching out the shape of the doll in his hands.

“Your boyfriend has such handy fingers!” The owner was shocked. Compared to Chen Ge, suddenly she felt like she was just an amateur. “Which character are you making?” The owner looked through the catalogue but she could not tell what Chen Ge was making. “Are you not working according to any of the corresponding images? You are making the dolls from the images in your mind? Are you sure this is the first time you have done this?”

“I will never forget her look. Unfortunately I am still quite an amateur at this, even if I have used every skill that I know, I can only recover 1 percent of her beauty.” The ceramic doll in Chen Ge’s hand was slowly taking on shape. She was wearing a red dress and holding a love letter, this gorgeous woman captured in ceramic was none other than Zhang Ya.

After being fed a mouthful of dogfood, the shop owner very cleverly made herself scarce. Before she left, she even presented Chen Ge and Zhang Ya with two cups of drinks. They were on the house.

“Zhang Ya, this is for you.” When Chen Ge was making the doll, his hands appeared to have awakened some kind of muscle memory. This small ceramic doll appeared to have come alive, it had fully represented Zhang Ya's arresting beauty.

"Are you sure?!" Zhagn Ya looked at the doll happily. She carefully placed it beside her but after studying it for a while, she started to feel a headache coming. "I also need to make one for you as well!"

Half an hour later, Zhang Ya selected a rather passable Chen Ge doll among the bunch of 'broken limbs and snapped necks'. She very embarrassedly placed the doll before Chen Ge and then lowered her head to focus on her drink. The two of them sat together and they were very close together. Time passed by without them knowing it. They had finished making the dolls, key chains and then went for a meal together. They had done many things they wished to do. Night was coming and the rain showed no sign of slowing down, if anything it had only gotten heavier.

There was not that many people on the road. Chen Ge and Zhang Ya shared an umbrella. Initially Zhang Ya was just holding Chen Ge's hand but slowly, she leaned onto Chen Ge's shoulder.

"Should I walk you home?"

"How about... we walk a bit further?"

Rain slid down the leaves and the umbrella. The water puddles by the roadside reflection the neon lights of the buildings. Chen Ge and Zhang Ya walked down the street at the old city.

"Chen Ge..."

"What's wrong?"

"Actually, after I have met you, I would have horrible dream every night." Zhang Ya leaned on Chen Ge. "They are very scary dreams, in the morning, my parents died in a car accident, and I am myself lying in a pool of blood. In the dream, I was wearing a skirt covered in blood and wandering inside a hospital. I would dream about the different side of this city where it was filled with dead people and in the city, you are the only ghost with temperature and warmth."

Chapter 1185 - Are you Willing to Destroy Your Dream with Your Own Hands (2in1)

Chapter 1185: Are you Willing to Destroy Your Dream with Your Own Hands (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

A rainy city, an empty street, Chen Ge and Zhang Ya stood together sharing the same umbrella. “Those dreams feel so real, it is as if the world inside the dream is the real world.”

Looking into Zhang Ya’s eyes, Chen Ge’s mouth opened slightly but in the end, he did not utter the words in his mind. He hesitated for a moment before he moved his eyes away, “I also cannot tell which is the reality and which one is the fake, but it does not matter. No matter where we are, I will be standing beside you, I will be always by your side like a shadow.”

...

The rain drained into the puddles by the road. The reflections of the neon lights blurred from the ripples. Zhang Ya leaned softly against Chen Ge’s body. She did not share the pain that she had been suffering during this period with anyone else, but now that she had voiced them to another person, the anxiety and fear in her heart slowly started to lessen. Neither of them wished to shatter this temporary goodness. They strode in the rain and walked for quite a long time.

The rain continued to pour. Chen Ge hailed a cab and sent Zhang Ya home. When Zhang Ya got down from the cab, she told Chen Ge another thing. Not too long ago, there was a young man called Zhang Wenyu who came to visit the Haunted House. The visitor looked no different from the other visitors. It was after reading the name on the disclaimer notice that Zhang Ya found out his name was Zhang Wenyu. After Zhang Ya returned home, Chen Ge told the cab driver to send him back to Xin Hai Theme Park. He rushed back into the Haunted House and opened the cupboard where all the disclaimers were kept. He looked through them one by one and in the end, found 12 disclaimers that had Zhang Wenyu’s name on them.

“Looking at the dates, the appearance of this Zhang Wenyu is becoming more and more frequent. Initially he only appears once a week but ever since I started working at the Haunted House, the name practically shows up among the visitors daily.” Chen Ge was responsible to act as ghost on the third floor. It was mainly Zhang Ya who was dealing with the visitors outside. Due to the hectic schedule, no one had the time to pay attention to the disclaimers.

“Zhang Wenyu has been here before, so this probably means that he has seen me in person already.” Chen Ge took the stack of disclaimers and sat next to the wooden table. “Why are there so many people with the name Zhang Wenyu? When Zuo Han looked through the patient’s list in the night doctor’s office, why did over ten thousands of patients with the name Zhang Wenyu got registered at the hospital at the same time?” Rubbing his temple, Chen Ge’s brain did not have any memory related to Zhang Wenyu at all. His locked memory fragments had already been transferred into those glass jars, what he left were the little unlocked memory fragments from before. After putting away all the disclaimers with Zhang Wenyu’s names back into the cupboard, Chen Ge headed towards the staff breakroom. When he passed the Haunted House bathroom, he subconsciously glanced into it. The toilet cubicle door had been closed by someone in his absence. He walked into the bathroom to push the cubicle door open and then he moved to the staff breakroom. He picked up the white cat and looked at the rain that was getting heavier outside the window.

“I have found out about many things in my past but none of the things can be considered good memories.” Chen Ge raised his hand as if trying to touch the nigh sky. “Now I have everything that I have ever dreamed of but time will not stop at this moment.” Hugging the white cat, Chen Ge looked into the cat’s dual colored eye, “If you are me, what kind of choice will you make?”

Chen Ge was asking the white cat and at the same time, asking himself. The storm finally abated after midnight. Chen Ge tossed and turned in his bed before he finally fell asleep.

...

Opening his eyes, the sun hit on his face through the window. Chen Ge rubbed his head as he crawled up from bed. “A new day has begun.” He put on his clothes and picked up the white cat to head into the bathroom to go through his morning routine. When he lifted up his face to look at the mirror, he realized the cubicle door behind him had been closed again. “I remember very well I have come in here to open it before I got to bed yesterday night. Why is it closed now? Could it be the wind?"

Chen Ge pushed open the door of the cubicle again. He glanced inside it, it was just a normal toilet cubicle, there was nothing special about it. "Somehow all these feel so weird."

After giving the place a good cleaning, Chen Ge opened the gates of the Haunted House, to start the day for business. The first person to come to work was Zhang Ya. After their date yesterday, their relationship became much closer. Zhang Ya's parents came much later to the Haunted House as if they were trying to give the young couple as much alone time as they could.

Xin Hai Theme Park opened at 9 am, the visitors rushed through the gates and queued up obediently in front of the Haunted House. Chen Ge who was in the disguise of a crazed murderer was standing behind the curtain of one of the windows on the second floor and observed everything from the dark. Throughout the whole morning, there was no accident inside the Haunted House. During lunch break, Chen Ge who was still in the disguise started to go through the disclaimers that they had gotten in that morning. After the visitors signed the disclaimer, they would be kept in order inside the cupboard, therefore, from the placement of the disclaimer, one could correctly deduct the time the visitor came to visit the Haunted House. Chen Ge had just flipped through two pages when he stopped because at that moment he was holding the disclaimer that had Zhang Wenyu's name on it!

"He should still be nearby!" He grabbed the disclaimer and went to find Zhang Ya. After giving it some thought, Zhang Ya told him it was a middle-aged man who signed that disclaimer. The man had a unique presence about him and a sharp gaze that dissuaded others from looking directly at him. After knowing the man's looks, Chen Ge rushed out of the Haunted House without taking off his disguise. His clothes were dirty and covered in red paint, he looked quite scary. "Zhang Wenyu, where would he be?"

Walking through the shadowed path, Chen Ge stopped at the split right in the middle of the theme park. There were so many visitors around him. Even if he possessed very good power of sight, it was practically impossible to pick out a single person among the large crowd. "He has been coming to the Haunted House because he wants to meet me, if that is the case, why does not he leave any messages for me?"

He paused at the split for a very long time. Just as Chen Ge prepared to give up and leave, he realized there was man sitting at the theme park's restaurant's corner looking at him. "Is that him?" Chen Ge did not hesitate. He held the disclaimer and strode into the restaurant and sat down next to the man. After taking a closer look at the man before him, a sense of familiarity rose up in Chen Ge's heart, he was sure that he was not wrong.

"Long time no see." The middle-aged man took a sip of the coffee in the cup and leaned his body back against the chair.

"Long time no see? But this should be the first time we have met." Chen Ge placed the disclaimer on the table. "You are Zhang Wenyu?"

"I am a part of Zhang Wenyu, you can call me..." With his fingers tapping on the table, the middle-aged man thought for a while before answering, "The author."

"The author?"

"Looks like you have really forgotten everything." The middle-aged man stood up directly. It was as if he had sensed something wrong and was prepared to leave.

"Please do not go like that. Can't we have a good chat over this?"

"When you have made the decision, and then you come and find me." The author was not dragging his heel. It was as if the longer he stayed here, the bigger the danger he would be in.

"What kind of decision?" Chen Ge grabbed the author's hand.

"When the truth is so cruel that if you know about it, regret will definitely follow, in that case, will you still be willing to pursue the truth?" The author pulled his hand away from Chen Ge but not before planting something in Chen Ge's palm. "If you do, then come to this place and find me alone." After saying that, the author hurriedly melted into the crowd and then he disappeared.

Chen Ge lowered his head to look at the centre of his palm, there was a piece of napkin placed there. The name of a location was written on the piece of paper—Ping An Apartment. After putting the napkin paper and the disclaimer away, Chen Ge walked away from the theme park restaurant with heavy thought in his mind. He walked through the theme park with the costume of the crazed murderer from the Haunted House. When many adults who came with their children to the theme park saw Chen Ge, they quickly covered their children's eyes. Some of the other visitors took out their phone to snap pictures of Chen Ge.

"Chen Ge!" Zhang Ya who was dressed in the red spectre disguise jogged over to him. "Why did you come over here all of a sudden?"

"Just now..." Chen Ge did not hide the truth from Zhang Ya, "I found Zhang Wenyu."

"We can talk about that after we get back. It is not good for the visitors of the theme park to see us like this." Zhang Ya dragged Chen Ge back to the Haunted House. After the simple lunch, they started to work for the afternoon session. They busied themselves until 6 o'clock when the Haunted House closed for business. Chen Ge removed the murderer costume and started to check the props and traps inside the scenario. He was moving through the floor when he heard footsteps coming from the stairs. He turned his head to look and saw that Zhang Ya was coming up the stairs.

"How can I help you?"

"It's nothing about me. But I am worried about you. After you have met Zhang Wenyu, your attention has been constantly distracted." Zhang Ya walked to stand beside Chen Ge. "Is he one of your former friends? If you run into any trouble, know that you can share them with me any time."

"I cannot remember him at all, perhaps we do used to know each other because he appears to know about my past." Chen Ge had a bit of a headache, he pressed on his temples.

"Then you should go and ask him for more details. Be it a good or bad thing, that was once who you were, it contained your memory and the real you." Zhang Ya had been encouraging Chen Ge.

"But what if I am a horrible person in my past or what if finding out about my past will affect my present and future?" Chen Ge leaned against the wall of the corridor. The cold walls on his back made him slowly calm down. "I am very sure that the current everything that I have now is the thing that I have been desiring all along. If I have never experienced this before, then perhaps I can give it all up easily but now I am very unwilling, I even do not have the courage to take the risk to make this decision." Chen Ge was still talking when his cold hands felt a trace of warmth. Lowering his head to look, Chen Ge realized Zhang Ya was holding his hands softly. "Zhang Ya?"

“Haven’t we made a promise to each other yesterday night? No matter where we are, we will be by each other’s side like shadow. Therefore, do not fret too much on whether to search for your past or to maintain the current state, what you need to do is to find back your real self.” Zhang Ya pulled Chen Ge along by his hand. “Come on, don’t fuss too much over this. It is time for dinner, my mom has bought many good food.”

The business at the Haunted House was getting better and better by the day, Zhang Ya’s parents bought many drinks and food. They had a celebration with Chen Ge until late at night before they left.

At around 10 pm, Chen Ge who was staying alone in the prop room suddenly heard the sound of the window being opened. He grabbed the nearest tool inside the toolbox which was a metallic hammer and leaned his back against the wall and hid himself in the shadows. Chen Ge did not go after the man who snuck in immediately but came to the main control room first and switched off all the lights inside the Haunted House. He was very familiar with the layout of the Haunted House and with his incredible power of hearing, in that moment, he gained the upper hand almost immediately by doing the decision that he made. Holding the hammer, Chen Ge held his head. He focused his ear to listen. Following that soft pitter patter of footsteps, he came to the door of the staff breakroom.

Just outside the door of the staff breakroom there stood a dark shadow. He slowly approached and the sound of his footsteps was muffled. The shadowy figure had no idea there was another person about several metres behind him. The figure twisted the door handle, as if wondering how to open the door when he felt a giant force wrap around his neck.

“What is your name? Why have you sneaked into the Haunted House in the middle of the night?” The chilling and eerie voice demanded beside his ear. His back was drenched by cold sweat almost immediately.

“Chen Ge? I am Zuo Han! It’s me, Zuo Han! I am your friend!” The person screamed for mercy, it was clear that he was really afraid.

“Zuo Han?” Hearing the familiar voice, Chen Ge immediately let the person go and switched on the lights in the corridor. Zuo Han who was wearing a tattered brown old coat was collapsed on the ground, grasping for air.

“Oh, it was my old roommate! Why didn’t you just say so? We could have saved a lot of trouble.”

“Did you ever give the time to say anything?” Zuo Han rubbed at his neck. After he lifted his head, Chen Ge’s brows were immediately creased together. There was a wound that was about 7 cm long on Zuo Han’s left eye, his left eye appeared to have plucked away.

“What happened to your eye?” Chen Ge put down the hammer and immediately helped Zuo Han up from the ground.

“I have traded it away.” Zuo Han said matter-of-factly.

“You have used your eye in a trade?” Chen Ge was shocked by this revelation. What kind of trade was this? “Is it with one of the doctors inside the hospital?”

“No, before you were taken to the treatment room to accept the treatment, I have already escaped from the hospital.” Zuo Han thought back to the incident that happened one month ago. “That day I got the notice from Doctor Gao, telling me that I was go to the treatment room with you that night. At the time, I already felt something was off. That and another doctor had dropped me a hint. I knew that if I did not do anything then, I would be in great trouble, therefore I made the quick decision to ‘escape’ from the prison.”

Chen Ge thought back to that night. When Doctor Gao first gave him the treatment, there were in total 7 people in the treatment room, 5 of them were patients and the other 2 doctors. At the time, the explanation given by Doctor Gao was two of the patients had escaped so he and Doctor Sun were there in their placement to participate in the treatment.

“Zuo Han, the doctor that gave you the hint at the time, can you still remember his name?”

“I cannot remember who it was that dropped the hint for me but based on my deduction, the only person that could have chosen that moment to give any hint to me, it has to be one of the doctors working inside the hospital.” Zuo Han was still as strong as ever when it came to logical deduction.

Chen Ge nodded. He believed the Zuo Han was able to escape successfully from the hospital had two reasons behind it, first was because the hospital did not pay that much attention to Zuo Han, they did not know the Zuo Han had already started to suspect his own memory, secondly, there was a doctor inside the hospital who had lent him an aid, and this mysterious doctor who had helped Zuo Han from the dark was most likely Doctor Sun. After all, by helping Zuo Han leave, that the young man would have the chance to join in Chen Ge's treatment.

"If you did not conduct the trade with the doctor, then who else in this city would use an eyeball as an item of transaction?" Chen Ge led Zuo Han into the staff breakroom and had him sit on the bed.

"The eyeball was a trade and also a sacrifice." Zuo Han pulled open the zipper of his jacket to expose the wounds that had not yet recovered near his collarbone and chest. "These are the sacrifice needed to find the truth." Looking at the ghastly wounds on Zuo Han's body, Chen Ge grabbed the med kit from inside the Haunted House. "What have you been up to during this period of time?"

"I am now currently being sought by everyone in the city, therefore I have to cut the long story short." Zuo Han stood up to pull back the curtain. After he made sure there was no one else outside the window, he only revealed, "I cannot be sure whether this world that we are currently in is the real world or not but there is one thing that I am certain of. When you start to have suspicion of this world, misfortune and horror will descend upon you."

Chapter 1186 - Making a Decision (2in1)

Chapter 1186: Making a Decision (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“Misfortune will befall you once you start to have suspicion of this world?” Chen Ge shook his head lightly. “The fragmented memory in my mind told me that even if I am just living my life, I will be under the torture of misfortune and despair.”

“They are completely different thing.” Zuo Han touched the wound on his left eye, it appeared to be recovering already so it was pulsing with pain. “Your previous memory perhaps came from the real life and the real life had always been cruel, but everything that you are experiencing now is more like a dream, a dream that you will not be able to wake up from.”

...

“Ever since I woke up at the hospital, I stopped dreaming at night. So from that point of view, your suspicion has some basis to it.” Chen Ge poured a glass of water for Zuo Han but Zuo Han refused to touch it at all, he was very cautious.

“Your body is recovering very fast and the sharpness in your eyes has gone. I know you actually understand many things but now you are unwilling to face them because you have possessed the goodness in the world, you have tasted the bliss and so you do not want to personally destroy them with your own two hands.” Zuo Han was not only clever, he had a very good observation skill. From Chen Ge’s various tone and expression, he could discern many things. Listening to Zuo Han’s accusation, Chen Ge did not answer. He had also been questioning himself but unfortunately he never reached any conclusion answer.

“But if this is just a dream and suspicion will trigger bad luck that will tear down all the goodness, then in the end, even if I wake up from the dream, wouldn’t I be thrown back to an even crueler reality?”

“But the bliss here is fake.” Zuo Han stood up and looked at Chen Ge seriously, “What have they done to you in the short amount of one month? What have you experienced? You weren’t like this at the hospital at all, back then, the feeling you gave me was more like a devil who was hiding a heart of revenge.”

“I have not experienced anything too special, I merely have been living a simple life. If you really want to pinpoint something, it would be my encounter with Zhang Ya.” Chen Ge sat on the chair, the emotions in his eyes were extremely complicated. “She is very special to me. When I am with her, I will feel very secure and safe.”

“I thought things will go smoothly but I guess I have wasted my time coming here tonight.” Zuo Han removed his gloves and took out a crumpled piece of paper from his pocket. “You will eventually wake up from the dream. The day you change your mind, you can come to this place to find me.” When Chen Ge reached out to accept the piece of paper, he noticed the fingerprints on Zuo Han’s fingers had been sanded off.

“I am now a wanted man, this is probably the last time I am coming to find you.” After Chen Ge kept the paper note, Zuo Han was ready to leave. “This city might look perfect on the surface but underneath its perfect cover, it is filled with boils about to burst with pus and blood. When you become unwilling to leave this place, it will slowly swallow you into its stomach.”

“I will think about this further.”

“Okay, there is one more thing that I have to tell you. I have once stolen a white phone out from the hospital, after I switched it on, I realized it was installed with various kind of cursed words and a bunch of apps related to curses. Initially I thought that was just a strange interest by the owner but after that, I have sneaked a look at all the phones of the hospital workers and the doctors at the hospital, everyone at that hospital with white phone had many curse-related games and apps installed in their phone. So if you encounter anyone using white phone in the future, remember to stay away from them.” After Zuo Han dropped that piece of advice, he did not stay any longer. He climbed through the window of the bathroom and left. Closing the window behind him, Chen Ge’s face was dark. He leaned against the door of the toilet cubicle and his brain was churning rapidly.

“There were originally many memory fragments in my mind, they described a completely different life, the doctors at the hospital told me those memories were all part of my delusion but after seeing the seven glass jars in all the hospital directors' offices, I can be certain now that those experiences were absolutely real." Chen Ge was actually very clear that, if those memory fragments were real, then the city that he was currently living in was most likely a fake one. "After the hospital realized all the memory fragments in my brain had disappeared, they only allowed me to leave the hospital but the key problem was when I was leaving the hospital, Doctor Sun had come to remind me that the real treatment is only starting now.

"Eliminating my past memory is the only the first step. The thing that they will do next is probably to reshape my memory so that I will stop suspecting this hospital and this world and become a living doll inside this city. They will use the fake bliss and happiness to numb me to everything, to have me desire everything, to make it so that I am unable to part myself from them and even turn me into a defender of this place and its rules." Chen Ge's gaze was cold. "They had a very good plan but there were too many accidents in this process, the escape of the patient Zhang Wenyu, the suspicion Zuo Han had towards this world, the help of Doctor Sun, and the most importantly, some kind of change had been happening to Zhang Ya as well."

He could remember very clearly, when he encountered Zhang Ya at the hospital, there was blood droplets that had gathered from bloody words that had crawled into Zhang Ya's body. "Initially Zhang Ya's existence was probably to compensate for my real, to help fulfil my wish but under the influence of those blood words, Zhang Ya started to have some very scary nightmares every night. Those nightmares are probably the real world and those nightmares have been reminding me and Zhang Ya that under this bubble of bliss, there are many bloody faces looking to swallow us. This is a blissful world that is meant for people to sink themselves into but my life is more than me alone." Many different figures appeared in Chen Ge's mind. "The second persona that has gouged out his heart in the brain maze, the patients who are still in torment at the hospital, the child who was split into many parts and stuffed into different glass jars, Doctor Sun who was filled with scars and perhaps even Zhang Ya."

Thinking back to their date, when Chen Ge was making the ceramic doll, both of his hands had moulded the version of Zhang Ya in his heart. Chen Ge who was a master dollmaker had already noticed a problem then, the Zhang Ya doll that he created wore a bloody dress and was wearing various negative emotions. That was not Zhang Ya under the spectre disguise, but a Demon God that was extremely scary. The version that Zhang Ya that he made from his memory was a different Zhang Ya that he spent time with daily, perhaps the version of Zhang Ya at the Haunted house was merely a part of the real Zhang Ya. With this thought in mind, Chen Ge lowered his head to look at paper note left in his palm. There were three words written on the front of the paper—Ping An Apartments. On the back, the location of Ping An Apartment was roughly jotted down.

“Doctor Sun helped me escaped from the hospital so that proves that the way to wake up from the dream is not inside the hospital but somewhere in this city.” The message that was left behind by Zuo Han and the author was one and the same. After giving it some thought, he turned back towards the staff breakroom and then came out carrying an old backpack. The white cat strode bouncingly behind Chen Ge. Just as they were around to reach the Haunted House door, Chen Ge turned back to place it back inside the room. “I am going to a very dangerous place tonight, I can’t let you follow me so tonight I will need you to watch over the fort for me.”

The pair of dual-colored eyes looked at Chen Ge with confusion, the white cat appeared as if it was in brutal shock. Moments later, it ran out again, as if worried that Chen Ge did not want it anymore. “I am not going out to play this time. I need to stay here and look over the place, I promise I will be back before sunrise.”

In the end, Chen Ge did not bring the white cat with him. Based on the instruction on the paper, he took a cab and came to a restaurant that was close to Ping An Apartment. Xin Hai’s taxi drivers apparently rarely got the direction to come to places outside of the city. When Chen Ge got out from the car, the driver even tried his best to advise him that it was incredibly unwise to come to the countryside alone at night.

Chen Ge walked past the restaurant. His original intention was to prevent others from following him on vehicle so he planned to walk the rest of the distance to the apartment. But incidentally, he had not had a meal since the start of the day, and he was already quite hungry so he turned and walked into the restaurant.

Ping An Apartment was at Xin Hai western countryside, this place was very secluded. Before he came here, Chen Ge also did not expect a restaurant that was quite popular could be found so far away from the city. The shop was famous for its ‘lu zhu’ (stewed food) and ‘wild game’. Due to the city’s rules for the banning of wild game, the restaurant had to move to the countryside even though the owner had been trying his best to explain that all the meat that was served at his shop was reared from home, they only had that unique taste because of the special recipe of seasoning that they used. The shop was not that big, it did not have any VIP rooms, there were only five to six short, wooden tables placed at the lobby.

“I am so sorry but we are already closed for business.” There was a fatty standing at the cashier, he had on a dirty apron and a very obvious scar was travelling his face.

“I have come so far from the city to visit your place, just serve me anything that you have left.” Chen Ge smelled the delicious scent of meat inside the shop and his stomach grumbled even louder. He found a seat and then casually flipped through the menu.

“There are still some vegetables but we have already run out of meat. The meat at this place sells like hot cakes.” The fat chef finished dealing with the work he was dealing with and took a menu and walked towards Chen Ge. “We still have some frozen dumplings in the fridge, how about I make some wild boar dumplings for you?”

“I do not like wild game that much, just some vegetables will be fine.” Chen Ge turned his head to look at the chef and the chef also happened to lower his head to look at them. When the two saw the other’s face at that moment, something incredibly absurd happened. The scar on the fat chef’s face started to wiggle. His body appeared to freeze and cold sweat slithered continuously down his forehead.

“Do you know me?” Chen Ge narrowed his eyes.

“Absolutely not!” The chef replied firmly. Then he turned and ran towards the kitchen like he was escaping for his life but his shoulder was grabbed by Chen Ge.

“Do you really not know me? If that is the case, then why did you run? What is your name?” Chen Ge might not like he was that thick in frame but he had powerful arms. His five fingers sunk into the chef’s shoulders like metallic claws. “Your body is shaking, are you afraid of me?”

“I am not afraid of you, I have merely mistaken you for someone else. He look similar to one of the police officers and I thought you were here to check on the wild game.” The chef did not dare to turn his face around and when he answered, he answered in the softest voice possible.

“You are lying.” Chen Ge pressed harder with his hand. “Tell me, what is your name?"

"My name is Chi Longtou. I am just a small chef, please let me go."
The chef started to beg.

"Chi Longtou of the Lu Zu shop?" Chen Ge felt like that information was rather familiar. He pressed the chef against the wall and reached out his finger to touch the scar on the chef's face. From the body size, the chef was much larger than Chen Ge but in reality, the chef did not have the intention to even struggle at all. "The wound on your face has not scabbed over and the wound is not that deep, it looks like they have been slowly gouged out by some object, is this some kind of sick punishment?" Chen Ge's finger trailed the edge of the wound, the pain caused the chef to grit his teeth. "The perimeter of the wound is extremely irregular, it feels like whenever it is about to heal, someone will come and injure you again. I cannot imagine the pain that you must be in."

Listening to what Chen Ge had to say, the chef's legs were as weak as noodle. He knelt down to the ground and his face was pale as ash. "Chen Ge, can we just pretend that we have not met each other? I have never seen you and you have never walked into my shop?"

"You even know my name?" Chen Ge pressed even harder. He could be sure that this was the first time he met Chi Longtou but the latter was able to recognize him so this could only mean that they had some kind of connection before and that connection was a proof for the validity of Chen Ge's former memory. The chef wished that he could slap his mouth. With a bitter face, he did not dare to even utter a word anymore.

"I only need you to answer a few of my questions honestly. If I am satisfied, then I won't bother you anymore and we can pretend that we have not met each other." Compared to the chef, Chen Ge was even more desperate to know stuff but he did not show it on the surface.

"Ask me then, I will tell you everything that I know." The chef crawled up from the ground as if he had surrendered to his destiny. He jogged over to close the door of his shop.

"My first question is from where did you know me?" This was the point that Chen Ge was the most curious about. He was there that night to go and ask Zhang Wenyu about it, but as fate would have it, he ran into this strange chef instead.

“It was at a Lu Zu snack shop at Xin Hai but not the one behind the door...” The chef said when the world before his eyes turned blood red. He felt like someone was about to tear his brain apart.

“Hey!” Chen Ge was given quite a shock as well. Seeing the wound on the chef’s face suddenly tear open for no reason, that was the understandable response. Then the blood poured out from the chef’s face. Holding his own face, the chef was rolling on the ground. He resisted the pain but did not dare to make too loud of a noise. He could only bite on the table cloth that he had grabbed earlier. There was blood everywhere on the ground. Chen Ge looked at the redness that was drying up but he did not feel any disgust or fear, it was as if he had gotten used to all these gore already. His fingers touched the blood stains on the ground. The sticky and warm feeling was very familiar to Chen Ge, a thought burst out from the deep part of his mind. [This is real blood.]

After about 10 minutes, the chef only slowly returned to normal. He reached out his bloody hands to grab at Chen Ge’s shoes. “I cannot tell you anything, I will die.”

“Actually in your current state, I feel like dying might be a better option than death, perhaps you still have something that you still have not finished.” Chen Ge picked the chef up from the ground. “If one day I can end the pain, I will try to find a way to help you. Please do not push yourself further, you can just tell me whatever that you can tell me.”

The chef’s body was shaking due to extreme pain. He used the table cloth, soaked it in his own blood and wrote down something on the ground. Whenever he finished writing a word, he would immediately wipe it away—this is the place where the patients are punished behind the door.

“The place where the patients are punished?”

With shaking hand, the chef wrote down another line—can’t escape, can’t die even if I want to, help me.

He wiped away all traces of blood on the ground. He held his bleeding face and headed back into the kitchen. After reading the bloody revelation by the chef, Chen Ge had a very bad feeling rising inside him.

Seeking the truth and misfortune would come, now it appeared like misfortune had already come knocking at his doors.

Chapter 1187 - Back to the Beginning (2in1)

Chapter 1187: Back to the Beginning (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“all the hospital workers at the hospital also have the surname Chi, there has to be some kind of connection between them, it is unwise to stay here for too long.” Looking at the pool of blood on the ground, Chen Ge lost his appetite. He skipped the meal and left the shop. He walked down the path for about 100 metres. When Chen Ge turned his head back to look, all the lights at the shop had been switched off already. The place was shrouded in darkness, he could not see anything.

“For me, this is a city that is perfectly beautiful, but Chi Longtou said this city is used to punish the patients. And then he mentioned something about a ‘door’, what kind of special significance does the ‘door’ play in this city?” Chen Ge was reminded of the door inside Zhang Ya’s Haunted House’s bathroom. Whenever he pushed the cubicle door open, the next he passed the bathroom, he would notice the cubicle door would be closed again. Other than that, when he received the treatment at the hospital, when Doctor Gao pulled him into the brain maze, the turning point also came when he was supposed to push open doors. After he pushed open the door, the hospital outside was eerie and scary, it was as if the worlds inside and outside the door were completely different.

...

“Perhaps the exit to escape this city is a door hidden inside this large city.” Based on the direction provided by Zuo Han, at around 11. 40 pm, Chen Ge finally reached Ping An Apartments. It was an old-fashioned apartment building that appeared to be quite abandoned. It was situated behind an abandoned village at the western countryside of Xin Hai, the location was extremely secluded. “Why would the author and Zuo Han signal for me to come here? Have the two of them met each other before?”

The leaves ruffled from the wind. Chen Ge walked past the abandoned village, there was not even a single figure around.

“It feels like I have been to this place before for some reason.” Looking at the tombstones outside the window and the uneven old locust trees that grew up gnarly like ghosts, such a scary atmosphere did not cause even a ripple of fear in his heart. “Just what kind of life I have led before? How come I feel nothing when I am around these things that should have scared a normal people? If anything, I feel some kind of familiarity around them?”

Chen Ge did not think there was anything abnormal about him, he chalked the formation of this attitude to a deeper layer of consciousness in his mind. When he reached the end of the village, Chen Ge was about to move forward, when he suddenly saw a person kneeling on top of the tombstone next to it. The person appeared to have materialized out of thin air but at the same time, felt like he had been watching Chen Ge from that spot for a long time already.

When Chen Ge saw the man, the latter also saw Chen Ge. The two of them shared a look but neither of them felt there was nothing off about this. Neither of them spoke, they continued with their own work. The man continued to kneel on the tombstone while Chen Ge walked away from him. But after he took a few steps, Chen Ge suddenly realized the man who was kneeling on the tombstone earlier looked quite familiar to him. But when Chen Ge turned back to look, the only thing that he saw was a solitary grave.

“Where is the man? In the middle of the night, there was a person kneeling on top of a grave. This is definitely something unusual but how did I manage to accept it as an everyday thing? The person who was kneeling on the tombstone did not give me a sense of danger or warning either.” Ever since he made the decision to come to Ping An Apartments, Chen Ge realized more and more things that he could not explain started to appear around him. To get to Ping An Apartment, he had to move through the abandoned village. After Chen Ge passed the graveyard, a piece of dirt road piled up with twigs and trash that extended before him. Next to the road there stood a sign, it said no trespassing. But because no one had passed this place for a long time, the sign had seen better days and even the warning on it had faded away.

“The apartment is already so old, just what kind of people still insist on staying there?” Walking down the dirt path filed with holes, Chen Ge looked around him with curiosity. The two sides of the roads were hanging with funereal bouquets and flags. Many paper money littered around the ground, some of the paper money had been half buried inside the ground, obviously they had been there for quite some time already. White clothes were bound around tree branches and one could see shadows of grave through the trees. The tombstones flickered amidst the forest like eyes and they were extremely scary. If this was a normal Xin Hai citizen who had come here, they probably would have turned back out of fear already.

“This place is decorated so eerily, it feels like someone is purposely to hide something here so that people will not be willing to come any closer.” The path that he was walking on appeared to lead directly down to hell. It was unclear how long Chen Ge had been traveling down it before he finally reached the end. There was an old apartment that was well hidden inside the forest. It had 3 storeys in total, it was not tall by any means. All the windows on the third floor were boarded up with wooden boards and you could see the sign of charring on the walls, signifying this place was once a site of a big fire. A big fire probably enveloped this place before but due to a probable lack of funds, the owner only refurbished the lower two floors and left the third floor the way it was.

“Ping An Apartments?” After wading through the small yard that was filled with wild grasses, Chen Ge saw the plaque with the apartment’s name on it. The building appeared to have had many names in its incarnation. The characters on the plaque had been changed many times, giving it a harried look.

“Is someone in?” Chen Ge pulled open the zipper of his backpack. With his hand inside the backpack, he entered the building carefully. The inside of the building was extremely old, the floor tiles were cracked and there were gaps on the wall. Occasionally one could see black worms wiggling inside them.

“From the outside the building looks quite small, I am surprised it can accommodate so many rooms inside it.” Chen Ge did not dare to wander down the hall aimlessly. His eyes scanned the doors one after another before his gaze finally fell on the door for Room 101. Knocking lightly on the door, Chen Ge stood for a long time outside the door but no one came to answer it. He leaned against the door and perked his ears up to listen. It was deathly quiet inside the room as if no one was staying there.

“What are you doing?” A man’s voice suddenly rang out from behind Chen Ge, it gave Chen Ge quite a fright. He immediately whipped his body around to turn behind him.

“It’s you! You were the person who was kneeling on the tombstone earlier!" It did not take long for Chen Ge to recognize the man behind him.

"This is not a place that you should have come. Before you awaken the other tenants, you better leave this place as soon as you can." The man was standing a few steps behind Chen Ge. He walked with no sound at all. Chen Ge had no idea when did he arrive behind him.

"It is already too late, and I wouldn't be able to find a transport to get back into the city even if I want to, do you mind if I stay here for one night?" Chen Ge stared closely at the man and remembered the man's every movement deep inside his heart.

"But all the rooms here are occupied." The middle-aged man kept urging Chen Ge to leave. "just go. Even if you stay outside, it is better than you staying here."

"The place is occupied but how come I feel like none of the room here has people inside them?"

"Having no people inside them does not necessarily mean that they are not occupied..." Before the man could finish, there appeared to be something that fell down from the third floor, it sounded like a ball rolling down the stairs. Chen Ge turned to look but the man quickly shuffled his step to block Chen Ge's view.

"Did something just fall down the stairs?"

"A tenant has lost her precious keepsake. I will go and help her, I need you to stand here and do not move." The man walked towards the corner of the corridor. Chen Ge did not listen to his order and instead followed behind him directly. When he came to the corner of the stairs, Chen Ge saw the middle-aged man hand something over to a woman, or more precisely, he placed something on the woman.

"Thank you..." The woman touched her neck with both of her hands and then looked at Chen Ge with open curiosity. The strange thing was, when she saw Chen Ge's face, she was unable to pull her eyes away. It was not until the middle-aged man coughed audibly for several times, that something occurred to the woman and she hurriedly to turn away. Being stared by that strange woman, Chen Ge's back was drenched in cold sweat. Earlier he saw clearly that the middle-aged man had placed something for the woman. But there was nothing on the woman's arms or body that could make a bouncing sound. Chen Ge's eyes were fixated on the back of the woman's neck. The woman's neck was twisting abnormally, it was as if her head was tittering unevenly on her shoulders.

"it is time for you to go." The middle-aged man stood on the stairs and looked down on Chen Ge. His face was strangely pale like a body inside the morgue.

"Actually the reason I am here is to look for a friend of mine." Chen Ge did not want to hide the truth. This place was too strange, he felt like it was better if he came out with the truth.

"It is impossible for your friend to be here, the tenants staying here would not be your friends after all." The middle-aged man walked to stand before Chen Ge. "This is the second time we have met tonight. The first time I have pretended to not see you, and now I can still pretend to not see you. So please leave now because there won't be a third time."

"You have been pretending to not see me? What will happen if you have seen me?"

"Then you will become a tenant here and it will be very hard to leave again." The middle-aged man held Chen Ge up in the corridor. Moments later, a door that was close to the stairs on the second floor opened. A woman wearing glasses walked out from the room. She saw Chen Ge and the middle-aged man. When the woman saw Chen Ge, her expression changed as well. She seemed to share a good relationship with the middle-aged man. She walked directly to the middle-aged man's side and then whispered softly into his ear. "Ol' Zhou, has this young man been to Ping An Apartment before?"

1

The man who was called Ol' Zhou shook his head. "I am chasing him away now."

"If he is seen by more of the tenants, I am afraid he won't be able to leave if he wants to then." After dropping that piece of advice, the woman with the spectacles brushed past Chen Ge like he was not even there and headed up to the third floor. Chen Ge had noticed by then most of the people at Ping An Apartment treated him strangely. He suspected it had to do with Zhang Wenyu and Zuo Han.

"Erm... Brother Zhou, is there a tenant here that goes by the name Zuo Han, he is my friend. Actually we shared the same room when we were at the hospital." Chen Ge gave Zuo Han's name. His intention was to hope to get more information but to his surprise, after he said that, the attitude of the middle-aged man towards him changed instantly.

“Wait, you and him are friends? You also came from that hospital?” Ol’ Zhou stared closely at Chen Ge.

“yes, we were staying inside the same sickroom. I guess you could say that i am one of the reasons he had escaped from the hospital.”

“Zuo Han is still out. If you are his friend, then you should go to his room to wait for him.” After Ol’ Zhou found out Chen Ge was someone who came from that hospital, he immediately changed his mind. He personally led Chen Ge to the room at the deepest end of the second floor corridor. “This is where Zuo Han stays. Coincidentally his room lock is broken, so you might as well go into his room and wait for him.”

Chen Ge did not stand on ceremony. He pushed the door open and he was greeted by bloody bandage and gauzes that covered the floor. “These were used bandage by Zuo Han. Today he went out to meet a friend, he had not returned yet.”

“The friend that he had gone out to meet was me.” Chen Ge pointed at himself.

“Oh? He went to find him but he failed to return and you have come to this place to find him?” The man who was called Ol’ Zhou smiled at him. “before he returns, you better stay in his room. This apartment will get quite noisy after midnight. No matter what you hear, do not leave this room. Just close your ears and go on off to sleep.”

The middle-aged man left after saying that. Chen Ge was left alone inside the room. The room was barely furnished but Chen Ge felt a sense of familiarity to the place. It felt like even though this was the first time he had been to this strange place, he had visited this very same room in his dream multiple times already. Sitting on the bed, Chen Ge held the backpack close to his body. “I believe I have come to this before. I cannot remember exactly what has happened here but in my mind, it was nothing good.”

Chen Ge waited inside the room until after midnight but Zuo Han still had not returned. He felt incredibly drowsy. Chen Ge rubbed his bloodshot eyes. “A normal apartment would not be situated behind an abandoned village and a graveyard, there has to be some problems with this place.” If based on the hospital’s original treatment, by now Chen Ge would have been deprived of the influence had on him due to his former memory already, then he would have arrived here like a normal person. However, due to the appearance of Doctor Sun, there was a loophole in the hospital's treatment. Chen Ge knew that he could not believe his own two eyes at any time, he had to maintain extreme collectiveness that was beyond human limit.

At around 2 am in the morning, Chen Ge suddenly heard a strange sound coming from upstairs, it sounded like someone was cutting through something with a saw. He remembered the warning by the man with the surname Zhou. He was supposed to stay inside the room obediently. The sound of sawing faded away but it was then replaced by the a fleeting screams and the sound of paints flaking down from the wall. Among the drifting sound, Chen Ge could have sworn he heard the name Zhang Wenyu being mentioned.

"There has to be a reason why he forbade me to leave this room." Chen Ge was still seated on the bed but several minutes later, he heard a familiar name being mentioned from the conversation that drifted from upstairs—Zhang Jingjiu. Now that he thought about it, the screams earlier sounded similar to Zhang Jingjiu's.

Chen Ge could not sit idle anymore. He carried his backpack and sneaked out from the room and came to the third floor. Everywhere had signs of burning. There were many broken furniture and burnt trash that crowded the corridor. The sound of conversation and sawing came from the deepest end of the corridor. Chen Ge slowly moved forward. A faded scent of blood tackled his nose. The world before his eyes were slowly being replaced by a hue of red. The blackened walls were covered in blood. Inside the darkened corridor, he could see a few figures moving about. Chen Ge trained his focus. There were many trash on the ground, if he was just a bit careless, he would make some noise.

"What are they doing?" Chen Ge slowly approached. When he reached the middle of the corridor, he saw the wall at the end of the corridor. His pupils narrowed and Chen Ge realized that was a doctor wearing a white coat that was pinned to the wall at the end of the corridor. The doctor's coat was drenched red by blood and there was a patient with twisted limbs lying under him.

"Zhang Jingjiu?" His breathing became urgent. Chen Ge was not expecting to run into a doctor from that hospital and Zhang Jingjiu at this place. "It was the people from this apartment that have kidnapped them out of the hospital? But that is impossible!"

Chen Ge's brain was working overtime, but before he came to a reason, he suddenly heard a soft sound that came from behind him. He whipped his head around and Chen Ge saw a young boy who was standing behind him. The boy was not tall and his body was thin and weak. However, his face had maturity and cunningness that did not match his age.

"My name is Men Nan. Big brother, what is yours?"

Chapter 1188 - Single Eye, Cursed Lady, Scarlet (2in1)

Chapter 1188: Single Eye, Cursed Lady, Scarlet (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The boy's voice travelled very far. After Chen Ge heard that, his face was pale. Currently, the 'crazed murderers' gathered at the end of the corridor were busy 'hacking up a body'. With the call from the boy, the people on the whole third floor knew that he was there. "Big brother, you have sweated a lot. Is this place that hot for you?" The little boy was definitely doing that on purpose. There was cunning and guile in his eyes but his face took on an expression of pure innocence.

Without stopping to take the time to wipe away the sweat on his forehead, Chen Ge's first reaction was to turn and run. His reaction was already very fast, this was also definitely the best solution in that moment. He turned and prepared to escape but before Chen Ge could take any few steps, he saw the doors that were burnt on the third floor being pulled open one after another. Human faces that were as pale as those of the door poked out from behind them.

...

"Big brother, where are you going?" The boy still refused to leave Chen Ge. He stuck close to Chen Ge and had a huge smile on his face. The figures filtered out from the room. There were students in school uniforms and strange people with handicaps. They had blocked the way of Chen Ge's exit.

[What should I do now?] Cold sweat slid down the bridge of his nose. Even though Chen Ge's brain was spinning at the best of its ability he still could not figure out the solution to this conundrum.

"Haven't I told you to stay in your room?" The saw grinded against the wall. The middle-aged man called Ol' Zhou was coming towards him. His pairs of eyes that did not contain that living emotions stared at Chen Ge coldly, "Now you cannot leave even if you want to."

Chen Ge did not anticipate that this apartment building that appeared so empty would have so many people living in it and most of them were staying on the third part that was ruined in a fire.

"I believe this is a huge misunderstanding." Even under that extreme situation, Chen Ge realized he was still perfectly collected. He looked at the saw the middle-aged man was holding with both of his eyes. The chains of the saw had splinters on them but no trace of blood at all. This proved that the man had not used the saw to injure anyone but he had been using it to cut through some wooden materials.

"Misunderstanding?" The man with the surname Zhou had his smile slowly turn crueler. It was as if he could perfectly read into Chen Ge's mind and knew where to apply the most pressure. "Then tell us. What is the misunderstanding that we have?"

"Actually I am the same kind of humans as you." There was a basis behind what Chen Ge said. He was friends with Zuo Han and Zhang Wenyu and thus the friends of his friend had a high chance of being his friends. Furthermore, this bunch of tenants had nailed the doctor from the cursed hospital to the wall, they were not definitely sharing a good relationship, similarly, the enemy of my enemy could be persuaded to become my friends. Chen Ge spoke it in a sincere tone but when the people around him heard him, they did not react too much.

"I am telling the truth." Chen Ge wanted to explain further but he was interrupted by the middle-aged man. "You are the same kind of humans as us? But who ever told you we were humans in the first place?"

The boy who was following behind Chen Ge was giggling happily. He seemed to have a penchant for scaring people and he had been trailing behind Chen Ge. The tenants gradually closed their ranks around Chen Ge. Suddenly a familiar voice came from the corridor of the second floor. "All of you need to calm down! He is not your enemy, in fact he was once your best... friend." The author came to the third floor. He contemplated for a long time before he settled on the term, friend. In reality though, he could not name precisely the connection between Chen Ge and the tenants, they were like colleagues, friends and even family.

"Zhang Wenyu?" When they saw the author arrive, the tenants parted for him to walk through. Ol' Zhou also put down the saw that he was holding. "Of all of us, only you have remain most of your memory, you remember this man?"

"I only share a normal relationship with him, I have met him only a few times but I can tell you for certain that he is very important to all of you." The author walked to stand before Chen Ge and nodded with admiration. "I really did not expect you to come here, if someone had given me the same choice, I believe I would rather live in the fake blissfulness."

"Who exactly are you? What is the meaning of the name Zhang Wenyu? Why can I find up to ten thousands of patient's list with Zhang Wenyu's name on them inside the hospital?" Chen Ge had so many questions in his mind. "Why our memory have all been tempered with but you are the sole exception?"

"It was inconvenient to answer those questions outside, the reason I have invited you was to tell you the truth." The author stood among the tenants. He raised his arm to point at the people around him. "Now in this apartment, other than yourself, everyone else, including myself, are all dead people."

"Dead people?" Chen Ge was not surprised when he heard that revelation. He was merely reminded of a word that Zhang Ya once said. That day when they parted, Zhang Ya said that she had dreamed that she was living inside a city filled with dead people and she even claimed that Chen Ge was the only ghost with warmth inside the city.

"Indeed, ghosts exist for real, at least that is the case in this city." The author had Chen Ge stand together with Ol' Zhou and the rest. "You used to run a Haunted House and these people were your employees, the relationship you shared was like that of a close family." The author's words once again proved Chen Ge's previous suspicion, the cruel memory that was locked in his brain was the real memory that actually belonged to him.

"What else do you know?"

"The reason none of you can remember this thing is because your memory has been swallowed up by a piece of mouth. This is a kind of power that even I cannot fathom." The author shared all the memory that he had about Chen Ge with everyone. He did not hide anything. "I will tell you something that might cause you even more despair. This whole city is like a prison and all of us are inmates that are trapped here. I do not know the way to break out of here but I know the key to doing that lies in you." When the author spoke, he kept his eyes on Chen Ge. “You have chosen us, and that means that you have actively abandoned the false bliss. From the moment you stepped into Ping An Apartments, your life is going to welcome a big change.”

Combined with what the author said, Chen Ge was reminded of the information revealed by Doctor Sun. The hospital had prepared two kind of treatment methods for Chen Ge, the first was for him to murder everyone that was important personally and pushed him over the edge of madness and then trapped him deep inside the hospital. The second was to wipe away all of Chen Ge’s past memory, provide him with a fake happiness and turn him without him knowing into a happy living doll that could be toyed freely by the hospital. Under the cooperation by Doctor Sun, currently the treatment method adopted by the hospital was to make him lose himself in the fake goodness but once the hospital knew that Chen Ge had not really submerged himself in the false bliss and was actually planning how to resist every single moment, they might change their treatment method at any moment.

The most disgusting about the hospital was after giving Chen Ge the best possible sweet nightmare, they would personally come to tear down and dismember the happiness, that way the despair and pain inflicted on Chen Ge would be deeper and heavier.

“After I have chosen you, would anything happen to Zhang Ya?” Even though he was in steep danger, the first person that came to Chen Ge’s mind was still Zhang Ya. The month that he had spent away from the hospital was the happiest moment of his life. That strange feeling that something that was rare to him even in his previous memory. When the name of Zhang Ya was brought up, the entire apartment immediately sunk into silent, the noisy tenants all had their mouths clamped shut. They looked at each other. They were quite confused, they could not explain to themselves why the name would brought upon a sudden flash of fear on them.

“Zhang Ya is the boss of the Haunted House inside the Xin Hai Theme Park, yes?” The author though did not feel anything too special about the name Zhang Ya. “I would lie to you but there is no meaning in that. I can tell you for sure that tragedy will definitely come after her. Everything and everyone that you value now will be entangled in tragedy and misfortune.”

“I have an idea.” Chen Ge raised his hand and pointed at the doctor that was pinned to the wall at the end of the corridor. “But before I say anything, do you mind moving that doctor away first?”

“It is fine, his eyes and ears have lost their uses already. There is nothing for you to worry about, just tell us what you wish to.” The boy called Men Nan sidled up to Chen Ge. He used the most innocent voice to say the cruelest thing.

“Both me and Zou Han came from Xin Hai Central Hospital and my condition is much serious than his. I will give you a direct example, he was supposed to take two instances of medication per day and half a pill every time. There was a period when I have to take four times of medication per day and five pills each time...” Chen Ge shared the experience that befall him at the hospital with everyone. Other than the 7 glass jars and Doctor Sun, he did not hide any other details.

“The few most important patients and the doctors are all related to me somehow. After I come to this place, I have a sense of familiarity when I see all of you, I even suspect this whole city is built to ‘treat’ me.” Chen Ge’s words caused the tenants to sink into silence. If another person came here and said these words, they would probably be turned into a dead body by now but Chen Ge was different.

When all the tenants saw Chen Ge, they had an indescribable feeling that rose within them. It was as if they were willing to harm Chen Ge from the bottom of their hearts. Ol’ Zhou had pretended many times to not see Chen Ge and the reason behind that was because he did not want to drag Chen Ge into this. Even though he had lost his memory, his instinct told him to protect Chen Ge from harm. That was in itself a very unusual thing. Now combined with what the author had said, all the tenants started to think about this seriously.

“The hospital wants to treat me for some reason, they have planned two kinds of treatment methods for me, if one of them turns out to be ineffective, they will immediately switch to another. My idea is for everyone to conduct their investigation in silence and I will of course cooperate to the best of my ability. On the surface I will continue to act like I am still submerged in that haze of fake blissfulness.” Chen Ge said with determination. “After we have obtained more than enough clues, or possess actual power that we can use to rival against the hospital, only then we will go up against them and come clean with what we have been preparing.”

“That is not a bad idea but the hospital will not give you that chance.” The author walked into the deep end of the corridor and picked up a copper nail from the ground. “Do you see this doctor nailed to wall? Ever since Zuo Han escaped from the hospital, the hospital workers made their move immediately. After Zuo Han accidentally injured one of the hospital workers pursuing him, the night doctors from the hospital joined the ranks pursuing him. These night doctors might look like normal humans on the surface, but actually they are all ghosts, extremely scary ones too.” The author raised his hand and pierced the copper nail into the doctor’s chest. Blood leaked out slowly. After a certain amount of blood had flowed out, black thin threads started to appear out of the doctor’s body. “All of you have your memory consumed already so you do not understand how scary this thing is. When both parties have not torn down the truce between them, they will still maintain their everyday normalcy but once the hospital become serious, just the few of us will not be enough to form even a smidge of resistance against them.”

Even though he had already suspected something of that case, when Chen Ge saw the black threads that burst out from the doctor’s chest, he still felt discomfited by them. But he was also thankful that when he was at the hospital, even though it had crossed his mind many times to deal with the doctors and then made his escape forcefully, he was now thankful that he did not go along with that crazy plan. He had been taking on a disguise or else he would not even have the chance to trick the doctors residing at the hospital.

“The few of us are no match for the enemies at the hospital, then we should go look for more people, I am sure there are more than us who have problem with the hospital other than ourselves, staying inside this city.” Chen Ge was reminded of the whole cupboard full of patient’s list.

“There are indeed many people who have problems with the hospital but the problem is those people are even more crazier and scarier than the hospital.” The author appeared to be the first person to have escaped from the hospital, he was very familiar with the darker side of this city. “The accomplish some kind of goal, many times they would try their best to maintain at least a surface rules and regulations but these people are not the same. I believe you have seen Zuo Han already, yes?”

“Yes, I have. In just one short month, it is as if he has changed into a completely different person.” Chen Ge looked around him but he did not notice any trace of Zuo Han at all.

“When Zuo Han was forced into a corner by the night doctors from the hospital, he ran into a woman. The woman said she would make a trade with Zuo Han and she would help Zuo Han escape from the danger.”

“And that was how Zuo Han lost his left eye?”

“Yes, the condition that she gave for her help was for Zuo Han to surrender his left eye. You can go to find her for help but the premise is you have to be prepared to sacrifice your own body.” The author thought that by saying that, he would give Chen Ge a second thought about what he had happened but who knew after Chen Ge gave it some thought, he asked seriously, “What is that woman’s name and where can I find her?”

“No one knows her name, everyone calls her Single Eye, she is hiding inside an abandoned hospital at the western countryside.” The author shook his head. “The three scariest spectres at this city are respectively Single Eye, Cursed Lady and Scarlet. Compared to Single Eye and Cursed Lady, Scarlet is more persuadable. If you really wish to go down this path, then you should be able to find her at Li Wan Street at the eastern countryside of Xin Hai.”

Chen Ge memorized the names of these three ghosts. “If I have made three contracts with these three ghosts at the same time, does that mean I will have the chance to face the hospital head on?”

“I cannot tell for sure, perhaps we will have 10 percent chance.” The author persuaded Chen Ge patiently. “Before you even think about something like that, consider this. If you make three contracts with three ghosts at the same time, it is like you are putting your life on the line as a bet, even if there is a 10 percent chance for you to win the bet, in the future you will become a broken monster.”

“If we have already reached that point, what is there for me to lose even if I have become a monster.” Chen Ge’s answer was sharp and quick.

“Perhaps there is still another method. All the ghosts in this city have lost their memory. To attain their memory, there are two methods, the first one is to kill the people that have stripped them of their memory and the second is for them to consume each other and then piece the lost memory in their mind back together. The person who has stolen our memory is extremely cunning and wicked, his goal is for us to murder each other. But this also proves something indirectly. Even though in the past we might not be best friends, at least we are of the same stance.” The author hoped the Chen Ge would calm down. “You cannot treat them as enemy, if everyone come from the same point of view, then it means that there is a chance for you to persuade them to lend their help to our causes. Remember that.”

Chapter 1189 - Misfortune, Collapse, Dangerous Trade (2in1)

Chapter 1189: Misfortune, Collapse, Dangerous Trade (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“I have never treated them as the enemy because I am very clear that from the beginning, my only enemy is the hospital.” Chen Ge was definitely was acting, after all, the man had not forgotten the things that had happened to him at the hospital. On the surface, the hospital claimed that it had been salvaging and saving the patients but in reality it was the hospital that was endlessly creating despair and pain inside this city. After a normal person was sent into the hospital, their worldview would be made twisted after their treatment. The seed of sickness and madness would be sewn in their heart and eventually they would grow and turn into a monster. Until now Chen Ge had no idea why the hospital would do something like that, it was as if their passion was to create different kind of patients.

“Other than the three scariest ghosts, there are many other ghosts hidden at the dark corners of this city. I have asked around. Before this, there aren’t that many supernatural presence at this city. But two months ago, the regulation was shattered, many different kinds of spectres and dead people with lingering spirit started to appeared and it was around that time that you woke up inside the hospital, therefore, I have my reason to believe most of the ghosts inside this city are related to you somewhat.” The author used to write detective novels, he had incredibly powerful logical thinking and power of observation.

...

“How did you find out the time that I have woken up inside the hospital? At the time, there should only be doctors and nurses around me.” Chen Ge was confused.

“it was Zhang Wenyu who told me.” The author did not look like he was lying.

“There are upwards of ten thousands of you who are called Zhang Wenyu, your answer has not helped narrowed down anything for me.”

“Even though all of us are called Zhang Wenyu but there is only one true Zhang Wenyu. His ability is not weaker than Single Eye and the Cursed Lady, in fact he might be even stronger than Scarlet but he is currently hiding among the crowd.” The author had a barely discernible smile on his face. “When he realized we were in danger, he immediately transferred his memory onto all the lingering spirits that he was carrying. Because of that, he managed to survive the ordeal. He did not forget the promise that he had made you but for now he is unable to show himself.”

“Transferred his memory onto the lingering spirit that he was carrying?” This reason was unable to convince Chen Ge. After all, every ghost and human that he encountered had already lost their memory but Zhang Wenyu was the sole exception. Even the hospital could not figure this out much less Chen Ge.

“The people that you have once helped will one day become your salvation.” The author scanned the tenants around him. “Eventually you will understand that.” Chen Ge worked over the words that the author said. Now he could confirm that it was Zhang Wenyu who had been helping in the dark and the other ghosts in the city could be negotiated with to gain their help.

“The fact that you have chosen Ping An Apartment means that misfortune will come arrive. I hope you will be able to control yourself and try to buy as much time as you can.” The author called all the key makers at the apartment to gather. To Chen Ge’s surprise, the leader at the apartment was not the middle-aged man called Zhou who looked reliable but it was the boy who had been following behind him.

“Men Nan is the cleverest tenant among us and he has quite frightening power himself.” The author’s claim got the approval of nearby tenants. And thus the way Chen Ge looked at Men Nan had also become different. Honestly, he did not sense any treat from this boy, he just thought the child was just being naughty. As if sensing the question in Chen Ge’s eyes, Men Nan huffed and turned his head away. He did not try to prove himself as if it was below him to argue for things like who was stronger than whom.

“We shall discuss what to do next. Since we have decided on resistance, then we have to give it our all, only then we have a chance at success.” The author said heavily. He had retained part of his memory so he knew how scary the hospital was. Compared to that mountain, the people at Ping An Apartment was like mere pebbles.

“From now on we will use Ping An Apartment as our mission centre. We will venture out to look for our friends hiding the shadows and invite them to come join us.” Even though Men Nan looked young, his mannerism and tone was no different from an adult. He was very experienced and would not hold back when faced with the enemy. He had helped the rest deal with danger many times in the past so he was given the leadership post at Ping An Apartment. Sometimes, the tenants at the apartment was also confused. The child was just a boy, just where did he learn so many ‘nasty tricks’?

1

“Other than the ghosts hiding at the corners of the city, we could try to befriend part of the patients inside the hospital as well.” Men Nan walked to the innermost part of the third floor. He looked at Zhang Jingjiu lying on the ground. “The hospital was a prison for a large amount of patients, if we can incite some kind of betrayal among them, then things will be a lot easier for us. After all, even the strongest fortress can be taken down easily from within.”

“Men Nan, this patient on the floor is my friend from the hospital, why is he here?” Chen Ge was very concerned about Zhang Jingjiu’s situation. At that moment, Zhang Jingjiu’s four limbs were fixed in places by wooden slates. His twisted bones had been corrected. Earlier Ol’ Zhou was using the saw to make some wooden splints for him.

“The doctors have abandoned this patient called Zhang Jingjiu because he has lost his uses, they have tossed him out like trash. He was thus discovered by Zuo Han who was hiding among the heap of trash at the time. It was Zuo Han who sneaked Zhang Jingjiu out with him.” Men Nan inspected the injury on Zhang Jingjiu. “Ever since he was brought out from the hospital, this patient had been unconscious. To save his life, we have ambushed a doctor but unfortunately this doctor does not seem to know anything.” Chen Ge realized that he perhaps had underestimated the power of the tenants at Ping An Apartments. Under Men Nan’s leadership, they managed to capture a doctor alive and was not discovered by the hospital, that in itself was already incredibly impressive.

“Then how do you guys plan to deal with this doctor? If you keep him around, perhaps the doctor might come to find him.”

“We will use him for some temporary experiments. The Cursed Lady appears to be very interested in the black threads on the doctors’ bodies. If we present her with this doctor as a present, she might be more inclined to help us.” Men Nan had been calculating and measuring the plan in his heart all along. He planned to squeeze the value out of this unfortunate doctor down to the very last drop.

The two parties chatted for a long time but even when the sun was about to come up, Zuo Han still had not returned. The author and Ol’ Zhou had a bad feeling about this. They had Chen Ge leave the apartment and then they made the promise to meet up again at tomorrow midnight at Li Wan Street on the eastern countryside of Xin Hai. Under the cover of the night, Chen Ge left Ping An Apartment. He had no idea after he left, the ghosts on the third floor were all watching him slither away.

“Are we really going to place all of our bets on him?” Men Nan glanced at the author. “You won’t be tricking us with him, right?”

“I will only ask you one simple question. When you showed up behind him earlier, you have more than enough time and chance to kill him but did that thought even cross your mind?” The author replied with a question of his own. After saying that, he turned to the rest of the tenants. No one spoke. In the end, it was Ol’ Zhou who stepped forward. “He gave me a very special feeling. For some strange reason, the first time I laid my eyes on him, I believe that he is someone worthy of our trust.”

“I have the same feeling as well.” The female teacher wearing the glass also gave her opinion. The woman standing next to her was hugging her own head and raised both of her arms. She was nodding her head manually.

“Then I guess it can’t be helped, we will trust him this one time.” Seeing everyone had the same feeling, Men Nan himself also sighed in relief.

...

After leaving Ping An Apartment, Chen Ge’s mind was surfeited with different kind of questions. “There are actual ghosts in this city, the answer given to me by Doctor Gao and the author are completely different.” Regarding whether there are actual ghosts in the world or not, Chen Ge had posed the same enquiry to Doctor Gao before. The people at the hospital wanted to create a normal world but they did not know how difficult it was to pull one over Chen Ge. For Chen Ge, the more challenging thing was not to see through the traps but how to ensure he was not discovered by the doctors from the hospital that he already had the knowledge that they were lying to him.

“Perhaps Zhang Ya’s dream is also real, how come she would keep making these recurring dreams after she met me? And in contrast I have never made any dream after that? Is it possible that Zhang Ya has taken away my ability to dream?” Before the last question was answered, the next question already surfaced. “The tenants at Ping An Apartments are all ghosts but how come I feel more comfortable spending time with them compared to living humans? In any case, they should be trustworthy people.”

Walking out from the abandoned village, Chen Ge took a long detour before he returned to the restaurant. Along the way, he did not encounter any taxi and a drizzle started to fall again, Chen Ge had no choice but to run under the eaves of the restaurant to take shelter from the rain. The lights of the small shop were not on. It was completely in the dark. Chen Ge did not plan to disturb the owner, his plan was to leave as soon as the rain stopped but to his consternation, once he got close to the entrance of the shop, a very strong stench of blood hit him.

“The owner is preparing wild game?” Chen Ge tried to use the back of his arm to push at the door, the door was not locked. He saw how the tables and chairs inside the shop were overturned. There were blood everywhere and there was a chopped arm lying near the entrance to the back kitchen.

“Chi Longtou?” Chen Ge’s heart started to race. He carefully avoided the blood trace on the ground, he took out the tool hammer from his backpack and slowly approached the kitchen. “There are too many blood on the floor. If I head inside there, I will definitely leave behind footprints.” Chen Ge did not continue to go further in. He found a corner instead and peered his head into the back kitchen. The fatty Chi Longtou was shoved inside a large jar, only his head was exposed outside the jar. “The man was about 1.9 metres tall and he was quite fat. His body could not fit into that one jar, this can only mean that his body has been dismembered.”

If the man still had breathing, perhaps Chen Ge would take the risk to go and save him and then call the police for help but now that he was sure the man was dead, if he went over now, he would only bring trouble for himself. This was at the countryside and there was no trace of anyone else around him, the chance of him being treated as the murderer was extremely high!

Chi Longtou had just conversed with Chen Ge several hours ago but now he was already a dead body. Chen Ge felt a chill slowly taking over his body. “Is this the tragedy that is mentioned by the author?”

He took deliberate steps back. He kept his eyes to the ground to ensure that he did not leave behind any accidental footprints. When he left the restaurant, Chen Ge looked at the door that he had touched earlier. “Thankfully, I opened it using the back of my hand so I would not leave behind any fingerprint but for the sake of security, I better wipe it down again.”

After wiping the small spot on the door that he had touched and giving it a close inspection, Chen Ge quickly left the scene of the crime. Chen Ge did not show much show after encountering Chi Longtou’s body, but this did not mean that he was a cold-blooded monster. In actuality, it was the total opposite. Chi Longtou’s death was a rude awakening for him. If he did not escape from this city as soon as he could, he might be the next one who was crammed inside a food jar.

To wash away any possible leads that might connect him to the crime, Chen Ge purposely took a long detour. He avoided most of the surveillance and then took a cab to head back to Xin hai Theme Park from a completely different spot. He rushed into the Haunted House to take a cold shower. After Chen Ge was ready with everything, he opened the gates of the Haunted House and started to prepare for the day’s business.

At around 8 am, Zhang Ya and her parents only arrived at the Haunted House and then they all started to busy themselves. They started to do the make up, but at around 8.30 am, the people from the theme park management suddenly came to visit and inform Zhang Ya’s parents that the Haunted House was to temporarily suspend their business that day. The business was only going back on trails for the past few days, now was the moment to rake in the money so Zhang Ya’s parents were utterly confused by this decision.

They found the management at the theme park to argue. The reason that was given the management was that the Haunted House had failed to pass the security check, part of the equipment still had hidden safety concerns to them. The Haunted House was thus prevented from doing business. Zhang Ya and her parents had no choice, but to return inside to the Haunted House to conduct more checks. The theme park opened for business at 9 am but the gates of the Haunted House were firmly closed. Many of the visitors voiced their displeasure, after all, they purposely travelled here to visit the Haunted House. Zhang Ya and her father tried their best to explain the situation to the visitors patiently. Chen Ge though squatted at the first floor and silently watched everything that unfolded below.

“Is this part of the tragedy?” Zhang Ya’s mother noticed the state that Chen Ge was in so she sidled over silently to ask, “Are you not feeling well?”

Chen Ge shook his head. “I am slightly afraid that our Haunted House might not be able to open its door ever again.”

“Don’t you worry too much about that. This is perfectly normal, the management has the responsibility to ensure the safety of each attraction. I am sure we will be back on our feet in another few days.” Zhang Ya’s mother was a very kind person. Even though she was also made worried by this situation, she still spent some time to console Chen Ge. “Everything will be fine soon.”

“Yes.” Chen Ge entered the scenario. As he dealt with the items inside the scenario, he formulated the next phase of his plan inside his mind. “I cannot act too out of the ordinary, I must not let the hospital suspect that I still retain part of my previous memory.”

The Haunted House was forced to close and it was unclear when they were allowed to open for business again, but this did not bring Zhang Ya’s family down. After all, they had been through similar things in the past. The theme park was noisy with the sound of visitors, the people came and went but it was back to fluttering leaves and squawking crows around the Haunted House again. The quick tempo of their lives was given a sudden stop. The closure of the Haunted House meant that there was no cash flow. The silver lining was this had given more time for Zhang Ya and Chen Ge to spend together. Even though most of that time was spent with Chen Ge silently making items and Zhang Ya helping beside him, just that was enough for the two of them.

When night came, Zhang Ya’s mother handed the key of the Haunted House over to Chen Ge. After they left, Chen Ge was left alone inside the enormous Haunted House. Theoretically speaking, if one was abandoned inside a Haunted House alone, one would feel some fear but Chen Ge realized he would only feel safe and more at ease when he was inside the Haunted House.

At around 9 pm, Chen Ge prepared his backpack and was ready to make his journey to Li Wan Street but to his surprise, Zuo Han flipped over the window in the bathroom again. During this second encounter, Zuo Han looked even more haggard than before. There were even more ghastly wounds on his body.

“Chen Ge, I need a favour from you.”

“Come here and let me bandage your wounds first. You can’t keep on going like this.” Chen Ge wanted to go and grab the first aid kit but he was held back by Zuo Han. “There is no time, I need you to come with me immediately.”

“Where are we going?”

“Xin Hai Private Academy at western countryside.” Zuo Han gritted his teeth, it appeared like he was trying to resist the pain on his body. “I have used my heart to exact a trade with Single Eye. If I have died from an accident, I hope you can take away my soul and complete what I wish to do next.”

“You have used your life in a bet? Have you lost your mind?” Chen Ge stood fixated at where he was.

“At least for now I could still bet using my own life. If I stay here any longer, I am afraid I might lose even the freedom to die.” Zuo Han’s eyes were shining with pleas. “Help me this one time, I will bring you to see the truth about this world.”

Chapter 1190 - Patient Number 2
(2in1)

Chapter 1190: Patient Number 2 (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

Zuo Han looked to be in a hurry like he was being chased by something scary.

“I have gone to Ping An Apartment yesterday night but you were not there.” It was not that Chen Ge did not want to help Zuo Han but he thought that Zuo Han was still too young, it was such a waste for the young man to put such a big risk on his life like this.

...

“After leaving your Haunted House that day, I was targeted by the doctors from the hospital. To shake them off, I had no choice but to go to the Private Academy at the western countryside again and borrow the Single Eye’s power to stop them.” Zuo Han touched the wound on his face, the pain appeared to be able to help him maintain his temporary consciousness.

“She helped you block the doctors and you have used your own body organs to pay in return?”

“It is a very fair trade.” Zuo Han sighed in a soft sigh. “The tenants at Ping An Apartment are people like us, they are indeed trustworthy but unfortunately they are too weak. This world is not as simple as you think. All of my suspicions are getting proven little by little. We need Single Eye’s help. Her existence is a kind of threat but at the same time, she will be able to help us understand this whole city more objectively.”

“Okay then, I will go with you.” Chen Ge glanced at his watch. “But I will have to leave before midnight because I have promised the tenants from Ping An Apartments to meet up at Li Wan Streets after midnight.”

“Thank you.” Chen Ge initially wanted to leave the white cat behind to look after the Haunted House but to his consternation, the white cat jumped right into his backpack and refused to come out no matter what. It was as if it had already made the decision to stick together with Chen Ge no matter what. Unable to shake the cat loose, Chen Ge had no other choice but to place the white cat alongside his hammer. He carried his backpack and made to depart. Zuo Han did not quite understand Chen Ge's series of actions but he did not comment too much on it.

After leaving the Haunted House, Chen Ge planned to call for a cab but he was immediately stopped by Zuo Han. They walked down the small alleys that crossed the city. They walked for a very long time before they encountered a mini van parked at the end of an alley. "The driver's man is Tang Jun, he is also a tenant from Ping An Apartments. He has lost most of his memory but according to what he could remembered, he used to be a race car driver."

1

Tang Jun was a very skilled driver. He drove the mini van along the routes where there were as little people as people and he managed to get Zuo Han and Chen Ge to Xin Hai Private Academy before 11 pm. For some unknown reason, this place had been abandoned for a very long time already. Once they stepped into the school ground, one could feel the howling winds, the temperature inside the school grounds appeared to be much lower than the temperature in the city.

"Follow me." This was not Zuo Han's first time at the abandoned school. He led Chen Ge away from the education blocks and directly headed towards the multi purpose lab building at the back of the abandoned campus. The interior of the building was filled with chairs and underneath each chair was carved with the name of a student. The students wrote down their name under the chair probably because they were worried that they might mistaken their seat for someone else's during a meeting but after the school was abandoned, these chairs with names on them looked more like tombstones standing in the dark.

"The single eye is inside the lab building?"

"Yes, but she herself has no idea why she likes to stay here." All of the doors at the lab building were locked. Various kind of strange and cruel doodles were painted on the doors. It was as if something bad had happened at this private education institution before and the abandonment of the school was related to these things. There was a steel door that blocked the way from the third floor to the fourth floor. A bunch of broken chairs were piled up before this door, they looked like a mountain of broken limbs being stuck together. Zuo Han found a way through the mountain of chairs. He led Chen Ge and crawled their way through it.

“We’re here, this is the place. After we enter this room, I need you to not say a word. The Single Eye has a strange temperament and she might be hostile towards you.” Zuo Han stood at the door to the dance studio at the fourth floor. After giving Chen Ge some brief advice, he pushed open the door to the dance studio. A stinging chill rushed at his face. When Chen Ge saw the state inside the dance studio, both of his shoulders could not stop shaking and his heart started to beat against his chest. It was as if he had been to this place before and this location was a place of importance for him.

1

Inside the spacious dance studio, the walls were pasted with pictures that contains people whose faces were gouged out and there was a large ceiling to floor mirror at the end of the studio. All the windows were sealed shut by wooden boards and there were several chairs placed right in the middle of the dance studio. The enclosed space appeared oppressive and dark but there was also a melancholic air in the atmosphere. Zuo Han took out a small dagger from his pocket and he used it to make a small cut on the wounds on his cheeks. The hollow socket in his left eye started to leak blood. The fresh blood dropped one after another on the ground. Zuo Han held the dagger and moved to sit on the one of the chairs. “I am here to complete my promise with you.”

The temperature inside the dance studio dropped again. The wooden boards over the window creaked noisily and the mirror at the end of the studio also started to have cracks over them. Moment later, even though there was no visible change in the dance studio, should you look at the large mirror, you would notice there was a woman with a single eye who had appeared inside the mirror of the dance studio. Inside the mirror, she ignored Zuo Han who was bleeding and at that moment, she was standing behind Chen Ge. His spine felt like it was frozen, Chen Ge could not make the most basic function of turning his head around.

“It was me who made the trade with you!” Zuo Han used his remaining eye to stare at the mirror. He was rather confused. Single Eye had never taken such a deep interest in someone before. Just what was on Chen Ge that attracted her so?

Perhaps she had heard Zuo Han's voice, blood letters started to appear on the surface of the mirror—give me seven human lives and I will enter the hospital to help you retrieve the patient's list. Seven human lives in exchange for Single Eye's help once. Seeing this, Chen Ge frowned slightly. Single Eye who was hidden inside the abandoned school fitted his image of a baleful spectre perfectly, she was cruel, dark, scary and liked to toy with human lives.

“Seven lives? Haven't we already made our discussion yesterday night? I will give you my life and you will enter the hospital to help me steal out the patient's list for Patient Number 1?” Zuo Han stood up from the chair. Fresh blood slid down the wound in his left eyes. Currently his face was covered in blood and he looked quite scary himself. The woman with the single eye in the mirror stood behind Chen Ge and did not move. She waved her hand and new words appeared on the surface of the mirror again—perhaps there is still another option for the two of you.

“The two of us?” Seeing the choice of words used by Single Eye, Zuo Han already had a very bad feeling about this, “What kind of option?”

More cracks appeared on the mirror and several ghastly characters then slowly surfaced—Give me Chen Ge's left eye!

Seeing the bleeding words on the mirror, both Chen Ge and Zuo Han felt incredibly unsettled.

“How did she know that my name is Chen Ge?” Chen Ge was very confused about this in his heart. Zuo Han did not have the answer either. The Single Eye had shown much deeper desire in Chen Ge compared to himself. “Chen Ge's one eye is equivalent to the lives of seven people?”

This bloody transaction made Zuo Han sink into contemplation. His gaze wandered continuously between the surface of the mirror and Chen Ge. No one inside the dance studio spoke, everyone was weighing the pros and cons in their mind. Honestly, Chen Ge also wished desperately to take a look at the patient's list of patient Number 1, he had a feeling that Patient 1 was related to the child who was split and stuffed inside the seven glass jars and Patient number 1 would be the key to solve this whole conundrum.

“If I hand over my left eye to you, can you guarantee you will be able to sneak the patient's list for patient number 1 out of the hospital?” Chen Ge was unclear about Single Eye's ability but he knew that the ability of the hospital was not to be underestimated. Almost no one would be able to take them on single-handedly. Moments later, another row of blood letters appeared on the surface of the mirror—I cannot guarantee that but this will be your last chance.

Even after sacrificing his left eye, there was no guarantee that they would have their hands on the patient's list, that was when Chen Ge started to hesitate.

“Chen Ge, the trade is cancelled. Let us go.” Zuo Han seemed to have realized something. He kept his gaze on Chen Ge and shot him a signal through his eyes and then he stood up and prepared to leave. Once the two men moved, the door of the dance studio shut on its own. There was nothing inside the room but both Chen Ge and Zuo Han felt like they were about to be squashed into thin slabs.

“You will only be able to go away from this place after you leave something behind.” The single eyed woman inside the mirror stood among the blood letters. Her wounded pale arms slowly raised and Chen Ge's body moved uncontrollably towards the mirror. It was like his body was out of his own control at that moment.

“Chen Ge!” Zuo Han grabbed Chen Ge by his shoulders but he was unable to stop Chen Ge's movement at all. Thus, he was dragged towards the mirror as well. Seeing the single-eyed woman inside the mirror, Chen Ge felt inside his heart the mixture of familiarity and unfamiliarity. The familiarity came from the scenario he was in and the unfamiliarity was regarding the person before him.

The arm that the single-eyed woman raised reached forward. It touched the surface of the mirror and blood rippled. The pale arm that was covered in wound reached out through the mirror and attempted to grab at Chen Ge. His eyes narrowed and the single-eyed woman in Chen Ge's gaze was slowly overlapping with another figure. As if subconsciously, the name escaped out of his lips before he could stop himself. “Zhang Ya?”

When the name was mentioned, the hand that the single-eyed woman suddenly stopped. Her hand that was reaching towards Chen Ge's heart dangled in mid air, in the end, she only took away a strand of hair from Chen Ge. All the bloody characters on the surface of the mirror disappeared. Zuo Han stood next to Chen Ge, his face was covered in blood. He could not believe that the cruel Single Eye had just left himself and Chen Ge go just like that. “Do you used to know the Single Eye? How come in that very moment, it felt like she was entrapped by the sensation of fear?”

1

“We should leave this place first before we discuss anything further.” The moment the Single Eye reached out from inside the mirror had triggered a memory inside Chen Ge. When Zhang Ya’s figure overlapped with the woman with the single eye, it was as if he was struck by lightning, a feeling that had been elusive suddenly returned to his body. He was certain that Zhang Ya had once appeared using the very same method before.

“There has to be some truths hidden inside the dreams that Zhang Ya has been having. Earlier when the Single eye heard Zhang Ya’s name, her expression had clearly changed. Just Zhang Ya’s name was able to shake her, this proved that Zhang Ya could possibly be a spectre that was much scarier than the Single Eye!” Since Zhang Ya was his partner, therefore, Chen Ge’s previous thought was more like he should be there to protect Zhang Ya, to stop her from getting injured but now he realized that might not be the absolute truth. “I will need to have a long and good chat with her.”

Compared to Single Eye’s promise, Chen Ge now had a new direction. After escaping from Xin Hai Private Academy, they found Tang Jun’s mini van parked at the front. After they got into the van, both Zuo Han and Chen Ge only sighed in relief.

“Was that a baleful spacetre? That was so immensely scary.” When Chen Ge was together with the tenants of Ping An Apartment, he did not feel too suffocated. Only after this encounter with Single Eye that he truly understood the horror of a real spectre.

“Chen Ge, there is one thing that eludes me, why would Single Eye know your name? This should be the first time you two have met each other!” Zuo Han was still hung up on that question.

“I have lost my previous memory, perhaps Single Eye was once my friend.” This was the only reasonable explanation that Chen Ge could come up with.

“Your one eye is equivalent to the lives of seven people, a spectre will not lie during their trading negotiation. Looks like I will have to give this a serious reconsideration.” Zuo Han scratched his chin. “At the hospital, you were the most unique patient, the doctors had even used the other patients as the medicine to treat you. Now that we have left the hospital, even the spectres could see how special you are.”

“Sometimes, I too have a feeling this whole city was purposely built for the intention of my treatment. All of the trace had been wiped away, only the things that the hospital wanted me to see was left behind.”

Along the way, Chen Ge and Zuo Han had been conversing. After they left the hospital, they finally could talk and share their information without any worry of people listening in on them anymore. At around 12 midnight, Tang Jun drove Chen Ge and Zuo Han to Li Wan Street. This old street was located at the eastern side of Xin Hai. It was the final stop for the bus on Route 104. It was extremely secluded and normally people would not come to visit this place.

“The tenants from Ping An Apartment should be here already, does any of you know how to contact them?” Chen Ge turned to Zuo Han and Tang Jun, both of them responded with a shake of their heads.

“This is the first time I have come to Li Wan Street myself.” After Zuo Han got down from the car, he first surveyed the place around him. The streetlights on both sides of the streets flickered on and off and there was no one else in sight.

“Guys, do you notice that all the shadows on this street are tilted?” Tang Jun who had remained quiet suddenly spoke. He tried to rake through his mind for some time. “Ever since we arrived at this place, I was overwhelmed by a sense of familiarity, it was as if I used to come to this place to race cars with someone.”

“The shadow?” Chen Ge lowered his head to look and he realized something even stranger. All the objects and people on this street had tilted shadow but only his shadow was normal. “Something is not right.”

The three of them walked down the street. The windows and doors of the buildings on both sides were firmly shut, there was no presence of human activity at all. Crossing down the whole street, they finally arrived at a residential area that was at the deepest part of Li Wan City. Once they stepped through the front door, their whole body was enveloped by a sense of chill. The inside of this residential area was completely different from the world outside. Feeling a pull in his heart, Chen Ge lifted his head subconsciously and he spotted a little girl in a red dress was staring at him from the window of a room on the fourth inside one of the apartment buildings. “That is Scarlet?”

The door of the corridor was pushed open. The middle-aged man with the surname Zhou appeared at the door. "Stop wasting time. Get over here!"

The three of them rushed into the building. With Ol' Zhou leading the led, they were brought to meet Scarlet. Ol' Zhou and Men Nan wanted to introduce Chen Ge but before they could say anything, the little girl known as Scarlet actively walked towards Chen Ge. She stood before him. Then she did something very strange. This girl in a bloody dress knelt down beside Chen Ge and her hands caressed Chen Ge's shadow lightly. Moments later, she lifted her head and one after another grotesque blood collected into characters around her.

"After I followed my instinct to come to this old street, there was a man with a normal shadow who was waiting for me here. He told me he was patient number 2 and he needed a help from me." Seeing the revelation on the ground, everyone in the room was shocked. Everyone's shadow at the street was titled, only Chen Ge and this mysterious Patient number 2's shadows were normal.

"What kind of help did he want from you?" The question escaped from Chen Ge's lips before he realized it. His instinct told him the answer to this question would be immensely important to him.

"He wanted me to become your shadow." The blood in the girl who was known as Scarlet started to boil. Some of the mist in her old memory appeared to have parted ways.

Chapter 1191 - The Cursed Hospital's Misjudgement (2in1)

Chapter 1191: The Cursed Hospital's Misjudgement (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

No one in the room could understand what the little girl said, to ask a spectre to become the shadow of a living person, the person who would make that kind of request must be seriously ill. Everyone, including Chen Ge found that hard to believe.

“is this a different kind of trade? You become his shadow and he will become your puppet.” Men Nan’s prediction was more cynical, then again he was merely seeing things from the perspective of a normal ghost. After the girl in red heard that, she shook her head. The blood vessels behind her started to move and instantly they covered the entire room and completely cut off the room from the rest of the world. Scarlet was very powerful, even if the rest of the spectres worked together, they would not have been able to harm her, but Scarlet did not appear to have any hostility against them.

...

After she had isolated her room from the rest of the world, Scarlet walked to Chen Ge’s side, where Chen Ge’s shadow was. Her hands morphed into endless blood vessels as they surged into Chen Ge’s shadow, she appeared to be searching for something or someone. She looked for half an hour and Scarlet creased her small brows. A line of bloody letter appeared on the walls around Chen Ge. “I can remember quite distinctly that there should be a ghost living inside your shadow, where is she? Why can’t I find her anymore? Have you lost sight of her?”

Facing the consecutive questions from Scarlet, Chen Ge was as confused as ever. “There was a ghost originally living inside my shadow?”

“Yes.” Scarlet used the letters weaved out from blood to communicate with Chen Ge. “Those without their shadow are not long for this world, at least that was what Patient number 2 told me.”

“But isn’t my shadow just fine? Look it is just right there.” Chen Ge was confused.

“The shadow of everything and everyone at Li Wan City should be titled, only you and Patient Number 2 have normal shadows, that proves that the shadows for the two of you are made up in this world, they do not exist. In other words, you two are people without shadow.” The blood letters soon surfaced. Scarlet’s emotions started to ripple for the first time after she had encountered Chen Ge. “You are very similar to Patient Number 2. He had helped me recovered some of the memory related to my mother. As repayment, I am willing to help you one time but temporarily I cannot be your shadow.”

Seeing that Scarlet had volunteered her help for one time, Chen Ge was very happy. But when he gave it a closer thought, he started to feel like something was not right again. “Scarlet, how does that Patient Number 2 look like? How come it feels like he knows me somehow?”

Based on Scarlet’s description, Chen Ge felt like patient number 2 appeared to be very familiar with him, he probably used to be his friend or something.

“He did not give me his name, I believe that every information related to him at this city is a kind of taboo. If anyone tries to find out about them, tragedy and misfortune will befall them, the man himself probably knows about that as well, therefore, he did not tell me anything else that I do not need to know.” The bloody letters appeared on the ground, then they soon disappeared, it was as if they were never there to begin if. “If you are really that curious, you can go to the hospital basement to find him. His original body appears to be locked up deep inside the hospital basement. The person that came to find me that day was merely a slip of his lingering spirit.”

“The hospital basement?” Chen Ge himself just got out from the hospital, he had no idea the hospital even had a basement.

“The most dangerous part of the hospital was all hidden underground, the patient number 2 appears to be locked up at the underground 17th floor. Of course, it is not my suggestion for you to go look for him now, the hospital basement is too dangerous.” The description of the world provided by Scarlet was different from how Chen Ge imagined it. If the hospital even had a sprawling maze underneath it, then Chen

Ge would have to reassess the hospital's overall power level. But seeing it from a different perspective, the fact that Chen Ge managed to pull one over such a dangerous hospital, it went to show how resourceful Chen Ge was as well. The more Chen Ge thought about this, the more he was eager to regain his memory.

The blood around them started to fade. The words weaved together by blood all disappeared like they were never written in the first place. After Scarlet had given Chen Ge her promise, she disappeared among the residential apartment. Both she and Single Eye could be considered very scary spectres, but they did not dare to linger too long normally, they were always hiding at some kind of hidden corner.

"You are one hell of a special character. I originally thought it would be very difficult to persuade Scarlet to help us but it was done so easily. In fact I have a feeling she was even eager to lend her help to you." Men Nan grumbled in the tone of a middle-aged man. After saying all that, he only realized he still had not left Li Wan City. As if worried that Scarlet might have overheard him, he quickly looked around him for sign of danger.

"There are more and more people who are willing to help us. When tragedy arrives, we perhaps would have the chance to survive with barely our lives intact." Zuo Han was not as optimistic as Men Nan. From his point of view, even with the collective effort of everyone and even after everyone's power of gather, it was barely enough for them to fight for a chance to have their lives intact.

"Chen Ge, I'd suggest you to stay at the theme park for these few days. Try to convince the hospital that you are still stuck in your haze of bliss and buy as much time as you can. Do not let the hospital find out that you have already met up with us." Zuo Han's mind was very clear. He knew that Chen Ge was the key. "Just leave the task of finding helpers to the rest of us."

"Tomorrow night, we will go together to find the Cursed Lady. After the three strongest spectres in this city have promised to give us their help, then I will temporarily stay away from the rest of you." Chen Ge had his own concern as well.

"The Cursed Lady is the scariest and also the most mysterious presence amongst the three spectres. No one know where she is exactly, but I have heard from the author that one of the Zhang Wenyu had encountered her at an abandoned hospital before." Ol' Zhou said with a serious expression. "She is very dangerous, if possible, I wish to have Scarlet along with us when we go and find her.”

“No, we can’t do that. Scarlet only promises to help us one time and that was only because she was giving face to patient number 2, we cannot waste such a valuable chance just like that.” Chen Ge denied that idea firmly. He repeated the name Cursed Lady multiple times in his heart, there felt like there was a black and red thread connecting the two bodies. “Cursed Lady, I will be there to convince her.”

The group decided to meet up tomorrow morning at the entrance of an abandoned hospital at eastern Xin Hai. And then they split up and went off in different direction. This way even if someone wanted to follow them, it would be a very hard thing to do. When the sun almost came up the horizon, Chen Ge returned to the Haunted House.

Even though the Haunted House at Xin Hai Theme Park had been suspended from business, he still worked with the props, cleaned the place like usual, in preparation to return to business should the ban be lifted. These habits appeared to have been carved into his bones. Even though he had lost his memory, his body would still work on them on instinct. At around 8. 30 am, Zhang Ya came to the theme park with breakfast. Curiously enough, her parents did not accompany her to the theme park that day.

“Why aren’t auntie and uncle with you today?” Chen Ge munched on the hot rice and Zhang Ya sat down next to him.

“My father’s stomach is acting up again, my mom is staying back home to look after him.”

“Is it anything serious?”

“it’s an old illness.” Zhang Ya tried to make it sound like it was nothing but her eyes belied the well of concern and anxiety inside them.

“Zhang Ya, did you have a nightmare again yesterday night?” Chen Ge put down the chopsticks and looked straight into Zhang Ya. He held them in places so that they would not turn away from him.

“Yes.” Zhang Ya admitted with some pain. “It was the same dream again. In the dream, my parents got into an accident. The present that they had prepared for me was soaked in blood. I even dreamed about myself in a red dress, holding the bloody present that they had prepared for me, standing at the road alone in the middle of the night.”

Chen Ge did not know how to comfort Zhang Ya. Based on his speculation, he had started to gain clues about a truth that was very cruel. There was a chance that the dreams that concerned Zhang Ya was real. In other words, when they shattered this false world, Zhang Ya would lose her parents again. Despair would once again come after this girl and pull her deep into the endless abyss. Chen Ge knew that Zhang Ya had affection for him but the person that she fancied would personally destroy her beautiful dream, this would be incredibly cruel for anyone.

“Chen Ge, sometimes I would be incredibly confused.” Zhang Ya hid both of her hands under the table. Her fingers were twisted together until they were white. There was a halting breath in her words. “In my dream, when I look into the mirror, the person inside the mirror would tell me one thing. She said I have stolen Chen Ge’s life and I am currently experiencing the bliss that you once had.”

“Do not mind those things. Keep your eyes on the present and value what you currently have.” Chen Ge reached out to grab Zhang Ya’s hands, he realized Zhang Ya’s hands very incredibly cold. At the very beginning, when they started to know each other, and when he held Zhang Ya’s hand, he could feel the warmth unique to living human but now it appeared like Zhang Ya’s body temperature was gradually dropping.

“I have this ominous feeling that something is about to happen. I am very afraid that I would be torn apart from them soon.” It was unknown whether it was the nightmares or it was the immense pressure in real life, Zhang Ya was in a very bad state. Only when she was beside Chen Ge that she would feel some trace of security.

The theme park opened punctually at 9 am. There were visitors that kept coming over to ask about what had happened. They had seen the short videos about the Haunted House on the internet so they purposely came from far away to visit the place but when they found out the Haunted House was not in operation, they all showed very disappointed expression. The visitors loyalty and popularity that the Haunted House had earned were slowly fading away, reality was like a cold bath of water splashed upon Chen Ge.

At around 3 in the afternoon, the people from the management forced their way into the Haunted House. They inspected the three scenarios inside the Haunted House and did not discover any problem. But when Chen Ge asked them when they would be able to return to business, the answer that he got was 'to be decided later'. After the group from safety inspection left, Zhang Ya called her parents holding the report given by the team. Chen Ge stayed beside her all the team. He heard Zhang Ya's mother's voice from the other end of the phone. She sounded very tired and Zhang Ya's father was incredibly weak-sounding on the phone.

"Today is the second time the management at the theme park is scheduled to come and inspect the Haunted House but as the owner of the Haunted House, Zhang Ya's parents are not present in person. Zhang Ya's father is not suffering from a simple stomach bug, it has to be something even more serious." Tragedy had already fallen and it was slowly corrupting everything that Chen Ge treasured little by little. "Now it is Zhang Ya's parents, will it be Zhang Ya next?"

He had already tasted the bliss, therefore he would only be in more pain when they were taken away from him. Chen Ge had no idea what the treatment plan that the hospital had devised for him, the only thing that he could do now was to absorb them silently while collecting his own power on the dark. After the sun set, Chen Ge wanted to accompany Zhang Ya to go visit her parents but Zhang Ya did not seem like she was too keen on that idea so Chen Ge did not force himself further. After he walked Zhang Ya out of the park, he closed himself inside the staff breakroom.

"After seeing the Cursed Lady tonight, I will not go anywhere else anymore. I will stay inside the Haunted House, hopefully that will delay the tragedy from coming so soon." At around 10 pm, Chen Ge was all ready to leave the Haunted House when there came a curious sound from the bathroom on the first floor. Chen Ge grabbed his tool hammer, he thought it was Zuo Han paying him another visit but when he saw the person before him, he could not have been more surprised.

"Doctor Sun?" His neck and face were all covered in scars. The face that he had could not be recognized anymore. This doctor that the other doctors did not even like to work with at the hospital had escaped to Chen Ge's Haunted House!

"I only have one minute left so I need you to just listen to me." Doctor Sun knocked on the bathroom door and basically yanked Chen Ge into his brain maze. "Unless it was absolutely necessary, I would have never left the hospital but now that the situation has turned absolutely necessary." After entering the brain maze, Doctor Sun only dared to continue. “The hospital has already found out about your trip to Ping An Apartment, that was why Chi Longtou was punished the way he did.”

“Since they already knew about that, why didn’t they stop me?” Chen Ge was confused.

“Long story short, before you were hospitalized, the hospital had done an investigation of you but for some reasons, they had done a serious mistake in their diagnosis on you! They thought you were using ghosts to run your Haunted House and you were using living people as bait. You have not completely gained the trust of the ghosts and that was why the hospital was willing to let you out of the hospital. The spectres themselves are the collection of negative emotions and furthermore they have lost their memory so the first reaction when they saw you should be an attempt on your life. They should do everything in their power to consume you.

“If you were harmed by your once friend, it would push you further into despair, that was the goal the doctors wanted to see. Therefore, after they found out you have ventured to Ping An Apartment, they did not stop you, in fact, they purposely had you witness the tenants torture the doctor. Assuming there is no trust between you and the ghosts, then would you think they are good people or bad people when you see the tenants torturing the doctor?

“When your bond with your former friends is broken, you would become easier to control. By then, the entire world will be your enemy and no one will be willing to help you. The set up of the hospital was perfect but they did not know about the relationship between you and the spectres is not just a simple taking advantage of each other. Even though they have forgotten about their past, they are still willing to stand beside you!

“Both parties have already lost their memory but the spectres are still willing to place their trust in you and you are also so adamant to align yourself with the ghosts. If the hospital had known the real nature of the relationship between you and those spectres, they would not have let you out of the hospital.

“But now the hospital had realized they had committed a mistake. Soon the hospital would conduct many different trials on you, they will slowly push you to the edge and I hope you will be able to retain the control of yourself at all times. Tragedy has already fallen, the hospital will go after Ping An Apartment as well. You have to go and warn to leave Ping An Apartment as soon as possible and tell them not to stay together at one spot!”

Doctor Sun spoke so fast that Chen Ge did not have the chance to put in his own words at all. “Tonight is the last chance. After you met up with them to inform them of the danger, you must not have any connection with them anymore, every single interaction that you have will only increase the hospital’s rancour towards you.”

“But I can’t just stay passively and take all the punishment like this...” Before Chen Ge finished, Doctor Sun already cut him off, “If you can buy more time, the chance of something succeeding will become bigger.”

“What kind of something is that?”

“Just remember what I said, do not be hung up over the fake bliss and do not be fooled by the false memory.” Doctor Sun grabbed Chen Ge by his shoulders. “There are multiple lives hinging on your shoulders. Every decision that you make will decision whether they are pulled into the endless abyss or not.”

“I know what to do now.” Chen Ge’s eyes were peaceful but they spoke volumes.

Chapter 1192 - Pluck Away my Heart (2in1)

Chapter 1192: Pluck Away my Heart (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

“The time that I can stay here is running out, I will tell you one last thing. The hospital has already discovered that Zhang Ya has been swapped.” Doctor Sun’s expression had never been so serious. When the name Zhang Ya was mentioned, his body was shaking uncontrollably.

“Zhang Ya has been swapped?” Chen Ge was confused by this revelation. “What do you mean by that? The Zhang Ya who has been accompanying me is someone sent by the hospital?”

...

“The female boss of the Haunted House, Zhang Ya was initially planted here by the hospital, she was created out from the your own dream, the meaning of her presence is for you to sink in the fake bliss of this world and believe in the authenticity of this world. But no one anticipated this Zhang Ya who was created from your own memory managed to gain her own sentience! Not only did she not follow the hospital’s requirement for you to sink deeper into the falsehood of this world, she kept leaking the loopholes of this world! The hospital has discovered the traces of real Zhang Ya on her and the traces are getting more numerous and bigger as time goes by!” Doctor Sun said urgently.

“In other words, this Zhang Ya who is currently controlling me is the version of Zhang Ya who was once in my memory?” Chen Ge’s heart started to race. From the first time he laid his eyes on Zhang Ya, he felt there was a spiritual bond between them.

“She is slowly losing control! No one can tell what is exactly going on behind this!” The scar on Doctor Sun’s face was twisted until his face could not be recognized anymore. “Perhaps the hospital will not come after you in the short future, but now all the night doctors have shown interest in the change to Zhang Ya, they will definitely be targeting her!” There was not one night doctor at the hospital who was a good person. Chen Ge could still remember how Doctor Gao used to treat him. To force Chen Ge into madness, he even came up with the plot of switching the medicine so that Chen Ge would personally kill his roommate. What kind of crazy treatment method was that? This group of people had shown their interest in Zhang Ya. Once Chen Ge heard Doctor Sun said that, the veins on the back of Chen Ge's arm started to pop.

"After I have interacted with the tenants from Ping An Apartment, I realize they have a very unique attitude regarding Zhang Ya. What exactly does this name represent?" Chen Ge forced himself to remain calm.

"It represents a spectre, a spectre who is very important to you. Without her resistance and sacrifice, you would not have the chance to wake up at all." Doctor Sun's words were direct and cruel but Chen Ge knew that the truth was always cruel. "You could say that she has used the destruction of her own soul as the leverage to fight for a chance of survival for you." The walls around them started to twist and waver. Doctor Sun knocked on the room door. "That is the extent of the things that I can tell you, you have find a way to survive no matter what." Doctor Sun knocked on the door seven times. On the seventh time, Doctor Sun pushed open the door and at the same time, Chen Ge was brought out of the brain maze.

Opening both of his eyes, Chen Ge saw that the window of the bathroom was open. Doctor Sun though had already disappeared without a trace, it was as if he had never paid a visit to the haunted house to begin with. Taking in a deep breath, Chen Ge looked at his own reflection in the mirror and his fists gradually tightened.

"I have just felt the taste of happiness but I was told all the happiness are fake; I have finally found bliss but I am about to lose everything." His pupils gradually narrowed. The bottom of Chen Ge's eyes were pooling with blood, he had been resisting the urge.

"I need to go and warn the people at the Ping An Apartment now. There has been a change to the plan." Without wasting any time, Chen Ge carried his backpack and left the Haunted House. They originally planned to meet up at the abandoned hospital at the countryside but due to the sudden revelation by Doctor Sun, Chen Ge could not wait anymore. He hailed a cab to Ping An Apartments. Chen Ge raced all the way and thankfully he was able to reach the tenants before the hospital got to them. He told the tenants part of information give to him by Doctor Sun. After everyone ensured the mutual way of communication, they decided to split up and hide at the various corners of the city, biding their time.

Midnight was arriving and most of the tenants had already disappeared from the apartment. Tang Jun drove the mini van and led Chen Ge, Zuo Han, Men Nan and Ol' Zhou towards the abandoned hospital at the countryside.

"Hospitals appear to have a very special symbolism in this city. Xin Hai is a very big state but the only hospital in operation is Xin Hai Central Hospital, don't you guys think that it is something weird?" Zuo Han was always able to discern details that would have escaped the attention of a normal citizen. He had a heart that was always in suspicion of the things around him. Seen from a different perspective, the young man indeed suffered from symptoms of paranoia.

"These scariest spectres still retain part of their instinct. There has to be a reason why Single Eye chose an abandoned and Scarlet chose Li Wan Street as their hiding spot. If we work from the same hypothesis, the Cursed Lady might be related to the hospital, perhaps she was a patient who has escaped from the hospital."

"You have a point there." Without taking the front door, the few of them leaped over the walls and made their way through the hospital corridors.

"How come this place feels so familiar to me?" Men Nan walked at the front of the group. He looked at the pillows that littered the corridors and the human faces that were painted on them, his expression slowly started to change. "It feels like I have been to this mental asylum before."

"You have been to this place before?"

"Yes." Men Nan nodded. He did not stop to explore the first two building but made a beeline directly towards the third sick hall. The third sick hall that was situated at the deepest part of the hospital compound was very strange. The interior walls were written with many different kind of curses and cages welded from iron bars were placed inside the room. This place did not look like a hospital at all, it was more like a prison that was used to detain criminals.

"Doors, windows..." Through his fragmented memory, Men Nan came to the third floor of the third sick hall. There was no trace of light at all inside the darkened corridor, the chill appeared to crawl right into their bones. It was like they were travelling down the stomach of a deep sea creature.

“Why am I leading the way again?! I am just a child! How could you do this to me?!” Men Nan who had been walking at the front of the group suddenly stopped moving. He gripped Chen Ge and Ol’ Zhou’s hands and an innocent expression that did not appear that often on his face turned up towards them. “Let us go in together.”

Chen Ge did not reject him, every nerve in his body was already pulled taut. Walking down the corridor, it seemed like the passage of time had slowed down. Endless wailing and screams leaked out through the wall. The sense of apprehension this place gave Chen Ge was deeper than when he was at the abandoned school and Li Wan City. After who knew how long they had journeyed, Men Nan stopped in front of a door that was covered in curses. As if feeling something resonating in his heart, he raised his hand to push on the door lightly.

But just as his finger touched the door, the black letters on the door appeared to come alive all at once and they surged towards Men Nan. The boy who appeared weak and vulnerable responded with surprising fast reflex and determination, he directly used his own blood vessel to sever off his fingers. Before the broken finger even reached the ground, they were swallowed up by the dark letters. Men Nan observed all these with a pale expression. He waved his hands and the blood vessels gathered to form a new set of fingers.

“She is slightly stronger than I am.” Holding his own hand, Men Nan retreated to hide behind Chen Ge and Ol’ Zhou.

The door had already been pushed open slightly by Men Nan. With the example of his predecessor, Chen Ge picked up the pillow with the human face from the ground and used it as a cushion to push open the door. As the door was slowly pushed open, the cursed letters in the corridor all started to boil, they dissolved into black threads and like a web weaved by a giant spider, they wrapped themselves around the third sick hall, keeping it on lockdown.

The doors and windows were sealed, in other words, they had no way to escape anymore. Just as the few were panicking about their fate, all the wails and screams in the building disappeared all at once. In the death like stillness, suddenly a very distinctive sound appeared. It was the sound of high heels stepping on the ground. The slender tip of the high heels stepped on the tiles that were splattered with blood. It trampled on many faces that were made twisted from curses and appeared before the group.

“Cursed Lady?” Looking at the red high heels before them, no one dared to move. The scary presence that radiated off the woman was much more suffocating than the Single Eye and Scarlet. “Aren’t they on the same level? Why is the Cursed Lady so scary in person?”

Chen Ge dared to move freely before the Single Eye and he could even communicate with Scarlet but before the Cursed Lady, he did not dare to even breathe too loudly. It was an indescribable pressure. As long as she was willing, she was more than capable of killing all the human and spectres in the room in the blink of an eye. It felt like the corridors were closing in on them. Chen Ge felt like his own body was about to be crushed. Just as everyone felt like they were about to crumble under pressure, Men Nan who had been hiding at the back walked out to the front.

Men Nan who was the smallest and youngest stood before the rest of the adults. The way he reacted now had given Chen Ge a real surprise. Chen Ge had a new appreciation of the young man. No wonder he was the strongest spectre at Ping An Apartment!

Ol’ Zhou wanted to stop him but he was unfortunately already too late. Men Nan appeared to have made a firm decision. The blood fluttered behind him. Resisting the anxiety in his heart, he came to stand before the red high heels. His pair of brilliant eyes looked at the pair of shoes that were pulsing with blood. Men Nan used every ounce of energy in his body and opened his mouth to ask. “Are you my mother?”

The third sick hall gave Men Nan the feeling of home. Even though the greater part of his memory had already been taken away, he could still remember he had spent his time here with his own mother. With anticipation clear on his face, Men Nan was desperate for the red high heels’ reply but the next second, he was flung to the side by the threads bound together by the curses.

The letters that carried a dangerous presence with them worked their way onto Ol’ Zhou, Tang Jun and Zuo Han’s bodies. They crumpled weakly to the ground, only Chen Ge was still standing where he was. Taking one after another step forward, the pair of red high heels only seemed to care about Chen Ge. The chilling and piercing hands touched Chen Ge’s heart, his heart seemed to have stopped beating in that moment.

The red high heels appeared to be confirming something. After she had a feel of Chen Ge’s heart, the cursed lines inside the building all came alive, she seemed to have finally found the thing that she was looking for. Unable to resist, when Chen Ge regained his consciousness, he was greeted with the sight of a woman in red standing before her. The woman's shirt was filled with human names that were carved out by curses. The stark white skin that was exposed was wrapped in black and red bandages. Her feet was wrapped in a pair of high heels shoes that had a special kind of imprint on them.

"Cursed Lady..." Chen Ge could not help himself from uttering this scariest name, but the next moment, the blood capillaries on his arm started to twist. The tiny and slender black lines moved to form one after another ghastly characters on the surface of his skin. "That is not my name."

The words that the Cursed Lady wanted to say was like a curse that he could not shake off. They surfaced on Chen Ge's body, the latter had no idea how the woman managed to do something like this. He tried his best to maintain his chill. Chen Ge looked at the black thread on his arm and suffered the extreme pain. "I have lost my past memory but I have a feeling that we should have known each other in the past."

"I too have lost part of my memory, for example my name." The black threads crawled on Chen Ge's skin and flesh as they moved to form new characters. The whole incident just looked and felt absurd. "By placing curses on myself, I found out that my memory was lost inside the hospital. I have looked through all the abandoned hospitals in the city, captured several patients and workers but I am still unable to find my lost memory."

"The place that made you lost your memory is Xin Hai Central Hospital. All of our memory is lost there, they are our common enemy!" Chen Ge had slowly gotten used to the pain. He was now able to keep the tone of his voice even. "To regain back your memory, then you will have to enter deep into the hospital."

"Other than the method that you say, there is another method that I have that can help me regain my memory." The Cursed Lady was standing before Chen Ge. The bandage on her feet slowly peeled off layer by layer and the black scary threads were practically growing out of every inch of her body. "Do you know what is a curse?" The black and red threads were covered in screaming human faces. The spectre before him probably had the blood of who knew how many lives on her hands. Her power was amplified in this city until a stage that was truly unbelievable.

“Using pain as sacrifice to reap a blood reward, that is a curse and that is also the only power that I have.” The Cursed Lady’s pale hands gripped around Chen Ge’s heart. “There is a memory about me hidden inside your heart. Using your heart as a sacrifice, I will be able to regain the memory that I have lost.”

Even at that moment Chen Ge was able to maintain his shocking calmness. “I would bet that you would not do something like that. A curse is something that is extremely hard to reverse. Since there is a memory of you in my heart, that can only mean that I am someone important to you too.” Even though Chen Ge appeared unfazed on the surface, in his heart, he was still slightly panicking. Other than Scarlet, all the other specters he had met so far had reasons to make him feel fearful. Single Eye wanted Chen Ge’s left eye and now the Cursed Lady wanted Chen Ge’s heart.

“using my own life as sacrifice, after you have found the memory that you have lost, you will realize the important person in your memory has died, is that truly the goal that you are trying to achieve?” Chen Ge spoke faster and faster, he refused to give the Cursed Lady any chance to think.

“Even if I pluck away your heart, you might not necessarily die. Even if I do not do that now, in the future, you will beg me to do so.” The words that the Cursed Lady left on Chen Ge’s arm contained complicated emotion in them. She seemed to know certain things but she was reluctant to share them.

“I will beg you to kill me in the future?” Chen Ge did not quite understand it. Everything that he was doing now was for the purpose of survival, why would he ever actively ask for death?

“All the spectres in this city, including myself, everyone not only had their memory taken away, they had most of their power taken away as well. To regain all of these things, one will have to go to that hospital but the contradiction lies in the fact that everyone who has lost their memory and power would not have mounted a large enough power to fight the hospital.” The Cursed Lady had no reason to lie to Chen Ge. If she was willing, she could directly gouge out Chen Ge’s heart now and not waste time trying to communicate with him.

“Even with the cooperation of everyone inside the city, we will not be enough to fight the hospital?” Chen Ge felt a shred of despair winding around his heart.

“Unless they have found their lost memory and power, or else there is no chance of that happening at all.” The Cursed Lady looked at Chen Ge with her bloody eyes. “There are not only my memory hidden inside your heart, there are other people’s memory as well. Let me put a curse on everything that you are, it will be able to grant everyone other than yourself, their lost memory and power.”

The Cursed Lady did not force Chen Ge, she only gave Chen Ge a choice.

“Just now you said that, even if I have lost my heart, I might not necessarily die?” Chen Ge was seriously considering the option that was given to him.

“In this false reality, as long as you still retain the memory of the truth, you will not die.”

“Give me some time to think about this.”

“Tragedy has already arrived, I will be waiting for your answer here.” The black and red threads retreated like the tides. The Cursed Lady pulled away from Chen Ge.

Chapter 1193 - This Time Let Me Be Your Shadow (3in1)

Chapter 1193: This Time Let Me Be Your Shadow (3in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

Cursed Lady's eyes moved away from Chen Ge's face and moved to scan the back of his arm. When the two were close to each other earlier, the wound that was on the back of Chen Ge's arm that was unable to heal started to bleed again as if it had received some kind of agitation.

"Was it you who left behind the wound on the back of my arm?" Chen Ge raised his arm, to which the Cursed Lady responded with a curt nod. 10 minutes later, the third sick hall returned to normal and all the black threads had faded away. Ol' Zhou and Tang Jun crawled up from the ground. After ensuring everyone was fine, it was also at the same time Men Nan woke up from his unconsciousness.

...

"We have grossly underestimated the power level of the Cursed Lady, she is probably the strongest spectre in this city." Men Nan took in a cold breath. "it is not shameful to lose to her but we will probably have to reconsider further this issue about requesting her for help."

"We have already met all three of the scariest spectres in this city, the rest of the spectres can be handled by the tenants of Ping An Apartment. Chen Ge, I need you to stay patiently inside the Haunted House and do not have any more interaction with the rest of us." Zuo Han's brain was clear, and his thoughts was sharp. "After we have made all the necessary preparation, we will go back to the haunted House to find you." After saying all that, Zuo Han realized Chen Ge had not responded with any words. He patted lightly on Chen Ge's shoulders. "Do not think too much about what the Cursed Lady has said. Can a person still be considered a complete person once he has lost his heart?"

"Actually she has a valid point to make."

“Do not get pulled into this nonsense, you are the key for everyone of us to make our escape...” before Zuo Han could finish, he saw how bloodshot Chen Ge’s eyes were. Honestly, of everyone there, Zuo Han was the person who was the most familiar with Chen Ge. He had once considered to trade his life with Single Eye, only those who had been forced to that step could empathize with the feeling that Chen Ge was going through. Zuo Han knew that as someone who was at the center of the storm, the pain and despair that Chen Ge was put under must be at least 10 times of his own. He wanted to console Chen Ge but all the words that he could think off sounded weak and meaningless before the face of true despair.

“We will find back our memory.” Zuo Han did not disturb Chen Ge who was deep in thought. The few of them left the Third Sick Hall together. After coming up the new contact method, Chen Ge parted ways with the tenants from Ping An Apartments. He took a long detour before heading back to the Haunted House at the theme park. He laid in the bed inside the staff breakroom. Before this, he only thought the rising sun of this world would shower his body with the warmest ray but now he was slightly afraid of the sight of dawn. He had no idea what would happen tomorrow but there was one thing that he was certain, he knew that the day after would be worse than today.

Tragedy was approaching him step by side. Chen Ge laid in bed all night and he realized he was unable to fall asleep. At 8 am in the next morning, Chen Ge crawled out of bed due to habit and started to clean the place. Even though the Haunted House was still barred from business, he would still spend every day checking the many scenarios and props. At around 8. 10 am, Zhang Ya arrived at the door of the Haunted House. She looked much haggard than before, in just the past few days, she seemed to have shed a lot of weight. Yesterday night, she was tormented by nightmare again. At 2 am in the morning, she was frightened awake. Once she closed her eyes, the tragedy in her nightmare would be imprinted at the back of her mind.

Her father’s condition was worsening and her mother had to stay behind at the hospital to look after her. Zhang Ya did not want to add more pressure on them, to give them one more thing to worry about so she poured her concern towards Chen Ge. “I found myself unable to sleep even though it was already 3 something in the morning. I got out from bed to go to the kitchen to grab myself a glass of water. When I passed the window, I saw a man at the bottom of the building. He was smiling constantly while staring at my window.” Zhang Ya leaned close to Chen Ge. “The scenario from my nightmare was slowly turning into reality, it has reached a point where I cannot differentiate between them anymore.”

At this point, Chen Ge already knew that the hospital had already reached out their claws towards Zhang Ya. This was the usual modus operandi for the hospital. First they would make it seem like a normal person was going insane and then they would reach out to them to offer ‘treatment’ and intervention. Chen Ge was very worried about Zhang Ya’s mental state. He was concerned that she might be sent into Xin Hai Central Hospital because once you got into that hospital, it was basically impossible to come out anymore. There was one moment where he felt like bringing Zhang Ya to run away but where else could they run away to? This was a city without hope, all the good memory and happiness was just a mirage, even if they wanted to run, there was no place for them to run away to. Looking at Zhang Ya who had truly wilted in the past few days, Chen Ge’s fingers slowly tightened. “Why don’t you go inside the haunted house to take some rest, I will be here to look over the place.”

The truth that he wanted to say he could not say, the harsh truth was suppressed at the bottom of his heart, in this life which was slowly peeling apart, Chen Ge cared for Zhang Ya as delicately as he could, that was the only thing that he could do now. Opening the door to the staff breakroom, Chen Ge saw Zhang Ya who quickly fell asleep. He branded this image of hers into his heart. “It feels like I have owed her too much.”

Lying next to the bed, Chen Ge did not budge for an inch because he knew that this might be the last few moments that they could share together.

When it was almost noon, the management of the theme park entered the Haunted House with a few of the security guards. They barged into the place like it belonged to them, they did not even acknowledge Chen Ge’s presence. When Chen Ge hurried to meet them, the management had already done with the modification that they wanted, all of the decision had already been made without even consulting the owner of the Haunted House. The most popular scenario at the Haunted House, Murder at Midnight was to be taken down in three days, they believed the scenario was too scary that it had caused visitors to faint. It had seriously affected the reputation of the theme park so it had to be removed.

A few of non professional walked among the scenarios, criticizing non stop about the props that Chen Ge had poured his soul into. Anything that did not reach up to their standard, which was practically everything, had to be removed. This was not his Haunted House, it was Zhang Ya's Haunted House. He wanted to try his best to protect this place, so that it would see the day of reopening in the future. As long as that day would come, then they would have the chance to survive the ordeal, that was the only request that Chen Ge had. There were more than 70 spots that needed to be changed and on top of that, a scenario had to be completely removed. And to do all that, they had only given Chen Ge a 3 day period to do so. After the management of the theme park left, Chen Ge's hand that was holding the piece of paper was squeezing so hard that the paper had gotten twisted out of shape. "as long as there is still a chance for reopening, there is still hope."

After Zhang Ya woke up, Chen Ge went to find her with the piece of paper. Looking at the content inside the paper, Zhang Ya was not feeling so well either. Chen Ge though sat beside her to comfort her as best as he could. In the afternoon, the two of them busied themselves with the modification of the Haunted House. They had sealed up the scenario for Murder at Midnight and had taken down most of the scary props. They worked until 6 pm. The two of them initially planned to go for dinner together but suddenly Zhang Ya received an urgent call from her family. Zhang Ya's father was transferred to another sickroom and her mother was requested to stay to look after him.

After getting the call, Zhang Ya immediately hurried towards Xin Hai Central Hospital, Chen Ge though walked her to the front door of the hospital. When the two parted, Chen Ge gripped Zhang Ya's hand. He told her if she was frightened, she was welcome to come to the Haunted House to find him at any time. She should not be home alone at a time like this. Seeing Zhang Ya retreat deep into the centre of Xin Hai Central Hospital, Chen Ge's heart slowly squeezed together. He was very fearful that this was the last chance they would have the chance to see each other.

After returning to the Haunted House, Chen Ge found himself unable to find peace. He kept pacing up and down the corridor until the clock showed that it was already 9 in the evening. He wanted to dull his senses by submerging himself in his work like usual. But when he entered the haunted house with the modification details that were given to him by the management, Chen Ge found himself stumped. He did not know what to do. All of his talent and skill was to make the visitors fall more in love with the Haunted House, to give them a truly frightening experience. He had not done anything that would require him to actively destroy the Haunted House before. Gripping the tool hammer tightly, Chen Ge looked at the scenario that he had personally built and he shuffled into it silently like a man without a cause. Throughout the night, Chen Ge destroyed the scenario for Murder at Midnight, and he continued to take down all the scare points. The sunlight filtered through the window into the Haunted House but Chen Ge could feel any warmth at all. The rays of light seemed to carry a piercing chill in them.

“The sun has finally come up.” Sitting at the door of the Haunted House, Chen Ge who had not taken a wink throughout the night did not feel sleepy at all. He scratched the white cat’s head. The pair of human and cat looked down the distance quietly, waiting for Zhang Ya to arrive. At 10. 30 am, way after the theme park had opened for business, Zhang Ya finally arrived at the Haunted House. Seeing Zhang Ya in person, Chen Ge sighed in great relief, he was really worried that it would be a lasting goodbye between them yesterday night.

“Zhang Ya, you need to take a good rest, just leave everything about the Haunted House to me.” Chen Ge who had not slept at all through the night wished for Zhang Ya to take some rest. He stood beside Zhang Ya and regarded her with complicated emotions in his eyes. The two of them entered the scenario together. It was then that Zhang Ya realized with shock that Chen Ge had already completed all the modifications required by the theme park management. “Did you not sleep at all yesterday night?” Zhang Ya was reminded of what Chen Ge said earlier and she felt her heart squeeze with pain.

At around noon, Chen Ge found the people from the management. After they inspected the Haunted house, he and Zhang Ya thought they would be allowed to reopen the Haunted House again but the response they were given was, they should wait for later announcement. There was no hope in the future, but Chen Ge and Zhang Ya still refused to give up. In the afternoon, Zhang Ya left to go to the hospital while Chen Ge stayed alone behind at the Haunted House. He looked at the place that he could not recognize anymore and his dry lips pinched together. At around 11 pm, he heard the sound of the gates of the Haunted House being shaken. Chen Ge who was spacing out inside the Haunted House ran out in a hurry. He saw Zhang Ya leaning against the gate and her face was as white as paper. She was swinging unstably on her feet.

“What happened?” Chen Ge quickly helped Zhang Ya into the building.

"I left the hospital at around 8 pm. After I got home, I just had this unsettling feeling inside him, it was as if the scary memory from my nightmare was about to crawl into my brain." Zhang Ya closed her eyes in pain. "The world in my eyes would suddenly become absurd and the strange man outside my window comes closer and closer. I can sense him waiting for me just outside the corridor!" Zhang Ya's mental state was loosening. Her nightmare was overlapping with reality and it was turning her whole world upside down. She was in an extremely precarious situation, she must not be given anymore agitating stimulus.

"Zhang Ya, why don't you sleep at the staff breakroom tonight. I will guard beside you, I will make sure that no one will come to harm you." Chen Ge laid down the mattress on the floor and gave Zhang ya the bed to sleep on. The staff breakroom was not large. After switching off the lights, they could hear the echo of each other's breathing. The moonlight outside the window filtered through the gap and shone into the room. Zhang Ya who was lying on the bed, facing away from Chen Ge suddenly asked softly, "Chen Ge, am I sick?"

"No, the thing that is sick is this world."

"So why is it me that feels the pain?"

The tip of her toes tapped on the ground. Zhang Ya sat up from the bed. The moonlight showered down her long black hair like rain. Hearing the rustle in the dark, Chen Ge turned back to look. Zhang Ya was lying next to him like a person who was lost. "If it is this world that is sick, then why is it us who has to suffer?"

Her head was leaning softly against Chen Ge's back, she hid herself behind Chen Ge.

"it will be fine." Chen Ge did not turn around. He was afraid that the despair in his eyes would betray himself. His natural talent at acting seemed to be completely useless around Zhang Ya. "I am sure everything will be fine."

Listening to each other's heartbeat, neither of them slept. They leaned against each other back to back and waited for the next dawn to arrive. At around 4 am, Zhang Ya received a phone call from her mother. She rushed to the hospital. Chen Ge wanted to stop her but he could not find a solid reason to. At around 8 am, Chen Ge put all the bed and pillows back into place and started to clean around the Haunted House. When he was done with all his chores, he sat at the door of the Haunted House alone. There was only one person and one cat at the Haunted House. There was no visitor and no other employee.

After the theme park opened for the day, Chen Ge went to the office many times to find the management, hoping that they would give them a leeway. His effort got him nowhere. If anything, he only managed to annoy the management and they told him to stop wasting their time.

Being shown the door again and again, Chen Ge still insisted on finding the person responsible at the theme park. He just hoped that the person would come to take a look at his Haunted House. He had already done all the modification based on the rules that he was given. But until the theme park closed for business at night, Chen Ge still failed to find the answer that he was looking for. The owner of the theme park had already left the site and the other managers pretended that they could see Chen Ge at all. He found some random thing to sit. Chen Ge returned to his stoop at the front of the Haunted House, his eyes occasionally glanced towards the big clock inside the Haunted House.

He kept his vigil for Zhang Ya but this time, Zhang Ya did not return to the Haunted House. The bad omen in his heart grew stronger and stronger. Chen Ge left the Haunted House at midnight. He called Zhang Ya's phone number at a nearby convenience store but his calls went unanswered even though he made multiple attempts. At around 1 am, Chen Ge took a trip to the Haunted House. Scanning Xin hai Central Hospital that was all lit up like daylight, Chen Ge still did not enter the place.

He tossed and turned through the night. Whenever he heard even the smallest whisper in the wind, he would crawl up from bed to investigate it. But the door of the Haunted House remained empty, there was no one there at all. The next morning, Chen Ge cleaned up the Haunted House and rushed to wait at the front door nervously. But even after the theme park opened for day, there was still no trace of Zhang Ya. Zhang Ya remained unseen throughout the day. "How come she has not returned from the hospital yet?"

Night fell. Chen Ge paced constantly inside the Haunted House, he had never lost such composure of himself before. On the morning of the third day, there was still no news from Zhang Ya or her parents, it was as if they had forgotten everything about Chen Ge and the Haunted House. The fourth day, the fifth day...

On the morning of the seventh day, when Chen Ge whose eyes were red was cleaning the haunted house, several theme park worker in security guard uniform rushed into the Haunted House without warning.

“What is the meaning of this!” Chen Ge guarded at the entrance with the broom and refused to let them through.

“We are only working on the clause of the contract. This Haunted House has been working in deficit and it has failed multiple safely inspection. After a meeting among the management, they have decided to level this place to clear up the space for a new attraction.”

“The Haunted House boss is dying at the hospital, don’t you feel have a heart to take down the Haunted House down?” Chen Ge guarded the door of the Haunted House with his life, his eyes glowing red like ember.

“Before you question us, you better consider how are you going to survive without your salary. Get out of the way!” The group of guards rushed forward. Chen Ge dropped the broom and took out the tool hammer from the prop room.

BANG! The tool hammer that was covered in red paint smashed through the wooden board. Chen Ge’s scary strength made everyone freeze in their spot.

“This is my certificate of recovery, when I am still reasonable enough, I’d advice all of you to leave this place!” Chen Ge dropped the piece of paper on the ground. “After the boss of the Haunted House has recovered, you can do anything you want but the premise is you have to get his permission first.” Even with his life on the line, Chen Ge would give up everything to protect the Haunted House. The guards appeared to have gotten a notification from their superior. They did not get into a direct conflict with Chen Ge. Instead, they found some wooden boards and nails to seal up the front door of the Haunted House. Now even if Chen Ge had the key, he could not run the business like normal anymore.

“Let us go!” After the security guards left, Chen Ge who was still holding the hammer leaned against the wall. He slowly slid to the ground. He was left alone by his lonesome at the Haunted House. Hugging his head silently, Chen Ge gritted his teeth. Without taking a bite at all, he stayed that way until noon. When the sun was about to set, Chen Ge came to the attic of the Haunted House alone. He remembered finding something at this place and that thing had changed his life forever. He rummaged through the place but he came up with nothing. Tired and defeated, Chen Ge slumped down beside the window. At this moment when destiny entwined, Chen Ge saw the most despairing image in his life.

Inside Xin Hai Central Hospital that was just across the road, in the third sick hall where he was once a patient of, just at the same window that he had stood for may a day, Chen Ge saw Zhang Ya in a patient's garb!

With no spirit in her eyes, Zhang Ya in the patient's outfit stood numbly inside the room. Her head was tipped down, studying the white pills in her palm.

"Zhang Ya!" His fists banged heavily against the window. Chen Ge shouted very loudly but Zhang Ya did not seem to hear him. His hands were cut by the shards of the window. Blood slid down his arm and dropped to the floor. But Chen Ge did not appear like he felt any pain at all. His eyes were glued to the sickroom down the distance. The sun slowly sunk below the horizon. Night blanketed itself over the city of Xin Hai. The window of the sickroom was slammed shut the doctor and the heavy curtain blocked everything out of sight. His palms bleeding with blood, Chen Ge stood inside the attic of the Haunted House. He looked down the building that stretched down the distance. "You are not even going to give the illusion of happiness anymore, do you?"

Picking up his backpack, Chen Ge ran down the stairs and rushed into the bathroom. He first glanced at the cubicle door that had been closed for some reason and then using all the might in his body, he smashed the door of the cubicle and the window in the bathroom. Leaping out from the Haunted House, Chen Ge did not leave immediately but turned to look back at the Haunted House. A white cat leaned obediently at the open window. When it saw Chen Ge looking at it, it immediately rushed towards him. Rubbing the white cat behind its head, Chen Ge whispered softly, "The tragedy has befallen me, the closer you are to me, the more danger you will be in. So you must not come to find me anymore." The white cat did not seem to understand Chen Ge. With every step that Chen Ge took, it would follow closely behind him.

After Chen Ge got into the taxi, it meowed desperately outside the door...

When he arrived at the third sick hall, Chen Ge knocked on the door that was covered with curses.

The Cursed Lady in the red clothes materialized silently, she seemed to have predicted that Chen Ge would return.

“I can give you my heart but before that, I need to give my left eye to another spectre.” Chen Ge’s tone was so calm that it was quite frightening. “I will give up everything that I have to help you all find back your memory but I hope that you will promise me one thing.”

“Are you sure you are willing to give up everything?” The dark black words slowly surfaced, that was not Cursed Lady’s original plan.

“Yes, my left eye, my heart, my head, my body, you can take anything that you want. I only hope that you can keep my shadow behind so that I can stay by her side forever.” As he finished, Chen Ge took out a sharp knife from his backpack. His own face was reflected in the sharp knife, the remaining fragment of memory that he had flashed quickly across his mind. “This time it will be my turn to be her shadow.”

Chapter 1194 - : March of the Dead!

Chapter 1194: March of the Dead!

Translator: Lonelytree

The cursed morphed into a black knife and the Cursed Lady personally handed the knife over to Chen Ge.

“The most difficult lie to detect are those made up from 90 percent truth and 10 percent lie, the hardest mirage to escape are those made up from 90 percent reality and 10 percent nightmare. After I have gained your heart, I can use the curse to maintain your life and memory, but if you have given up everything but your shadow, I am afraid I am too powerless to do anything anymore. Losing everything that you are, are you willing to use that as a sacrifice to become a shadow behind her that will never be able to speak and never be able to interact with?” The characters imprinted themselves on Chen Ge’s wound. He accepted the knife from Cursed Lady. Without any hesitation, he plunged the sharp knife covered in curses into his chest.

...

The blade entered his body, every life that was lost was replaced by curse and despair. Using flesh and blood as sacrifice, through the medium of curse, he helped Cursed Lady found everything that this body and Cursed Lady had experienced. The memory bloomed deep inside the curse. The knife was only halfway into his body when it was held back by multiple black threads. The Cursed Lady in the red dress had pain and complicated emotions in her eyes, she had been reminded of her past. Mysterious patterns weaved out from black threads on her clothes. The presence of the Cursed Lady became more terrifying until it enveloped the entire western Xin Hai countryside. The howling human names were being torn apart one by one. All the curse that the Cursed Lady had once consumed melted together to form a new name.

To put a curse on someone, you would have to know their name. The Cursed Lady’s own name was her only weakness and biggest secret. At that moment, the name appeared before Chen Ge’s eyes and then it slowly faded, hidden deep inside the black and red dress. The pale hands grabbed at the knife inside Chen Ge's chest but the curse already coursed all through Chen Ge's body, the Cursed Lady could not pull the knife out even if she wanted to.

"Looks like you have already found your memory. Can you tell me what kind of person I was in the past?" The Cursed Lady did not answer. She controlled the curse thread to seep in Chen Ge's wound, she wanted to stop the wound from spreading but no matter how hard she tried, the wound kept getting bigger. The curse had already worked its magic and the effect was irreversible. Cursed Lady placed her hands on Chen Ge's chest. The black threads curled into four words before Chen Ge's eyes. "is it worth it?"

"Of course it is. Even though I have lost most of my memory, I still have some residual fragments left. You have once saved my life. One life for another, this is a fair trade." The pale hands gripped the cursed knife, no one had said such things to a spectre before. "There are many specters in this city who have helped me, they stood by my side knowing the risk that it would bring them. How could I keep on hiding behind their back simply because of my fear of death?" Chen Ge held the cursed knife stuck in his chest. "This time, it is for me to take a stand for them."

The presence that enveloped the western Xin Hai chilled. The Cursed Lady followed behind Chen Ge. "I will go with you..."

Inside the dance studio at Xin Hai Private Academy, the mirror that was several metres long was shattered instantly. The sharp shards cut Chen Ge's face and blood spurted. He stood face to face with a young lady in a school uniform that only had one eye. "Do you only wish for my left eye?" An unbridled laughter echoed through the night, an air of savagery lashed through the entire private academy!

The sound of footsteps echoed down the abandoned Li Wan Street. Chen Ge looked at the little girl in red standing at the corner of the street, waiting for him to arrive. The bloodied hand reached out towards Scarlet. There was an eternal softness in Chen Ge's voice, "There is no need for you to become anyone's shadow, you exist for your own reason."

The blood in his palm seeped into Scarlet's heart. The originally dark street was blanketed over by endless redness. Blocks after blocks of shadowy red buildings appeared behind Scarlet.

Ping An Apartment, underground morgue, abandoned village in the mountain, old dam, one after another scary presence rose to the surface, shattering the heavy serenity of the night. Redness swallowed the twinkling stars in the sky!

Innumerable blood vessels spread through the city, all the despair and tragedy was trampled under one's feet. On the empty street, the lights flickered on and off. An extremely oppressive presence materialized out of nowhere, the city in the night appeared to be frozen. Every citizen that was awoken looked towards the end of the street. A young man carrying a backpack walked alone in the night. He looked incongruous with the rest of the city. His every step left behind a bloody footprint. Behind this man, there were endless evil, savage and vengeful shadows following closely behind him! It was the march of the thousand dead!

Horror and despair filled the city. The man's bloody eyes fixated on the hospital at the centre of the city. The night sky was torn apart, half of it was dark as ink, the other half red as blood. Xin Hai Central Hospital sensed this change naturally. All the lights at the hospital were switched off. "Salvation and destruction is only one thin line apart, sometimes, destruction is also a kind of salvation."

The young man stopped before the door of the hospital. Seven night doctors blocked his way forward.

"Chen Ge..." When the leading Doctor Gao opened his mouth to speak, his head was already plucked off his shoulder. The woman with the single eye tore apart Doctor Gao's face, the head in her hands instantly became black threads that were wiggling like worms. Doctor Gao's body collapsed heavily to the ground. Blood dyed his red coat. When his coat was fully red, Doctor Gao stood up from his pool of blood again. The black thread and blood vessel formed for him an ugly head that was filled with scars. That was the real appearance of the fake 'doctor Gao'.

"At this stage, what is the purpose of words anymore?" Chen Ge did not waste any time on words. He also was not that naïve to think the hospital would let Zhang Ya so the most reliable action was to destroy everything, to tear down all the despair, pain, bliss and memory, to bury this fake city alive!

The night doctors revealed their true selves. Their white coats were flushed red. Seven Red Spectres with unique power guarded at the door. They stood at their posts. The doors of the seven sick halls at the hospital opened at once. The patients that the hospital had once ‘treated’ rushed out like waves. These patients appeared to have been fed the black pills. Their eyes were shining with pain and madness, as they rushed towards Chen Ge!

There were so many of them, the hospital appeared to have a limitless supply of patients.

“Chen Ge!” A familiar voice suddenly came from a spot behind him. Chen Ge turned his head to look. The author was running over while dragging a worker at the theme park in a Doreamon costume and behind them there were numerous people who were hurrying from various corner of the city.

“The people that you have once saved will one day become your own salvation.”

A man in red walked out from the crowd. The presence that he gave off was even scarier than Single Eye.

Chapter 1195 - I Am Chen Ge

Chapter 1195: I Am Chen Ge

Translator: Lonelytree

The man in red walked over. All the black threads bound around the patients faded away. The talent of this Red Spectre was a secret. "I said I would protect you at all cost and that is a promise whether we are inside the door or outside the door."

The bloody eyes blinked. The patients from the hospital had their legs amputated. No one within the man's hundred radius was still standing. Blood turned into rivers. The man in red slowly moved forward as if no one was able to stop his march.

...

Compared to the man in red, Single Eye was another extreme. She had lost control until it felt like madness had consumed her. She won't stop killing, all the patients that neared her were impaled by blood vessels. The despairing faces were sucked into her empty left eye. Single Eye fed on the patients' soul and resentment. The presence around him became scarier. Her unsettling laugh chilled the few night doctors. Even those patients who were fed the black pills halted, as if the horror from Single Eye had suppressed the effect from the drug. Cruelty and savagery, her eyes were filled with bloodlust and desire to kill. Submerged in the joy of negative emotions, this was the real Red Spectre.

The front door of the hospital was levelled. The seven night doctors were boggled, how did Chen Ge who lost his memory manage to gather so many spectres who had lost their memory as well. Practically all the spectres in the city were moving this way. Why would these extremely evil monsters and ghost who loved to kill be willing to follow behind a living human?

They had already lost their memory, they could not even remember each other's name, so why would these spectres still be so willing to abide by Chen Ge's intention? Did they not understand that laying siege to the hospital was like jumping into a roaring fire?

The seven night doctors could not wrap their heads around it, neither could the patients who were nothing more than puppets. It eluded even the vice director who was kneeling outside the director's office inside the hospital. Multiple spirits and spectres rushed at the hospital, while Chen Ge maintained his own pace, taking one step at a time. Blood dyed the street red, the white walls of the hospital were turned red. The seven night doctors were pushed away. They used their power and tried to send as many spectres as they could into the brain maze.

"These seven Red Spectres are not running away, it feels like they are trying to buy time. There is a bigger cluster of building under the hospital, I suspect they are trying to awaken something underground." Men Nan stuck close to Chen Ge. As if trying to make up for his careless words before, he was being very supportive now. The curse spread inside Chen Ge's body. The black blade over his heart almost plunged into his chest. The pain he was under intensified but he showed no sign of stopping at all. Blood poured out of his eyes. When the surrounding Red Spectres and baleful spectres saw Chen Ge in this state, they became even more spirited.

Scarlet, Single Eye, Man in red, the three of them tussled with the seven night doctors. No one held back. In just a few breaths, the fake Doctor Gao who was beheaded earlier was seriously injured again. The power balance was disrupted, endless spectres rushed into the hospital. The first sick hall was swamped by blood immediately. Chen Ge walked down the corridor. With the wall as support, he came to the director's office at the first sick hall. He pushed open the door. Numerous black threads pierced towards his body but curiously enough all the curses stopped when they were one metre away from Chen Ge, like they were frozen.

"The glass jars placed here have already been moved?" The room was empty. Other than the most vicious curse, there was nothing. Chen Ge looked towards the window and focused on the building down the distance. Inside the third sick hall, the vice director was handing the glass jars in his hands to the two doctors before him. One of them was doctor Sun, the other doctor had a presence as strong as Single Eye. "you are both doctors most valued by the director, one of you is naturally gifted and the other is incredibly powerful. I need the two of you to bring these seven glass jars into the underground now! The treatment has completely failed. Tell the director to not delay it anymore, we have to kill the evil spirit of patient 1 as soon as possible!"

Then, another face grew out the vice director's body and echo reverberated inside the room. After giving his order, the studious vice director morphed into a monster. His coat was covered with wailing faces.

During the period they exchanged words, when the vice president walked out from his room, Chen Ge's crew had already taken over three sick halls. The cursed blade crawled into Chen Ge's body morphing into tiny strands of blood vessels. With the recovery to each spectre's memory, the curse on Chen Ge's body would intensify further. The greater the pain he was under, the faster he moved. Carrying the hope inside him, Chen Ge rushed down the familiar corridor and pushed open the fated door. The window inside this room still looked towards the Haunted House inside the theme park but the woman who stood near the window had already disappeared.

"Where is she?" Outside the window, blood fell like rain. Before Chen Ge arrived, he already notified all the spectres that a few of the patients were their ally, they needed to be saved first. When Chen Ge got back down from the room, out of the 7 night doctors, 2 had been vanquished and the remainders were not in a good spot too. And on Chen Ge's side, the only one injured was Single Eye but that had more to do with her killing style. In fact, she preferred to trade wounds for wounds.

In the blink of an eye, the three sick halls were taken over by specters. When the vice director arrived, the night was already fully red.

"Where is Zhang Ya?" Chen Ge asked in an even tone.

"When did you regain your memory?" The human mouths on the vice director's body opened and closed.

"I asked you, where is Zhang Ya!" The roar came out of Chen Ge's through. The man who was tittering on the line of life and death felt the urge to murder like never before.

"So you have not regained your memory after all? Looks like the problem is not on you but on her, then there is still a chance to turn this around." Shrill laughter came out from the human faces. The mouth on the vice director's face slowly opened and he used them to utter the first word after his reunion with Chen Ge. "She is being suppressed by the director and 'Chi' but she still dared to split out a lingering spirit to help you, perhaps she is no longer of this world by now."

The moment the vice director said that, a pale pair of hands reached out behind Chen Ge. The black threads coursed through the vice director's body. The Cursed Lady reached into the chest of the vice director's puppet and gripped her hands around a heart that was constructed from curses.

"Cursed Words?! Planting curses through voice? How did you manage to have the ghost fetus' talent?" The mouth screamed for mercy. The Cursed Lady did not give the vice director more chance. She used her full power. Everyone knew the Cursed Lady was scary but no one knew how scary she really was. The cursed threads covered the entire Xin Hai Central Hospital, she wanted to turn this place into a cursed hospital, she wanted to carve the despair and tragedy deep into the hospital. The vice director tried his best to resist. The faces on his body were corrupted by the curses, his beating heart was slowly dyed deep black.

Energy left his body. The vice director yelled despairingly at Chen Ge. "Evil Spirit! Evil Spirit! You will be consumed! There is nothing but the deepest despair for you!"

"Evil Spirit? Are you talking about me?" He was focusing on the vice director being tortured but then Chen Ge's eyes slowly moved away. Because at that moment, Doctor Sun who was holding the glass jars was heading towards him.

"I am not an evil spirit. I have my own name, it is Chen Ge."

Chapter 1196 - : Your Child is Here to Find You (2in1)

Chapter 1196: Your Child is Here to Find You (2in1)

“Director!” Doctor Sun whose face was covered in scars hugged 3 glass jars in his arms. He did not listen to the vice director’s order and leave but instead was running back to this place. Despair and pain overwhelmed both of his eyes. He glanced at the dying vice director and blood tears were overflowing in his bloodshot eyes. Hearing the voice that came from behind him, the vice director slowly turned his head. When he saw Doctor Sun running towards him with no regards for the potential danger that he was putting himself in, the vice director’s cold and broken heart suddenly skipped a beat. But he soon recovered to normal. The decaying faces on his body all shouted in a shrill voice, “Do not come over here! Run and get away from here as fast as you can!”

The vice director screamed at the top of his lungs but it did not seem to reach Doctor Sun’s ears. The man appeared to have lost his sanity as he tried to put his life to fight against Chen Ge!

“Doctor Yue, bring him away with you!” The vice director ordered with his last breath. He knew that compared to his own life, the seven glass jars were far more important. The vice director was already injured and now the whole incident with Doctor Sun was keeping him distracted. The vice director was almost torn apart by the Cursed Lady, he was barely hanging on with the last shred of consciousness inside him. He still had something that he needed to be done. So when he saw that Doctor Yue pulled Doctor Sun back and was forcibly dragging the latter away, the vice director’s heart finally dropped back to its place.

...

A venomous light resurged in the vice director’s eyes. The man stared darkly at Chen Ge. “Evil spirit! I will use everything that I have to curse you! I will make you suffer 10 times, no, 100 times the pain that I am in! I will definitely make you pay for...”

“Vice director!” The familiar voice came again, interrupting the vice director in the middle of his words. The latter subconsciously turned back to look. Doctor Yue was holding the seven glass jars on his own. The organs inside the glass jars were banging on the walls of the jars madly. Numerous blood vessels rushed out from inside them, they bit towards Doctor Yue like a giant maw.

“Do not place the seven glass jars together! Separate them from each other!” The vice director was so worried that his heart could barely handle it anymore, but then he was greeted with a scene that he would never forget in his life.

Doctor Sun’s hand was placed on Doctor Yue’s back. Doctor Yue who was trapped by the blood vessels that came out from the seven glass jars could do nothing about what would happen next. Doctor Sun whose blood tears still ran on his face slowly applied force on his arms as he pushed a very sharp shard of a broken mirror right into Doctor Yue’s body from the back of his heart. The normal piece of glass shard was reflecting the face of a child, the child looked just like Chen Ge from when he was young. The blood vessels rushed into Doctor Yue’s body. They were like monsters who were out for blood. They started a feast on Doctor Yue, consuming everything that he was. The glass jars were slowly dyed red by blood. The sealed glass jars started to have spidery cracks on them. Witnessing all these with his own eyes, the vice director had already lost his ability of speech. That Doctor Yue died without even knowing why.

“Doctor Sun, you...” His head was snatched away. The world in the vice director’s eyes turned upside down, his last gaze was fixated on Doctor Sun’s body. That evil, mad, and destructive Doctor Sun, the man who was a walking symbol of tragedy and despair was now standing obediently next to Chen Ge like a child.

“Boss, I have found your former body and gleaned some information about the child of the red raincoat. I have already ushered the living people that came from outside the door to a safe place. I tried my best to protect them.” But then Doctor Sun added with some regret. “But unfortunately I cannot stop the hospital director from taking Zhang Ya away with him. I was too powerless to do anything about that.”

“You have already done more than you could.” When Chen Ge saw the seven glass jars, there was a strange resonance that came from his mind. It was as if the organs that were stored inside the seven glass jars spoke to him somehow. Holding the knife that was formed from curses at his heart, Chen Ge shouldered the past of all the ghosts. Taking on the sacrifice for them to regain their memory and power, Chen Ge silently walked to stand before the seven glass jars. Doctor

Yue who was as powerful as Single Eye had been sucked dry, the seven glass jars had been turned completely red.

“The power needed to keep this city operating comes from these seven jars. Endless curses keep drawing energy from the organs kept inside the glass jars. Even after so many years, the organs inside the jars are still perfect and well, this is practically a miracle already.” Doctor Sun’s attitude had a 180 change compared to how he was acting before. When he was undercover at the hospital, he found out many things and the more things he knew, the greater the respect he had for Chen Ge.

“How can I get to Zhang Ya? How can I destroy this city?” Chen Ge repeated these two questions. The memory of the third person in his mind had already been triggered. The cruel images reminded him again and again that the organs inside the glass jars belonged to a third person and that person had a completely different memory growing up than him.

“Zhang Ya was taken away by the hospital director, it is very easy to destroy this city and that is to destroy these seven glass jars.” Doctor Sun did not try to treat Chen Ge any differently simply because the latter had not fully regained his memory.

His body slowly crumpled down. Actually Chen Ge had already reached his limits already. Every blood capillaries in his body were running with curse. With each beating of his heart, the number of curse in his body would increase at a tremendous rate.

“The vice director just called me an evil spirit but I am just me. The thing that I have experienced was not something that I have imagined. Every single person and every single ghost that follow behind me can prove that I exist.” Chen Ge’s hands slowly reached towards the blood red jars. The memory that was sucked away from the glass jars washed back into his body like a surging tide. The locks on all those memories were unlocked. At the last moment of his life, Chen Ge had found the memory that belonged to him!

He finally recognized every single person that was around him. He remembered every single experience that they had gone through together. The bouts between life and death, the dances on the tip of the knife and every single night that they had travelled into the dark together. Of course, he too was reminded of the first birthday that he had spent inside the Haunted House. He was reminded of the birthday present that the spectres had prepared for him. He remembered how he thought the newcomers how to scare the visitors. He thought back of the movie that they had made together and the fun that they had had when they went to visit another theme park's Haunted House. "I never thought I was an unlucky person, to have run into these people is the luckiest thing that have ever happened to me."

Chen Ge was the last person to have his memory recovered. He had taken on the price for all of his employees to find back their memory. This time he stood at the front of all of his employees, just like how his employees had always had his back without any hesitation. The memory of the third person in his mind did not disappear. The child who had taken away Xu Yin's heart had appeared again. He started to weave the two person's past memory together. Chen Ge did not do anything to stop him, then again, he was not capable of doing anything that might stop the child.

When the memories started to overlap, the blood vessels that punctured into Doctor Yue's body also crawled into Chen Ge instead. When the blood of both parties started to mix, the cracks on the glass jars started to widen!

With each new crack on the glass jars, there would be a new crack on the starry sky that was dyed red above their heads. Chen Ge and his employees stared closely at the glass jars but Doctor Sun appeared to have known this would happen already. It was as if the 'person' that once helped him inside the hospital was the ghost stored inside the glass jars.

The dark and oppressive city had already been dyed red by Chen Ge's crew. The glass jars that were filled with black curses were now turning blood red. The small glass jars appeared to be this city of despair. With each passing moment, the edge of the city started to collapse. Black fog that carried with it the horrible stench of dread and despair started to roll out from god knows where. Xin Hai behind the door had started its collapse. Chen Ge had stayed true to his promise. If he failed to find Zhang Ya, he could bury this whole city alive. The curse coursed through his body, the blood vessels from inside the glass jars also flooded into Chen Ge's body like crazy. The child that was hidden in his mind was directing these two forces and tried his best to help keep Chen Ge alive. As the cracks on the glass jars became more numerous, the more powerful that child became but this was still not enough to help sustain Chen Ge's life. The curse had already seeped into his heart, liver, spleen and bone marrow, Chen Ge's consciousness was slowly turning blurry. With a human body, to have taken it so far with the weight of so many spectres on him, the fact that he could hold on until now was already in itself a miracle.

“I still have not found Zhang Ya...” One after another spectres stood beside Chen Ge. At the centre of the broken city, everyone from the Haunted House had gathered around its owner. The Cursed Lady was the first to place her hands on Chen Ge’s body. She actively started to direct the curse from Chen Ge’s body into her own. And then Ol’ Zhou, Duan Yue and the other employees also placed their hands on Chen Ge’s body. The color of blood had taken over the whole city. The night sky and the glass jars around Chen Ge shattered at the same time. Endless black fog poured down from above them like a black sea. The false city that was constructed by the cursed hospital behind the door had finally collapsed!

The twisted monsters inside the black fog went after the lingering spirits that were unlucky enough to be in their path. The lives inside the false city reverted back to their original form, stranded lost souls that had nowhere else to go. The building under their feet disintegrated layer by layer. Apocalypse was coming and the black fog was its harbinger. Finally the people had a good glimpse of the true world behind the door. This was a hospital that was constructed in the middle of a black sea!

It was like an iceberg floating on the sea. The part that was showing through the black fog was just one-tenth of its total size and Chen Ge’s group had only been on the most surface layer. Feeling a pull in his heart, Chen Ge glanced downwards. His sharp gaze pierced through the layers that were composed of curses. The woman that had a dress dripping like blood and long flowy black hair was at the deepest part of the cursed hospital!

“Zhang Ya!” Other than Zhang Ya, Chen Ge also saw three different ‘Gods’ inside the hospital. A doctor in a white doctor’s coat and a monster that only had a mouth over his head had forced Zhang Ya into the corner. And at the most bottom layer of the hospital, there was a monster whose lower body was connected to the black fog and the upper body was carrying the whole hospital upon its back. It was guarding the door that was situated at the deepest corner of the hospital. It was clear that if it deigned to join the battle, Zhang Ya would be vanquished in a second but it appeared like it did not dare to budge away from the door for even a second.

“Bring me all of those night doctors!” Seeing Zhang Ya deep inside the hospital, seeing the woman who was still fighting even though she was already covered in wounds, Chen Ge’s heart that was punctured by curses started to pound again. He knew that he could not die here, at least he still needed to see her one last time. Fighting to keep himself awake, the determination and grit showcased by Chen Ge was something that impressed even his ghost employees. They did not believe they would have been able to survive this long should they are place in Chen Ge's shoes.

One after another night doctor was placed in the middle of the seven glass jars. The blood vessels emptied them of their negative emotions and power. The organs inside the glass jars appeared to come alive. The resonance that they had with Chen Ge grew stronger and stronger.

"The body that was split up has no memory that is mine but it come from the same source as I do." The memory that belonged to another person now overlapped perfectly with the aid of the child. These two memories appeared to represent one single person who was living through two different kind of lifestyles abiding by the law of pure evil and goodness. One of them had firm belief in kindness, he was open and good, he was always ready to save all the misfortune and he was the first to shoulder all the pain and despair. The other had more sharp edge and angles. He always saw the world and the others from the worst possible angle. The person himself was not innately an evil person, but he merely followed the absolute fairness of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.

"Spirit Sniff, Ying Yang Vision, Ghost Ear, Mortician Make Up, Living Doll, Lips of Tragedy... You have given me all these talents just for this day?" Chen Ge's hands gently parted away the curtain of blood vessels. He looked at the body that was amputated. "The combination of the memories is to ease the amalgamation of the physical bodies?"

Chen Ge had no other choice. The curse had ruined his heart. If he wanted to live, he at least would need a brand new heart!

"My heart contains all the memory and past of all my employees. To complete the curse, I have offered up my own heart as a sacrifice to help them regain themselves and now my own cursed heart has been hollowed out." Chen Ge who had regained his memory could directly guess the answer without giving it much thought. It was as if the fog that had bogged up his mind earlier had cleared.

The man appeared to be talking to himself or at least someone that only existed in his own mind. "Have you already predicted this a long time ago? You were afraid that I was unwilling to part with the memory in my heart so you resorted to this kind of method?" The child in his mind appeared surprised by this accusation. The boy who was knitting the memory shook his head but he soon realized Chen Ge would not be able to see him no matter how hard he shook his head.

Chen Ge reached out to hold the beating heart. After absorbing the bodies of the several night doctors and the vice director, this heart had found a new source of life. "I do not have any other choice, I have to stay alive!"

His fiery eyes stared deep into the hospital. Yin Yang Vision saw through the endless curse. In the despair of almost death, Chen Ge had an arresting smile on his face. "I have given you my promise. In life or in death, we will be together like each other's shadows."

The seven glass jars exploded at the same time. The seal that was applied of them lost their power. Chen Ge used the power of Living Doll on his own body. With the cooperation and help from so many spectres, he controlled the blood vessels and used his own flesh and blood as raw materials to swap out the cursed organs. The seven glass jars were the foundation that was used to maintain the basis of the hospital. Now the glass jars had not only been shattered, the organs that were originally trapped inside them were slowly combining with Chen Ge!

When all the rules had been broken, the whole hospital started to shudder. The layers crumbled one after another. Chen Ge's group was getting closer and closer to the bottom of the hospital. At the underground of the hospital, the hospital director and "Chi" still had problem completely killing Zhang Ya. They had tried so many different methods but Zhang Ya almost managed to find a way to stay alive at the edge of having her soul smashed into smithereens. She had too many talents and power at her disposal and the more painful they inflicted on her, the more powerful she became. And to make things worse, there appeared to be no limit by which her power could soar. This was hard to deal with even for multiple Demon Gods.

The hospital was at the edge of its total decay. The monster who had been carrying the hospital on its back and guarding the door at the deepest level slowly opened its eyes. He looked at the door that he had been made the permanent guardian and he said with complicated emotion. "Your child is coming to find you. I will trap him and the rest of you behind this door."

As he made his proclamation, the black sea of fog around him started to boil instantly. The monster appeared to have gained the power to control the black fog after paying his own body as sacrifice and after consuming too many substance that called the black fog its home.

Chapter 1197 - Doctor Gao!

(2in1)

Chapter 1197: Doctor Gao! (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The Demon God that shouldered the whole cursed hospital on his back was getting bigger and bigger. His lower body had completely dissolved into the black fog, turning him into more of a monster than before. He was like the ‘past’ that Chen Ge saw behind the ghost fetus’ door. Both of them had part of their bodies assimilated into the black fog because they were not cautious about the things that they consumed from inside the black fog.

But the difference about this Demon God was, the ghost fetus only used part of his consciousness to absorb the things inside the black fog, while this Demon God directly used his actual physical body to do so. This was where this Demon God was even crazier than the ghost fetus. Chen Ge did not know how the black fog was form and he had even less of a idea what was enveloped inside the black fog but he knew for a fact that if one absorbed too much energy from inside the black fog, they would be visited by misfortune and tragedy. The black sea swelled upwards. When the Demon God used the black fog to attack Chen Ge’s group, they only then realized the cursed hospital was not fixed in place but it had been moving amidst the black fog. The sudden attack taken by the Demon God that carried the cursed hospital caused the hospital to halt in the middle of the sea, like a floating isolated island.

...

“The hospital has been absorbing the black fog day in and day out, they have been inserting something inside the black fog into their patients’ bodies.” Chen Ge was analyzing the situation. His body and flesh were still meshing with the organs of the child inside the glass jars. His various talents had been given an extremely powerful upgrade. The most direct manifestation of that was now Chen Ge’s Yin Yang Vision could not only look through curses, it could pierce through the black fog as well.

Many patients were trapped on every single floor of the hospital. The black pills that they had been fed were created with an ingredient that was taken from inside the black fog. Chen Ge himself had taken the pills that came with the black lines before so he knew how strange and scary those things were. "The hospital is trying to make use of the black fog? All the patients are 'test objects' for them to experiment on?" All the information in his brain slowly lined up together, the big problem slowly came to Chen Ge. The hospital pushed normal people into the wraps of madness and they used different methods to cultivate their patients.

Different kinds of patients had different kinds of uses. The lowest grade of patients were merely vessels to cleanse the black fog. After ingesting a large amount of the black pills provided by the hospital, when these patients 'exploded', they would generate a large amount of resentment and curse. The negative emotions wrapped itself around the hospital, making the island more stable among the sea of black fog. At the same time, the curse and the resentment were the food source for the night doctors and the Demon Gods that resided at the hospital.

Patients who were slightly more special would be given special treatment. The hospital was like some sort of twisted farm, their ultimate goal appeared to be to cultivate an existence that was similar to Patient Number 1. After he regained his memory, Chen Ge became even calmer and more collected than before. His various close brushes with death allowed him to have a heart that was much stronger than that of a normal person.

"Do not touch anything that is inside the black fog. Everyone that is not a Red Spectre, I need you to gather behind me!" The cursed hospital was similar to the residential area that was behind the ghost fetus' door. Perhaps the ghost fetus was inspired by the cursed hospital and he used the curse to open the door inside the black fog. With that previous experience, Chen Ge was familiar with the damage that the black fog could inflict on normal spectres and lingering spirits, so he quickly gave the orders for them to stay back.

This was the final battle of a 4 star scenario. Those under the ranks of a Red Spectre had no qualification to enter the fray anymore. The moment they came into contact with the black fog, they would be torn into pieces. Hearing Chen Ge's order, the many employees hurried to gather around him. Single Eye Chang Wenyu, Scarlet Xiao Bu, Zhang Wenyu and the red high heels volunteered to walk forward. The collective effort of four Top Red Spectres caused the large wave to surge out from the blood and curse, it formed a barrier to form Chen

Ge and the rest of the employees inside it.

Normally speaking, even four Top Red Spectres would be no match for the Demon God inside the cursed hospital but Zhang Wenyu and red high heels had mastered part of the talent of a Demon God.

Furthermore, the Demon God at the bottom of the cursed hospital's main focus was to protect the door at the deepest part of the hospital and all these factors contributed to a surprising stalemate between both parties. Neither party was able to do anything to budge the other, but overall the whole situation was still quite unfavorable towards Chen Ge.

Zhang Ya's talent was still a mystery. She kept using the talents of the many spectres she had absorbed and she was clever with her usage of them but even so she would soon be forced to the corner. The wounds on her body stopped recovering. And above her bloody dress, some of the black ghost faces had started to disappear and after their disappearance, they no longer returned. Even though Zhang Ya's power was still growing, it appeared like she had almost reached her limit as well. Due to some reasons, the two Demon Gods that cornered her did not go for the kill from the very beginning. They thought that they could have easily capture Chen Ge and Zhang Ya alive without paying too much effort. But now be it Chen Ge or Zhang Ya, unanticipated accidents occurred at these two battlefields. Therefore, at this moment, they could not follow their original plan anymore. They stopped holding back. Even with the sacrifice of taking heavy damage, they would do everything within their power to vanquish Zhang Ya. This Demon God was too scary but she was at the end of her line, she could not spare a second to even help Chen Ge anymore.

The Demon God with the surname Chi's ability was consumption. It would try every single method to consume the things on its enemy's body. From obsession to memory, everything could be consumed by this Demon God. Therefore, during a battle, as long as it was still alive, it would only become stronger and stronger as the battle progressed. Initially the hospital planned for Chi to consume Zhang Ya but now that there were so many extenuating circumstances, they did not dare to take this risk anymore.

The Demon God with the surname Chi entangled itself in a deadly battle with Zhang Ya who had already lost herself in the fervor of battle. The hospital director though used this opening to retreat. He pulled out a woman in a patient's garb among the heavy knot of curses. Zhang Ya from the Xin Hai city should have disappeared following the collapse of the false city but that was not the case apparently. Zhang Ya which was constructed from Chen Ge's memory was asleep among the sea of curse. Her beating heart was imprinted with many bloody red characters. Most of them spoke of cruelty, massacre, despair, pain and destruction. But underneath all these ghastly words, at the deepest part of that heart, there were several statements that were faded.

"I have made a dream..."

"In that dream, I shared an umbrella with him while going back home together. I dreamt that we were waiting for a bus together at the bus stop..."

"I even dreamt that I have given him a hug..."

The words that were the least bloodied were hidden at the deepest part of the heart. It was due to these words that Zhang Ya in the patient's garb in did not disappear alongside the fake Xin Hai. She was Zhang Ya's consciousness and the most precious memory that she had. For her who died from tragedy, this piece of memory was like a lighthouse in the dark sea of endless despair. It was incongruous with the bloody world around her, giving off a weak and flickering light.

"A normal curse is no use on you but to make the curse using the blood of your heart, then the result might be completely different." The hospital director in the doctor's coat grabbed Zhang Ya by his neck. The hand that was covered in curses and human faces pressed on top of Zhang Ya's head. He was trying to suck all the bloody words out from the patient, Zhang Ya's heart. Zhang Ya who was unconscious was subjected to extreme pain. Even the Demon God Zhang Ya who was in battle with the Chi Demon God was affected by it.

"The hospital director's curse is very scary. Using the blood from the Demon God's heart might really have the chance to heavily injure Zhang Ya." Doctor Sun had his attention fixed on the hospital director. He knew that the scariest presence at the whole hospital was the hospital director.

"There are 3 Demon Gods at the hospital. Zhang Ya is now holding two of them back and the Demon God at the bottom of the cursed hospital appears to be unable to leave that door. He can only control the black fog to attack us." Chen Ge thought for a while and came to a decision swiftly. "Tell Zhang Wenyu and the rest to focus their aggression on that door. Do not care what is behind that door, we have to figure out a way to open it no matter what!”

The further down they went, the closer they got to that Demon God, the greater the resistance they faced but Chen Ge's group had no other choice. Zhang Ya was in a very treacherous position but to save her from the Demon Gods even with the power of several Top Red Spectres was practically impossible. Even if they could somehow get close to the Demon Gods, they would not be able to match up with the Demon God's speed. Now the only hope that they had was to break up this situation was the door at the most bottom of the cursed hospital. The door stood up and unable to move, the Demon God could only defend it passively. Any decision that Chen Ge made had been given a thorough contemplation. He needed to search for the ray of hope among the abyss of despair.

“Since the cursed hospital minds that door that much, then I have to do everything within my power to destroy that door.” Chen Ge was not consumed by his anger. His brain was thinking very clearly. To stabilize the situation, he knew had to know how to make use of the asset that he had at his disposal to their maximum potential. Turning from defense into offense, the Demon God at the bottom of the cursed hospital did not expect Chen Ge to make this crazy decision. The layers of the cursed hospital started to disintegrated. Chen Ge's group got closer and closer to the battlefield of the Demon gods, but Chen Ge who was using the power of the Living Doll on himself did not choose to shy away from the heat of the battle but chose to actively go in search for it.

“Looks like you have deep confidence in this Demon God, you believe that she alone will be able to drag us down.” The curse in the palm of the hospital director crawled into Zhang Ya's body. The black small threads sunk deeply into Zhang Ya's heart like many fish hooks. The Zhang Ya in the patient's garb was like sleeping beauty who was lost in a nightmare. The curse slashed her curse. Her brows slowly creased together. Her lips quivered slightly as if she was calling someone's name. The bloody words in the patient Zhang Ya's heart was drawn out. The curse lines that were covered in twisted human faces started to wind around her heart. The hospital director used the patient Zhang Ya as a medium to inflict a powerful curse on the Demon God Zhang Ya.

Chen Ge captured all of these with his own two eyes. The fire of madness was burning in his eyes. And his action picked up a quicker pace. This was the first time Chen Ge had actively used the talent Living Doll. A perfect living doll required the soul of a living person and flesh and blood. The birth of a living doll signified the death of a human life, it was an equal exchange, a life for a life. When he acquired this talent, Chen Ge did not expect that the first time he would actually put this talent into full use would be on himself. The internal organs that were corrupted by curse were swapped away. Chen Ge's body and the child's body were joined together in a very special way. Everything that was harmful towards Chen Ge was extradited out of his body and that including the wound on the back of his arm that could not heal no matter what. The curse that the red high heel made using the blood from Gao Ruxue's heart was cut off by the blood vessel but during this process of severance, an accident that no one could have predicted happened.

The blood that had been held back by the curse all this time broke through the shackle. Someone appeared to have left their memory behind deep inside Gao Ruxue's blood. When the wound was taken off Chen Ge's body, a flash of blinding red pierced through the black fog!

The few seconds after the blood disappeared among the fog, everyone who was on the battlefield heard the despairing howl of a man. To be able to cause distraction to the Demon Gods in the middle of the battle, the owner of the voice had to be none other than a Demon God himself!

"This is such a familiar voice." The hospital director halted in his movement. Chen Ge who was trying his best to cleanse his body of the curse also turned his head around to glance at the spot where the drop of blood had dispersed. The blood taken from Gao Ruxue's heart had completely disappeared from the world of the black fog. The last trace that she had in this world was being wiped away. Ripple trickled down the world of the black fog due to this one drop of blood. The sea of fog not far away was surging.

As his organs were being swapped out, Chen Ge's physical body turned for the better but the thing that caused him some slight twitch of anxiety was he realized that after he had used the child's body, there appeared to be an invisible bond that appeared between him and this world behind the door, it was a kind of protection and it was also a kind of bondage. "These seven glass jars contain a power that is strong enough to control an entire city in mirage. It is incredibly powerful but it is also rife with the presence of the dead, it appears to be only usable by the dead."

The process of making the Living Doll had reached its final step. Now he only needed to swap out the heart and Chen Ge would be given a new life!

The Demon God who carried the cursed hospital on its back had been watching all this, he appeared to be waiting for this moment in fact. Just as Chen Ge prepared to change his heart, a monster that was amalgamated from broken body parts and severed heads leaped out from the roiling sea!

It was like a centipede that was larger than even the size of the cursed hospital. Every single appendage of its body was carved with endless screaming and wailing dying spirits. The memory left behind by the living percolated in the world of the black fog before they morphed into decaying broken limbs. The Demon God consumed and digested these grotesque things, turning himself into a giant monster. The twisted and absurd body that wiggled like a centipede was the lower half of the Demon God's body that was previously hidden in the black fog!

This monster was at least twice as large as the giant whale that was transformed into by the ghost fetus. And the scariest thing was part of its body was still hidden inside the black fog, it still had not shown off its full appearance. How did one win a war against such an opponent?

Compared to it, even a Top Red Spectre appeared as small as little ants. Chen Ge quickly swapped out his heart as soon as he could. The giant tail that was bound together by broken limbs lashed out at Chen Ge's head. At the same time, multiple red buildings appeared in the air. Li Wan City at midnight materialized among the black fog. Xiao Bu had tried her best but the gulf in their power was too big. The blood red Li Wan City was like a mirage, it only flickered for a few seconds before it was smashed through. But these few precious seconds had given all the Red Spectres the time to react.

All the lingering spirits that went by the name of Zhang Wenyu disappeared at the same time and the presence that radiated off the real Zhang Wenyu became scarier by the moments. He raised both of his arms, endless shadows following behind him did the same. They wanted to use their own bodies to stop the attack of the Demon God. Around Zhang Wenyu, endless threads of curse slithered out of nowhere and bound themselves around the centipede's body. The speed of the giant tail gradually slowed. Just as it was about to swipe Chen Ge's head right off, a screeching laugh echoed through the air.

Single Eye danced in the destruction. Chang Wenyu grew several times in size. The blood vessels in her body molded together to form the image of a 3-headed demon. Her scar-filled arm pierced right into the giant tail!

This Top Red Spectre did not know the meaning of fear. Even facing against a Demon God, she was not going to hold back. She was to face it head on. The giant tail was held back by brute force and it paused right above Chen Ge's head. The face of the Demon God at the bottom of the cursed hospital darkened. "Let's see how much longer you can keep this going."

The two sides butted head with their lives on the line. Right at this precipitous moment, the black sea of fog down the distance started to boil!

Everyone's attention was attracted by it, they all turned to look down the horizon. An indescribable feeling of oppression slowly appeared. The sea of darkness was parted away. A cat that was as white as snow burst through the dark fog and rushed as fast as it could towards Chen Ge!

Blood tears were leaking out of its dual-colored eyes. Blood vessels with a unique presence fluttered out from its back, they looked like a pair of bloody wings.

"A cat?" The three Demon Gods saw the white cat at the same time but half a second later, all the faces of the few Demon Gods changed.

The sound of chains clinging came from deep inside the black fog. A figure bound by endless chains and shackles slowly strode out from the black fog!

"Doctor Gao!" The presence of a Demon God pushed back against the black fog savagely but this was only just the beginning. The chains were being pulled taut one after another. As the black fog faded away, a red city that seemed to stretch endlessly into the horizon appeared behind Doctor Gao!

He knew that he was unable to take on the cursed hospital alone. But to save his only bloodkin in this world, this total madman had been dragging the red city on his back as he traversed through the sea of fog!

Chapter 1198 - Let Me Paint for You

Chapter 1198: Let Me Paint for You

Translator: Lonelytree

The arrival of the red city diffused the sea of fog. The indescribable pressure caused everyone present to have their nerves pull taut. The chains that were carved with despair bound tightly around Doctor Gao's body, they were joined to this flesh and blood. No one knew what happened to him at the red city, the presence that he gave off now was even scarier than Zhang Ya. The crimson eyes slowly moved away from the blood vessels behind the white cat and fell on the monster that carried the cursed hospital on its back. The decision had been made in that moment. Only by heavily injuring this monster then the cursed hospital would stop moving through the sea of fog and that would provide the chance for the red city to consume the cursed hospital.

"I was the one who committed all the sin but you have cursed my wife to death. I have gone into hiding, hoping you will give me a chance but you people are relentless, following me from Xin Hai to Jiujiang, chasing me from inside the door to outside the door. Now I have nothing left, no family and no past." The chains rattled noisily, black threads lined themselves around the chain. Doctor Gao knew he would not be a match for so many Demon Gods at the cursed hospital so from the very beginning, his intention was never to win. He put everything on the line and the safest solution was for both of them to die together. He did not need to win, he only needed to ensure that he did not lose.

...

Doctor Gao's arrival was the first wrench in the cursed hospital's plan. The endless red city was getting closer and closer to the cursed hospital. Back then the School of Afterlife was just adjacent to the red city and perhaps due to that proximity, it was eventually consumed by the red city.

The hospital director's collected expression finally changed when he recognized Doctor Gao. His emotionless eyes wandered between Doctor Gao and Doctor Sun, the director's face darkened. The two doctors that he had his best hope on in his life had now gone against him, becoming his nemesis. “The opposite of human is god. All I ever wanted to make all of you into a God with no weakness and this is how you repay me, by dragging me down into hell with you?”

“The thing that you wish to change us into are nothing but ghosts who have the capacity to suffer more pain and despair, how is the even close to being a god?” Doctor Gao’s arm waved heavily downwards, a chain lashed against the bottom floor of the hospital. The grotesque color of red started to spread. The red city was like an awakened beast, it opened its sharp maw at the cursed hospital. The whole hospital started to shake. When the blood vessels crawled its way to the door at the bottom floor of the hospital. The Demon God that shouldered the cursed hospital abandoned Chen Ge and moved its large body back to guard the door. He wanted to guard the door but Doctor Gao was no Chen Ge. Just as the Demon God pulled his body back, Doctor Gao also slammed one of its chains heavily on the door. “You are too slow.”

Blood cracks appeared on the black door. The door originally was red but the surface was covered in curses so from afar, one would think it was a pure black door. The former and current chairmen of the ghost stories society had a surprising similar solution to this battle. They both saw the door as the opening.

The monster that carried the hospital was incredibly scary but Doctor Gao was the real Demon God in every meaning of the word. He came here with the knowledge that he might not return. He did not care about wounds to his body, his only purpose was to destroy this place which had ruined his whole life. The chains pierced into the hospital’s lowest level. Doctor Gao did not go against the Demon Gods of the cursed hospital. Other than coming after the door, the other thing he had done was to use his chains to help join the cursed hospital and the red city together.

The monster’s size now worked against him. That combined with the disturbance from four 4 Top Red Spectres meant that he was not able to stop Doctor Gao on his own. The chains that connected the red city and the cursed hospital grew more numerous. Red energy used the chains as medium to rush into the cursed hospital. Spirits and spectres used this opportunity to escape from the red city. They could not stay for too long inside the black fog so the cursed hospital became their refuge.

Back when the 4 star scenario the School of Afterlife came into contact with the red city, even if it resisted with all its might, all it could do was to hold off the inevitability of being assimilated. The hospital director knew very well how scary the red city was. He immediately had Chi go and stop Doctor Gao while he stayed back to deal with Zhang Ya. Zhang Ya who was at the edge of her life had the pressure started to fight back at her full force to prevent the director from completing the curse. Black hair covered the sky and blood waves rolled. The closer the red city was, the stronger Zhang Ya appeared to become, there seemed to be some kind of bond between her and the city.

Chi and the monster carrying the hospital attacked Doctor Gao at the same time but Doctor Gao and Chen Ge refused to change their focus away from the cursed door. During this massacre, more and more holes were punctured through at the bottom floor. Red waves slammed at the hospital and it forced the director to use his trump card. Under his control, the curse that had collected for decades at the cursed hospital slowly rose, wrapping the whole hospital in it!

The red blasted against the curse. The director knew the cage of the curse would not hold on for too long but he had confidence that he would be able to kill all the enemies inside the hospital before the cage was shattered. The blood coat turned deep black. The names of every curse victims appeared around him. And the black thread represented a human life each, Doctor Gao's wife was among them.

"You are the most perfect doctor that I have met, I planned to have you succeed me as the next hospital director but you have made the wrong choice." The hospital director grabbed at the patient Zhang Ya's neck with his left hand. The blood words in Zhang Ya's heart was torn apart by curse while his right hand searched for the name of Doctor Gao's wife. "Everyone that has entered this hospital will be cursed, do you think you can fight that after you have become a Demon God?"

His fingers gouged heartlessly though the name of Doctor Gao's wife. At the same time, Doctor Gao's movement halted for a moment, it as if his heart had been stabbed. Blood slipped out from the corner of his mouth. The pain from his heart not only did not slow Doctor Gao but it caused him to laugh maddeningly. "I thought I have stopped loving her but seeing her name being stabbed can still bring me so much pain! It appears like no matter how unhuman-like, un-ghostlike I have become, I will always have a piece of her with me!"

The chains were held in place by the cage of curse. The ghost from the red city could not enter. Doctor Gao and Zhang Ya were cursed at the same time. Chen Ge's group was in their most dangerous situation yet. The three Demon Gods at the cursed hospital had been there for a long time already, even though it could not be said that they trusted each other implicitly but to protect their own lives, they had unleashed their full power.

"Finally, the moment has arrived." Looking at the chaos around him, Chen Ge held the child's heart in his hands. During this crucial moment where he needed to change the heart, the moment where he needed absolute focus, he shouted out a name. "Yan Danian!"

A hand reached out from Chen Ge's wounded back. Yan Danian peeled back the skin on Chen Ge's spine to expose a painting that was hidden under his skin!

8 scary stingers crawled out from Chen Ge's back. A Red Spectres that looked like a spider leaned on Chen Ge's back. In terms of presence, this Red Specter was slightly weaker than a Top Red Spectre but the thing that surprised everyone was this Red Spectre had a blood door embedded inside his body!

To hide this trump card, Chen Ge had Zhang Yi eliminate all of the memory he and his employees had about the Tunnel Lady's son before they entered the hospital. Chen Ge had been inside too many blood doors, he also knew the cursed hospital had the power to take away Zhang Yi's power, therefore Chen Ge had Zhang Yi seal away his own memory before they arrived at the hospital!

With his mind a blank slate, they could not do anything to Zhang Yi, this was something only Zhang Yi could do. After all that preparation, lastly Chen Ge had Yan Danian use a permanent destruction of the manga as the price to paint a picture whose presence would never be discovered on his back. To activate this trump card, there was only one condition and that was to find Zhang Yi. He had forgotten about the existence of the Tunnel Lady's son, and thus when the hospital looked through his memory, they would miss that as well. They would not expect Chen Ge would carry a mobile blood door with him!

Everything that happened was all within Chen Ge's prediction. Now that the hospital was locked inside the cursed cage and completely isolated from the outside world, Chen Ge pushed open the door inside the giant spider. Blood waves rushed into the hospital and a figure flashed among the dancing blood vessels.

Bai Qiulin walked out from the door holding a broken oil painting.
“Boss, I have found the person that you want!”

Endless red started to spread. The spider boy grimaced with extreme pain. More cracks appeared on the blood door as incredibly eerie presence leaked out from inside it. Moments later, a pale hand gripped the edge of the door frame. The painter who looked somewhat similar to Fan Yu walked out through the door. His fingers were dipped in blood red paint and he held a human skin canvas in the centre of his palm. His dark eyes that were like the stretch of the night sky glanced at the hospital director.

“This is this person that you wish for me to paint?”

Chapter 1199 - I Have Finally Found You

Chapter 1199: I Have Finally Found You

Translator: Lonelytree

When the painter saw the hospital director, the bloodied fingers danced on the human skin, the presence that he gave off now was far more scarier than when Chen Ge met him at the School of Afterlife. Other than that, Chen Ge noticed something else. The painter once said that he could only paint human being but now he did not hesitate to paint hospital director. In just a few seconds, he already sketched out the man's outline on the piece of human skin. Blood splattered. The painter appeared to have become a Demon God. The power to topple the battlefield had arrived!

The painter himself was not as powerful as Doctor Gao or Zhang Ya, but he had on his side an extremely formidable talent. Even though he had limited use of his talent and the condition for using them was extremely harsh, if he managed to spring it as a surprise on his enemy like how he was doing it now with the hospital director, then it could render his enemy totally helpless. When the hospital director sensed his control over the curse was dropping, the painting was already half done.

...

"Yet another Demon God!" The hospital director who was always so confident realized his own power was being drained. He hissed, "Close down that door! Destroy that painting!"

The Chi Demon God and the giant monster realized the severity of the situation. Both of them started attacking Chen Ge's blood door. Chen Ge's side was not going down without a fight, they all focused their aggression at the door at the bottom level of the hospital. It started with a 'door' and it shall end with a 'door'. The battlefield was focused around these two blood doors. With the approach of the Demon Gods, the spider boy stood his ground as firm as he could. His eight legs steadied himself as more and more shadows walked out from inside his door. Many Red Spectres from the School of Afterlife showed up to aid. Other than them, the old headmaster from the school also released the misfortune from the red city into the place. With the support from the consciousness of the school of the afterlife, many Red Spectres from the school showed up to guard the painter.

With the last stroke, the painter's power had another breakthrough, he had successfully taken away the hospital director's power. For a Demon God, that was almost impossible. The hospital director's hands that grabbed the patient Zhang Ya wizened instantly, many dead spots appeared on his skin. The names of the people who died from his skin started to consume his body like a rejected organ. Sensing the change in the battle, Zhang Ya who was cornered finally exploded. Black hair rushed out like waves and it spread madly down the horizon. Her eyes burning with fury, she stepped through the sea of blood and swore to tear the hospital director into pieces.

The counter attack had just begun and the hospital itself was almost crumbling. Doctor Gao who was left alone continued his crazed attack on the blood door inside the hospital. Gashes of red appeared on the door that was covered in endless curse. Doctor Gao seemed to sense something. His icy gaze appeared to pierce through that door. "I know what is hidden behind that door. Even after so many years, you people still have not given up."

Hearing that, the giant monster that carried the cursed hospital had an ominous feeling run through him but it was too late for him to do anything to stop the inevitable now. Doctor Gao caught the opening in its defense and pulled out one after another chain that was covered in blood and flesh from inside his body. Every single chain was wreathed in sin and tragedy. As the chains pulled out of his body, the rationality in Doctor Gao's eyes dissipated, he had torn off the last seal and attacked with all his might!

No one anticipated that Doctor Gao still had part of his power hidden. The blast of red slammed into the hospital's door and the cracks deepened. The Chi Demon God and the giant monster wanted to stop him but the painter and the endless Red Spectres around Chen Ge moved to block their path. Therefore, there was nothing they could do but watch as Doctor Gao opened the door at the deepest part of the hospital!

Bang! A loud boom that shuddered the soul stunned everyone. The cracked door at the most bottom of the hospital was opened. An extremely gory presence drifted out from inside it. Doctor Gao stood alone at the threshold of the door. The rationality in his eyes was slowly returning. He stared deeply into the door and the murderous intent was clear on his face. "Director, I know you are hiding in here."

“Director?” Doctor Gao’s words caused Chen Ge to go on alert. There appeared to be yet another hospital director residing inside that door.

“Gao Ming, you always manage to appear and disappear at the most importune moment.” An elderly voice came from the other side of the door. He gave a soft sigh. The door was slowly let open to reveal the hidden scenario behind the door.

Mountain of carcasses and sea of blood!

It was hell constructed from broken bodies!

The most disgusting thing was on the door that led to this hell had the word heaven written on it. One after another adults and children with smile plastered on their faces walked through the flesh and curse. They had that firm smile stuck on their faces, making the place that was constructed from dead bodies their home. Black blood dripped onto the ground, the dead bodies were sliding out from the walls. On top of the throne made up from human bone sat a man in a bloody coat. He looked about 90 percent similar to the hospital director outside the door but he appeared much younger. The man’s lower body was joined to the mountain of dead bodies. He was heavily injured, it felt like he was only hanging on by a thread through the energy provided to him by ‘heaven’.

After the door at the bottom of the hospital was shattered, Chen Ge’s eyes were pulled to a single director. He stood there numb as if his brain stopped working in that moment. He stood like that for a long time, staring at the fixed spot. In the centre of the bloody sea, Chen Ge’s parents were punctured through by endless blood vessels. They were lying peacefully among the sea of blood. Time had lost its meaning. Chen Ge studied those familiar faces, all the good memories flashed across his mind. His hand raised as if it was moving on its own, as if it was trying to make contact with them through the distance of literal hell.

“I have found you...” A few simple words but it represented endless dance at the edge of death. The hardship that he had been through only he could understand. This was supposed to be the most despairing route but he had forced the light of hope through at the end of the road. The hospital director inside the hell appeared to be the real director. The director who wore the doctor’s coat outside the door was merely a part of him.

“Just a little bit more and I can achieve full recover, if only I have more time.” The blood sea rolled and swallowed Chen Ge’s parents. The real director glanced at Chen Ge. “You live up to your name as Patient Number 1. I have cut up and sealed your physical body, tricked your consciousness to bind itself to the red city, took everything from you, left nothing for you to be living for but yet you still manage to grow to this stage.”

“Is that all of your dying words, you might not have the chance to speak ever again.” Chen Ge had never wished death on a person before. This urge was translated into an extreme chillness. His brain had never moved so fast. In that moment, several ideas popped out of his mind.

“Boss, he wants to consume your parents and then use your body and soul as medium to slowly take over the control of the red city.” Xiao Sun stood behind Chen Ge. “His real target is the red city inside the black fog. We need to deal with him as soon as possible or else when he realizes he has no chance of winning, he might bring everything he has down with him and that includes the possibility of him murdering your parents.”

Heeding the reminder from Xiao Sun, Chen Ge stopped his hesitation and poured all of his energy into taking down the real hospital director.

Chapter 1200 - Family and “Family”

Chapter 1200: Family and “Family”

Translator: Lonelytree

The situation was getting worse for the cursed hospital. The director in the doctor's coat had the tables turned on him by Zhang Ya. Every Demon God was held back and the cursed cage that isolated the cursed hospital from the red city was at the edge of crumbling. Sitting amidst the mountain of bodies, the bloody hospital director finally made his move. The bodies rammed together as endless black threads crawled out from the bodies. The hospital director's first target was not Chen Ge's group but the director in the white coat. Before anyone could react, the threads that came out from the body already twined about the doctor's body.

“You have already done more than you could.” Chen Ge had just said the same thing to Xiao Sun but the doctor's ending was completely different from Xiao Sun. For the cursed hospital, those who had lost their uses were nothing but trash, completely expendable. The director pulled the doctor, whose power had been drained, into the sea of blood and the black threads jumped on the poor man like piranhas. Throughout the whole process, the doctor did not resist too much, it was as if he had already known this would happen, ultimately he would have to return to his creator. After consuming the doctor, the bloody director stood up from the throne of bones. The mountain of carcasses underneath him shifted with each of his movement. The scary presence could not be rivalled by any of the Demon Gods.

...

“Just a little bit. My family now it is time for you to protect me.” The bloody director waved his arms. The adults and children who only knew how to smile inside the heaven started to voluntarily move towards the sea of blood. Non smilers were the family the director created for himself, there was some kind of unique blood bond between them. This was a cursed bond, the family members could not shake them off for life, no matter how great the pain they were in, they could only smile. Everything that they did, they did because the hospital director believed only smiles deserved its place in heaven.

Without their own expression, everyone jumped into the blood sea with great smile on their faces. Their lives dissolved into strands of blood vessels. These blood vessels represented family and the bond of blood. They swam among the sea before piercing into Chen Ge's parent's bodies.

"The world is filled with endless pain and trail, only family can break down the defences around their heart." The bloody director looked at the mass suicide of his whole family but there was barely a tremor of emotion in his eyes. "I really do not understand it. If you do not wish to smile, what are the purpose of you being a part of my family?"

As more blood poured into Chen Ge's parents, the presence from the hospital director grew stronger. Using his own family members' lives as sacrifice, he inserted the cursed blood into Chen Ge's parents. The lingering bond to their family became the only weakness of Chen Ge's parents. To target this weakness, the bloody director kept creating one after another family member that fitted his requirement since more than a decade out. One could say that the existence of the non smilers was for this day.

Seeing this, Chen Ge gritted his teeth. Many of the Red Spectres around him already started to attack the hospital director. The hospital director was Chen Ge's nemesis and he was the culprit that destroyed Doctor Gao's life, these two chairmen of the ghost stories society would not stop until they claimed his life. The large mountain of carcasses was conquered by the Red Spectres. The chunks of flesh were cut down. While everyone was caught up in the bloodlust of the battle, Xiao Sun silently slithered over to the edge of the bloody sea.

Wearing a bloodied doctor's coat, his eyes scanned the rows of non-smilers. Finally he found a child at the corner of a room made up from dead bodies. The child was cowering under a tattered deep blue raincoat. He curled in the shadow. Even though tears ran down his face, the smile would not leave his lips.

"Found you!" Xiao Sun kicked off the broken limbs that blocked his way. He was about to run over when a strange man whose lips were cut to the bottom of his earlobes crawled out from the mountain of dead bodies.

"Doctor Sun, I hope you have not forgotten our deal." Chen Ge had met this non-smile before. When he visited Li Wan City, he took the same last bus with Chen Ge to enter the world behind the door.

“Do not worry, my boss remember you and he often mention how you have helped him deal with the shadow at Li Wan City.” Xiao Sun picked up the boy in the blue raincoat and waved behind him. “The hospital director does not have time for you now. Try to go and save as many people as you can. The director is not your real family, it is not worth it to put your lives down for him.”

Deep inside the mountain of dead bodies, one after another non smiler changed their direction. Once a member among them started to revolt, most of them wanted to follow. Xiao Sun did not stop. He carried the child and rushed away from the mountain and ran into one of the rooms at the lowest floor which was crumbling. Kicking down the door, an unfamiliar voice came from inside the room. “Doctor Sun, is that you?”

“Chi Jian, Chi Huang Quan, quick, bring everyone with you, this place is about to collapse soon.” Doctor Sun yelled into the darkened room. Soon about 10 living humans ran out from the small room. Some of them were wearing patient’s garb, others were Chi people in hospital uniform. Even though they existed in the world behind the door, they were indeed living humans. After this batch was rescued by Xiao Sun, they followed faithfully behind him. “You guys have once helped me, so I have to keep up my end of the bargain, this is the lesson that my boss has taught me.”

Doctor Sun on Chen Ge’s side wanted to protect the good people behind the door, the hospital director wanted to kill all of his family behind the door. This scene was witnessed by many small and weak lingering spirits and souls. No one was willing to die for no reason and no spectre wished to be cursed. The amount of blood vessels in the blood sea gradually dropped. The Red Spectres and ghosts that were barely holding up the structure of the cursed hospital started to escape. None of them trusted Chen Ge but they were not willing to help the hospital director as well. While the director’s attention was otherwise distracted, they silently retreated to the edge of the building, waiting for the cursed cage to shatter so they could slip away.

Karma always come biting around.

After the hospital director realized some of the non-smilers had absconded, he pulled on his fingers lightly. Blood vessels snapped like wires. With each snip, one non-smiler collapsed to the ground. Their bodies turned into monster as black curses crawled out from their internal organs. Even in the fray of the battle, the director refused to let his own family go. Most of the non smilers stopped moving. The strongest among them appeared to have already formulated a plan with Xiao Sun. He exchanged the blood inside their bodies. Even though they were still cursed, they could still hold on.

“So this is the family I’ve been surrounding myself with? Even with the possibility of losing their lives, they want to escape the home I have personally built for me?” Seven human faces surfaced on the hospital director’s coat. They appeared to be his seven children. The seven faces wailed endlessly, they were always cursing the director. No one knew how this happened to the director, even just Xiao Sun only heard some rumors through the grapevine. Due to some twisted reason, the director had personally murdered all of his family.

The half living non smilers in the hospital were all his ‘family’ created from curse and blood. His real family resided inside his blood, becoming the source of his curse.

“The forgotten memory percolates at the deepest part of the nightmare, forming a black fog that stretches down the horizon. People always assume pain can be forgotten but pain, no, pain is always there, waiting to be seen again.” The director caressed the faces of his family members, listening to their worst curses. His eyes slowly pinned on Chen Ge. “I come from the same origin as the black fog, a complete contrast from you, I suppose. I hate everything that is good and today I will reawaken all the pain that has been forgotten.”

Chapter 1201 - I will give all the eyes that have gotten used to the darkness to get the chance to see light (2in1)

Chapter 1201: I will give all the eyes that have gotten used to the darkness to get the chance to see light (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

As his family betrayed him, the presence from the bloody hospital director grew stronger. The faces of his family members on his body started to twist and change. Multiple black threads were vomited out of his family's mouths. As the black threads came into contact with the broken bodies and limbs, they would come alive like someone had given them a second life. "Everyone who died in heaven is my family, their soul will never leave this place because this place is their only home."

...

The hospital director's screeching laughter was mixed with the wailing of endless souls. One after another human faces floated from the pile of dead bodies. Their eyes were crying tears of blood but all of their faces were frozen in that eerie and unsettling smile!

This lowest level at the cursed hospital appeared to be a mass grave, a place where many people had lost their lives. The power of the curse started to increase in sudden intensity. The black fog seeped out from the very bottom of the building itself. The broken bodies that crawled out from the mountain of carcasses all crawled towards the bloody hospital director, they knelt under his feet, hugged his body, crawled upon him as they slowly swallowed the man with their mass. The whole hospital prison was filled with the director's laughter. Black fog swamped the place, endless dead bodies and curse were bound together.

Bang! The sea of blood raised a wave that was more than 10 metres tall. A leg that was covered in human faces reached out from the sea of blood. The giant monster that was constructed by the dead and the curse rose to its full height. “Human being’s strongest emotion is pain, happiness and bliss can be taken away in the blink of an eye but only pain will be forever buried deep inside one’s heart. Some people exhausted their whole life and they could not be cured, others turned into the monster that they hated the most being tormented by the intensity of pain, some have chosen to accept pain and taken control the pain, they enjoy the feeling of their heart being shredded into pieces before finally become a monster themselves whose sole purpose in the world is to spread pain unto others!”

A harsh voice came out from inside the monster’s body. His whole body was wrapped in curse and misfortune. More and more dead bodies peeled off from his body but soon more carcasses crawled towards him to replace those which had fallen. “Pain will never end. Even death is not going to help absolve it, just like this endless stretch of black fog!”

The arm that was carved with black human names and faces slammed heavily into the sea of blood, it grabbed Chen Ge’s parents that were tied down by the blood vessels with one fell swoop. The giant maw that was made up from broken limbs slowly opened. Just as it was prepared to send Chen Ge’s parents down its throat, wreaths of black hair tied itself around its body. The black hair was like the ocean. Zhang Ya was not trying to attack any particular point. The girl who had already lost her mind currently wanted to bury this whole monster completely!

The black hair crashed against the threads of curses, and Zhang Ya was not holding back. She was going to take the monster no matter the price!

The hospital director’s movement slowed down. Doctor Gao naturally would not give up such a precious opportunity. He leaped into the air, dragging several blood red chains with both of his hands. “Compared to several years ago, you have gotten a lot weaker, have you been injured by no 1's parents? Or the wound that you have suffered when you attempted to kill number 1 back then still has not recovered?"

The chain shot into the hospital director's body. The other two Demon Gods at the cursed hospital wanted to rush over to help but they were halted in their tracks by the painter and many other Red Spectres. Both parties were consumed by the rage of war. As long as their soul had not been crushed, as long as they could still move, they would charge forward to demolish their enemy. All the Red Spectres fought with their lives to buy even that one extra second. Currently Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao were fighting two against one, this was probably the most optimum outcome for Chen Ge's group to expect.

"Try your best and hold on! Once the cage of curse is shattered, the red city will slam into the cursed hospital!" The old headmaster cried out at the top of his lungs. The man who was always so kind had his eyes burn with fury once he saw the mountain of dead bodies at the bottom floor of the cursed hospital. From his perspective, he could not even wrap his head around the understanding of the person who would do something as cruel and preposterous as this.

Every single Red Spectre had their own power, every single Red Spectre had a pain that they had to shoulder on their own buried deep inside their hearts, they were all ghosts but do not forget that they were all once living humans!

Because of the extreme pain and pain that they were put under before they died so they could empathize with others, and because of that empathy, it fueled their anger to see this travesty before them.

"Get out of the way! Do not stand in my way!" The Demon God that carried the cursed hospital was under the attack of who knew how many Red Spectres. So many special powers were applied on his body and this influenced his movement as well. He wanted to go and save the hospital director but unfortunately other than the enormous amount of Red Spectres, Chen Ge had more than a handful of Top Red Spectres who had sided with him. They had completely thrown their lives into the wind, they were not afraid of having their souls crushed and being unable to reincarnate into their next lives. All they wanted to do was to help Chen Ge and stop the tragedy before them.

When he was facing the many Red Spectres from the Haunted House, the Demon God that carried the cursed hospital had a wavering in his conviction. The statement given by Doctor Gao at the start of the battle pierced into his heart like a stubborn needle. So called Demon God was merely a ghost that could suffer more despair and pain. His conviction started to crack. The Demon God that carried the cursed hospital on his back started to have other ideas slip into his mind and they started to multiply at a rapid speed, it had reached a stage where even he could not control them anymore.

It was the cursed hospital that turned me into a monster.

I was nothing more than a patient who was trapped here to pay for my sin.

I do not need to sacrifice my life for this damn hospital.

These thoughts floated around in his mind and as hard as he tried, he could not chase them out of his mind. As if compelled by the thoughts in his mind, in the chaos of the battle, the Demon God turned his head to look at Doctor Gao who was standing quite a distance away from him. When his pair of eyes that were hiding behind the fog of darkness turned towards Doctor Gao, he was surprised to see that Doctor Gao was looking back at him as well. "The power to influence a Demon God's heart? This is his special talent?"

Just through that non verbal exchange, more troubling thoughts entered the Demon God's mind. By then his desire to kill had slowed down by a lot. He was no longer as savage as before. One party was fighting with no regard for their own lives, but the other party started to have questions regarding what he was doing. Even if there was a certain gap between their power level, the battle slowly drew into a stalemate.

On the other side, the painter who had regained the approval of the School of After life was also caught in a hard battle with the experienced Demon God with the surname Chi.

Currently the only battle which was close to having its result revealed was the one in the centre of the hospital. If Doctor Gao and Zhang Ya worked together was strong enough to take the hospital director, then all the tragedy would be wiped away instantly. The cruelest battle of the three was also the one in the middle. Blood sea churned and rolled, broken bits of flesh fell down like rain. Curse that would cause a normal person to die on the spot had formed a screen that blocked out the sky at this place.

Being surrounded by the meat shield of endless dead bodies, Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao's attacks had very difficult problem of delivering actual damage on the hospital director. However, on the other hand, the monster that was constructed by the dead bodies were originally more than 10 metres tall but currently it was only half its original size. The speed the hospital director recovered his body could not catch up to the speed Doctor Gao and Zhang Ya took them down. If this continued, success was only a matter of time.

But right at that moment, Doctor Gao suddenly pulled his hands back and stopped the aggression. He noticed there was still some kind of connection between the flesh and meat that fell off the hospital director's body and the hospital director himself, but these broken pieces of flesh did not crawl back to reform the director's body, so there had to be some other fishy development at work here.

"You have discovered it so soon? No wonder you are the doctor that I have placed great faith in." Since he was exposed, the hospital director stopped hiding the truth. Just as he finished, the flesh that scattered on the ground soon dissolved into pools of black blood. This black blood was not blood from the hospital director's own body but they were blood from another person. To control this different source of blood, the hospital had written down the most vicious curse that he knew on every single drop of the blood!

Even though they were standing a safe distance away from the hospital director, both Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao could sense that the curse inherent in the black blood and the curse from the cursed hospital was on a completely different level. To curse the black blood, the hospital director appeared to have paid an extremely steep price himself. To be able to be kept as a final trump card by the Demon God, that was proof enough how scary this black blood could be. "To be personally killed by the person that all of you want to protect, there is no greater way to die in this world. Just imagine the pain that you will be in! Ha ha ha ha."

When the black blood appeared, Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao retreated at the same time. Chen Ge who was switching his heart back at the battlefield suddenly felt inexplicable pain that coursed through his body. He looked down the distance using Yin Yang Vision, the black blood that the hospital director had splashed on the ground appeared to be his.

The black blood that was corrupted by curse turned into one after another boy in the next instant. They did not have any facial features, everyone of them maintained the state that they were in when they were brutally murdered. Laying his eyes on those boys, there was indescribable feeling that arose in his heart. The child that was hiding in his mind was also screaming in despair as well.

"Every time I killed him, he would leave behind a drop of his blood. He is the scariest ghost that I have ever encountered, do not blame me because all the misfortune and tragedy started because of him!" The hospital director appeared to have gone completely unhinged. "Since his parents cannot finish the deal, then I will do it on their behalf. I have appeared deep inside the nightmare, I have killed him and again!

I left him in the black fog, I buried him deep inside the heaviest despair the human world has ever seen! But every time I push open this door, there he will be!"

The boys that were cruelly murdered started to surround Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao from all sides. They were not Demon Gods, not even a Red Spectre, but they were unkillable. It was as if they were the manifestation of despair itself, as long as despair existed in this world, they would never lay down and die!

No one had encountered this kind of monster before, no one had to face this kind of adversary before. The situation was temporarily still on Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao's side. Chen Ge saw everything with his own eyes from afar, he was not going to wait for the situation to turn for the worse before he decided to make his move. He called after his own name as loud as he could inside his heart. "They call me the evil spirit but in my mind, I am just Chen Ge. You have your own memory and I have my past. I am not you but I will never avoid your existence and pretend that you do not exist." Chen Ge's voice travelled into his own mind. "I will go to the red city and find you but you need to tell me now how do I face these versions of myself who had died a tragic death."

Chen Ge came from the same origin as the black blood but the presence that they off was several times darker than Chen Ge himself. The chance was the moment he got close to any of them, Chen Ge would be torn into pieces. Chen Ge was very good at interpersonal communication, he was born with an innate talent that could put other people at ease. With his summon, the other boy's voice rang out in Chen Ge's mind.

"You are not an evil spirit, you are only Chen Ge, Chen Ge that everyone cherishes and loves but I am different, I am just a monster who once shared this name." As the voice in his mind echoed, Chen Ge felt the heart that he was holding beat harder. "I have already handed my heart over to you." Just as the boy spoke, Chen Ge had completed the last step of the living doll procedure—the change of heart!

The heart that was stuck with the cursed blade was swapped out. The power of life and death circulated at the same time inside Chen Ge's body. "you have to remember to go back to that red city and help me push open that blood door again." After the boy said that, Chen Ge slowly lost control over his own body. "This should be the last time I am going to take control of this body."

The heart pulsed in his heart, every heart beat was like a drum beat that travelled from some ancient time, it reverberated with something that resided deep inside the red city. The red waves smashed crazily against the cursed cage around the cursed hospital. One after another pair of eyes surfaced inside the city, countless evil ghosts came to the edge of the red city. The red city had been expanding aimlessly inside the black fog. At that moment, the red city was like a giant beast that had just awakened, multiple scary presence were compelling the red city to crash against the cursed hospital.

"I love the term that you have used earlier, how do I face these versions of myself who had died a tragic death..." Chen Ge lowered his head to look at his own body. Several Red Spectres were using blood vessels to stitch up his wounds. The Red Spectres who were embodiment of hatred looked so particularly gentle around Chen Ge. Chen Ge stood up, an unfamiliar glow shining in his eyes. He walked through the cracked ground and stepped on the mounds of flesh and blood and looked towards the many versions of himself who had died. The children that had no faces were all victims of horrible crimes, every inch of their body was covered in injury. They were bound by curse and their skin was carved with venomous words. The black blood possessed some kind of special property in the world of black fog, they could never be killed when they were surrounded by the black fog, even Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao knew to stay away from them, but Chen Ge voluntarily took steps towards them.

The Red Spectres that guarded beside Chen Ge at all times felt like they were standing on ice. They had no idea what their boss wanted to do but they still chose to put their faith in Chen Ge and they moved in accord with him,

“From now on, I can do this on my own.” Chen Ge turned around to look at the group of Red Spectres around him. A warm and kind smile appeared on his face. This was a very natural expression, it felt as if the smile that hung on his face now was his true real smile. Moving forward on his own, Chen Ge was soon discovered by the version of himself that were transformed by the black blood but Chen Ge did not slow down.

“Memory came into existence because of human beings but human beings had forgotten about them, they abandoned them in this world shrouded in black fog. If I was a memory, I too would desire to be remembered but if a person is always dragged down by his past, then he will never be able to gain the courage to move forward. Once someone asked me, if one day I too was forgotten at this place, what would I do. The answer that I gave him was...” chen Ge glanced at the hospital director that was wrapped in a coat of dead bodies. “I would draw window after window in that sea of dark and open door after door in that city of red so that I will give all the eyes that have gotten used to the darkness to get the chance to see light.”

Hearing Chen Ge’s voice, the hospital director nudged his gigantic body and he roared in disbelief. “The kindness of Patient number 1? Impossible! I have seen with my own eyes you have joined with the red city, how could you still be here? Evil spirit! You have to be behind this!”

“Kindness will never disappear, even if only a shred of it is left, it will continue to shine through the long night.” Chen Ge opened both of his arms and allowed the children morphed from the black blood to launch themselves at him. Strangely enough, whenever the kids touched Chen Ge, a face would flicker on their blank features. The heavier the wound on Chen Ge’s body, the faster the wounds on the children’s bodies were recovering. The curse on their bodies was unable to reverse this rejuvenation.

All on his own, Chen Ge had attracted all the attention of the black blood. Doctor Gao resumed his attack on the hospital director, Zhang Ya though stared at Chen Ge's back and paused for a moment. The wounds on Chen Ge's body became more and more serious. The man had not recovered from his previous injury but now he was once again sliding towards death. The Red Spectres wanted to him but Chen Ge stopped them. When all the wounds on the children's bodies were healed, they turned back into drops of black blood but this time they did not return to the hospital director's side but crawled into Chen Ge's body.

“Coming to terms with one's own past, even if one is made broken by it, there is always a chance for a new start.” Chen Ge's body started to change again. The boy in his mind embraced all the curse in the black blood.

“Who would have thought the kindest soul would be there to save the evilest spirit.” Burned by the curse, Chen Ge still maintained the gentle smile on his face. He looked down the red city in the horizon and mumbled as if to himself, “In the future, please carry on the light on my behalf.”

Chapter 1202 - 9 Seconds Into the Future (2in1)

Chapter 1202: 9 Seconds Into the Future (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The child in Chen Ge's mind and Chen Ge opened both of their arms together. Currently the person who was controlling Chen Ge's body was him and this would also be the last time he would utilize this particular physical body. "In the future, please carry on the light on my behalf," was the gentlest farewell from the boy.

...

The resentment from the many deaths and the most vicious curse of the hospital director were all sucked away by the child. As his figure slowly faded away, the drops of black blood that represented Chen Ge's past had their colors slowly returning to normal, they became a new source of energy for Chen Ge's new physical body. The boy in his mind was slipping away. He seemed to sense that Chen Ge was struggling. At that moment, he had a serene smile on his face.

"Many people are waiting for you so do not let them wait for you for too long." At the last moment before the boy faded away, he carefully took out a warm and beating heart from his chest. "The owner of this heart is called Xu Yin. To help you successfully escape from the hospital, he has abandoned everything that he is and only left this heart behind. I do not understand how a ghost will be able to trust a human so fully, perhaps this is the reason you are the more suitable candidate to stay than I am."

The boy's shadow placed Xu Yin's heart in Chen Ge's mind, and then he slowly turned around. Chen Ge's body turned around alongside with him. He looked at the Red Spectres surrounding him before his eyes focused on Chen Ge's parents who were entangled among the blood vessels. His lips opened and his voice weakened. No one knew what he said at the very last moment, the boy who existed in the mind had perished alongside the most vicious curse and the most painful past.

Everything felt as if they had never happened before. The only people in the world who had ever known of his existence, other than Chen Ge himself, was the hospital director who had gone totally insane. Chen Ge regained the control of his own body, now he had a 100 percent compatibility of this new body. Perhaps the boy in his mind knew that only after he disappeared that Chen Ge would have the chance to finally welcome his new life. Chen Ge lifted his arm to wipe away the trace of tears on his cheeks, it was not Chen Ge who cried those tears.

"Be it kindness or evil, they are both me, why is there a need for such a clear separation?" Chen Ge had been trying to persuade the boy in his mind to say but the latter appeared to have made up his mind already. He had been hiding for so long in the glass jars seemingly only to wait for the arrival of this day. "The source of all the tragedy is the hospital director, this is the first time in my life I wish to destroy a person so intensely." Chen Ge did not feel too big of a change to his body, other than the fact that the few talents that he got had been given a scary upgrade. Other than the booming source of life in his body, there was also a deep sense of death but these two forces formed a curious balance in his body, ensuring Chen Ge's survival.

The passing of time behind the door and the real world was slightly different. The boy in Chen Ge's mind had vanquished the trump card whom the hospital director had taken who knew how many years to make in just mere minutes. Ever since the real hospital director showed up, this was the first time the emotion of anger and anxiety appeared on his face. He still had no idea the child that represented Chen Ge's pure kindness had already dissipated, he kept on sending out various kinds of dangerous curses. Chen Ge's expression did not change that much. Due to his wealth of experience, he already came up with the solution that was most beneficial to himself without the need to do much thinking. He did not continue to move forward, he did not attack, he did not even say a word, he just stood there quietly.

Chen Ge did not do anything at all but he presented a great pressure on the hospital director and it caused the director to be distracted.

“A part of the wounds on the hospital director’s body should be left behind by my own kindness, I think I understand almost everything now. The hospital director knew that my past cannot be killed so he lured out my consciousness and tricked me to join with the red city but he did not anticipate that to prevent myself from being affected by the negative emotions in the black fog and to suffer the despair of the entire red city, the past me would peel out all the evil spirits in my consciousness and only leave my kindness behind to deal with the red city.

“The evil spirit returned to the world outside the door to live a normal life but the kindness stayed inside the door and slowly joined together with the red city. The hospital director stole my body and tried to figure out a way to use it to control the red city. My kindness figured out the ulterior motive of the hospital director and perhaps at the same time he had multiple reasons that made it so that he could not leave the red city. This last trace of kindness in my body probably was the last insurance that my past self has left behind or perhaps this body has germinated a new consciousness of kindness.”

Chen Ge strung the various clues in his mind together, as he tried to predict what had happened in the past. The hospital director had no idea what Chen Ge was doing. He had an innate apprehension of Chen Ge’s kindness, he knew that child could never be killed no matter what. From his perspective, Chen Ge’s kindness posed a far bigger threat than any Demon God. While the hospital director was distracting, Zhang Ya and Doctor Gao joined forces to take down the enemy again.

“The black hair and chains are in essence more related to control, binding and sealing, even though you both are Demon Gods, your core talents are not powerful enough to deal fatal damage on me.” The hospital director behind inside the monster that was formed from the dead bodies. As long as he stood on the blood sea, there would be endless bodies and broken limbs to repair his meat shield. Zhang Ya’s black hair had limited the hospital director's movement so that he could not reach over to harm Chen Ge's parents. Other than her black hair, Zhang Ya had been using other kind of talents to attack the hospital director. Compared to Zhang Ya's brutality and viciousness, Doctor Gao was more like the calm before the storm. He merely used his chains to keep on piercing through the hospital director's body, other than that, he did not expose any of his other talents.

"To kill the hospital director, we have to separate him from the mountain of dead bodies." Chen Ge saw through the key of the problem. He glanced at Doctor Gao. He realized during the battle, Doctor Gao kept using his chains to puncture the hospital director's body and then bind it to the ground. Narrowing his eyes, Chen Ge caught up to what Doctor Gao was planning to do.

The battle of the three Demon Gods had reached its climax. At that moment, the inside of the cursed hospital had been fully shrouded in black fog. The endless dark fog rolled out from the most bottom layer of the hospital. The black fog that carried with it pain and despair leaked into the mountain of dead bodies and melted into the endless broken limbs. The presence that the director gave off became scarier, with the last shred of rationality that he was trying hard to retain, he attempted to swallow Chen Ge's parents into his stomach but Zhang Ya had spent her life trying to stop that from happening.

"Eventually I will swallow all of you!" High intensity of hatred and despair was submerged in the black fog. That kind of pure evil was something that even a Red Spectre would be clever to shy away from but the hospital director had been feeding on them madly. Black flowers that were shaped like a human skull bloomed on his flesh and blood. Carrying the darkest curse human being could ever create, they formed into one after another blood capillaries. The hospital director finally made his move. He ignored Zhang Ya who had been seriously injured and focused his full attack on Doctor Gao. The chains were being shattered one after another, the wounds on Doctor Gao's body became more serious but Doctor Gao still did not use any of his talent, he just kept on slamming his chains into the ground and the hospital director's body.

To have evolved into a Demon God, the ghost must have gone through hundreds of battle already, the hospital director gradually realized the incongruity with what Doctor Gao was doing and in response his attack on Doctor Gao became more intense. The human skull flowers blossomed and blood rained down. The attacks that were mixed with the most vicious curse fell consistently on Doctor Gao's body. Chen Ge who was watching this from a far knew that it was time for him to help Doctor Gao, perhaps Doctor Gao still had a plan reserved, but Chen Ge did not dare to bet on that, that was too much at stake. "Zhang Ya, distract that old coon! Help buy some time!"

After hearing Chen Ge's voice, especially after hearing her name being called by Chen Ge, Zhang Ya who was at the verge of a mental breakdown had a flash of sentience crossed her eyes. The blood under her feet rushed into her body, and the black hair that covered the sky instantly swallowed up the hospital director.

"You can always predict what I am thinking. To have you join the ghost stories society was the biggest bet that I have ever done when I was still alive." Doctor Gao took a gander at Chen Ge, he pulled out another round of chains from inside his body!

These chains not only bound around his body, they originated from his very own organs. The scene where Doctor Gao yanked out the chains from his own body sent chills down the spine of everyone who was watching. The chains that were soaked with the blood of a Demon God were pulled out from Doctor Gao's body. He stopped putting on the disguise and directly slammed the last few bloody chains into the ground. When the last chain pierced through the mountain of dead bodies, all the chains pulled taut at the same time!

As Doctor Gao pulled his arm upwards, the monster that was the hospital director screamed in pain. His giant body was dug out from the flesh that was connected to his lower body. The hospital director was finally separated from the mountain of dead bodies!

“Gao Ming!” The howl of a desperate man came out from the hospital director’s lips. After he left the mountain of dead bodies, the hospital director’s scary self-recovery power could no longer be used anymore.

“Director, you are too narrow-minded and have too high of a confidence in yourself, that was why I managed to have the chance to escape several years ago.” Doctor Gao walked on the blood red chains, the madness in his eyes could not be hidden anymore. “And you have failed for the same reason this time. My whole body is bound with sealing chains but who gave you the idea that my very own talent has to be limited to the chains only?”

Doctor Gao peeled away the bloody coat that covered his body. He yanked out the last chain that wound around his heart. He had lost all constraint, his presence grew to a terrifying state!

“I have never lost because no matter the time, no one will be able to see through my heart.” All the chains had been removed, Doctor Gao’s rationality had been completely swallowed. Powerful and scary red shadows struggled behind him. Listening to their screams and wails, Doctor Gao’s eyes turned fully red. He aimed right at the centre of the chains and launched a punch at it!

“Blood prison!” The chains pulled tight. Like surging dragons, they did not let go of any corner and bound themselves tightly around the hospital director who had been hiding inside the monster’s body. “You have searched for me for 10 years and now I am standing right before you.”

Numerous black tattoos appeared on Doctor Gao’s arm, the tattoos were not curse and they were not blood vessels of a Red Spectre, they scorched Doctor Gao’s skin and used a Demon God’s flesh and blood as nutrients. They gave off a spine-tingling sense of despair. Stepping on the chains, Doctor Gao did not waste any time with words. The arm that carried his despair for the past 10 years directly squeezed through the hospital director's neck!

Simple and savage!

He knew that the hospital director would not perish so easily. With the intention of absolute destruction, Doctor Gao who had lost his mind attacked madly at the hospital director, every single one of his punch landed on the hospital director's body. A bone-piercing hatred, a history that was painted by pain and despair, all the pain that he carried was unloaded in that very moment!

The whole cursed hospital was shaking. One could no longer differentiate between the sky and the earth, all around them there was blood rain and curse.

"Every single red shadow behind Doctor Gao represents a Red Spectre, just how many Red Spectre this man has swallowed while he was inside the red city?" Seeing the state that Doctor Gao was in, Chen Ge slowly narrowed his eyes. When they were fighting the shadow at Li Wan City, Doctor Gao had been bound by the chains. Even until the shadow was split open, he still did not remove the chain.

"Be it at the underground morgue or at Li Wan City, Doctor Goa always has full confidence, he is one hell of a scary enemy." Chen Ge also thought Doctor Gao's power was his chain and seals, he did not expect the existence of these chains was merely so that Doctor Gao would not lose control of himself. Chen Ge once again had a new understanding of the words that Doctor Gao said at the underground morgue. At the time, Doctor Gao had the chance of winning but he had made a different choice. "No wonder he is the former chairman of the ghost stories society, there is still many things that I can learn from him."

The hospital director's physical body was found and it was being given a pummelling by Doctor Gao. Chen Ge's heart slowly relaxed. But just as he was about to sigh in relief, he suddenly realized that even though the hospital director's body was covered in holes, the curse and black fog around the cursed hospital did not have the sign of fading, if anything, they appeared to get thicker. A bad omen rose in his heart. Chen Ge was about to yell to remind everyone to be careful when a half of a broken skull flashed before his eyes!

“Shi Guo?” Through the half of the face that remained on the skull, he barely recognized the young man. Even though this spectre was not a Red Spectre, he had a very unique special power—control over time. He was able to return to 9 seconds ago.

“Boss! Have everyone stay away from that monster now! Number 5, number 5 is about to explode soon!” His lips creaked open and Shi Guo used his last energy to shout out the following.

“Number 5? Explode?” Chen Ge followed Shi Guo's gaze and saw the Demon God that carried the cursed hospital on his back. His mind snapped into realization in less than a second. “Everyone, I need you all to retreat now! Stay away from that Demon God from the cursed hospital!” Chen Ge was familiar with Shi Guo's power. When he saw the gory state that Shi Guo was in, he made the decision at the first notice!

He had full trust in his employees and his employees had implicit trust in him as well. Without asking for any reason, all the Red Spectres retreated swiftly. Almost at the same time, the hospital director who was almost beaten into a pulp by Doctor Gao suddenly expanded. A low growl of a voice leaked out from the director's throat. “Patient number 5, you are my own flesh and blood and the first patient at this hospital, the time has come for you to repay everything I have done for you!”

Every single word that the hospital director said carried a horrible curse with it. After he said that, the Demon God that carried the cursed hospital gradually slowed down.

“Director?” The body kept on expanding. The Demon God’s lower body that was covered by endless broken limbs and the black fog was finally exposed. Three dangling carcasses in patient’s garb were biting tightly on his stomach. The patient’s body already joined with the Demon God’s skin and only the number on their patient’s garbs were shown—6, 7, 8.

This monster that carried the cursed hospital on its back appeared to be Patient Number 5 at the hospital and at the same time, he was blood-related to the hospital director. As the director triggered the curse, the three bodies let go off their mouth. With a creepy smile on their faces, they kept repeating the same statement, “Come and die with us!”

Then their skin started to crack. The three bodies bit at the Demon God’s heart at the same time. Endless curse was injected into it. Patient Number 5, this Demon God that was basically Frankensteined had started to disintegrate with an enormous amount of hatred!

The scary energy directly destroyed the cursed cage above them instantly!

The hospital split open from the middle and the buildings near the building from the red city were instantly levelled into the ground. Everything happened too suddenly. If Shi Guo did not give the warning 9 seconds ago, all of Chen Ge’s employees who were close to Patient Number 5 would be wiped away in an instant and the painter as well as Zhang Ya who were close to Patient Number 5 would be severely injured. The borrowed time of 9 seconds meant that most of the Red Spectres survived the ordeal but they were barely hanging on by a threat.

Other than the red high heels, all the spectres, including Top Red Spectres were heavily injured by Number 5's curse. If the curse was not removed soon, having their souls burn away into nothingness was just a matter of time. The dismemberment of the Demon God turned the battle around almost instantly. Both Zhang Ya and the painter were affected, only Doctor Gao was saved because he dragged the hospital director's body to use as a meat shield before him right before the second of explosion.

That was the cleverest solution in that scenario and the hospital director knew that was the choice Doctor Gao would make. Therefore, he had been collecting energy before he triggered the curse. When the burst of energy came from Number 5's death, he unleashed all of his stored energy and shook loose from Doctor Gao's shackles.

Chapter 1203 - The Vow to Stay Together (2in1)

Chapter 1203: The Vow to Stay Together (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The black heart of Patient Number 5 was bitten into pieces by other patients. At the last moment before his soul was vanquished, the memory that was locked deep inside his heart was revealed.

...

“It was not my fault for killing my wife, it was that monster’s fault and it was the hospital director who planted the monster inside my body so at the end of the day, it was all the hospital director’s fault... I know how ironic all these are, me, the person whose hands are covered with blood and the soul is branded by sin, the first time I committed a murder was to pretend to be a monster. At the time, I still had no idea once certain things are put into motion, they will be impossible to stop anymore...”

“All of the night doctors’ reaction was within Doctor Gao’s prediction. This was the first time I was sent into the deepest part of hell while I was fully conscious. Opening the eerily black steel door, I saw a monster that carried the whole cursed hospital on its back. It was moving inside the endless black fog, it had a face that was not so dissimilar from a normal person. I did not dare to glance at it, my body could not control itself from shaking. The black fog slowly awakened the monster inside my body, it swallowed me up little by little. I knew there was no return then...”

Patient Number 5 was being dismembered. Everything that he had ever consumed from inside the black fog exploded everywhere. The broken limbs and pieces that were filled with curse, despair and impurity could not be absorbed by any baleful spectres but there was a person present who was the sole exception. His physical body seriously injured and the mountain of bodies under his feet shattered into uselessness, the hospital director finally made his decision. The first thing that he did after he broke out from Doctor Gao's shackle was to start madly absorb the black fog that was left behind by Patient Number 5. There existed a unique bond between him and Patient Number 5. It appeared like he had already planted his own children into Patient Number 5's body a long time ago and this allowed him to take over everything that was left of Patient Number 5 at an easier rate.

Due to the severe injury to his body, the hospital director was unable to leave the mountain of bodies. This was the only way he could use to continue to feed on the black fog. He had Patient Number 5 consume the things from inside the black fog on his behalf. Patient Number 5 was an individual person but in the hospital director's eyes, he was nothing more than a pawn. The body melted together with the black fog, no trace of humanity was left on the hospital director, he had turned into a veritable monster. Most of the spectres and Red Spectres were infected by curses, there were 3 Top Red Spectres who were heavily injured, even Zhang Ya and the painter were influenced by this. The battle was turned around and to make things worse, Chen Ge had no confidence that they could kill the hospital director after the transformation that he had gone through. The hospital director who had surrendered himself to the black fog radiated a very scary presence. He appeared to be a child of this black fog, standing before him gave one a feeling that one was fighting the entire sea of black fog.

"How does one assimilate into the black fog?" Chen Ge knew how difficult it would be to take down the hospital director. His brain was trying its hardest to figure out the method to kill the hospital director. Doctor Gao, Zhang Ya and the painter stood together, the three Demon Gods stared at the hospital director.

"We cannot give up on our aggression because if we switch to defensive mode, we will only get more and more cornered."

“But how are we supposed to kill him?”

“The weakness of a Demon God is his heart, but the problem is a Demon God can choose to hide his heart away from his body.” Doctor Gao’s eyes swapped between pure red and black and white while he spoke. After he dropped that information, he turned to look at Zhang Ya and Chen Ge. “I have an idea that might help us find the hospital director’s heart, I do not intend to use it initially but now I do not think we have any other choice.”

“What idea is it?”

“I have personally built the ghost stories society from the ground up, every single society member was handpicked for a reason, all of their power can be used against the hospital director.” Doctor Gao spoke very fast. “The member that I valued the most has a pair of twin Red Spectre. Even though the twins are just normal Red Spectres, they have a very unique power—Heart-connectivity. The Demon God has the ability to hide away his heart and heart-connectivity is the solution that I have specially prepared for this occasion. As long as one forces one’s heart to bind with the hospital director’s heart, then one will be able to sense the location of each other’s heart.” Doctor Gao opened both of his arms. “In other words, during that instant, both Demon Gods who had their hearts connected would have the ability to go after the other’s point of weakness and tear them down.”

“But aren’t all the members of the ghost stories society long dead already?” Chen Ge remembered very clearly, of all the members of the ghost stories society, only the two chairmen remained.

“Your wife, Zhang Ya has a talent that I have not encountered before in my life, she can take away the power from other spectres and use them to her own will perfectly. When I fought with her at Li Wan City against the shadow, I noticed she has already mastered the talent of the Red Spectre twin, heart-connectivity. In fact, she even connected her heart with yours so that she could protect you at all times. It was this power that she relied on to be able to awaken from her slumber at the most crucial moment every time to help you.” Doctor Gao admired Chen Ge deeply, he did not wish to become Chen Ge’s enemy, the relationship between them was that simple.

“But if Zhang Ya used this power on the hospital director, doesn’t that mean that the hospital director will know about the location of Zhang Ya’s heart as well?”

“Yes, when a Demon God uses this power, it will be far more effective than when a Red Spectre uses it. Technically both parties will be given a mastery of each other’s pulse of life and thus it will become a contest of speed, who will kill whom first.” The things that Doctor Gao said were heard by Zhang Ya and the painter as well.

“Don’t even think about putting Zhang Ya in harm’s way. I will not allow that to happen.” Chen Ge rejected it firmly. “The red city is approaching, if we drag this out further, the situation might change again.”

“The hospital director is joining himself with the black fog, before the process reaches its completion, now is the only chance we have to kill him. If we wait any longer, he will only hide his heart inside the black fog and that will make it impossible to find.” Doctor Gao only had two obsessions in his life, one was to revive his wife and the second was to kill the hospital director of the cursed hospital. Now that he was only a step away from completing his dream, naturally he was not going to give it up so easily. “You do not really understand the danger that the hospital director poses, he is different from a normal Demon God, if you allow him to slip away, you will be in great danger in the future.” Doctor Gao pointed at himself, “I am the perfect example. The power of curse is the most vicious vow in this world, once you are targeted by him, you will not be able to escape forever, not ever after death.”

Seeing how determined Chen Ge was, Doctor Gao switched up his tact and turned to Zhang Ya instead. He told her directly, "You have fought with the hospital director before, so you should know about the difference of power between him and all of us. When the injuries on the director's body recover, do you still think you can protect the people around you? You have already taken away the talent of heart-connectivity, now it is the time for you to make the choice."

Turning back to glance at Chen Ge, Zhang Ya who was at her limit raised her hand. She stood before Chen Ge and her pale fingers tapped lightly on Chen Ge's chest. "Zhang Ya, there are still other methods!" The slender fingers danced on Chen Ge's skin and a blood red twine that bound them together snapped. In that moment, Chen Ge felt like he had been thrown away from Zhang Ya, even though they were literally standing before each other, it felt like it was impossible for him to reach her no matter how hard he tried. Pulling her hand back, Zhang Ya's eyes stared at the black fog that the hospital director morphed into and then directed the heart string into the fog. At basically the same time, the hospital director who was combining with Chen Ge turned to stare at Chen Ge. The pair of cursed eyes spoke of the intention of kill.

"How come I can sense your beating heart?" the hospital director appeared to understand something right at that moment. He ignored the process of assimilation and directly the endless black fog to press at Chen Ge. Since he could sense the location of Zhang Ya's heart, then Zhang Ya could very well know where his heart was hiding as well. This was the biggest secret of a Demon God, one that must not be exposed under any circumstance. To prevent Zhang Ya from finding his heart, the only solution that he could come up with was to kill Zhang Ya as soon as possible.

"So? Have you found it?" Doctor Gao and the painter stopped the hospital director together but at that moment Chi came to interrupt them. Zhang Ya's bloody dress fluttered in the wind. She stared straightly into the black fog but she still could not locate the hospital director's heart. By then the hospital director had already made Chen Ge into his attack target, she guarded before Chen Ge, staring into the black fog that shrouded the entire sky. The black fog seemed to roll endlessly down the horizon, Zhang Ya could only guess a general director. A shrill shout came out from her mouth as her pale arms suddenly plunged into Chen Ge's shadow!

"Zhang Ya?" The arms pulled and Zhang Ya dragged out a beating heart from deep inside Chen Ge's shadow. She had been hiding her own heart inside Chen Ge's shadow, this was a manifestation of her promise to Chen Ge that she would stay by his side forever. Her five fingers dug into her own heart, the Demon God's heart started to bleed. When Zhang Ya's heart was injured, the hospital director gave off a pained scream as well. The black fog churned. A thick stench of blood drifted out from an unassuming corner inside the cursed hospital. Zhang Ya held her own pierced heart and her eyes were fiery red. Found it!

The hospital director did not place his own heart on his body. After getting the hint from Zhang Ya, Doctor Gao did not hesitate and burst towards that direction at full speed. He had never felt himself being so close to completing his own dream before, the murderous intent that he gave off was so great that it was almost palpable.

The hospital director who was close to binding himself to the black fog had really panicked this time. If his heart was swallowed, then there was truly no saving grace for him. The arm that was burning with the black tattoo pushed away the black fog, Doctor Gao finally spotted the location where the hospital director had hidden his heart. It was at an inconspicuous corner at the lowest floor of the hospital. There was an old and well-used wooden altar that was placed there. There was a doctor's coat and a patient's garb that were placed inside the altar, the heavy smell of blood came from this altar. "This is the hospital director's heart?"

Doctor Gao made the decision in a split second. He unleashed all of his force on the altar. Whether this was the right place or not, he would destroy it first and then study it later. Before Doctor Gao could get any closer to his target, the maddened hospital director controlled the black fog to slam at him. Endless monsters that were hiding inside the black fog were squashed and flattened. The deepest despair morphed into chains and bound around Doctor Gao's body. "Gao Ming, I will not give you the second chance anymore."

After saying that, the altar deep inside the cursed hospital was enveloped by a thick layer of black fog. As the hospital director combined with the black fog, his heart was also slowly disappearing. Be it Red Spectre or Demon God, they had their own hearts. But at this dangerous moment, the hospital director could not dawdle any longer on the details, he needed to dissolve his own heart into the black fog, just like how Chen Ge's kindness had completely assimilated himself into the red city. He had already given up the intention to be human a long time ago, but now he had given up even the right to be a ghost.

"Since I have unable to control the city deep inside the nightmare, then I shall become the demon who spreads curse and despair inside this sea of fog, I will use my own method to correct this sickened world!" The wooden altar cracked under pressure. The speed by which the hospital director was joining with the black fog was getting faster and faster. At that moment, the painter was held back by Chi, Zhang Ya was focused on using the power of heart-connectivity and for that purpose, she had even voluntarily damaged her own heart. The only Demon God among the three who was still mobile was Doctor Gao but the hospital director was stopping him using the entire sea of darkness, it made it impossible for him to even budge a little bit.

"All the Demon Gods have been halted but there is still a chance!" Chen Ge still had not given up. He called after the only spectre who could move freely through the curse, the red high heels. The pair of ghost and man hurried towards the altar. The hospital director thought it was still kindness who was controlling Chen Ge's body so he was extremely apprehensive of him. He split out as much black fog as he could afford to stop Chen Ge. But just as he turned all of his attention onto Chen Ge, the lowest level of the cursed hospital suddenly collapsed!

Deep inside the blood sea, a drop of blood that looked no different from the blood around it suddenly transformed into a man wearing a red coat. He carried a red key in his hand and used the fastest speed to run through the black fog. When they saw the man, both the hospital director and Chen Ge revealed extremely shocked expression and they called out at the same time.

“Number 2?”

“Dad?!”

Without stopping for a moment, the man in the red coat appeared to have been waiting for a long time in the blood sea for this moment for a very very long time already. He had hidden himself away for 10 years, just waiting for this opportunity. The red key in his hand plunged directly into the altar. When it touched the patient's garb and the doctor's coat inside the altar, endless spirits wailed from mercy. Many cursed faces of people and ghosts escaped from inside the altar. The fine blood vessels weaved together with the curse, then the key felt like it had unlocked a lock inside the soul. The patient's garb and doctor's coat inside the altar were shredded into pieces, the altar exploded and the memory fragments hidden by the hospital director were released all at the same time!

“You are a child born inside a mental asylum, your mother is a certified madwoman and your father does not to have anything to do with you.l

“you are a cursed seed, no one will like you.

“What is the point of being a good student? You can't even keep the flowers that you are supposed to keep alive.

“Why do you always come to school so dirty? Do you know teachers dislike children who lie the most?

“It was him who hit my son! Get his parents to come to school! Oh, so he is an orphan, no wonder then.

“Why would you want to study medicine, you won’t be able to save yourself, after all no one will be willing to mentor a madman.

“I heard you like her? I am so sorry but she is my girlfriend now.

“Why do you always have so many questions? There are things in this world that are not meant to be answered, it is time to grow up.

“We have gone through your resume, even though your result is one of the best but we value both personality and academic prowess and in our case, we value former than the latter.

“I am sorry but I will have to ask you to leave, you have no qualification to become a doctor.

“Why don’t you go and treat your own illness first, you monster!”

The warmth and chill of the human world, the pictures from memory shattered in the air. The child in the memory slowly grew up into an adult, time left its stamp on him and the seed of the curse germinated in his heart. He became more and more secluded from the world and more and more people around him referred to him as a monster. Finally one day, his heart was completely taken over by the roots of the curse, at that moment, he had transformed into a real monster. He had hidden away all of his real thought and would stop at nothing to reach his own goal.

He had turned into a real monster but even after that, he still felt isolated from the world. In fact, the people around him stopped calling him a monster anymore. It was right at that moment that he understood something, he was not the one who was the monster in the first place, it was the world who was sick, it was the world who was inhabited by monsters. He needed to work harder, to act more like a normal person than a normal person. He obtained a career, trust, love and family. He had gained everything but in its place, he had lost his most normal self.

Tragedy was still happening but no one suspected he had anything to do with the tragedies. He thought he knew about the truth of the world, until the birth of his first son.

Chapter 1204 - A Song (2in1)

Chapter 1204: A Song (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The arrival of the child turned the hospital director's world contradictory. His life goal was the exploration of questions related to death but he rarely spent his life on the pondering of life. No matter where a person went, he would be heading towards death, therefore, before this the hospital director had always believed that by studying the length of death, he would eventually get to the bottom of the truth about life. His unique childhood experience turned him into a monster, curse had already inhabited every inch of his body, binding around his nerves and swimming in his blood vessels. But when a man like that was faced with his own child, the heart that was ugly and filled with scars started to beat rapidly.

...

Whenever he saw his own child, there would be two voices inside his head. One of them would be telling him the child was a present given to him by death but the other voice would be saying, the child was the extension of his life. The hospital director could not convince himself and the sound of argument in his head grew louder and louder, so loud in fact that it had seriously impacted his disguise. After tasting the sweetness that came from his own disguise, the hospital director refused to be treated as a monster anymore. He tried his best to hide his own symptoms but that only made him turn even more conflicted and divided within himself.

He could not mediate it within himself, it had expanded beyond the question related to his own child. No matter what he was thinking, there started to be opposing thoughts in his mind. Take for example on the issue of how to treat himself, one voice was telling him that he should take the treatment by admitting that he was sick, he was the monster that people had been saying that he was. The other voice though goaded him to murder his own child, to solve the problem from its core.

The hospital director's action became stranger and stranger. In the morning, he wore the doctor's coat helping the patients with their pain and despair but at night, after he returned home, he would put on the patient's garb and locked himself up in his room to consult his own reflection in the mirror. Slow but surely his wife noticed the anomalies around him and it was then that the most contradictory moment showed itself before the hospital director.

The voice that represented humanity in his mind told him that the best solution to this problem was to admit his problem to this family, admit that he was sick and cooperated fully with the doctors but doing that would mean sacrificing the current family that he had. He knew his wife very well, he knew his wife loved the version of himself who was the handsome, professional doctor who had a bright future and who was famous within the industry. Once he gave the admission that he was sick, then he might lose both his career and his family.

The other voice in the hospital director's head kept tempting him, telling him to ignore the opinion of those monsters. After all this was a sickened world, he only needed to continue to put on the disguise like he used it. If humanity made him feel confusion and pain, then the only solution was to squash the last trace of humanity within him. If he wanted to be a human, then he might lose everything that he had in his possession so far. But if he continued to be a monster, he would continue to enjoy his current bliss and happiness.

The hospital director did not come to any quick decision. His soul was a battlefield of contradiction, until one day, the seed of the curse rooted and grew, it bloomed into a black-colored flower in his heart. That night, he had a dream. In the dream, he was wearing a patient's garb lying in bed and there was a version of himself wearing a doctor's coat standing before the mirror inside the bedroom. They had the same face but one was the patient and the other the doctor.

The hospital director who wore the patient's garb represented the last remaining humanity and rationality in the man, while the hospital director in front of the mirror had already been fully consumed by curse and negative emotions. Kindness and sin had nothing to do with strength and weakness. In the dream, the patient that represented humanity was being treated by the doctor who was filled with curse and malice. The most tragic thing was as the humanity was slowly being 'treated', the malice slowly took over the rest of the hospital director's body. The hospital director kept repeating the same recurring dream. His schizophrenic symptoms became more serious, slowly his soul was also torn into two.

The hospital director started to have trouble differentiating between dream and reality. He had no idea whether he was lying in bed next to his wife or whether he was lying down in his dream. In any case, no matter the situation, he would always see the other version of himself in the doctor's coat, wreathed in malice. Gradually he started to suspect, whether another version of himself had also started to appear in real life?

From his consciousness to his soul and body, the hospital director realized that he seemed to have split into two persons. Both of these persons were him, but they were the complete opposite of each other. One was evil and the other was kindness; one had committed many unforgivable sins, the other kept punishing himself due to the guilt from the actions that he had done; one was filled with despair, convinced that he was the God of this sickened world, while the other just wanted to be a simple human, desperate for the simple bliss.

The hospital director in the doctor's coat who represented the curse trapped the hospital director in the patient's garb inside the nightmare. He did not demolish his own humanity but instead chose to completely isolate it from the rest of the world. The hospital director who only had negative emotions and evil intention left in his heart turned fully into a monster with the skin of a human being. The evil spirit in his body stopped behind held back by shackles of morality, the cursed flowers blossomed in his heart and gave off the mist of black fog. The hospital director in the doctor's coat had no idea what the black fog represented, it was the first time he had encountered the black fog that was so filled with despair and death in real life. Without the bondage of humanity, the action of the hospital director in the daylight became completely flawless, he was a demon who was in the perfect human disguise.

He was made up from evil and curse but he shrouded himself in a disguise of humanity and rationality. The patients who did not realize the truth thought he was a kind doctor, his colleagues saw him as the perfect superior, and his wife believed he was the perfect husband. The hospital director in the doctor's coat would only shed his disguise before his new-born child. The arrival of the new life was the base reason that caused the split in the hospital director, so the hospital director who was constructed from curse was filled with curiosity with regards to this child as well. He started to conduct 'treatment' and 'experiment' on his own child, his own flesh and blood became his first actual patient in the true sense of the word.

In his endless trials, the hospital director discovered the existence of the black fog. This black fog was born deep inside the nightmare and it spread using the medium of human heart. Its basic essence was the memories that human being most reluctant to face, it was made up from forgotten pain and despair. The discovery of the black fog made the hospital director over the moon, he felt for the first time he had come into contact with the actual world. He originally thought that this was the unique power given to him by the cursed seed, only he could see the black fog and he was supposed to bridge the black fog into the real world. But in his later experiment, when he placed his own child in the black fog, the life that was as pure as a sheet of white paper started to crumple and pollute under the invasion of the black fog. The cursed seed was also sewn in the heart of the newborn and it started to spread the black fog on its own.

It was then that the hospital director slowly realized everyone had some amount of black fog in their own heart. As long as the method was correct, everyone could become the bridge to spread the black fog into the world. The hospital director in the doctor's coat started to collect the black fog in the dark. He enjoyed the process of spreading the tragedy and despair while at the same time, enjoy the admiration from being hailed as the people's saviour. It was the man who incited the pain, it was also the man who provided the salvation, and it was also the same man who ultimately sent his patients down the road of no return. This kind of lifestyle proceeded for a very long time, until his child slowly grew up and turned into a deformed monster. The child who did not know the necessity of disguise almost exposed the hospital director's secret. To ensure his own survivability in the darkness, the hospital director personally ended the life of his own child but before killing his own child, he sent his child's consciousness deep inside the black fog in his heart.

There was a problem that had been of interest to the hospital director, what was the source of the black fog?

Using the monsters that he personally cultivated, the hospital director saw a sea of black fog at the deepest part of his nightmare. All the despair in the world was collected here. They were forgotten by human beings but they would never disappear. The sea of fog was filled with monsters that would only appear in one's nightmare. Other than that, there were plenty of lost souls. The hospital director's interest in this world continued to grow, he believed this was his place of birth, after all he was the physical manifestation of despair.

He was no longer satisfied with using his child's consciousness to enter the sea of fog and so he started to use different patients and enter the sea of fog through the bridge in the bottom of their hearts. After about a year, he ran into a patient from Jiujiang.

The young man named Chen Xiao was in a deep coma because he tried to save someone from a car accident. The man who was saved by Chen Xiao had the surname Luo, he came from a family of merchants. To save Chen Xiao, he spent a lot of money to hire the best doctors in the country and among the group of doctors, there was the hospital director. The hospital director in the doctor's coat attempted to enter the black fog through Chen Xiao's heart but after he succeeded, he was shocked to realize that the patient was standing at the edge of the world of the black fog. One of his side was covered in black fog heavy in despair while the other side was a city built from blood and flesh.

If the black fog was the amalgamation of pure despair and pain, then the red city was the only hope that should not be called as hope that existed in the world of the black fog. When a piece of despairing memory was forgotten, the despair and pain among it would morph into black fog while the last remaining shred of desire and struggle would slip into the red city. The black fog was filled with ghastly and scary monsters while the red city was populated by wounded individuals.

The hospital director saw the uniqueness of this patient, he believed he must be hiding some kind of secret. He searched out Chen Xia. After conducting multiple experiments, he realized only his own consciousness could leave the world successfully, he could not bring Chen Xiao with him. After giving it much contemplation, the hospital director in the doctor's coat believed perhaps the reason of this was due to the existence of the hospital director in the patient's garb. He was the first person who had the contradictory consciousness in his mind. The hospital director in the doctor's coat walked around the edge of the red city but the other hospital director was trapped somewhere else, there was still an unbreakable bond between them.

The hospital director in the doctor's coat shared his own treatment method with Chen Xiao. To split out the opposing spirit, Chen Xiao went through a torment that was beyond the imagination of the human consciousness in the red city and black fog. Ultimately the consciousness of the young man was split apart, the side who still had the humanity remained was called Chen Xiao, the other side who was bound by the red city and filled with negative emotion was named as Chen Xiang.

The moment the personalities were split, the hospital director in the doctor's coat dragged Chen Xiao out of the red city, while the savage and brutal Chen Xiang who could never be controlled was left behind in the red city. When they returned to the real world, the hospital director started to gain an enormous interest in Chen Xiao, he wanted to know why Chen Xiao's heart would be connected to the edge of the red city. He observed the man in the dark and recorded everything.

No one knew that he was a demon in the disguise of a human.

Several years later, the child of Chen Xiao was born. The child possessed a pair of blood red eyes. It appeared as if he could see right through into people's heart and he could see many things that a normal adult could not. Other children would be crying but this boy would always be smiling, as if there was nothing in the world who would be able to make him sad. Chen Xiao knew why his child was so different from the others. To escape from the red city, he had paid too hefty of a price and it included having the negative emotions shatter his body again and again and experiencing the despair that the human world could never imagine.

Looking at the newborn in his embrace, studying the pure and innocent smile on his face, Chen Xiao gave his own boy a name that carried with it a very unique meaning—Chen Ge [Song]. The world kissed me with pain but I shall repay it with a song.

As he grew up, more and more anomalies appeared around Chen Ge. He would enter the world of the black fog in his sleep but he would promptly return to the real world when he awakened. He met different kind of people and seen many different types of ghost. Perhaps it was his bloodline or perhaps it was because of his father, even if Chen Ge's consciousness was not split, he could walk through the red city, black fog and the real world freely and this was all captured within the hospital director's eyes.

The hospital director in the doctor's coat had a special patient's list, he had listed Chen Ge as Patient Number 2, Chen Xiang trapped in the red city as Patient Number 2 and Chen Xiao in real life as Patient Number 3. He had been in disguise for decades but he still had not been exposed. This fed into the hospital director's ambition, he wanted to cure this sickened world from its core. He started to interact with Chen Ge behind his parent's knowledge. He wanted to use Chen Ge's power to bring the despair and pain people had forgotten back into the human world. As the cursed seed, he had complete faith that the world of the black fog was the true world and the real world was merely a sick disguise.

The hospital director approached Chen Ge carefully. He used the experience that he had garnered through the decades to help Chen Ge open a blood door in the red city. The door connected the red city and real life. Even though it only lasted for a short period of time but it had already given the hospital director enough hospital. He kept having encounter with Chen Ge in the red city and the black fog, in the end, he triggered the alarm from Chen Xiao. But to complete his own plan, the hospital director did not mind such detail. In fact a crazy thought had appeared in his mind, he wanted to split Chen Ge's consciousness into kindness and evil. He would leave kindness with Chen Xiao but he would take the evil away with him.

To create this contradictory consciousness, he started to madly torment Chen Ge in the world of black fog but he still could not succeed. All he had to show for it was the pursuit from both Chen Xiao and Chen Xiang. Seeing as his plan was being exposed, he decided to bring all the monsters that he had created to Jiujiang and kidnapped Chen Ge.

The hospital director would stop at nothing to bring out Chen Ge's consciousness. He murdered Chen Ge again and again but even so he still failed. No matter what he did to Chen Ge's consciousness, he could not tear apart or even kill Chen Ge's consciousness. Whenever the dawn came, Chen Ge's consciousness would eventually return. Chen Ge's consciousness could not be split so the hospital director had to come at this from a different angle. He was originally an expert at toying with people's heart, combined with his decades of exploration in the black fog, he knew that place better than anyone else.

With a careful planning, the hospital director instigated the black fog and it churned and boiled into a scary tsunami. To save the wounded and forgotten memories in the red city, Chen Ge chose to combine himself with the red city and try to influence it. The tsunami swept through the city, the forgotten memories were not washed away but Chen Ge's consciousness could no longer leave the red city anymore. The hospital director stole away with parts of Chen Ge's flesh and organ while the remaining parts were taken away by Chen Xiang...

Inside the cursed hospital, the memories that filled the sky were shattered in that moment, the hospital director's past started to fade away. Holding the red key, the man in red fixed his death stare at the hospital director in the black fog. He plunged the key as hard as he could into the altar. Black blood that reeked kept leaking out from inside the altar.

Chapter 1205 - It's Over

Chapter 1205: It's Over

Translator: Lonelytree

Chen Xiang's icy gaze pierced through the black fog, he looked at the monsters who was slowly combining with the sea of fog. Black patterns gradually appeared all over his body. The patterns weaved into arms on Chen Xiang's body, Chen Xiang's power seemed to originate from the souls who had been tortured and killed by the hospital director. The endless hands reached out to hold the key. With deep hatred inside them, they pushed the key deep into the altar.

...

Bloody gashes appeared in the black fog, then a horrible-smelling rain of blood rained down from the sky. The hospital director used his power, dragged the black sky and charged at Chen Xiang without regard for his own safety. Doctor Gao, Zhang Ya and the painter moved to stop him at the same time. With regards to Chi, the Demon God had slipped away from the hospital the moment Chen Xiang showed up.

Four Demon Gods attacked the altar at the same time, demolishing all of the hospital director's past memory. When the last shred of malicious memory was grounded into nothingness, the old altar shattered, exposing an old black and white photo. Inside the photo, there was a woman in patient's garb, there was a doctor in white coat standing behind her. This would appear to be the hospital director's parents. The four Demon Gods focused their attack on the photo. The old photo started to surface with black blood, morphing into a heart that was punctured and scarred. The hospital director had planted his heart inside this photo, this was also his biggest secret.

1

The key, black hair, chains pierced through the ugly heart. The fusing of the hospital director and the black fog stopped. His figure was slowly made clear among the black fog. Blood rain was pouring, the hospital director's body was fading. The disappearance was irrevocable, no matter how many curse or negative emotion he tried to consume, he could not stop the disintegration. Screams and wails echoed above the cursed hospital, the hospital director lowered his head to look at his own chest. There was an empty spot there, and flesh and blood kept falling off.

Being surrounded by 4 Demon Gods, the hospital director never anticipated this day would come. Like a madman, he tried to repair his body but it was futile. Be it the curse or despair, none of the negative emotion was enough to fill up the emptiness in his heart. Looking around, the mountain of bodies was now a mess of guts, the broken bodies of Patient 5 littered the area and Chi had slipped away without notice. The whole cursed hospital was cleared of patients and doctors, in the end, the hospital director was the only one left. The demon that spread despair finally had the taste of despair.

There were no dying words, there was no final interaction, the few Demon Gods did not even give the hospital director the chance to take a breath. As if in tandem, the four Demon Gods attacked the hospital director from 4 sides. Losing his heart, his body failing him, his power slipping away, the endless curse that made up the hospital director's body started to consume its host. All of the souls he had trapped, all of the spirits he had tormented, they had found the chance to take their revenge, they bit at him crazily. The hospital director's white coat was torn apart, exposing the bloody patient's garb inside. He tried his best to resist but the ending had already been written for the man with the broken heart. The 4 Demon Gods did not waste time with him. This was a battle of life and death, they won't stop until the enemy was vanquished.

His body turned immaterial and blood leaked away from his body. The cursed flowers on the hospital director's body also started to wither. "Looks like I have lost, but no matter as long as there are still despair and pain in this world, the black fog will be going nowhere and the curse will continue to spread in another form." While he could still control his body, the hospital director glanced at Chen Ge. "How come even though we are both evil spirits, you can come to have everything?" The hospital director's body grew in size, "I should have killed you 20 years ago when I had the chance."

Carrying his last curse and malice, the hospital director's consciousness faded away but not before he imploded his own body. The curse that was trapped inside his body was all released at the same time. They started to escape in all directions, there was no rhyme or rhythm to their action. No one knew how many evil spirits the hospital director had trapped both inside and outside the door. Before his consciousness disappeared, the malice inside the hospital director's body exploded.

"Stop the evil spirits and curse! He still wants to make use of the black fog!" Chen Xiang had seen this 20 years ago. The other 3 Demon Gods immediately responded to his call. Chen Xiang though walked towards the altar that had the hospital director's heart inside it. He studied the old altar, he tried to place his own heart inside the altar to stop the rampaging souls, but perhaps he was himself an evil spirit, the effect was not positive. These evil spirits had carried with them the remaining power of the hospital director, they were very hard to deal with.

"The hospital director's heart represents chaos, tragedy and curse, only a heart completely opposite to that can stop the spirits." Chen Xiang's eyes swept the humans and spectres around him. They were cruel and savage, none of them fitted his requirement.

"Let me do it." Chen Ge walked to stand beside Chen Xiang, "I have a family, he has a heart that is meant for protection."

"A family?" Chen Xiang regarded Chen Ge for a long time before he nodded. Standing before the altar, Chen Ge closed his eyes. He communicated with the heart Xu Yin left inside his mind and then placed Xu Yin's heart inside the altar. Xu Yin's heart appeared because he wanted to protect others, that was extremely rare among Red Spectre, in fact one could say that was completely in contradiction to the essence of a Red Spectre. When Xu Yin's heart appeared inside the altar, the evil spirits started to weaken.

Doctor Gao, Zhang Ya and the painter used this opportunity to round up the spirits and gather them around the altar. These evil spirits possessed a large amount of curse and negative emotion but at the same time, they carried the dangerous power of the hospital director. Being surrounded by so many evil spirits was something extremely painful, but it placed no impact on Xu Yin's heart, he had gotten used to pain a long time ago. The 4 Demon Gods lent their aid. Xu Yin's heart started to beat. As he suppressed the evil spirits, he was also absorbing the hospital director's remaining power.

As one after another blood vessels extended outwards, a handsome young man appeared inside the altar. Being given a second chance at life, he waded out from the deepest abyss of the blood sea. When he opened his eyes again, he saw Chen Ge standing before him. The melancholy in his eyes had disappeared. He grabbed Chen Ge's hands that were extended towards him. Wearing the red shirt that was painted with endless evil spirits, he stood up from the broken altar. The old god had died, and the person who was reborn from the altar was Xu Yin.

All the curse and spirits had been suppressed. The red city also spread to the cursed hospital's vicinity. The broken cursed hospital was bound by blood vessels. It was slowly dragged into the red city, being assimilated into it. The last trace of the hospital director had been fully wiped out. Crossing life and death, two cities, the history that spanned centuries finally reached its end. The blood chased away the black fog. The red city had consumed the cursed hospital so Chen Ge's group was currently inside the territory of the blood city.

"It's over." Standing on its ruin, the Red Spectres gathered around Chen Ge. When Chen Ge chose to sacrifice himself to help them find their memory, they had already decided to stay by Chen Ge's side forever. Because they had already experienced death once, so sometimes spectres and ghosts knew how to appreciate the things that they had more than living humans. Zhang Ya, Xu Yin and the painter walked to Chen Ge's side. The red color lit up the sky behind the door.

Doctor Gao looked at the ruined altar silently, who knew what was on his mind. Chen Xiang though kept his eyes on Chen Ge. His cold and emotionless eyes slowly softened. "How did you manage to accomplish all these? Kindness has taken away everything, you are supposed to be nothing but a normal human."

"I have never considered what should I do and winning or losing could never be further from my mind, I just felt compelled to keep pushing myself forward and it has led me to this place." After knowing all the truth, the fragmented memories in Chen Ge's mind slowly pieced together.

Chapter 1206 - Special Number

Chapter 1206: Special Number

Translator: Lonelytree

Everyone left their evil behind the door, only Chen Ge was an exception. Stepping on the ruin of the cursed city, Chen Ge turned to look deep into the red city, he was reminded of his promise to Kindness. “Until now I still don’t quite understand whether it was me who have saved him or it was him who has completed me.”

...

Many baleful spectres and Red Spectres guarded around Chen Ge. Zhang Ya’s black hair surged, they placed Chen Ge’s parents who were in coma in the middle of the crowd of ‘people’. After the hospital director was vanquished, the blood vessels on Chen Ge’s parents also disappeared but they had not awakened.

“Don’t worry, they are more tough than you think. Their souls are heavily injured but give them some time, they will slowly recover.” Chen Xiang did not even glance at Chen Xiao and his wife, his eyes stayed on Chen Ge.

“But their souls are heavily injured, how can I not worry?” Chen Ge who showed no fear of anything except perhaps Zhang Ya, did not dare to face Chen Xiang’s eyes. It was probably because he was not used to facing a ‘father’ in red clothes and radiating powerful oppressive energy.

“if you really want to, you can bring them deep inside the red city, there is a person there who has the power to cure soul.”

“Okay, but before I do that, I still need to search for some things.” Chen Ge had the red high heels remove the curse from his employees and try her best to save them. And then he ordered the employees who were the least injured to start canvassing the cursed hospital. The cursed hospital originally had 7 floors aboveground and 18 floors below ground, but now it was nothing more than a ruin. When the employees went off to search the cursed hospital for the last time, Chen Ge took out the black phone that he had kept close to him. The screen was shattered and it could not be switched on anymore. Chen Ge had no idea what the hospital director had done to the phone when he was unconscious. But from the state of the phone, he predicted that the hospital director had gleaned nothing useful from it. In other words, it appeared like the phone could only be used by Chen Ge and no one else.

“It still cannot be switched on.” Chen Ge frowned. Chen Xiang walked over. He glanced at the black phone in Chen Ge’s palm and said in surprise, “This should be Chen Xiao’s phone, you have been keeping it with you?”

“Yes, when he disappeared, he left this phone with me.”

“Well, that is so irresponsible and typical of him.” Chen Xiang stopped before Chen Ge. The red city Demon God had a gentle smile on his face and something akin to pride crossed his eyes.

“You know something related to this phone?” Chen Ge gave the phone a few swings. He tried it multiple times but it still would not switch on.

“The phone is just a normal phone but there is a very special number stored inside it.” Chen Xiang explained patiently. “When you were small, you could already see into the world of the black fog, see into the evil and desire deep inside people’s heart. You can even travel through dreams freely. Sometimes you would go to bed at night but wake up near a murder scene the next morning. After this has happened for a few times, Chen Xiao bought you an old-fashioned secondhand phone so that you could contact your family whenever you want. He stored your phone number inside his phone so whenever you disappeared, he would call the number madly until one day the number could never be connected anymore.”

“All that because of a phone number?”

“Instead of calling it a mere number, it is more like Kindness’ connection to home.” Chen Xiang sighed. “If you have anymore questions, perhaps that person in the red city might be able to answer you.” The man appeared to have not said so many words in a long time already. His eyes were slowly overtaken by redness. “Who would have thought the bumbling boy from back then will accomplish so much, you have really grown up, huh.”

His body slowly faded. Chen Xiang did not seem like he wanted to meet Chen Xiao. After telling Chen Ge the way to head into the red city, he disappeared around the corner.

“There is no separation between kindness and evil in this world. Kindness can be corrupted and evil can choose salvation and embrace hope, the choice is always there.” Chen Ge had no idea what transpired between the kindness and evil of his father’s consciousness. He had a feeling the key of the argument was him but as the hospital director passed away, Chen Ge felt like his father’s evil spirit had learnt to put down the past as well. Everything was over, and everything was welcoming a new beginning.

Half an hour later, a big white cat bounded around the ruin while dragging along a backpack. It seemed to be asking for praise. The result was the prop from inside the bag littered everywhere while several helpless employees trailed behind it.

“you have done a great job this time.” Chen Ge picked up the backpack and inspected the content inside it. After the white cat was praised by Chen Ge, it appeared to need more. It silently sidled up to Zhang Ya and tried to brush up against her. After the hospital director died, Zhang Ya found the bloody entries inside her diary. She did not lose her memory so she remembered clearly what happened after Chen Ge fainted. White Tiger had accomplished the impossible this time, Zhang Ya brushed its head gently with her black hair. It was just a simple action but it had given the white cat great confidence. It followed behind Zhang Ya, riding on her coattail. Before this, it would always scamper away when it ran into a Red Spectre but now it would actively taunt them. When it passed Men Nan, it purposely wagged its tail as if exemplifying his meteoric rise in standing.

“Qie, do you really think I will take offense from a cat?” Men Nan pouted. After a moment’s hesitation, he mimicked the white cat and ran to Zhang Ya’s side but before he could put on his act, he was flung away by the black hair. He climbed up rather awkwardly from the ground. Men Nan patted his shirt, he was about to say something to save his embarrassment when he suddenly saw the red high heels who stood before him. A rather unpleasant memory surfaced in his mind. Perhaps afraid that Men Nan would break into tears, Ol’ Zhou found an excuse and dragged the boy away.

“Boss, here is your wedding ring.” Xiao Sun in the white coat ran over to join Chen Ge. He stole a glance at Zhang Ya and silently slipped the ring back to Chen Ge.

“Xiao Sun, if not for you this time, I would not be able to escape from the hospital, you have personally changed the ending of the battle.” Chen Ge put the ring away. He looked at Xiao Sun silently. The scars on Xiao Sun’s face and neck were carved into his soul, they were impossible to remove. These were signs of the torment Xiao Sun had suffered at the curse hospital.

“I have not done anything really, mostly I was just following the guidance given to me by the kindness inside the glass jars.”

“Don’t be humble, you have done something many people could not.” Chen Ge looked at Xiao Sun who clearly had something on his mind. He patted the young man’s shoulder. “Come on, out with it.”

“Boss, actually I already found out the hospital director was a cursed seed not long after I joined the hospital.” Xiao Sun glanced at the broken bodies around them. “I am also a cursed seed. The hospital director was priming me to become his successor, I am really afraid that I will one day become someone like him.”

“The cursed seed will not predestine one’s path. Many people called me the extreme evil but in reality, I have helped endless people at Jiujiang and saved many lost souls and spectres.” Chen Ge took out the hammer from his backpack. He waved it around casually, the heft felt good in his grasp. “How a person turns out is related to his innate personality but also the environment that he is in.”

“But I am still a cursed seed, similar to the hospital director.”

“Perhaps others might see you as that but you have saved me and all the employees at the Haunted House so for us, you are a hero.” Chen Ge looked at Sun Xiaojun in the doctor’s coat. “In the future, I am sure you will continue to bring salvation to more people. Who knows perhaps you will really become a doctor who will bring light to the world.”

Chapter 1207 - City of Nightmare (2in1)

Chapter 1207: City of Nightmare (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

Perhaps the hospital director had created too deep an impact on Sun Xiaojun, a very strong self-doubt appeared in the young man's heart.

...

"Do not think too much of it. It does not matter whether you are a Cursed Seed or a Seed of Hope, the fact is you have saved everyone here." Chen Ge extended his finger to point down the distance. A woman in red raincoat was standing next to a little boy in a blue raincoat. This was a reunion that had been delayed for a long time so everyone was clever enough to not go and disturb the pair of mother and son.

"If not for you, the red raincoat probably would never see her own son again. You have brought many happiness to the people around you and that is more than enough." Chen Ge kept trying to open Xiao Sun's mind, to help him see the good that he had done.

"I think I get it now." Sun Xiaojun nodded his head. "Boss, can I ask a favor from you?"

"Of course."

"I do not think I will go back to the Haunted House with you, I wish to rebuild a hospital that can really treat pain and despair over this ruin.” A smile appeared on Xiao Sun’s face. “I am a cursed seed who will bring misfortune and tragedy, that is the unavoidable truth, but I will use my own method to prove that the cursed seed can not only bring happiness to myself, it can only help others regain their bliss in life.”

“Then, it would appear like I need to refer to you as Hospital Director Sun in the future.” When he was at the cursed hospital, Xiao Sun had seen tremendous growth. Chen Ge was no longer that worried about him. After handing the ruin of the cursed hospital over to Xian Sun, Chen Ge wandered about the area carrying his backpack. The red high heels who had treated most of the employees stood blankly at a fixed spot. Following her line of sight, there was a heavily battered surgical table before her. Chen Ge could still remember rather fuzzily there was a bloody heart mission related to the red high heels in the black phone, the mission requested Chen Ge to go to a surgical room at the cursed hospital. However, the phone could not be switched on normally now and the surgical room was probably buried alongside the rest of the cursed hospital.

“What are you looking at?” Carrying the backpack, Chen Ge walked to the red high heels’ side. The red high heels shook her head, there was a trace of lost in her blood red eyes. After the hospital director had been vanquished, Xu Yin inherited most of the power left behind by the hospital director while the strange and curious curses inside the cursed hospital was all absorbed by the red high heels. After she had fully digested those curses, she would definitely become the new Demon God wielding curses.

“There are so many ugly things in the world but there are many beautiful things as well. How about you stay at the Haunted House with the rest of you, we will go and explore every beautiful thing the world has to offer together.” Chen Ge had found out about the red high heels’ real name in his nightmare so there did not seem to be any purpose left to do the bloody heart mission in the black phone anymore. The real name was the only weakness for a spectre who specialized in curses. Since the red high heels was willing for Chen Ge to find out her real name, then it proved that Chen Ge had become a person that she trusted with literally her life. Even a living person would have trouble finding a person they could trust fully in the world, much less so for spectres who had experienced tons of torment and despair, it was truly impossible for them to meet someone that could trust implicitly.

After a moment of hesitation, the red high heels nodded lightly. She waved her arms and several cursed threads surged into the ruin. They located a patient's list under the surgical table. The patient's list had her previous picture and her life story. The cursed threads tore the patient's list into pieces, the red high heels had bidden farewell to the hatred and pain from her past.

After dealing with everything at the cursed hospital, Chen Ge and his employees brought Chen Ge's unconscious parents deep into the red city. Before Chen Xiang left, he had given Chen Ge a precise director to follow. That and the guardianship from several Demon Gods, the group did not run into any danger along the way. They walked past one after another street painted red, one after another building that was stained with blood. Among the thick blood fog, they arrived at the centre of the red city. Seeing the building that was situated at the centre of the red city, everyone stopped moving.

There was a bloody apartment that was 30 stories high near the centre of the red city. Every floor was crawling with blood vessels, giving tenancy to the scariest spectres; the scale of the apartment was not smaller than the abandoned red hospital behind the cursed hospital's door, it was filled with pulsing veins and blood; there was also a black church that was constructed purely from broken limbs, it gave off a very strong ominous air. There was even a half dead Demon God who was pinned at the top of the building. Every single building near the centre of the red city gave off an imposing presence, but the building right at the centre of the red city appeared so unassuming.

Touching the familiar gates, Chen Ge's feeling was complicated. Right at the most centre of the red city, there was an old Haunted House, this Haunted House was a complete replica of the Haunted House situated at Jiujiang New Century Park. "Who would have thought this would be the building at the deepest part of the red city."

Chen Ge pulled open the gates and raised the heavy curtains that normally blocked out the sunlight. Everything here was incredibly familiar. He even had a sense of illusion that he had already returned to real life. "Is anyone home?" With the accompaniment of several Demon Gods, Chen Ge entered the Haunted House. He strode down the corridor and pushed open any door that he encountered but he did not come into contact with any other soul, this place appeared to be abandoned.

"When Kindness disappeared, he said there will be someone waiting for me at the deepest part of the red city, Chen Xiang also told me to come to the deepest part of the red city to look for someone. The fact is I am already here but how come this place is so empty?" After giving it some thought, Chen Ge was suddenly reminded of something. He rushed into the toilet at the first floor of the Haunted House and he saw the bloody cubicle door that was painted with the picture of the demon. There were many blood doors that he had encountered along the way but there were only a handful that was painted with the demon. In that moment, many thoughts crossed Chen Ge's mind.

"I have been waiting for a long time for you." A child's voice came from the mirror inside the toilet. Chen Ge whipped his head around, his eyes fixed on the mirror. He could not stop his own body from moving forward. His hands grabbed the edge of the sink. Just like when he was doing his first Nightmare Mission, Chen Ge stood right before the mirror. "You are my Kindness?"

The child in the mirror had a warm smile on his face. He shook his head lightly. "I used to be your Kindness but now I am the consciousness of this red city."

"I have seen in the cursed hospital's memory that you have chosen to join yourself with the red city to save the spectres and spirits in the black tsunami so in essence, you are still my Kindness." For some unknown reason, Chen Ge did not wish to budge on this issue. The child in the mirror did not argue with Chen Ge, he kept a smile that shone from his heart on his face.

“Can’t you come out from the mirror? I wish to see what pure kindness look like because that is the direction that I hope to model myself after in the future. At least on the surface, I wish for everyone to think that I am a kind person.” Dragging Doctor Skull-breaker’s hammer in one hand, Chen Ge uttered the thought in his heart. “People keep misunderstanding me due to my straightforwardness.” He looked at the child inside the mirror, it felt like he was conversing with another version of himself, there was no need for any secret or tricks.

“I have no corporeal body, I am just a slip of consciousness. I can only show up via possession of something inside the red city and I can never leave the red city.” The child was living deep inside the red city but his voice was particularly gentle and soft, it was comfortable chatting with you.

“After paying such a huge price, you should have gained corresponding enormous power in return as well.” Chen Ge winked, the child in the mirror understood what Chen Ge was hinting at immediately.

“As the consciousness of the red city, I can control all the door that is situated here and I can help the red city expand. In fact I can slowly overlap the red city with the real world.”

“Overlap the red city with the real world?” Chen Ge was shocked. If that was the case, then the importance of the red city’s consciousness was more than he ever realized. Just think about it, if the hospital director’s plan had succeeded, he would be able to control the red city through Chen Ge’s Kindness and that would definitely be a veritable tragedy.

“You have seen a door that has lost control before, right? When something happens to the door pusher and I was not there to close the door in time, the large amount of negative emotion collected inside the red city will creep out from that door and slowly transform the reality around it.” The child looked in Chen Ge’s eyes and explained softly

“Since the appearance of a door can cause the reality to collapse, then why would you still go and open so many doors? You have connected the real world to the red city, the large amount of negative emotion here could have poured back into the real world again.” Chen Ge was confused. Kindness had a heart of pure kindness, he would not have taken such a big risk.

“Then who do you think is the one who created the despair inside the red city and the sea of black fog?” The child in the mirror tossed a question back to Chen Ge.

“The people in real life?”

“Correct, actually there is a well deep inside every single person’s heart that is connected to the sea of black fog. Pain, despair and negative emotions as well as painful memory will rush into the black fog through this well. No one knew exactly where the sea of black fog it, perhaps it originates from a place that none of us can see, perhaps it is hidden at the deepest part of nightmare, or perhaps it is hidden inside every single human’s heart. But no matter where it is, there is one thing that is undeniable. The black fog is spreading at every single moment.” The child in the mirror’s tone turned serious. “If one day, the sea of black fog has expanded to its limit and cannot support human’s despair anymore, what do you think will happen?”

“it will overflow? The despair will pour out from the well deep inside everyone’s heart?”

“Indeed, perhaps for now the sea of black fog has not reached its limit yet, but if no one is there to control it, the day will soon arrive.”

“Every human’s despair and forgotten painful memory will enter the black fog, and that created the sea of it, then what about the red city? What is the reason behind its existence?” Chen Ge initially thought the red city was the scariest existence but now he finally understood even the red city was just a small part of the sea of black fog.

“The reason humans are humans is because even in the deepest despair, they will retain the last shred of hope. The black fog is a pure manifestation of despair and pain, it represents death and emptiness, the red city though is the last shred of hope in human nature, the heart that yearns for salvation constructed this city of blood and isolates it from the black sea. As the sea of fog continues to expand so will the red city, but normally speaking the speed of expansion of the red city will be much slower than the speed of the black sea and there is where I come in.” The child in the mirror explained patiently to Chen Ge.

“You wish to use the red city to destroy the sea of black fog?”

“As long as people still have despair in their heart, the sea of black fog can never be destroyed. What I wish to do instead is to draw the most despairing soul in the real world into the red city and use their power to strengthen the red city and at the same time, prevent them from being taken by the black fog.” The child in the mirror looked out the window. “Every single blood door in the red city represents the most despairing soul. The red city has grown several times in size over the years are all thanks to these souls.”

The existence of the door was to transport the most despairing soul into the red city. After Chen Ge grasped the notion of this, there were many other questions that popped up in his mind. Reaching into his pocket to pull out the black phone, Chen Ge placed the phone with the shattered screen before the mirror. “It was you who was behind dad’s phone, right? It was you who had been guiding me step by step?”

The child in the mirror did not deny it. “Do you still remember your first Nightmare Mission? The mission started at this place, when you closed your eyes, I was standing inside the mirror looking at you. In fact, it was just like now. We were able to see each other but we are unable to touch each other, not ever.”

“in other words, it was also you who sent me the details and information of each mission?”

“Most of the time.”

“I get it now, that is why there is the term ‘trial’ before each star mission, for example 2 star trial mission Mu Yang High School, 3 star trial mission Third Sick Hall and so on.” Chen Ge caught up very quickly. “But there is still something that is befuddling to me. The props and scenarios in my Haunted House, how did you unlock them so fast?”

“That was actually what I was about to tell you next. As the red city continue to expand, the red city itself become unstable, despair started to spread and the spectres were going at each other. They are unable to achieve salvation at this place, for them to really let go of their resentment and despair in their heart, I am afraid that is no other option but for them to return to real life.” The child in the mirror used the gentlest voice to say the craziest thing. “I wish to make this red city into an intermediate point between the sea of fog and real life.”

“have you lost your mind? If so many Red Spectres and ghosts were to be released back into the real life, several hundred km around Jiujiang will be turned into a haunted town.”

“That is why I have been trying with it very carefully. I only unlocked one scenario each time, starting from the weakest to the strongest. You have cooperated with me perfectly, so far there has been no accident, the fact that you are standing here now is proof that my plan is a success.” The child in the mirror glanced at the black phone. Threads of black and red blood vessels appeared inside the toilet and they crawled into the phone. “This phone contains my only lingering spirit, I used all the power innate within the red city to make it possess part of the red city’s power. The scenario at your Haunted House is the reflection of the world behind the door, but they will grow in the real life, becoming the medium that connects the red city and the real world.”

The cracks on the screen were slowly being healed by the blood vessels. The blood vessels gave off a presence that could rival a Demon God, the child in the mirror appeared to be using the flesh and blood of a Demon God to repair the black phone.

“The negative emotion of living humans will be consumed by spectres and the spectres’ dying wishes and obsession can seek salvation in real life, that is the most effective way to keep the red city stabilized while expanding it. But stabilizing the red city is just the first step, my real goal is still that sea of despair. I cannot completely wash the sea of fog away but I will control the red city to bring it under control as much as I can, and strive to salvage more despairing souls.” The child in the mirror handed the fixed black phone back to Chen Ge. “before this, I have been in a very dangerous position, the director from the cursed hospital stole my body from the body and have trapped our parents. He would keep using them to come and disturb in his attempt to take control of the red city but now I do not need to worry about him anymore.” The child in the mirror could not leave the red city but the cursed hospital could move freely through the black sea. If not for Chen Ge’s intervention, should the hospital director managed to consume Chen Ge’s parents, the ending might be completely different.

Holding the fixed black phone, Chen Ge was reminded of the first time he found the black phone, it felt like that was just yesterday.

“Do you still have any other question?”

“yes, actually there is something that has been bothering me, since I am here now, I might as well ask you in person.” Chen Ge switched the phone back on again. “There is a spinning wheel inside the black phone, I can spin it by collecting the screams of visitors. I have spun it many times but I have never obtained anything that is remotely good. I just wish to know the rewards that are listed on the app, do they really exist? Like spirit fruit that can extend my lifespan? Medicine that improve one’s body?”

“Those are just white lies that are meant to push you further, there are only spectres, objects related to spectres and items left behind by the dead in the red city inside the Wheel of Misfortune.” The child in the mirror admitted freely.

“How can you be a spirit of Pure Kindness with such shamelessness? That truly has given me a renewed understanding of my own self.” Chen Ge looked at the light that slowly lit up the phone screen and he shook his head lightly.

Chapter 1208 - The Only Wish (2in1)

Chapter 1208: The Only Wish (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

Seeing the serenity on Chen Ge's face, the child in the mirror asked Chen Ge with curiosity, "Aren't you mad now that you have found out everything about the Wheel of Misfortune is a lie?"

...

"At the beginning, I was truly incensed, I thought my luck could not have been worse but after going through so much, I realized, all of the good luck in my life has already been exhausted the moment I crossed path with her." Chen Ge nudged several steps to Zhang Ya's side. "She is the most beautiful person I have ever met, and that is the luckiest thing that could have happened to me in my life and for that, I have nothing but appreciation and thankfulness towards." Zhang Ya appeared to be blanking out but when she noticed Chen Ge approaching her, she pulled back her curtain of black hair and voluntarily sidled over to Chen Ge. Both of them stood before the mirror together but the mirror only showed the reflection of one person.

"Now that you put it that way, you do owe me a great deal." The child in the mirror felt like Chen Ge was purposely gloating, feeding him dogfood. "Before Zhang Ya became a Red Spectre, she was being pursuit by another Red Spectre and accidentally stumbled deep into the red city. Seeing how rare her power is, I guided her to her safety from the dark. At the time, I had to split up my attention to deal with the hospital director's curse and it was almost impossible to still have time to protect a ghost who was not even a Red Spectre inside the chaotic red city, so I split out a shred of the red city's consciousness and placed it on her and then I had her hide inside the Haunted House deep inside the red city."

The child in the mirror looked at Zhang Ya who was now a Demon God, the corners of his lips turned into a helpless smile. "Who would have thought after the shred of red city's consciousness joined with her, even I was unable to extract it anymore. Zhang Ya thus became the most unique presence at the red city. If one day, I was to disappear due to some unknown reason, then she would replace me as the new consciousness of the red city, that is also the last insurance that I have against the hospital director."

"Therefore, to prevent putting all the eggs in one basket, you sent Zhang Ya out of the red city and had her hide in the real world?"

"Other than myself, there are only a handful of people who knew about the fact that Zhang Ya had once entered the red city." The child in the mirror studied Zhang Ya from the top of her head to the bottom of her feet, he still felt the whole thing was rather surreal. "I know how special she is but it is still quite out of my expectation that she will be able to evolve into a Demon God so soon."

"Speaking of that, the speed by which Doctor Gao had become a Demon God is not slower than Zhang Ya." Chen Ge glanced to his side. Doctor Gao had not left. He followed Chen Ge into the Haunted House. With regards to this former chairman of the ghost stories society, Chen Ge still had his apprehension. It could not be helped, after all, Doctor Gao was not only an incredibly powerful Demon God, he was also a incredibly cunning and brilliant strategist. No one would be able to rival him in terms of intelligence.

"Doctor Gao has used 20 years of planning to become a Demon God. From when he was still alive to after his death, he has paid a price that none of you can ever imagine." The child in the mirror turned to look at Doctor Gao.

Lifting his head, Doctor Gao's lips opened slightly. Ever since the death of the hospital director, this was the first time he had spoken, “I have already completed the request that you have asked of me, so we do not owe each other anything from now on.”

“You two have met before this?” Chen Ge realized then Doctor Gao appeared to have some kind of contract with the Kindness inside the mirror.

“Doctor Gao has once entered this place through the door in your Haunted House. He was lost at the deepest part of the blood city, it was me who saved him. It was also because he had known the truth that he would choose to commit suicide at the underground morgue and left his own daughter in your care.” The child in the mirror pointed at the door of the cubicle in the toilet. “The drawing of the dream demon on the door was left behind by him.”

“Dream Demon? This spectre that has three heads is called a Dream Demon?”

“Some people call it the Dream Demon, others call it Heart Demon. It is a monster that lives deep inside the black fog, it feeds on nightmare and negative emotions, it can elicit the evil deep inside people’s heart and use that power to destroy blood doors. You could say it has a power that is completely opposite from that of the red city.” After the boy in the mirror explained that, everything clicked into place for Chen Ge. Before his death, Doctor Gao had indeed sneaked into his own Haunted House before. He carved the picture of the Dream Demon on the cubicle door to leave a way back for himself. After all, at the time, Doctor Gao also thought it was the door pusher who only had the power to control the blood door. If he was trapped inside the world behind the door, then he would destroy the blood door in Chen Ge’s Haunted House and then make his escape.

It was the same for Chang Wenyu when she wanted to destroy the door at School of After Life, she too had painted the drawing of the Dream Demon on that door. In real life, blood door represented the red city while Dream Demon represented the sea of black fog. Many questions that he had in the past had been answered. After clarifying a few other details, Chen Ge carried his parents and placed them before the mirror. "I have found them inside the blood sea at the cursed hospital. Even though the hospital director has been vanquished, they still have not woken up."

"It is incredibly difficult to cure an injury to the soul but I will try my best. You should bring them to the Prop Room, there is a bath of blood there. Place them into the blood bath and leave the rest to me." The boy in the mirror turned to leave. Chen Ge also led the few Demon Gods out of the toilet and turned into the Prop Room. Compared to the first time he entered this place, the room had not changed that much. But only a few seconds later, a blood gash was pulled open by an external force at the corner of the room. Chen Ge was very familiar with that corner. Whenever he drew something from the black phone, those items would show up at this particular corner of the Props Room in the Haunted House.

Strands of black and red blood vessels rushed out and dragged Chen Ge's parents into the blood pool at the corner of the room. The blood pool appeared to be connected to the space underneath the red city. Submerged in the black and red liquid bath, many different kinds of curses and black words appeared underneath Chen Ge's parents' skin. Then these remaining curses were washed away by the blood. Color returned to Chen Ge's parents' cheeks. They looked much more alive than before. The whole process lasted for an hour. When Chen Ge's parents were sent out from the blood pool, they already looked much better than before.

"When you leave the world behind the door, it should not take long for them to wake up." The figure of a boy showed up inside a prop mirror in the Props room. Kindness did not have his parent wake up immediately apparently because he did not wish for them to see the state that he was in.

"Thank you so much."

“It was me who should be thanking you. After all, I thought I would never lay eyes on them ever again.” The boy in the mirror studied the sea of blood that was boiling inside the blood pool and then he added with some hint. “The power that has accumulated over the years by the red city is just about enough to completely repair a broken soul to help her welcome a new life.”

“What do you mean by that? Wait a minute, if Zhang Ya baths inside this blood pool, she has the chance to become a human again?!” Chen Ge grabbed Zhang Ya’s hand and he became quite animated. “Once her soul is healed, and if you combine that with my talent of Living Doll...”

“Yes, there is a chance of that, but for a Demon God, the success rate is only 1 over ten thousand. If anything, the weaker and the more common the soul, the higher the success rate. Are you sure you want to go through with this?” The child in the mirror controlled the black and red blood vessels, the Props Room was torn open to reveal the gurgling blood sea underneath it. To reborn as a person, then they would have a chance to make up for all the regrets in the past and they would have the chance to embrace a better future, even if the chance of success was only 1 over ten thousand, it was still a very precious opportunity.

Holding Zhang Ya’s hand, Chen Ge turned to ask for Zhang Ya’s opinion. Zhang Ya who stood next to him had the redness fade from her eyes. Flash of desire lit up her eyes but moments later, she shook her head light. The pale finger tugged at a blood vessel that reached out from her heart. Zhang Ya took out her own heart and replaced it back into Chen Ge’s shadow. Even though she had not spoken a single word, she had made her choice loud and clear.

“But if we miss out on this opportunity, you might never be given the chance to become a human anymore.” Chen Ge grabbed hold of Zhang Ya’s hand. He pulled out her into the corridor and tried to persuade her. About half an hour later, Chen Ge and Zhang Ya returned to the Props Room, they had already come to a consensus.

“So have you decided? Will you be giving this chance to Zhang Ya? If I use the entirety of the power in the red city, the chance of success might be raised by a little bit.” The boy in the mirror was going to give it his all, this was his way of repaying Chen Ge for everything that he had done.

“There is no need for that, we plan to give this chance to Doctor Gao.” Once Chen Ge said that, the sound of chains dropping heavily to the ground came from behind him. Clearly Doctor Gao did not expect something like that.

“Chen Ge, this chance comes once in a lifetime. It takes a very long time for the red city to collect so much power, are you sure you want to give it to me?” Doctor Gao’s heart was racing, he had not felt that in a very long time already.

“The success rate for Demon Gods and Red Spectres is too low but your wife is just a normal person, we must not waste such a precious chance.” Chen Ge was not kidding. He had come to this decision after he had asked Zhang Ya for her opinion. This was what she had agreed to as well. “The sin that you have committed will be shouldered by you alone but your wife is the innocent party in all of you. By the way, there is one more thing that I need to tell you. Gao Ruxue is now very safe, in fact she told me to bring you a message, she wanted me to tell you, she misses you a lot and she wishes to see you again.” Back when they were in the underground morgue, Doctor Gao had the chance to kill Chen Ge and Zhang Ya but he did not do so. Regardless of the reason behind Doctor Gao’s decision, that was an unavoidable truth.

“Thank you.” That was the first time Doctor Gao showed this kind of expression. He tugged at the chain before his chest and used his fingers to cut open his heart. At the tip of his heart, he pulled of his wife’s broken soul. “Her body has already been destroyed by the red city and the monsters in the black fog, but my own physical body is still perfectly preserved, so please use my own flesh and body and make a Living Doll for her.” Doctor Gao held his wife’s broken soul gingerly in his palms. After the hospital director died, the curse that was placed his wife’s soul had already faded away.

“Of course.” After he got the promise from Chen Ge, Doctor Gao laid his wife’s broken soul into the blood pool. Deep inside the blood pool, it contained the purest energy that was harnessed from innumerable negative emotions and the souls of the dead. As the blood washed over it, the soul of Doctor Gao’s soul was slowly repairing itself.

“I have hidden my body inside a building at this red city. Give me a few minutes, I will go and retrieve it.” Doctor Gao was probably waiting for this day since he had kept his own body behind. Not long after that, Doctor Gao led a very unique Red Spectre to return to the Haunted House. When Chen Ge saw the Red Spectre, he was quite surprised, because it was the woman from the well at the Coffin Village.

“She is the Red Spectre who has been in existence the longest at Jiujiang. In my attempt to find the way to bring my wife back to life, I went to her for help.” Doctor Gao had the woman in the well put down his own body. “It is very difficult to preserve the liveliness of a physical body behind the door. I cannot allow my attention to be separated so I had to ask her for her help to watch over my body.” Doctor Gao said all of these evenly and the woman in the well did not react strangely. If not for the fact that Chen Ge had personally paid a visit to Coffin Village and knew that the Coffin Village behind the door had already been levelled, he probably would have believed Doctor Gao’s stories.

With the aid of several Demon Gods, Chen Ge soon successfully used Doctor Gao’s body to create a Living Doll. Doctor Gao’s wife’s soul was also recovering inside the blood pool. When the soul was placed inside the living doll, the whole red city suddenly shook. The barrier between life and death was shattered, the heart of Doctor Gao’s wife started to beat again. Seeing that familiar face, this was the first time

Chen Ge noticed Doctor Gao look at someone with such gentleness in his eyes. Doctor Gao helped his wife arrange her hair. Just as everyone thought Doctor Gao was about to awaken his wife, he turned to tell Chen Ge silently, "I need to ask you for one last favor. After you help me with this, I promise to stay here as long as I live to help you protect the red city and atone for all the sins that I have committed."

"What kind of favor is it?"

"After you bring my wife out of the blood door, I need you to help me correct the memory of my wife, Gao Ruxue and the people around them." There were plenty of unwillingness in Doctor Gao's eyes. He straightened up slightly. "just make it so that it was me who died in the car accident about 20 years ago." Using 20 years to set up the whole intricate set of plans, after having his nemesis, the hospital director of the cursed hospital killed and his own wife brought back to life, Doctor Gao's last wish was for his own wife and daughter to forget about himself. Chen Ge clearly did not expect that to be Doctor Gao's final wish. He did not agree to it immediately. "I still think it is better for you to at least meet them in person once."

"Over these years, I have killed so many people and consumed endless ghosts, The sin that I have committed is so deep that it cannot be washed away by even the blood sea." Doctor Gao looked lovingly at his own wife and could not pull his gaze away. "I do not wish for them to see me in this state."

Seeing his wife's eyelids fluttering, Doctor Gao silently retreated out of the room. "I will help you guard the red city, perhaps after I have cleansed my body of sin, I will go and find them myself." Doctor Gao left and he departed with once turning back.

"The cursed hospital has caused too many tragedies in this world, if only things can go back in time." Chen Ge looked at Doctor Gao as the man disappeared into the red city and gave a sigh of lamentation.

“It is impossible to change the things that have happened in the past, all we can do is to prevent the same tragedy from happening again. The black fog will keep on cultivating the cursed seed so this means that there might be a new hospital director to take up where the previous left off. I cannot leave the red city so should that happen, I shall need you to take care of it again.” The boy in the mirror told Chen Ge.

“With the difference in environment, even if they come from the same cursed seed, they might bloom into different flowers.” Chen Ge looked at the child in the mirror. “But I know what to do.”

“I have already told you everything I know. Pushing open the door of the cubicle and you will be able to return to the real world.” The reflection of the boy in the mirror was fading away. With his hand pressing against the door of the cubicle, Chen Ge suddenly turned his head back to ask, “Assuming I have accidentally pushed open this blood door at midnight from the real world, then wouldn’t that mean I would be able to know all about this before everything that had happened?”

“Before the hospital director was eliminated, I spent most of my time in a daze. He had been using my own flesh and blood as well as my lingering spirit towards family to influence me. When Doctor Gao stumbled through the door, I happened to be awake.”

“If Doctor Gao had entered the door when you were not awake, then what would have happened?” Chen Ge wanted to know the answer to this question.

A flash of guilt crossed the eyes of the boy in the mirror. He did not go into detail but the short sentence that he said had explained a lot. “Your own shadow has once tried to sneak into the door before, when he arrived, I was in a state of suspension. The hospital director sensed his presence through his curse. He tricked him into a room where the time moves very slow and tortured him for a very, very long time.”

Chapter 1209 - Human World Outside the Door

Chapter 1209: Human World Outside the Door

Translator: Lonelytree

Chen Ge had no idea his shadow's escape had to do with the hospital director as well. He predicted the shadow was probably tricked by the hospital director back then and was given the false impression that it was Chen Ge himself who was torturing him.

"To come to this place, I have escaped multiple deaths. Who would have thought I only needed to push open a door to return." Chen Ge had a surreal feeling about the whole thing.

...

"I will leave the things in the real world in your hand. Remember to take care of the visitors' safety, they can bring the much needed scent of life to this desecrated place and will bring necessary happiness to the spectres." It was unclear whether the child in the mirror was more concerned about the visitors or the spectres. His kindness was also fair when dealing with all things.

"I will keep a good handle over the Haunted House in real life but the key is you have to promise me the spectres in the red city will not cause any influence in real life. Other than that, there is a Demon God with the surname Chi from the cursed hospital who has escaped. He has many Chi family members, as long as he is still alive, those people will always live in fear and terror."

"The black fog is too wide, it's impossible to canvas for a single Demon God. But you have a Top Red Spectre who specializes in curse. After she becomes a Demon God, perhaps she can triangulate Chi's location through the curse laid on Chi's family members." The boy in the mirror saw Chen Ge standing before the cubicle door but refused to walk through. The boy had a helpless smile on his face. "Do you have anything else?"

"I saw a blood door deep inside the cursed hospital, if you have pushed open all the door and all the door will eventually lead to the red city, then how do you explain the door at the bottom of the cursed hospital?" Chen Ge tried to think back. "The blood door can isolate any living presence. Before we entered the cursed hospital, we have no idea that the hospital director's evil spirit was hiding inside that door."

"Before our consciousness was split into two, the hospital director once came to Jiujiang to find us, by then he had already explored for a long time inside the black fog and red city, conducting many experiments. Actually it was him who came up with the idea about the doors. If you have looked through his memory, you will know that the director wanted to use the red city and black fog to ruin the real world, he was planning to connect the two worlds and release the ghosts in the red city and black fog all back into real life, turning reality into nightmare." The boy in the mirror thought back to that worst memory. "After the hospital director knew about my power, he wanted to experiment on me. His ultimate goal was to benefit himself, but without knowing it, I have also managed to inherit his experience that he had collected over the decades."

"I still do not quite get what you are talking about."

"The door at the bottom floor of the hospital was the first experiment. I opened the door in the black fog again and again but the door still refused to connect the black fog and real life but it could isolate itself from external canvas and discovery." The boy in the mirror did not expect so many questions from Chen Ge, his voice dwindled. "I need to keep the red city running. If there's nothing else, I really need to go now."

"Wait a minute! I still have one last question, I swear this is really the last."

"Go ahead." The child in the mirror looked at Chen Ge with helplessness but he still had the warmest smile on his face.

"If there really no solution for you to leave the red city anymore? I have a feeling our parents want to meet you as well. If there is a chance, I wish for all of you to find happiness and bliss." Chen Ge uttered the wish in his heart.

"That does not sound like something an evil spirit would say." The child in the mirror shook his head. "The black phone has a Wheel of Misfortune, there is still a ghost inside whom you have not drawn."

Currently Chen Ge's title was Red Spectres' Favored, if he drew another spectre, his title would upgrade. "Why would you bring that up now?"

“The last spectre is me. When you have drawn out all the pain, anxiety and despair from the wheel, I will be the last spectre to leave the red city.” After saying that, the boy slowly faded away. Chen Ge understood the boy’s meaning. When all the souls at red city received salvation, Kindness would also welcome his new life.

“Such a kind character.” Chen Ge looked at the mirror dumbly. “You have the power to walk through red city and reality freely. Perhaps that is not a coincidence. Instead of saying you have joined with the red city, it is more like the endless despairing souls inside the city has actively chosen you.” After the boy in the mirror left, Chen Ge did not directly return to the real life but instead he found the old headmaster from School of Afterlife. After giving him his thanks, he personally escorted the Red Spectres back to the school. Chen Ge thought the painter would return with the old headmaster but the painter appeared to have other plans. He took the incomplete oil painting and asked Chen Ge to take good care of Fan Yu in real life. Then he led the few Red Spectres who left the School of Afterlife with him deep into the black fog.

Based on what the painter said, it appeared like he wanted to rebuild a real ‘paradise’ deep inside the black fog. After sending away the painter and the old headmaster, Chen Ge returned to the ruin of the cursed hospital. Xiao Sun had become the new hospital director. He was discussing the rebuilding of the hospital with the Chi family members and part of the spectres who were willing to stay.

Chen Ge though would be leading the living humans out from behind the door. With the aid of the Demon Gods and red city, Chen Ge used the Living Doll talent to recover most of the injuries on the human bodies, like Zuo Han’s eyes. After dealing with everything behind the door, Chen Ge brought the group of living humans to the centre of the red city. The Kindness in the mirror had already left. The Haunted House situated at the centre of the red city was deserted, it looked no different from the one in real life.

“It is time to go.” His palm pressing on the door of the cubicle. As Chen Ge started to push, endless blood vessels swam on the wooden board. This was the first time he opened the door at his own Haunted House, who would have thought it would be from inside the door.

The sun showered on his body through the glass window. The blood melted away. Chen Ge took little steps and returned to the human world. The scent of air freshener lingered in the air. The curtains fluttered in the wind. A girl hugging a ragdoll appeared before Chen

Ge, she was the guardian spirit of Jiujiang New Century Park—Luo Ruoyu. She was unable to leave the Haunted House but she too realized something very dangerous had happened yesterday night. It appeared like she had been guarding outside the cubicle door, waiting for Chen Ge to return.

Touching Luo Ruoyu's hair lightly. Chen Ge felt a kinship to her, it was like they were brother and sister.

“I have brought mom and dad home, everything will be fine now.”

Chen Ge had his employees and Luo Ruoyu carry his parents to the staff breakroom. He put down the white cat and backpack. He turned back to glance at the living humans who streamed out from the cubicle door. He summoned Zhang Yi. After deleting the memory of these people, Chen Ge very expertly moved them out of the Haunted House with the body carts. Actually Chen Ge did not even need to lift a finger. A bond had been formed between him and his employees that they would be able to tell what he was thinking with just the sharing of a look.

Chapter 1210 - The Small Detail of the Daughter-in-Law Being a Demon God (2in1)

Chapter 1210: The Small Detail of the Daughter-in-Law Being a Demon God (2in1)

Translator: Lonelytree

The employees of the Haunted House threw themselves into work, some were correcting memory, others were draining out the curse, while the rest were preparing the scenarios to welcome the new day of business.

“These living humans from the cursed hospital will prove to be great trouble. No matter sending them to the police or the hospital, if I am just a bit careless, I might get suspected by the police.” Chen Ge thought about it before he came up with his own plot and helped them edit their memory one by one. Of all the living humans, only two were exception. One was Haunted House manager, Zhang Jingjiu and the other was Zuo Han. Zhang Jingjiu had chosen with determination to help remind Chen Ge even when he was facing death, that was a bond that was literally tested by death. Zuo Han had proven himself to be an enormous help to Chen Ge when they were trapped at the cursed hospital. He had cooperated greatly with Chen Ge to obtain extremely valuable information.

...

Chen Ge did not pressure either of them, he had them make the decision on their own. In the end, both Zuo Han and Zhang Jingjiu chose to retain their memory and Zuo Han even voiced his intention of joining the rank of Chen Ge's haunted house. His adventure with Chen Ge at the cursed hospital was the best interview, Zuo Han was definitely a rare genius but because he was such a genius, Chen Ge did not want to waste his talent. The two made a promise that Zuo Han would be considered a part time worker at the Haunted House while working full time to pursue a career in forensic science. Speaking out for the death and defending the right of the living, these unique experiences would aid Zuo Han to become the best forensic doctor.

Chen Ge had Zhang Jingjiu and Zuo Han organize the rest of the living humans. He went to borrow the bus New Century Park used to ferry the visitors around the theme park and he planned to drive them all back to Xin Hai City. People who were believed to have gone missing for years suddenly returned to the real world. It was unknown whether their family was still around and whether they could pick up where they left off. But these were not things that Chen Ge would need to worry about anymore. He had rescued these people from hell and that was already a lot more than he could have done.

When the living humans were sent into the bus, Chen Ge used the opportunity to take out the black phone from his pocket. Ever since he returned to real life, the phone that had already been repaired would not stop vibrating. Sliding on the screen, Chen Ge looked at the string of unread messages on the black phone. "This all feels so familiar." After knowing the real truth, the feeling that Chen Ge had when he looked through these messages had completely changed. He reached out to click open the message.

"Congratulations Red Spectres' Favored for completing 4 star trial mission—The Cursed Hospital!

"You have managed to survive until dawn. Unlocking the all new 4 star scenario—The Cursed Hospital!

"Mission completing rate reached 95 percent, obtaining the reward of the hidden mission—the underground 19 floors of the cursed hospital.

"The Underground 19 floors of the cursed hospital (special infrastructure): Curse, spectres, nightmare, the deeper you venture, the more dangerous it will be. When you turn back to look, you will realize the way back has already disappeared."

When he saw the first mission reward, Chen Ge sucked in a cold breath. "These 19 floors under the hospital would not lead one directly towards the red city, would it? Then again, probably no one will be able to challenge all 19 floors anyway.... Right?"

"You have successfully found your parents, optional mission 1 completed, acquired one chance to heal a broken soul (used).

"You have successfully provided salvation to Patient Number 1, Optional Mission 2 completed, obtained a complete body and soul (used).

"You have successfully killed the hospital director, Optional Mission 3 completed, possessed the scenario of the cursed hospital behind the door (used).

“Congratulations Red Spectres’ Favored for possessing three 4 star scenarios in your Haunted House at the same time! The Haunted House will officially upgrade to become Castle of Nightmares after the expansion for the cursed hospital scenario is complete.

“Castle of Nightmares: This is a city built at the edge of nightmare. It connects human hearts to reality. It is a hiding place for both despair and salvation.”

After reading all the mission rewards, Chen Ge did not switch off the black phone but continue to access the rest of the app. There were many new spectres’ names that were added to the tab of Haunted House’s employees. After the adventure at the cursed hospital, most of the spectres had willingly accepted the Haunted House as their own home. Other than that, Chen Ge also took a gander at the mission tab. All the lower level quests had been cleared away. Of the entire quest tab, only a blood red mission remained. He reached out to touch it and the screen of the black phone was instantly dyed red by blood without any warning. “The last 5 star mission—the Castle of Nightmares has been forcibly triggered, there is no time constraint to this mission. Completing parts of this mission will grant intermittent reward, the mission will be considered over only once all the black fog has been cleared away.”

His eyes scanned the screen. Chen Ge realized this last mission that he triggered no longer had the term ‘trial’ inside it, this mission was Kindness’ real purpose all along. However, Chen Ge did not mind that much about these missions now. He looked through the rest of the phone and finally found the thing that he was looking for at the contact list. The black phone’s contact list had been sealed up before this but after it was fixed by Kindness, there was an additional number in the contact list, this should be a very special number for Kindness. “You have saved so many lost souls at the red city but I am not as great as you, the only soul that I can try to save is yours.” Chen Ge memorized that number. “I will remember your connection to this family, as long as I am alive, your lingering spirit with the family will never dissipate.”

Putting the black phone away, Chen Ge went to check up on his parents. They still had not awakened but they already looked much better than when they were still behind the door. Chen Ge had Luo Ruoyu temporarily take care of his parents. After giving some information to his employees, he carried his backpack and got onto the theme park’s bus. On the surface, it looked like Zhang Jingjiu was driving but in reality, the bus was controlled by Tang Jun who had a wealth of experience when it came to motor vehicles. It was unwise to get on the highway considering he had a bus filled with missing persons. So when Chen Ge's group reached Xin Hai, it was already afternoon. He once again summoned out Zhang Yi to edit part of the passengers' memory and then he had his employees personally escort each of them home.

"I help whenever I can, this is the most that I can do for them." Chen Ge patted Zhang Jingjiu on his shoulder. "Jingjiu, you have gone through a lot for me this time. From now on, you will be the owner of the Haunted House's Xin Hai Branch, I will leave the business in your capable hands. Make me proud." Chen Ge drove the bus to Nightmare Academy. After leaving behind a few spectres to aid Zhang Jingjiu in his business, Chen Ge hurried over to Xin Hai Police Station. After giving the law enforcement some clues about the cursed hospital, he stopped by to try to inspect the police's case progress. After ensuring the police investigation did not target him, Chen Ge had the idea of staying behind to help the Xin Hai police but when he switched on his own phone that had died from lack of battery with the charger provided by the Xin Hai police, he realized he had received multiple messages during the period when he was among. Some of them came from Director Luo, Lee Zheng as well as Xu Wan and the other Haunted House employees.

After he clicked open the messages, Chen Ge's heart immediately jumped to his throat. When Xu Wan and the gang arrived at the Haunted House this morning, they stumbled across Chen Ge's parents who were lying unconscious in the staff breakroom. Xu Wan immediately contacted Director Luo, they decided on the spot to send Chen Ge's parents to the best hospital at Jiujiang. Being given the news that two people who were supposed to be missing had suddenly returned, Lee Sanbao and Captain Yan who were responsible for their cases were given the shock of their lives.

A few police cars blocked the entrance to the theme park early in the morning, the sight had given quite a lot for the visitors to talk about. Actually, the news that missing persons had been found was nothing special, the key issue here was the victims were Chen Ge's parents. Once the Jiujiang police made the connection that Chen Ge, the man who had single-handedly filled up two of the rooms at the police station with case files, had been searching for his parents, they got panicked instantly. Their subconscious told them that something big was about to happen. In fact a criminal psychologist attached to the Jiujiang Police Station even named this phenomenon as the Chen Ge Effect.

The police cars cleared the street and the patrols guarded the crowd. Those who did not know probably thought there were some kind of super criminals lying inside the ambulance. The recovery lasted from morning until late night. Chen Ge's parents finally awakened from their coma. Everyone was calling to reach Chen Ge but Chen Ge's own phone had already died a long time ago due to a lack of power. It was not until now that he was caught up to the latest news. After bidding farewell to the people at Xin Hai Police Station, Chen Ge rushed through the night to head back to Jiujiang. He had the taxi driver drop him directly at the hospital. It was already past 10 pm at night but second floor of Jiujiang People's Hospital was still bustling with people. Some of them were law enforcement, others were employees from the theme park and haunted house. Both parties stood at the sides of the corridor. They were all dressed in their uniform, giving off an imposing presence.

"The boss is here!" "Boss! Over here!" "Chen Ge! Where have you been? Why do you only get here now?"

Walking through the crowd, Chen Ge stopped before the ward. He grabbed the door knob of the door but he felt the lack of courage to push open the door. He had not hesitated this much when he was dealing with Red Spectres at the world behind the door. Taking in a deep breath, Chen Ge slowly pushed the door open.

His eyes focused on the bed. When Chen Ge saw the pair of couple in patient's garb resting in bed, his eyes turned red almost immediately. An indescribable joy and grievances filled up his heart. The corner of his lips tremored but he found he had lost the ability of speech. It was as if the moment he opened his mouth, the waterworks would start running.

"Chen Ge, what's wrong with you? There is no need to cry, we simply have not met each other for one night." Chen Xiao sat up from his bed. Just like normal, he walked openly to Chen Ge's side and curled his arm around his son's neck. Then he used his other hand to close the door of the ward.

"We have not met each other for just one night?" Chen Ge looked at his father next to him. "Does neither of you remember anything anymore?"

"We only remember we had an argument with you about the Haunted House yesterday night. You said you do not wish to take over the Haunted House because you want to go and pursue a more lucrative job opportunity at a bigger city like Xin Hai.” Chen Xiao said with as much levity as he could muster. He tried his best to make this whole thing appear as light-hearted as he could but his red-rimmed eyes had belied many things. Chen Ge’s mother walked over as well. She did not speak. She merely gave Chen Ge a tight hug and refused to let go.

Obviously they were merely pretending to have lost their memory. The pain that they had suffered over this past year was something a normal person could never even attempt to fathom, however they did not wish to apply more pressure on their son and they did not wish for their son to take on the pain on their behalf. They had not done anything wrong, if anything they had done everything within their power to try to fix everything but their eyes that looked at Chen Ge was filled with heartache and pain. The couple who knew that truth, also knew very well that how much pain and despair Chen Ge must have gone through to rescue them. A normal person needed to rescue people from deep inside the cursed hospital which was inhabited by several Demon Gods, that was almost impossible but Chen Ge had done it!

Chen Xiang could not manage some semblance of normal conversation but Chen Ge’s mother had some trouble controlling her own emotions.

“The painful days are finally behind us. By the way, you guys have not visited our current Haunted House, right? During the period when you were asleep, I have given the place a total make over. In fact our Haunted House is now the top in the business in the entire country. I have also just opened a branch at Xin Hai.” Chen Ge switched the subject. He had a gentle smile on his face as he gloated like a child.

“Our Haunted House can become the top in the business in the entire country?” Chen Xiang was too submerged in the joy of the reunion to really catch what Chen Ge was actually saying.

“yes, let us go home now. After we enter the Haunted House, I am sure you will be in for a great shock.” The doctors had already examined both of their bodies, they were in tip top condition. They were released out from the hospital that night. After thanking everyone who came over to visit them, the family of three got into a taxi. Along the way, they chatted about many things and Chen Ge finally found out the real reason behind his parents’ disappearance. Other than using Kindness’ body to influence the red city, the hospital director also made use of the connection between the shadow and Chen Ge to silently plant a curse on Chen Ge. At the time, Chen Ge was at the fringe of death. Both Chen Ge at the red city and in real life were impacted. If this was allowed to continue, both Chen Ge's kindness and evil spirit would be facing a big problem. Chen Ge's parents were cornered, and that was why they had decided to work together with Chen Xiang inside the red city to launch a counter attack.

When they reached the Haunted House, it was already about 11.30 pm. There was no one at the theme park, the lights were all off and the place was completely deserted. Seeing the Haunted House which had not changed that much, Chen Ge's father adjusted the sense of anticipation in his mind but he did not voice it out loud. But he had underestimated Chen Ge. If there was anything Chen Ge had learned from Doctor Gao, it was the ability to read people's mind. Just from the micro expression, Chen Ge managed to see through Chen Xiang's thought.

"Dad, the real change is inside the Haunted House." Chen Ge pulled back the gates and pulled up the curtain. Hearing Chen Ge's words, Chen Ge's mother pinched her husband on his back and then even glared at him. Chen Ge's father shrugged rather innocently. They followed Chen Ge into the Haunted House.

"Most of the employees and the new scenarios are situated underground." Chen Ge removed the chains from the Howling Door. He pushed with both arms and the door that led underground yawned open. A chilling breeze leaked out from deep underground. The temperature inside the Haunted House dropped almost instantly.

"Underground?" The three of them walked down the steps. Then they heard a rehearsed greeting. "Good evening, boss!"

They glanced down the horizon. The underground city below the Haunted House appeared to stretch down the horizon. And there were so many kinds of lingering spirits, baleful spectres and Red Spectres residing in the city. There were so many of them! Even Chen Ge's parents who had been through a lot had frozen on the steps. Were they still outside the door?

There were ghost students, doctors, teachers, gambler, manga artist, there was even a ghost director.

"Uncle, Auntie, nice to meet you!" Before Chen Ge's parents could snap out of it, the employees sent them another wave of greeting. Chang Gu was at the side controlling the lights and directing the crowd. Picking the headless woman's head that had fallen to the ground due to excitement, Chen Ge very naturally placed the human head back into headless woman's embrace. He was very satisfied with his employees' reaction. He had done a great job at business management.

The scene before their eyes was a lot to take in. While Chen Ge's parents were still digesting the information, Chen Ge came over to them again. "Dad, mum, actually there is something else that I need to tell you, I have encountered a very nice girl. Perhaps tomorrow all of you can go out for a meal together."

With the gentlest smile on his face, Chen Ge turned back to glance at his own shadow. "She is a very nice girl, but before you meet you, I think you better get mentally prepared."

"You have already given us a surprise like this, what else can shock us anymore?" Chen Xiao and Chen Ge's mother, Xu Meng stood at the steps, they were hesitating whether to continue moving down the stairs or not.

"Then I will call her out now?" Chen Ge turned to address his shadow and called out softly, "Zhang Ya, why don't you come out and meet my parents?"

Ripples started to form on the dark shadow. Then the entire New Century Theme Park started to shadow. A terrifying presence that could not be hidden had suddenly appeared.

Chapter 1211 (END) - My House of Horrors

Chapter 1211: My House of Horrors

Translator: Lonelytree Editor: Millman97

The red dress flowed like blood, it was decorated with the black patterns that radiated power. Resentment and despair coagulated into actual materials to act as decoration. Zhang Ya stepped out of Chen Ge's shadow, stomping on the wailing of dead souls. The horror that surpassed Red Spectres stunned everyone. Who would have thought beauty could be so mesmerizing and captivating. Chen Xiao and Xu Meng stood dumbly on the steps, both of them had been shocked out of their mind.

...

“A Demon God? The girl that you speak of is a Demon God?!” Due to how overly agitated he was, Chen Ge's father found his words stammering. He could guess that Chen Ge would find spectres to work for him and he would have known that the Haunted House would continue to flourish under Chen Ge's management but it never even crossed his mind that his son would one day bring back a Demon God to meet them.

“Yes, her name is Zhang Ya.” Chen Ge very naturally reached out to hold Zhang Ya's hand. This caused Xu Meng and Chen Xiao's eyes to twitch. They were worried that Zhang Ya might suddenly reach out to snap Chen Ge's neck due to anger. The two of them had just awakened from their coma. When they returned to the Haunted House, they had been introduced to a non-stop series of trauma. In fact, the two of them had started to suspect whether they had fallen back into the hospital director's illusion? But once they gave it some thought, they realized that could not be true because even the cursed hospital would not make up something like this.

“Other than his good personality, what other positive traits that you see in him?” Xu Meng turned to ask Zhang Ya. She watched Chen Ge grow up under her nose, she knew that her son was incredibly wonderful but that was only in comparison to other people. Facing Chen Ge’s mother’s question, Zhang Ya was as silent as before. She even nudged even closer to hide behind Chen Ge. Those with eyes could see that this Demon God had a very heavy reliance on Chen Ge.

“We have gone through so much together. How about we take a tour of the Haunted House for now and then we can find a time to sit down and chat over it?”

“We can tour the Haunted House any time, I think we should focus on Zhang Ya for now.” Chen Xiao and Xu Meng said at the same time. Their own son was in a romantic relationship in a Demon God, the tour of the Haunted House could wait indefinitely until they got to the bottom of this.

“Aren’t you guys tired? It is almost midnight already.” Chen Ge said with a bitter smile on his face. He was not expecting his father and mother to have such a big reaction to this development.

“We have been asleep for a whole year already, we cannot be more refreshed even if we try.”

“Okay then, I will go find us a restaurant and we can have get a gathering there.” Chen Ge summoned all of his employees. He switched on his phone and selected a high class restaurant at Jiujiang which had a ballroom to rent. There were currently too many employees at the Haunted House that they could not all fit into Yan Danian’s manga anymore. Therefore, many baleful spectres and lingering spirits had no choice but to masquerade as Chen Ge’s shadow. Carrying the backpack, once Chen Ge departed from the theme park, the whole street was submerged under an oppressive atmosphere. The parade of a hundred ghost was not enough to describe that horror and terror.

There was no taxi on the road. Chen Ge had Tang Jun drive the last bus of route 104. He was to ferry Chen Ge, his parents as well as his other colleagues to the restaurant that was lucky enough to be selected by Chen Ge. It was already midnight, so naturally the restaurant was already close for business. Chen Ge first had Zhang Yi come out to edit the security's memory and then he had Qiumei and Tong Tong sneak into the surveillance centre to temporarily shut down all the cameras.

After all of that were done, he flipped through the manga and one after another employees walked out. The employees who were good at cooking voluntarily walked into the kitchen, the lingering spirits of the students were very excited, as they chattered among themselves. There was nothing they loved more than this kind of 'outing'. Seeing how the employees cooperate among themselves as they set up the restaurant, the whole scene felt so surreal to Chen Xiao and Xu Meng. The reason behind spectres' existence was their resentment, they were creatures of pure resentment and hatred so they would never expect that the spectres would be able to coexist to harmoniously with Chen Ge.

"We will be booking the whole place tonight. After the sun comes up, I will pay of course." Chen Ge showed off the money in his bank account through his phone. "I am not that interested in money, this number is just a bonus from the expansion of the Haunted House." Before Chen Ge could continue, he was knocked lightly on his head by his father. "If you are not interested in that, feel free to donate some to me. Ever since my wedding, I have not seen that much money in my life anymore." The family of three walked into the restaurant chatting and joking among themselves. They came to the VIP lounge that was situated at the top floor. At this place, they were given the perfect view of the entire Jiujiang at night.

The employees started to serve the food and Chen Ge summoned out Zhang Ya. Initially Chen Ge's parents were worried about Chen Ge and Zhang Ya, they kept asking them about their plan for the future, they wanted to know how they were going to spend their lives together.

But once Chen Ge brought up Zhang Ya's past and the things that they had gone through together, the attitude Chen Ge's parents had towards them had a complete 180. This was especially true for Xu Meng. She moved her chair to sit right next to Zhang Ya, like Zhang Ya was already her own daughter. She held Zhang Ya's hands out of empathy and she whispered something to Zhang Ya.

Xu Meng and Chen Xiao were particularly kind individuals. A long time they had adopted the soul of Luo Ruoyu, at the time, Chen Ge had the feeling that they treated the adopted Luo Ruoyu much better than they did him. Now this incident appeared to be repeating itself. Xu Meng stopped asking about Zhang Ya's past, instead she turned her attention onto Chen Ge. She hoped that Chen Ge understood a relationship was a completely different thing from a promise to spend a lifetime together. She wanted Chen Ge to think very clearly about this and take every single preparation that he could. She did not wish for anyone of the two to get hurt from this.

The party lasted for a long time. The employees technically were unable to consume alcohol but they appeared to be on quite a buzz. They talked and laughed among themselves, a simple bliss was buried deep inside their heart. Before this, they were tortured and entrapped by the memory from their past but because of their encounter with Chen Ge, they could now openly discuss their future with others.

The night was eventually coming to an end. Just as the sun was about to come up, the employees worked together to replace everything back to its place. Comparing the items that they had exhausted, Chen Ge drew some money out from the bank and placed them on the counter. He also left behind a note, of course, the note was written by one of the employees as well.

Walking out from the restaurant, Chen Ge's parents carried Chen Ge's backpack and told him they were going to head back home first. They wanted to give Chen Ge and Zhang Ya some alone time. Both of them had walked this path before. They knew that Chen Ge and Zhang Ya probably had plenty of things to talk about after the meeting with the boy's parents so they did not want to stand in the way and disturb them.

The black hair fluttered in the mind, Chen Ge and Zhang Ya strode down the deserted street. This whole scene felt like a déjà vu, they appeared to have been through something similar in a dream before. The various memories from the past rose in their heart. The two of them sidled close to each other. They walked through the night to welcome the arrival of a new day.

“Tomorrow, we shall go to the registry office to make some enquiry, it is about time we put down the past and try to start a new chapter in our life.”

The sun rose up like normal and the sunlight chased away the darkness. New Century Park opened for business at 9 am. A very long queue had already lined up in front of the Haunted House.

“Senior, you are still recovering from your injury, how about we skip the tour today?” He San was trying his best to leave but unfortunately he was under great scrutiny from Zuo Han.

“There is going to be a new scenario opening to the public today, even if we are not going to visit it, it is fun coming here to watch other people make the attempt.” Zuo Han swept the group from Jiujiang Medical University behind him. His brows were screwed together. “Where is Gao Ruxue? She still refused to come?”

“yes, senior said she is not feeling so well.”

“In that case, we shall go visit her together one day.” Zuo Han still had something else he wanted to say but his words were cut off by the hubbub that came from the crowd.

“What the fuck! The new scenario is now open! It is a 4 star scenario!” “It’s called the cursed hospital! The nineteen floors that lead down to hell!” “Quick! Who has contact with Brother Gang, it is about time he comes back to challenge the Haunted House again!” “Brother Gang is still resting at the hospital, please refrain from interrupting the poor livestreamer.”

Once the promotional announcement in front of the Haunted House was changed, the visitors got instantly excited. Everyone was feeling the urge to make the first batch of challengers but no one actually was brave enough to put that thought into action.

“What a bunch of cowards.” Moments later, a balding uncle walked out from the crowd. He strode directly to stop before Uncle Xu. “The ticket for the 4 star scenario has a different appearance from the ticket for the other scenario, right?”

“Yes, the ticket for the four star scenario is black and red in color.” Uncle Xu was about the same age as this balding middle-aged man. “But I suggest that you start with a less challenging scenario for now.”

“Thanks for the advice but I would like a ticket for the cursed hospital please.” The balding uncle insisted. The surrounding visitors all focused their eyes on him.

“Are you sure?” Uncle Xu asked the question again. After ensuring the man did not have a suicide wish, Uncle Xu finally gave him a ticket. After accepting the ticket to the 4 star scenario, cursed hospital, the balding uncle took out his phone, stood in front of the Haunted House gates and took a selfie holding the ticket. And then he proceeded to share it among his friend group. “It is yet another spring day, the perfect weather to go out for an adventure. My personal recommendation is the 4 star scenario at New Century Park’s Haunted house. I have just finished my tour of it, I was so frightened that my body is now covered in cold sweat..." After snapping the picture, he chuckled while reading the messages left by his friends and then he left just like that.

"Wait, haven't that uncle been here before? How come he look so familiar to me?"

"I remember it now, when the scenario for Minghun was first open, he had been here to take selfies as well." There was none of the visitors who dared to enter the cursed hospital to visit but there were quite a number of them who bought the ticket to share on social media. Now that Chen Ge's Haunted House had reached such a high popularity, there were not that many 'warriors' who dared to challenge the newly unlocked scenario. No one was dumb enough to be the willing lab rats. After all, other people's Haunted House normally would be attached to a small souvenir shop, but for Chen Ge's Haunted House, there were two smaller rooms at the room. One was fitted with the best medical equipment and there were doctors standing by for 24 hours; the other small room was a vendor for underwear. According to legend, it was because of the high demand at Chen Ge's Haunted House that an undergarment company found the business opportunity and made a business deal with Chen Ge. It was a mutually beneficial arrangement. With such a set up, who dared to volunteer to explore the new scenario?

After waiting for half a day, there was still no visitor who dared to challenge the new scenario. Chen Ge decided to leave the Haunted House, however, he did not leave alone. A middle-aged woman was seen leaving with him, that was Gao Ruxue's mother. Chen Ge personally escorted the woman back to Gao Ruxue's home. He did not choose to lie or omit, but decided to tell Gao Ruxue the whole truth. Leaving the mother and daughter to their reunion, Chen Ge silently retreated out from the room.

A small drizzle was falling when he came outside but Chen Ge did not mind it. He rushed then to Jiujiang's Children Home and worked through the red tape to adopt Fan Yu and Ying Tong. Initially he wanted to adopt the other few children as well but the procedure would not allow it. The reason that he could successfully adopt Fan Yu and Ying Tong was because the Children's Home had taken into consideration the two boys' unique situation and hence they allowed for this exception. Taking Fan Yu and Ying Tong back to the Haunted House was something that Chen Ge had planned a long time ago. His goal was for them to inherit the Haunted House and they would eventually one day become the new owner of the Castle of Nightmares. After dealing with all these things, Chen Ge grabbed some of his documents and made his next journey to the government registry office.

The rain outside was getting heavier. When Chen Ge arrived at his destination, there was only one worker there. The woman expressed her regret for failing to complete Chen Ge's wish but she did not reject him fully, instead she had given Chen Ge the promise that she would help him figure something out. After knowing the result, Chen Ge was rather disappointed, even though he already suspected this outcome before he came to the office. The barrier between human and ghost was too large, it was really difficult for them to come in contact with each other.

The theme park closed for business at 6 pm. Chen Ge closed himself up in the staff breakroom. He was writing down the plans that he had for the future. After who knew how long, a big white cat jumped onto the table carrying a doll on its back. Then came the knocking. Chen Ge's parents were standing at the door. "Chen Ge, the employees have planned something for you, why don't you come out to take a look."

"The employees have prepared something for me?" Chen Ge put the down the pencil he was holding. He walked out of the staff breakroom. The Haunted House appeared to be incredibly quiet that night, like all the ghosts had gone mission.

"Are they outside?" Pulling back the thick curtains, the blinking fairy lights glittered like a dreamscape, they were as brilliant as the stars in the night sky. New Century Park was usually so quiet at night but that day, it was as bright as day, the employees had prepared so many things to transform this place into a scenery that looked as if it had been pulled right out of a fairy tale.

“What is all these? What are you guys up to...” Before Chen Ge could finish, Ol’ Zhou walked towards him. He handed a small box that was expensive and exquisite over to Chen Ge. “All of us have combined our money to purchase this, this is as far as we can help you.”

Walking out from the Haunted House, Chen Ge was led by his employees to the ferris wheel, this was the centre of the theme park. Holding the small box, Chen Ge was rather flustered. He looked around him, his parents and his employees were looking at him with eyes of anticipation and encouragement. The ferris wheel behind him started to move slowly. The lights chased away the darkness and the cold. Chen Ge sucked in a deep breath. He held up the small box with one hand. He uttered softly, “Zhang Ya.”

The captivating beauty floated up behind Chen Ge. Like usual, she had been guarding at Chen Ge’s side. Turning around, Chen Ge looked at Zhang Ya. With everyone watching him, Chen Ge knelt on one knee as he opened the small box. “For our lives together, we shall stay like each other’s shadow, that is the promise that I have given you.” He lifted the wedding ring out from the box and slid in on Zhang Ya’s finger. Chen Ge asked the question in the gentlest voice, “Will you marry me?”

Zhang Ya did not expect Chen Ge to pose the question. The blood in her eyes faded away. The heart of the Demon God started to race with excitement. After a long time, Zhang Ya leaned on Chen Ge, she looked into Chen Ge’s eyes and her lips moved slightly. “I will.”

Pulling himself up, Chen Ge pulled Zhang Ya into a warm hug. “I will stay by your side forever so that you will never be alone and sad again.”

In the brightly-lit theme park, under the slowly turning ferris wheel, Chen Ge and Zhang Ya embraced each other, it appeared like they were embracing the goodness of the world at the same time. The employees who did not even dare to breathe too loudly all exploded into cheers when they saw this. They were feeling actual joy from the bottom of their hearts.

That night New Century Park lit up like Fourth of July, the employees parties into the night. Many citizens that lived near the theme park and the cars that passed the place all witnessed then. From that night onwards, another scary urban legend appeared at Jiujiang.

After midnight, some of the attractions at a theme park at Western Jiujiang would move on their own and even though the place was supposed to be close already, you could see hear the laughter and cheers of the visitors. According to some trusted insider information, the reason behind this ghost story probably had to do with a Haunted House situated inside the theme park.

Some people said that place was heaven on earth, others called it the 19th floor of hell. Some even claimed that the place connected nightmare and reality, it was the presentation of deepest despair and also permanent salvation.

(END)